47. Tex.—Quanah, A. & P. Ry Co. v. Warren, Civ.App., 184 S.W. 232—Quanah, A. & P. Ry. Co. v. Jones Lumber Co., Civ.App., 178 S.W. 858—Inman v. Railway Co., 37 S. W. 37, 14 Tex.Civ.App. 39.

Breach of regulation

However, if the petition seeks recovery of the penalty on the ground of violation of the statute and of regulations of the commission, a failure to show the existence of the regulation and a breach thereof precludes recovery.—Quanah, A. & P. Ry Co. v. Warren, Tex.Civ.App., 184 S.W. 232.

Effect of statute relating to delay

Where a shipper has a cause of action for a penalty under the statute referred to in the text, he will be entitled to recover such penalty without reference to whether such statute operates as a repeal of another statute imposing a penalty for delay in transportation or whether the penalty fixed by the first mentioned statute is merely cumulative of the penalty fixed by the latter—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Lone Star Salt Co, 63 S.W. 1025, 26 Tex.Civ. App. 531

Penalty fixed by regulations

That the commission pursuant to authorization by another article of the statute enacted regulations pertaining to unloading cars at junction points, and fixed a penalty for delay, did not repeal or supersede the penalty prescribed by the statute stated in the text, since although the latter statute refers to regulations of the commission, the right conferred to regulate does not include the right to substitute a different penalty.—Quanah, A. & P. Ry Co. v. Moore, Tex.Civ.App., 189 S.W 322, dismissed for want of jurisdiction.

48. Tex.—Quanah, etc., R. Co. v. R. D. Jones Lumber Co., Civ App., 178 S W. 858.

Absence of regulation

Rev.St 1911 art 6670 subds 1, 2, and art 6671, as a whole, penalizes the refusal to deliver freight to a connecting carrier, and hence the fact that a shipment in less than carload lots is not embraced within the regulations of the railroad commission pertaining to carload shipments, under subd 2 dealing specifically with failure to make delivery under the regulations of the commission, does not preclude application of the penalty, where the petition seeks recovery for violation of the statute and not for violation of the commission rules—Quanah, A. & P. Ry. Co. v. Jones Lumber Co., Tex.Civ.App., 178 S.W. 858—Inman v. Railway Co., 37 S.W. 37, 14 Tex.Civ.App. 39.

49. Tex.—Quanah, A. & P. Ry. Co. v. Warren, Civ App., 184 S W. 232

50. Tex.—Quanah, A. & P. Ry. Co. v. Warren, supra

Penalty for delay in transportation see supra § 454.

51. Tex.—Gulf, C & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Temple Grain & Hay Co., 58 S. W.2d 47, 122 Tex. 288.

10 C.J. p 567 note 75.

Acceptance of bill of lading as waiver

Where in disregard of the shipper's instructions the carrier routes freight over a connecting line different from that requested and leaves the shipper bills of lading for such route, the shipper does not waive his right to insist that the change of routing is an unjust discrimination, by accepting the bills of lading as so left.—Thompson v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 126 S.W. 257, 128 S.W. 109, 103 Tex. 372, reversing 118 S.W 618, 55 Tex.Civ.App. 12.

52. Tex.—Inman v. St. Louis Southwestern R. Co, 37 S.W. 37, 14 Tex. Civ.App. 39.

53. Tex.—Thompson v. Missouri, etc, R. Co, 126 S.W. 257, 128 S. W 109, 103 Tex. 372, reversing 118 S.W. 618, 55 Tex.Civ.App. 12.

10 C.J. p 567 note 76.

54. Tex.—Quanah, A. & P Ry Co. v. Warren, Civ.App., 198 S.W. 814, 816

55. Tex.—Quanah, A. & P. Ry. Co v. Warren, supra.

56. Tex.—Quanah, A. & P. Ry. Co. v. Warren, supra—Quanah, A. & P. Ry Co. v. Moore, Civ App., 189 S W. 322, dismissed for want of jurisdiction.

57. Tex.—Quanah, A. & P. Ry Co v. Moore, supra.

58. Tex.—Quanah, A. & P. Ry Co v. Moore, supra.

crimination embrace all carriers doing business in the state; but such statutes do not apply to receivers. Particular statutes relating to discrimination between specified types of shippers have been held not to apply to discrimination between other types.

State statutes imposing penalties for unlawful discrimination embrace all carriers doing business in the state, whether incorporated under the laws of the state or not,[59] but they have been held not to apply to receivers operating a railroad.[60] Particular statutes have been held not to include express companies so as to authorize a recovery against such carriers.[61]

Persons subject to discrimination. A statute imposing a penalty for discrimination by a carrier between commission merchants or other persons engaged in the transportation of freight and other individuals does not apply to discrimination between individuals not so specified, and hence does not authorize such an individual to recover the penalty.[62]

d. Actions

Actions of this character, which are held to be ex delicto, are governed by the usual rules.

The action for penalties imposed by statute for unjust discrimination is held to be ex delicto.[63]

Jurisdiction. An action based on a state statute to recover a penalty for unjust discrimination cannot be brought in the courts of another state.[64]

Conditions precedent. There being nothing in the statute requiring notice to be given in cases of unjust discrimination, the giving of such notice is not a condition precedent to a right of action to recover a penalty for unjust discrimination.[65]

Time to sue, limitations. Action to recover the penalty must be brought within the time required by law.[66] Where the original complaint alleged the conditions authorizing the recovery of double damages for unlawful discrimination and was filed within the period of limitation, the failure to file, within the period, an amended complaint praying for double damages, does not bar recovery of the penalty as outside the period of limitation[67] So, also, the statute does not toll a recovery of treble damages for which a motion was made after the period of limitation had expired, where the statement of claim for discrimination and an amendment alleging a violation of the statute imposing treble damages were made within the period[68]

Pleading. To authorize a recovery of a penalty for unjust discrimination it is sufficient for plaintiff to state the facts which bring his case clearly within the statute.[69] The declaration should show a discrimination and that such discrimination was unjust.[70] It is not necessary to allege what would have been a reasonable charge, since that is a mere matter of evidence;[71] and where a recovery is sought for several acts of discrimination, it is not necessary to state each act of discrimination as a separate cause of action.[72] It is not necessary to allege that the rate charged was in excess of that fixed by the commission, as there may be an unjust discrimination without charging more than the rate so fixed.[73] In an action under a state statute, the 59. N.C.—Hines v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co, 95 N.C. 434, 59 Am.R 250. Tex—Gulf, etc, R. Co. v. Barry, Civ.App, 45 S.W. 814.

60. Tex—Bonner v. Franklin Co-op. Assoc., 23 S W. 317, 4 Tex.Civ.App. 166.

61. Inclusion by other statute
Where a statute relating to express companies was intended, as to express companies, to cover the entire field covered by an act of the same legislature relating to railroads, and does not authorize the recovery of a penalty by private individuals, the penalty provision of the railroad act does not refer to express companies, notwithstanding a provision that all laws prescribed for railroads, in so far as applicable, shall apply to express companies; and hence an individual cannot recover from an express company for extortion and discrimination in rates the penalty prescribed by the railroad act—Helm v. Wells, Tex Civ. App., 177 S.W. 134.

62. Mo.—Tucker v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., 250 S.W. 390, 298 Mo. 51, affirming, App, 233 S.W. 512.

Rule of ejusdem generis applied
Under a statute imposing a penalty for discrimination between "commission merchants or other persons engaged in the transportation of freight" and individuals, the rule of ejusdem generis prevents inclusion of all other shippers, such as lumber dealer or sand dealer, in phrase "or other persons engaged," etc, the intent to include discrimination between individuals not being clear—Tucker v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., App., 233 S.W. 512, affirmed 250 S.W. 390, 298 Mo. 51.

63. Iowa.—Illinois Cent. Trust Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 135 N.W. 721, 156 Iowa 104.

64. N.Y.—Langdon v. New York, etc., R. Co, 11 N.Y S. 514, 58 Hun 122, affirming 9 N.Y.S. 245

65. Tex.—Woodhouse v. Rio Grande R. Co., 3 S W 323, 67 Tex. 416.

66. Particular statutes applied
(1) Where the federal statute so provides, the action must be brought within five years.—Carter v. New Orleans, etc., R Co., Miss., 143 F. 99, 74 C C.A. 293

(2) Under a Kansas statute, the action is barred in one year.—Beadle v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 29 P. 696, 48 Kan. 379.

67. Ark.—Missouri Pac. Ry. Co. v. Kirten Gravel Co., 44 S.W.2d 674, 184 Ark. 1024.

68. Pa.—Hall v. Pennsylvania R. Co, 100 A. 1035, 257 Pa. 54, L.R.A. 1917F 414.

69. Mo—Reynolds v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 85 Mo. 90.

70. Ind—Adams Express Co v. State, 67 N.E. 1033, 161 Ind. 328. 10 C J. p 567 note 92.

71. U S.—Goodrich v Union Pac. R. Co., C.C Colo., 35 F. 35.

72. Mo.—Cohn v. St Louis, etc., R. Co, 79 S.W. 961, 181 Mo. 30. N.Y.—Langdon v. New York, etc., R. Co, 15 N Y S. 255. 10 C.J. p 568 note 94.

73. Ark.—Roberts v. St Louis, etc., R. Co., 130 S.W. 531, 95 Ark. 249.

petition need not allege that the shipment was an intra-state one, since, if the shipment was an interstate one, exclusively within the purview of the federal statutes, that would be a matter of defense.[74]

An answer in an action to recover a statutory penalty for unjust discrimination in another shipper's favor, which alleges a contract for a rebate if such shipper would furnish a certain amount of goods for shipment, but which does not allege that such amount was ever furnished or that the shipper ever became entitled to a rebate, is insufficient as presenting no defense.[75] It is a matter of defense, to be pleaded in the answer, that a shipment claimed to be discriminatory under state statute, was an interstate shipment, exclusively within the purview of the federal statutes.[76]

A material variance between the pleadings and proof, as with respect to the amount of charges as to which plaintiff was discriminated against, is fatal to a recovery.[77]

Evidence. One who seeks to recover a penalty for unjust discrimination has the burden of showing the facts which are charged to constitute discrimination by a preponderance of the evidence.[78] Where a prima facie case of unjust discrimination is made out, the burden is on defendant to show that the discrimination was in fact not unjust.[79] Where a carrier of goods discriminates in its rates, it will be presumed that the person injured was the shipper who actually paid the freight.[80]

Trial. A statement of claim of damages for discrimination, together with an amendment thereto before trial alleging violation of a statute making discrimination unlawful and imposing treble damages, is sufficient notice to the carrier that the action was brought to recover the penalty, to entitle plaintiff to recover treble damages on motion after verdict of the jury that he had been unlawfully discriminated against.[81]

Amount of penalty. Notwithstanding a statute permitting the recovery of a number of times the amount of damages sustained in consequence of a violation, it has been held that the court need not under all circumstances award such damages.[82] Under some statutes, interest is not recoverable on the treble damages imposed by the statute as a penalty for unjust discrimination in charges.[83]

§ 512. Against Other Carriers

Under some statutes a carrier is subject to a penalty if it unjustly discriminates against other carriers.

A statute prohibiting unjust discrimination by an express company against any other company or persons engaged in the same business and imposing a penalty for violation has been upheld as against various constitutional objections.[84] Like other penal statutes, this statute is subject to strict construction, and a carrier can be subjected to the penalties only under the express provisions of the statute and not by implication or construction.[85] To render an express company liable as for the violation of this statute, it is not essential that the company discriminated against should be incorporated.[86]

Under a statute imposing a penalty on any railroad company which shall refuse, under such regulations as may be prescribed by the railroad commission, to receive and transport without discrimination the tonnage in cars loaded or empty of any connecting line of railroad, it is not a defense to an action to recover a penalty for discrimination that the car or cars tendered to defendant carrier were not the original car or cars in which the goods were shipped; nor is it a defense that the car tendered was a refrigerator car not commonly used for the transportation of goods of the character with which it was loaded, where it appeared that the car was adapted to the use to which it was applied.[87]

74. Mo.—Alexander v. Chicago, M. & St P. R. Co, 221 S.W. 712, 282 Mo 236, 11 A.L.R. 867.

75. U.S.—Union Pac. R. Co. v. Taggart. Colo., 13 S.Ct. 977, 149 U. S. 698, 37 L.Ed 905—Union Pac. R Co. v. Goodridge, Colo, 13 S. Ct. 970, 149 U.S 680, 37 L.Ed 986.

76. Mo—Alexander v Chicago, M & St. P R Co., 221 S W. 712, 282 Mo 236, 11 A.L.R. 867.

77. Tex—Texas, etc., R. Co v. Langsdale, Civ.App., 30 S.W. 681 10 C.J. p 568 note 97.

78. N.C—Hilton Lumber Co. v Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 53 S.E. 823, 141 N.C. 171, 6 L.R.A.,N.S., 225.
10 C.J. p 568 note 98.

79. Ill.—Peo v Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 92 N.E. 934, 246 Ill. 474.

80. Iowa—Illinois Cent. Trust Co v. Chicago, etc., R. Co, 135 N.W. 721, 156 Iowa 104.

81. Pa.—Hall v. Pennsylvania R. Co, 100 A 1035, 257 Pa. 54, L.R A.1917F 414.

82. Mich—Federal Gravel Co. v. Detroit & M. Ry. Co., 248 N.W. 831, 263 Mich. 341.
10 C.J. p 506 note 42.

83. Iowa—Blair v. Sioux City, etc, R Co., 80 N.W. 673, 109 Iowa 369

84. Ind—Adams Express Co. v. State, 67 N.E 1033, 161 Ind 328.
10 C J p 568 note 2.

85. Ind—State v. U S Express Co., 87 N.E 716, 172 Ind. 717.

86. Ind—Adams Express Co. v. State, 67 N.E 1033, 161 Ind 328
10 C J. p 568 note 3.

87. Tex—Gulf, etc, R. Co. v. Lone Star Salt Co, 63 S.W. 1025, 26 Tex. Civ.App. 531.

§ 513. Penalties Imposed on Shipper or Consignee

Under some statutes, in a proper case, a penalty may be imposed on the shipper or consignee.

Under a statute which provides that the party to whom cars are consigned shall unload the same within a specified time after delivery and notice, or forfeit to the railway company a certain sum per day for each car so left unloaded, the consignor is not liable for failure to see that the cars are unloaded at their destination; the remedy is against the consignee.[88] Under a similar statute imposing a penalty on applicant for cars who fails to load them within a specified time after they are furnished by the carrier, only one penalty can be collected for each car not loaded within the time limit after it is placed for loading.[89]

A statute imposing on a shipper a penalty for presenting a fraudulent claim for damages against the common carrier is not invalid.[90]

X. OFFENSES

§ 514. By Carriers or Their Agents

In addition to the imposition of penalties on carriers for violation of constitutional and statutory provisions enacted for the regulation of transportation, statutes have been enacted by the congress of the United States and by the legislatures of many states in regulation of transportation by carriers which provide that a violation of the provisions thereof shall constitute an indictable offense. Offenses against shipping and navigation laws are discussed in the C.J.S. title Shipping § 12, also 58 C.J. p 54 note 56–p 56 note 95. Offenses by common carriers as to illegal introduction, transportation or delivery of intoxicating liquor are considered in the C.J.S. title Intoxicating Liquors § 234, also 33 C.J. p 580 n 22–p 584 note 74.

§ 515. Failure to File Rates or Tariff

Where a statute so provides, interstate carriers must file a schedule of rates, fares, and charges, and a willful failure to do so, or transportation by one who has not filed his schedule, is a misdemeanor.

Under the provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act, 49 U.S.C.A. §§ 6, 41, the filing of schedules of interstate railroads with the interstate commerce commission is required and a willful failure to comply therewith is a misdemeanor punishable in any federal court having jurisdiction of crimes within the district within which the offense is committed. The rates which the carrier is required to file and publish are not alone those under which transportation has actually taken place, but those which the carrier has established as its present charges, as distinguished from those which are obsolete and tentative, or perhaps only to take effect in the future; they are the rates open to public inspection and on which shipments may be made, if offered.[91] An entirely intra-state railroad which is part of a joint through route over which interstate commerce is transported is subject to the provisions of the act.[92]

Transportation without filing tariff. By the provision of the Interstate Commerce Act, 49 U.S.C.A. §§ 6, 41, transportation of interstate commerce by a carrier which has not filed its rate for such service is a misdemeanor.[93]

§ 516. Charging Rates Different from Those Fixed by Schedule

Under a statute so providing, a carrier which charges rates different from those paid by schedule commits an indictable offense.

The offense by a carrier of charging rates different from those fixed by schedule has been made an indictable offense under several federal enactments hereinafter discussed.

Under the Interstate Commerce Act, 49 U.S.C.A. § 6, it was provided that, when a carrier shall have established and published its rates or fares it shall be unlawful for it to charge, or receive from, any person for the transportation of passengers or property, or for any services in connection therewith, a greater or a less compensation than that which is specified in such published schedule of rates or fares as may at the time be in force. This provision applies solely to transportation privileges and facilities, and not to such privileges as may be extended to a consignee after the shipment has reach-

88. Tex.—Houston, etc., R. Co. v Campbell, 45 S.W. 2, 91 Tex. 551, 43 L.R.A. 225, reversing, Civ.App., 40 S.W. 431.

89. Tex.—Gulf, etc., R Co v. Werner Stave Co, 131 S.W. 658, 62 Tex Civ.App. 284.

90. Minn.—Riskin v. Great Northern R. Co, 147 N.W. 960, 126 Minn. 138, Ann.Cas.1915D 823 and note.

91. U.S.—New York Cent. & H. R R Co. v. U. S, N.Y, 166 F. 267, 92 C.C.A. 331, reversing, D.C., 153 F 630.

92. U.S.—U. S. v. New York Cent. & H R R. Co., D.C.N.Y., 153 F. 630, reversed on other grounds 166 F. 267, 92 C.C.A. 331

93. U.S.—U. S. v. Illinois Terminal R Co., D.C.Ill, 168 F. 546.
10 C.J. p 593 note 42.

ed its destination.[94] This statute, is violated, however, where a railroad company, while ostensibly charging the rate fixed by the schedule, gives the shipper a rebate.[95] Subordinate agents who act in the illegal transaction are not criminally liable, in the absence of notice that the carrier is violating the statute.[96] A joint stock association organized under state laws to do an express business is subject to criminal prosecution under this section.[97] The statute by its terms applies to any common carrier who is a party to any joint tariff, and prohibits departures from the joint rates specified in the filed schedules. A receiver, however, not being bound to continue contracts made before his appointment, is not criminally liable for the violation of a joint tariff previously established by the railroad company of which he is receiver and another company, and which he has not ratified, adopted, or recognized in any way.[98]

The Elkins and Hepburn amendments of the Interstate Commerce Act, 49 U.S.C.A. § 41, both contain provisions that the willful failure on the part of any carrier subject to the Interstate Commerce Act strictly to observe the tariffs or rates filed and published as required by that act shall constitute a misdemeanor, and that, whenever any carrier files with the interstate commerce commission, or publishes a particular rate under the provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act or acts amendatory thereto, or participates in any rates so filed and published, that rate, as against such a carrier, its officers or agents, in any prosecution begun under the act, shall be conclusively deemed to be the legal rate, and any departure or offer to depart therefrom shall be deemed to be an offense. The purpose of these provisions is to require that all shippers be treated alike, and that the only rate charged for the same services, under the same conditions, shall be the one established, published, and posted as required by law.[99] The purpose is also to prohibit departure from the tariff rates irrespective of the actual discriminative effect of the departure.[1] While carrying at lower or different rates than the tariff rate is not in terms declared an offense or penalized, it is punishable as a failure to observe the statute strictly.[2] To make rates valid, so that a departure from them by the carrier will constitute an offense, it is necessary that they should be published.[3] The departure from the established and published rate must be willful;[4] but it has been held that the charging of a rate less than the filed rate constitutes a violation of the statute as matter of law,[5] and, where the tariff schedule is not open to two constructions, it cannot be said that the charging of less than the rate fixed was not knowingly done due to a misconstruction of the schedule.[6] Also, the sum of the knowledge of the railroad agents, within the scope of their respective functions, is sufficient to satisfy the statutory condition that an offense exists only when the forbidden act is done knowingly.[7] The willful demand of more than the tariff rates is of equal criminality with an actual collection thereof.[8] A willful failure strictly to observe the rates filed exists where the carrier accepts the shipper's note for a part of its freight charges,[9] or gives a particular shipper a discriminative credit,[10] or where the carrier fails to charge storage or demurrage when the goods have not been timely accepted,[11] or where the carrier attempts to charge storage before it has so placed the cars that the freight can be delivered.[12] It is no defense to a prosecution under these statutes that concessions from the published rate were

94. U.S.—U. S. v. Erie R. Co., D.C. N.Y., 209 F. 283

95. U.S.—U. S. v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., D.C.Ill., 43 F. 26.

96. U.S.—U. S. v. Michigan Cent R. Co., supra.
10 C.J. p 594 note 47.

97. U.S.—U. S. v. Adams Express Co., Ohio, 33 S.Ct. 878, 229 U.S. 381, 57 L.Ed. 1237.

98. U.S.—U. S. v. De Coursey, D.C. N.Y., 82 F. 302.

99. U.S.—New York Cent. & H. R R. Co. v. U. S., N.Y., 29 S.Ct. 304, 212 U.S. 481, 53 L.Ed. 613.
10 C.J. p 594 note 59.

1. U.S.—Vandalia R Co. v. U. S., Ill., 226 F. 713, 141 C.C.A. 469.

2. U.S.—Hocking Valley R. Co v. U. S., Ohio, 210 F. 735, 127 C.C.A. 285.

3. U.S.—U. S. v. Indiana Standard Oil Co., D.C.Ill., 170 F. 988

4. U.S.—Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co. v. U. S., Cal., 170 F. 250, 95 C.C.A. 446

5. U.S.—U. S. v. Merchants' & Miners' Transp. Co., C.C.Ga., 187 F. 363.

6. U.S.—Michigan Cent. R. Co v. U. S., Mich., 246 F. 353, 158 C.C.A. 417, certiorari denied 38 S.Ct. 333, 246 U.S. 663, 62 L.Ed. 928.

7. U.S.—Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. U. S., supra.

8. U.S.—U. S. v. Texas & P. R. Co., C.C.La., 185 F. 820.

9. U.S.—U. S. v. Sunday Creek Co., D.C.Ohio, 194 F. 252.
10 C.J. p 594 note 66.

10. U.S.—Hocking Valley R. Co. v. U. S., Ohio, 210 F. 735, 127 C.C.A. 285
10 C.J. p 594 note 67.

11. U.S.—Michigan Cent R. Co v U. S., Mich., 246 F. 353, 158 C.C.A. 417, certiorari denied 38 S.Ct. 333, 246 U.S. 663, 62 L.Ed. 928.

Rate discriminatory

The fact that demurrage charges fixed by the rate schedule in a certain district were discriminatory as between a shipper located in such a district and competitors placed in other districts and governed by different rates constitutes no defense for granting a concession or a cancellation of such charges—Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. U. S., Pa., 188 F. 879, 110 C.C.A. 513, affirming 184 F. 543—10 C.J. p 595 note 71.

12. U.S.—U. S. v. Texas & P. R. Co., C.C.La., 185 F. 820.
10 C.J. p 595 note 68.

granted in compromise of claims for loss of property in transit;[13] nor can defendant be heard to say that it did not know of the filed rate established by it in accordance with the statute as a justification for its departure therefrom.[14]

The commodities clause of the Hepburn Act makes it unlawful for any railroad company to transport in interstate commerce any article it may own, or in which it may have any interest except such as may be necessary for its use in the conduct of its business as a common carrier. The purpose of such statute was to cure or prevent the evils that might result if, in hauling goods in and out, the company occupied the dual and inconsistent position of public carrier and private shipper,[15] and its constitutionality has been upheld.[16] The statute is general in its application, and not limited to cases of actual prejudice to shippers,[17] and it includes inbound as well as outbound shipments.[18] An intra-state shipment by an intra-state carrier of a commodity owned by it is not within the prohibition of this clause.[19]

§ 517. Unjust Discrimination

a. Under state statutes
b. Under federal statutes

a. Under State Statutes

Under some state statutes, carriers guilty of unjust discrimination are liable to indictment.

Constitutional and statutory provisions in a number of states, varying in terms, provide that common carriers guilty of unjust discrimination shall be liable to indictment.

In Georgia. Under a statute vesting in a public service commission the exclusive power to make rates and to determine what are just and reasonable rates, discrimination in freight rates in favor of any one is made a misdemeanor.[20]

In Kentucky there are several constitutional and statutory provisions relating to the subject of unjust discrimination by carriers.[21] Under a constitutional provision which declares that, for a violation of its provisions against unjust discrimination, the carrier shall "upon conviction by a court of competent jurisdiction" be fined a designated amount, it was held that the legislature has no power to enact a statute providing that prosecutions for violation of the constitutional provision can be instituted only on recommendation or request of the railroad commission.[22] On the other hand, it has been held that such power does exist under another constitutional provision forbidding carriers to charge any greater compensation for a short than for a long haul over the same line in the same direction where such provision further provides that, on application to the railroad commission, the common carrier may be authorized in special cases to charge less for long than for short distances, and authorizes the commissioners to prescribe the extent to which the common carrier may be relieved from its operation, and the question as to what penalties shall be imposed, or when, is left to the discretion of the legislature.[23] Whether or not the legislature has exercised its power in this regard has been the subject of some difference of opinion. In the earliest decision on the subject, it was held that a statute providing that on complaint that a carrier has discriminated between short and long haul shippers, it is the duty of the railroad commission to investigate the charge and to exonerate the carrier or furnish the grand jury with a statement of facts in order that the carrier may be indicted, does not prevent the indictment of a railroad company for charging more for a short than for a long haul in violation of the constitutional provision, without recommendation of the railroad commission.[24] However, in a case decided shortly afterward, the opposite conclusion was reached without any mention being made of the previous

13. U.S.—U. S. v. Atchison, T & S. F. R. Co., D.C.Cal., 163 F. 111, reversed on other grounds 170 F. 250, 95 C.C.A. 446.

14. U.S.—U. S. v. Merchants' & Miners' Transp Co., C.C.Ga., 187 F. 363—Atchison, T & S. F. R Co. v. U. S., Cal., 170 F. 250, 95 C.C.A. 446.

15. U.S.—Delaware, L. & W R. Co. v. U. S, N.Y., 34 S.Ct. 65, 231 U. S 363, 58 L.Ed. 269
10 C.J. p 595 note 76 [b].

16. U.S.—Delaware, L & W R. Co. v. U. S, supra—U. S. v Delaware & Hudson Co., C.C.Pa., 29 S.Ct. 527, 213 U.S. 366, 53 L.Ed. 836.

17. U.S.—Delaware, L & W. R. Co v. U S, N.Y., 34 S.Ct. 65, 231 U S 363, 58 L.Ed. 269.
10 C.J. p 595 notes 76 [b], 78.

18. U.S.—Delaware, L. & W R. Co v. U S, N.Y., 34 S.Ct. 65, 231 U. S 363, 369, 58 L.Ed. 269.
10 C.J. p 595 note 79

19. Ind.—Sisters of Providence v. Lower Vein Coal Co., 154 N.E. 659, 198 Ind. 645.

20. Ga.—Wight v. Pelham & H R. Co., 89 S.E. 176, 18 Ga.App 195.

21. Extortion
Extortion as used in St. § 816, relating to extortion by a carrier consisting of the charging of an unreasonable rate is extortion also under § 820 a, providing that, if a carrier is or has been guilty of extortion, on conviction it shall be fined, etc.—Illinois Cent. R. Co v. Paducah Brewery Co., 163 S.W. 239, 157 Ky. 357.

22. Ky.—Commonwealth v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 65 S.W. 158, 112 Ky. 75, 84, 23 Ky.L. 1382.
10 C.J. p 595 note 82.

23. Ky.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Commonwealth, 64 S.W. 975, 23 Ky.L. 1159.

24. Ky.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Commonwealth, 63 S.W. 448, 23 Ky.L. 544.

decision,[25] and this is the result reached by a still later decision in which the court was nearly equally divided.[26] It has also been held that this statute is not inconsistent with the constitutional provision creating the offense, although it omits the proviso of the constitution authorizing the railroad commission, on application, to relieve carriers, in special cases, from its operation, since the proviso is self-executing, and this provision in the statute unnecessary.[27] A joint traffic arrangement by which connecting carriers haul from a point on one road to a point on another for less than the fixed carrying charges from the same point on one road to its terminus between such points does not violate the statute.[28] In construing the long and short haul clause of the constitution, it has been held that the fact that competition exists at one point which does not exist at the other does not of itself constitute such a dissimilarity of conditions as will justify the carrier in charging more for the short than for the long haul.[29] The phrase used in the constitution "substantially similar circumstances and conditions" relates to the actual cost of transportation.[30] Under a constitutional provision that all railroad companies shall transport, deliver, and haul "freight of the same class for all persons, associations or corporations from and to the same points and upon the same conditions in the same manner and for the same charges and for the same method of payment," there can be no offense committed, unless different charges be made for transporting freight of the same class from and to the same points and "upon the same conditions."[31] A railroad company commits no offense by charging a lower rate of freight for coal transported to a manufacturing establishment than to a coal dealer not in competition with the manufacturer.[32] A constitutional provision that the attorney general shall institute proceedings to enforce the provisions of another section of the constitution prohibiting common carriers from making a discrimination in rates where the conditions are the same does not exempt the carrier from indictment for violation of those provisions.[33]

In Oregon, a statute making it an offense for a railroad company to collect from one person for carrying more than it demands from another for a like contemporaneous service, and which omits the words, "under substantially similar circumstances and conditions," as used in the Interstate Commerce Law, after which it was patterned, has been held to apply to the different lines of an electric railroad company, although the conditions, such as cost, construction, etc., are not the same on the several lines.[34]

In Tennessee, under the statute making the granting of an unjust discrimination an offense, although a contract for a fixed period be entered into between a carrier and shipper for a freight rate, which is the legal rate at the time of the contract, yet, if thereafter the carrier establishes a higher rate in accordance with the provisions of the law, the contract is ineffectual, and the carrier will be indictable if it adheres to the contract.[35]

b. Under Federal Statutes

Under federal enactments relating to interstate commerce, numerous provisions against unjust discrimination on the part of the carrier are enumerated and declared to be indictable offenses.

The statutes of the United States relating to interstate commerce contain numerous provisions against unjust discrimination and declare that the acts of discrimination therein enumerated shall constitute indictable offenses. Every device that seeks to cover up a discrimination is denounced by the statute.[36] Where the offenses denounced can be committed only by the carrier, in so far as the statutes expressly include other persons, it is only as aiders, abettors, accomplices, or accessories of the carrier, while acting within the scope of their employment.[37]

25. Ky.—Illinois Cent. R Co. v. Commonwealth, 64 S.W. 975, 23 Ky.L. 1159.

26. Ky—Louisville, etc, R. Co. v. Commonwealth, 71 S W. 910, 114 Ky. 787, 24 Ky.L 1593.
10 C.J. p 596 note 87.

27. Ky—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Commonwealth, 46 S.W 707, 47 S W. 210, 593, 104 Ky 226, 20 Ky.L. 1380, 43 L.R.A. 541.

28. Ky—Commonwealth v Chesapeake, etc, R Co, 72 S.W 361, 24 Ky.L 1883.

29. Ky—Louisville, etc, R. Co. v. Commonwealth, 51 S W. 164, 1012, 106 Ky 633, 90 Am S R. 236, affirmed 22 S Ct. 95, 183 U.S. 503, 46 L Ed. 298.
10 C J. p 596 note 90.

30. Ky—Louisville, etc, R. Co v Commonwealth, 46 S.W 707, 47 S W. 210, 593, 104 Ky. 226, 20 Ky L. 1380, 43 L R A. 541.

31. Ky—Louisville, etc, R. Co. v Commonwealth, 48 S W. 416, 105 Ky 179, 183, 20 Ky.L. 1099, 43 L R A. 541.

32. Ky—Commonwealth v Louisville, etc, R. Co, 68 S W. 1103, 24 Ky L. 509—Louisville, etc., R. Co v. Commonwealth, 57 S W 508, 108 Ky. 628, 22 Ky L 328
10 C J p 596 note 93

33. Ky—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Commonwealth, supra.
10 C J. p 596 note 94

34. Or.—Portland R., etc, Co. v. State R. Commn, 105 P. 709, 109 P 273, 56 Or 468, 481.

35. Tenn—New River Lumber Co. v. Tennessee Ry Co., 238 S.W. 867, 145 Tenn 266

36. U.S—Vandalia R Co. v. U. S., Ill, 226 F. 713, 141 C C A 469.

37. U S—U. S v. Peterson, D C. Mont., 1 F.2d 1018.

Under the Interstate Commerce Act, 49 U.S.C.A. § 2, declaring that a common carrier shall be guilty of unjust discrimination which is unlawful, if by any special rate, rebate, or other device the charges it receives from any person are a greater or less compensation for any services rendered or to be rendered in the transportation of passengers or property than the charges it received from any other person for doing for him a like contemporaneous service in the transportation of a like kind of traffic under substantially similar circumstances and conditions, the offense is not confined to discrimination by means of some device, as of special rate or drawback, but is committed by directly giving different rates to different persons.[38]

Under the Interstate Commerce Act, 49 U.S.C.A. § 3, it is unlawful for a carrier to make or to give any undue or unreasonable preference or advantage to any particular person, company, or locality in any respect whatever, or to subject any particular person, company, or locality to any undue or unreasonable prejudice or disadvantage.[39] Where two connecting lines agree on a joint through tariff, such joint tariff, or the share of it which either takes, is not the standard by which to determine whether either line has given an undue preference.[40]

The provision of the Interstate Commerce Act, 49 U.S.C.A. § 4, known as the long and short haul clause does not apply to a case where the short haul rate is a combination of the local rates of two connecting lines, and the lower long haul rate is a joint rate made by the two lines acting together.[41] An agent of a railroad company who merely collects freights or makes out bills of lading and has nothing to do with fixing the rate is not indictable for violation of this section of the statute,[42] except where guilty knowledge is brought home to him.[43] However, agents or employees of whatever rank who knowingly aid and abet in the execution of an unlawful contract are criminally liable.[44] A carrier asserting a right to charge discriminatory long and short haul rates without the consent of the interstate commerce commission is guilty of a willful violation of statute, since there is sufficient guilty knowledge or intent to justify a conviction.[45]

§ 518. Giving Rebates

One who knowingly offers or gives any rebate from the published and filed rates commits an offense which is indictable under the federal statutes.

The present statute relating to rebates, known as the Elkins Act as amended by the Hepburn Act, 49 U.S.C.A. § 41, provides that every person or corporation, whether carrier or shipper, who shall knowingly offer, or give, or solicit, or receive any rebates from the published and filed rates, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and, on conviction, shall be punishable by fine.[46] A shipment between two points in a state which passes over lines of road running through other states is an interstate shipment within the meaning of this statute.[47]

Elements of offense. An essential element of the offense under this statute is the offering or giving of rebates from the published and filed rates for transportation of property by a carrier engaged in interstate commerce,[48] and the offense of rebating consists in purposely doing the thing prohibited by statute;[49] but it is sufficient to constitute the offense if the act was done knowingly, although without any evil motive.[50] A carrier "knowingly" grants an unlawful concession contrary to the Hepburn amendment if it or its agents have willfully or intentionally remained in ignorance of the facts

38. U.S.—U. S. v. Tozer, D.C.Mo., 37 F. 635, 2 L.R.A. 444.
10 C.J. p 597 note 9.

Corpus Juris has been cited with approval in Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Fontaine, 289 S.W. 263, 217 Ky. 211.

39. U.S.—Tozer v. U. S., C.C.Mo., 52 F. 917, distinguished in Waters Pierce Oil Co. v. Texas, 29 S.Ct. 220, 212 U.S. 86, 53 L.Ed. 417—U. S. v. Vacuum Oil Co., D.C.N.Y., 153 F. 598.
10 C.J. p 597 note 13.

40. U.S.—Tozer v. U. S., C.C.Mo., 52 F. 917, followed in Parsons v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 63 F. 903, 11 C.C.A. 489, affirmed 17 S.Ct. 887, 167 U.S. 447, 42 L.Ed. 231.

41. U.S.—U. S. v. Mellen, D.C.Kan., 53 F. 229, following Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Osborne, 52 F. 912, 3 C.C.A. 347.
10 C.J. p 598 note 19.

42. U.S.—U. S. v. Mellen, D.C.Kan., 53 F. 229.

43. U.S.—U. S. v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., D.C.Ill., 43 F. 26.

44. U.S.—U. S. v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., supra.

45. U.S.—U. S. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., D.C.Pa., 21 F.2d 579.

46. Prior offenses
The right to prosecute for any prior offense, under the Elkins Act, committed before the going into effect of the Hepburn Act was not lost by reason of its adoption—Great Northern R. Co. v. U. S., Minn., 28 S.Ct. 313, 208 U.S. 452, 52 L.Ed. 567—U. S. v. Chicago, St. P., M. & O. R. Co., D.C.Minn., 151 F. 84, affirmed 162 Fed. 835, 90 C.C.A. 211, certiorari denied 29 S.Ct. 689, 212 U.S. 579, 53 L.Ed. 659—10 C.J. p 598 note 27.

47. U.S.—U. S. v. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co., C.C.N.Y., 152 F. 269.
10 C.J. p 598 note 28.

48. U.S.—Pennsylvania Co. v. U. S., C.C.A.Ill., 257 F. 261, 168 C.C.A. 345
10 C.J. p 598 note 30.

49. U.S.—New York Cent., etc., R. Co. v. U. S., N.Y., 29 S.Ct. 304, 212 U.S. 481, 53 L.Ed. 613—Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co. v. U. S., Cal., 170 F. 250, 95 C.C.A. 446.
10 C.J. p 598 note 31.

50. U.S.—Chicago, St. P., M. & O. R. Co. v. U. S., Minn., 162 F. 835, 90 C.C.A. 211, affirming, D.C., 151 F. 84, and certiorari denied 29 S.Ct. 689, 212 U.S. 579, 53 L.Ed. 659.

rendering the rate unlawful.[51] Any pecuniary inducement held out to a shipper to procure his business over a particular railroad is or may be a rebate or concession within the prohibition of this section.[52] Actual discrimination between shippers is not a necessary element,[53] nor is it necessary that fraud be alleged and proved.[54] The mere offer of a rebate, knowingly made by a carrier, is an offense, acceptance of such offer by the shipper being unnecessary.[55] In a prosecution for rebating by applying transit rates to certain outbound shipments, the fact that the agents who executed such outbound transactions did not know that the goods were not entitled to the transit rate does not show that defendant carrier did not knowingly make the rebates.[56] It is necessary only to prove that the favored shipper has had his property transported at a less rate than that published and filed.[57] Payment by the carrier of rebates stipulated in the contract of shipment or a refund of part of the legal rate completes the offense of giving rebates.[58] Every device that seeks to cover up a rebate is prohibited, provided the property is thereby transported at less than the tariff rate.[59] The fact that the full tariff rate is collected at the time of transportation does not negative the possibility of a rebate in respect thereto, as the rebate may be in a lump cash sum in advance, or by later or earlier indirect payments.[60] The payment of a rebate after the statute went into effect, but on shipments of property transported prior to its enactment, is comprehended by its provisions.[61]

Who liable. The Hepburn Act prohibiting "any person, persons, or corporation" from giving any rebate, concession, or discrimination with respect to the transportation of any property in interstate or foreign commerce, is not limited in its application to shippers and carriers, but includes any person or corporation whose intended acts result in a transportation of property at less than the tariff rates lawfully published.[62] Corporations engaged in interstate commerce as well as their agents are subject to the provisions of the act,[63] and a carrier can be prosecuted for the offense of rebating where it is a party to a published joint rate, although it has not filed or published the same.[64] It is not essential to the commission of the offense of giving a concession from a through rate over connecting lines of railroads that the rate should be a joint one as established by all the carriers and published and filed with the interstate commerce commission.[65]

Defenses. It is no defense to a prosecution for granting rebates that defendant treated all shippers of the same class of property for the same destination alike,[66] or that defendant acted in the honest belief that the rebate was lawful,[67] or that competing roads granted like concessions, and that defendant was compelled to do the same in order to receive its fair share of the business.[68] Accordingly, the fact that the rebate is paid to another than the shipper is immaterial, although a payment

51. U.S.—U. S. v. Erie R. Co., D.C. N.J., 222 F. 444.

52. U.S.—Northern Central Ry. Co v. U. S., N.Y., 241 F 25, 154 C.C. A. 25, certiorari denied 38 S.Ct. 9, 245 U.S. 645, 62 L.Ed. 529.

53. U.S.—Pennsylvania Co. v. U. S., Ill., 257 F. 261, 168 C.C.A. 345.

54. U.S.—U. S. v. Satuloff Bros., C. C.A.N.Y., 79 F.2d 846.

55. U.S.—U. S. v. Lehigh Valley Ry. Co., D.C.N.Y., 254 F. 332.

56. U.S.—Grand Rapids & I. R. Co v. U. S., Mich., 212 F. 577, 129 C. C.A. 113.

57. U.S.—Chicago & A. R. Co. v U. S., Ill., 156 F. 558, 84 C.C.A. 324, 26 L.R.A.,N.S., 551, affirming, D. C., 148 F. 646, and affirmed 29 S. Ct. 689, 212 U.S. 563, 53 L.Ed. 653.

58. U.S.—U. S. v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., N.Y., 29 S.Ct. 304, 309, 212 U.S. 481, 500, 53 L.Ed. 613, 624, affirming 146 F. 298.
Ga.—Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Curtis, 82 S.E. 318, 15 Ga.App. 716.
10 C.J. p 598 note 36.

59. U.S.—Vandalia R. Co. v. U. S., Ill., 226 F. 713, 141 C.C.A. 469.
10 C.J. p 599 note 37.

Allowances to lessor

Allowances made by a lessee of a railroad from a coal mining company on shipments by the lessor have been held illegal as rebates, in violation of the Hepburn Act.—Central R. Co. of New Jersey v. U. S., N.J., 229 F. 501, 143 C.C.A. 569, certiorari denied 36 S.Ct. 446, 241 U.S. 658, 60 L.Ed. 1225.

60. U.S.—Vandalia R. Co. v. U. S., Ill., 226 F. 713, 141 C.C.A. 469.

61. U.S.—New York Cent., etc., R. Co. v. U. S., N.Y., 29 S.Ct. 309, 212 U.S. 500, 53 L.Ed. 624, affirming 146 F. 298.
10 C.J. p 599 note 40.

62. U.S.—Spencer Kellogg & Sons v. U. S., C.C.A.N.Y., 20 F.2d 459, affirming D.C., U. S. v. Spencer Kellogg & Sons, 12 F.2d 612, certiorari denied Spencer Kellogg & Sons v. U. S., 48 S.Ct. 122, 275 U. S. 566, 72 L.Ed. 429.

63. U.S.—Spencer Kellogg & Sons v. U. S., supra.
10 C.J. p 599 note 41.

64. U.S.—U. S. v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 29 S.Ct. 313, 212 U.S. 509, 53 L.Ed. 629, reversing 157 F. 393.
10 C.J. p 599 note 42.

65. U.S.—Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. U. S., Mo., 157 F. 830, 833, 85 C.C.A. 194, affirmed 28 S.Ct. 439, 209 U.S. 90, 52 L.Ed. 698.
10 C.J. p 599 note 43.

66. U.S.—Chicago, St. P., M. & O. R. Co. v. U. S., 162 F. 835, 90 C.C. A. 211, certiorari denied 29 S.Ct. 689, 212 U.S. 579, 53 L.Ed. 659.
10 C.J. p 599 note 44.

67. U.S.—Central R. Co., of New Jersey v. U. S., N.J., 229 F. 501, 143 C.C.A. 569, certiorari denied 36 S.Ct. 446, 241 U.S. 658, 60 L. Ed. 1225.
10 C.J. p 599 note 45.

68. U.S.—U. S. v. Chicago, St. P., M. & O. R. Co., D.C.Minn., 151 F. 84, affirmed 162 F. 835, 90 C.C.A. 211, certiorari denied 29 S.Ct. 689, 212 U.S. 579, 53 L.Ed. 659.

which is but a commission for obtaining business for the carrier is not within the statute.[69]

Number of offenses. Each payment of a rebate constitutes only one offense, although it may cover more than one shipment.[70]

§ 519. Pooling

Agreements between carriers for the pooling of freights of competing carriers or to divide the proceeds of the earnings of such carriers are violations of the Interstate Commerce Act, for which the participating carriers stand subject to indictment.

Where a carrier is a corporation, not only the carrier itself, but the officers individually, are subject to indictment for violation of the Interstate Commerce Act, 49 U.S.C.A. § 5, which provides that it shall be unlawful for any common carrier, subject to a provision of the act, to enter into a contract, agreement, or combination with any other common carrier or carriers for the pooling of freights of different competing railroads, or to divide between them the aggregate or net proceeds of the earnings of such railroads or any portion thereof.[71]

§ 520. Delay in Transportation

Penalties and statutory damages for delay in transportation see supra §§ 454–460. Examine Pocket Parts for later cases.

§ 521. Other Offenses

Other offenses, which, if committed by a carrier or its agents, would serve as grounds for indictment, have been established by various state and federal statutes.

There are other acts committed by carriers which by special statute have been specifically denounced as criminal, such as embezzlement,[72] transportation of game in violation of law, see the C.J.S. title Game § 13, also 27 C.J. p 952 notes 35–50, and violation of the federal twenty-eight-hour law.[73]

Falsification or destruction of records. Under the provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act, 49 U.S.C.A. § 20 (7), any person who willfully falsifies or destroys the records or memoranda of an interstate carrier shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor. The general object of such statute is to require that carriers keep reliable records of the receipts and expenditures of and for each shipment. This regulation is intended as an ultimate protection, not to the carriers, but to the shippers, to secure a proper accounting of the expenditures that might be charged to each shipper on the basis of the tariff published in accordance with the law.[74] The provisions of the statute are applicable to express companies engaged in interstate commerce, and those who are its employees.[75] Memoranda kept by a car clerk of a railroad company, devised by him as a part of the system of his office, are records of the company within such statute.[76] The failure of a clerk of an interstate carrier to forward to another employee, as was his duty, certain cards covering c. o. d. shipments, in order that they might become part of a record, is not violative of this statute, since there is no showing that the cards were destroyed, altered, or mutilated.[77] An independent contractor, who falsifies his reports to a carrier respecting the goods furnished to such carrier, is not guilty of a violation under such statute.[78]

Violation of quarantine laws. A receiver operating a railroad is subject to the penal provisions of a statute prohibiting any common carrier from transporting live stock by rail from a quarantined district into another state.[79]

§ 522. Prosecution and Punishment

a. In general
b. Indictment or information
c. Evidence
d. Trial and punishment

a. In General

General rules of criminal procedure govern the prosecution of offenses by carriers, including jurisdiction and venue.

The offense of failing to file a schedule of rates with the interstate commerce commission, in compliance with statute, is committed in Washington, D. C., where the commission has its office, and must be prosecuted there.[80] However, a prosecution for

69. U.S.—U. S. v. Delaware, L. & W., R. Co., C.C.N.Y., 152 F. 269.

70. U.S.—U. S. v. Bunch, D.C.Ark., 165 F. 736—U. S. v. Stearns Salt & Lumber Co., D.C.Mich., 165 F. 735.
10 C.J. p 599 note 48.

71. U.S.—In re Pooling Freights, D.C.Tenn., 115 F. 588.

72. N.Y.—Larkin v. People, 61 Barb. 226.
10 C.J. p 601 note 69.

73. U.S.—Northern Pac. Terminal Co. v. U. S., Or., 184 F. 603, 106 C.C.A. 583.

74. U.S.—U. S. v. Fruit Growers' Express Co., Pa., 49 S.Ct. 374, 279 U.S. 363, 73 L.Ed. 739.

75. U.S.—U. S. v. Tippitt, D.C.Tex., 298 F. 495.

76. U.S.—Kennedy v. U. S., C.C.A. S.C., 275 F. 182.

77. U.S.—U. S. v. Trippitt, D.C.Tex., 298 F. 495.

78. U.S.—U. S. v. Fruit Growers' Express Co., Pa., 49 S.Ct. 374, 279 U.S. 363, 73 L.Ed. 739.

79. U.S.—U. S. v. Nixon Mo., 35 S. Ct. 49, 235 U.S. 231, 59 L.Ed. 207.

80. U.S.—New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co. v. U. S., N.Y., 166 F. 267, 92 C.C.A. 331, reversing, D.C., 153 F. 630.

transportation of interstate commerce by a carrier which has not filed its rate for such service in violation of the statute may be brought in any district through which the goods pass while in transit.[81] Also, under a statute regulating maximum freight rates and providing that the carrier shall, on conviction of charging higher rates than those fixed, be fined, it was held that the penalties could be enforced only in a criminal trial, and the supreme court has no original jurisdiction of a civil action to recover such penalties.[82]

b. Indictment or Information

An indictment or information against a carrier or its agent must charge accused's commission of the offense and must directly and positively allege every fact necessary to constitute the crime.

Indictments for offenses by carriers or their agents are governed by the usual rules of indictments and informations.[83] It must be positive with respect to the charge that the person accused committed the crime which renders him amenable to the charge,[84] and must directly and positively allege every fact necessary to constitute the crime.[85]

Charging rates different from those fixed. An indictment under the Interstate Commerce Act, 49 U.S.C.A. § 6, must show that a joint tariff has been established;[86] but a specific charge that all the connecting carriers concurred in the joint rate, or that it was filed with the interstate commerce commission by their joint action, is not essential to the validity of the indictment.[87] On the other hand, while the indictment must allege facts sufficient to show a commission of the offense charged,[88] if such facts appear in the indictment or information it is sufficient in that respect; accordingly, the indictment need not allege the day or days when the shipments were made,[89] nor allege that defendants, when the shipments were made, intended to charge less than the schedule rate.[90] An allegation that an established rate was in force on the day on which the unlawful charge was alleged to have been made obviates the necessity of alleging, in express terms, that no reduction in the established rates had taken place.[91] An indictment under the Elkins Act against a railroad company for failure to observe its published tariffs by extending credit to a shipper under joint rates for part of the freight is not insufficient because it does not preclude the possibility that it received in cash its own share of such freights.[92]

Unjust discrimination. An indictment against a carrier for unjust discrimination must charge the commission of the offense with precision and fullness, and clearly and fully set out all the elements of, or facts necessary to, the crime charged.[93]

81. U.S.—U. S. v. Illinois Terminal Co., D.C.Ill., 168 F. 546—New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co. v. U. S., N.Y., 166 F. 267, 92 C.C.A. 331.

82. Neb.—State v. Union Pac. R. Co., 93 N.W. 222, 67 Neb. 141—State v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 90 N.W. 877, 64 Neb. 679.

83. U.S.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. U. S., Cal., 170 F. 250, 95 C.C.A. 446.

84. U.S.—U. S. v. New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co., C.C.N.Y., 146 F. 298, affirmed 29 S.Ct. 304, 212 U.S. 481, 53 L.Ed. 613, and affirmed 29 S.Ct. 309, 212 U.S. 500, 53 L.Ed. 624.

85. U.S.—U. S. v. Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co., D.C.Pa., 232 F. 946—U. S. v. New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co., C.C.N.Y., 146 F. 298, affirmed 29 S.Ct. 304, 212 U.S. 481, 53 L.Ed. 613, and affirmed 29 S.Ct. 309, 212 U.S. 500, 53 L.Ed. 324.

Certificate of convenience

Under a statute providing that a trucker for hire must obtain a certificate of convenience from a commission, an information charging operation of a truck without such permit is demurrable on a failure to show that defendant is a common carrier—State v. Smith, 252 P. 1011, 31 Ariz. 297.

86. U.S.—U. S. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., D.C.N.Y., 153 F. 625.
10 C.J. p 594 note 54.

87. U.S.—U. S. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., D.C.N.Y., 153 F. 625.
10 C.J. p 594 note 55.

Indictment held to show interstate shipment under joint tariff

An indictment of a carrier for failure to file its tariff of rates for petroleum, established under a common arrangement for interstate shipment, in violation of the Elkins Act, 49 U.S.C.A. § 41, which alleged the establishment of a rate for carrying petroleum between intra-state terminals under a common arrangement for a continuous interstate shipment, and that all of the shipments under such rate were under shipping orders, transfer slips, and waybills, showing that the commodity was to be transported from the point of shipment to destination by a continuous route without unloading or transshipment, sufficiently charged a common arrangement between the various carriers for a through interstate shipment under a joint tariff—U. S. v. New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co., D.C.N.Y., 153 F. 630, reversed on other grounds 166 F. 267, 92 C.C.A. 331.

88. Intra-state shipment

An indictment charging that a carrier participated in an interstate shipment of coal by rail and water, but failed to file with the interstate commerce commission tariffs showing the rates for water transportation, is insufficient where the shipment was intra-state.—U. S. v. Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co., D.C.Pa., 232 F. 946.

89. U.S.—U. S. v. Hanley, D.C.Ill., 71 F. 672.

90. U.S.—U. S. v. Hanley, supra.
10 C.J. p 594 note 50.

91. U.S.—U. S. v. Tozer, D.C.Mo., 37 F. 635, 2 L.R.A. 444.

92. U.S.—U. S. v. Hocking Valley Ry. Co., D.C.Ohio, 194 F. 234, affirmed 210 F. 735, 127 C.C.A. 285.

93. U.S.—U. S. v. Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co., D.C.Pa., 232 F. 946.

In Kentucky

(1) Under the constitutional provision against discrimination, an indictment for discrimination in charges must allege that the services to the different persons were on the same conditions—Com. v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 72 S.W. 361, 24 Ky.L. 1888—10 C.J. p 596 note 95.

(2) The indictment must also allege that the freight in question was of the same class or kind and not of different classes or kinds.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 46 S.W.

An indictment in a federal prosecution under the Interstate Commerce Act, 49 U.S.C.A. § 2, need not allege by what particular device the discrimination alleged was accomplished.[94] If the indictment alleges all the details of time, place, distance, amount, and kind of freight transported for a designated person, and then charges that the service was for a less compensation than was received from another person named, "for doing for him a like and contemporaneous service in the transportation of a like kind of traffic under substantially similar circumstances and conditions," there is a sufficient description of the services rendered for the person discriminated against.[95] An indictment which states that a carrier gave a rebate to one shipper, without stating any instance in which the carrier refused a like rebate to any other shipper, is defective as not showing discrimination.[96]

An indictment under the Interstate Commerce Act, 49 U.S.C.A. § 3, is sufficient if it shows with requisite certainty that defendant has committed an act giving one shipper or class of shippers an advantage, or subjecting others to a disadvantage, and need not allege that the discrimination was committed "under substantially similar circumstances and conditions" as required under the fourth section relating to long and short hauls.[97] The statute does not subject a railroad company to an indictment for failure or refusal to furnish switch connections to a shipper handling interstate traffic for transportation, although such connections are furnished to other shippers, where the indictment does not charge that those demanded are reasonably practicable and could be put in with safety, and that the shipper would furnish sufficient business to justify the expense of their construction and maintenance, nor that the person or company asking for the same offered to pay such portion of their cost as is usual and reasonable.[98] An indictment which charges generally that defendant practiced an unjust discrimination in respect of the transportation of property in interstate commerce by refusing to furnish to a particular company its proper and rightful share and quota of cars and motive power, and by furnishing to other companies more than their respective shares and quota of cars and motive power, does not allege a violation of that part of the section relating to the giving of an undue or unreasonable preference or advantage to any particular person, company, or locality, or to any particular description of traffic;[99] nor does it sufficiently charge that defendant subjected any particular company or any particular description of traffic to any undue or unreasonable prejudice or disadvantage, where it alleges no facts showing the rightful share or quota of cars and motive power to which the company charged to have been so prejudiced was entitled, or that such company at the time charged was prepared to make shipments and tendered the same and made demand for cars and motive power for their transportation in interstate commerce.[1]

Under the Interstate Commerce Act, 49 U.S.C.A. § 4, an indictment alleging that the share of the joint rate taken by one company is less than its local rate for a short haul is bad.[2]

702, 48 S.W. 416, 105 Ky. 179, 20 Ky. L. 1099, 43 L.R.A. 541.

(3) The points from and to which the goods were shipped must be stated.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 57 S.W. 508, 108 Ky. 628, 22 Ky.L. 328.

(4) It must also allege that the offense was willfully and knowingly committed, as the constitution makes that an essential element of the offense.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 46 S.W. 702, 48 S.W. 416, 105 Ky. 179, 20 Ky.L. 1099, 43 L.R.A. 541.

(5) If the indictment is based on the statute, it is not necessary that it should state the precise amount charged for the entire distance, nor that it should state the names of the persons in whose favor the discrimination was made, it being sufficient to state that the specified amount charged or received for the short distance was greater than that charged or received from persons generally for the long distance.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 46 S.W. 707, 47 S.W. 210, 598, 104 Ky. 226, 230, 20 Ky.L. 1380, 43 L.R.A. 541.

(6) Although it is a condition precedent to an indictment that the commission shall make an investigation followed by an order refusing to exonerate accused from the operation of the provisions of the constitution, an indictment stating the circumstances of the offense, and reciting that "defendant at said time not having been authorized by the railroad commission of this Commonwealth to charge less for a longer than for a shorter distance for transportation of coal" is sufficient.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Com., 46 S.W. 707, 47 S.W. 210, 598, 104 Ky. 226, 230, 20 Ky.L. 1380, 43 L.R.A. 541.

In New Hampshire, under a statute providing that all persons shall have reasonable and equal terms, facilities, and accommodations for the transportation of themselves or their property, an indictment of a railroad company for not affording reasonable transportation facilities need not allege that the acts were unlawful, nor that the merchandise was the property of the person trying to transport it, where it not only uses the statutory description of the offense, but specifies the acts by which it is claimed that the law has been violated.—State v. Concord R. Co., 59 N.H. 85.

94. U.S.—Dye v. U. S., C.C.A.W.Va., 262 F. 6
10 C.J. p. 597 note 10.

95. U.S.—U. S. v. Decoursey, D.C.N.Y., 82 F. 302.

96. U.S.—U. S. v. Hanley, D.C.Ill., 71 F. 672

97. U.S.—U. S. v. Tozer, D.C.Mo., 37 F. 635, 2 L.R.A. 444.

98. U.S.—U. S. v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., D.C.W.Va., 153 F. 997.

99. U.S.—U. S. v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., supra.

1. U.S.—U. S. v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., supra.

2. U.S.—U. S. v. Mellen, D.C.Kan., 53 F. 229.

An indictment charging discrimination by an interstate carrier on the ground that it failed to collect demurrage charges on coal cars as authorized by schedules filed with the interstate commerce commission is insufficient where it does not contain averments of every fact necessary to constitute the crime.[3]

Giving rebates. Inasmuch as the object of the Elkins Act as amended by the Hepburn Act is to make the act of rebating one of the corporation as well as of the agent, and to include both within the provisions and restrictions of the statute, the corporation and its agents may be prosecuted for the same offense in one indictment.[4] An indictment charging a railroad company with the granting of a concession to a shipper must specifically set forth the nature, and, if possible, the amount of the concession, and point out what particular tariff charges the railroad company violated and failed to observe in making the concession.[5] The indictment need not allege the methods or devices resorted to to avoid the law, as the device constitutes no part of the offense;[6] nor is it necessary to allege a prior agreement for a rebate, it being sufficient to allege that defendant received the legal rate and paid the shipper a certain rebate.[7] The indictment need not allege the name of the agent by whom the concession was given.[8] A description of the act charged as having been done unlawfully and willfully is sufficient in charging intent,[9] and a charge that a certain rebate was knowingly made and received is sufficient to charge the offense.[10] An indictment charging violation of this statute due to grants of concessions in transporting goods is sufficient, and is not defective for a failure to charge defendant with felonious intent.[11] Where the offense charged is giving the shipper a through transportation of property between two points at less than the lawful rate, the indictment is not insufficient because it does not aver the through rate, if it states the amount of the concession and that it was given from the lawful rate over a certain part of the route, which rate is also given.[12] An indictment is not rendered insufficient in describing an alleged rebate by failure to use the word "concession."[13] The indictment need not negative exceptions to conditions or circumstances which might render the payment legal, this being a matter of defense.[14] A charge that a carrier's codefendant as its agent granted an unlawful concession does not amount to a charge that the carrier granted the concession through that agent so that it cannot be convicted if the agent is acquitted.[15] Under this statute, an indictment against a carrier charging that, while a certain embargo was in force, the carrier did unlawfully offer, grant, and give permits for transportation to certain shippers, while others similarly situated did not receive such permits, is insufficient to charge the offense of giving a rebate or concession, it not being alleged there was any transportation.[16]

Other offenses. Under the Interstate Commerce Act, 49 U.S.C.A. § 20(7), providing that willful falsification and destruction of records of an interstate carrier is an indictable offense, an information need not allege that the records falsified were records prescribed by the interstate commerce commission.[17] An indictment merely charging an employee with failure to forward cards which were to become part of the carrier's permanent records is insufficient.[18]

An indictment charging that a carrier violated § 10 of the Act, 49 U.S.C.A. § 10, which makes it to be an indictable offense for a carrier to assist a shipper in obtaining transportation at less than regular rates, is not required to set forth the steps provided by law to fix a lawful rate of transportation, such as publishing and posting,[19] and the

3. U.S—U. S. v. Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co., D.C.Pa., 232 F. 953.

4. U.S—New York Cent & H. R R Co. v. U. S, N.Y., 29 S.Ct. 304, 212 U.S. 481, 53 L.Ed. 613—U. S. v. New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co., C.C.N.Y., 146 F. 298, affirmed 29 S. Ct. 304, 212 U.S 481, 53 L.Ed 613 and affirmed 29 S.Ct. 309, 212 U S 500, 53 L Ed. 324.

5. U S—U. S v. Philadelphia & R. Ry Co, D.C Pa, 184 F 543, affirmed 188 F. 879, 110 C.C.A. 513

6. U S.—Dye v. U. S., C C A W.Va, 262 F. 6.
10 C J. p 600 note 52.

7. U S—U S. v. Chicago, St P., M. & O Ry. Co, D C Minn., 151 F. 84, affirmed 162 F. 835, 90 C C A. 211, certiorari denied 29 S.Ct. 689, 212 U S. 579, 53 L.Ed. 659.

8. U.S.—U S v. Erie R. Co., D C. N J., 222 F. 444.
10 C.J. p 600 note 54.

9. U.S—U. S. v Delaware, L & W. R. Co, C.C N.Y., 152 F. 269
10 C.J p 600 note 55.

10. U.S—U. S. v Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co, D.C Ill., 234 F. 178.

11. U.S—U. S. v Lehigh Valley R. Co., D.C.Pa, 43 F.2d 135.

12. U.S—Chicago, B. & Q. Ry. Co v. U. S., Mo, 157 F. 830, 85 C. C A. 194, affirmed 28 S Ct. 439, 209 U.S. 90, 52 L Ed. 698

13. U.S—Atchison, T & S. F. Ry. Co. v. U. S, Cal, 170 F. 250, 95 C C A. 446.

14. U.S.—U. S. v. Chicago, St. P, M & O. Ry Co, D C Minn, 151 F 84, affirmed 162 F. 835, 90 C C. A 211, and certiorari denied 29 S Ct. 689, 212 U S 579, 53 L.Ed. 659

15. U S.—U S. v. Erie R. Co, D. C.N J., 222 F. 444.

16. U.S.—U. S. v. Lehigh Valley Ry. Co, D C N.Y., 254 F 332

17. U S—U. S. v. Tippitt, D C.Tex, 298 F. 495—Kennedy v. U S, C C. A.S C., 275 F. 182

18. U S.—U. S. v. Tippitt, D C.Tex., 298 F. 495

19. U.S.—Elgin, J. & E. Ry Co. v U. S., Ill., 253 F. 907, 166 C C.A.

means or steps taken to adopt the rate need not be set forth.[20] Such indictment is not defective, although alleging that the rates departed from were on a certain type of goods, whereas the shipments charged did not specify that the goods were of that type, although it fails to set forth the manner or means whereby the shipper was assisted, or although it fails to allege that the shipper actually paid the freight.[21]

Pleading and proof. It is not necessary to prove the exact amount charged to have been given as rebates, under the Elkins Act as amended by the Hepburn Act, as the precise means alleged are not of the essence of the offense; it is sufficient if substantial amounts are proved.[22] Where a carrier is charged with rebating in applying transit rates to certain so-called outbound local shipments, evidence of the carrier's acts concerning inbound shipments disclosing a scheme calculated to conceal and carry out the offense charged in the indictment is admissible.[23] Where the indictment contains a number of counts, each charging the granting of a concession consisting in failure to collect the demurrage charge fixed by its published schedule of rates on a single carload shipment, it will be supported as to any one count by proof that at a single settlement between defendant and the shipper after all the shipments charged had been made defendant made a concession to the demurrage charges on all of the cars.[24]

c. Evidence

The evidence in prosecutions for offenses committed by carriers or their agents are governed by the rules of evidence applicable to criminal cases generally.

In a prosecution against an interstate carrier for charging a lower rate for the transportation of goods between two specified termini in different states than that scheduled in the filed joint tariff, the burden is on the prosecutor to show a common arrangement for a continuous carriage between the points mentioned in the filed joint tariff.[25]

On the trial of a prosecution against a railroad company for charging more for a short than for a long haul, in violation of a state regulation, the report of the railroad commission that defendant had been repeatedly guilty of the offense is admissible as evidence.[26] In a prosecution for granting a rebate or concession, evidence tending to show lack of intent to grant a concession to a shipper is admissible.[27]

As in other criminal prosecutions, in a prosecution against a carrier or its agents the state must prove accused's guilt beyond a reasonable doubt.[28]

d. Trial and Punishment

In prosecutions against carriers or their agents, the rules governing trial and punishment in criminal cases generally are applicable.

The rules applicable to trial and punishment in criminal cases generally govern the proceeding in prosecutions against carriers or their agents.

Questions of law and fact. Where failure to observe published tariff rates with regard to demurrage charges is alleged, the questions whether defendant had made a settlement with the shipper as to such demurrage, and whether, if so, the cancellation of the charges was a valid settlement of a disputed claim or for the purpose of making a concession in violation of the statute, are questions of fact for the jury.[29]

Instructions. In a prosecution for giving a rebate, the statement of the court, after setting out the language of the act and discussing the allegations as to a device and the intention of the parties, to the effect that the indictment concluded with a charge that defendant through the device named unlawfully gave a rebate to a named ship-

7, certiorari denied 39 S.Ct. 259, 249 U.S 601, 63 L.Ed. 797.

20. U.S.—Elgin, J. & E. Ry. Co. v. U. S., supra.

21. U.S.—Elgin, J. & E Ry. Co. v. U. S., supra.

22. U.S.—Grand Rapids & I Ry Co. v. U. S, Mich., 212 F. 577, 129 C.C.A. 113

23. U.S.—Grand Rapids & I. Ry. Co. v. U. S, supra.
10 C.J. p 600 note 61.

24. U.S.—U. S. v. Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co, D.C.Pa., 184 F 543, affirmed 188 F. 879, 110 C.C.A. 513.

25. U.S.—U. S. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., D.C.N.Y., 153 F. 626.

26. Ky.—Louisville, etc, R. Co. v. Com., 51 S.W. 167, 21 Ky.L 239

27. U.S.—Atchison, T & S. F. Ry. Co. v. U. S., Cal., 170 F. 250, 95 C.C.A. 446.
10 C.J p 600 note 63.

28. Evidence held sufficient

(1) To sustain a conviction for assisting a shipper to obtain transportation at less than regular rates. —Elgin, J. & E. Ry. Co. v. U. S., Ill., 253 F. 907, 166 C.C.A. 7, certiorari denied 39 S.Ct. 259, 249 U.S 601, 63 L.Ed. 797.

(2) To sustain a conviction of a carrier for granting any rebate, concession, or discrimination to a shipper in violation of the Elkins Act as amended.—Dye v. U. S., C.C.A.W.Va., 262 F. 6—Northern Central Ry. Co. v. U. S, N.Y., 241 F. 25, 154 C.C.A. 25, certiorari denied 38 S.Ct. 9, 245 U.S. 645, 62 L.Ed. 529.

(3) To sustain a charge against carrier's employee for willfully failing or neglecting to make full, true, and correct entries in the accounts and records of an interstate carrier of facts appertaining to the carrier's business.—Kennedy v. U. S., C.C.A.S.C., 275 F. 182.

29. U.S.—U. S. v Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co, D.C.Pa., 184 F 543, affirmed 188 F. 879, 110 C.C.A. 513.

per in the transportation of property in interstate commerce, was not objectionable as allowing the jury to find that the mere concoction of the device without transportation at a reduced rate would justify a conviction.[30]

Punishment. A trial court, in determining the penalty to impose for a carrier's failure to charge demurrage, may consider discrimination disclosed for which there could be no conviction.[31]

§ 523. By Persons Dealing with Carriers

Statutes have been enacted by congress and by many of the states making acts therein enumerated committed by shippers or other persons dealing with common carriers, as such, criminal offenses. The particular offenses of this character are discussed in detail in the sections immediately following.

§ 524. Violations of Elkins Act

a. In general
b. Accepting concessions
c. Accepting rebates
d. Receiving discrimination

a. In General

Under the provisions of the Elkins Act as amended, it is unlawful for a shipper or other person to solicit or accept concessions or rebates or receive discrimination of an interstate carrier; and the purpose of such enactment is to eliminate every form of discrimination, favoritism, or inequality in interstate transportation.

The Elkins Act, 49 U.S.C.A. § 41, provides that it shall be unlawful for any person or corporation to solicit, accept, or receive any rebate, concession, or discrimination with respect to the transportation of any property in interstate or foreign commerce, whereby such property shall, by any device whatever, be transported at a less rate than that named in the tariffs published and filed by the carrier and declares that any person or corporation violating these provisions will be guilty of a misdemeanor punishable by fine. This statute provides for three separate and distinct offenses on the part of a shipper[32] or other person,[33] namely, accepting concessions, accepting rebates, and receiving discrimination, each of which is considered in the subsequent subsections of this section.

The act is a remedial statute and is intended to eliminate every form of discrimination, favoritism, or inequality.[34] This statute embraces the whole field of interstate commerce; and it does not exempt such foreign commerce as is carried on a through bill of lading, but in terms applies to transportation of property shipped from any point in the United States to a foreign country and carried from such place to a port of transhipment.[35] The commission of the crime is not dependent on whether the carrier consciously and knowingly participated therein.[36] The receiving of a rebate or concession is a continuous crime which may be prosecuted in any court of the United States having jurisdiction of crimes through whose district the transportation is conducted.[37] This act is not suspended by a governmental embargo on carriers, and hence a discrimination obtained by a shipper under the embargo regulations may be prosecuted under the Elkins Act.[38]

b. Accepting Concessions

A prosecution for accepting concessions from an interstate carrier will lie where a shipper or other person obtains transportation of property at less than the published rate. The rules of criminal law generally govern the proceedings in such prosecution.

30. U.S.—Vandalia R. Co. v U. S., Ill., 226 F. 713, 141 C.C.A. 469.

31. U.S.—Michigan Cent. R. Co v. U. S., Mich., 246 F. 353, 158 C.C.A. 417, certiorari denied 38 S.Ct. 333, 246 U.S. 663, 62 L.Ed. 928.

32. U.S.—U. S v. Bunch, D.C.Ark., 165 F. 736.

Shipper within meaning of act

One is a "shipper," within the meaning of Elkins Act, as amended, who, although a consignee, exercises such direct control over shipments of commodities consigned to him by another as enables him, by his own act, to procure for himself discriminations with respect to transportation service—U. S v. Metropolitan Lumber Co., D.C.N.J., 254 F. 335.

33. Applicable to others

The operation of the statute is not limited to shippers and carriers. Accordingly an indictment will lie against consignee's bookkeeper, livestock merchant, and weighing bureau's inspector for receiving rebate by placing false weight figures on freight bills—U. S. v. Miller, D.C. Neb., 18 F.Supp. 389.

34. U.S.—U. S v. P. Koenig Coal Co., Mich., 46 S.Ct. 392, 270 U.S. 512, 70 L.Ed. 709, reversing judgment, D.C., 1 F.2d 738—U. S. v. Union Stock Yard & Transit Co., Com.Ct., 33 S.Ct. 83, 226 U.S. 286, 57 L.Ed. 226—Louisville & N. R. R. Co v. Mottley, Ky., 31 S.Ct. 265, 219 U.S. 478, 55 L.Ed. 297—Spencer Kellogg & Sons v. U. S., C.C.A.N.Y., 20 F.2d 459, affirming, D.C., U. S v. Spencer Kellogg & Sons, 12 F.2d 612, certiorari denied Spencer Kellogg & Sons v. U. S., 48 S.Ct. 122, 275 U.S. 566, 72 L.Ed. 429—U. S v. Miller, D.C. Neb., 18 F.Supp. 389—U. S v. Altman, D.C.N.Y., 8 F.Supp. 880.
10 C.J. p 601 note 81.

Discrimination need not affect rates

Elkins Act as amended embraces the granting or receiving of discriminations or concessions, in transportation service, irrespective of whether they in any way affect transportation rates or charges.—U. S. v. Metropolitan Lumber Co., D.C.N.J., 254 F. 335.

35. U.S.—Chicago, B. & Q. Ry. Co. v. U. S., N.Y., 28 S.Ct. 439, 209 U.S. 90, 52 L.Ed. 698—Armour Packing Co. v. U. S., Mo., 28 S.Ct. 428, 209 U.S. 56, 52 L.Ed. 681.

36. U.S.—U. S. v. P. Koenig Coal Co., Mich., 46 S.Ct. 392, 270 U.S. 512, 70 L.Ed. 709, reversing, D.C., 1 F.2d 738—U. S v. Metropolitan Lumber Co., D.C.N.J., 254 F. 335.

37. U.S.—U. S. v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., D.C.Pa., 43 F.2d 135.
10 C.J. p. 602 note 83.

38. U.S.—U. S v. Metropolitan Lumber Co., D.C.N.J., 254 F. 335.

Ordinarily there is little substantial distinction between a concession and a rebate, the concession differing from the rebate only in that in the concession the shipper, instead of paying the full rate and receiving back part, merely settles for the difference. The result is the same; the property is transported for the same net amount less than the lawful rate.[39] The concession, however, need not necessarily involve a rebate, or be in effect a rebate, but may consist of anything whereby the shipper secures an unfair advantage. Accordingly, the offense may consist in a violation of an order of the interstate commerce commission providing for priorities in the distribution and movement of cars.[40] A mere agreement on the part of the shipper to accept the concession is not an offense under the statute.[41] It is not essential that the shipper should have solicited the concession which he obtains from the carrier,[42] nor is collusion between the carrier and shipper necessary.[43]

It is not essential to the offense of receiving a concession from a common carrier in violation of the Elkins Act as amended that the concession given violate a published tariff,[44] nor is it essential that the rates shall have been posted.[45] Where, however, the concession given is in effect a rebate, to make rates valid, so that the acceptance of a concession from them by the shipper shall constitute an offense, it is necessary that they shall have been "published,"[46] and the offense is not complete until the shipper has received a rate different from the established rate.[47] The shipper cannot be convicted of accepting a concession from the lawful published rate without proof of knowledge as to what was the published rate.[48] However, shippers who

39. U.S.—Standard Oil Co. of Indiana v. U. S., Ill., 164 F. 376, 386, 90 C.C.A. 364, certiorari denied 29 S.Ct. 689, 212 U.S. 579, 53 L.Ed. 659.

40. U.S.—U. S. v. Michigan Portland Cement Co., Mich., 46 S.Ct. 395, 270 U.S. 521, 70 L.Ed. 713.

The Elkins Act "makes it unlawful for any one to receive any concession in respect of transportation of any property in interstate commerce by a common carrier whereby any advantage is given or any discrimination is practiced. The facts charged bring what was done exactly within this description. It was priority or preference in securing the transportation of coal in an emergent congestion of the traffic. It was certainly a concession and one of value to one who under the law or the regulations having the force of law could not secure that priority. The words 'advantage,' 'concession,' and 'discrimination' in the statute must be construed to mean unlawful concession, unlawful advantage, unlawful discrimination. It certainly was not the intention of Congress to punish the granting or receiving of a lawful concession, a lawful advantage or a lawful discrimination. It is asked, if this was a concession, by whom was it conceded? The answer is by the carrier. He granted the priority and therefore he made the concession and gave the advantage and practiced the discrimination. But it was unlawful, and he did not know the facts which made it so. The shipper knew them because he had secured it by his deceit and received it. What is there in the statute that releases him from guilt, because the carrier who yielded to him the concession, and gave him the advantage and made the discrimination, thought it was lawful?"—U. S. v. P. Koenig Coal Co., Mich., 46 S.Ct. 392, 394, 270 U.S. 512, 70 L.Ed. 709.

41. U.S.—Standard Oil Co. of Indiana v. U. S., Ill., 164 F. 376, 386, 90 C.C.A. 364, certiorari denied 29 S. Ct. 689, 212 U.S. 579, 53 L.Ed. 659. 10 C.J. p. 602 note 87.

42. U.S.—U. S. v. Vacuum Oil Co., D.C.N.Y., 153 F. 598. 10 C.J. p. 602 note 90.

43. U.S.—U. S. v. P. Koenig Coal Co., Mich., 46 S.Ct. 392, 270 U.S. 512, 70 L.Ed. 709, reversing, D.C., 1 F.2d 738.

Act not limited to collusion cases

"Congress did not intend to limit the offense described in it to cases of collusion between the carrier and shipper. What was done by the plaintiff in error is not in dispute, and therefore the question is whether what was done constitutes an offense by this plaintiff in error, even though it were not established to have been done in collusion with a carrier or with its knowledge or consent. The law was intended to reach either individuals or corporate entities who contribute knowingly and understandingly to a rebate or concession by any manner or device, and the relation which the culprit bore to the carrier is not necessary as a foundation upon which to rest responsibility."—Spencer Kellogg & Sons v. U. S., C.C.A.N.Y., 20 F.2d 459, 461, affirming, D.C., U. S. v. Spencer Kellogg & Sons, 12 F.2d 612, certiorari denied Spencer Kellogg & Sons v. U. S., 48 S.Ct. 122, 275 U.S. 566, 72 L.Ed. 429.

44. U.S.—U. S. v. Michigan Portland Cement Co., Mich., 46 S.Ct. 395, 270 U.S. 521, 70 L.Ed. 713.

"The Elkins Act does not require such a tariff as to any other advantage or discrimination than a rebate. It declares to be an offense any device whereby transportation shall be given at any less rate than named in the published tariff 'or whereby any other advantage is given or discrimination is practiced.' Where the offense consists in a rebate, as that term is usually understood, to wit, transportation at a less rate in dollars and cents than the published rate which the shipping public are charged, a published tariff is, of course, necessary to constitute the standard, departure from which is the crime. Where there is no pecuniary reduction of the rates as published, and the tariff is complied with but the law against favoritism and discrimination is infringed by the making of a concession or the granting of an advantage not specifically measured in dollars and cents, reference to a published tariff is unnecessary."—U. S. v. Michigan Portland Cement Co., Mich., 46 S.Ct. 395, 270 U.S. 521, 70 L.Ed. 713.

45. U.S.—U. S. v. Miller, Ga., 32 S. Ct. 323, 223 U.S. 599, 56 L.Ed. 568, reversing, C.C., 187 F. 375. 10 C.J. p. 602 note 85½.

46. U.S.—U. S. v. Miller, C.C.Ga., 187 F. 375, reversed on other grounds 32 S.Ct. 323, 223 U.S. 599, 56 L.Ed. 568—U. S. v. Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, D.C.Ill., 170 F. 988.

47. U.S.—Standard Oil Co. of Indiana v. U. S., Ill., 164 F. 376, 90 C.C.A. 364, reversing, D.C., 155 F. 305, and certiorari denied 29 S.Ct. 689, 212 U.S. 579, 53 L.Ed. 659.

48. U.S.—Standard Oil Co. of Indiana v. U. S., supra. 10 C.J. p. 602 note 88.

pay a reduced rate with full knowledge of the published rate are guilty of the offense of accepting a concession, although, under a mistaken view of the law, they believed that they had the right to do so.[49] The statute is violated where, after the carrier has duly established a higher rate, the shipper secures such transportation at the rate agreed on in a prior contract with the carrier, which was the legal, published, and filed rate when the contract was made, since the statute, being then in force, is read into such contract and becomes a part of it.[50] The fact that a concession from the published and filed through rate on an interstate shipment over the lines of connecting carriers was given entirely by the initial carrier for transportation over its own line wholly within one state does not relieve the shipper receiving such concession from liability to prosecution therefor.[51]

Under a tariff rule approved by the interstate commerce commission that if the shipper orders a car of a certain length, which the carrier is unable to furnish but does provide a larger one, no higher rate shall be charged for the larger car provided it is not loaded over the maximum weight prescribed for the smaller car, a shipper who, knowing that the carrier cannot furnish the smaller cars, orders the smaller cars, but does not load the cars furnished over the maximum weight limited for the cars ordered, is not guilty of securing an unlawful concession.[52]

Number of offenses. Where accused made different shipments of goods in interstate commerce at concession rates, delivered throughout the year, the bills being marked prepaid, and settlements being made at a rate lower than that published, at various intervals, all shipments contained in one freight settlement between the parties did not constitute a single offense; but, notwithstanding a settlement was essential to make out the offense of receiving concession rates, on such settlement being consummated, there were as many offenses committed as there were distinct shipments, transportations, or transactions.[53]

Indictment. An indictment for the offense of accepting a concession, to be sufficient, must by its allegations positively and clearly show accused's commission of the crime charged,[54] including such matters as his criminal intent;[55] but matters which are not essential to the commission of the offense need not be alleged,[56] and mere matters of proof need not be alleged.[57] Since prima facie the offense is consummated when the property has been transported at the unlawful rate, the payment of 49. U.S.—Armour Packing Co. v. U. S., Mo., 28 S.Ct. 428, 209 U.S. 56, 52 L.Ed. 681, affirming 153 F. 1, 82 C.C.A. 135, 14 L.R.A.,N.S., 400.

10 C.J. p 602 note 89

50. U.S.—Armour Packing Co. v. U. S., supra.
10 C.J. p 602 note 91.

In Tennessee, under Act 1897 c 10, which has its prototype in the Interstate Commerce Act, the rule as stated in the text has been followed. —New River Lumber Co. v. Tennessee Ry. Co., 238 S.W. 867, 145 Tenn. 266.

51. U.S.—U. S. v. Vacuum Oil Co., D.C.N.Y., 158 F. 536.

52. U.S.—U. S. v. Olds Motor Works, D.C.Mich., 4 F.Supp. 65.

Employees' reference immaterial
In prosecution against interstate shipper for obtaining concessions by computing freight charges on minimum carload weight for 36' 6" cars, instead of 40' 6" cars furnished, where defense was that shipper, in writing, ordered unavailable 36' 6" cars and railroad furnished 40' 6" cars, fact that shipper's subordinate employees orally referred to 40' 6" cars was immaterial—U. S. v. Olds Motor Works, D.C.Mich., 4 F.Supp. 65.

53. U.S.—U. S. v. Standard Oil Co. of New York, D.C.N.Y., 192 F. 438, distinguishing U. S. v. Standard Oil Co., D.C.Ill., 170 F. 988.
10 C.J. p 603 note 99.

54. Change of rates
An indictment for this offense is sufficient where it charges each and all of the elements of the offense with the allegations of time, place, kind of goods, and name of carrier, averring the fixing of the published rate, the changing of the rate, and the new publication, the shipper's knowledge of this change, and the carriage of the goods over a described route at a concession of the difference between the two rates—Chicago, B. & Q. Ry. Co. v. U. S., N.Y., 28 S.Ct. 439, 209 U.S. 90, 52 L.Ed. 698, affirming 157 F. 830, 85 C.C.A. 194—Armour Packing Co. v. U. S., Mo., 28 S.Ct. 428, 209 U.S. 56, 52 L.Ed. 681, affirming 153 F. 1, 82 C.C.A. 135, 14 L.R.A.,N.S., 400.

Conditional rates
Where, under the published tariff, a two-cent pumping charge does not become effective unless tank barges are ordered by the shipper and such barges are available, an indictment charging the failure to pay the pumping charge as an unlawful concession is defective where it is silent on the subject of the condition in the tariff.—U. S. v. Durkee Famous Foods, D.C.N.J., 17 F.Supp. 846.

55. "Knowingly"
An indictment charging that a carrier had not collected demurrage, and that the shippers had not paid it, is insufficient to charge the offense of knowingly soliciting, accepting, and receiving a concession from a carrier.—U.S. v. Lehigh Valley Ry. Co., D.C.N.Y., 254 F. 332

56. Posting of rates
An indictment charging shippers with receiving a concession and accepting transportation of freight at a rate less than that filed is not fatally defective, if it fails to charge that the higher rate so filed had been "posted" as required by statute—U. S. v. Miller, Ga., 32 S.Ct. 323, 223 U.S. 599, 56 L.Ed. 568, reversing, C.C., 187 F. 375

Route of shipment
If it is averred that there was an established through rate between the terminal points of the shipment, to which rate the carriers concerned were parties, the indictment need not aver the route over which the shipment was actually made—U. S. v. Vacuum Oil Co., D.C.N.Y., 158 F. 536.

57. Actual payment
The indictment need not allege the actual payment of the unlawful lower rate, this being a matter of proof. —Standard Oil Co. of New York v. U. S., N.Y., 179 F. 614, 103 C.C.A. 172.

the rate, when, by whom, or under what circumstances, is not deemed an essential allegation.[58] As in other criminal prosecutions, a material variance between the pleading and proof is fatal to a conviction.[59]

Evidence. Otherwise proper evidence tending to show accused's guilt or innocence is admissible, such as evidence that accused honestly believed he was paying the lawfully established tariff.[60] In a prosecution of a refining company for receiving concessions in rates, based on the payment of the rate on unrefined naphtha instead of gasoline, the government has the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that the property shipped was gasoline and not unrefined naphtha.[61]

Amount of fine. The imposition of a fine so large that its effect would be to bankrupt accused is an abuse of discretion and cannot be sustained.[62]

c. Accepting Rebates

The offense of accepting a rebate is committed when the shipper or other person obtains a rebate from the published rate. The rules governing the indictment and the trial in such prosecution conform to the rules of criminal prosecutions generally.

The purpose of the Elkins Act and its subsequent amendments punishing the receipt of rebates is to protect the carrier, as well as the shipper,[63] and to secure uniform freight rates to all shippers. Its provisions are violated by receiving any rebate or concession, whereby any property shall be transported at a lower rate by any interstate carrier than that named in the tariffs published and filed by the carrier whether by direct agreement between the shipper and the carrier or indirectly by any device whatever.[64] The essence of the offense is interference with interstate commerce, apart from the gain or loss occasioned thereby.[65] The offense is complete when the carrier to whom the shipper has paid the full rate returns to the shipper, on his de-

58. U.S.—U. S. v. Vacuum Oil Co., D.C.N.Y., 158 F. 536—U. S. v. Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, D.C.Ill., 155 F. 305, reversed on other grounds 164 F. 376, 90 C.C.A. 364, certiorari denied 29 S.Ct. 689, 212 U.S. 579, 53 L.Ed. 659

59. U.S.—U. S. v. Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, D.C.Tenn., 183 F. 223—U. S. v. Indiana Standard Oil Co., D.C.Ill., 170 F. 988.
10 C.J. p. 603 note 98.

60. U.S.—Lehigh Coal & Navigation Co. v. U. S., N.J., 40 S.Ct. 24, 250 U.S. 556, 63 L.Ed. 1138, answers to certified questions conformed to, C.C.A., 266 F. 457.

61. U.S.—U. S. v. Gulf Refining Co., Okl., 45 S.Ct. 597, 268 U.S. 542, 69 L.Ed. 1082, affirming, C.C.A., Gulf Refining Co. v. U. S., 284 F. 90, certiorari granted U. S. v. Gulf Refining Co., 43 S.Ct. 524, 262 U.S. 738, 67 L.Ed. 1208.

Proof insufficient

In prosecution of refining company under Elkins Act as amended for receiving concessions in rates on gasoline, in which was shown that the rate charged was that on unrefined naphtha, evidence, including evidence as to reduction of specific gravity and vapor tension under regulations of interstate commerce commission, was insufficient to prove that the product shipped was gasoline and not unrefined naphtha.—U.S. v. Gulf Refining Co., Okl., 45 S.Ct. 597, 268 U.S. 542, 69 L.Ed. 1082, affirming, C.C.A., Gulf Refining Co. v. U. S., 284 F. 90, certiorari granted U. S. v. Gulf Refining Co., 43 S.Ct. 524, 262 U.S. 738, 67 L.Ed. 1208.

62. U.S.—Indiana Standard Oil Co. v. U.S., Ill., 164 F. 376, 90 C.C.A. 364, reversing, D.C., 155 F. 305, and certiorari denied 29 S.Ct. 689, 212 U.S. 579, 53 L.Ed. 659.

63. U.S.—U. S. v. Miller, D.C.Neb., 18 F.Supp. 389

64. U.S.—U. S. v. Standard Oil Co., D.C.Ill., 148 F. 719.

Device unimportant

(1) The substance of the offense is not the device, but the receipt of the rebate and the transportation thereby effected.—Armour Packing Co. v. U. S., Mo., 153 F. 1, 82 C.C.A. 135, 14 L.R.A.,N.S., 400, affirmed 28 S.Ct. 428, 209 U.S. 56, 52 L.Ed. 681.

(2) To come within the prohibition of the statute, a device to obtain rebates need not necessarily be of a fraudulent character; the term "device" includes anything which is a plan or contrivance.—Armour Packing Co. v. U. S., Mo., 28 S.Ct. 428, 209 U.S. 56, 52 L.Ed. 681, affirming 153 F. 1, 82 C.C.A. 135, 14 L.R.A.,N.S., 400—10 C.J. p. 603 note 7.

Part of single rate

(1) A rebate or concession from a part of a single rate, whereby property is transported thereunder at a rate less than the established rate, is a concession from the entire rate and renders all transportation thereunder illegal.—Armour Packing Co. v. U. S., Mo., 153 F. 1, 82 C.C.A. 135, 14 L.R.A.,N.S., 400, affirmed 28 S.Ct. 428, 209 U.S. 56, 52 L.Ed. 681.

(2) Accordingly, where the filed and published tariffs of a railroad company specified a rate of $1.55 per ton for coal between two points, but contained a footnote stating that under the terms of a lease of a railroad line from a coal company "a lateral allowance is made out of the herein named rates" to such company on coal shipped by it, the amount of the allowance not being stated, and in practice the company was charged with the named rate against which the allowance was credited, the specified rate of $1.55 per ton was the duly established rate for coal, whether shipped by such company or others, a departure from which was unlawful, under the Elkins Act as amended by Hepburn Act.—Lehigh Coal & Navigation Co. v. U. S., C.C.A.N.J., 266 F. 457, conforming to answers to certified questions 40 S.Ct. 24, 250 U.S. 556, 63 L.Ed. 1138.

Refund by elevator company

Elevator company, collecting charges from railroad and refunding half thereof to consignees or shippers of grain, was guilty of violating Elkins and Hepburn Acts prohibiting giving of rebates.—Spencer Kellogg & Sons v. U. S., C.C.A.N.Y., 20 F.2d 459, affirming, D.C., U. S. v. Spencer Kellogg & Sons, 12 F.2d 612, certiorari denied Spencer Kellogg & Sons v. U. S., 48 S.Ct. 122, 275 U.S. 566, 72 L.Ed. 429.

Reshipment

Shipments in interstate commerce to a transit point where the goods were consumed, and in another instance reshipment from the transit point to another city in the same state, do not justify the application of lower transit rates, and hence the application thereof constituted rebating.—Nichols & Cox Lumber Co. v. U. S., Mich., 212 F. 588, 129 C.C.A. 124.

65. U.S.—U. S. v. Miller, D.C.Neb., 18 F.Supp. 389.

mand, the amount of rebate fixed in the shipping contract.[66] It is not a defense that one who contracted for and received a rebate personally received no benefit therefrom, but turned the rebate over without consideration to another;[67] that a contract existed between the carrier and the shipper to transport the latter's goods at the then established rates within a definite time;[68] that the rate filed was not intended to apply to shipments originating at certain points, when no other different rate was provided on shipments from such points;[69] that the transaction could not constitute a rebate under the act because there was not both a giver and a receiver, and because the carrier did not voluntarily collect less than its full compensation;[70] or that the shipment had ceased to be in interstate commerce, when the lawful freight rate had not been paid and received.[71]

To make rates valid, so that an acceptance of a rebate from them by a shipper shall constitute an offense, it is essential that the rates should be published.[72] Where, however, a railroad company has published and filed a schedule of rates on interstate shipments to points beyond its own line, the section applies to such rates equally with those between points on its own line;[73] and the failure to post rates by an interstate carrier will not relieve a shipper from the penalty for accepting rebates.[74]

All persons who participate in securing the unlawful rebate are guilty of the offense,[75] but the mere fact that accused was a stockholder in a corporation which accepted rebates in violation of law does not render him subject to the penalty imposed by the statute.[76]

Indictment. An indictment or information of this character must charge the commission of the crime by accused and positively and clearly allege every fact necessary to constitute the crime.[77] It need not, however, allege matters which are not essential elements of the offense.[78]

66. Ga.—Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Curtis, 82 S E 318, 14 Ga App. 716

67. U.S.—U. S. v. Wood, D C.Pa., 145 F. 405.

68. U S.—Armour Packing Co. v. U S., Mo., 153 F. 1, 82 C.C A 135, 14 L R A. N.S., 400, affirmed 28 S Ct. 428, 209 U S 56, 52 L.Ed. 681.

69. U.S. — Merchants' & Miners' Transp Co. v. U S, Ga., 199 F. 902, 118 C.C.A 232.

70. U.S—U S. v. Miller, D C Neb., 18 F Supp. 389.

71. U.S.—U. S. v. Miller, supra.

72. U.S—U. S v. Indiana Standard Oil Co., D.C.Ill., 170 F. 988.
10 C.J. p 603 note 4.

New rate

Where a special tariff promulgated by a railroad company making a rate to a point on the line of another road, although filed with the interstate commerce commission, was not a joint tariff fixing a joint rate, a joint rate subsequently made by the two roads and duly filed with the interstate commerce commission superseded the rate previously promulgated, the rule that a rate once lawfully published continues to be the lawful rate until it has been lawfully canceled, and that a subsequent tariff naming other rates, without canceling the previous rates, cannot carry the new rates into lawful effect, having no application; and the use and acceptance of the old rate by shippers after the filing of the new rate, and after the passage of the Elkins Act, was unlawful, as constituting a rebate.—Waters-Pierce Oil Co. v. U S., La., 222 F. 69, 137 C.C.A. 293.

73. U.S.—U. S v Standard Oil Co., D C.Ill., 148 F. 719

74. U.S—U. S v Miller, Ga., 32 S Ct 323, 223 U S. 599, 56 L Ed 568—Nichols & Cox Lumber Co. v. U S, Mich., 212 F 588, 129 C.C A 124
However, on a prosecution of the shipper for receiving a rebate, it has been held to be essential that the government prove that the tariffs were posted at least in the depot, station, or office of the railroad company where the shipments were received—U. S. v. Indiana Standard Oil Co, D.C.Ill., 170 F. 988.

75. Refrigerator company

Under the Elkins Act, which provides that it shall be lawful to include as parties, in addition to the carrier, all persons interested in, or affected by, the rate regulation or practice under consideration, a refrigerator company, organized for the purpose of conducting the interstate transportation of a brewing company, having entered into a contract for rebates with certain railroads, is "a party interested in the traffic," and as such subject to the provisions of the statute.—U. S. v. Milwaukee Refrigerator Transit Co, C C Wis, 145 F. 1007.

The consignee, as well as the consignor, is chargeable with a violation of the statute by receiving rebates or concessions from the published tariffs of an interstate carrier through the cancellation of terminal charges at the point of destination, which charges form a part of the tariffs as so published—U. S. v Standard Oil Co., D.C Ill., 148 F. 719

76. U.S—U. S. v. Wood, D.C.Pa., 145 F. 405.

77. False claim for damages

(1) An indictment charging solicitation of rebates and concessions from common carriers by means of a false claim for loss and damage to property is sufficient as alleging an offense under the Interstate Commerce Act, notwithstanding an indorsement on the indictment that such indictment was brought under the Elkins Act—U S. v. Altman, D.C.N.Y, 8 F Supp 880.

(2) Under evidence that corporate consignee, through its secretary-treasurer, surreptitiously removed merchandise from car, indictment charging them with soliciting rebate and concession from railroad by falsely claiming loss of merchandise during transportation sufficiently stated an offense under Elkins Act, as against contention that offense, if any, was against Interstate Commerce Act relating to fraud in obtaining transportation at rate less than established rate.—U S. v. Satuloff Bros., C C A.N.Y, 79 F.2d 846

(3) Indictments charging that defendants unlawfully and knowingly by means of false claims for loss and damage to property solicited rebates from common carriers are sustainable as charging crimes under Elkins Act prohibiting solicitation of rebates from common carries—U S. v. Altman, D C.N Y, 8 F Supp. 880.

Willfulness

An indictment under the Elkins Act is not insufficient because the word "willful" is omitted, since the charge amounts to an allegation of unlawful intent—U. S. v Altman, D. C N Y, 8 F Supp. 880

78. Device

(1) Since the device by which a re-

The material allegations of the indictment must be proved, such as the tender of payment of rebate, by or on behalf of the carrier, and its receipt by or on behalf of the shipper;[79] but immaterial allegations, such as fraud, need not be proved.[80]

In a prosecution for rebating in the application of transit rates to certain local shipments, evidence that one of the cars was sold to a railroad company and transported over its own line for a part of the outgoing distance, and that the charges for such portion of the distance were absorbed by it, did not constitute a fatal variance.[81]

Evidence. In accordance with the usual rules of evidence in criminal cases, otherwise proper evidence which tends to show the guilt or innocence of accused of the offense charged in the indictment is admissible,[82] and, to sustain a conviction, the state must prove accused's guilt beyond a reasonable doubt.[83] Where an interstate railroad company applied lower transit rates to shipments which were entitled only to local rates, the shipper's agents would be presumed to have knowledge of the rate applicable, which knowledge was imputable to the shipper.[84]

d. Receiving Discrimination

Any discrimination or advantage given to a shipper or other person, other than in the matter of rates, is condemned by the Elkins Act as amended and the receipt of such discrimination is an indictable offense.

The Elkins Act is not restricted in its provisions to departures from the established tariff rate, but is violated if any other advantage is given to a shipper, whereby discrimination is practiced.[85] Unjust bate is brought about is not an essential element of the offense denounced by the Elkins Act, it is unnecessary to plead it in the indictment—Armour Packing Co v. U. S., Mo., 153 F. 1, 82 C.C.A. 135, 14 L.R.A., N.S., 400, affirmed 28 S.Ct. 428, 209 U.S. 56, 52 L.Ed. 681.

(2) Where such matter is included in the indictment it may be disregarded as surplusage—U. S. v. Altman, D.C.N.Y., 8 F.Supp. 880.

Posting of tariffs

An indictment is not insufficient for failing to allege that the schedules and tariffs alleged to have been violated were posted in the manner required by law.—U. S. v. Miller, Ga., 32 S.Ct. 323, 223 U.S. 599, 56 L.Ed. 568, reversing, C.C., 187 F. 375.

Rates

(1) The indictment need not allege that the carrier's published rate was a reasonable rate nor set out its tariffs in full, it is sufficient to aver that a certain named rate was in force between designated points as shown by the published tariffs—U. S. v. Standard Oil Co., D.C.Ill., 148 F. 719.

(2) Likewise it is not necessary to name any other shipper who was required to pay a different rate, as is the case where discrimination is charged—U. S. v. Vacuum Oil Co., D.C.N.Y., 153 F. 598

(3) An indictment charging the shipper with having received a rebate from the joint rate published and filed by a carrier need not specifically charge that such rate was required to be filed by the statute, where it alleges that it was published and filed as required by law.—U. S. v. Vacuum Oil Co., supra.

(4) On the other hand, an indictment which charges that there was an arrangement between several carriers having connecting lines for the continuous transportation of property over such lines between certain points, and that the lowest total rate, as shown by the published tariffs of such several carriers, was a certain sum on a particular product, but that such product was transported for accused at a lower rate, is bad, in that it does not negative the existence of a joint through rate lower than the total of the local rate.—U. S. v Standard Oil Co., supra.

79. U.S.—U. S. v. Bunch, D.C.Ark., 165 F. 736
10 C.J. p 604 note 13.

80. U.S.—U. S. v. Altman, D.C.N.Y., 8 F.Supp. 880.

81. U.S.—Nichols & Cox Lumber Co v. U. S., Mich., 212 F. 588, 129 C.C.A. 124.

82. Carrier subject to act

It may be shown that the carrier giving the alleged rebate was subject to the provisions of the statute.—U. S. v. Camden Iron Works, D.C.Pa., 150 F. 214, reversed on other grounds 158 F. 561, 85 C.C.A. 585—10 C.J. p 604 note 27.

Conversations

In prosecution against corporate consignee and its secretary-treasurer for soliciting rebate and concession from railroad by falsely claiming shortage, corporation's truck driver was properly permitted to testify regarding conversation with secretary-treasurer's uncle near car, whereby uncle directed driver to remove merchandise therefrom, since uncle's testimony indicated his presence and jury could have found that he had authority to give such direction.—U. S. v. Satuloff Bros., C.C.A.N.Y., 79 F.2d 846.

Judgment for consignee

In a prosecution against a corporate consignee and its secretary for soliciting a rebate by falsely claiming a shortage after surreptitiously removing merchandise from a car, a judgment for the consignee in an action against the carrier for the loss is inadmissible either on the theory of res judicata or as presumptive proof of what happened to the merchandise—U. S. v. Satuloff Bros., C.C.A.N.Y., 79 F.2d 846.

Shipment over several lines

Where the prosecution is for receiving rebates on a shipment over the lines of more than one carrier, any evidence tending to show that the shipment was made under a through bill of lading, or on a contract for continuous carriage by the several carriers, is admissible to prove that such carriers were used for the purpose of the shipment under a common control, management, or arrangement of continuous carriage, and the schedules of rates filed with the interstate commerce commission by the several carriers are admissible for the purpose of showing the lawful rate on such shipment.—U. S. v. Camden Iron Works, D.C.Pa., 150 F. 214, reversed on other grounds 158 F. 561, 85 C.C.A. 585.

83. Evidence sufficient for jury

In prosecution for soliciting rebate and concession, evidence was sufficient for jury on charge that corporate consignee, through its secretary-treasurer, surreptitiously removed certain merchandise from car in absence of railroad's checker, creating shortage later claimed.—U. S. v. Satuloff Bros., C.C.A.N.Y., 79 F.2d 846 discrimination and favoritism of all kinds are condemned by the statute, and the question whether the existing conditions justify the difference in rates charged is one to be determined as one of fact on the trial.[86] Under the Hepburn amendment of the Elkins Act providing that a shipper who is permitted to settle his charges by paying a less or a different compensation to the carrier than is required of other shippers operating under the same or similar circumstances accepts or receives a discrimination, receiving payment by note is receiving "a different compensation" within the meaning of the statute, and the shipper from whom such note is received is guilty of a violation of the statute.[87] The use of a false claim for loss or damage to property as a device for soliciting rebates and concessions from common carriers is specifically prohibited by the Interstate Commerce Act, as discussed infra § 526, but that fact does not preclude indictment and trial under the Elkins Act for use of the same device, since the elements of the indictments are not identical nor is the proof necessary to support the one identical with that necessary to support the other.[88] Where accused by misrepresentations obtain transportation despite a railroad embargo, thus violating the Elkins Act, prosecution cannot be defeated because the embargo had not been submitted to the interstate commerce commission and its reasonableness ascertained and adjudicated,[89] nor may it be defeated on the theory that such commission should first determine whether the actions of the shippers constituted a violation of the Act.[90]

84. U.S.—Nichols & Cox Lumber Co. v. U. S., Mich., 212 F. 588.

85. U.S.—U. S. v. Michigan Portland Cement Co., Mich., 46 S.Ct. 395, 270 U.S. 521, 70 L.Ed. 713.
10 C.J. p 605 note 31.

Indictment. Unlike an indictment charging a shipper with taking a rebate or concession which need not name any other shipper who is required to pay a different rate, such an averment is necessary where the indictment is based on unjust discrimination.[91] An indictment charging a violation of the Elkins Act, in that accused by misrepresentations obtained the transportation of goods on which a governmental embargo had been laid, sufficiently alleges a discrimination, where it shows that other persons were denied the same transportation services which defendants enjoyed, and is not defective on the theory that the president's assent to the embargo was not alleged, since it was obvious that he must act through agents.[92] An indictment for receiving discrimination from an interstate railroad does not show a violation of an order of the interstate commerce commission giving hospitals priority with respect to furnishing cars for coal, by ordering and obtaining coal ostensibly for a hospital and then diverting it, where it is not alleged that the coal for which the cars were so furnished was not required by the hospital.[93]

§ 525. Shipping Dangerous Goods without Giving Notice of Their Character

Under statutes so providing, it is an indictable offense to transport dangerous goods by any common carrier without giving notice of their character to such carrier.

In some jurisdictions statutes exist making the sending of dangerous goods by railroad without notice to the carrier of their dangerous character a criminal offense.[94]

The illegal transportation of explosives will be discussed in the C.J.S. title Explosives § 12, also 25 C.J. p 214 note 69–p 215 note 77.

§ 526. Other Offenses

Under provision of the Interstate Commerce Act, one who willfully by false billing or other fraudulent representation seeks to obtain transportation from a common carrier at less than regular rates is guilty of a misdemeanor. Under some statutes the tapping of a pipe line, conduit, or storage tank is an indictable offense.

The Interstate Commerce Act, 49 U.S.C.A. § 10, provides, among other things, that any person or corporation or any agent or officer thereof, who shall knowingly and willfully by false billing, false classification, false weight, false representations of the contents of a package or the substance of the property, false statement or any other device or means, without the consent or connivance of the carrier, obtain or attempt to obtain transportation of such property at less than the regular rates, shall be deemed guilty of fraud, which is declared to be a misdemeanor. The purpose of this provision is to protect the carrier against accusations for any of such acts where it could not observe the contents of the shipment, and against liability to innocent purchasers of bills of lading who may rely on the carrier's description in the bill of lading in purchas-

86. U.S.—U. S v Vacuum Oil Co., D C N.Y., 153 F. 598

87. U.S.—U. S v. Sunday Creek Co, D C.Ohio, 194 F. 252, affirming, C. C A., 210 F. 747.

88. U.S.—U S v. Altman, D.C.N.Y., 8 F.Supp 880.

89. U.S.—U S. v. Metropolitan Lumber Co, D C.N J., 254 F 335

90. U.S.—U S. v. Metropolitan Lumber Co, supra.

91. U.S.—U. S v. Vacuum Oil Co., D C N.Y, 153 F. 598

92. U.S.—U. S. v. Metropolitan Lumber Co., D C.N.J, 254 F. 335.

93. U.S.—U. S v. P. Koenig Coal Co., D C.Mich., 291 F. 385.

94. U S.—Horn v. Mitchell, Mass., 232 F 819, 147 C.C.A. 13, appeal dismissed 37 S Ct 293, 243 U S 247, 61 L Ed 700—Ryan v. U. S., Ind., 216 F 13, 132 C.C.A. 257.
10 C.J. p 605 note 47.

ing the property.[95] The gist of the offense under this section is the fraud of obtaining transportation at a rate less than the established rate by means of false billing or other fraudulent device.[96] An indictment will not lie under this section for giving or receiving rebates.[97] A shipper is guilty of false representation, rendering him subject to prosecution under the statute, where he describes the contents of a car so as intentionally to conceal its true character, and induces the carrier to charge him a less rate than is legally applicable.[98] On the other hand, the fixing of the value of property in a bill of lading at less than its actual value, for the purpose of limiting the amount of the carrier's liability in case of loss, is not a false billing in violation of the statute,[99] and the designation of a typewriter, dictionary, wearing apparel, trunk, and personal effects as emigrant movables is not a violation of the act.[1] The offense may be committed in securing an adjustment of the freight after delivery of the goods to the consignee.[2] The statute applies to consignees as well as to consignors of interstate shipments.[3]

In a prosecution under this statute, which also makes it an offense to obtain lower rates by filing a false claim for damages, the fact that the claim paid was no greater than the amount which the consignees were entitled to receive under a correct application of the law of damages is immaterial, where the payment of the claim reduced the compensation of the carrier below what it received at the regular rates.[4]

An indictment under this statute is usually sufficient if framed in the language of the statute.[5] It is not necessary that the different tariffs should be averred verbatim, the gravamen of the offense being the misrepresentation by which the rate was obtained.[6] Of course, there must be no material variance between the indictment and the proof.[7]

In prosecutions of this character, as in other criminal cases, the state must prove the guilt of accused beyond a reasonable doubt.[8] Otherwise proper evidence which tends to prove the guilt or innocence of accused is admissible.[9]

Tapping pipe line. Under a statute making it a criminal offense unlawfully to tap any pipe line, conduit, or storage tank constructed to transport or store petroleum products, the tapping of a pipe line with intent to appropriate any of the contents is a complete offense whether or not such appropriation or taking is in fact made.[10] This statute is not limited to common carrier pipe lines, but applies as well to private pipe lines.[11]

An indictment in the language of the statute for tapping a pipe line with intent to appropriate a por-

95. N.Y.—Schwalb v. Erie R. Co., 293 N.Y.S. 842, 161 Misc. 743.

96. U.S.—U. S. v. Satuloff Bros., C.C.A.N.Y., 79 F.2d 846.

97. U.S.—U. S. v. Hanley, D.C.Ill., 71 F. 672.

98. U.S.—U. S. v. Sterling Salt Co., D.C.N.Y., 200 F. 593.

99. U.S.—George N. Pierce Co. v. Wells Fargo & Co., N.Y., 189 F. 561, 110 C.C.A. 645, affirmed 35 S. Ct. 351, 236 U.S. 278, 59 L.Ed. 576.

1. Minn.—O'Connor v. Great Northern R. Co., 136 N.W. 743, 118 Minn. 223.

2. U.S.—U. S. v. Union Mfg. Co., Fla., 36 S.Ct. 420, 240 U.S. 605, 60 L.Ed. 822.
10 C.J. p 605 note 41.

3. U.S.—U. S. v. Wishnatzki, C.C.A.N.Y., 77 F.2d 357, reversing, D.C., 7 F.Supp. 313.
10 C.J. p 605 note 42.

4. U.S.—U. S. v. Wishnatzki, supra.

Amount of damage to goods carried by carload lot on an interstate bill of lading should, in a prosecution for filing false claims for damages, be determined from the weighted average of sales prices of sound goods in the particular car, in view of the settled practice between carriers and consignees.—U. S. v. Wishnatzki, D.C.N.Y., 7 F.Supp. 313, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 77 F.2d 357

5. U.S.—U. S. v. Sterling Salt Co., D.C.N.Y., 200 F. 593.

6. U.S.—U. S. v. Sterling Salt Co., supra.

7. U.S.—U. S. v. Howell, D.C.Mo., 56 F. 21.
10 C.J. p 605 note 44.

8. U.S.—U. S. v. Wishnatzki, C.C.A.N.Y., 77 F.2d 357, reversing, D.C., 7 F.Supp. 313.

Evidence held insufficient

(1) In prosecution under statute making it an offense to obtain lower railroad rates by false claim for damages, evidence showing that defendant certified claim and was unable some two years later to produce slips from which information was obtained or corresponding sales tickets was insufficient to support conviction.—U. S. v. Wishnatzki, C.C.A.N.Y., 77 F.2d 357, reversing, D.C., 7 F.Supp. 313.

(2) Evidence held insufficient to take question of filing of claim to jury.—Laser Grain Co. v. U. S., Mo., 250 F. 826, 163 C.C.A. 140.

Filing of claim

Where an indictment charged that accused filed a claim with a carrier in an attempt to obtain excessive damages in violation of this act, proof of filing, which is not complete until the document is delivered, is essential to conviction.—Laser Grain Co. v. U. S., Mo., 250 F. 826, 163 C.C.A. 140

9. Acts and statements

Where it is asserted that a claim against a carrier is fraudulent and that pressing such claim is a violation of this statute, the acts and sayings of one prosecuting or pressing the claim are generally admissible on the question of intent.—Laser Grain Co. v. U. S., Mo., 250 F. 826, 163 C.C.A. 140.

Establishment of rate

As evidence of the establishment of the rate, the jury may consider the testimony of those employees of the carrier having charge of that branch of its business, and also the fact that they posted a notice stating that schedules of rates could be inspected on application to its agent. —U. S. v. Howell, D.C.Mo., 56 F. 21.

10. Tex.—Williams v. State, Cr., 109 S.W.2d 489.

Evidence held sufficient to sustain a conviction against accused for tapping a pipe line and drawing gasoline therefrom.—Williams v. State, Tex.Cr., 109 S.W.2d 489.

11. Tex.—Williams v. State, supra.

tion of the contents to accused's use and benefit is sufficient, even though it does not allege an intent to deprive the owner of the value thereof.[12] Of course, a material variance between the indictment and proof in prosecutions of this character is fatal, but immaterial variances are not fatal.[13]

On a trial for tapping a pipe line with intent to appropriate a portion of the contents in violation of statute, it is not necessary to define the word "tapping" where there is no controverted issue as to the tapping, nor as to accused's act coming within the meaning of the term; nor is it necessary to define a "pipe line" as the term has a well-understood meaning; nor does the failure to define gas or casing-head gasoline as injurious to accused, since the taking of any property from the pipe line regardless of its value would constitute the offense.[14]

Y. LIABILITY OF SHIPPER OR CONSIGNEE TO CARRIER FOR TORTIOUS ACT

§ 527. In General

In the absence of an agreement to the contrary, a shipper or consignee is liable to the carrier for injury to the carrier's cars only when such damage was due to their negligence. The shipper may be liable to the carrier for goods in the possession of the carrier for shipment which were destroyed through the negligence of the shipper.

Where a carrier has placed cars on a siding for a shipper to load, and they escape and are injured, the doctrine of res ipsa loquitur has been held not to apply so as to raise a presumption of the shipper's negligence.[15] Also in an action by a carrier against a shipper for damages from loss by fire to a car during loading, where the carrier delivered the car to the shipper and the weather required a fire to preserve the goods from frost, the shipper does not have the burden of proving that his negligence did not cause the damage occasioned by a fire in the car before it was fully loaded and while under his control, the bailment of the car in such instance being for mutual benefit, and the shipper is not an insurer of the car while in his possession.[16]

The consignee is liable to the carrier for damages caused to its trains through his negligence in unloading freight which has been delivered to him in a car; it is his duty, in exercising his privilege of going on the carrier's right of way to procure his goods, to exercise it in such a way as not to inflict injury to the other's property.[17] Also, where the carrier had built a siding on defendant's property to receive and deliver freight to defendant, and where the contract between them provided that defendant should be liable for all loss or damage not caused by the carrier's negligence, where the carrier placed cars on the siding to be unloaded by defendant, if such cars are injured, even though not by the negligence of either party, defendant is liable therefor.[18]

Where the shipper, through his negligence in unloading goods at the carrier's station for shipment by it, injures or destroys other goods held by the carrier for shipment, the shipper will be liable therefor.[19] Under such circumstances, the amount paid by the carrier's claim department to the shippers who filed claims for goods claimed to have been destroyed by defendant's negligence is not the true measure of damage, as the carrier is liable to the shippers for the fair market value of their shipments.[20]

Goods of greater weight than represented by 12. Tex.—Williams v. State, supra.

13. Variances not fatal

(1) Where an indictment alleges that a pipe line was constructed to transport casing-head gas and was used for that purpose and that accused tapped the pipe line with intent to appropriate a part of the contents and the evidence showed that the line was constructed and used for such purpose, the state's case does not fail because it shows that accused took casing-head gasoline and not casing-head gas—Williams v. State, Tex.Cr., 109 S.W.2d 489.

(2) On a trial for tapping a pipe line constructed and used for transporting casing-head gas, where the evidence shows defendant took gasoline from the pipe line and that a compressor machine which converted the vapor gas into liquid gasoline was operated two or three times each week, the failure to prove that it was being operated the night the offense was committed does not constitute a failure to prove the averment that the line was used to transport casing-head gas.—Williams v State, supra.

14. Tex.—Williams v. State, Cr., 109 S.W.2d 489.

15. Utah.—Denver & R. G. R. Co. v Ashton-Whyte-Skillicorn Co., 162 P. 83, 49 Utah 82, L.R.A.1917C 768

16. Mich.—Pennsylvania R. Co v Dennis' Estate, 204 N.W. 89, 231 Mich. 367.

17. N.Y.—New York, etc., R. Co. v Atlantic Refining Co., 29 N.E. 829, 129 N.Y. 597, reversing 13 N.Y.S. 466.

10 C.J. p. 606 note 49.

18. N.J.—Central R. R. of New Jersey v Bayway Refining Co., 79 A. 292, 81 N.J.Law 456, Ann.Cas.1912D 77.

19. Spilling acid

Where a shipper unloads a barrel of formic acid on a freight platform of a railroad company in such a negligent manner that the barrel breaks, and its acid contents flow over a quantity of meat which had been deposited by another shipper on the same platform, and the meat is wholly or partially destroyed, the railroad company may maintain an action in its own name against the negligent wrongdoer to recover for the injury to the meat.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Farrell, 64 Pa.Super. 296.

20. U.S.—W. A. Hover & Co. v. Denver & R. G. W. R. Co., C.C.A.Colo., 17 F.2d 881.

shipper. It is not a part of the implied contract of shipment that a shipper should declare the true weight of an article shipped, and he will not be liable for negligence in understanding the weight of an article of this character which an injury occurs because the tackle used is insufficient, although adequate for the weight stated.[21]

§ 528. Shipment of Dangerous Articles

It is the duty of one shipping dangerous articles to notify the carrier of their character, and a failure to do so subjects the shipper to liability for resultant damages.

A shipper desiring to ship a dangerous article by a carrier has a right to do so if the carrier will accept it for transportation; but on delivering it, it is the duty of the shipper to inform the carrier fully of its dangerous character, in order that transportation may be declined, or if it accepted that suitable provision may be made against any danger from it, and a failure to give the carrier such notice will subject the shipper to liability for all damages caused by the articles shipped.[22] The duty does not arise from any contract, express or implied, but from the principle expressed in the maxim, Sic utere tuo ut alienum non lædas.[23] It has been said, however, that "in every shipment there is an implied contract on the part of the shipper that his goods are not of such a character as to cause injury to other goods, and that, no matter how innocent or how ignorant he may have been of their real character, the law will impute to him knowledge of the fact, inasmuch as he has had a better opportunity of acquiring it than any other person."[24] Where the goods are delivered to the carrier by the shipper's agent who has full knowledge of the dangerous character of the goods, the fact that such agent may be liable criminally will not affect his principal's liability to respond in damages to the carrier.[25] Where a consignee orders from different manufacturers two kinds of dangerous articles, and each manufacturer delivers to the carrier the articles ordered of him, without knowing of the shipment by the other of a similar article, and without informing the carrier of the dangerous nature of the goods, and an injury results, each of the shippers is liable in a joint action for the whole damages resulting, but there is no liability on the part of the consignee.[26]

In an action against a shipper for damages caused by his failure to comply with a regulation of the interstate commerce commission that certain substances must be shipped in metal cans or drums of a certain specification, the carrier has the burden of proving that the damages were caused by a failure to comply with the regulation.[27]

III. CARRIERS OF PASSENGERS

A. DEFINITION AND GENERAL NATURE

§ 529. In General

A carrier of passengers is one which undertakes to transport persons from place to place and is distinguishable from a carrier of goods.

A carrier of passengers is one that undertakes the transportation of persons,[28] a person or corporation who undertakes to transport or convey persons from one place to another, gratuitously or for hire.[29] Such a carrier may be either a special or private carrier, or a public or common carrier.[30]

A carrier of passengers is to be distinguished from a carrier of goods not only as to the extent of the liability, but also as to the nature of the contract. The carriage of goods is a bailment, and the liability arising therefrom for injuries to the goods is a liability arising out of the contract, whereas the carriage of passengers is not a contract of bailment,[31] and the liability of the carrier for injuries to passengers depends entirely on negligence, and is sometimes said, as regards common carriers, to 21. N.Y.—Hanna v Pitt, 106 N.Y.S 145, 121 App Div. 420.

22. U.S.—International Mercantile Mar. Co. v. Fels, N Y, 170 F. 275, 95 C.C A 471, 18 Ann Cas 18
Mass —Boston, etc, R. Co. v Shanly, 107 Mass. 568.
10 C.J. p 606 note 50.
Liability for transportation of explosives see C.J S. title Explosives § 9, also 25 C.J. p 198 note 85–p 199 note 97.

23. Mass —Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Shanly, supra.

24. U S.—Pierce v. Winsor, D.C. Mass., 19 F Cas No.11,151, 2 Sprague 35

25. N Y.—Barney v. Burstenbinder, 7 Trans 210, 64 Barb. 212.

26. Mass.—Boston, etc., R. Co. v Shanly, 107 Mass. 568

27. U S —W. A. Hover & Co. v. Denver & R. G. W. R. Co., C.C A.Colo., 17 F.2d 881.

28. Abbott L.D.

29. Wash.—Cushing v. White, 172 P. 229, 230, 101 Wash. 172, L.R.A. 1918F 463.
Operator for hire of school motorbus. who operates along a certain route every school day in taking all school children alike to and from a certain school, is a carrier of passengers in so far as such school children are concerned.—Sheffield v. Lovering, 180 S.E. 523, 51 Ga.App. 353.

30. Wash —Cushing v. White, 172 P 229, 101 Wash. 172, L R.A.1918F 463.

31. U.S —Boyce v. Anderson, Ky., 2 Pet. 150, 7 L Ed. 379.
S.C.—McDonald v. Clark, 15 S.C.L. 223.

arise out of a public duty to carry safely imposed by law.[32] The distinction between a carrier of passengers and a carrier of goods is aptly exemplified in the case of the transportation of passengers and the transportation of baggage by a common carrier; the carrier is at the same time a carrier of passengers and a carrier of goods, its liability as carrier in the former case depending on its negligence, whereas in the latter case the carrier is liable for all injuries not caused by an act of God or of the public enemy.[33]

§ 530. Public or Common Carrier in General

A public or common carrier of passengers is one which, as a regular business, undertakes for hire to carry all persons, within certain limitations, who may apply for passage, and holds itself out as engaged in such business.

The terms, "public" or "common" carrier, in the modern sense include carriers of passengers as well as of goods;[34] and as such, a public or common carrier of passengers is a quasi-public agency enjoying a public franchise or privilege,[35] although to constitute a public conveyance a common carrier, it is not necessary that it come within the definition of a public utility, so as to be subjected to the rules and regulations of a public utility commission.[36]

Public or common carriers of passengers, like common carriers of goods, are engaged in a public calling which imposes on them a duty to serve all without discrimination, as will be explained in § 538;[37] and they owe to their passengers a degree of care and protection different from that which may be exacted of persons who do not thus hold themselves out as serving the public in such capacity.[38] Therefore, the question whether or not one who furnishes transportation to individuals is a public carrier may be important for the purpose of determining his duty as to serving all who may apply, and also the care and prudence which he is required to exercise. For either purpose a public or common carrier of passengers may be defined as one who undertakes for hire to carry all persons, indifferently, who may apply for passage, as long as there is room and there is no legal excuse for refusing;[39] one who, by virtue of his calling and as a regular business, undertakes to transport persons from place to place, offering his services to such as may choose to employ him and pay his charges.[40]

32. N.Y.—Brewer v. New York, etc., R. Co., 26 N.E. 324, 124 N.Y. 59, 21 Am.S.R. 647, 11 L.R.A. 483.
Liability as dependent on negligence generally see infra § 676.

33. U.S.—Stokes v. Saltonstall, Md., 13 Pet. 181, 10 L.Ed. 115.
10 C.J. p 607 note 70.
Liability for baggage see infra §§ 867, 868.
Liability for injuries only in case of negligence see infra § 676.

34. Me.—Chaput v. Lussier, 165 A. 573, 574, 132 Me. 48.
N.Y.—Anderson v. Fidelity & Casualty Co. of New York, 127 N.E. 584, 228 N.Y. 475, 9 A.L.R. 1544, affirming 170 N.Y.S. 431, 183 App. Div. 170, which modifies 166 N.Y.S. 640, 100 Misc. 411.

At common law the term "common carrier" did not embrace a carrier of persons.
Ga.—Georgia Cent. R. Co. v. Lippman, 36 S.E. 202, 110 Ga. 665, 672, 50 L.R.A. 673.
N.H.—Elkins v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 23 N.H. 275, 284.

35. N.J.—Sheridan v. New Jersey & N. Y. R. Co., 141 A. 811, 104 N.J. 622

36. Wis.—Anderson v. Yellow Cab Co., 191 N.W. 748, 179 Wis. 300, 31 A.L.R. 1197.

37. This statement in Corpus Juris has been judicially approved.—North American Acc. Ins. Co. v. Pitts, 104 So. 21, 24, 213 Ala. 102, 40 A.L.R. 1171.

38. Conn.—Stanley v. Steele, 60 A. 640, 77 Conn. 688, 693, 2 Ann.Cas. 561.

Text of Corpus Juris is cited with approval in Sheffield v. Lovering, 180 S.E. 523, 524, 51 Ga.App. 353.
Degree of care required in general see infra § 678.

39. Ala.—Hood v. State, 162 So. 541, 542, 26 Ala.App. 507, reversed on other grounds 162 So. 543, 230 Ala. 343.
Ill.—Austin Bros. Transfer Co. v. Bloom, 147 N.E. 387, 388, 316 Ill. 435.
Mich.—Melcoman v. City of Grand Rapids, 188 N.W. 521, 523, 218 Mich. 397.
N.J.—Schott v. Weiss, 105 A. 192, 193, 92 N.J.Law 494.
Pa.—Lazor v. Ranas, 174 A. 817, 819, 114 Pa.Super. 425.
Tex.—Burnett v. Riter, Civ.App., 276 S.W. 347, 349.
Va.—Riggsby v. Tritton, 129 S.E. 493, 494, 143 Va. 903, 45 A.L.R. 280, motion denied 133 S.E. 580, 45 A.L.R. 280.
10 C.J. p 607 notes 62, 63.

This definition as given in Corpus Juris has received judicial approval.
Ala.—North American Acc. Ins. Co. v. Pitts, 104 So. 21, 24, 213 Ala. 102, 40 A.L.R. 1171.
Ill.—Rathbun v. Ocean Accident & Guarantee Corporation, 132 N.E. 754, 755, 299 Ill. 562, 19 A.L.R. 140, reversing 219 Ill.App. 514.

Similar definition
"One who professes to carry for all . . . who apply."—Utica-Clayville Bus Co. v. Waite, 252 N.Y.S. 673, 676, 233 App.Div. 297—10 C.J. p 607 note 62 [a]

"Public," which carrier must serve to constitute common carrier, does not mean everybody all the time—State ex rel. Anderson v. Witthaus, Mo., 102 S.W.2d 99.

40. U.S.—Sanger v. Lukens, D.C. Idaho, 24 F.2d 226, 228, reversed on other grounds C.C.A., 26 F.2d 855—McCoy v. Pacific Spruce Corporation, C.C.A.Or., 1 F.2d 853, 855, affirming Pacific Spruce Corporation v. McCoy, D.C. 294 F. 711.
Mont.—Stoner v. Underseth, 277 P. 437, 441, 85 Mont. 11.
Or.—Anderson v. Smith-Powers Logging Co., 139 P. 736, 739, 71 Or. 276, L.R.A.1916B 1089.

Similar definitions
(1) "One who holds himself out to the public, to carry persons . . . for hire."—Ace-High Dresses v. J. C. Trucking Co., 191 A. 536, 538, 122 Conn. 578.

(2) "One who undertakes for hire to transport from place to place such persons . . . as choose to employ it."—Chicago & E. I. Ry. Co. v. Chicago Heights Terminal Transfer R. Co., 147 N.E. 666, 668, 317 Ill. 65, error dismissed 46 S.Ct. 207, 270 U.S.

Holding out. To constitute a carrier a common carrier of passengers it is necessary that it hold itself out to the public as engaged in the business of carrying passengers,[41] the holding out being either by advertising or by actually engaging in the business and pursuing the occupation as an employment.[42] The real test, therefore, as to whether or not, in a particular case, a carrier is a common carrier of passengers, is whether it holds itself out to the public as engaged in the business of carrying passengers, and that it will, so long as it has room, carry persons coming to it for that purpose,[43] rather than the quantity or extent of the business actually transacted, or the number and character of the conveyances used in the employment.[44] A carrier does not become a public or common carrier of passengers merely because it is engaged in transporting persons, or because the person or persons served take all its facilities;[45] and although in a sense every person, firm, or corporation operating a motor vehicle for hire is a contract carrier, every such contract carrier is not a common carrier.[46] One is not a common carrier of passengers, who occasionally carries a passenger as a matter of special accommodation and agreement,[47] or who transports the employees of another over a regular route pursuant to a contract of carriage,[48] and the fact that the owner of a private automobile hires it to certain friends but not to everybody does not indicate that his automobile is devoted to the business of a common carrier.[49]

The destination of, or distance to be traveled by, the passenger is immaterial in determining whether 626, 70 L.Ed. 767—McCusker v. Curtiss Wright Flying Service, 269 Ill. App. 502, 521.

(3) "One whose occupation is the transportation of persons . . . from place to place for hire or reward, and who holds himself out to the world as ready and willing to serve the public indifferently in the particular line or department in which he is engaged."—Independent Truck Co. v. Wright, 275 P. 726, 151 Wash. 372—Cushing v. White, 172 P. 229, 230, 101 Wash. 172, L.R.A.1919F 463.

41. Ala.—Hood v. State, 162 So. 541, 26 Ala.App. 507, reversed on other grounds 162 So. 543, 230 Ala. 343.
Ill.—Rathbun v. Ocean Accident & Guarantee Corporation, 132 N.E. 754, 299 Ill. 562, 19 A.L.R. 140, reversing 219 Ill.App. 514.
N.J.—Schott v. Weiss, 105 A. 192, 92 N.J.Law 494
N.Y.—Utica-Clayville Bus Co. v. Waite, 252 N.Y.S. 673, 233 App.Div. 297.
10 C.J. p. 607 note 64.

42. Ill.—Rathbun v. Ocean Accident & Guarantee Corporation, 132 N.E. 754, 755, 299 Ill. 562, 19 A.L.R. 140, reversing 219 Ill.App. 514.
N.H.—Bernardi Greater Shows v. Boston & M. R. R., 165 A. 124, 86 N.H. 146.
Tenn.—Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Messino, 1 Sneed 220, 225.

It "does not necessarily consist in public declarations or advertisement; the undertaking may be evidenced by the carrier's own notice, or, practically, by a series of acts, by his known habitual continuance in the line of business; one who follows carrying for a livelihood, or who gives out to the world in any intelligible way that he will take . . . persons for transportation for hire, is a common carrier . . . and this is so although the carrier has no fixed schedule of charges, does not operate over a definite route, does not always load his vehicle to capacity, and refuses, on occasion, to accept . . . passengers whether his vehicle is engaged or not"—Stoner v. Underseth, 277 P. 437, 441, 85 Mont. 11.

Use of his facilities must be so extensive as to imply an offer to serve entire public, or there must be other circumstances reasonably warranting inference that he was undertaking to serve all to the limit of his capacity.—State ex rel. Anderson v. Witthaus, Mo., 102 S.W.2d 99.

43. Pa.—Klawansky v. Public Service Commission of Pennsylvania, 187 A. 248, 123 Pa.Super. 375—City Transfer Co. v. Public Service Commission, 93 Pa.Super. 210.
Tex.—Burnett v. Riter, Civ.App., 276 S.W. 347.
Wash.—Independent Truck Co. v. Wright, 275 P. 726, 151 Wash. 372—Cushing v. White, 172 P. 229, 101 Wash. 172, L.R.A.1919F 463.

Question must be determined by character of business actually carried on by the carrier and not by any secret intention or mental reservation it may entertain or assert when charged with the duties and obligations which the law imposes.—Independent Truck Co. v. Wright, 275 P. 726, 151 Wash. 372—Cushing v. White, 172 P. 229, 101 Wash. 172, L.R.A.1919F 463.

44. Wash.—Independent Truck Co. v. Wright, 275 P. 726, 151 Wash. 372—Cushing v. White, 172 P. 229, 101 Wash. 172, L.R.A.1919F 463.

45. Mo.—State ex rel. Anderson v. Witthaus, 102 S.W.2d 99.
Pa.—Klawansky v. Public Service Commission of Pennsylvania, 187 A. 248, 123 Pa.Super. 375.

Contractor to carry mail between a railroad station and the post office in a town is not a common carrier with regard to the railway mail clerk, although required to carry him with the mail.—Davis v. Crisham, 99 N.E. 959, 213 Mass. 151.

46. Ala.—Hood v. State, 162 So. 541, 26 Ala.App. 507, reversed on other grounds 162 So. 543, 230 Ala. 343.

47. N.H.—Murch v. Concord R. Corp., 29 N.H. 9, 61 Am.D. 631.
Pa.—Harder v. Public Service Commission, 90 Pa.Super. 373.

Company which does not solicit business on the streets or other public places, and which is under no obligation and does not hold itself out as being ready and willing to furnish such services to the public at fixed charges, is not a common carrier of passengers because of the fact that it rents a car and chauffeur to persons, in the absence of a statute or ordinance requiring a license for such services.—Tracy v. Grand Concourse Service Co., 192 N.Y.S. 88, 199 App.Div. 348.

One occasionally renting motor trucks, used by him in his general transfer business for transferring freight, to carry passengers to and from picnic grounds on Sundays and holidays, is not a common carrier of passengers, but a private carrier for hire.—Gornstein v. Priver, 221 P. 396, 64 Cal.App. 249.

48. N.H.—Dover, S. & R. St. Ry. Co. v. Wentworth, 149 A. 505, 84 N.H. 258.

Person transporting certain persons to and from their place of employment at a specified weekly rate is not a common carrier.—Utica-Clayville Bus Co. v. Waite, 252 N.Y.S. 673, 233 App.Div. 297.

49. Ark.—Forbes v. Reinman, 166 S.W. 563, 112 Ark. 417, 51 L.R.A., N.S., 1164
Porto Rico.—Velez v. Llavina, 18 Porto Rico 634.

the carrier is or is not a common carrier.[50]

Public and private carrier distinguished. The distinction between a public or common carrier of passengers and a special or private carrier of the same is that it is the duty of the former to receive all who apply for passage, so long as there is room and no legal excuse for refusing, while such duty does not rest on the latter,[51] and this distinction, as stated in Corpus Juris, has received judicial approval.[52]

Transportation of baggage. A local carrier or transfer company engaged in the business of transferring baggage to and from railroad or steamship depots, or between different parts of a town or city, is a common carrier;[53] and it has been held that the proprietor of a line of taxicabs, omnibuses, and baggage wagons is a common carrier as to baggage received for transportation.[54]

§ 531. Private Carrier in General

A private carrier of passengers is one who, without being engaged in such business as a public employment, undertakes to deliver passengers for hire or reward, or even gratuitously.

A private carrier of passengers, is one who, without being engaged in such business as a public employment, undertakes to deliver passengers for hire or reward;[55] one who agrees, by special agreement or contract, to transport persons from one place to another, either gratuitously or for hire[56] The same person or corporation may be engaged in one line of business as a common carrier of passengers and in another line of business as a private carrier.[57]

§ 532. Railroads; Street Railroads

A railroad or street railroad is, generally, from the very nature of its business, a public or common carrier of passengers.

Railroad companies are generally by the nature of their business public carriers of passengers,[58] and bound to carry to the extent of the capacity of their passenger trains all suitable persons who apply for transportation in a proper way, as will be explained in §§ 538–540; and the duties and responsibilities of such a carrier apply to a receiver or trustee operating a railroad.[59] Where the transportation undertaken and the duties and responsibilities inci-

50. Ill.—Parmelee v. Lowitz, 74 Ill. 116, 24 Am R. 276
10 C.J. p 607 note 67.

51. Ala.—Hood v. State, 162 So. 541, 26 Ala App. 507, reversed on other grounds 162 So. 543, 230 Ala. 343.
10 C J. p 607 note 71.

Similar statement of distinction

"A public common carrier of passengers is distinguished from private carriers by the franchises conferred on it, and the obligations, restrictions, and liabilities with which it is charged, all flowing from considerations of public policy."—Lazor v Banas, 174 A. 817, 819, 114 Pa.Super 425.

52. Ala.—North American Acc. Ins. Co. v. Pitts, 104 So. 21, 24, 213 Ala. 102, 40 A.L.R. 1171
Mich.—Rogers v. Weber, 209 N.W. 165, 166, 235 Mich. 180.
N.Y.—Anderson v. Fidelity & Casualty Co. of New York, 166 N.Y.S. 640, 642, 100 Misc. 411.
Pa.—Aronimink Transp. Co v. Public Service Commission, 170 A. 375, 111 Pa.Super. 414.

53. Ill.—Morrison v. Parmelee Co., 222 Ill.App. 90
La.—Lawes v. New Orleans Transfer Co, 133 So 144, 11 La.App 170
10 C.J. p 50 note 43

54. W.Va.—Brown Shoe Co v. Hardin, 87 S.W. 1014, 77 W.Va. 611.
10 C J p 49 note 37.

55. Ill.—Austin Bros. Transfer Co. v. Bloom, 147 N.E. 387, 388, 316 Ill. 435.

One letting automobile and furnishing chauffeur for it is a private carrier for hire.
Ala.—Forbes v. Reinman, 166 S.W. 563, 112 Ark. 417, 51 L.R.A.,N.S., 1164.
Ill.—Dunne v. Boland, 199 Ill.App. 308.
Mass.—Haddad v. Griffin, 142 N.E. 74, 247 Mass. 369.

Contract to transport child to school

Where a mother contracted with a neighbor who transported his child to school for similar transportation for her son at rate of ten cents per day, neighbor was not "common carrier" but "private carrier" under special contract.—Lazor v. Banas, 174 A. 817, 114 Pa Super. 425.

If undertaking be single transaction, not part of the general business or occupation engaged in, as advertised and held out to the general public, then the individual or company furnishing such service is a private and not a common carrier
Mont.—Stoner v Underseth, 277 P. 437, 441, 85 Mont. 11.
Wash.—Independent Truck Co. v Wright, 275 P 726, 151 Wash 372
—Cushing v. White, 172 P. 229, 101 Wash. 172, L.R.A.1919F 463.

Transporter of workmen

An automobile owner daily transporting three workmen between their homes and place of work for a specified sum per day was not a "common carrier" but a "private" or "special" carrier—Lewis v. Bertero, Wash., 77 P.2d 786.

56. Mont.—Stoner v. Underseth, 277 P 437, 441, 85 Mont. 11.

General contractor, under a separate contract with his subcontractor to furnish automobile transportation to the latter's employee from the railroad station to his work, was a private carrier for hire, charged with all the duties pertaining to such person.—Duffy v. J W. Bishop Co, 122 A 121, 99 Conn. 573

57. U.S.—Chenery v Employers' Liability Assur. Corporation, C.C.A. Cal, 4 F.2d 826

58. Ill.—Chicago, etc, R. Co v Hamler, 74 N.E 705, 215 Ill 525, 106 Am.S.R 187, 1 L.R.A.,N.S, 674, 3 Ann Cas 42
10 C.J. p 608 note 81.

Attendants for animals

Where railroad and express company agree to transport animals and attendants, under uniform live stock contract providing that attendants will care for and feed animals, the companies are "common carriers," irrespective of statute authorizing "free passes" and of provision in attendants' contract limiting companies' liability for negligence, since attendants' services are consideration for transportation.—Crane v. Railway Exp Agency, 12 N.E.2d 672, 293 Ill.App 328.

59. N.J.—Klein v. Jewett, 26 N.J. Eq 474, affirmed 26 N.J.Eq. 550.
10 C J p 608 note 86.
Liability of receiver or trustee for injury to passenger see infra § 711.

dent thereto are such as are ordinarily incident to transportation by a common carrier, the mere fact that a railroad company makes some special arrangement for the transportation of persons over its lines in a particular way or under certain conditions does not deprive it of its character as common carrier.[60] A railroad company, however, may occasionally carry passengers on its freight trains without thereby making itself a common carrier of passengers on such trains;[61] and a company which operates only freight cars is not such a carrier.[62] So, also, a railroad company is not a carrier of passengers with reference to a person who is allowed to ride on a hand car.[63] If a railroad company is not in fact a common carrier of passengers, it cannot be made such by an order of a state public service commission.[64]

Except where it holds itself out to be such,[65] a railroad company does not act as a common carrier of passengers in hauling a show company or circus train, under a special agreement, not in the usual course of business of a common carrier by rail;[66] and the mere fact that the railroad company gives the circus company the option of having its cars transported by the railroad at the regular tariff rates as a common carrier, or for a greatly reduced consideration as a private carrier, does not establish the railroad company as a common carrier as affecting the carriage of the circus employees.[67]

A railroad company is not a common carrier of Pullman cars and employees performing duties therein, and is not bound to haul such cars when tendered to it by the Pullman company with its conductors, porters, or other employees,[68] unless its charter requires it so to do,[69] subject to such rules and regulations as may be prescribed;[70] and if, under such a charter, it contracts with a Pullman company to haul its cars, it necessarily contracts as a common carrier.[71]

As between different companies, where one railroad company is operating its train on the line of another road, the company operating the train is generally deemed the carrier as to passengers on such train;[72] and where one company operates the trains of another road over its track it is deemed the carrier,[73] except where it furnishes only the motive power.[74] The owner of a train or boat leased for an excursion, the crew being furnished with the train or boat, is the carrier as to passengers conveyed, although the means of conveyance may be under the general direction of the manager of the excursion.[75]

A street railroad company, irrespective of the motive power, is a common carrier of passengers,[76]

60. Ind.—Vandalia R. Co. v. Stevens, 114 N.E. 1001, 67 Ind.App. 238.
Ky.—Davis v. Chesapeake, etc., Railroad Co., 92 S.W. 339, 122 Ky. 528, 121 Am.S.R. 481, 5 L.R.A.,N.S., 458, 12 Ann.Cas. 723.
N.H.—Bernardi Greater Shows v. Boston & M. R. R., 165 A. 124, 86 N.H. 146.

Railroad company carrying miners over a branch line, and receiving as compensation a certain amount per month to be deducted from the miners' wages is a common carrier of passengers.—Vandalia R. Co. v. Stevens, 114 N.E. 1001, 67 Ind.App. 238.

61. N.H.—Murch v. Concord R. Corp., 29 N.H. 9, 61 Am.D. 631.
Persons riding on freight trains as passengers see infra § 552.

62. Ark.—Dodson v. Clark Lumber Co., 184 S.W. 417, 123 Ark. 50.
10 C.J. p. 608 note 84.

63. Me.—Hoar v. Maine Cent. R. Co., 70 Me. 65, 35 Am.R. 299.
Person riding on hand car as passenger see infra § 552.

64. U.S.—McCoy v. Pacific Spruce Corporation, C.C.A.Or., 1 F.2d 853, affirming Pacific Spruce Corporation v. McCoy, D.C., 294 F. 711.

65. N.H.—Bernardi Greater Shows v. Boston & M. R. R., 165 A. 124, 86 N.H. 146.

Giving option of rate

A railroad company, by giving a show company the option of transportation at a higher rate, according to tariffs, classifications, and rules, or at a reduced rate, admits willingness to transport the show company as common carrier, and that the show company is a proper subject for shipment according to such tariffs, classifications, and rules."—Bernardi Greater Shows v. Boston & M. R. R., 165 A. 124, 86 N.H. 146.

Publishing and filing tariffs, etc., with commission

A railroad company, by publishing and filing with the state public service commission and interstate commerce commission tariffs, classifications, and rules for transportation of show companies, holds itself out as a common carrier of such companies as to persons.—Bernardi Greater Shows v. Boston & M. R. R., 165 A. 124, 86 N.H. 146.

66. Ind.—Dierickx v. Davis, 137 N.E. 685, 80 Ind.App. 71, certiorari denied 44 S.Ct. 36, 263 U.S. 709, 68 L.Ed. 518.

67. U.S.—Sasinowski v. Boston & M. R. R., C.C.A.Mass., 74 F.2d 628.

68. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Hamler, 74 N.E. 705, 215 Ill. 525, 106 Am.S.R. 187, 1 L.R.A.,N.S., 674, 3 Ann.Cas. 42.
Palace or sleeping car company as not common carrier see infra § 904.

69. Pa.—Coleman v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 89 A. 87, 242 Pa. 304, 50 L.R.A.,N.S., 432, Ann.Cas.1915B 529.

70. Pa.—Coleman v. Pennsylvania R. Co., supra.
10 C.J. p. 609 note 89.

71. Pa.—Coleman v. Pennsylvania R. Co., supra.

72. Ark.—Eureka Springs R. Co. v. Timmons, 11 S.W. 690, 51 Ark. 459.
10 C.J. p. 609 note 91.

73. Mass.—Schopman v. Boston, etc., R. Co. 9 Cush. 24, 55 Am.D. 41.
Mo.—Smith v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 85 Mo. 418, 55 Am.R. 380.
Vt.—Sprague v. Smith, 29 Vt. 421, 70 Am.D. 424.

74. U.S.—Keep v. Indianapolis & St. L. R. Co., C.C.Mo., 9 F. 625, 3 McCrary 208.

75. Mich.—Cuddy v. Horn, 10 N.W. 32, 46 Mich. 596, 41 Am.R. 178.
N.C.—White v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 20 S.E. 191, 115 N.C. 631, 44 Am.S.R. 489.
Tex.—Collins v. Texas, etc., R. Co., 39 S.W. 643, 15 Tex.Civ.App. 169.

76. Ala.—South & N. A. R. Co. v. Highland Ave. & B. R. Co., 24 So. 114, 119 Ala. 105.
Ill.—North Chicago Electric R. Co. v. Peuser, 60 N.E. 78, 190 Ill. 67.

in that one essential characteristic of its business is the carriage of the public generally,[77] and this is true although it may be constructed on private property.[78]

Scenic railway. The owner and operator of a scenic railway in an amusement park is subject, where he has accepted passengers on such railway for hire, to the liabilities of a carrier of passengers generally.[79]

Railroad built by government for war purposes. The fact that a railroad right of way is acquired by the federal government during a war, for a war purpose, under the war power or right of eminent domain, does not charge it and the road built thereon by the government with a public use, so as to give the public a right to demand a common carrier passenger service;[80] nor does the fact that the government conveys the right of way and road to a corporation organized, owned, and used by it for the same war purpose, charge the property with a public use, so as to make the corporation a common carrier of passengers,[81] and the same rule applies as to a temporary gratuitous permit to operate the road while the corporation organized by the government is winding up its affairs after the close of the war,[82] or as to a continuance of operation, under such temporary permit, consented to by a purchaser of the road.[83]

State as common carrier. Where a state owns and operates a railway system at a park, posts notices calling attention to the railway and the fare charged to ride thereon, has ticket offices, maintains the structure, provides the cars and machinery which runs them, and receives the revenue of its operation, it is a common carrier of passengers for hire, subject to liability as such.[84]

§ 533. Elevators

The owner or manager of a passenger elevator is, technically, not a common carrier of passengers, although in many cases he has been held to be such.

The owner or manager of a passenger elevator used in a building for the transportation of tenants and others, as stated in Corpus Juris, which statement has been followed in subsequent decisions,[85] is not in the full sense of the term a common carrier of passengers;[86] but with reference to the Ind.—Citizens' St R. Co. v. Twiname, 13 N.E 55, 111 Ind. 587.

Neb.—In re Curtailment of Bus Service, 252 N.W. 407, 125 Neb. 825.
N.H.—Dover, S. & R. St. Ry. Co. v. Wentworth, 149 A. 505, 84 N.H. 258
N.D.—Peterson v. Fargo-Moorhead St. Ry. Co., 164 N.W. 42, 37 N D 440.
Or.—Thompson-Houston Electric Co. v. Simon, 25 P. 147, 20 Or. 60, 23 Am.S R. 86, 10 L.R.A. 251.
10 C J p 609 note 95

77. N H.—Dover, S. & R. St. Ry. Co. v. Wentworth, 149 A. 505, 84 N.H. 258.

78. Neb.—East Omaha St. R. Co. v. Godola, 70 N.W. 491, 50 Neb. 906

79. Ill.—O'Callaghan v. Dellwood Park Co, 149 Ill.App. 34, affirmed 89 N.E 1005, 242 Ill 336, 134 Am. S R. 331, 26 L.R.A ,N S., 1054 and note, 17 Ann Cas 407 and note.
Ohio—Sentker v. Martin, 19 Ohio N. P ,N.S., 445.
Tex.—Dallas Ry. & Terminal Co. v. Travis, 78 S.W.2d 941, 125 Tex. 11, affirming, Civ.App, 46 S.W.2d 743.
62 C J. p 867 note 30.

This rule as stated in Corpus Juris has been judicially approved as the general and accepted rule.
Cal.—Barr v. Venice Giant Dipper Co., 32 P 2d 980, 981, 138 Cal.App. 563.
Mo.—Cooper v Winnwood Amusement Co, App., 55 S.W.2d 737, 742

Operator of roller coaster owes duty of common carrier to passengers for hire riding thereon.—Barr v. Venice Giant Dipper Co, 32 P.2d 980, 138 Cal App. 563—62 C J. p 867 note 30.

80. U S.—McCoy v. Pacific Spruce Corporation, C.C.A Or., 1 F 2d 853, affirming, D.C., Pacific Spruce Corporation v. McCoy, 294 F. 711.

Reasons for rule

"The property was acquired for a particular purpose and the government had an unquestionable right to devote it to that purpose to the exclusion of every other. Its right and power to control and manage its own property in its own way rest upon the supremacy of its authority, and are neither limited nor controlled by the mode of acquisition. This would seem both elementary and fundamental."—McCoy v Pacific Spruce Corporation, C.C A Or, 1 F 2d 853, 855, affirming, D.C, Pacific Spruce Corporation v. McCoy, 294 F. 711.

United States as carrier of passengers during federal war-time control of railroads see C J S title Railroads § 31, also 51 C.J. p 448 note 20.

81. U S.—McCoy v. Pacific Spruce Corporation, supra.

82. U S.—McCoy v. Pacific Spruce Corporation, supra.

83. U S.—McCoy v. Pacific Spruce Corporation, supra

84. N Y.—Burke v. State, 119 N Y S. 1089, 64 Misc. 558.

85. Colo.—Davis v. Colorado Sav. Bank, 242 P. 985, 987, 78 Colo. 509.

86. D C.—Woodward & Lothrop v. Lineberry, 50 F 2d 314, 60 App D. C. 164, followed in 50 F 2d 317, 60 App D C 167, and certiorari denied Lineberry v. Woodward & Lothrop, 52 S Ct. 29, 284 U.S 648, 76 L Ed. 550.
10 C.J p 609 note 1.

As regards contracting against liability for negligence, an owner of a building in operating an elevator therein is not a common carrier.—Clarke v. Ames, 165 N.E. 696, 267 Mass. 44.

In hotel

The owner and operator of a passenger elevator in a hotel is not a common carrier of passengers.—McDowell v. Rockey, 167 N E 589, 32 Ohio App. 26.

In store or office building

The operator of an elevator in a store or office building is not a common carrier, because the elevator is merely an instrumentality furnished for the convenience of those occupying and using the building, and is at all times within the owner's control, without an obligation to carry any one except whom it pleases.
Conn.—Stratton v J. J Newberry Co, 169 A. 56, 117 Conn. 522.
D C.—Woodward & Lothrop v Lineberry, 50 F 2d 314, 60 App D C 164, followed in 50 F.2d 317, 60 App D. C. 167, certiorari denied Lineberry v. Woodward & Lothrop, 52 S Ct. 29, 284 U S 648, 76 L Ed. 550—Southern Ry Co. v. Taylor, 16 F. 2d 517, 57 App D C. 21, certiorari denied Taylor v. Southern Ry. Co.,

safety of the passengers on an elevator a similar degree of care is usually required of the owner or manager as is exacted of other passenger carriers, as stated infra § 687, and with this idea in view it has been held in many cases that such an owner or manager is a common carrier of passengers as to persons using the elevator;[87] and it has been held further that, where the landlord in consideration of the payment of the rent agrees to carry the tenant, his customers, and guests, in a passenger elevator, he is a carrier for hire.[88]

It has been held that an owner who permits a person to ride on a freight elevator occupies the relation of a common carrier of passengers toward such person,[89] as where an express delivery man or messenger in delivering packages to a tenant in a public office building is required, as is the custom, to use the freight elevator.[90]

Escalator. The rule that an elevator is deemed a common carrier applies equally to an escalator.[91]

§ 534. Other Passenger Carriers

A common carrier of passengers may be a carrier by stagecoach, omnibus, public hack or taxicab, jitney, steamboat, aeroplane, or even an ambulance.

Subject to the rules considered in §§ 530, 531 supra, public or common carriers of passengers are generally held to include all those who as a business carry passengers by means of stagecoach,[92] motorbus or other omnibus,[93] public hack or taxicab,[94]

47 S.Ct. 571, 273 U.S. 767, 71 L.Ed. 882.

87. Ala.—Ensley Holding Co. v. Kelley, 158 So. 896, 229 Ala. 650.
Colo.—Davis v. Colorado Sav. Bank, 242 P. 985, 78 Colo. 509.
Nev.—Smith v. Odd Fellows Bldg. Ass'n, 205 P. 796, 46 Nev. 48, 23 A.L.R. 38.
Wash.—Engstrand v. Hartnett, 180 P. 132, 106 Wash. 404.
Wis.—Dehmel v. Smith, 227 N.W. 274, 200 Wis. 292—Switzar v. Detroit Inv. Co., 206 N.W. 407, 188 Wis. 330.
10 C.J. p. 609 note 3.

"Prevailing doctrine with respect to the duty of one maintaining a passenger elevator in a hotel or other public building is that he is a common carrier and governed by the same rules applicable to other common carriers."—Murphy's Hotel v. Cuddy's Adm'r, 97 S.E. 794, 797, 124 Va. 207.

In apartment house

Plaintiff, who, on making call at room of business associate in apartment house, was injured by falling into elevator shaft, was an invitee with implied invitation to use elevator operated for convenience of guests and those having business with them, and relation of passenger and carrier arose between plaintiff and owner of apartment house.—Johnson v. Hopkins, 105 So. 663, 213 Ala. 492.

In retail store

Where elevator is operated for transporting customers in retail store, owner would be liable to customer, injured while entering it, for injuries proximately caused by the failure to exercise the highest degree of care, on the theory that relation of carrier and passenger exists.—Louis Pizitz Dry Goods Co. v. Yeldell, 104 So. 526, 213 Ala. 222, affirmed 47 S.Ct. 509, 274 U.S. 112, 71 L.Ed. 952, 51 A.L.R. 1376.

One who rides in elevator in public office building is not a mere licensee or trespasser, but is a passenger for hire.—Williams v. Short, 268 S.W. 706, 219 Mo.App. 99, transferred from 263 S.W. 200

"Comparing passenger elevators in office buildings with railroads as public conveyances, it may be said that ordinarily there is a more open and unrestricted invitation to the general public to become passengers in such elevators than in the case of railroads, where the possession of a ticket or pass is usually a requirement of admission, and we do not doubt that the daily use of such elevators by the traveling public as a whole, ascending and descending with short, quick trips, in many instances repeatedly on the same day, equals, if it does not greatly exceed, the number of passengers carried in railroad coaches and other means of public conveyance during the same time."—Davis v. Colorado Sav. Bank, 242 P. 985, 987, 78 Colo. 509

88. Or.—Kelly v. Lewis Inv. Co., 133 P. 826, 66 Or. 1, Ann.Cas.1915B 568
10 C.J. p. 610 note 4.

89. Ill.—Springer v. Ford, 59 N.E. 953, 189 Ill. 430, 82 Am.S.R. 464, 52 L.R.A. 930, affirming 88 Ill.App. 529.
10 C.J. p. 610 note 5.

90. Ala.—O'Rourke v. Woodward, 77 So. 679, 201 Ala. 265.

91. Pa.—Petrie v. Kaufmann & Baer Co., 139 A. 878, 291 Pa. 211.

Reason for rule

"As an escalator and an elevator perform the like service of conveying people from one elevation to another, they are subject to like duties and responsibilities. The passenger is at least as powerless to influence the action of the former as the latter."—Petrie v. Kaufmann & Baer Co., 139 A. 878, 879, 291 Pa. 211.

Retail store, which operates a continuously moving escalator between floors, may be regarded as a carrier within the rule requiring a high degree of care for passengers.
U.S.—S. S. Kresge Co. v. McCallion, C.C.A.Mo., 58 F.2d 931.
Ohio.—May Department Stores Co. v. McBride, 178 N.E. 12, 124 Ohio St. 264, affirming McBride v. May Department Stores Co., 177 N.E. 773, 39 Ohio App. 420.

92. Ill.—Austin Bros. Transfer Co. v. Bloom, 147 N.E. 387, 316 Ill. 435.
10 C.J. p. 607 note 73.
Auto stage defined see C.J.S. title Motor Vehicles § 3, also 42 C.J. p. 611, note 43.

93. Cal.—Simmons v. Pacific Electric Ry. Co., 212 P. 637, 60 Cal.App. 129.
Neb.—Giffen v. Lincoln Traction Co., 225 N.W. 232, 118 Neb. 459.
10 C.J. p. 607 note 74.

Motor bus

One who operates a motor vehicle over a fixed route along a city street, and to the capacity of the vehicle carries for hire any one who may hail him from the sidewalk and ask for passage, is a common carrier of passengers.—Frick v. City of Gary, 135 N.E. 346, 347, 192 Ind. 76.
Motor bus defined see C.J.S. title Motor Vehicles § 5, also 42 C.J. p. 611 note 47.

94. Cal.—Bezera v. Associated Oil Co., 3 P.2d 622, 117 Cal.App. 139
Ga.—Locke v. Ford, App., 187 S.E. 715.
Ind.—Hudnut v. Indiana De Luxe Cab Co., 182 N.E. 711, 98 Ind.App. 44.
Kan.—Cross v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co., 242 P. 469, 120 Kan. 58.
Ky.—Dix v. Gross, 111 S.W.2d 673, 271 Ky. 231—Shelton Taxi Co. v. Bowling, 51 S.W.2d 468, 244 Ky. 817.
Me.—Chaput v. Lussier, 165 A. 573, 132 Me. 48.
Md.—Stewart Taxi-Service Co. v. Spencer, 132 A. 153, 149 Md. 635—Goldsworthy v. Maloy, 119 A. 693, 141 Md. 674.

jitney,[95] or steamboat, as explained in C.J.S title Shipping § 174; or also, as explained in § 41 of C.J.S. title Aerial Navigation, an airplane; and, under some statutes, include a terminal or union depot company.[96] A hackman, however, who has no established route, place of business, or time of employment, although a carrier in a restricted sense, is not a common carrier.[97]

A livery-stable keeper does not hold himself out to serve any and all persons, but operates only under a special contract, and deals with such persons only as he chooses, and is in no sense a common carrier;[98] and the fact that he rents his vehicles with drivers does not of itself make him a common carrier of passengers within the legal meaning of that term.[99]

An organization operating an ambulance gratuitously for members, although expecting contributions to the ambulance fund, is a public carrier.[1]

Carrying people for undertaker. A taxicab company is a common carrier of passengers in carrying people for an undertaker, although in so doing

Mass.—Dion v Drapeau, 150 N.E. 14, 254 Mass 186.
Mich.—Durfey v. Milligan, 251 N.W. 356, 265 Mich. 97—Melconian v. City of Grand Rapids, 188 N.W. 521, 218 Mich. 397.
Minn.—McKellar v. Yellow Cab Co., 181 N.W. 348, 148 Minn. 247.
N.Y.—Anderson v Fidelity & Casualty Co of New York, 127 N.E. 584, 228 N.Y. 475, 9 A.L.R. 1544, affirming 170 N.Y.S. 431, 183 App.Div 170, which modifies 166 N.Y.S. 640, 100 Misc. 411.
N.D.—Finlayson v Yellow Cab Co., 217 N.W. 662, 56 N.D. 407.
Okl.—A. & A. Taxicab Co. v. Bass, 58 P.2d 567.
Tex.—Burnett v. Riter, Civ.App., 276 S.W. 347.
Va.—Carlton v. Boudar, 88 S.E. 174, 118 Va. 521, 4 A.L.R. 1480
Wash.—Cushing v. White, 172 P. 229, 101 Wash. 172, L.R.A.1918F 463
Wis.—Scales v. Boynton Cab Co., 223 N.W. 836, 198 Wis. 293, 69 A.L.R. 978—Anderson v. Yellow Cab Co., 191 N.W. 748, 179 Wis. 300, 31 A.L.R. 1197
10 C.J. p 607 note 75.

This rule, as stated in Corpus Juris, has received judicial approval.
Ga.—Locke v. Ford, App., 187 S.E. 715, 716.
Kan.—Cross v. Chicago R. I. & P. R. Co., 242 P. 469, 470, 120 Kan. 58.
N.Y.—Anderson v. Fidelity & Casualty Co of New York, 170 N.Y.S. 430, 433, 183 App.Div. 170.

As matter of public policy

Where defendant owned twenty-eight taxicabs used for conveying passengers in a city, had a general office from which they were dispatched to convey passengers from one place to another, and were operated pursuant to a regular rate applied to the number of miles traveled, registered on a taximeter, and, responding to plaintiff's request to the general office, a taxicab was dispatched for her use from its stand at a railroad depot, public policy requires that it be classed as a common carrier.—Anderson v. Yellow Cab Co., 191 N.W. 748, 179 Wis. 300, 31 A.L.R. 1197.

Carrier engaged in automobile rent business, who owns and operates a motor vehicle for hire, either at a charge of so much per trip or so much per hour, who has a fixed stand or place where his car is available to prospective customers during many hours of the day and night, and who transports passengers from place to place, although he has no fixed schedule of charges, and does not operate over definite routes, and does not on all occasions load his car to full capacity, and reserves the right to refuse to transport passengers whether his vehicle is full or not, is a common carrier.
Tex.—Bower Auto Rent Co. v. Young, Civ.App., 274 S.W. 295.
Wash.—Cushing v. White, 172 P. 229, 101 Wash. 172, L.R.A.1918F 463.

"Auto transportation company or taxicab company, which holds itself out as ready to receive and transport all who apply for passage and are ready to pay for the service, is a common carrier."
N.D.—Finlayson v. Yellow Cab Co., 217 N.W. 662, 663, 56 N.D. 407.
Ohio.—Korner v. Cosgrove, 141 N.E. 267, 108 Ohio St. 484, 31 A.L.R. 1193.

May or may not be

A company which operates a taxicab at a given time or place, might or might not be a "common carrier of passengers."—Finnegan v Checker Taxi Co., Mass., 14 N.E.2d 127.

Taxicab company which has its cabs at various places and solicits the public to ride and has a meter guaranteeing that all who ride shall pay a uniform rate is a common carrier of passengers.—Yellow Cab Co. v. Teller, 9 Tenn.App 416

Not inherently common carrier

Corporation organized to transfer persons and property by cabs is not inherently a common carrier.—City Transfer Co. v. Public Service Commission, 93 Pa.Super. 210.
One letting automobile for hire as private carrier see supra § 531
Taxicab defined see C.J.S. title Motor Vehicles § 7, also 42 C.J. p 612 notes 62, 63.

Ind.—Denny v. City of Muncie, 149 N.E. 639, 197 Ind 28.
N.J.—Schott v. Weiss, 105 A. 192, 92 N.J.Law 494.
Tenn.—City of Memphis v State, 179 S.W. 631, 133 Tenn 83, L.R.A.1916B 1151, Ann.Cas.1917C 1056—Price-Bass Co. v. Dawson, 7 Tenn.Civ.App 192
Tex.—Burnett v. Riter, Civ.App., 276 S.W. 347.
Wash.—Cushing v. White, 172 P. 229, 101 Wash 172, L.R.A.1918F 463.
10 C.J. p 608 note 76.

Jitney driver operating between points in city over well-defined route for hire, who offers his services alike to all without discrimination and distinction is a common carrier.—Riggsby v. Tritton, 129 S.E. 493, 494, 143 Va 903, 45 A.L.R. 280, motion denied 133 S.E. 580, 45 A.L.R. 280.

Corpus Juris has been cited in support of this rule—Schott v. Weiss, 105 A. 192, 193, 92 N.J.Law 494.
"Jitney" defined see Jitney 33 C.J. p 834 note 5.

96. Fla.—State v. Jacksonville Terminal Co., 106 So. 576, 90 Fla 721.

97. Minn.—Godbout v St Paul Union Depot Co., 81 N.W. 835, 79 Minn 188, 47 L.R.A. 532
N.Y.—Brown v New York Cent etc., R. Co., 27 N.Y.S. 69, 75 Hun 355.

This and the following text statements, as found in Corpus Juris, are cited with approval in North American Acc. Ins Co. v. Pitts, 104 So. 21, 213 Ala. 102.

98. N.Y.—Anderson v. Fidelity & Casualty Co of New York, 170 N.Y.S. 430, 183 App.Div. 170.
10 C.J. p 608 note 80

Corpus Juris has been cited in support of the rule that a livery-stable keeper is not ordinarily a common carrier—Anderson v. Fidelity & Casualty Co. of New York, 170 N.Y.S. 430, 433, 183 App.Div. 170

99. Tex.—Staacke v. Routledge, 241 S.W. 994, 111 Tex. 489, affirming, Civ.App., 175 S.W. 444.

1. Conn.—Leete v. Griswold Post No. 79, American Legion, 158 A. 919, 114 Conn. 400.

the taxicab is to some extent under the direction of the funeral director, if complete control is not surrendered, regardless of who pays for the service;[2] but the funeral director is not a carrier, either public or private, in superintending the formation of the procession of automobiles and assisting persons to enter.[3]

B. RELATION BETWEEN CARRIER AND PASSENGER GENERALLY

1. In General

§ 535. Nature of the Relation

The relation of carrier and passenger is contractual, and also personal, with reciprocal rights and duties.

The relation between a carrier and passenger is contractual in origin and nature,[4] and, as stated infra § 545, does not exist unless there is a contract either express or implied. The relation is also personal in nature, with reciprocal rights and duties, which neither party can disregard with impunity.[5]

§ 536. What Law Governs

The validity and effect of a contract between a carrier and passenger is generally governed by the law of the place where it is made.

The validity and effect of the contract between a carrier and passenger, in the absence of anything showing a contrary intent, is generally governed by the law of the place where the contract is made.[6] A contract for a continuous interstate carriage, to be partly performed in the state where the contract is executed, is regarded as entire and indivisible, and is governed by the law of the place where executed,[7] except in so far as it may be controlled by the federal law.[8]

§ 537. Applicability of Law of Bailments

A carrier of passengers is not, as to the person of the passenger, a bailee, as stated supra § 529, and in this respect the law of carriers of passengers is not a part of the subject of bailments; but inasmuch as those who hold themselves out as prosecuting the business of carrying passengers for hire are regarded as undertaking a public duty, they are properly classed in this respect with public carriers of goods, and it is proper to treat them under the general heading of "Carriers." Moreover, public carriers of passengers are deemed common carriers as to the baggage accepted by them for transportation as a part of the business of transporting passengers, as stated infra § 862.

§ 538. Duty to Receive and Transport Passengers

a. In general
b. What persons may be refused transportation

a. In General

A common carrier of passengers is, ordinarily, bound to receive for carriage, without discrimination, all proper persons who properly offer to become passengers.

As a general rule, a common carrier of passengers is bound to receive for carriage without discrimination all proper persons who desire and properly offer to become passengers,[9] if the accommoda-

2. Mo.—Burke v. Shaw Transfer Co., 243 S.W. 449, 211 Mo.App. 353, certiorari quashed State ex rel. Shaw Transfer Co. v. Trimble, 250 S.W. 384.

3. Mich.—Camp v. Spring, 217 N.W. 917, 241 Mich. 700.

4. U.S.—Austro-American S.S. Co. v. Thomas, N.Y., 248 F. 231, 160 C.C.A. 309, L.R.A.1918D 873.
Ga.—Matthews v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 169 S.E. 41, 46 Ga.App. 699.
Ky.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. Mallett, 270 S.W. 26, 207 Ky. 745.
Mo.—Detchemendy v. Wells, App., 253 S.W. 150.
Okl.—Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. Warren, 269 P. 368, 132 Okl. 107.
Tex.—Lee v. Baker, Civ.App., 251 S.W. 580.
Va.—Virginia Ry. & Power Co. v. Arnold, 92 S.E. 925, 121 Va. 204.

5. W.Va.—Schuster v. Norfolk & W. Ry. Co., 102 S.E. 476, 85 W.Va. 658.

6. Ind.—Clark v. Southern Ry. Co., 119 N.E. 539, 69 Ind.App. 697.

Contract made in England

Where a certificate for a passage purchased in state of Massachusetts was exchanged in England for ticket, the contract of carriage was made there.—Secoulsky v. Oceanic Steam Nav. Co., 112 N.E. 151, 223 Mass. 465.

What law governs:
Carrier's liability for injuries in general see infra § 679.
Provision of contract limiting carrier's liability see infra § 639.

7. Ind.—Clark v. Southern Ry. Co., 119 N.E. 539, 69 Ind.App. 697.
Tex.—Nevill v. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co., Com.App., 244 S.W. 980, reversing, Civ.App., 187 S.W. 388, and reversed on other grounds Neville v. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co., Com.App., 252 S.W. 483.

8. Tex.—Nevill v. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co., supra.

News agent as passenger

Whether news agent entitled to transportation on defendant's road, under contract with his employer involving interstate commerce, was a passenger when injured through negligence of defendant's servants was to be determined by the federal law.—Nevill v. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co., Tex.Civ.App., 187 S.W. 388, reversed Com.App., 244 S.W. 980, which is reversed Neville v. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co., 252 S.W. 483.

9. Ala.—North American Acc. Ins. Co. v. Pitts, 104 So. 21, 213 Ala. 102, 40 A.L.R. 1171.
Ky.—Casteel v. American Airways, 88 S.W.2d 976, 261 Ky. 818.—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S.W.2d 356, 240 Ky. 1.
Mass.—Haddad v. Griffin, 142 N.E. 74, 247 Mass. 369.
N.Y.—Anderson v. Fidelity & Casualty Co. of New York, 166 N.Y.S. 640, 100 Misc. 411, modified on tions are sufficient,[10] unless some special reason or excuse exists for refusing them;[11] and in some jurisdictions this duty is expressly prescribed by constitutional or statutory provisions.[12] This duty, especially in the cases of railroads and street railroads, arises, independent of contract, from the public character of the carrier's business, and is regarded as a public duty.[13] A railroad company, therefore, has no right to discriminate by selling tickets to some persons and refusing them to others without a good excuse;[14] nor has it a right to refuse to sell a ticket to a point on its line which a railroad commission has ordered to be made a flag station,[15] except that it may refuse to sell a ticket for a train which does not stop at that point.[16]

Proper persons within the meaning of the general rule stated above, means persons whose status or condition apparently entitles them to be carried as passengers,[17] regardless of their character or conduct at other times,[18] unless the prior acts of other grounds 170 N.Y.S 431, 183 App.Div 170 affirmed 127 N.E. 584, 228 N.Y. 475

10 C J. p 643 note 77.

Cannot receive and reject passengers at pleasure

Ky.—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S W 2d 356, 240 Ky. 1.

"From the beginning of our jurisprudence it has been recognized as the duty of a common carrier to accept and carry without discrimination those who offer themselves for transportation because of the dependence of the public and the demands of its welfare, presupposing, of course, the tender of the proper compensation by one to whom there could be no legal objection. It is, as well, the recognized duty of a carrier to transport its passengers safely to their destination. This extraordinary responsibility of private business, based upon considerations of public policy, has survived the great change in the conditions and circumstances under which they first arose where there was entire monopoly and extreme limitation of facilities. It has been adapted to the revoluntionary changes in the mode of transportation with some deviations required by the peculiar facilities. It is a long way from the sailing vessel to the palatial liner, from the ancient caravan to the modern railroad train, from the ox cart to the automobile, from the stage coach to the airplane. But after all, each is merely a form of transportation, is subject to the same general law controlling public service, and must be held, in general, to the same principles and responsibilities."—Casteel v. American Airways, 88 S.W. 2d 976, 979, 261 Ky. 818.

Historical development of rule

Ky.—Casteel v. American Airways, 88 S W.2d 976, 216 Ky. 818.

Private carrier is not bound to carry unless he makes a special agreement to do so.—Haddad v Griffin, 142 N.E 74, 247 Mass. 369.

Duty to receive and transport passengers in palace or sleeping cars see infra §§ 907, 908

Receiving and taking up passengers see infra § 644.

10. Ala.—Birmingham R, Light, etc., Co. v. Anderson, 57 So 103, 3 Ala App. 424.

Ky.—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S.W.2d 356, 240 Ky. 1

N.Y.—Anderson v. Fidelity & Casualty Co of New York, 166 N.Y.S. 640, 100 Misc. 411, modified on other grounds 170 N Y.S. 431, 183 App. Div. 170, affirmed 127 N.E. 584, 228 N.Y. 475.

At common law, inability of a carrier for want of room to carry a passenger in the vehicle used in the business of the carrier was a justification of the carrier in refusing to transport the proposed passenger and excused it from liability therefor.—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S W 2d 356, 240 Ky. 1.

Seats occupied or contracted for

A carrier, in case seats in a bus are occupied or contracted for by other passengers, in accordance with reasonable rules and regulations governing the business, is justified in refusing to accept a prospective passenger.—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S.W.2d 356, 240 Ky. 1.

Accommodations and facilities during transit see infra § 645.

11. Ky.—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, supra.

N.Y.—Anderson v. Fidelity & Casualty Co. of New York, 166 N.Y.S. 640, 100 Misc. 411, modified on other grounds 170 N Y S. 431, 183 App Div. 170, affirmed 127 N E 584, 228 N.Y 475

10 C J. p 643 notes 78, 79.

Where train delayed by rain

A railroad, whose trains from station at which plaintiff purchased ticket were delayed by heavy rains, refusing to give plaintiff transportation in exchange for his ticket, such as was given through passengers, is not guilty of an unjust discrimination.—Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry Co. v. Frazier, Tex.Civ App, 191 S W 808.

12. Tex.—Ft. Worth & D C. Ry. Co. v Frazier, supra

10 C.J. p 644 note 80.

Construction of statute

A statute defining and prohibiting unjust discrimination by railroads with respect to services rendered, as affecting passengers is to be construed strictly and any doubt resolved in favor of the railroad.—Ft Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v Frazier, Tex Civ.App, 191 S.W. 808.

Declaratory of common law

A statute denouncing unjust discrimination with respect to railroad's services, as respects passengers is declaratory of the common law, under which it is an unjust discrimination for a common carrier "to make or give any undue or unreasonable preference or advantage to any particular person," etc.—Ft. Worth & D. C Ry Co. v. Frazier, Tex Civ. App., 191 S.W. 808.

Negligent delay not discrimination

A statute declaring it an unjust discrimination for any railroad to give any unreasonable preference to any particular person, or to subject any traffic to an unreasonable delay, contemplates a delay caused by unjust discrimination, and not a merely negligent delay—Ft. Worth & D C. Ry. Co. v. Frazier, Tex Civ App., 191 S.W. 808.

13. N J.—Delaware, etc, R. Co v Trautwein, 19 A. 178, 52 N J Law 169, 19 Am.S.R. 442, 7 L R.A. 435.

N.C.—McNeill v. Durham, etc., R Co., 47 S.E. 765, 135 N C. 682, 67 L R.A 227, allowing rehearing 44 S.E. 34, 132 N.C. 510, 95 Am S R 641, 67 L.R.A. 227.

10 C.J. p 644 note 81.

14. Ind.—Indianapolis, etc., R Co v. Rinard, 46 Ind. 293.

N.J.—State v. Delaware, etc, R Co 2 A 803, 48 N.J.Law 55, 57 Am R 543.

15. Ga.—Georgia R., etc., Co. v Greer, 66 S E. 961, 7 Ga.App 292.

16. Ga.—Georgia R., etc., Co. v. Greer, supra

10 C J. p 644 note 84.

17. Ky.—Bogard v. Illinois Cent R Co, 139 S.W. 855, 144 Ky. 649, 36 L R A,N.S., 337.

Mass.—Gerber v New York Cent R R, 192 N.E. 837, 288 Mass 318

Mich.—Meisner v. Detroit, etc, Ferry Co, 118 N.W. 14, 154 Mich 545, 139 Am.S R. 493, 19 L.R.A,N S, 872.

18. Ky.—Reasor v. Paducah, etc., Ferry Co, 153 S W. 222, 152 Ky 220, 43 L.R.A.,N S., 820.

10 C J p 644 note 86.

misconduct have been such as to give rise to a fear of their repetition.[19]

Discrimination on account of race or color. The obligation imposed by law on carriers of passengers to receive for carriage all properly behaved and otherwise unobjectionable persons that may apply and that have complied with all reasonable precedent regulations precludes the carrier from refusing an intended passenger on account of race or color.[20]

Private carrier. The duty resting on a common carrier to receive all who apply for passage does not rest on a special or private carrier.[21]

b. What Persons May Be Refused Transportation

A carrier may refuse to carry as passengers persons who refuse to comply with its reasonable regulations, or who are likely to become obnoxious or dangerous to other passengers or interfere with the safe and convenient conduct of the carrier's business.

The duty to serve the public without discrimination does not require a carrier to accept as passengers any and every one,[22] and does not prevent it from making and enforcing reasonable regulations so as to exclude from trains or other vehicles of transportation persons who, by reason of bad character, or indecent conduct, or otherwise, are likely to render themselves obnoxious or dangerous to other passengers, or to interfere with the safe and convenient conduct of the carrier's business,[23] or persons who refuse or fail to comply with the carrier's reasonable rules and regulations.[24]

Intoxicated persons. A carrier of passengers is not bound to afford accommodations to persons, at least not without an attendant, who are so intoxicated as to affect their conduct or to render them unable to care for themselves.[25] Where, however, they are only slightly intoxicated, and show no signs that they will not conduct themselves properly or take care of themselves, they cannot be refused transportation.[26]

Persons infected with contagious diseases. A carrier of passengers is not under obligation to carry persons infected with contagious diseases whose presence would endanger the health of other passengers.[27]

Sick, feeble, infirm, and insane persons; necessity of attendant. While persons who are ill or afflicted have a right to enter and travel on the conveyances of a common carrier of passengers, nevertheless the carrier is not bound to accept as a passenger, without an attendant, one who, because of physical or mental disability, is unable to take care of himself, or is liable to require extra attention from the carrier or the passengers.[28] The rule, however, cannot be too rigorously enforced, and its application has been denied where the passenger has an attendant or has made provision for his own care;[29] and, where a person seemingly disabled is in fact able to travel alone without requiring extra care or attention, and this fact is known to the carrier, it is bound to carry him.[30] Thus, a carrier cannot absolutely refuse to transport an insane person, but may insist that he be properly attended and sufficiently restrained,[31] and may even refuse to receive an adjudged lunatic who is violent at the 19. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. McNally, 105 S.W. 124, 31 Ky.L. 1257.

10 C.J. p 644 note 87.

20. Ky.—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S.W.2d 356, 240 Ky. 1.
10 C.J. p 646 note 5.
Separate accommodations for races see infra § 645

21. Wash.—Lewis v. Bertero, 77 P. 2d 786.

22. Ill.—Garlinski v. Chicago City Ry. Co., 257 Ill.App. 414

23. Ky.—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S.W.2d 356, 240 Ky. 1.
10 C.J. p 644 note 89.
Ejection of persons objectionable as passengers see infra § 808.
Rules and regulations of carrier in general see infra §§ 570–577.

24. Tenn.—Southern R. Co. v. McNabb, 169 S.W. 757, 130 Tenn. 197, L.R.A.1915B 761.
10 C.J. p 645 note 90.
Ejection for failure or refusal to comply with regulations see infra § 819.

25. Mo.—Abernathy v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., App., 217 S.W. 568.
10 C.J. p 645 note 91.
Ejection of intoxicated passenger see infra § 808.

26. Mo.—Abernathy v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., App., 217 S.W. 568
10 C.J. p 645 note 92.

This entire paragraph, as stated in Corpus Juris, has received judicial approval in Abernathy v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., Mo.App., 217 S.W. 568, 570.

27. Ky.—Casteel v. American Airways, 88 S.W.2d 976, 261 Ky. 818.—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S.W.2d 356, 240 Ky. 1.
10 C.J. p 645 note 93.

28. Ark.—Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. Littleton, 5 S.W.2d 930, 177 Ark. 199
Ky.—Casteel v. American Airways, 88 S.W.2d 976, 261 Ky. 818.
Miss.—Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. O'Keefe, 88 So. 1, 125 Miss. 536.
10 C.J. p 645 note 94.

Child of tender years
A carrier of passengers is not required to accept, unattended, a child of tender years needing special attention.—Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. O'Keefe, 88 So. 1, 125 Miss. 536.

Mental incompetent
A carrier is not required to accept as a passenger one without an attendant who is mentally incapable of caring for himself.—Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Sears, Tex.Com.App., 210 S.W. 684, reversing, Civ.App., 155 S.W. 1003.

29. Ky.—Casteel v. American Airways, 88 S.W.2d 976, 261 Ky. 818.

30. Miss.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Smith, 37 So. 643, 85 Miss. 349, 107 Am.S.R. 293, 70 L.R.A. 642.
Tenn.—Hogan v. Nashville Interurban R. Co., 174 S.W. 1118, 131 Tenn. 244, L.R.A.1915C 788, Ann. Cas.1916C 1162.
10 C.J. p 646 note 95.

31. Ala.—Hines v. Minard, 94 So. 302, 208 Ala. 176.
10 C.J. p 646 note 96.

Where insane person accompanied by attendant offered herself as a time, although he is in the charge of attendants.[32] A blind person otherwise qualified cannot be refused passage on that ground alone,[33] but the carrier may insist that he be accompanied by a competent attendant,[34] unless it has reasonable grounds to believe that he can travel alone.[35]

Persons soliciting business in conflict or competition with carrier. The carrier may exclude a person who wishes to travel on its line for the purpose of soliciting business in conflict or competition with that in which the carrier is engaged, and may refuse transportation to such person, although he is willing to pay the usual fare charged to others.[36] A competitor, however, as part of the general public, is entitled to transportation where such competition is not conducted on the trains or stations of the carrier.[37]

Nonunion workingmen; danger of attack. A carrier may not exclude from its passenger cars nonunion workingmen, on the ground that a mob of strikers may board the train and injure other passengers.[38]

Waiver of grounds for refusal. Where at any time there is reasonable ground for refusing to receive and to carry passengers applying for transportation, the carrier should then insist on such ground, if desirous of avoiding responsibility; if it does not do so, and receives the passengers, their baggage, and other property, its liability will be the same as though no ground for refusal ever existed;[39] and, moreover, it may contract specially to carry such persons.[40]

§ 539. On Freight and Special Trains or Cars

A railroad, generally, is not required to carry passengers on its freight or special trains or cars, unless it is required to do so by statute or custom.

Except where a railroad company is required by statute to transport passengers on freight trains,[41] generally speaking, it has the right to refuse to carry passengers on its freight trains,[42] or, if it does receive them, to make such reasonable regulations as to the precedent purchase of tickets, or other conditions, as it may see fit.[43] Where, however, a company is accustomed to carry passengers on such trains, its duty, as a common carrier, to receive and to carry such persons as offer themselves is of the same character as in the case of its regular passenger trains.[44] Even if the company does not regularly carry passengers on its freight trains, the acceptance of fare by the conductor from one who has entered the train, or the sale of a ticket by an agent who assures the passenger that he can travel on such train, although there may be a regulation of the company prohibiting such travel, will impose on the company the customary liabilities of carriers of passengers.[45]

Special trains or cars. A carrier is not bound to receive or transport passengers on special trains or cars running for the particular purposes of the carrier, and not for the convenience of the traveling public.[46]

§ 540. Remedy for Refusal of Transportation

a. In general
b. Damages

passenger, and showed no evidence of doing violence, it is the carrier's duty to accept and carry her as a passenger, as long as she shows no evidence of becoming violent.—Hines v. Minard, 94 So. 302, 208 Ala. 176.

32. Ga.—Owens v. Macon, etc., R. Co., 46 S.E. 87, 119 Ga. 230, 63 L.R.A. 946.
10 C.J. p. 646 note 97.

33. Mich.—Wilson v. Detroit United R. Co., 132 N.W. 762, 167 Mich. 107, 118.
Miss.—Zackery v. Mobile, etc., R. Co., 21 So. 246, 74 Miss. 520, 60 Am.S.R. 529, 36 L.R.A. 546, 23 So. 434, 75 Miss. 746, 65 Am.S.R. 617, 41 L.R.A. 385.

34. Colo.—Denver, etc., R. Co. v. Derry, 108 P. 172, 47 Colo. 584, 27 L.R.A.,N.S., 761.
10 C.J. p. 646 note 99.

35. Miss.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Smith, 37 So. 643, 85 Miss. 349, 107 Am.S.R. 293, 70 L.R.A. 642.
10 C.J. p. 646 note 1.

36. U.S.—Barney v. D. R. Martin, C.C.N.Y., 2 F.Cas.No.1,030, 11 Blatchf. 233.—Jencks v. Coleman, C.C.R.I., 13 F.Cas.No.7,258, 2 Sumn. 221.
N.Y.—Barney v. Oyster Bay, etc., Steamboat Co., 67 N.Y. 301, 23 Am.R. 115, affirming 2 Thomps. & C. 598.

37. La.—Ford v. East Louisiana R. Co., 34 So. 585, 110 La. 414.
10 C.J. p. 646 note 3.

38. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Pillsbury, 8 N.E. 803.

39. U.S.—Hannibal & St. J. R. Co. v. Swift, Mo., 12 Wall. 262, 20 L.Ed. 423.
10 C.J. p. 646 note 6.
Acceptance by carrier generally see infra § 561.

40. Miss.—Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. O'Keefe, 88 So. 1, 125 Miss. 536.
Tex.—Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Sears, Com.App., 210 S.W. 684, reversing, Civ.App., 155 S.W. 1003.
Special contracts in general see infra §§ 615–621.

41. Kan.—Jones v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 157 P. 399, 98 Kan. 133.
10 C.J. p. 647 note 7.

42. Mo.—Whitehead v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 11 S.W. 751, 99 Mo. 263, 6 L.R.A. 409.
10 C.J. p. 647 note 8.
Status of persons riding on freight trains generally see infra § 552.

43. Mich.—Greenfield v. Detroit, etc., R. Co., 95 N.W. 546, 133 Mich. 557.
Requiring ticket or permit on freight train generally see infra § 606.

44. Mo.—Whitehead v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 11 S.W. 751, 99 Mo. 263, 6 L.R.A. 409.
10 C.J. p. 647 note 10.

45. Kan.—Kansas Pac. R. Co. v. Kessler, 18 Kan. 523.

46. Ind.—Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Wade, 48 N.E. 12, 18 Ind.App. 346.
10 C.J. p. 647 note 12.

a. In General

The remedy of a person wrongfully refused carriage on the vehicle of a public or common carrier of passengers is an action for damages.

The remedy of one who is wrongfully refused carriage on the vehicle of a public carrier of passengers is an action for damages,[47] and in some jurisdictions this remedy is expressly prescribed by statute.[48] An agent of an intending passenger cannot complain of a carrier's refusal to render service, as the right to such service is in the intending passenger.[49]

Jurisdiction and venue. Under a statute providing that in all cases where any person, firm, or corporation shall commit trespass, or do anything for which an action for damages lies, or where any corporation shall fail to do anything for which an action for damages lies, such person, firm, or corporation may be sued in the jurisdiction where such damage is done or trespass is committed, or at the domicile of such person, firm, or corporation, an action against a carrier for refusal to transport may be brought in the jurisdiction where such refusal occurred, and does not necessarily mean the jurisdiction in which the party injured actually was at the time he was injured.[50]

Pleading. In declaring against a carrier for refusing to carry, plaintiff must aver that he offered or was ready and willing to pay fare,[51] as well as other facts necessary to constitute his cause of action.[52]

Evidence. The burden is on the carrier to justify its refusal to accept as passengers those who properly apply by showing the existence of the special facts warranting such refusal.[53] The admissibility of evidence is governed by the ordinary rules regulating admissibility of evidence in civil actions.[54]

Trial. The reasonableness or unreasonableness of a refusal to carry a particular person is ordinarily a question for the jury;[55] and where there is evidence to support the allegations of the complaint it is proper to refuse a nonsuit.[56] The verdict and findings in such an action are governed by the rules applying to verdicts and findings in civil actions generally.[57]

b. Damages

The measure of damages is the actual loss or damage sustained by the intending passenger, including damages for mental suffering and humiliation, and exemplary or punitive damages where the carrier has acted willfully or with violence or bad faith.

General or special damages may be recovered for a carrier's refusal to carry a person as a passenger,[58] and such damages consist in compensation for the actual loss or damage sustained by the intending passenger; this may include, speaking generally, the expense of reaching his destination by

47. Ala.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v Frizzle, 108 So. 615, 21 Ala.App 354, certiorari denied 108 So. 616, 214 Ala. 688
10 C.J. p 647 note 13.

Law applicable
In absence of statute, common law must be looked to for applicable law, with respect to damages against carrier for refusing to accept passenger.—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S.W.2d 356, 240 Ky. 1.

Person qualified to purchase ticket
A carrier refusing to receive, as passenger, a person qualified to purchase a ticket, without a sufficient excuse, is liable to an action for damages.—Brumfield v Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S.W.2d 356, 240 Ky. 1

Right enforced by action and not by vi et armis
Out of the carrier's duty to carry springs a license to every person, having no notice to keep off, to go on the carrier's conveyance; but with such notice, the license is withdrawn, and, whether rightful or wrongful, such right cannot be enforced vi et armis; the remedy of a person so aggrieved is by action.—North Chicago St. R Co. v. Olds, 40 Ill.App 421.—10 C.J p 647 note 15.

48. Tex.—Paris, etc., R. Co v. Robinson, 114 S.W. 658, 53 Tex.Civ. App 12.
10 C.J p 647 note 14.

49. U.S.—Atchison, etc., R. Co. v Tiedt, Ill., 196 F. 348, 116 C.C.A. 168, 40 L.R.A.,N.S., 848.

50. La.—O'Brien v. Delta Air Corporation, 178 So. 489, 188 La. 911.

Where mother made contract in California for carriage of minor son from Shreveport, La., to California in one of corporation's regular passenger planes, and corporate agents in Shreveport refused to carry son as agreed, mother under statute could maintain action for damages in Shreveport instead of place of corporation's domicile, notwithstanding mother was residing in California at time of breach of duty, since place where corporation was to begin to carry out contract and where breach occurred was Shreveport, which fixed venue.—O'Brien v. Delta Air Corporation, 178 So. 489, 188 La. 911.

51. Mich.—Day v. Owen, 5 Mich. 520, 72 Am.D. 62.

52. S.C.—Kibler v. Southern R. Co., 41 S.E. 977, 64 S.C. 242.
10 C.J. p 648 note 18.

53. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v Laurence, 153 S.W. 799, 106 Ark. 544

54. Ky.—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S.W.2d 356, 240 Ky. 1.
10 C.J. p 648 note 20.

Oral rule of bus company, with respect to the reservations of seats, is admissible in an action for damages for a refusal to accept a passenger.—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S.W.2d 356, 240 Ky. 1

55. Miss.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v Smith, 37 So. 643, 85 Miss. 349, 107 Am.S.R. 293, 70 L.R.A. 642.
10 C.J. p 648 note 21.

56. S.C.—Kibler v. Southern R. Co., 41 S.E. 977, 64 S.C. 242.

57. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Dare, 138 S.W. 1009, 99 Ark. 486.
10 C.J. p 648 note 23.

58. Ga.—Georgia R., etc., Co. v. Greer, 66 S.E. 961, 7 Ga.App. 292.

another means, hotel expenses incurred by the delay, and any actual loss sustained in matters of business as the direct and necessary consequence of the carrier's failure to carry him,[59] and may also include the cost of the passenger's ticket,[60] on his offering to surrender it,[61] and something for the indignity, vexation, and disgrace to which the person has been subjected.[62]

Punitive or exemplary damages may be recovered in addition to actual damages, where the carrier's refusal is willful or accompanied by violence or bad faith;[63] but not where the element of willfulness, wantonness, or bad faith is lacking.[64] In some jurisdictions a railroad company can be held liable for exemplary damages only where it has ratified the malicious acts of its agents in failing or refusing to carry a passenger.[65]

§ 541. Stealing Ride as Criminal Offense

Stealing or attempting to steal a ride on a carrier's conveyance, under some statutes, constitutes a penal offense.

Statutes varying somewhat in their provisions have been enacted in some states, the effect of which is to make it an indictable offense to steal, or to attempt to steal, rides on the cars of a railroad company,[66] such as by knowingly and willfully proceeding on a train beyond the point to which he had paid his fare, with the intent to avoid the payment of the additional fare.[67] It is within the power of the legislature to enact statutes of this character as a measure conducive to the public safety, and this is so whether or not the ride so "stolen" is the subject matter of larceny.[68] One who openly enters and remains in a car with no intent to pay his fare is not guilty of attempting to steal a ride.[69] On the other hand, if one conceals himself on a train or in a car to avoid paying his fare, he is guilty of attempting to steal a ride if removed before the journey begins,[70] and of actually stealing a ride if he remains in the car until after the journey has commenced;[71] and it is no defense that he was un-

59. Ala.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v Frizzle, 108 So 615, 21 Ala.App 354, certiorari denied 108 So. 616, 214 Ala. 688.
Ind.—Pittsburgh, C., C & St. L. Ry Co. v. Friend, 143 N.E. 879, 194 Ind. 579, overruling rehearing 142 N.E. 709, 194 Ind. 579.
10 C.J. p 648 note 26

Additional cost and expense may be recovered by a wrongfully rejected passenger.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Frizzle, 108 So. 615, 21 Ala. App. 354, certiorari denied 108 So. 616, 214 Ala. 688.

Damages held not excessive for wrongful rejection of bridal couple in presence of bridal party from train, requiring them to take later train.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Frizzle, 108 So. 615, 21 Ala.App. 354, certiorari denied 108 So. 616, 214 Ala. 688.
Damages for:
Breach of contract of transportation see infra §§ 669-675
Wrongful ejection see infra §§ 846-854.

60. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Dare, 138 S.W. 1009, 99 Ark. 486.
Ky.—Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v Gatewood, 159 S.W. 660, 155 Ky 102.
S.C.—Caldwell v Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 55 S.E. 131, 75 S.C. 74.

61. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Dare, 138 S.W. 1009, 99 Ark. 486.

62. Ala.—Louisville & N R. Co v. Frizzle, 108 So. 615, 21 Ala.App. 354, certiorari denied 108 So. 616, 214 Ala. 688.
10 C.J. p 648 note 29.

63. S.C.—Vlasservitch v. Augusta, etc., R Co, 67 S.E 306, 85 S.C. 291
10 C.J. p 648 note 30
Exemplary damages for:
Breach of contract of transportation see infra § 674.
Wrongful ejection see infra § 853

64. Ky.—Chesapeake, etc., R. Co v. Gatewood, 159 S.W. 660, 155 Ky 102.
10 C.J. p 649 note 31.

65. Tex.—Townsend v. Texas, etc., R. Co., 88 S.W. 302, 40 Tex.Civ App. 71.

66. Tex.—Daugherty v. State, 56 S.W. 620, 41 Tex.Cr. 661.
10 C.J. p 642 note 66.

Indictment
The indictment should allege the name of the person in charge of the train or that his name could not by reasonable diligence be ascertained by the grand jury.—Daugherty v State, 56 S.W. 620, 41 Tex.Cr. 661—10 C.J. p 642 note 66 [a].

Proof
Under a statute making it an offense to trespass on railroad trains, it is necessary to prove a trespass contrary to the rules of the railroad company, and an intention to ride without paying a fare.—Burns v. Jagmetty, 90 A. 1050, 86 N.J.Law 23—10 C.J. p 642 note 66 [b].

67. N.J.—Mallery v. Erie R. Co., 92 A. 371, 86 N.J Law 210

68. Ga.—Pressley v. State, 45 S.E. 395, 118 Ga. 315.

69. Ga.—Mack v. State, 46 S.E. 437, 119 Ga. 352.

70. Ga.—Mack v. State, supra.

71. Ga.—Brazzell v. State, 46 S.E. 837, 119 Ga. 559.
10 C.J. p 643 note 70.

Gist of offense is the fraudulent concealing of one's self in the car of a railroad company for the purpose of stealing a ride and to escape payment of fare.—Dixon v. State, 107 S.E 777, 27 Ga.App. 228.

Sufficiency of pleading
An accusation charging that defendant fraudulently concealed himself in the car of a railroad company to avoid payment of fare, and stole a ride on such train while so concealed without paying fare therefor, sufficiently and substantially charged the substance and spirit of the offense, and was not subject to a demurrer on the ground that it failed to state that defendant concealed himself from the conductor or train authorities.—Dixon v. State, 107 S.E. 777, 27 Ga.App. 228.

Sufficiency of evidence
Evidence showing that defendant rode on a train in a box car without paying fare, but not showing that he was concealed, or was in the box car for the purpose of stealing a ride or to escape paying his fare, or that he concealed himself from the train authorities or was riding on the train without their knowledge or consent, or that they had anything to do with his arrest or prosecution, and not even showing with certainty that the car belonged to the railroad company rather than a circus, of which defendant was an employee, would not support a conviction.—Dixon v. State, 107 S.E. 777, 27 Ga.App. 228.

der the influence of liquor.[72] One who leaves a car without paying his fare before reaching the transfer point and boards a car on the continuing line where he pays his fare is guilty of an evasion of fare within a statute prohibiting persons from leaving cars without having paid the fare for the distance traveled.[73]

An ordinance fixing a rate for hire of hacks, etc., and imposing a fine or imprisonment for refusal to pay such rate, is within the legislative authority of a municipality authorized to regulate such conveyances.[74]

§ 542. Boarding Car While in Motion

Boarding a car while in motion, unauthorizedly or with the intent to obtain transportation surreptitiously, is an offense under some statutes.

One who steps on a car while in motion, in good faith intending to become a passenger, is not guilty of violating a statute making it a misdemeanor for a person to get on a train while in motion to obtain transportation thereon as a passenger, as such statute applies only to a person seeking to board a car or train unauthorizedly, or intending surreptitiously to obtain transportation as a passenger.[75]

§ 543. Other Offenses

Under some enactments it is an offense for a passenger to hang from the outside of a street car; or for a person to ride on a transfer or pass issued to another.

Under some enactments it is an offense for a passenger to hang from the outside of a street car;[76] or for a person to ride on a railroad pass issued to another.[77] Under an ordinance making the use of a street car transfer by a person other than the one to whom it was issued an offense, payment of a street car fare with a transfer issued to another constitutes a "use" in violation of such an ordinance.[78]

2. Who Are Passengers

§ 544. In General

A passenger, in a legal sense, generally, is one who travels in a public conveyance by virtue of a contract, express or implied, with the carrier, as to the payment of fare or that which is accepted as equivalent therefor.

As stated in Corpus Juris, which statement has been approved in subsequent decisions,[79] it is difficult to lay down a comprehensive definition of the word "passenger," or to exhaust in a single statement all the possible circumstances under which the relation of carrier and passenger may exist:[80] and, although a definition often given is that a passen-

72. Ga.—Brazzell v. State, 46 S.E 837, 119 Ga. 559.

73. Mass.—Com. v. Jones, 54 N.E. 869, 174 Mass. 401.
10 C.J p 643 note 72.
Fraud or evasion of fare generally see supra § 560

74. Ala.—Bray v. State, 37 So. 250, 140 Ala. 172.

75. N.Y.—East v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 88 N.E. 751, 195 N.Y. 409, 23 L.R.A.,N.S., 513

76. Ind.—Frank Bird Transfer Co v. Morrow, 72 N.E. 189, 36 Ind. App. 305.

Ordinance held inapplicable to summer cars

An ordinance making it unlawful for any person to hang from the outside of a street car, which ordinance was passed when the only cars in operation were drawn by horses, is inapplicable to summer cars subsequently operated by electricity, arranged with seats running crosswise, with a footboard running lengthwise of the car, used as a step or platform for the accommodation of passengers.—Frank Bird Transfer Co. v. Morrow, 72 N.E. 189, 36 Ind.App. 305.

77. Tex.—Leach v. State, 189 S.W 733, 80 Tex.Cr. 376.

Evidence

(1) In a prosecution for riding on the railroad pass of another, testimony of the railroad's auditor, that defendant had previously ridden on the pass, is admissible on the question of identity to show the number of times witness had been with defendant and his opportunity for recognition, and should be limited to the purpose for which it is introduced.—Leach v. State, 189 S.W. 733, 80 Tex.Cr. 376.

(2) The auditor may also testify that he had seen defendant previously to the offense, if defendant showed that the auditor did not know him.—Leach v. State, supra.

(3) Testimony of the auditor, that the pass was used on certain trips and certain dates other than that charged, is inadmissible, since if defendant did ride on the pass on such trips on such dates, it would not serve to identify him in relation to the offense charged.—Leach v. State, supra.

Using pass forbidden by law as offense see infra § 623.

78. Minn.—City of St. Paul v. Robinson, 152 N.W. 777, 129 Minn. 383.

Actual attempt to use transfer is necessary to constitute the offense, and hence the offense is not committed merely by the purchase of the transfer.—City of Chicago v. Taub, 150 Ill.App. 611.

Evidence held sufficient to sustain conviction

Minn.—City of St. Paul v. Robinson, 152 N.W. 777, 129 Minn. 383.

Penalty for unlawfully selling or buying transfer see infra § 650

79. Ky.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. Mollett, 270 S.W. 26, 27, 207 Ky. 745.
Mo.—State v. Rector, 40 S.W.2d 639, 641, 328 Mo. 669.
N.J.—McCarron v. Erie R. Co., Sup., 159 A. 807.

80. Iowa.—Puckett v. Pailthorpe, 223 N.W. 254, 207 Iowa 613—Weber v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 151 N.W. 852, 175 Iowa 358, L.R.A.1918A 626
Neb.—Woolsey v. Chicago, B. & Q R. Co., 58 N.W. 444, 39 Neb 798, 25 L.R.A. 79.
10 C.J. p 610 note 6.

"It is not easy to construct a definition of the term 'passenger,' which, on the one hand, will accurately include all persons entitled to the rights of passengers, and, on the other, exclude those who are not."—Rawlings v. Wabash R. Co., 71 S.W. 534, 97 Mo.App. 515.

"Just what constitutes the relationship of carrier and passenger ger, in a legal sense, is one who travels in some public conveyance by virtue of a contract expressed or implied, with the carrier, as to the payment of fare or that which is accepted as equivalent therefor,[81] this definition, like some others which have been made, does not comprehend all possible situations for, ordinarily, every person not an employee, who is carried by the express or implied consent of the carrier on a conveyance usually employed in the carriage of passengers, is presumed to be lawfully on it as a passenger.[82]

One riding in a private car may be considered as a passenger of the railroad company to whose train the car is attached;[83] but this does not apply to one riding in a private car which is moved under a contract by which the employees of the railway company become special employees and act under the orders and directions of the person owning the car.[84]

Passenger in private vehicle. One riding in a private vehicle, such as a motor vehicle, driven by the owner or his chauffeur, is a passenger for hire where he renders compensation therefor, either by a pecuniary benefit to the motorist, or by a non-pecuniary benefit directly related to the transportation.[85] has been a subject of much discussion by the courts in recent years, and the conclusions reached are not entirely harmonious."—Williams v Union Switch & Signal Co., 158 N.W. 901, 902, 37 S.D. 423.

81. Ala.—Continental Life Ins. Co v Newman, 123 So. 92, 23 Ala.App 203, reversed on other grounds 123 So. 93, 219 Ala. 311.
Iowa.—Puckett v. Pailthorpe, 223 N. W. 254, 207 Iowa 613—Fitzgibbon v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 79 N W. 477 108 Iowa 614
Pa.—Berkebile v. Johnstown Traction Co., 99 A. 371, 255 Pa. 310.
10 C.J. p 610 note 7.

Similar definitions

(1) "One who, for hire, has taken a place in a public conveyance for the purpose of being transported from one place to another."
Ill.—De La Vergne Refrigerating Mach. Co. v. McLeroth, 60 Ill.App 529, 534.
Ohio.—Hogans v. Columbus, 14 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 33, 38.

(2) "A person whom a railway, in the performance of its duty as a common carrier, has contracted to carry from one place to another place for a valuable consideration, or whom the railway, in the course of the performance of that contract, has received at its station, or in its car, or under its care."—Schepers v. Union Depot R. Co., 29 S.W. 712, 713, 126 Mo. 665—10 C.J. p 610 note 7 [a] (3)

(3) "A person who undertakes, with the consent of the carrier, to travel in a conveyance provided by the latter, otherwise than in the service of the carrier as such."
Colo.—Denver, S. P. & P. Ry. Co. v. Pickard, 6 P. 149, 152, 8 Colo. 163.
Mo.—Berry v Missouri Pac. Ry. Co., 25 S.W. 229, 233, 124 Mo. 223.
10 C.J. p 610 note 7 [a] (1).

(4) "One who enters the vehicle of a carrier with the intention of paying in money the usual fare for his transportation, or is supplied with a ticket or pass entitling him to ride to a given point."—Holt v Hannibal & St. J. R. Co., 74 S.W. 631, 633, 174 Mo. 524.
10 C.J. p 610 note 7 [a] (4).

In general terms

(1) "A passenger may be said - - - to be any person whom the carrier is, as carrier, transporting."—Norfolk & W. R. Co. v. Tanner, 41 S.E. 721, 722, 100 Va. 379.

(2) A passenger is "a person who travels in a public conveyance, as a railway car or steamship; one carried for fare by a common carrier."—State v. Rector, 40 S.W.2d 639, 641, 328 Mo. 669.

82. Ga.—Georgia, etc., R. Co. v. Tapley, 87 S.E. 473, 144 Ga. 453, L.R.A.1916C 1020.
Iowa.—Puckett v. Pailthorpe, 223 N. W. 254, 207 Iowa 613.
Tex.—International-Great Northern R. Co v Lucas, Civ.App., 70 S.W. 2d 226, reversed on other grounds 99 S.W.2d 297, 128 Tex. 480, opinion corrected 100 S.W.2d 97, 128 Tex. 480.

Transporting contractor

Where a railroad company, under a contract with a grading contractor, is required to furnish transportation, such contractor is a passenger, although riding on a motor car.—International-Great Northern R. Co. v Lucas, Civ.App., 70 S.W.2d 226, reversed on other grounds 99 S.W.2d 297, 128 Tex. 480, opinion corrected 100 S.W.2d 97, 128 Tex. 480
Presumption as to the relation of carrier and passenger generally see infra § 764.

83. Pa.—Lackawanna, etc., R. Co. v. Chenewith, 52 Pa. 382, 91 Am. D. 168.
10 C.J. p 611 note 9.

84. U.S.—Clough v. Grand Trunk Western R. Co., Mich., 155 F. 81, 85 C.C.A. 1, 11 L.R.A.,N.S., 446
Employees of others carried under contract with carrier as passenger generally see infra § 547.

85. Cal.—Haney v. Takakura, 37 P. 2d 170, 2 Cal.App.2d 1, amended 38 P.2d 160, 2 Cal.App.2d 1.
Mass.—Woods v. Woods, 3 N.E.2d 837.
Va.—Poole v. Kelley, 173 S.E. 537, 162 Va. 279—Garrett v. Hammack, 173 S.E. 535, 162 Va. 42.
Wash.—Lewis v. Bertero, 77 P.2d 786.

Motorist's promise to pick up another in response to request by the latter's son, who stated he would "fix it up" with the motorist, is a contract to receive pay for carriage, notwithstanding no definite amount is stated, since the fair value of his services would be recoverable.—Blanchette v. Sargent, 173 A. 383, 87 N.H. 15.

Contribution to expenses of operation of motor vehicle, such as for gasoline, oil, and garage charges, does not constitute payment for transportation, so as to constitute the contributor a passenger while riding in the vehicle.—Olefsky v. Ludwig, 272 N.Y.S. 158, 242 App. Div. 637.

Occupant not passenger

An occupant of an automobile driven by the owner is not "passenger for hire" where he had not paid or expected to pay for transportation, and the owner had not received or contracted with occupant or others to receive pay for occupant's carriage.—Walker v. Lloyd, Mass., 4 N.E.2d 306.

Services

(1) One riding in another's automobile, driven by the owner, to city for purpose of assisting him in marketing oranges at his request is not a "guest," but a passenger "rendering compensation."—Haney v. Takakura, 37 P.2d 170, 2 Cal.App.2d 1, amended 38 P.2d 160, 2 Cal.App.2d 1.

(2) Where truck driver who contracted to transport plaintiff's goods asked plaintiff to ride along in order to direct him as to route, which plaintiff did, services rendered by plaintiff were sufficient consideration for contract of carriage.—Lerma v. Flores, 60 P.2d 546, 16 Cal.App.2d 128.

§ 545. Necessity of Contract

The relation of carrier and passenger is dependent on the existence of a contract of carriage, express or implied, between the carrier and the passenger.

The relation of carrier and passenger is dependent on the existence of a contract of carriage, express or implied, between the carrier and the passenger, made either by themselves[86] or by their respective agents.[87] It is the existence of such a contract which distinguishes a passenger from a licensee, a trespasser, or an employee of the carrier,[88] an employee of a sleeping car company,[89] and other persons riding in the carrier's vehicles.[90] A mere contract for future transportation does not of itself create the relation of carrier and passenger, where the person so contracting has not placed himself under the care of the carrier as passenger.[91]

§ 546. Carrier's Employees

A carrier's employee, who is on the carrier's premises, or is being transported on the carrier's vehicle in connection with his services as employee, is generally regarded as not being a passenger; but generally he is regarded as a passenger where he is being transported on such vehicle for his own pleasure or convenience. A passenger rendering casual service on a train does not lose his status as passenger.

It is evident that the liability of the carrier for injuries to passengers is different from that of an employer with reference to injuries to employees in its service.[92] Therefore, the rules of a carrier's liability as to passengers do not apply to employees in the operation of the cars or other vehicles in which passengers are being transported,[93] or to others in the employ of the company.[94] Employees of the carrier who are being carried back and forth to and from their work, whether on construction trains or passenger trains, or in other vehicles of the carrier, and although they have no connection with the operation of the train and are carried outside of the hours of employment for which they are paid, without the payment of fare, are generally not to be considered as passengers;[95] and this is

Transaction held not gratuitous

If object of transporting plaintiffs in automobile driven by automobile salesman was pecuniary profit to defendant, transaction was not "gratuitous," although defendant actually received no pecuniary benefit—Foley v. McDonald, 185 N.E. 926, 283 Mass. 96.

Use of garage as consideration

Relation of passenger for hire arises where passenger for consideration agreed to give motorist use of her garage, rent free, and motorist agreed to take passenger and her husband to ride on certain days as might be reasonably agreed on during motorist's use of garage.—Chooljian v Nahigian, 173 N.E. 511, 273 Mass. 396.

Fellow employee's car

A person who pays for transportation to and from the place of his employment in a fellow employee's automobile is a "passenger for hire."—Lewis v. Bertero, Wash., 77 P.2d 786.

86. U.S.—Fels v. East St. Louis & S. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Mo., 275 F. 881—Purple v Union Pac. R. Co., Kan., 114 F. 123, 51 C.C.A. 564, 57 L.R.A. 700
Ala.—Birmingham Electric Co. v Maze, 166 So. 50, 231 Ala. 539—Broyles v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 52 So. 81, 166 Ala. 616, 139 Am.S.R. 50.
Ga.—Payne v. Allen, 116 S.E. 640, 155 Ga. 54, reversing 110 S.E. 345, 28 Ga.App. 8, conformed to 116 S.E. 642, 30 Ga.App. 80.
Ill.—Todd v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 113 N.E. 95, 274 Ill. 201, L.R.A. 1916F 543.
Ky.—Bales v Louisville & N. R. Co., 200 S.W. 471, 179 Ky. 207.
Minn.—Roberts v. Northwest Airlines, 275 N.W. 410
Mo.—Banks v Kansas City Rys Co., 217 S.W. 488, 280 Mo. 227—Thomas v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., App., 293 S.W. 1051.
Ohio—Hogans v. City of Columbus, 14 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 33.
Tex.—Lee v. Baker, Civ.App., 251 S.W. 580.
10 C.J. p 611 note 11.

This rule, as stated in Corpus Juris (1) Has been judicially approved.—Birmingham Electric Co v. Maze, 166 So. 50, 51, 231 Ala. 539

(2) The entire section, as stated in Corpus Juris, has received judicial approval.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co v. Mollett, 270 S.W. 26, 27, 207 Ky. 645.

It differs from contract in ordinary relations of parties to each other, in that it is a contract which a common carrier is not at liberty to decline to make, where the would-be passenger has brought himself within the requirements entitling him to ask of it the service of carriage, and he does in fact ask it.—Virginia Ry. & Power Co. v. Arnold, 92 S.E. 925, 121 Va. 204.

87. Tex.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Wilson, 15 S.W. 280, 79 Tex. 371, 23 Am.S.R. 345, 11 L.R.A. 486.
10 C.J. p 611 note 12.

88. Ky.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. Mollett, 270 S.W. 26, 27, 207 Ky. 645.
10 C.J. p 611 notes 13–15.
Carrier's employee as passenger generally see infra § 546.

89. D.C.—Hughson v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 2 App.D.C., 98.
Employee of sleeping car company as passenger see infra § 547.

90. Minn.—Gradin v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 14 N.W. 881, 30 Minn. 217.

91. Conn.—Donovan v. Hartford St. R. Co., 32 A. 350, 65 Conn. 201, 29 L.R.A. 297

92. N.C.—Gardner v. U. S. Railroad Administration, 118 S.E. 848, 186 N.C. 64.
10 C.J. p 633 note 79.

93. Mass.—Gillshannon v. Stony Brook R. Corp., 10 Cush. 228

94. Tex.—Schaff v. Bourland, Civ. App., 266 S.W. 843.

Railroad guard hired for strike duty

Where railroad guard was hired for strike duty, and on pay roll as such, and after arriving at point where strike was in progress, and while going to waiting room to get instructions, told strike mob his business and what he was there for, he was not entitled to that high degree of care for his protection from mob required of public carrier for protection of its passengers.—Schaff v. Bourland, Tex.Civ.App., 266 S.W. 843.

95. U.S.—Maryland Dredging & Contracting Co v. State of Maryland, C.C.A.Md., 262 F. 11, modifying, D.C., State of Maryland v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 254 F. 720.
Ga.—Tharp v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 121 S.E. 592, 31 Ga.App. 598.
Pa.—Knorr v. Central Railroad of New Jersey, 110 A. 797, 268 Pa. 172, certiorari denied Central R. Co. of New Jersey v. Knorr, 41 S.Ct. 15, 254 U.S. 644, 65 L.Ed. 454.

also true of an employee who voluntarily rides on a train to his work, without payment of fare, and without any arrangement in regard thereto with the company,[96] or who uses a vehicle of the company, on his private business, with the company's permission,[97] or of employees who borrow a car and engine without the company's consent for their own purpose.[98]

However, as it is customary to give free transportation, as an ordinary passenger, to employees as a part of the consideration for their services, it has been held that an employee so riding, not for the purpose of rendering any service, and not rendering any service on the train, or connected with any such service, but for his own pleasure or advantage, even though continuing all the while in a popular sense in the employment of the company, is a passenger,[99] as where the employee is given, in addition to his wages, tickets or passes which entitle him to ride to and from his work, he is, while riding on such tickets, a passenger to whom the carrier owes the same duty as to other passengers,[1] un-

S.D.—Williams v. Union Switch & Signal Co., 158 N.W. 901, 37 S.D. 423.
10 C.J. p 633 note 81.

"Rule may be stated in another way, which is that railroad employees while being transported over the road as an incident of, or in immediate connection with, their employment or as a part of their contract of service are not to be regarded as passengers, but as employees merely."—Bernard v. Michigan United Traction Co., 178 N.W. 43, 45, 210 Mich. 333.

Stop for personal business

In accepting and using free transportation to and from his residence and work, a railroad employee was not a passenger, but an employee, although he stopped for a short period on his way home to attend to personal business.—Knorr v. Central Railroad of New Jersey, 110 A. 797, 268 Pa. 172, certiorari denied Central R. Co. of New Jersey v. Knorr, 41 S. Ct. 15, 254 U.S. 644, 65 L.Ed. 454

96. Iowa.—Dodge v. Chicago Great Western R. Co., 146 N.W. 14, 164 Iowa 627.
10 C.J. p 633 note 82.

97. Mont.—Glover v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., 171 P. 278, 54 Mont. 446.

Using gasoline speeder

Where attitude of railroad company toward employees riding on railroad's gasoline speeders on their private business was, at most, one of permission, they are mere licensees, and it was not liable to employee so riding, injured by defect in speeder, on theory of his being passenger.—Glover v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., 171 P. 278, 54 Mont. 446.

98. U.S.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Bryant, Minn., 65 F. 969, 13 C.C.A. 249.
10 C.J. p 633 note 83.

Entire paragraph of text preceding, as stated in Corpus Juris, has been approved in subsequent decisions.
Mo.—State v. Rector, 40 S.W.2d 639, 641, 328 Mo. 669.

N.C.—Gardner v. U. S. Railroad Administration, 118 S.E. 848, 849, 186 N.C. 64.

99. S.D.—Williams v. Union Switch & Signal Co., 158 N.W. 901, 37 S.D. 423
Tenn.—Nashville Ry. & Light Co. v. Overby, 223 S.W. 997, 143 Tenn. 581.
10 C.J. p 633 note 84.

"Great weight of authority . . . is to the effect that when the employé, either by virtue of his contract of employment or under a rule or custom of his employer, is accorded the same means and privileges of transportation over the lines of his employer as an ordinary passenger for hire, then, while riding upon his employer's cars at a time when, under his contract of employment, he is neither under the control of his employer nor obliged to perform any service for him, he is to be regarded as a passenger, and that, under such circumstances, it is immaterial that the employé be either going to or coming from his place of work"—Klinck v. Chicago City Ry. Co., 104 N.E. 669, 671, 262 Ill. 280, 52 L.R.A.,N.S., 76, Ann. Cas.1915B 177.

Employee of switch and signal company

Where the employer, a switch and signal company, installing electric signals for a railway, was transporting its servant on a gasoline rail car, not as part of his employment of cleaning out battery wells, but was transporting him to and from a boarding house operated by it, when he was injured through his gang foreman throwing on the brakes too sharply, such servant was a "passenger."—Williams v. Union Switch & Signal Co., 158 N.W. 901, 37 S.D. 423

"L" guard staying on train after duty

Where an elevated railway guard stayed on train after duty and for his own purpose, he was a passenger.—Pierson v. Interborough Rapid Transit Co., 172 N.Y.S. 492, 184 App. Div. 678, affirming 168 N.Y.S. 425, 102 Misc. 130, and dismissal denied 123 N.E. 885, 226 N.Y. 689, and affirmed 126 N.E. 920, 227 N.Y. 666.

One employed by railroad company to work on bridge under a contract whereby, in addition to specified wages, he is to have daily transportation from his home to the bridge and return, is not an employee of the company while being transported from his home, but a passenger.—McNulty v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 38 A. 524, 182 Pa. 479.

Street railway employee

(1) If, when the employee of a street railway was riding on its car, his time did not belong to the railway, and if his contract of service did not contemplate that he should ride on its car as a means of furthering its business, he was a passenger.
Mich.—Bernard v. Michigan United Traction Co., 178 N.W. 43, 210 Mich. 333
W.Va.—Harris v. City, etc., R. Co., 70 S.E. 859, 69 W.Va. 65, 50 L.R.A.,N.S., 706, Ann.Cas.1912D 59.

(2) A track foreman injured while being transported free of charge to his home after finishing his day's work as an employee of the street railway company, is a passenger, and entitled to recover as such.—Elmer v. Pittsburgh Rys. Co., 96 A. 1054, 251 Pa. 505

Transportation to different locality

Where railroad laborer was engaged to work in different locality and furnished transportation by railroad to destination, he was "passenger," as regards degree of care required in crossing tracks.—Brown v. Union Pac. R. Co., 290 P. 759, 76 Utah 475.

1. N.C.—Campbell v. American Fidelity & Casualty Co., 192 S.E. 906, 212 N.C. 65.
Pa.—Borden v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 76 Pa.Super. 517.
10 C.J. p 634 note 85

Employee of electric company

While an operator of motors and rotaries for an electric company, by engaging with a railroad company to make a daily reading of the amount of electricity furnished to it, and to deliver a report thereof less his pass expressly waives his right to claim compensation for injuries while being carried;[2] but as to this rule there is authority to the contrary.[3] An employee on a pay train by invitation to receive his wages is in the position of a passenger.[4]

Elevators. Employees in a building, such as a hotel or store, are not passengers while being carried to and from their work on an elevator owned and operated in such building by their employer;[5] but it has been held that a person being carried to the place of her work in an elevator before the time for her to begin work is a passenger and not a servant of the owner of the building.[6]

Where a passenger renders service as an employee, at the request of the servants of the carrier, and is injured while so engaged, it has been held that he is, with reference to such injury, to be deemed an employee and not a passenger, having gone outside of his relation as passenger in performing the service and having incurred dangers other than those involved in that relation;[7] but a passenger will not, by the performance of a casual service on a train or car cease to be a passenger and become an employee of the railroad,[8] particularly after he has returned to his position as passenger.[9]

§ 547. Employees of Others Carried under Contract with Carrier

Employees, other than employees of the carrier, who are engaged in occupations which involve their transportation on passenger trains and who are so transported under special contracts between their employers and the carrier are generally entitled to the rights of passengers.

Persons who, as the employees of others, and not of the carrier, are engaged in occupations which involve their transportation on passenger trains, and who are so transported under special contracts between their employers and the carrier, are generally entitled to the rights of passengers.[10] One is not deprived of the protection due a passenger when carried on a passenger train by such an arrangement with the railroad company, by the fact that he is there for the purpose of transacting some business or of carrying on some occupation with the consent of the company;[11] but this does not apply to one who is allowed such a privilege by mere sufferance or permission;[12] and where an employee of another rides on a train in violation of an express rule of the railroad company forbidding him so to do, of which rule he has knowledge, he is a trespasser.[13]

Where a railroad company simply furnishes the motive power for a special train, having no control over the management of the train itself, the company is not so related to persons riding on the train as to be charged with the duty of their protection as passengers, particularly, where the contract stipulates that the railroad company is not acting in the matter as a common carrier, and exempts it from liability for injuries.[14] to some conductor of a trolley car, at the end of the day, in consideration for which he was to have transportation between his home and his place of work for the electric company, thereby became also an employee of the railway company, the relation which he bore to it when he was injured, while riding home on one of its cars after furnishing such a report to the conductor thereof, was not that of employee, but of "passenger"—Strohl v. Eastern Pennsylvania Rys. Co., 113 A. 62, 270 Pa. 132.

"Passes issued for a valuable consideration, whether money or services, are in no sense gratuitous and an employee riding on such a pass is a passenger for hire."—Campbell v. American Fidelity & Casualty Co., 192 S.E. 906, 212 N.C. 65

2. Tenn.—Nashville Ry. & Light Co. v. Overby, 223 S.W. 997, 143 Tenn. 581.
Passes containing exemption from liability generally see infra §§ 634, 635.

3. Ga.—Tharp v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 121 S.E. 592, 31 Ga.App. 598.

Railroad employee, while being carried to and from his place of work as part of the contract of service, is a servant of the company, and not a passenger, and his status is not altered because his right to travel is evidenced by a free pass stipulating that it is given as a gratuity only and on condition of release of liability for injuries.—Tharp v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 121 S.E. 592, 31 Ga.App. 598.

4. Tenn.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Stacker, 6 S.W. 737, 86 Tenn. 343, 6 Am.S.R. 840.

5. Ill.—Walsh v. Cullen, 85 N.E. 223, 235 Ill. 91, 18 L.R.A.,N.S., 911, reversing 138 Ill.App. 168.
10 C.J. p 634 note 89.
Passenger on elevator generally see supra § 533.

6. Or.—Putnam v. Pacific Monthly Co., 130 P. 986, 136 P. 835, 68 Or. 36, 45 L.R.A.,N.S., 338, L.R.A.1915F 782, Ann.Cas.1915C 256.

7. Kan.—Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Lindley, 22 P. 703, 42 Kan. 714, 16 Am.S.R. 515, 6 L.R.A. 646
10 C.J. p 634 note 86.

8. Ark.—Tri-State Transit Co. of Louisiana v. Miller, 65 S.W.2d 9, 188 Ark. 149, 90 A.L.R. 1389.
10 C.J. p 634 note 87.

Bus passenger, injured when complying with driver's request to press down on accelerator, so that driver could make repairs, did not lose status of "passenger" and become "emergency employee" of carrier or "fellow servant" of driver.—Tri-State Transit Co. of Louisiana v. Miller, 65 S.W.2d 9, 90 A.L.R. 1389, 188 Ark. 149.

9. Pa.—Cumberland Valley R. Co. v. Myers, 55 Pa. 288

10. Tex.—International-Great Northern R. Co. v. Lucas, Civ.App., 70 S.W.2d 226, reversed on other grounds 99 S.W.2d 297, 128 Tex. 480, opinion corrected 100 S.W.2d 97, 128 Tex. 480.
10 C.J. p 630 note 62.

11. Cal.—Yeomans v. Contra Costa Steam Nav. Co., 44 Cal. 71.
Mass.—Commonwealth v. Vermont, etc., R. Co., 108 Mass. 7, 11 Am. R. 301.

12. Minn.—Gradin v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 14 N.W. 881, 30 Minn. 217.
10 C.J. p 630 note 64.

13. Ark.—Prescott, etc., R. Co. v. Hopkins, 182 S.W. 551, 122 Ark. 168.
10 C.J. p 631 note 67.

14. U.S.—Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry.

An employee of a news company, who is permitted by the carrier, under a contract between the carrier and the news company, to ride on its trains to sell magazines, fruit, and candy to passengers, is a passenger,[15] although the arrangement between the two companies does not appear.[16] However, in the absence of such a contract, a newspaper peddler on a train or a street car by sufferance or permission merely to ply his trade is not a passenger, but only a licensee.[17]

A servant of a sleeping car company who is given free transportation by a railroad company by the terms of an existing contract between the two companies has been held not to be a passenger of the railroad company on whose line he runs, in any such sense as to require of it the highest degree of care and skill in the operation of its road,[18] particularly where the contract between the two companies, which is ratified by the employee, so provides.[19] On the other hand, it has been held that such servant, although not a passenger in the ordinary meaning of the word, occupies the position of a passenger in regard to the careful running and management of the train.[20]

§ 548. Postal Clerks and Express Messengers

Railway postal clerks and express messengers are generally regarded as passengers while engaged in their duties on railroad trains.

Although it has been held that a postal clerk while on a train in the performance of his duties is not a passenger, so that the railroad company is liable to him for an injury only in case of negligence which would render it liable to its own employees,[21] by the weight of authority a postal clerk, employed in the service of the government and engaged in its service, traveling on a train, whom by contract with the government the company is bound to carry, must be considered a passenger,[22] at least in so far as

Co. v. Maucher, 39 S.Ct. 108, 248 U.S. 359, 63 L.Ed. 294, dismissing error Maucher v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co., 159 N.W. 422, 100 Neb. 237.

10 C.J. p 631 note 66.

Circus employee

One riding on a train running over a railroad under right given the train owner by contract with the railway company, stipulating that the company was not acting therein as a common carrier, was not a passenger of the company; but his claim for injury from its negligence rests on the general right of an individual not to be injured by another's negligence.—Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. Maucher, 39 S.Ct. 108, 248 U.S. 359, 63 L.Ed. 294, dismissing error Maucher v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co., 159 N.W. 422, 100 Neb. 237

10 C.J. p 631 note 66 [a].

15. Iowa.—Shadduck v. Chicago, M., St. P. & P. R. Co., 252 N.W. 772, 218 Iowa 281.

16. D.C. — Seymoure v. Director General of Railroads, 290 F. 291, 53 App.D.C. 316.

17. Md.—Rosenkokovitz v. United R., etc., Co., 70 A. 108, 108 Md. 306.

10 C.J. p 631 note 65.

18. Colo.—Denver, etc., R. Co. v. Whan, 89 P. 39, 39 Colo. 230, 11 L.R.A.,N.S., 432, 12 Ann.Cas. 732

D.C.—Hughson v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 2 App.D.C. 98.

19. Ga.—Cato v. Southern Ry. Co., 106 S.E. 272, 151 Ga. 308, conformed to 107 S.E. 98, 26 Ga.App. 578.

Pullman conductor

One in the employ of the Pullman Company as conductor, under a contract whereby he ratified a contract between his employer and the railroad company and agreed that he should not have the rights of a passenger, and that it should not be liable for any injuries sustained by him, was not an "employee" or a "passenger" of the railroad company, but sustained a special contractual relation, the liability for injuries to the Pullman Company's employees, not pertaining to the public duty resting on the railroad company as a common carrier, but arising solely from the contract.—Cato v. Southern Ry. Co., 106 S.E. 272, 151 Ga. 308, conformed to 107 S.E. 98, 26 Ga.App. 578.

20. Mo.—Jones v. St. Louis Southwestern, etc., Ry. Co., 28 S.W. 883, 125 Mo. 666, 46 Am.S.R. 514, 26 L.R.A. 718.

10 C.J. p 631 note 69.

21. U.S.—Price v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 5 S.Ct. 427, 113 U.S. 221, 28 L.Ed. 981, dismissing error 96 Pa. 256.

10 C.J. p 631 note 70.

22. Ala.—Continental Life Ins. Co. v. Newman, 123 So. 93, 219 Ala. 311, reversing 123 So. 92, 23 Ala.App. 203.—Louisville & N.R. Co. v. Bowen, 103 So. 872, 212 Ala. 690.—Southern R. Co. v. Harrington, 52 So. 57, 166 Ala. 630, 139 Am.S.R. 59.

Ind.—Pittsburgh, C., C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Jones, 146 N.E. 864, 82 Ind.App. 569.

Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Dougherty, 185 S.W. 114, 170 Ky. 10, L.R.A.1916E 464.

Mo.—Scheipers v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 293 S.W. 51

Ohio.—Pittsburg, C., C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Pool, 17 Ohio Cir.Ct.,N.S., 404

Okl.—Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. v. Edmonds, 174 P. 1052, 73 Okl. 2

Va.—Carter v. Washington & O. D. Ry. Co., 95 S.E. 464, 122 Va. 458

10 C.J. p 631 note 71.

This rule, as stated in Corpus Juris, has been cited with approval in:

Ala.—Continental Life Ins. Co. v. Newman, 123 So. 93, 219 Ala. 311, reversing 123 So. 92, 23 Ala.App. 203.

Md.—Baltimore & O.R. Co. v. Davis, 137 A. 30, 33, 152 Md. 427.

Similar statement of rule

"It has been uniformly held, in the absence of a statutory provision to the contrary, that a mail clerk in the discharge of his duties as such, and in going to and returning from his work, while on the train is a passenger."—Louisville & N.R. Co. v. Dougherty, 185 S.W. 114, 115, 170 Ky. 10, L.R.A.1916E 464.

As passengers for reward

Postal clerks while on duty are passengers for reward. — Lusk v. Wilkes, 172 P. 929, 70 Okl. 44, L.R.A. 1918E 513

In car not switched into regular train

Where railway mail clerk was injured by violence with which locomotive struck car, his rights as passenger were not taken from him by fact that car which he entered to perform his regular duties had not yet been switched into regular train.—Pittsburgh, C., C. & St. L. R.

the company's liability for his personal injuries through negligence is concerned, as explained infra § 699. Since the relation is one of contract, it can arise only with the knowledge and acquiescence of both parties, and the carrier is under no duty to treat the clerk as a passenger, unless it knows of his presence in its car and acquiesces therein.[23]

A railway postal clerk, is not deprived of his status as passenger during the time he is merely superintending the loading of the car while it is standing at a station;[24] but a mail clerk whose duty it is to load cars and not to ride on them is not a passenger.[25]

Express messengers. An express messenger employed and paid solely by an express company and entitled under an arrangement between the express company and the railroad company to ride on the trains of the latter in the discharge of his duties is generally regarded as a passenger while on such train in the discharge of his duties,[26] and, as stated infra § 699, is entitled to the same degree of protection, although no charge is made for his transportation.[27] It has been held, however, that the relation of such messenger to the railroad company is analogous to that of one of its own employees;[28] and that, where the messenger agrees to hold the carrier harmless for personal injuries, he does not stand in the relation of a passenger.[29]

An employee of an express company employed to load and to unload express matter into and from cars at a station is not a passenger,[30] nor is he a passenger while riding on a freight elevator in a depot, engaged in loading or unloading goods.[31]

§ 549. Persons Riding Gratuitously in General

A person who is accepted or invited to ride as a passenger without the payment of fare and who does so in good faith has the status of a passenger. This rule applies to a child so accepted or invited, or who is in charge of another who does pay fare.

While it is no doubt true, as indicated in the definitions, given in §§ 530, 544, that public carriers of passengers are those which carry passengers for hire, there is not, in the case of carriers of passengers, a distinction as to liability between passengers carried for compensation and those carried gratuitously analogous to that recognized as to carriers of goods between cases where goods are carried for compensation and those where they are carried free, as explained supra § 3.

One who is accepted for transportation as a passenger without any compensation to be rendered is nevertheless entitled to all the care and protection which the carrier is under obligation to furnish to paying passengers, as announced infra § 680. Such acceptance must be by an officer or agent having the proper authority to do so;[32] and where one enters a train or car without any intention of paying fare, but under a collusive agreement with the conductor or some other employee to ride free in violation of the rules of the company, he does not become a passenger.[33] Where, however, the conductor of a train or other agent of the carrier, in violation of the rules of the carrier; invites a person to ride without payment of fare, the person riding in good faith on such invitation is a passenger and not a trespasser.[34]

Co. v. Jones, 146 N.E. 864, 82 Ind App 569.

23. Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Dougherty, 185 S.W. 114, 170 Ky. 10 L.R.A 1916E 464.

24. Md—Baltimore & O. R. Co v. Davis, 137 A. 30, 152 Md 427.

25. Mass—Ward v. New York Cent. R Co., 142 N.E. 751, 248 Mass. 115.

26. Kan—Sewell v. Atchison, etc., R. Co, 96 P. 1007, 78 Kan. 1.
10 C J. p 632 note 73.

27. N Y—Blair v Erie R. Co., 66 N.Y. 313, 23 Am.R 55.

28. U S—Baltimore & O. S. W. R Co v. Voigt, 20 S.Ct 385, 176 U S. 498, 44 L Ed 560.
10 C J p 632 note 75.

29. U.S—Long v. Lehigh Valley R. Co, N Y, 130 F. 870, 65 C.C.A 354.
10 C J. p 632 note 76.
Limitation or exemption from liability for negligence generally see infra § 636.

30. N H.—Piper v Boston, etc., R. Co., 72 A. 1024, 75 N H. 238.

31. Tenn—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Hensley, 7 Tenn Civ.App 610.

32. U.S.—Clark v. Colorado & N W. R. Co., Colo, 165 F. 408, 91 C.C.A 358, 19 L R.A ,N.S., 988.
10 C.J. p 635 note 94.

33. Ark.—St. Louis-San Francisco R Co. v. Bley, 271 S.W. 455, 168 Ark. 814.
Ky.—Morris v City Transfer & Yellow Taxi Co., 294 S.W. 1030, 220 Ky 219.
10 C.J. p 635 note 95.

Corpus Juris text is quoted with approval in Morris v. City Transfer and Yellow Taxi Co., 294 S.W 1030, 1031, 220 Ky. 219.

One taking joy ride in taxicab, without an intention to pay or to be charged therefor, as the driver's guest in return for hospitality he has received, is not a passenger—Morris v. City Transfer & Yellow Taxi Co., 294 S W. 1030, 220 Ky. 219.
Fraud or evasion of fare in general see infra § 560.
Payment of fare as condition to becoming passenger see infra § 559.

34. La.—Stevens v. Yellow Cab Co, App, 142 So. 807.
10 C.J. p 635 note 96.

In taxicab

Where after a cab is already engaged by others, the driver picks up acquaintances with the intention, not communicated to them, of charging them no fare, in violation of the rules of the taxicab company, such acquaintances are passengers.—Stevens v Yellow Cab Co., La.App., 142 So 807.

"Term 'deadhead' is applied to persons other than the president, directors, officers, agents, or employees of a Railroad Company, who are permitted by the company to travel on the road without paying any fare therefor."—Gardner v. Hall, 61 N.C. 21, 22.

These rules, as stated in Corpus Juris, have received judicial approv-

Children. While it seems a reasonable view that newsboys or children who are permitted to ride on a car gratuitously, with knowledge that the employee giving the permission has no authority to do so, are not passengers,[35] there are many cases holding that where a child accepts the invitation of a person in charge of a railroad or street car and having apparent authority to extend an invitation to ride thereon, without any payment of fare being intended, he becomes a passenger with reference to whose safety the carrier has the same liability as with reference to a paying passenger.[36]

Child in charge of another. A child going on a train or car with its mother, or in charge of another person who has a ticket or pays fare for herself or himself, is a passenger, although no fare is paid for such child;[37] but this rule does not apply where the child is unaccompanied by one having it in charge.[38]

Private carrier. A person riding on another's vehicle with his consent is entitled to the protection of a passenger, even though he has paid no fare;[39] but there is authority to the effect that a person being so carried as an accommodation is a mere licensee.[40]

§ 550. Persons Riding on Passes

A person riding on a pass, ordinarily, is a passenger, the same as if he were paying full fare.

As stated in Corpus Juris, which statement has been followed in subsequent decisions,[41] a person riding on a pass is as much a passenger as if he were paying full fare,[42] unless he refuses to comply with the conditions thereof,[43] and if the pass is given for a valuable consideration he is a passenger for hire.[44]

The fact that the carrier is prohibited by law from issuing free passes does not render a person a trespasser who travels on such a pass unlawfully issued to him; if the pass is unlawful, the conductor should demand the regular fare, and his failure to do so will not make the traveler a trespasser, nor destroy his rights as a passenger.[45]

§ 551. On Drover's Passes or under Similar Arrangements

A person riding on a freight train, on a drover's pass or a similar arrangement, to look after live stock being transported and as an incident to such transportation is, generally, regarded as a passenger for hire.

Persons are frequently transported on so-called passes who are not in fact gratuitous passengers, because the right to ride without payment of special compensation therefor is given in part consideration of payment which is principally for other services. Thus, persons who are carried on freight trains, on a drover's pass or a similar arrangement, to look after live stock which is being transported and as an incident to such transportation, are entitled to protection as passengers for hire,[46] provided they comply with the conditions of the al in Morris v. City Transfer & Yellow Taxi Co., 294 S.W. 1030, 1031, 220 Ky. 219.

35. U.S.—Meloon v. Davis, C.C.A. N.H., 292 F. 82.
N.Y.—Marks v. Rochester R. Co., 58 N.Y.S. 210, 41 App.Div. 66.
10 C.J. p 635 note 97.
Newsboy riding as employee of another see supra § 547.

36. Ark.—Little Rock Tract., etc., Co. v. Nelson, 52 S.W. 7, 66 Ark. 494.
10 C.J. p 635 note 98.

37. Ala.—Ball v. Mobile Light, etc., Co., 39 So. 584, 146 Ala. 309, 119 Am.S.R. 32, 9 Ann.Cas. 962.
10 C.J. p 635 note 99.

38. Tex.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Dawkins, 13 S.W. 982, 77 Tex. 228.
10 C.J. p 635 note 1.

39. W.Va.—Hodge v. Sycamore Coal Co., 95 S.E. 808, 82 W.Va. 106.

40. Ala.—Crider v. Yolande Coal & Coke Co., 89 So. 285, 206 Ala. 71

41. N.C.—Campbell v. American Fidelity & Casualty Co., 192 S.E. 906, 908, 212 N.C. 65.

42. N.H.—Wessman v. Boston & M. R. R., 152 A. 476, 84 N.H. 475.
10 C.J. p 635 note 3.
Passes generally see infra §§ 622–624.

43. N.C.—Campbell v. American Fidelity & Casualty Co., 192 S.E. 906, 212 N.C. 65.
10 C.J. p 635 note 4.

44. N.C.—Campbell v. American Fidelity & Casualty Co., supra.
10 C.J. p 636 note 5.

Member of employee's family
Free pass issued to member of railroad employee's family was not based on a legal consideration, where a statute forbids the issuance of transportation as consideration for services.—Wessman v. Boston & M. R. R., 152 A. 476, 84 N.H. 475.

45. N.C.—McNeill v. Durham, etc., R. Co., 47 S.E. 765, 135 N.C. 682, 67 L.R.A. 227, reversing 44 S.E. 34, 132 N.C. 510, 95 Am.S.R. 641, 67 L.R.A. 227.
10 C.J. p 636 note 6

46. U.S.—Norfolk Southern R. Co. v. Chatman, N.C., 37 S.Ct. 499, 244 U.S. 276, 61 L.Ed. 1131, L.R.A. 1917F 1128, affirming 222 F. 802, 138 C.C.A. 350—Gooch v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., C.C.A. Idaho, 264 F. 664, certiorari granted 41 S.Ct. 8, 254 U.S. 623, 65 L.Ed. 444, and affirmed 42 S.Ct. 192, 258 U.S. 22, 66 L.Ed. 443—Tripp v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., Mich., 238 F. 449, 151 C.C.A. 385, certiorari denied Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Tripp, 37 S.Ct. 475, 243 U.S. 648, 61 L.Ed. 945.
Ill.—Crane v. Railway Exp. Agency, 12 N.E.2d 672, 293 Ill.App. 328
Kan.—Binder v. Union Pac. R. Co., 194 P. 314, 108 Kan. 47.
Me.—Miller v. Maine Cent. R. Co., 133 A. 907, 125 Me. 338, 47 A.L.R. 720.
Okl.—Lusk v. McBride, 175 P. 747, 73 Okl. 283.
Tex.—Roberts v. Ft. Worth & D.C. Ry. Co., Civ.App., 229 S.W. 954—Texas & N.O. R. Co. v. Tillman, Civ.App., 197 S.W. 1128, error refused.
10 C.J. p 636 note 8.

Person in charge of an interstate shipment of live stock, traveling on a freight train on a pass issued pursuant to the terms of the contract of shipment, as permitted by a statute, which excepts necessary pass or similar arrangement,[47] such as a condition requiring them to ride in the caboose,[48] or on the same train with the stock.[49] On the same principle a shipper whom a truck operator agrees to carry with the load is a passenger.[50] It has been held that a person traveling on a drover's pass is a passenger only in a restricted sense,[51] and, in any event one accompanying a shipment without any agreement with the carrier is not a passenger.[52]

The relation, as passenger, of a person riding on such a pass or under such an arrangement, cannot be changed by any subterfuge in the contract for carriage,[53] nor by references to him in the carrier's classification or waybill as riding free,[54] or as "a man in charge";[55] nor is it affected by the failure of the published tariffs of the carrier to make a separate rate for the carriage of a caretaker of an interstate shipment, or to state separately how much of the published rate is to be treated as payment for the transportation of the stock and how much for the carriage of the caretaker.[56]

The relation continues until the car, in which the stock is being transported, arrives at the point where it is to be unloaded, and where the passenger is riding in the car, he has a right to remain therein until it reaches that point.[57] The relation also ex-caretakers of live stock from the prohibition against the issuance of any interstate free pass, must be regarded as a passenger for hire.—Norfolk Southern R Co. v. Chatman, N C., 37 S.Ct. 499, 244 U.S. 276, 61 L.Ed. 1131, L.R.A 1917F 1128, affirming 222 F. 802, 138 C.C.A. 350—Gooch v. Oregon Short Line R Co., C.C.A.Idaho, 264 F. 664, certiorari granted 41 S Ct. 8, 254 U.S. 623, 65 L.Ed 444, and affirmed 42 S.Ct. 192, 258 U S. 22, 66 L.Ed. 443.

Statutory recognition

The judicial determination that "free pass" under which railroad transports attendants of live stock is not "free" in the popular sense, but constitutes transportation for hire, was adopted by congress in provision of Interstate Commerce Act authorizing railroads to issue such passes.—Crane v. Railway Exp Agency, 12 N E.2d 672, 293 Ill.App 328.

Person riding in caboose of a freight train as a caretaker of live stock carried on such train is a passenger.—Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. v Lynn, 161 P 1058, 62 Okl. 17.

Riding in stock car

Live stock shipper, permitted by carrier to ride with stock in stock car, is a passenger.—Beasley v. Hines, 219 S.W. 757, 143 Ark. 54, 15 A L R. 864.

Irrespective of statute

A person who is traveling with railroad's consent in charge of stock or goods carried by railroad for him, is a "passenger for hire," even when he is traveling on a drover's pass, and irrespective of statute authorizing issuance of free passes—Crane v. Railway Exp. Agency, 12 N. E 2d 672, 293 Ill.App. 328.

Care required as to persons accompanying stock see infra § 684.

47. Ill—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Jennings, 75 N.E. 457, 217 Ill. 140, reversing 119 Ill App 317.

48. Mo—Scrivner v Missouri Pac. R. Co, 169 S.W. 83, 260 Mo. 421. 10 C.J. p 637 note 10.

49. Vt.—Thorp v. Concord R. Co., 17 A. 791, 61 Vt. 378.
10 C.J. p 637 note 11.

50. Ky.—Jesse v. Dunn, 51 S.W 2d 918, 244 Ky. 613.

Shipper's relation to truck operator, in such a case, would be "similar to that of a shipper, who, under a special arrangement rides in a railroad stock car to look after the stock, with the result that he is a passenger."—Jesse v. Dunn, 51 S W 2d 918, 920, 244 Ky. 613

51. Neb.—Omaha, etc., R Co v. Crow, 74 N.W. 1066, 54 Neb 747, 69 Am S.R. 741.
10 C.J. p 637 note 12.

52. Ind.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Hostetter, 84 N.E. 534, 171 Ind. 465, reversing, App, 82 N E 1134

53. Tex.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Ivey, 9 S.W. 346, 71 Tex. 409, 10 Am.S.R. 758, 1 L R A. 500.
10 C.J. p 637 note 13

Stipulation as to assumption of risk

Under a contract for the shipment of live stock, which requires an attendant to accompany the shipment, and provides that, in consideration of the carriage of the attendant without charge other than the sum paid for the carriage of the live stock, the shipper agrees to indemnify the carrier against liability for injuries to the attendant, stating that, in consideration of his carriage without charge except the sum paid for the carriage of the stock, he assumes all risk of injury and releases the carrier from liability therefor, whether occasioned by its negligence or not, the attendant is a passenger for hire, payable in money—Tripp v. Michigan Cent. R. Co, Mich., 238 F. 449, 151 C.C A. 385, certiorari denied Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Tripp, 37 S.Ct. 475, 243 U.S. 648, 61 L.Ed. 945—10 C.J. p 637 note 13 [a]

54. N.Y—Porter v. New York, etc., R. Co., 13 N.Y.S. 491, 59 Hun 177, affirming 29 N.E. 1029, 129 N.Y. 624.

Ohio.—Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Curran, 19 Ohio St. 1, 2 Am R 362.

Provisions in contract govern

Unless the contract between the carrier and shipper is legally forbidden, the provisions of that instrument, and not the classifications filed by the carrier, determine whether the attendant is carried free or as a passenger for hire.—Tripp v. Michigan Cent. R. Co, Mich., 238 F. 449, 151 C.C A. 385, certiorari denied Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Tripp, 37 S.Ct. 475, 243 U S. 648, 61 L Ed 945

Provisions in classifications for free carriage

(1) A provision in a carrier's classification that, with one or more carloads of horses, the owner or agent will be carried free, does not militate against a contract for such shipment, providing that payment for the attendant's transportation is part of the charge for the transportation of the horses.—Tripp v. Michigan Cent. R. Co, Mich., 238 F. 449, 151 C.C A. 385, certiorari denied Michigan Cent. R. Co v. Tripp, 37 S.Ct. 475, 243 U.S. 648, 61 L.Ed. 945.

(2) A provision that an attendant with a shipment of horses will be carried free means only that he is not to be charged an additional fare, and not inconsistent with a contract providing that the freight charge includes the transportation of the attendant within the rule as to limitation of liability.—Tripp v. Michigan Cent R. Co, supra.

55. Ind.—Indianapolis, etc., R. Co. v. Beaver, 41 Ind. 493.

56. U.S.—Norfolk Southern R. Co. v. Chatman, N C, 37 S.Ct. 499, 244 U.S. 276, 61 L Ed. 1131, L R.A. 1917F 1128, affirming 222 F. 802, 138 C C.A. 350—Tripp v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., Mich, 238 F. 449, 151 C.C.A. 385, certiorari denied Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Tripp, 37 S. Ct. 475, 243 U.S. 648, 61 L.Ed. 945.

57. Ind.—Chicago, T. H & S. E. R. Co. v. Meures, 119 N.E. 714, 187 Ind. 405.
10 C.J. p 636 note 8 [c].

ists while such a person is riding on a passenger train on a return ticket issued under the shipping contract.[58]

The consideration for the passage of such a person is the service he renders in taking care of the stock, or the charge made against him or his employer for shipping the stock.[59] If a pass to a caretaker, on an interstate shipment, is gratuitous in the ordinary sense of the term, it is in violation of the Interstate Commerce Act § 1, 49 U.S.C.A. § 1.[60]

Provision for only one person. Where the contract provides that only the shipper or one person may accompany the stock free of charge, another person who boards the train, claiming an interest in such stock, cannot claim the right of a passenger;[61] this also applies to a person who boards the train for the purpose of assisting in the care of such stock;[62] but in such a case the shipper who is riding with the stock cannot be held to be a trespasser by reason of the fact that his servant is also permitted to ride.[63]

§ 552. Persons Riding on Vehicles or in Places Not Proper for Passengers

a. In general
b. On freight trains

a. In General

A person who rides on a car or vehicle, or in a place thereon, not proper for the carriage of passengers is, ordinarily, not a passenger, unless he so rides, with the authority of the carrier, or on the invitation or with the permission of an employee of the carrier, having authority to extend such invitation or grant such permission.

Unless the company has expressly or impliedly authorized the use of such trains for the carrying of passengers, the rule is that persons entering and riding on pay trains,[64] construction trains,[65] gravel trains,[66] timber trains,[67] or trains prohibited from carrying passengers,[68] are not deemed passengers, unless they do so on the invitation or with the consent of the conductor or other employee having authority to grant such privilege,[69] and this is true also of one riding on a railroad velocipede.[70] A person riding on a construction train which customarily carries passengers, and having no notice of a rule to the contrary, has a right to assume that the conductor has authority to allow him to ride thereon, and should be considered a passenger.[71]

Although a person is lawfully on the carrier's premises, if he afterward intrudes himself on a car or vehicle on which he has no business, he becomes a trespasser, especially where such intrusion is forbidden by the carrier, as where he afterward attempts to ride on a freight elevator.[72]

Improper place. A person entering or riding in a place or on a portion of a vehicle not provided by the carrier for passengers is usually not regarded as a passenger,[73] unless the rule forbidding such rid-

Continuance and termination of relation generally see infra §§ 563–566.

58. Minn.—Gruhl v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 168 N.W. 127, 140 Minn. 353

59. U.S.—Tripp v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., Mich., 238 F. 449, 151 C.C.A. 385, certiorari denied Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Tripp, 37 S.Ct. 475, 243 U.S. 648, 61 L.Ed. 945.
Me.—Miller v. Maine Cent. R. Co., 133 A. 907, 125 Me. 338, 47 A.L.R. 720.
Minn.—Gruhl v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 168 N.W. 127, 140 Minn. 353.
Okl.—Lusk v. McBride, 175 P. 747, 73 Okl. 283.
10 C.J. p. 637 note 17.
This rule, as stated in Corpus Juris, has been judicially approved in Campbell v. American Fidelity & Casualty Co., 192 S.E. 906, 908, 212 N.C. 65.

60. Me.—Miller v. Maine Cent. R. Co., 133 A. 907, 125 Me. 338, 47 A.L.R. 720.

61. Miss.—Richmond, etc., R. Co. v. Burnsed, 12 So. 958, 70 Miss. 437, 35 Am.S.R. 656.
Mo.—Brown v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 64 Mo. 536

62. Conn.—Gardner v. New Haven, etc., Co., 51 Conn. 143, 50 Am.R. 12.
Tex.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Aiken, 9 S.W. 437, 71 Tex. 373.

63. Tex.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Aiken, supra.
10 C.J. p. 637 note 20.

64. Ga.—Southwestern R. Co. v. Singleton, 66 Ga. 252.
10 C.J. p. 637 note 22.

65. Minn.—Rosenbaum v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 36 N.W. 447, 38 Minn. 173, 8 Am.S.R. 653.
10 C.J. p. 637 note 23
Employees of carrier on such trains see supra § 546.

66. Mich.—Keating v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 56 N.W. 346, 97 Mich. 154, 37 Am.S.R. 328.
10 C.J. p. 638 note 24

67. Tenn.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Meacham, 19 S.W. 232, 91 Tenn. 428.
10 C.J. p. 638 note 25.

68. U.S.—Purple v. Union Pac. R. Co., Kan., 114 F. 123, 51 C.C.A. 564, 57 L.R.A. 700.
10 C.J. p. 638 note 26.

69. Kan.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Frazer, 40 P. 923, 55 Kan. 582.
10 C.J. p. 638 note 27.

On chartered street car
Where a passenger enters a special street car chartered by a particular person, and tenders the amount of his passage, and keeps his seat with the knowledge and consent of the conductor who intends to transport him to his destination, the carrier thereupon waives the right to insist that he is not a passenger, and it is liable for his subsequent expulsion.—McCarter v. Greenville Tract Co., 51 S.E. 545, 72 S.C. 134, 5 Ann.Cas. 42.

70. U.S.—Craig v. Mt. Carbon Co., W.Va., 45 F. 448, appeal dismissed 14 S.Ct. 1144, 154 U.S. 499, 38 L.Ed. 1084.
10 C.J. p. 638 note 28.

71. Iowa.—Spence v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 90 N.W. 346, 117 Iowa 1.
Kan.—St. Joseph, etc., R. Co. v. Wheeler, 10 P. 461, 35 Kan. 185

72. La.—Snyder v. Natchez, R. R. & T. R. Co., 7 So. 582, 42 La.Ann. 302.
Tenn.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Hensley, 7 Tenn.Civ.A. 610.

73. Ind.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Field, 34 N.E. 406, 7 Ind.App. 172, 52 Am.S.R. 444
Kan.—Mendenhall v. Atchison, etc.,

ing has been habitually disregarded.[74] Other persons than express messengers, riding in express cars, are usually not to be considered as passengers.[75]

However, one does not lose his status as a passenger where with the express or implied permission of the conductor he is riding on the platform or the steps of a street car,[76] particularly where the car is crowded,[77] and he expects to and is able to pay the usual fare, and the street car company customarily receives and accepts fares from such passengers;[78] and this is true also in case of a crowded railroad train,[79] or where an invalid is received for transportation in the baggage car.[80] A passenger in an ordinary day coach who enters a sleeping car, with the consent of the conductor, merely for the purpose of using the lavatory is not a passenger on the sleeping car.[81]

Riding on engine. The relation of carrier and passenger generally does not exist by any agreement, express or implied, between a carrier and a person who furtively rides on the engine unknown to the company and contrary to its rules, which must have been known to him,[82] unless he rides thereon on the invitation or permission of an officer or employee of the carrier having apparent authority to extend him such invitation,[83] but the presumption is against his being there with such authority.[84] Thus, riding on an engine by the permission or invitation of the engineer does not constitute one so riding a passenger,[85] even though the conductor knows of his presence there and acquiesces.[86]

Riding on hand cars. One transported on a hand car which is used by the carrier for the convenience of its employees, and on which the carrying of passengers is forbidden, is not a passenger,[87] unless he is traveling thereon with the consent of the railroad company,[88] or is accepted as a passenger on such car by an officer or employee having authority to do so,[89] or unless the company is a common carrier of passengers by hand cars.[90]

R Co, 71 P. 846, 66 Kan 438, 97 Am S R. 330, 61 L.R.A. 120.
La.—Segrist v. Interurban Transp. Co., 5 La App. 404.
Tex.—Horwitz v Jefferson County Traction Co., Civ App, 188 S W 26.
Utah—Bergman v. Denver & R G. R. Co, 178 P 68, 53 Utah 213.
10 C J. p 638 note 30

Elevator shaft

A person who enters an elevator shaft when the elevator is absent from the floor is not a passenger Iowa—Johnson v. Lincoln Hotel Co., 177 N.W. 550, 189 Iowa 291.
Wis—Switzer v. Detroit Inv. Co., 206 N.W 407, 188 Wis 330.

Getting onto rear of towing truck

Where a passenger of a public carrier by motor bus on his own initiative got out of the bus and onto the rear of the floor of a motor truck belonging to a third person employed by the carrier to tow its disabled bus to a nearby filling station, he thereby ceased to be a passenger of the public carrier by motor bus. — Segrist v Interurban Transp. Co, 5 La.App. 404.

74. Minn.—Schultz v. Minneapolis, etc., R Co, 143 N W. 1131, 123 Minn. 405

75. Cal—Pfister v. Central Pac R Co., 11 P 686, 70 Cal. 169, 59 Am R. 404.
10 C.J. p 638 note 32
Express messengers as passengers see supra § 548

76. Mass—Liversidge v. Berkshire St R. Co, 96 N E 665, 210 Mass 234, 36 L R A.,N S, 993.
10 C J. p 639 note 33.

77. Mass—Bilodeau v. Fitchburg & L. St. Ry. Co, 128 N.E. 872, 236 Mass. 526.
10 C.J p 639 note 34.

78. Ala—Mobile Light & R Co v Hughes, 67 So. 278, 190 Ala. 316

79. Mo.—Choate v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 67 Mo.App. 105.
10 C.J. p 639 note 36.

80. Ky.—Arnett v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co, 248 S W. 1040, 198 Ky. 491.

Invalid on bed spring

An invalid, who was received by the conductor of a train for transportation in the baggage car while she was lying on a bed spring, was a passenger, entitled to all the privileges as such, although a rule of the company permitted such persons to be received only if they were lying on cots, and the conductor had received her as a passenger only on condition a cot be procured for her at the next station.—Arnett v Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co, 248 S W. 1040, 198 Ky. 491.

81. U S.—Payne v. Shearer, C.C.A. Miss., 270 F. 572.

82. Neb.—Woolsey v Chicago, B & Q R. Co., 58 N W. 444, 39 Neb 798, 25 L R A 79.
10 C J p 639 note 37.

Invitation of fireman

One riding on the engine of a freight train, in accordance with an arrangement with the fireman of the engine, to shovel coal in return for the privilege of riding, is not a passenger, where the conductor neither had knowledge of his presence nor consented thereto.—Woolsey v. Chicago, B & Q R. Co, 58 N.W 444, 39 Neb 798, 25 L R.A. 79—10 C J. p 639 note 37 [a].

83. Cal.—Berliner v. Travelers' Ins. Co, 53 P. 918, 121 Cal. 458, 66 Am. S.R. 49, 41 L R.A. 467.
10 C J p 639 note 38.

84. Tex—Wilcox v. San Antonio, etc., R Co, 33 S.W. 379, 11 Tex. Civ.App. 487.
10 C J. p 639 note 39.

85. Wash—Fischer v. Columbia, etc., R. Co., 100 P. 1005, 52 Wash. 462.
10 C.J. p 639 note 40.

86. Or.—Radley v. Columbia R. Co., 75 P. 212, 44 Or. 332, 1 Ann.Cas 447

87. Ark—Houston, etc., R. Co v. Bolling, 27 S.W. 492, 59 Ark. 395, 43 Am S R. 38, 27 L R A. 190.
10 C J. p 640 note 42.

88. Tex.—International, etc, R. Co v. Gray, 65 Tex. 32.

89. W Va.—Hodge v. Sycamore Coal Co, 95 S.E. 808, 82 W.Va. 106.
10 C J. p 640 note 43

General manager

A person riding gratuitously on a truck or hand car maintained and operated by a coal mining company to haul its express matter over a spur track of a railway company, leading from the main line to its coal mine, with the consent of its general manager having control of the operation of such car, is a passenger, and not a trespasser or mere licensee.—Hodge v. Sycamore Coal Co, 95 S E. 808, 82 W.Va 106.

90. Me—Hoar v. Maine Cent. R. Co., 70 Me. 65, 35 Am.R. 299.

b. On Freight Trains

A person is a passenger on a freight train only where he is carried thereon, as a passenger, in accordance with the general course of business, or rules and regulations, of the railroad company, or is accepted, by proper authority, for transportation as a passenger.

Where persons are, by proper authority, accepted for transportation on freight trains, the carrier is liable with reference to them as passengers,[91] particularly where fare or its equivalent is accepted;[92] and it is immaterial whether the company carries more or less passengers on its freight trains, or whether or not the passengers travel on a special permit or on a regular ticket.[93] The question of liability does not depend on the uses to which the train is usually devoted; and where there are no rules of the company prohibiting it, or even if there are such rules, and the officers making such rules relax or dispense with them in a particular case, and a passenger is taken on a train not generally used for passenger purposes, or with the expectation of paying fare when demanded, he is lawfully on the train.[94] This rule also applies to persons permitted by the carrier's employees to ride without paying fare, where the employee is expressly or impliedly authorized to grant such permission.[95] If it is customary for the carrier to allow passengers to ride on some freight trains, and if the person seeking transportation has no notice, express or implied, that passengers are not permitted to ride on the freight train in question, he may rely on the act of the conductor in authorizing him to go on such train, even though such act is without authority or contrary to the conductor's instructions.[96]

Where, however, a person goes on a freight train, charged with knowledge, by reason of the general course of business of the carrier, or by reason of rules or regulations known to him, that passengers are not allowed to ride on freight trains, and that conductors of freight trains have no authority to allow them so to do, he does not become a passenger, although he may have the assent of the conductor or some other agent to his act,[97] and even though the conductor accepts a ticket or payment of fare,[98] and this is particularly true where he so rides without the payment of fare[99] and in violation of a statute.[1]

Permission given by the engineer[2] or by a brakeman[3] on a freight train to a person to ride thereon, contrary to a rule of the company, does not make such person a passenger, particularly where such person has already been refused passage by the conductor.[4]

Special permits. Where persons are prohibited from riding on freight trains without special permits, one riding thereon without such a permit, and with knowledge of such regulation, does not become a passenger,[5] unless such rule of the company has been waived.[6] This rule applies to persons riding on such train by the invitation or permission of the carrier's agents who have no authority, implied

91. U.S.—Dysart v Missouri, etc., R. Co, Mo, 122 F. 228, 58 C.C.A. 592
10 C.J. p 640 note 47.
Mixed train carrying both freight and passengers is a passenger train within the meaning of the law when it accepts and carries passengers. —Tennessee R. Co. v. Kingsley, 10 Tenn.App 637.
One on freight train with the knowledge and consent of the agents in charge is not a trespasser, although there in violation of the rules of the company—Chicago, R I. & P. Ry. Co. v. Shadid, 159 P. 913, 60 Okl. 188.
Persons in charge of stock riding on freight trains see supra § 551.

92. Ind.—New York, etc., R. Co v. Doane, 17 N E 913, 115 Ind. 435, 7 Am S R. 451, 1 L R.A 157.
10 C J p 640 note 48
Payment of fare generally see infra § 559.

93. U.S.—Hazard v Chicago, B & Q. R Co., C C.Ill, 11 F.Cas No 6,-275, 1 Biss. 503

94. Tex.—Prince v International, etc., R. Co., 64 Tex. 144.

95. Or.—Gray v. Columbia Cent. R. Co., 88 P. 297, 49 Or 18
10 C.J. p 640 note 51.
Persons riding gratuitously as passengers generally see supra § 549.

96. Ill.—Illinois Cent R Co. v. Axley, 47 Ill.App. 307
Wis.—Boehm v. Duluth, etc., R. Co, 65 N.W 506, 91 Wis. 592.
10 C.J. p 641 note 52.

97. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co v Reed, 88 S W. 836, 76 Ark. 106, 113 Am S.R. 78.
Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Moss, 13 Ky L. 684
10 C.J. p 641 note 53.

98. Tex.—Texas, etc., R Co. v. Black, 27 S W 118, 87 Tex. 160—St. Louis Southwestern R Co. v. White, Civ App., 34 S W 1042.
10 C.J p 641 note 53.

99. Ky.—Taylor v Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 163 S W. 1084, 157 Ky. 735
10 C.J. p 642 note 54.
Persons riding gratuitously generally see supra § 549

1. Mich.—Van Auken v Michigan Cent. R. Co., 148 N W. 819, 182 Mich. 331.

2. Minn.—Tuder v Oregon Short Line R. Co, 160 N.W 785, 135 Minn. 294, L R A 1917C 86
Accepting passenger left at stop
An engineer of a freight train is without authority to accept as a passenger one who had been riding on passenger train but was left at a stop, and such a person in riding on freight train without payment of fare was a trespasser and not a passenger.—Tuder v. Oregon Short Line R. Co, 160 N.W 785, 135 Minn. 294, L.R A 1917C 86.

3. Minn.—Janny v. Great Northern R. Co., 65 N.W. 450, 63 Minn 380.
10 C J p 642 note 56

4. Tex.—Gulf, etc, R Co v. Campbell 13 S W. 19, 76 Tex. 174

5. Tex.—Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Stell, 67 S W. 537, 28 Tex Civ.App. 280
Wash.—Olson v. Northern Pac R. Co., 96 P. 150, 49 Wash. 626, 18 L. R A,N S., 209.
Requiring ticket or permit on freight train generally see infra § 606.

6. Mich.—Greenfield v Detroit, etc, R Co., 95 N.W. 546, 133 Mich. 557.
10 C.J p 642 note 59.

or express, to extend such invitation or to grant such permission.[7]

§ 553. Persons Attending Passengers

A person who goes on the carrier's premises or train to attend an arriving or departing passenger is generally regarded as an invitee or licensee.

Persons going on a carrier's premises or entering a carrier's vehicle to assist a passenger, to greet an arriving passenger, or to take leave of a departing passenger, cannot be deemed passengers themselves; nor are they trespassers, properly speaking, they should be considered rather in the light of invitees or licensees to whom the carrier owes certain duties,[8] unless he goes on the carrier's premises an unreasonable length of time before the arrival or departure of a train;[9] and in the absence of any regulation to the contrary a person entering a train to assist a passenger does so under an implied permission.[10] It has been held, however, that one who goes on a train to assist or attend a sick or infirm passenger sustains the relation of passenger,[11] particularly where he does so at the request of the conductor.[12] On the other hand, a person who, not being a passenger, procures a passenger to transport his baggage for him, is a trespasser in going on the train to assist the passenger with such baggage.[13]

§ 554. Commencement of Relation

The relation of carrier and passenger, ordinarily, commences where a person, in good faith, offers to become a passenger and the carrier accepts the offer.

The relation of carrier and passenger generally commences where a person, in good faith, either expressly or impliedly offers to become a passenger, and the carrier, either expressly or impliedly, accepts such offer.[14] As will be further noted in the following §§ 555–561, it must appear that the carrier has held itself out, by express or implied invitation, as ready to receive the person who presents himself as passenger,[15] that the person present himself at a proper time and place, and in a proper manner, and that the carrier have actual or constructive notice of his intention to become a passenger, and accepts him as such, either expressly or impliedly[16] The facts may be such as to warrant a person in offering himself for carriage, and in acting on the assumption that his offer has been accepted, although the carrier did not intend to receive him as passenger[17]

7. Tex.—Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Moore, 49 Tex. 31, 30 Am.R. 98.
10 C.J. p 642 note 60.

8. Mo.—Lewis v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 3 S.W.2d 371, 319 Mo. 233.
N.Y.—Barrett v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 176 N.Y.S. 590, 188 App.Div. 109.
Okl.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Isenberg, 150 P. 123, 48 Okl. 51.
10 C.J. p 642 note 61—52 C.J. p 547 note 8, p 548 note 9.

Husband who goes on train for the purpose of assisting his wife, who is a passenger, to find a seat, while in or on the car is an invitee, if not a passenger.—Lewis v. Illinois Central R. Co., 3 S.W.2d 371, 319 Mo. 233
Liability as to persons attending passengers see infra §§ 700, 722, 732.

9. Tenn.—O'Brien v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 5 Tenn.Civ.A. 588.
Going to or awaiting train or car for unreasonable period in general see infra § 556.

10. Okl.—St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Isenberg, 150 P. 123, 48 Okl. 51.

11. Ind.—Evansville, etc., R. Co. v. Athon, 33 N.E. 469, 6 Ind.App. 295, 51 Am.S.R. 303
10 C.J. p 642 note 63.

12. Ind.—Vandalia R. Co. v. Darby, 108 N.E. 778, 60 Ind.App. 294.
10 C.J. p 642 note 64.

13. Tex.—Andrews v. Ft. Worth & D. C. R. Co., Civ.App., 25 S.W. 1040.

14. U.S.—U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Aschenbrenner, Cal., 65 F. 2d 976, certiorari granted Aschenbrenner v. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 54 S.Ct. 229, 290 U.S. 622, 78 L.Ed. 543, reversed on other grounds 54 S.Ct. 590, 292 U.S. 80, 78 L.Ed. 1137, rehearing denied 54 S.Ct. 861, 292 U.S. 615, 78 L.Ed. 1474—Trapnell v. Hines, C.C.A.N.J., 268 F. 504
Ky.—Bales v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 200 S.W. 471, 179 Ky. 207.
Mo.—O'Mara v. St. Louis Transit Co., 76 S.W. 680, 102 Mo.App. 202.
Ohio.—Dowd v. Cleveland Ry., 22 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 236—Holzenkamp v. Cincinnati Traction Co., 2 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 157, affirmed 3 Ohio N.P., N.S., 537, 16 Ohio Dec. 673

There are two main elements in the legal definition of a passenger: First, an undertaking on the part of the person to travel in the conveyance provided by the carrier; and, second, an acceptance by the carrier of the person as a passenger, which acceptance may be either express or implied from attending circumstances.—Matthews v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 169 S.E. 41, 46 Ga.App. 699.
Acceptance by carrier in general see infra § 561.

15. Mass.—McPartland v. Boston, R. B. & L. R. R., 136 N.E. 168, 242 Mass. 346.

Where train is stationary at some place where it is the custom to take on passengers, there is an implied invitation to the general public to avail itself of the company's transportation facilities by boarding the train.—U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Aschenbrenner, Cal., 65 F.2d 976, certiorari granted Aschenbrenner v. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 54 S.Ct. 229, 290 U.S. 622, 78 L.Ed. 543, reversed on other grounds 54 S.Ct. 590, 292 U.S. 80, 78 L.Ed. 1137, rehearing denied 54 S.Ct. 861, 292 U.S. 615, 78 L.Ed. 1474.

16. U.S.—Trapnell v. Hines, C.C.A. N.J., 268 F. 504.
Mass.—McPartland v. Boston, R. B. & L. R. R., 136 N.E. 168, 242 Mass. 346.
Mo.—Thomas v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., App., 293 S.W. 1051.
Neb.—Woolsey v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 58 N.W. 444, 39 Neb. 798, 25 L.R.A. 79.

If carrier assumes responsibility of conducting buyer of passenger rights to point of departure, carrier passenger relationship exists.—Sanchez v. Pacific Auto Stages, 2 P.2d 845, 116 Cal.App. 392.

Person is not passenger, who has not offered to board a street car, is not at the loading place, and has not been invited or accepted as a passenger.—Hering v. City of Detroit, 221 N.W. 278, 244 Mich. 293.

17. Mass.—McPartland v. Boston, R. B. & L. R. R., 136 N.E. 168, 242 Mass. 346.

§ 555. Intent to Become Passenger in General

The relation of carrier and passenger commences when one puts himself in the care of the carrier, or directly within its control, with the bona fide intention of becoming a passenger, and is accepted as such by the carrier.

As stated in Corpus Juris, which statement has been followed in subsequent decisions,[18] the relation of carrier and passenger commences when one puts himself in the care of the carrier, or directly within its control, with the bona fide intention of becoming a passenger, and is accepted as such by the carrier,[19] as where he makes a contract for transportation and presents himself at the proper place and in a proper manner to be transported,[20] but not where he does not present himself in a proper way to become a passenger.[21]

Implied from circumstances. It is not required, however, that there be any formal act of delivery of the passenger's person into the care of the carrier, or of acceptance by the carrier of one who presents himself for transportation; but the existence of the relation is commonly to be implied from the attendant circumstances, and the rule is that these circumstances, either by the purchase of a ticket or otherwise, must be such as will warrant an implication that he intends to become a passenger and offers himself to be carried,[22] and that the offer is accepted by the carrier, as announced infra § 561. This rule as to the passenger relation being implied from the circumstances is especially applicable to a passenger on a street car.[23] The mere fact, however, of an intention to become a passenger, which intention has not been by acts or otherwise indicated to the servants of the carrier, does not render the person having such intention a passenger, although he may be entitled to transportation.[24] The rules of law in the preceding portion of this paragraph, as stated in Corpus Juris, have

18. Ky.—Chesapeake & O Ry. Co. v Mollett, 270 S.W. 26, 28, 207 Ky 645
Mo.—Thomas v. St Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., App., 293 S.W. 1051, 1053
Pa.—Sweigart v. Shreiner, 14 Pa Dist. & Co., 435, 436.

19. U.S.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Rogers, N.J., 244 F 76, 156 C.C.A. 504.
Cal.—Hart v. Fresno Traction Co., 167 P. 885, 175 Cal 489—Riley v. Southern Pac. Co, 207 P. 699, 57 Cal App. 477.
Conn.—Vaughn v. Healy, 182 A. 166, 120 Conn 589.
Ga.—Matthews v. Central of Georgia Ry Co., 169 S.E. 41, 46 Ga App. 699.
Ill.—Todd v. Louisville & N. R Co, 113 N.E. 95, 274 Ill. 201, L.R.A. 1916F 543—Foote v. Chicago, N. S. & M R. Co., 256 Ill App. 581
Mass.—Gerber v. New York Cent. R. R, 192 N.E. 837, 288 Mass. 318
Ohio—Dowd v. Cleveland Ry, 22 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 236—Hogans v. City of Columbus, 14 Ohio N.P.,N.S, 33.
Okl.—Chicago, R. I & P. Ry. Co v. Warren, 269 P. 368, 132 Okl. 107—Schaff v. Samuels, 234 P. 195, 109 Okl. 133.
Pa.—Sweigart v. Shreiner, 14 Pa. Dist & Co. 435.
10 C.J p 611 note 19.

Similar statement of rule

The "relationship is held to begin when the prospective passenger puts himself in the care of the carrier, or directly within its control, at the proper place and in a proper manner to be transported, with the bona fide intention of availing himself of its facilities for transportation, and is accepted as such by the carrier."—Thomas v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry Co., Mo.App. 293 S.W. 1051, 1053

Contract between a street railway and an intending passenger is created where he indicates his purpose to take passage on a car, and the operator indicates his acceptance of the proposed passenger in some manner, such as stopping the car—Maloney v. United Rys. Co of St. Louis, Mo, 237 S.W. 509

To complete relation there must be an intent on the part of the passenger to take passage, a communication of such intent to the carrier, and an express or implied acceptance by the latter.
Ga.—Matthews v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co, 169 S.E. 41, 46 Ga App. 699.
Mich.—Rice v Michigan Ry. Co., 175 N.W. 454, 208 Mich. 123.

"There may be a hiatus in the relationship in instances too numerous to mention, but, when the purchaser of the rights to be conveyed is in a position to be accepted as a passenger, the relationship is again in force."—Sanchez v Pacific Auto Stages, 2 P.2d 845, 847, 116 Cal App 392.
Necessity of acceptance by carrier generally see infra § 561.

20. Pa.—Sweigart v. Shreiner, 14 Pa Dist. & Co. 435
10 C.J p 612 note 20

21. U.S.—Southern R Co v. Smith, Ga., 86 F. 292, 30 C.C.A. 58, 40 L.R.A. 746.
10 C.J p 612 note 21.

22. U.S.—Pennsylvania R Co. v. Rogers, N.J, 244 F. 76, 156 C.C.A 504
Ga.—Matthews v Central of Georgia Ry. Co, 169 S.E. 41, 46 Ga App 699.
Ky.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. Mollett, 270 S.W 26, 207 Ky. 745.
Mass.—McPartland v. Boston, R B. & L. R R, 136 N.E. 168, 242 Mass. 346
Mo.—Thomas v. St Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., App., 293 S.W. 1051.
Va.—Virginia Ry. & Power Co. v. Arnold, 92 S.E. 925, 121 Va. 204
Wis.—Arneberg v. Chicago, M & St. P Ry. Co., 195 N.W. 844, 182 Wis. 85
10 C.J. p 612 note 22.

23. Pa.—Berkebile v. Johnstown Traction Co., 99 A. 871, 872, 255 Pa. 310
"Owing to the nature of the business, the contractual relation of a carrier and passenger on a street car is seldom created by express contract, but is usually implied from the surrounding circumstances and the acts of the parties"—Berkebile v Johnstown Traction Co, supra—10 C.J p 612 note 22 [b]

24. Conn.—Vaughn v. Healy, 182 A. 166, 120 Conn. 589
Ga.—Matthews v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co, 169 S.E. 41, 46 Ga App. 699.
Mo.—Banks v. Kansas City Rys. Co, 217 S.W. 488, 280 Mo. 227.
Ohio—Klovedale v. Ohio Public Service Co, 6 N.E.2d 995, 54 Ohio App. 244.
R.I.—Villa v United Electric Rys. Co, 155 A. 366, 367, 51 R.I. 384, 75 A.L.R 282
10 C.J p 612 note 24.

Relationship of bus passenger and carrier does not come into existence until prospective passenger does some physical act with respect to boarding bus or that intention is communicated to driver at time when bus may be safely boarded.—Klovereceived judicial approval.[25]

One is not a passenger while walking toward a station with the intention of buying a ticket and taking a train after he gets there before he reaches such station;[26] nor while attempting to cross in front of a street car for the purpose of entering it;[27] nor while waiting in a reservation space to board a street car;[28] and, ordinarily, not while crossing a street or otherwise approaching a street car with the intention of boarding it.[29] It has been held, however, that a person is a passenger in crossing a street and about to enter a waiting street car with open gates;[30] and that a person who has bought a ticket for carriage on an auto bus is a passenger while crossing the highway to reach the bus.[31]

§ 556. Going to or Awaiting Train or Car

A person who, with the bona fide intention of becoming a passenger and with the express or implied assent of the carrier, enters on the carrier's premises, at a proper place, in a proper manner, and at a proper time, ordinarily, has the status of a passenger, even before entering the carrier's vehicle.

Actual entry into the carrier's vehicle of carriage is not necessary to create the relation of carrier and passenger, and one may become a passenger before entering such vehicle[32] or before transportation has actually commenced.[33] As stated in Corpus Juris, which statement has been followed in subsequent decisions,[34] where one with the bona fide intention of becoming a passenger, and with the express or implied assent of the carrier, goes on the carrier's premises, into the station, ticket office, or waiting room,[35] at a time when such place is open for the dale v. Ohio Public Service Co., 6 N.E.2d 995, 54 Ohio App. 244.

25. Ky.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. Mollett, 270 S.W. 26, 28, 207 Ky. 645.

26. Ky.—Bales v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 200 S.W. 471 179 Ky. 207.
10 C.J. p. 612 note 25.

27. D.C.—Jaquette v. Capital Tract. Co., 34 App.D.C. 41, 25 L.R.A.,N.S., 407.

28. Mass.—Herman v. Boston Elevated Ry. Co., 176 N.E. 180, 275 Mass. 485.

29. Ill.—Lavander v. Chicago City Ry. Co., 129 N.E. 757, 296 Ill. 284.
Iowa.—Moss v. Mason City & C. L. R. Co., 251 N.W. 627, 217 Iowa 354.
Me.—Murray v. Cumberland County Power & Light Co., 103 A. 66, 117 Me. 165.
Mass.—La Belle v. Boston Elevated Ry. Co., 164 N.E. 478, 265 Mass. 482.
Mo.—Gunn v. United Rys. Co. of St. Louis, 193 S.W. 814, 270 Mo. 517, L.R.A.1917D 1131.
N.C.—Keiger v. Southern Public Utilities Co., 155 S.E. 875, 199 N.C. 786.
Ohio.—Hogans v. City of Columbus, 14 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 33.
R.I.—Villa v. United Electric Rys. Co., 155 A. 366, 51 R.I. 384, 75 A.L.R. 282.
10 C.J. p. 613 note 28.

Crossing subject to car stop

A pedestrian crossing from the curb to a designated car stop to wait for a car is not a passenger of the street railroad company as regards its liability for injuries inflicted by a negligent motorist or another street car.—Northrup v. Pacific Electric Ry. Co., 47 P.2d 365, 8 Cal.App.2d 189.

Crossing to bus

Person, who, while standing on untraveled portion of street by pole marked "Bus Stop," signaled bus, and was struck by oncoming automobile while crossing to bus which had stopped on her side of street, is not "passenger," but "mere traveler," to whom defendant owed duty only to exercise reasonable care.—Vaughn v. Healy, 182 A. 166, 120 Conn. 589.

30. Wis.—Zimmermann v. Mednikoff, 162 N.W. 349; 165 Wis. 333.

31. Cal.—Sanchez v. Pacific Auto Stages, 2 P.2d 845, 116 Cal.App. 392.

32. Cal.—Hart v. Fresno Traction Co., 167 P. 885, 175 Cal. 489.—Sanchez v. Pacific Auto Stages, 2 P.2d 845, 116 Cal.App. 392.
Fla.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Webb, 150 So. 741, 112 Fla. 449.
Ga.—Matthews v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 169 S.E. 41, 46 Ga.App. 699.
Ind.—Jeffersonville, M. & I. R. Co. v. Riley, 39 Ind. 568, 585.
Minn.—Smith v. St. Paul City Ry. Co., 18 N.W. 827, 32 Minn. 1, 50 Am.R. 550.
Neb.—Woolsey v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 58 N.W. 444, 445, 39 Neb. 798, 25 L.R.A. 79.
N.J.—Fleming v. Connecticut General Ins. Co., 181 A. 185, 116 N.J.Law 6.
N.Y.—Allessi v. New York Rapid Transit Corporation, 297 N.Y.S. 1011, 163 Misc. 815.
10 C.J. p. 613 note 29.

33. Fla.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Webb, 150 So. 741, 112 Fla. 449.
Me.—Rogers v. Kennebec Steamboat Co., 29 A. 1069, 86 Me. 261, 25 L.R.A. 491.

34. Fla.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Webb, 150 So. 741, 744, 745, 112 Fla. 449.
Kan.—Middleton v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 212 P. 909, 911, 112 Kan. 793.
N.D.—Weeks v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 175 N.W. 726, 727, 43 N.D. 426.

35. U.S.—Davis v. Olson, C.C.A. Minn., 293 F. 921.
Cal.—MacGregor v. Pacific Electric Ry. Co., 59 P.2d 123, 6 Cal.2d 596.—Sanchez v. Pacific Auto Stages, 2 P.2d 845, 116 Cal.App. 392.
Conn.—Vaughn v. Healy, 182 A. 166, 120 Conn. 589.
Ga.—Rome Ry. & Light Co. v. Jackson, 121 S.E. 875, 31 Ga.App. 730.
Iowa.—Vanderbeck v. Chicago, M., St. P. & P. Ry. Co., 230 N.W. 390, 210 Iowa 230.
Md.—Damico v. Washington, B. & A. Electric R. Co., 148 A. 821, 158 Md. 470.
N.C.—Clark v. Bland, 106 S.E. 491, 181 N.C. 110.—Thomas v. Southern R. Co., 92 S.E. 321, 173 N.C. 494.
Or.—Palmer v. Willamette Valley Southern Ry. Co., 171 P. 1169, 88 Or. 322, L.R.A.1918D 1114.
Tex.—Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Brown, Civ.App., 205 S.W. 378.
Utah.—Hansen v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., 188 P. 852, 55 Utah 577.
10 C.J. p. 613 note 31.

Caretaker of cattle, who was to be transported free of charge in caboose, became passenger as soon as he arrived at depot ready to board train and before he started to go to caboose for that purpose.—Edmondson v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., Mo.App., 264 S.W. 470.

Employee of factory making use of private crossing, granted by the railroad company to his employer for use of the employees, on his way to the station to take a train, was a passenger as soon as he left the crossing and entered the station, whether or not he returned to the crossing after he left the station to go to his train.—Universal Portland Cement Co. v. Spirakis, 137 N.E. 276, 79 Ind.App. 17.

One who enters bus terminal and places his baggage in the hands of a porter to be put on the proper bus, acquires all the rights of a passenger reception of passengers intending to take passage,[36] even though, without the passenger's knowledge, it has been opened without authority,[37] or goes on to the platform or other proper part of the premises to await the arrival of, or to take a seat in, a car,[38] he ordinarily places himself in the position of a passenger, although he has not purchased a ticket,[39] or the agent has refused to sell him a ticket.[40]

However, in order that one may become a passenger, he must come on the carrier's premises and await the arrival of his train or car at the proper place for passengers,[41] in a proper manner,[42] and at the proper time, that is, within a reasonable time before the arrival or departure of such train or car,[43] or within the period prescribed by statute or the railroad commission for the station to be kept open,[44] unless the station agent agrees to keep the station open for a longer period.[45] The rules of law in this paragraph, as stated in Corpus Juris, from the moment he enters the place.—King Bros Transportation Co. v. Altherr, 29 Ohio N P ,N.S., 275.

On subway platform

N.Y.—Allessi v New York Rapid Transit Corporation, 297 N.Y.S. 1011, 163 Misc 815.

Where one is in a station or on a platform, intending to take passage, and a street car comes up and stops at that station, or its platform, there has been an acceptance of the passenger and an implied contract for carriage, thus creating the relation of passenger and carrier—Banks v Kansas City Rys. Co., 217 S.W. 483, 280 Mo 227.

36. Tenn.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Cantrell, 5 Tenn.App. 677.
10 C.J. p 613 note 32

When station closed

Where a railroad has regular hours during which its station is closed between trains, a person who, although intending to become a passenger, comes to the station during the time that it is closed does not acquire the status of a passenger.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Cantrell, 5 Tenn. App. 677.

37. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Walker, 75 N.E. 520, 217 Ill. 605, affirming 118 Ill App. 397.

38. U.S—Aschenbrenner v. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co., Cal., 54 S. Ct. 590, 292 U.S 80, 78 L.Ed. 1137, reversing, C C.A., U. S Fidelity & Guaranty Co v. Aschenbrenner, 65 F.2d 976, certiorari granted Aschenbrenner v. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 54 S Ct. 229, 290 U S. 622, 78 L.Ed. 543, and rehearing denied 54 S Ct. 861, 292 U.S. 615, 78 L.Ed. 1474.
Ind.—Evansville Rys. Co v. Miller, 111 N.E. 1031, 64 Ind.App. 206.
Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co v. Dixon, 195 S.W. 1099, 176 Ky. 569.
Me.—Verrill v. Androscoggin Electric Co, 102 A. 179, 116 Me. 519.
Mo—Thomas v St. Louis-San Francisco Ry Co., App., 293 S W 1051.
N.Y.—Allessi v. New York Rapid Transit Corporation, 297 N.Y.S 1011, 163 Misc. 815.
10 C J. p 614 note 34

39. N.C—Clark v. Bland, 106 S.E. 491, 181 N.C. 110.
Tex.—Ft Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Brown, Civ App., 205 S W. 378
10 C.J p 614 note 35.
Purchase of ticket generally see infra § 558.

40. Va.—Norfolk, etc., R. Co. v. Gallihher, 16 S.E. 935, 89 Va. 639.
10 C.J p 614 note 36.

41. Ala.—McWilliams v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 115 So 246, 217 Ala. 192.
Cal.—Sanchez v Pacific Auto Stages. 2 P.2d 845, 116 Cal.App. 392.
Fla.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Webb, 150 So. 741, 112 Fla. 449.
Mass—Gerber v New York Cent. R. Co, 192 N.E 837, 288 Mass. 318.
Or.—Palmer v. Willamette Valley Southern Ry. Co., 171 P. 1169, 88 Or. 322, L.R.A.1918D 1114.
10 C.J. p 614 note 37.

This rule, as stated in Corpus Juris, has been judicially approved.—Washington, B & A. R. Co. v. State, 116 A. 911, 912, 140 Md. 115.

Usual point of departure

A person holding a railroad ticket, who presents himself at the usual point of departure of trains, is a passenger.—Atlanta Terminal Co. v. Alexander, 143 S E. 905, 38 Ga.App. 280.

42. Fla.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co v. Webb, 150 So 741, 112 Fla. 449.
Mass.—Gerber v. New York Cent. R. Co, 192 N.E 837, 288 Mass. 318.
Mo.—Thomas v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co, App., 293 S.W. 1051.
Or.—Palmer v Willamette Valley Southern Ry Co., 171 P. 1169, 88 Or. 322, L R A.1918D 1114.
10 C J. p 614 note 38.

43. Ala—McWilliams v. Louisville & N R Co, 115 So. 246, 217 Ala 192—Georgia R. Co. v Bell, 65 So 835, 187 Ala 541
Cal—Sanchez v Pacific Auto Stages, 2 P.2d 845, 116 Cal.App. 392.
Fla.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Webb, 150 So 741, 112 Fla. 449.
Mo.—Thomas v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co, App., 293 S.W. 1051.
N.C.—Clark v. Bland, 106 S E 491, 181 N C 110—Thomas v Southern R Co, 92 S E 321, 173 N C 494
Or.—Palmer v. Willamette Valley Southern Ry Co, 171 P. 1169, 88 Or. 322, L.R.A.1918D 1114.
Utah—Hansen v. Oregon Short Line R Co, 188 P. 852, 55 Utah 577.
10 C.J p 614 note 39.

As passenger during interim

One who goes to railway depot a reasonable time before scheduled departure of train, with intention in good faith of paying his fare and boarding such train, is a passenger during interim between his arrival and that of the train, even prior to his actual purchase of the ticket—Ft Worth & D. C Ry. Co. v. Brown, Tex Civ App, 205 S W. 378.

Fifteen minutes before train time

Custom not to open ticket window until fifteen minutes before scheduled time for train, while evidential, was not controlling on question whether a person entering the station before such time and within a reasonable time before the departure of the train was a passenger, in an action against the railroad for assault and battery—Clark v Bland, 106 S.E. 491, 181 N C. 110.

Right to go to station

"Any one who intends in good faith to become a passenger upon a railroad train has the right to go to the station within a reasonable time before the train is expected to depart, and during such time he has the right to do whatever may be necessary or proper to facilitate the loading of his baggage upon the train." —Baker v. Williams, Tex.Civ.App., 198 S.W. 808, 809.

44. Ky.—Manatis v. Cumberland & M R Co., 300 S W. 593, 222 Ky. 190.
10 C J p 614 note 39 [c], [d].

Within thirty minutes

A person who enters a carrier's depot, intending to take passage on its train due to depart within thirty minutes, the statutory period, with the means on hand to pay his fare, and who either purchases a ticket or announces his intention to do so to the carrier's agent, acquires the status of a passenger.—Manatis v. Cumberland & M. R. Co., 300 S W. 593, 222 Ky. 190.

45. Ky.—Manatis v. Cumberland & M R Co., 300 S.W 593, 222 Ky. 190

Where depot agent agrees to keep waiting room open for a person who have received judicial approval.[46]

Licensee or trespasser. A person is not a passenger who is at a station or about the carrier's premises by mere permission and sufferance, and not for the purpose of being transported in due course, or after the abandonment of such an intention,[47] as where he is there as a mere sightseer,[48] or out of mere curiosity, or for his own convenience, or for the transaction of business not connected with the company,[49] or where he is there more than a reasonable time, or more than the statutory period, before or after the arrival of his train;[50] or where he goes on a private right of way or other part of the premises not provided for passengers, and where there is no occasion for him to go as a passenger.[51] Where a person entering a depot does not purchase, or announce his intention to purchase, a ticket within the proper time before the departure of the train, nor obtain leave to wait if the train is not due within such time, the carrier is not charged with notice of his intention to become a passenger and is under no obligation to treat him as such.[52]

§ 557. Signaling Car, Train, or Elevator, and Boarding Same

A person who, with the bona fide intention of becoming a passenger, enters or attempts to enter or board a car, train, elevator, or other vehicle of a carrier, ordinarily becomes a passenger, particularly where it has slowed down or stopped in response to his signal. He may be a passenger even on a wrong train or car, but ordinarily does not become a passenger in boarding a moving train or car until he reaches a place of safety thereon.

As stated in Corpus Juris, which statement has been followed in subsequent decisions,[53] a person who, with the bona fide intention of becoming a passenger,[54] enters or attempts to enter or board a train or car, even before he has got entirely in the car or other vehicle, becomes a passenger,[55] even before he has come into physical contact with the announces his intention to take a train, and who purchases a ticket or announces his intention to do so, the person acquires the status of a passenger, whether or not the train is due in thirty minutes, the statutory period.—Manatis v. Cumberland & M. R. Co., 300 S.W. 593, 222 Ky. 190

46. Fla.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v Webb, 150 So. 741, 744, 745, 112 Fla. 449
Or.—Palmer v. Willamette Valley Southern Ry. Co., 171 P. 1169, 1171, 88 Or. 322, L.R.A.1918D 1114.

47. Md.—Washington, B. & A. R. Co v State, 116 A. 911, 140 Md. 115
10 C.J. p 615 note 40.

This rule, as stated in Corpus Juris, has received judicial approval.—Washington, B. & A. R. Co. v. State, 116 A. 911, 912, 140 Md. 115

48. Pa.—Gillis v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 59 Pa. 129, 98 Am.D. 317.

49. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Fairbairn, 4 S.W. 50, 48 Ark. 491.
10 C.J. p 615 note 42.

50. Mo.—Thomas v. Bush, App., 200 S.W. 301.
10 C.J. p 615 note 43.

11 a. m. to 6 p. m., unreasonable
One who purchases a ticket at 11 a. m. for a train leaving at 6 p. m., intending to stay in the station to keep warm, is not a passenger—Thomas v. Bush, Mo.App., 200 S.W. 301.

51. Md.—Washington, B. & A. R. Co. v State, 116 A. 911, 140 Md. 115.
Mass.—Evans v. Boston, R. B. & L. R. R., 189 N.E. 37, 285 Mass. 283.

Crossing between platforms
Person who, intending to go east on elevated railway, mounted stairway to station for use of west-going passengers, and was injured by westbound train while crossing between platforms to station for use of eastgoing passengers, for which there was a separate stairway, was not a passenger at time of injury, having been in no position to be accepted as a passenger at such time.—Banks v. Kansas City Rys. Co., 217 S.W. 488, 280 Mo. 227.

52. Ky.—Manatis v. Cumberland & M. R. Co., 300 S.W. 593, 222 Ky. 190

53. Ala.—Mobile Light & R. Co. v. Ellis, 96 So. 773, 776, 209 Ala. 580—Bradley v. Williams, 101 So. 808, 809, 20 Ala.App. 308.
Fla.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co v Webb, 150 So. 741, 745, 112 Fla. 449

54. Ala.—Bradley v. Williams, 101 So. 808, 20 Ala.App. 308
Fla.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Webb, 150 So. 741, 112 Fla. 449
Miss.—Gulf, M. & N. R. Co. v. Bradley, 142 So. 493, 167 Miss. 603.
10 C.J. p 615 note 44.

For convenience or to transact business
A person who boards a standing passenger train or car for purposes not connected with the carrier, such as to converse with a friend, to deliver a message, or to buy a newspaper, is not a passenger.—Gulf, M. & N. R. Co. v. Bradley, 142 So. 493, 167 Miss. 603—10 C.J. p 615 note 44 [b].

55. Ala.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Robinson, 105 So. 874, 213 Ala. 522—Bradley v. Williams, 101 So. 808, 20 Ala.App. 308.
Conn.—Vaughn v. Healy, 182 A. 166, 120 Conn. 589.
Fla.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co v. Webb, 150 So. 741, 112 Fla. 449.
Ill.—Lavander v. Chicago City Ry. Co., 129 N.E. 757, 296 Ill. 234.
Ky.—Louisville & N. Ry. Co. v. Copley, 197 S.W. 648, 177 Ky. 171
Mass.—Fitzgerald v. Boston Elevated Ry. Co., 174 N.E. 490, 274 Mass. 287.
Mo.—May v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 225 S.W. 660, 284 Mo. 508—Gunn v. United Rys. Co. of St. Louis, 193 S.W. 814, 270 Mo. 517, L.R.A.1917D 1131—Hayward v. People's Motor-bus Co. of St. Louis, App., 1 S.W. 2d 252.
N.Y.—Garricott v. New York State Rys., 119 N.E. 94, 223 N.Y. 9, L.R.A.1918D 929, reversing 151 N.Y.S. 1117, 167 App.Div. 953
Ohio.—Cincinnati Traction Co. v. Holzenkamp, 3 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 537, affirmed 74 Ohio St. 379, 30 Ohio L. 671, 17 Ohio Dec. 218.
Pa.—Berkebile v. Johnstown Traction Co., 99 A. 871, 872, 255 Pa. 310.
10 C.J. p 615 note 45.

Boarding jitney bus
Where one boarded a jitney bus with the implied knowledge of the operator of the bus, this was a sufficient indication of his intention to become a passenger.—Ivancich v. Davies, 199 P. 784, 186 Cal. 520.

Mounting steps of train
A person who, intending to board a train and become a passenger thereon, while in the act of mounting the steps of the train, is a "passenger".—Riley v. Southern Pac. Co., 207 P. 699, 57 Cal.App. 477.

On elevator
A person going to an office for business purposes is an "invitee" and on entering office building's elevator becomes a "passenger" due the same degree of care as in cases of common carriers of passengers by bus, hand rail or step of the car,[56] and although he may not have purchased a ticket before making such attempt,[57] or was previously a trespasser on the carrier's property;[58] and whether or not, after he has boarded, the carrier actually knows of his presence on the car or vehicle.[59]

The entrance or attempt to enter or board, however, must be made at the proper time.[60] such as with reasonable promptness,[61] in a proper manner,[62] and at a proper place, such as a regular or proper stopping place.[63] If one attempts to board a car at a place which is not a regular stopping place, he ordinarily does not become a passenger unless he does so upon the express or implied invitation of the carrier,[64] as where passengers are permitted to enter and leave the car at that point;[65] but although, a person boards a carrier's train or vehicle at an unusual or unauthorized place, if he is entitled to transportation, he becomes a passenger from the time he gets on board.[66] street car, or railroad—Ensley Holding Co v Kelley, 158 So. 896, 229 Ala. 650—10 C.J p 615 note 45 [c].

When a person presents himself at the entrance of a standing street car, with the purpose, disclosed to, and recognized by, its conductor or officer in charge, of entering it as a passenger, and, as the car stands to enable the purpose to be carried out, the act of entering is begun, the relation of passenger and carrier exists between them—Garricott v. New York State Rys., 119 N.E. 94, 223 N.Y. 9, L.R.A.1918D 929, reversing 151 N.Y.S. 1117, 167 App.Div. 953.

56. Mass—Fournier v. Holyoke St. Ry. Co., 154 N.E. 546, 258 Mass 257.
Ohio.—Holzenkamp v. Cincinnati Traction Co., 2 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 157, affirmed 3 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 537, 16 Ohio Dec. 673.
10 C.J p 615 note 45 [b].

It is not necessary that person should have hold of rail or have foot on step of car to be regarded as "passenger," but will be so regarded while carefully attempting to step upon platform.—Gunn v. United Rys Co. of St. Louis, 193 S.W. 814, 270 Mo. 517, L.R.A.1917D 1131

57. Ga—Matthews v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 169 S.E. 41, 46 Ga. App. 699.
N.C.—Snipes v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 56 S.E. 477, 144 N.C. 18.
10 C.J. p 616 note 46
Purchase of ticket generally see infra § 558

58. Ky—Louisville & N. Ry Co. v. Copley, 197 S.W. 648, 177 Ky. 171.

59. Cal—Ivancich v. Davies, 199 P. 784, 186 Cal. 520—Hellman v Los Angeles Ry. Corporation, 27 P.2d 946, 135 Cal.App. 627, rehearing denied 28 P.2d 384, 135 Cal.App. 627
Pa.—Berkebile v. Johnstown Traction Co., 99 A. 871, 255 Pa. 310.

In case of interurban cars, one does not have to announce his presence to the conductor before becoming a passenger—McKenzie v. Detroit, J. & C. Ry. Co., 161 N.W. 970, 195 Mich. 218

60. Ala—Bradley v. Williams, 101 So. 808, 20 Ala.App. 308.
10 C.J. p 616 note 48

This rule, as stated in Corpus Juris, has received judicial approval
Ala—Bradley v. Williams, 101 So. 808, 809, 20 Ala.App. 308.
Fla—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v Webb, 150 So. 741, 745, 112 Fla. 449

61. Ala—Birmingham Electric Co v Cleveland, 113 So. 403, 216 Ala. 455.
10 C.J p 617 note 49 [b].

Immediate boarding not required

Passenger does not lose his status as such by failing to board train immediately after purchasing ticket—Missouri-Kansas-Texas R. Co. of Texas v. Hail, Tex.Com.App., 48 S.W.2d 589, affirming Hail v. Missouri-Kansas-Texas R. Co. of Texas, Civ. App., 30 S.W.2d 1062.

62. Ala.—Bradley v. Williams, 101 So. 808, 20 Ala.App. 308.
Utah.—Bergman v. Denver & R. G. R. Co., 178 P. 68, 53 Utah 213.
10 C.J. p 617 note 49.

On opposite side from platform

A person boarding a train on the side opposite the platform, the platform being the proper and usual boarding place, without the knowledge of the train operators, is not a passenger—Bernadine v. Erie R. Co., 164 A. 265, 110 N.J.Law 338.

63. Ala.—Birmingham Electric Co v. Cleveland, 113 So. 403, 216 Ala. 455—Bradley v. Williams, 101 So. 808, 20 Ala.App. 308.
10 C.J. p 616 note 47.

At place provided

A person who claims the protection of the status of a passenger must board the train at the place then and there provided by the carrier for the acceptance of passengers, and at the particular place where the agents of the carrier are accustomed to be for that purpose—Gulf, M. & N. R. Co. v. Bradley, 142 So. 493, 167 Miss. 603

64. Mass—Nuttall v. Worcester Consol. St. Ry. Co., 114 N.E. 291, 225 Mass. 167—Jones v Boston, etc., R. Co., 39 N.E. 1019, 163 Mass 245
Mo.—Galloway v. Kansas City Rys. Co., 233 S.W. 385—McCarty v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 80 S.W. 7, 105 Mo.App. 596
10 C.J. p 616 note 47.

At crossing, not regular stopping place

A prospective interurban car passenger, waiting for car at crossing which was not a regular stopping place, and at which the car stopped only on signal, when struck by freight car which had not stopped after answering signal by blasts of whistle signifying that it would not stop, the deceased, as to such freight car, was not a passenger within the rule as to degree of care required of railroad toward passengers.—Van Sickle v. Grand Rapids, G. H. & M. Ry. Co., 182 N.W. 132, 213 Mich. 261

Boarding with other passengers

If plaintiff assumed position immediately in rear of other passengers boarding street car, in ample time to board it and give conductor an opportunity to see him with intention of becoming a passenger, the contractual relation was created, and he became entitled to all rights of passenger, although he was not at usual stopping place when car stopped.—Detchemendy v. Wells, Mo. App., 253 S.W. 150.

Toleration of practice as not invitation

The act of a railroad company in tolerating a practice on the part of the public of taking trains from a certain unsafe space or place is not an inducement or invitation to an intending passenger to use such space, and one doing so is not a passenger—Doherty v. New York, N. H. & H. R. Co., 118 N.E. 281, 229 Mass. 135—Hillman v. Boston Elevated Ry. Co., 93 N.E. 653, 207 Mass. 478, 32 L.R.A.,N.S., 198

65. Mass—Nuttall v. Worcester Consol. St. Ry. Co., 114 N.E. 291, 225 Mass. 167.

66. Mo—Hayward v. People's Motorbus Co. of St. Louis, App., 1 S.W.2d 252
10 C.J. p 617 note 50.

This rule, as stated in Corpus Juris, has received judicial approval.
Fla—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Webb, 150 So. 741, 745, 112 Fla. 449.
Mo—Hayward v. People's Motorbus Co. of St. Louis, App., 1 S.W.2d 252, 254

Boarding bus

Where a person sets his foot on

The rule that a person becomes a passenger on boarding or attempting to board, in good faith, a carrier's train or car is particularly applicable where the train or the car has slowed down or stopped apparently for the purpose of taking a person on, in response to his signal to it so to do;[67] or where it has stopped, although without signal, with the manifest purpose of discharging and receiving passengers.[68]

The mere signaling, however, of the car to stop and the driver's intention to stop do not give rise to the relation, until the driver, by checking the speed of the car or by some other act, in response to the signal, indicates an intention to accept such person as a passenger,[69] and this rule is particularly applicable at a flag station,[70] or at a place where cars do not usually stop.[71]

A person becomes a passenger on a street car, as stated in Corpus Juris and followed in subsequent decisions,[72] as soon as he has set his foot on the step, platform, or running board, in the act of getting into the car, after it has stopped, with the intention of becoming a passenger.[73]

Boarding moving train or car. When a train or car commences to move, the implied invitation to the general public to avail itself of the transportation facilities is withdrawn;[74] and ordinarily a per-the rear platform of a motor bus, with the intention of securing passage therein, directly behind others who had boarded the bus with the knowledge and assistance of the conductor, the relationship of carrier and passenger is established, irrespective of where the regular or customary stopping place of the bus is.—Hayward v People's Motorbus Co. of St. Louis, Mo.App., 1 S.W.2d 252.

67. Fla.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Webb, 150 So. 741, 112 Fla. 449.
Mo.—Vrooman v. Harvey, 197 S.W. 118.
Ohio—Holzenkamp v. Cincinnati Traction Co., 2 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 157, affirmed 3 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 537, 16 Ohio Dec. 673.
10 C.J. p. 617 note 51.

Presumption of invitation

If the signal is given, and the motorman sees it and stops, it is presumed, in the absence of evidence to show that the stop was for some other purpose, that the stopping is in answer to the signal, that the invitation is given, and the contract complete. It is not necessary for the car in such case to come to a full stop, but if the motorman sees the signal, and the car slows down so that it becomes perfectly safe to board it, the slowing down, if no other purpose be shown, may be inferred to be in response to the signal, and an invitation to board.—Vrooman v. Harvey, Mo., 197 S.W. 118.

68. Ala.—Mobile Light & R. Co. v. Ellis, 96 So. 773, 209 Ala. 580.
Md.—Damico v. Washington, B. & A. Electric R. Co., 148 A. 821, 158 Md. 470.
Mo.—Maxey v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 68 S.W. 1063, 95 Mo.App. 303.
N.Y.—Garricott v. New York State Rys., 119 N.E. 94, 223 N.Y. 9, L.R.A.1918D 929, reversing 151 N.Y.S. 1117, 167 App.Div. 953

If a would-be passenger is at a regular stopping place, and the car stops or slows down, so that he safely may attempt, and does attempt, to board it, the contract of carriage is complete, although those operating the car do not see him.—Vrooman v. Harvey, Mo., 197 S.W. 118

Where a carrier stops its car and opens its doors, inviting passengers to enter, a person who boards or attempts to board the car is a passenger.
U.S.—Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co. v. Alcorn, C.C.A.Pa., 266 F. 50
Ala.—Bradley v. Williams, 101 So. 808, 20 Ala.App. 308.
Ga.—Payne v. Allen, 110 S.E. 345, 28 Ga.App. 8, reversed on other grounds 116 S.E. 640, 155 Ga. 54.
Mo.—Erny v. Wells, 293 S.W. 119, 316 Mo. 798.

One waiting on railway property at a flag station to board train stopping at that point, and attempting to board, is a passenger.—Davis v. Olson, C.C.A.Minn., 298 F. 921.

"Where a street car stops at a street corner in a city, where it is usual to take on and discharge passengers, and opens its door, such act is an invitation to all persons there present to become passengers, and, when such persons evidence such intention by proceeding to board such car, they become passengers within the meaning of the law fixing the status of the parties."—Bradley v. Williams, 101 So. 808, 809, 20 Ala. App. 308.

69. Mich.—Rice v. Michigan Ry. Co., 175 N.W. 454, 208 Mich. 123.
Ohio—Hogans v. City of Columbus, 14 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 33.
10 C.J. p. 617 note 52.

Discovery of intending passenger

Where street railway's servant in charge of car does not see intending passenger, and is not aware he wishes to become such, to give rise to relationship of carrier and passenger by implication, street railway by ordinary care should have seen intending passenger or have been aware he wished to become such.—Virginia Ry. & Power Co. v. Arnold, 92 S.E. 925, 131 Va. 204.

Presumption of response to signal

If signal is given, and motorman sees it and stops, it is presumed that stopping is in answer to signal, that invitation is given, and contract complete.—Vrooman v. Harvey, Mo., 197 S.W. 118.

Where a person takes a position on the platform of a street railroad company and flags an approaching car to express his purpose of boarding it, and the motorman responds in the customary manner to the signal, the relation of passenger and carrier is established.—Rice v. Michigan Ry. Co., 175 N.W. 454, 208 Mich. 123.

70. Ga.—Georgia, etc., R. Co. v. Tapley, 87 S.E. 473, 144 Ga. 453, 456, L.R.A.1916C 1020.
10 C.J. p. 617 note 53.

71. Mo.—Vrooman v. Harvey, 197 S.W. 118.
Or.—Palmer v. Willamette Valley Southern Ry. Co., 171 P. 1169, 88 Or. 322, L.R.A.1918D 1114.

72. Fla.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Webb, 150 So. 741, 745, 112 Fla. 449.
Mo.—Hayward v. People's Motorbus Co. of St. Louis, App., 1 S.W.2d 252.
Wash.—Dahline v. City of Seattle, 5 P.2d 1010, 1012, 165 Wash. 683.—Heva v. City of Seattle, 272 P. 41, 150 Wash. 61.

73. Mass.—Franz v. Holyoke St. Ry. Co., 132 N.E. 270, 239 Mass. 565
Ohio.—Cincinnati Traction Co. v. Weber, 6 Ohio App. 17.—Cincinnati Traction Co. v. Holzenkamp, 3 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 537, affirmed 74 Ohio St. 379, 30 Ohio Law R. 671, 17 Ohio Dec. 218.—Holzenkamp v. Cincinnati Traction Co., 2 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 157, affirmed 3 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 537, 16 Ohio Dec. 673.
Wash.—Dahline v. City of Seattle, 5 P.2d 1010, 165 Wash. 683.—Heva v. City of Seattle, 272 P. 41, 150 Wash. 61.
10 C.J. p. 617 note 54.

74. U.S.—U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Aschenbrenner, C.C.A.Cal.,

son attempting to board a moving train or car does not become a passenger[75] although he may have a ticket for such train or car,[76] and this rule is especially applicable where he makes such attempt, without the knowledge of the carrier's employees, at an improper place or in an improper manner.[77] A person is also not a passenger in running to get on board a moving train or car.[78] A person boarding a moving train or car, however, becomes a passenger when he reaches a place of safety thereon,[79] although he is not seen, at the time he enters, by the motorman or conductor.[80]

A street car company may extend permission to become a passenger without bringing its car to a dead stop,[81] and where one, either on the invitation or with the knowledge of the motorman or conductor, attempts to board a car which is moving very slowly, such as at a speed of two miles per hour, he becomes a passenger,[82] although he sees

65 F.2d 976, certiorari granted Aschenbrenner v. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 54 S.Ct. 229, 290 U.S. 622, 78 L.Ed. 543, reversed on other grounds 54 S.Ct. 590, 292 U.S. 80, 78 L.Ed. 1137, rehearing denied 54 S.Ct. 861, 292 U.S. 615, 78 L.Ed. 1474.

Ill.—Foote v. Chicago, N. S. & M. R. Co., 256 Ill.App. 581.

Md.—Damico v. Washington, B. & A. Electric R. Co., 148 A. 821, 158 Md. 470.

Or.—Palmer v. Willamette Valley Southern Ry. Co., 171 P. 1169, 88 Or. 322, L.R.A.1918D 1114—Tompkins v. Portland Ry., etc., Co., 150 P. 758, 77 Or. 174.

Signal to start as not withdrawal

A signal to start a street car given by the conductor before a person accepted as a passenger has had an opportunity to get fully on the car does not have the effect of a withdrawal of the invitation until such person hears or reasonably ought to hear the signal and understand its purport.—Fournier v. Holyoke St. Ry. Co., 154 N.E. 546, 258 Mass. 257.

75. U.S.—U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Aschenbrenner, C.C.A.Cal., 65 F.2d 976, certiorari granted Aschenbrenner v. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 54 S.Ct. 229, 290 U.S. 622, 78 L.Ed. 543, reversed on other grounds 54 S.Ct. 590, 292 U.S. 80, 78 L.Ed. 1137, rehearing denied 54 S.Ct. 861, 292 U.S. 615, 78 L.Ed. 1474—Fels v. East St. Louis & S. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Mo., 275 F. 881.

Ga.—Matthews v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 169 S.E. 41, 46 Ga.App. 699.

Ill.—Foote v. Chicago, N. S. & M. R. Co., 256 Ill.App. 581.

Md.—Damico v. Washington, B. & A. Electric R. Co., 148 A. 821, 158 Md. 470.

Mass.—Gerber v. New York Cent. R. R., 192 N.E. 837, 288 Mass. 318.

Mo.—Vrooman v. Harvey, 197 S.W. 118.

N.J.—Fleming v. Connecticut General Ins. Co., 181 A. 185, 116 N.J.Law 6.

10 C.J. p 618 note 55.

Trespasser as matter of law

Where the undisputed evidence showed that plaintiff, a brakeman, attempted to board a through passenger train not scheduled to stop, but at the time moving at a speed of twelve to fifteen miles per hour, and that the engineer was without authority even to slow its speed on the signal of one desiring to board it, and there was no evidence to indicate any custom or practice giving the engineer apparent authority to receive passengers while the train was moving, as a matter of law the relation of carrier and passenger was not established, but plaintiff was a trespasser, and there was no liability on the part of the carrier by reason of the engineer slowing the train for plaintiff to board it, such action being without the scope of the engineer's authority.—Lee v. Baker, Tex.Civ.App., 251 S.W. 580.

76. Ky.—Kentucky Highlands R. Co. v. Creal, 179 S.W. 417, 166 Ky. 469, L.R.A.1916B 830—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Cotter, 103 S.W. 279, 31 Ky.L. 679.

77. U.S.—Trapnell v. Hines, C.C.A.N.J., 268 F. 504.

Tex.—Horwitz v. Jefferson County Traction Co., Civ.App., 188 S.W. 26, error refused.

From opposite side

A person attempting to board a moving train on the side opposite the platform, and without knowledge of defendant railroad's employees, was not a passenger, and defendant was not liable for injuries sustained by him in falling from the steps of the car.—Trapnell v. Hines, C.C.A.N.J., 268 F. 504.

Not stopping place

Where only slackening of street car's speed at stopping place was while rounding curve, and it had passed stopping place before plaintiff attempted to board it, he did not become a passenger.—Hildebrant v. City and County of San Francisco, 231 P. 1008, 69 Cal.App. 590.

78. U.S.—Fels v. East St. Louis & S. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Mo., 275 F. 881.

Ohio.—Hogans v. City of Columbus, 14 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 33.

10 C.J. p 618 note 58.

79. U.S.—U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Aschenbrenner, C.C.A.Cal., 65 F.2d 976, certiorari granted Aschenbrenner v. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 54 S.Ct. 229, 290 U.S. 622, 78 L.Ed. 543, reversed on other grounds 54 S.Ct. 590, 292 U.S. 80, 78 L.Ed. 1137, rehearing denied 54 S.Ct. 861, 292 U.S. 615, 78 L.Ed. 1474.

Cal.—Ivancich v. Davies, 199 P. 784, 186 Cal. 520.

Mich.—McKenzie v. Detroit, J. & C. Ry. Co., 161 N.W. 970, 195 Mich. 218.

Pa.—Berkebile v. Johnstown Traction Co., 99 A. 871, 255 Pa. 310.

10 C.J. p 618 note 56.

One entering a moving caboose, used as a passenger coach, as it passed a stopping point at which there was no depot or other shelter, with the intent to take passage and comply with the reasonable regulations of the company, was a passenger.—Arneberg v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., 195 N.W. 844, 182 Wis. 85.

80. Pa.—Berkebile v. Johnstown Traction Co., 99 A. 871, 255 Pa. 310.

81. Mo.—Nolan v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 157 S.W. 637, 250 Mo. 602.

Tex.—Lewis v. Houston Electric Co., 88 S.W. 489, 112 S.W. 593, 39 Tex.Civ.App. 625.

Mere nodding of head

Where plaintiff, intending to board train, went to station, and, desiring to speak to someone one hundred feet away, asked the conductor to wait a minute, which the conductor conditionally agreed to do, and the train started, and plaintiff signaled the motorman, the mere fact that the motorman nodded his head did not make plaintiff a passenger, so as to warrant recovery for injuries in attempting to board the moving cars.—Palmer v. Willamette Valley Southern Ry. Co., 171 P. 1169, 88 Or. 322, L.R.A.1918D 1114.

82. Mo.—Vrooman v. Harvey, 197 S.W. 118.

10 C.J. p 618 note 60.

If there is definite response by motorman to signal to stop at place where cars do not usually stop, and car is slowed down, so that attempt to board it may safely be made, and is made, one becomes passenger.—Vrooman v. Harvey, Mo., 197 S.W. 118.

no conductor or motorman on the car.[83]

Getting on wrong train or car. Where a person with the right to passage on the right train or car by mistake gets on a wrong train or car, he is nevertheless a passenger on the train or car which he is on,[84] particularly where he is accepted as a passenger by the conductor.[85] Unless a person has knowledge of or is notified of the facts,[86] he is a passenger, although he has boarded a train which does not stop at his station,[87] or although he has boarded a train or car not intended for passengers,[88] unless he has no right to believe that it is not so intended or is informed to the contrary.[89] One, however, who boards the car of one company under the impression that it is the car of another company, having at the time no purpose or intention of being carried as a passenger thereon, does not become a passenger.[90]

§ 558. Purchase of Ticket

The mere purchase of a ticket does not of itself create the relation of carrier and passenger; but it is an element in the inception of the relation, and, when taken with other facts indicating an intention to become a passenger, may be sufficient for such purpose.

The mere fact that a person has purchased a ticket entitling him to transportation does not of itself create the relation of carrier and passenger;[91] nor, in the absence of a rule or known usage of the company to the contrary, is the actual purchase of a ticket before entering the train essential to constitute the relation,[92] particularly where he has been given no opportunity to purchase a ticket.[93] This rule applies under a statute fixing the rate of fare to be charged one who in good faith boards a passenger train, without a ticket,[94] or which requires a carrier to transport passengers failing to procure tickets at the same price as is charged for tickets,[95] although such a statute does not prevent the carrier from enforcing a rule refusing to permit a person without a ticket to enter a passenger train.[96]

The fact, however, of the purchase of a ticket, or the holding of a transfer, is an element entering into the inception of the relation, and when taken together with other acts on the part of the purchaser indicating an intention to put himself under the control of the carrier it will be sufficient to create the relation,[97] although the ticket is not actually paid for at the time of purchase;[98] and

83. Mo.—Devoy v. St. Louis Transit Co., 91 S.W. 140, 192 Mo. 197.

84. Ind.—Cincinnati, H. & I. R. Co. v. Carper, 13 N.E. 122, 14 N.E. 352, 112 Ind. 26, 2 Am.S.R. 144.
10 C.J. p 618 note 62.

85. Wash.—Dahline v. City of Seattle, 5 P.2d 1010, 165 Wash. 683.
10 C.J. p 618 note 63.

86. Mich.—Baldwin v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 87 N.W. 380, 128 Mich. 417.
10 C.J. p 618 note 64.

87. Mich.—Baldwin v. Grand Trunk R. Co., supra.
10 C.J. p 618 note 65.

88. Mo.—Chapman v. Kansas City Rys. Co., 217 S.W. 290.
10 C.J. p 619 note 66.

Car not in service

Person attempting to board moving car without invitation, and which he knew or by exercising care could have known was not in service, is not a "passenger."—Damico v. Washington B. & A. Electric R. Co., 148 A. 821, 158 Md. 470—10 C.J. p 619 note 66 [a].

Persons riding on vehicles not proper for passengers in general see supra § 552.

89. Mass.—Robertson v. Boston & N. St. Ry. Co., 76 N.E. 513, 190 Mass. 108, 112 Am.S.R. 314, 3 L.R.A.,N.S., 588.
10 C.J. p 619 note 67.

Boarding car at usual stopping place

Where one, intending to become a passenger, boards a street car at its regular or usual stopping place and pays his fare he becomes and remains a passenger until he safely alights therefrom, although the car is not being used at that particular moment for the purpose of conveying passengers, but is on its way to a street car barn.—Dahline v. City of Seattle, 5 P.2d 1010, 165 Wash. 683.

90. Ga.—DeVane v. Atlanta, etc., R. Co., 60 S.E. 1079, 4 Ga.App. 136
Ill.—Metropolitan West Side El., R. Co. v. Sutherland, 139 Ill.App. 85.

91. Minn.—Barnett v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 143 N.W. 263, 123 Minn. 153, 48 L.R.A.,N.S., 262.
10 C.J. p 619 note 69.

92. Mo.—Rawlings v. Wabash R. Co., 71 S.W. 534, 97 Mo.App. 515.
Okl.—Schaff v. Samuels, 234 P. 195, 109 Okl. 133.
Pa.—Simpson v. Southern Pennsylvania Traction Co., 103 A. 884, 260 Pa. 526—Berkebile v. Johnstown Traction Co., 99 A. 971, 255 Pa. 310.
10 C.J. p 619 note 70.

93. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Green, 161 S.W. 148, 110 Ark. 232.
Opportunity to purchase ticket see infra § 601.

94. Tex.—Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Washington, Civ.App., 30 S.W. 719.

95. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Kilpatrick, 54 S.W. 971, 67 Ark. 47.
10 C.J. p 619 note 73.

96. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Blythe, 126 S.W. 386, 94 Ark. 153, 29 L.R.A.,N.S., 299.

97. Ala.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Robinson, 105 So. 874, 213 Ala. 522.
Ga.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Parker, 139 S.E. 581, 37 Ga.App. 218.
Ind.—Lake Erie & W. R. Co. v. McConkey, 113 N.E. 24, 62 Ind.App. 447
Mo.—Thomas v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., App., 293 S.W. 1051.
Tex.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Aiken, Civ.App., 202 S.W. 811.
10 C.J. p 619 note 75

A ticket from a station where passengers are not taken on, if sold through permission of the division superintendent, is sufficient to create the relation of carrier and passenger.—Fenlon v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., 169 P. 863, 99 Wash. 289.

Passenger from time of rejection of ticket

When party in good faith, with intention of becoming passenger, had purchased and presented ticket entitling him to ride, and was wrongfully denied entrance, relation of carrier and passenger existed at time of rejection.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Robinson, 105 So. 874, 213 Ala. 522.

Ticket holder waiting for train

One who has purchased a ticket and is waiting to take passage on an approaching train occupies the position of a passenger.
Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Dixon, 195 S.W. 1099, 176 Ky. 569
Mo.—May v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 225 S.W. 660, 284 Mo. 508.

98. Iowa.—Ellsworth v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 63 N.W. 584, 95 Iowa 98, 29 L.R.A. 173.
10 C.J. p 687 note 3.

although his ticket is invalid, if he boards a train or car in good faith believing that it is good, he is a passenger, and entitled to be treated as such,[99] until he is notified that his ticket is not good and he refuses to pay his fare.[1]

Accepting expired ticket. In the absence of bad faith, deceit, or fraud, if a person presents a ticket, redeemable at full price, which has expired, but which the conductor, after examining it, accepts, he is a passenger, or at least an invitee.[2] The conductor, in such a case, is chargeable with knowledge obtainable by his examination of the ticket, and his act of acceptance is a waiver of the defect in the ticket,[3] and, where there is nothing to indicate that the conductor, in accepting the expired ticket, did not knowingly waive the defect, the passenger is justified in concluding that the ticket had been knowingly accepted and that the carrier and passenger relation existed.[4]

§ 559. Payment of Fare

Actual payment of fare ordinarily is not essential to the existence of the relation of carrier and passenger where the passenger has the means and the intention of paying his fare.

Where a person enters a train or car, with the express or implied invitation or acceptance of the carrier's agent or conductor, as discussed infra §§ 561, 562, for the purpose of becoming a passenger, and with the means and intention of paying his fare, the actual payment of fare is not essential to the establishment of the relation of carrier and passenger;[5] and where a person boards a train with money sufficient to pay his fare, it will ordinarily be presumed that he intends to pay his fare on demand,[6] unless his conduct is such as to show that he is trying to evade a demand being made on him, as by hiding himself or otherwise,[7] and if he fails to pay after a demand and opportunity so to do the presumption ceases.[8] Nevertheless, the payment of fare to the proper person and the receipt of the same constitute unequivocal evidence of the existence of the relation,[9] and, although the acceptance of any compensation from the passenger creates the relation of carrier and passenger,[10] unless the payment is either made or waived the fare must some time be paid or tendered,[11] and if a person gets on or enters a vehicle of a carrier with no intention of paying fare,[12] or persistently refuses to pay his

99. U.S.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co v. Burton, C.C.A.W.Va., 62 F.2d 110, 88 A.L.R. 756, certiorari denied 53 S.Ct. 507, 288 U.S. 617, 77 L.Ed. 990
Ark.—Little Rock R., etc., Co. v Goerner, 95 S.W. 1007, 80 Ark. 158 7 L.R.A.,N.S., 97, 10 Ann.Cas. 273
10 C.J. p 620 note 76.

1. Tex.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Bunn, 95 S.W. 640, 41 Tex.Civ.App. 503.

2. U.S.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co v. Burton, C.C.A.W.Va., 62 F.2d 110, 88 A.L.R. 756, certiorari denied 53 S.Ct. 507, 288 U.S. 617, 77 L.Ed. 990

3. U.S.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. Burton, supra.

4. U.S.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. Burton, supra.

5. Ala.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Harper, 83 So. 142, 203 Ala. 398.
Cal.—Sanchez v. Pacific Auto Stages, 2 P.2d 845, 116 Cal.App. 392.
Miss.—Gulf, M. & N. R. Co. v. Bradley, 142 So. 493, 167 Miss. 603
Mo.—Chapman v. Kansas City Rys. Co., 217 S.W. 290—Rawlings v. Wabash R. Co., 71 S.W. 534, 97 Mo. App. 515
N.Y.—Allessi v. New York Rapid Transit Corporation, 297 N.Y.S. 1011, 163 Misc. 815
Pa.—Simpson v. Southern Pennsylvania Traction Co., 103 A. 884, 260 Pa. 526—Berkebile v. Johnstown Traction Co., 99 A. 871, 255 Pa. 310
10 C.J. p 620 note 79.

One boarding street car intending to become a passenger, even though no fare has been collected before he sustains injury, is a passenger, and not a trespasser simply because he entered in violation of company's rule.—Berkebile v. Johnstown Traction Co., 99 A. 871, 255 Pa. 310.

On jitney bus

One boarding a jitney bus as it was leaving a stopping place was no less a passenger because he had not paid his fare, and rode on the running board, and the operator had no actual knowledge of his presence, where it was the custom to collect the fare at the end of the journey, and he had money for the fare, and was ready and willing to pay, knowledge of his presence being implied.—Ivancich v. Davies, 199 P. 784, 186 Cal. 520.

Statute not exhaustive

A statutory provision that an obligation to pay fare is implied on the part of a passenger, and reciprocal liability of carrier, is not exhaustive.—Payne v. Allen, 116 S.E. 640, 155 Ga. 54, reversing 110 S.E. 345, 28 Ga.App. 8, conformed to 116 S.E. 642, 30 Ga.App. 80.
Fares generally see infra §§ 578–596.
Payment of fare to avoid ejection see infra § 812.

6. Ohio.—Dowd v. Cleveland Ry., 22 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 236.
10 C.J. p 620 note 80.
Presumptions as to relation of carrier and passenger generally see infra § 764.

7. Ala.—Broyles v. Central of Georgia R. Co., 52 So. 81, 166 Ala. 616, 139 Am.S.R. 50.

8. Ala.—Broyles v. Central of Georgia R. Co., supra.

9. Cal.—Sanchez v. Pacific Auto Stages, 2 P.2d 845, 116 Cal.App. 392.
10 C.J. p 620 note 83.

10. Mo.—Alexander v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., 2 S.W.2d 165, 221 Mo. 271.

11. Mont.—Higley v. Gilmer, 3 Mont. 90, 35 Am.R. 450.
10 C.J. p 620 note 84.

Permitted to ride on tender of improper fare

Where a street railway company instructed its conductors to refuse a tender of a three-cent fare, but to permit persons making such tender to ride, and plaintiff was permitted to enter the car and tendered to the conductor three cents, and the conductor allowed him to be transported, he was a passenger and entitled to protection as such.—Toledo Rys. & Light Co. v. Duggan, 7 Ohio App. 1.
Right to require fare see infra § 579.

12. Ind.—Union Traction Co. of Indiana v. Alstadt, 143 N.E. 879, 195 Ind. 389.
10 C.J. p 620 note 85.

The Corpus Juris text is cited with approval in Gulf, M. & N. R. Co. v. Bradley, Miss., 142 So. 493, 494.
Fraud or evasion of fare generally see infra § 560.

fare,[13] he cannot be considered a passenger, unless such refusal is justifiable.[14] A passenger who for a temporary purpose of his own enters a Pullman car forming part of the train without paying the extra fare demanded for the privilege of riding therein remains a passenger, and is entitled to protection as such.[15]

§ 560. Fraud or Evasion of Fare

A person conveyed on a carrier's vehicle by fraud or evasion of fare in violation of the rules or orders of the carrier is not a passenger.

One conveyed by fraud or against the express orders of the carrier is not a passenger,[16] as where by giving a tip or bribe he induces a conductor or other trainman to permit him to travel on a train, or in a place, not intended for the conveyance of passengers, contrary to the regulations of the company.[17] One who fraudulently attempts to secure transportation by attempting to pass himself off as one entitled to be carried without a ticket, or by like fraudulent acts, is not a passenger, although he is being transported, and it matters not whether he has actually perpetrated a fraud by deceiving the conductor of the train, or is on the train with intent to secure transportation by so doing;[18] but it is not to be presumed from the mere fact that a person has attempted to secure transportation which has been refused to him that he intends a fraud by remaining on the train,[19] since the presumption on the contrary is that he intends to pay his fare when it is demanded, as announced supra § 559. One who fraudulently attempts to ride on a nontransferable ticket or pass issued to another person is not a passenger,[20] but is entitled to the rights of a passenger where he presents such ticket or pass in good faith, and it is accepted by the conductor.[21] A former employee of the carrier, who accepts repayment of his fare from the conductor of the train on which he is riding, ceases to be a passenger and becomes a licensee or invitee.[22]

A trespasser stealing a ride or attempting so to do cannot be considered in any sense a passenger.[23]

Children or newsboys who climb on the platforms or sides of street cars without the consent of the conductor, for the purpose of securing a ride without payment of fare, are not entitled to protection as passengers,[24] but if the conductor consents that a child be carried, although he has no intention of paying fare, he is entitled to protection as a passenger.[25]

§ 561. Acceptance by Carrier in General

The relation of carrier and passenger does not exist until there has been an acceptance, express or implied, by the carrier, of the passenger, as such.

As has been noted supra §§ 554, 555, to give rise to the relation of passenger and carrier, there must be not only an intent on the part of the former to avail himself of the facilities of the latter for transportation, but also an express or implied acceptance by the latter of the former as a passenger. Al-

13. Ala.—Birmingham Electric Co v Maze, 166 So. 50, 231 Ala. 539.
10 C.J. p 620 note 86.

Refusal to pay child's fare
Relationship of carrier and passenger did not exist between street railroad company and grandmother who boarded car accompanied by grandchild upon grandmother's refusal to pay child's fare on demand, precluding grandmother's recovery, as passenger, for damages alleged to have been sustained when she was ejected.—Birmingham Electric Co. v. Maze, 166 So. 50, 231 Ala. 539.
Refusal to pay fare as terminating relation see infra § 563.

14. Minn.—Hardenbergh v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 38 N.W. 625, 39 Minn. 3 12 Am.S.R. 610.
10 C.J. p 621 note 87.

15. Mo.—Siegel v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 172 S.W. 420, 186 Mo.App. 645.

16. Okl.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co v. Nichols, 136 P. 159, 39 Okl. 522.
10 C.J. p 621 note 90

17. Ark.—Williams v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co., 215 S.W. 605, 139 Ark. 562.
Ind.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Field, 34 N.E. 406, 7 Ind.App. 172, 52 Am.S.R. 444
Kan.—Mendenhall v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 71 P. 846, 66 Kan. 438, 97 Am.S.R. 380, 61 L.R.A. 120.
Minn.—Brevig v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 66 N.W. 401, 64 Minn. 168.
10 C.J. p 642 note 56.

A former employee who, by collusion with the conductor, gets permission to ride on a freight train, contrary to the rules of the railroad company, is a trespasser and not a passenger.—Youmans v. Wabash R. Co., 127 S.W. 595, 143 Mo.App. 393.

18. U.S.—Condran v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co., Iowa, 67 F. 522, 14 C.C.A. 506, 28 L.R.A. 749
10 C.J. p 621 note 92.

19. U.S.—Robostelli v. New York, N. H. & H. R. Co., C.C.N.Y., 33 F. 796.
Fla.—Florida Southern R. Co. v. Hirst, 11 So. 506, 30 Fla. 1, 32 Am. S.R. 17, 16 L.R.A. 631.
Tex.—Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Snead, 23 S.W. 277, 4 Tex.Civ.App. 31.

20. U.S.—Harmon v. Jensen, Mich., 176 F. 519, 100 C.C.A. 115, 20 Ann. Cas. 1224.
10 C.J. p 621 note 95.

21. U.S.—Robostelli v. New York, N. H. & H. R. Co., C.C.N.Y., 33 F. 796
10 C.J. p 621 note 95 [a].

22. Minn.—Hunter v. Chicago, St. P., M. & O. Ry. Co., 230 N.W. 793, 180 Minn. 305, affirmed 231 N.W. 920, 180 Minn. 305

23. Mass.—Cotter v. Boston, R. B. & L. R. Co., 154 N.E. 767, 258 Mass. 279.
Miss.—Gulf, M. & N. R. Co. v. Bradley, 142 So. 493, 167 Miss. 603.
10 C.J. p 622 note 96.

This rule, as stated in Corpus Juris, has received judicial approval.—Gulf, M. & N. R. Co. v. Bradley, 142 So. 493, 494, 167 Miss. 603.
Refusal to pay fare see supra § 559.
Stealing ride as offense see supra § 541.

24. Mo.—Padgitt v. Moll, 60 S.W. 121, 159 Mo. 143, 81 Am.S.R. 347, 52 L.R.A. 854.
10 C.J. p 622 note 97.

25. Ga.—Metropolitan St. R. Co. v. Moore, 10 S.E. 730, 83 Ga. 453.

though a formal acceptance of the prospective passenger by the carrier is not necessary,[26] until there is an acceptance, that is, until within the express or implied knowledge of the carrier or its employees the person seeking to become a passenger has indicated his intention to become a passenger, which intention has been in some way acquiesced in, at least to the extent of not refusing transportation, the relation does not arise, even though the purpose of the person attempting to become a passenger is to pay fare when required.[27]

Just as there may be sufficient intent to become a passenger before transportation actually commences, as stated supra §§ 555–557, so there may be an implied acceptance as to persons seeking transportation before they have entered into the train or other conveyance and it has started toward its destination. Those who by express or implied assent are waiting in the passenger room or in a standing car for the departure of a train, or are crossing the premises of the carrier for the purpose of going on a train, or are in the act of mounting the car steps, are passengers, provided their acts are such as are presumed to be known and assented to by the agents of the railroad company having authority in the matter, and regardless of whether or not a ticket has been purchased, if no rule or regulation of the company is being violated.[28]

§ 562. Invitation or Acquiescence of Carrier's Employees

A person on a carrier's vehicle at the invitation or by the acquiescence or consent of an authorized agent or employee is generally regarded as a passenger, or at least as a licensee.

One is ordinarily considered a passenger, in some respects at least, or a licensee, who in good faith enters the carrier's vehicle to ride therein to a certain point, at the invitation or by the acquiescence or consent of the carrier's employees, such as the conductor, in charge of the means of transportation,[29] even though such person has paid no fare, as explained supra §§ 549, 559, and although the train or vehicle is not intended and operated for the carriage of passengers, as explained supra § 552. The invitation or consent, however, must be given by one having the authority or right to give it;[30] and persons accepting invitations from employees

26. Va.—Virginia Ry. & Power Co v. Arnold, 92 S.E. 925, 121 Va. 204
Wash.—Dahline v City of Seattle, 5 P.2d 1010, 165 Wash. 683.
10 C.J. p 622 note 99 [b].

"The conscious acceptance by the motorman or conductor of the car of the offer of a would-be passenger to become a passenger—the actual meeting of minds of plaintiff and defendant in fact upon a contract of carriage—it is well settled, is not essential to the relationship of carrier and passenger."
Va.—Virginia Ry. & Power Co. v. Arnold, 92 S.E. 925, 927, 121 Va. 204.
Wash.—Dahline v. City of Seattle, 5 P.2d 1011, 1013, 165 Wash. 683.

27. Cal.—Hellman v. Los Angeles Ry. Corporation, 27 P.2d 946, 135 Cal.App. 627, rehearing denied 28 P.2d 384, 135 Cal.App. 627—Sanchez v. Pacific Auto Stages, 2 P.2d 845, 116 Cal.App. 392.
Ga.—Matthews v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 169 S.E. 41, 46 Ga.App. 699.
Ill.—Todd v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 113 N.E. 95, 274 Ill. 201, L.R.A. 1916F 543—Foote v. Chicago, N. S. & M. R. Co., 256 Ill.App 581.
Ky.—Chesapeake & O Ry. Co. v. Mollett, 270 S.W. 26, 207 Ky. 745.
Mo.—Banks v. Kansas City Rys. Co., 217 S.W. 488, 280 Mo. 227—Thomas v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., App., 293 S.W. 1051.
Okl.—Schaff v Samuels, 234 P. 195, 109 Okl. 133
10 C.J. p 622 note 99.

Relation held not created

Where woman, intending to pay fare on train, which she entered after it had left station and was standing on siding, rode without having been seen by employees of carrier to next station, where she fell off while train was moving, there was no contract, express or implied, and she was not a passenger, there being nothing from which to imply acceptance of relationship by carrier.—Chesapeake & O Ry. Co. v. Mollett, 270 S.W. 26, 207 Ky. 745.

28. Ga.—Matthews v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 169 S.E. 41, 46 Ga. App. 699
10 C.J. p 622 note 2.

Relation held not created

The relation of carrier and passenger is not created where an intoxicated person applies to a station agent for a ticket, is refused, is ordered into the smoking room, and, on being found later on the platform, is again ordered into the smoking room.—Goodison v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 213 Ill.App. 56.

29. Ala.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Harper, 83 So. 142, 203 Ala. 398.
Ill.—Hayes v Sampsell, 113 N.E. 611, 274 Ill. 258, affirming 195 Ill.App 365.
Mo.—Chapman v. Kansas City Rys. Co., 217 S.W. 290
N.Y.—Barrett v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 176 N.Y.S. 590, 188 App.Div. 109.
Pa.—Wood v. Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co., 104 A. 69, 260 Pa. 481, L.R.A. 1918F 317
10 C.J. p 623 note 3.

Authority of motorman to receive passenger

Although a rule of a street railroad company provides that the conductor should be in charge of the car, and the motorman had no authority to accept or reject passengers, where passengers are discharged and received at the front as well as at the rear end of the car, it is within the motorman's apparent authority to receive passengers on the car, and therefore within the general scope of his employment.—Hayes v. Sampsell, 113 N.E. 611, 274 Ill. 258, affirming 195 Ill.App. 365.

Person attending passengers riding to next crossing

Where a man enters a street car with lady passengers, whose fares he pays, and requests the conductor to stop at the next crossing, and the conductor, learning for the first time that he is not a passenger, consents, and signals the motorman to stop, he recognizes that such man is not wrongfully on the car and permits his presence, so that he is a licensee and not a trespasser.—Barrett v Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 176 N.Y.S. 590, 188 App.Div. 109.

30. U.S.—Chicago, St. P., M & O. R. Co v. Bryant, Minn., 65 F. 969, 13 C.C.A. 249.
10 C.J. p 623 note 6.

not having the control of the train or vehicle or any apparent right to give permission to ride thereon are, of course, not entitled to be considered as passengers.[31]

It is sometimes proper to permit persons who are not passengers to enter public conveyances, as in the case of persons attending passengers, as explained supra § 553, and the authority to permit such persons to enter is impliedly conferred on the agent or employee in charge of the conveyance;[32] and, where such an agent or employee permits the presence on the conveyance of a person who has not paid his fare as a passenger, the permission relieves such person from the imputation of being a wrongful intruder or trespasser.[33]

§ 563. Continuance and Termination of Relation

The relation of carrier and passenger ordinarily continues until the journey, expressly or impliedly contracted for, has been concluded, and the passenger has left the carrier's premises, unless the passenger sooner terminates or relinquishes his rights as such.

The relation of carrier and passenger, as stated in Corpus Juris and approved in subsequent decisions,[34] having been constituted continues until the journey to the destination, expressly or impliedly contracted for, has been concluded[35] and the passenger has left the carrier's premises,[36] unless the relation is sooner terminated by the voluntary act of the passenger,[37] or unless the passenger has relinquished his rights as such by some act or misconduct of his own,[38] such as a refusal to pay fare,[39] refusal to produce a ticket,[40] failure to have his ticket stamped,[41] detaching coupons,[42] attempting to use an invalid ticket,[43] or refusing to comply

31. U.S.—Meloon v. Davis, C.C.A.N.H., 292 F. 82.
Ind.—Stalcup v. Louisville, N. A. & C. Ry. Co., 45 N.E. 802, 803, 16 Ind. App. 584.
Kan.—Mendenhall v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 71 P. 846, 66 Kan. 438, 97 Am.S.R. 380, 61 L.R.A. 120.
Wash.—Gruber v. Cater Transfer Co., 165 P. 491, 96 Wash. 544, L.R.A.1917F 422.
10 C.J. p 623 note 7.

Woman, riding in motor express company's truck, without knowledge of company's manager, is not a "passenger."—Hoover Motor Express Co. v. Thomas, 65 S.W.2d 621, 16 Tenn. App. 664.

32. N.Y.—Barrett v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 176 N.Y.S. 590, 188 App. Div. 109.

33. N.Y.—Barrett v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., supra.

34. Pa.—Sweigart v. Shreiner, 14 Pa.Dist. & Co., 435
Va.—Hines v. Garrett, 108 S.E. 690, 131 Va. 125.

35. Ga.—Metts v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 182 S.E. 531, 52 Ga.App. 115.
Iowa.—Vanderbeck v. Chicago, M. & St. P. & P. Ry. Co., 230 N.W. 390, 210 Iowa 230.
Tenn.—Buckner v. Southern Ry. Co., App., 96 S.W.2d 600.
Tex.—South Plains Coaches v. Box, Civ.App., 111 S.W.2d 1151, error dismissed.
Va.—Hines v. Garrett, 108 S.E. 690, 131 Va. 125.
10 C.J. p 623 note 8.

Evidence of intent to make continuous journey

An arrangement made by a passenger by telephone with an agent at an intervening point, before entering the car at the initial point, to secure a ticket at such intervening point, to his destination, indicates a determination to make a continuous journey on the same car, notwithstanding the passenger's statement that he intended to leave the car at such place to get the ticket ordered.—Arbuckle v. State, 124 N.E. 395, 188 Ind. 444.
Continuance of passenger relation of one riding on drover's pass or under similar arrangement see supra § 551.

36. Pa.—Sweigart v. Shreiner, 14 Pa. Dist. & Co. 435.
10 C.J. p 624 note 9

37. Pa.—Furby v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 132 A. 796, 286 Pa. 85
Tex.—Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Sears, Comm.App., 210 S.W. 684, reversing, Civ.App., 155 S.W. 1003—South Plains Coaches v. Box, Civ. App., 111 S.W.2d 1151, error dismissed.
10 C.J. p 624 note 10.

Intoxicated passenger falling from car

Where voluntary intoxication was proximate cause of fall from street car vestibule, rights of passenger terminated leaving only rights of traveler on public highway while lying unconscious on track.—Bilodeau v. Fitchburg & L. St. Ry. Co., 128 N.E. 872, 236 Mass. 526.

Jumping from train

Where passenger jumped off train during afternoon of one day and was killed by train during following day while on track, he was not a passenger at the time of his injury, but merely a trespasser.—Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Sears, Tex.Com.App., 210 S.W. 684, reversing, Civ.App., 155 S.W. 1003.

Leaving right of way

Where a nurse, who is a passenger on a train which is wrecked, after assisting in taking care of the injured, leaves the right of way and walks along a highway to a bridge over the track, she loses her status as passenger by leaving the right of way.—Furby v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 132 A. 796, 286 Pa. 85.

38. Iowa.—Vanderbeck v. Chicago, M., St. P. & P. Ry. Co., 230 N.W. 390, 210 Iowa 230.
10 C.J. p 624 note 11.

39. Miss.—Hart v. Southern R. Co., 40 Miss. 391.
10 C.J. p 624 note 12.
Payment of fare in general see supra § 559.

40. N.Y.—Hibbard v. New York, etc., R. Co., 15 N.Y. 455.
10 C.J. p 624 note 13.
Ejection for refusal to produce ticket see infra §§ 810–812.
Exhibition and surrender of ticket in general see infra §§ 609–613.

41. U.S.—Boylan v. Hot Springs R. Co., Ill., 10 S.Ct. 50, 132 U.S. 146, 33 L.Ed. 290.
Mo.—Cloud v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 14 Mo.App. 136.
Stamping and signing of ticket in general see infra § 620.

42. Mass.—Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Chipman, 14 N.E. 940, 146 Mass. 107, 4 Am.S.R. 293.
10 C.J. p 624 note 14.
Detachment of coupons in general see infra § 612.

43. Ind.—Godfrey v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 18 N.E. 61, 116 Ind. 30
Minn.—Wyman v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 25 N.W. 349, 34 Minn. 210.

Ticket for different route

Where a ticket issued to a person does not entitle him to transportation over the route designated by him to the agent, and he, in ignorance of

with the reasonable rules of the carrier.[44]

Carried past destination. A passenger on a street car who is carried past the place for which passage was taken does not cease to be a passenger,[45] and if he is permitted to remain on the car until he reaches his destination on the return trip, he remains a passenger, although he pays but one fare.[46] A railroad passenger, however, who is carried past his destination is not a passenger while at a hotel until he can return.[47]

Reëntry after ejection. A passenger who is rightfully ejected from the train or car and who reënters the car for an improper purpose is a trespasser and not a passenger;[48] but if the ejection is illegal the passenger does not lose his status as such.[49]

Waiting passenger leaving premises. A passenger who, while waiting to take a train or car, leaves the carrier's premises, even temporarily, loses his status as such,[50] unless his leaving is due to the carrier's failure to comply with the law with regard to heating and lighting the station.[51]

A passenger in an elevator continues as such until he is safely placed outside the elevator, whether the gates are considered as a part of the elevator or as a part of the building.[52] One who alights from an elevator does not lose his identity as passenger while he is engaged in direct connection with or relation to the car.[53]

§ 564. Leaving Vehicle

A passenger ordinarily continues to be such while he is rightfully leaving the carrier's vehicle, until he has alighted in safety or has had a reasonable opportunity to do so.

A traveler is ordinarily, while in the act of rightfully leaving the vehicle of transportation at the station at which it has stopped, deemed to be a passenger,[54] and the relation continues until he has alighted in safety[55] or has had a reasonable opportunity so to do.[56] this fact, proceeds with his journey on a train upon which he would be entitled to travel upon a ticket issued in accordance with his instructions, he is a passenger entitled to transportation to the destination and over the route designated by him to the agent, and he will not cease to be such a passenger upon afterward ascertaining that his ticket did not call for transportation over the route which he was traveling—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Parker, 139 S.E. 581, 37 Ga.App. 218.

44. Mass.—Renaud v. New York, etc., R. Co., 97 N.E. 98, 210 Mass. 553, 38 L.R.A.,N.S., 689.
10 C.J. p. 624 note 17.
Ejection for failure or refusal to comply with regulations see infra § 819.

45. Ind.—Terre Haute, I. & E. Traction Co. v. Hunter, App., 111 N.E. 344, 62 Ind.App. 399.
10 C.J. p. 624 note 18.

46. N.Y.—Rosenberg v. Third Ave. R. Co., 61 N.Y.S. 1052, 47 App.Div. 323, affirmed 61 N.E. 1151, 168 N.Y. 681.

47. Ga.—Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Price, 32 S.E. 77, 106 Ga. 176, 71 Am.St.R. 246, 43 L.R.A. 402
10 C.J. p. 625 note 20

48. U.S.—Harrison v. Fink, C.C.Ga., 42 F. 787
10 C.J. p. 624 note 11 [b]

49. Va.—Mangum v. Norfolk & W. Ry. Co., 99 S.E. 686, 125 Va. 244, 5 A.L.R. 346.

50. U.S.—Baird v. New York Cent. R. Co., C.C.A.N.J., 71 F.2d 970.
Or.—Palmer v. Willamette Valley Southern Ry. Co., 171 P. 1169, 88 Or. 322, L.R.A.1918D 1114.
10 C.J. p. 612 note 26

Suspension of status
Where an intending passenger, having reached the station, left it to talk to a person on a county road nearby, his status as an intending passenger was at least suspended.—Palmer v. Willamette Valley Southern Ry. Co., 171 P. 1169, 88 Or. 322, L.R.A.1918D 1114.

51. Miss.—Davis v. Day, 89 So. 814, 127 Miss. 140

Breach of statutory requirement
Under a statute making it the duty of railroads to heat and light their passenger waiting rooms for thirty minutes after the arrival of trains for the use of disembarking passengers, where a passenger intends using the room, but because it is not heated and lighted, goes away, but returns, the relation of passenger does not, for this reason, cease during the statutory thirty minutes—Davis v. Day, 89 So. 814, 127 Miss. 140.

52. Mo.—McDermed v. Baker, App., 20 S.W.2d 597.

53. Pa.—McKnight v. S. S. Kresge Co., 132 A. 575, 285 Pa. 489.

A person who rides on an elevator while moving a safe, and has alighted for the purpose of unloading the safe, has not lost his identity as passenger.—McKnight v. S. S. Kresge Co., 132 A. 575, 285 Pa. 489

54. Mich.—Serviss v. Ann Arbor R. Co., 135 N.W. 343, 169 Mich. 564
Pa.—Furby v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 132 A. 796, 286 Pa. 85.
10 C.J. p. 625 note 22

Alighting from escalator
Store, if classified as carrier with respect to care owed customer using escalator, continued in such relation during customer's alighting therefrom.—S. S. Kresge Co. v. McCallion, C.C.A.Mo., 58 F.2d 931

The phrase "passenger while being transported", as used in a statute providing that every railroad company shall be liable for damages "upon the person of passengers while being transported over its road", includes a passenger alighting from a train at his destination.—Maple v. Union Pac. R. Co., C.C.A.Neb., 264 F. 89.—Jones v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co., C.C.A.Neb., 260 F. 929

55. Cal.—Fitzgerald v. Southern Pac. Co., 173 P. 91, 36 Cal.App. 660
Mo.—Lackey v. Missouri & K. I. Ry. Co., 264 S.W. 807, 305 Mo. 260
N.Y.—Fagan v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 115 N.E. 704, 220 N.Y. 301, L.R.A.1917E 663, reversing 155 N.Y.S. 609, 170 App.Div. 47
Ohio.—Dowd v. Cleveland Ry., 22 Ohio N.P.N.S., 236.
10 C.J. p. 625 note 23

This rule, as stated in Corpus Juris, has received judicial approval
N.H.—Wilson v. Berlin St. Ry., 149 A. 602, 603, 84 N.H. 285.
Tex.—El Paso Electric Co. v. Ludlow, Civ.App., 291 S.W. 619, 621

56. Wash.—Duval v. Inland Nav. Co., 155 P. 768, 769, 90 Wash. 149
10 C.J. p. 625 note 24
"The relation of passenger and carrier ceases when the passenger is made aware of the arrival at the place of destination, and has had reasonable time to get off the boat or train".—Duval v. Inland Nav. Co., supra.

Remaining on board after reaching destination. However, remaining on the train or vehicle after reaching his destination does not necessarily terminate such passenger's relation, where he does so with the intention of paying the proper fare to continue his journey,[57] or for some other proper purpose,[58] or where his remaining thereon has been unintentional, such as by reason of his falling asleep.[59] Where he does not have such an intention or excuse and has had a reasonable time and opportunity to leave the car or vehicle and does not do so, he ceases to be a passenger.[60] A passenger who remains on the train, after passing his destination, to alight in switch yards nearer his home is a licensee only.[61]

One who leaves the train while in motion at a time and place when and where the company could not anticipate that he would leave it ceases to be a passenger;[62] but unless he has had a reasonable opportunity to alight an attempt to alight at his station while the train is in motion does not terminate the relation.[63]

§ 565. After Leaving Vehicle at Destination

A passenger's status as such ordinarily continues after he has alighted from the carrier's vehicle at his destination, until he has had a reasonable opportunity to leave the carrier's premises, or, in the case of a street car or auto stage, until he has safely stepped therefrom and had a reasonable opportunity to leave the place at which he alights.

The relation of carrier and passenger does not cease at the moment the passenger alights from the carrier's vehicle by its invitation at a place selected by the carrier at the point of destination, but continues until the passenger has had a reasonable opportunity to leave the carrier's station premises,[64] and what is a reasonable time or a reasonable delay within this rule is to be determined from all the circumstances,[65] and includes a reasonable time to see after his baggage and prepare for his departure.[66] If he remains beyond a reasonable time, with the station agent's permission, he is merely a licensee or invitee.[67]

The relation continues however, only while he is leaving in a proper manner and by the route usual and proper in such case, and if he fails to leave in such manner and by such route he ceases to be a passenger.[68] A railroad company has the right to determine the routes by which passengers shall enter and leave its trains and premises and, where it has made safe and suitable arrangements for the 57. Iowa.—Forbes v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 113 N.W. 477, 135 Iowa 679.

10 C.J. p 625 note 25.
Person carried past destination see supra § 563.

58. Mo.—Turner v. Wabash R. Co., App., 211 S.W. 101.
10 C.J. p 625 note 26.

Infirm passenger waiting for assistance
That an aged and infirm passenger did not get off a railway coach with the other passengers, but waited five minutes for assistance before attempting to alight alone, did not deprive him of his status as a passenger.—Turner v. Wabash R. Co., Mo. App., 211 S.W. 101.

59. Iowa.—Vanderbeck v. Chicago, M. & St. P. & P. Ry. Co., 230 N.W. 390, 210 Iowa 230.
Kan.—Hanson v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 112 P. 152, 83 Kan. 553, 31 L.R.A., N.S., 624.
10 C.J. p 625 note 24 [c].

60. Tenn.—Buckner v. Southern Ry. Co., App., 96 S.W.2d 600
Wash.—Duval v. Inland Nav. Co., 155 P. 768, 90 Wash. 149.
10 C.J. p 626 note 27.

A steamboat passenger who, after the boat had reached his destination, remained in the smoking room thirty minutes because his wife was elsewhere and "there was no use to go home," and also because he wished to talk to another passenger, thereby ceased to be a passenger.—Duval v. Inland Nav. Co., 155 P. 768, 90 Wash. 149.

61. N.J.—Keeney v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 94 A. 604, 87 N.J.Law 505

62. Mass.—Com. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 129 Mass. 500, 37 Am.R. 382

63. Ind.—Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Gray, 64 N.E. 39, 28 Ind.App. 588.—Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Gray, App., 59 N.E. 1000.

64. U.S.—Young v. Baldwin, C.C.A. Ark., 84 F.2d 841.
Cal.—MacGregor v. Pacific Electric Ry. Co., 59 P.2d 123, 6 Cal.2d 596.
Mich.—Sink v. Grand Trunk Western Ry. Co., 198 N.W. 238, 227 Mich. 21.—Boyle v. Waters, 166 N.W. 114, 199 Mich. 478.
N.H.—Wessman v. Boston & M. R. R., 152 A. 476, 84 N.H. 475.
N.J.—Spofford v. Central R. Co. of New Jersey, 98 A. 246, 89 N.J.Law 273.
N.Y.—Fagan v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 115 N.E. 704, 220 N.Y. 301, L.R.A. 1917E 663, reversing 155 N.Y.S. 609, 170 App.Div. 47.
10 C.J. p 626 note 30.

The Corpus Juris text is cited with approval in Baker v. Hines, 213 P. 313, 314, 88 Okl. 266.

Leaving train and platform
A railroad passenger, arriving at the station of her destination, is entitled to the rights of a passenger while carefully leaving the train and platform, or until he has had a reasonable time to do so.
Mass.—Aldrich v. Boston & M. R. R., 130 N.E. 482, 238 Mass. 29
Pa.—Windle v. Davis, 118 A. 503, 275 Pa. 23.

65. U.S.—Pinson v. Kansas City Southern Ry. Co., C.C.A.Tex., 37 F.2d 652.
Mich.—Sink v. Grand Trunk Western Ry. Co., 198 N.W. 238, 227 Mich. 21
10 C.J. p 627 note 31.

66. U.S.—Pinson v. Kansas City Southern Ry. Co., C.C.A.Tex., 37 F.2d 652.
Okl.—Baker v. Hines, 213 P. 313, 88 Okl. 266.
Tex.—St. Louis Southwestern R. Co. v. Wallace, 74 S.W. 581, 32 Tex.Civ.App. 312.

67. Mich.—Sink v. Grand Trunk Western Ry. Co., 198 N.W. 238, 227 Mich. 21.

68. Mich.—Boyle v. Waters, 166 N.W. 114, 199 Mich. 478
Mo.—Shaffer v. St. Louis & S.F. Ry. Co., 208 S.W. 145, 201 Mo.App. 107.
W.Va.—Pierce's Ex'x v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 128 S.E. 832, 99 W.Va. 313.
10 C.J. p 627 note 32.

Crossing track
Where, in order to leave railroad station, it is necessary to cross track, passenger leaving remains passenger until crossing track, if he exit by passengers from its station grounds, a passenger must use the ways provided, and where he knowingly fails so to do and without invitation makes his exit in some other way, he ceases to be a passenger and becomes at most a mere licensee; and it makes no difference that he goes where others, with the knowledge of the carrier have gone before him, unless there is some invitation on the part of the carrier, and knowledge of such use does not of itself amount to such invitation.[69]

Street car or auto stage. The above rule as to the relation of passenger continuing until he has had a reasonable opportunity to leave the carrier's premises, is qualified in its application to passengers of ordinary surface street railroad companies or auto stages, it being a general rule, as stated in Corpus Juris, which statement has been approved by subsequent decisions,[70] that, in such cases, a person ceases to be a passenger as soon as he safely steps from the car or stage into a public street or highway,[71] and has had a reasonable opportunity to leave the place at which he alights,[72] provided he uses means of egress which company has provided or which is customarily used with its knowledge and consent.—Pierce's Ex'x v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 128 S.E. 832, 99 W.Va. 313.

69. Pa.—Tiers v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 141 A. 487, 490, 292 Pa. 522.
10 C.J. p 627 notes 33, 34.

This rule as stated in Corpus Juris has received judicial approval as being the rule generally recognized.—Tiers v. Pennsylvania R. Co., supra.

Duty of carrier to provide safe ways of ingress and egress see infra § 714.

70. N.C.—Loggins v. Southern Public Utilities Co., 106 S.E. 822, 823, 181 N.C. 221.
Okl.—Trail v. Tulsa St. Ry. Co., 222 P. 950, 951, 97 Okl. 19.
Tex.—Wittkower v. Dallas Ry. & Terminal Co., Civ.App., 73 S.W.2d 867, 869—El Paso Electric Co. v. Ludlow, Civ.App., 291 S.W. 619, 621.
Wis.—Will v. Milwaukee Electric Ry. & Light Co., 171 N.W. 658, 660, 169 Wis. 38.

71. Ala.—Willingham v. Birmingham Ry., Light & Power Co., 83 So. 95, 203 Ala. 351.
Cal.—Choquette v. Key System Transit Co., 5 P.2d 921, 118 Cal. App. 643.
Ill.—See Abt v. Chicago Rys. Co., 207 Ill.App. 314.
Iowa.—MacLearn v. Iowa Southern Utilities Co., 234 N.W. 851, 212 Iowa 555—Morris v. Omaha & C. B. St. Ry. Co., 187 N.W. 510, 193 Iowa 616.
Ky.—Trout's Adm'r v. Ohio Valley Electric Ry. Co., 43 S.W.2d 507, 241 Ky. 144.
Mass.—Mercier v. Union St. Ry. Co., 119 N.E. 764, 230 Mass. 397.
Minn.—Ruddy v. Ingebret, 204 N.W. 630, 164 Minn. 40, 44 A.L.R. 159.
Mo.—Gallagher v. St. Louis Public Service Co., 59 S.W.2d 619, 332 Mo. 944—Jacks v. Wells, 44 S.W.2d 154, 329 Mo. 327—Smuzynski v. East St. Louis Ry. Co., App., 93 S.W.2d 1058.
Ohio.—Cleveland Ry. Co. v. Karbole, 181 N.E. 889, 125 Ohio St. 467—Reining v. Northern Ohio Traction & Light Co., 140 N.E. 84, 107 Ohio St. 528—Rudin v. Cincinnati Traction Co., 18 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 260.
Okl.—Trail v. Tulsa St. Ry. Co., 222 P. 950, 97 Okl. 19.
Tenn.—Sims v. Knoxville Railway & Light Co., 208 S.W. 610, 141 Tenn. 238.
Tex.—El Paso Electric Co. v. Ludlow, Civ.App., 291 S.W. 619.
Wis.—Zalewski v. Milwaukee Electric Railway & Light Co., 263 N.W. 577, 219 Wis. 541—Will v. Milwaukee Electric Ry. & Light Co., 171 N.W. 658, 169 Wis. 38.
10 C.J. p 627 note 35.

The rule as stated in Corpus Juris is noted in Alabama Power Co. v. Hall, 103 So. 867, 869, 212 Ala. 638—Willingham v. Birmingham Ry. Light & Power Co., 83 So. 95, 96, 203 Ala. 351.

Similar statements of rule

(1) Carrier and passenger relationship does not cease until passenger alighting from street car is safely on the ground.
Colo.—Denver City Tramway Co. v. Hills, 116 P. 125, 50 Colo. 328, 36 L.R.A.,N.S., 213.
N.H.—Wilson v. Berlin St. Ry., 149 A. 602, 84 N.H. 285.

(2) Relation of carrier and passenger continues until latter has alighted from car and reached, or had a reasonable opportunity to reach, a place of safety.
Ky.—Trout's Adm'r v. Ohio Valley Electric Ry. Co., 43 S.W.2d 507, 241 Ky. 144.
Va.—Houston v. Lynchburg Traction & Light Co., 89 S.E. 114, 119 Va. 136.
Wis.—Zalewski v. Milwaukee Railway & Light Co., 263 N.W. 577, 219 Wis. 541.

(3) A passenger on alighting from a street car at the end of his journey loses his status as a passenger when he has stepped from the car to a place of safety on the street or on the highway, the question depending, not on number of steps he has taken, but on the circumstances and conditions under which he alights.—Loggins v. Southern Public Utilities Co., 106 S.E. 822, 181 N.C. 221.

"The object is a public place, over which the carrier has no control, and when a passenger safely alights there, his relation with the carrier determines, and he becomes merely a traveler on the highway."—Sims v. Knoxville Railway & Light Co., 208 S.W. 610, 141 Tenn. 238.

72. Iowa.—MacLearn v. Iowa Southern Utilities Co., 234 N.W. 851, 212 Iowa 555.
Neb.—Jacobson v. Omaha & Council Bluffs St. Ry. Co., 191 N.W. 327, 109 Neb. 356, 31 A.L.R. 563.
Okl.—Trail v. Tulsa St. Ry. Co., 222 P. 950, 97 Okl. 19.
Tex.—Wittkower v. Dallas Ry. & Terminal Co., Civ.App., 73 S.W.2d 867—El Paso Electric Co. v. Ludlow, Civ.App., 291 S.W. 619.
Va.—Houston v. Lynchburg Traction & Light Co., 89 S.E. 114, 119 Va. 136.
Wis.—Zalewski v. Milwaukee Electric Railway & Light Co., 263 N.W. 577, 219 Wis. 541—Will v. Milwaukee Electric Ry. & Light Co., 171 N.W. 658, 169 Wis. 38.
10 C.J. p 627 note 36.

Other statement of rule

Differing in degree, at least, from the rule prevailing in other jurisdictions with respect to the time when the relation between a street railway carrier and a passenger ceases, the relation is not terminated by the passenger's mere act of leaving the car, but continues until he has a reasonable opportunity to leave the car and the roadway of the company, after the car has reached the station or stopping place to which he is entitled to be carried.—Alabama Power Co. v. Hall, 103 So. 867, 869, 212 Ala. 638—Willingham v. Birmingham Ry., Light & Power Co., 83 So. 95, 97, 203 Ala. 351—Melton v. Birmingham Ry., Light & Power Co., 45 So. 151, 153 Ala. 95, 16 L.R.A.,N.S., 467.

Passing along car as not termination of relation

Stepping from the front platform of the car with the intention of passing alongside of the car to the rear platform to get the conductor's number for the purpose of making a complaint for mistreatment, does not terminate the relation of passenger.—Sims v. Knoxville Railway & Light Co., 208 S.W. 610, 141 Tenn. 238.

is set down at a place which is reasonably safe and proper for that purpose.[73]

In accordance with this rule it has been held that a passenger who, after alighting, starts to cross the street in front of or in the rear of the car, has ceased to be a passenger,[74] but there is also authority to the contrary.[75] Where a street car company is required by statute to keep certain portions of the street in repair and is made liable for injuries sustained by reason of any obstruction placed by it in the street, the relation of passenger and carrier is not terminated immediately on a passenger alighting from a street car.[76]

§ 566. After Leaving Vehicle at Point Other than Destination

a. In general
b. At intermediate station

a. In General

The relation of passenger ordinarily terminates if he abandons his journey before reaching his destination, but not on a merely temporary departure from the train or car.

As stated in Corpus Juris, which statement has been approved by subsequent decisions,[77] the relation ordinarily terminates when a passenger chooses to abandon his journey at a point before reaching the place to which he is entitled to ride.[78] A temporary departure, however, from the train or car for any good or reasonable cause, without an intention to abandon transportation, does not terminate the relation.[79]

b. At Intermediate Station

A passenger does not lose his status as such by temporarily alighting at an intermediate station, for any ordinary and usual purpose, but with the intent of resuming his journey on the same train or means of conveyance.

As a general rule, as stated in Corpus Juris, which statement has been approved by subsequent decisions,[80] a passenger does not lose his character as such by merely temporarily alighting at an intermediate station, with the express or implied consent of the carrier, for any reasonable and usual

73. Del.—Cooke v. Elk Coach Line, 180 A. 782.
Neb.—Jacobson v. Omaha & Council Bluffs St. Ry. Co., 191 N.W. 327, 109 Neb. 356, 31 A.L.R. 563.
N.C.—Loggins v. Southern Public Utilities Co., 106 S.E. 822, 181 N.C. 221.
Okl.—Trail v. Tulsa St. Ry. Co., 222 P. 950, 97 Okl. 19.
Or.—Corrigan v. Portland Traction Co., 73 P.2d 378—Lewis v. Pacific Greyhound Lines, 34 P.2d 616, 147 Or. 588, 96 A.L.R. 718.
Pa.—Duffy v. Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co., 140 A. 496, 291 Pa. 564.
Wis.—Will v. Milwaukee Electric Ry. & Light Co., 171 N.W. 658, 169 Wis. 38.
10 C.J. p. 628 note 37.

A stop on a corner curve of the track may not be reasonably safe or convenient within the meaning of the rule stated in the text.—Trail v. Tulsa St. Ry. Co., 222 P. 950, 97 Okl. 19.

Unusual place

The relation of carrier and passenger is terminated where a passenger alights from a motor bus or stage in a place of safety, although it is not the usual stopping place.
Ohio.—Waldron v. Southwestern Bus Co., 182 N.E. 596, 42 Ohio App. 549.
Or.—Lewis v. Pacific Greyhound Lines, 34 P.2d 616, 147 Or. 588, 96 A.L.R. 718.
Safety of place for getting on board or alighting see infra § 716.

74. Del.—Cooke v. Elk Coach Line, 180 A. 782.
Mo.—Gallagher v. St. Louis Public Service Co., 59 S.W.2d 619, 332 Mo. 944.
Or.—Corrigan v. Portland Traction Co., 73 P.2d 378—Lewis v. Pacific Greyhound Lines, 34 P.2d 616, 147 Or. 588, 96 A.L.R. 718.
10 C.J. p. 628 note 38.

75. Ala.—Birmingham R., etc., Co. v. O'Brien, 64 So. 343, 185 Ala. 617.
10 C.J. p. 628 note 39.

76. Me.—White v. Lewiston, etc., R. Co., 78 A. 473, 107 Me. 412.
10 C.J. p. 628 note 40.

77. N.C.—Wallace v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 93 S.E. 731, 733, 174 N.C. 171.
Pa.—Furby v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 132 A. 796, 797, 286 Pa. 85.
Va.—Hines v. Garrett, 108 S.E. 690, 692, 131 Va. 125.

78. N.J.—Kelson v. Public Service R. Co., 110 A. 919, 94 N.J.Law 527
N.C.—Wallace v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 93 S.E. 731, 174 N.C. 171.
10 C.J. p. 628 note 41.

A voluntary departure from the carrier's vehicle at some other point before reaching his destination may terminate the passenger's relation as such.—Hines v. Garrett, 108 S.E. 690, 131 Va. 125.

Leaving carrier's premises

Pa.—Furby v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 132 A. 796, 286 Pa. 85.

79. Ga.—Davis v. Jones, 129 S.E. 892, 34 Ga. App. 7.
Mich.—Moffit v. Grand Rapids Ry. Co., 200 N.W. 274, 228 Mich. 349.
N.C.—Wallace v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 93 S.E. 731, 174 N.C. 171.
10 C.J. p. 628 note 42.

Going into baggage car

One, after becoming passenger on railway passenger train, does not cease to be such and become trespasser or licensee on leaving passenger coach and going into baggage car on matter personal to himself.—Davis v. Jones, 129 S.E. 892, 34 Ga. App. 7.

Continuing journey in truck

A bus passenger, who acted on request of bus driver in continuing part of her journey in truck driven by person not employed by bus company when bus broke down, did not abandon bus and cease to be passenger of bus company by so doing, as respects liability of bus company for injuries to passenger when she was mistreated by truck driver.—South Plains Coaches v. Box, Tex.Civ.App., 111 S.W.2d 1151, error dismissed.

To witness an accident

Passenger on street car, who left at request of conductor to witness an accident, and who was injured by negligence of third person while writing his name on pad which he held against side of car, retained his character as passenger to time of injury.—Moffit v. Grand Rapids Ry. Co., 200 N.W. 274, 228 Mich. 349.

80. Mich.—Moffit v. Grand Rapids Ry. Co., 200 N.W. 274, 275, 228 Mich. 349
N.C.—Goodman v. Queen City Lines, 180 S.E. 661, 208 N.C. 323—Wharton v. New York Life Ins. Co., 100 S.E. 266, 267, 178 N.C. 135—Wallace v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 93 S.E. 731, 733, 174 N.C. 171.

purpose,[81] such as the procuring of refreshments,[82] the sending or the receiving of telegrams,[83] or for the purpose of exercising by walking up and down the platform,[84] or for relief from fatigue of travel,[85] or even from motives of curiosity.[86] This is an absolute right of the passenger, so long as his object in alighting is not inconsistent with his character as passenger; and it is not dependent on notice being given to the conductor of his desire to alight.[87]

However, it has been held that the passenger should not go out of sight, or out of hearing of the voice which gives the usual loud and distinct notice for all passengers to get aboard,[88] and one particularly ceases to be a passenger if he fails to return before his train or car departs.[89]

Where there is no intention to return; stop-over. By leaving the train before he has arrived at the point to which his ticket entitles him to ride, with no intention of resuming the journey on the same train at that time, a passenger voluntarily terminates his contract with the company to carry him to such point,[90] as by stopping over at an intermediate or way station, on a ticket for a continuous passage only between two points, unless the stop-over is caused without any fault on the part of the passenger,[91] or unless it is made under a contract permitting him so to do.[92]

Place other than regular stopping place. As stated in Corpus Juris, which statement has been approved by subsequent decisions,[93] where a passenger temporarily leaves the car at a place not a regular stopping place, he, for the time, sur-

81. Cal.—Sellars v. Southern Pac. Co., 166 P. 599, 33 Cal.App. 701.
N.C.—Goodman v. Queen City Lines, 180 S.E. 661, 208 N.C. 323.
Tex.—Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Rooks, Civ.App., 283 S.W. 622, affirmed, Com.App., 292 S.W. 536, and rehearing denied 293 S.W. 554.
10 C.J. p 628 note 44.

Other statements of rule

A passenger may temporarily alight from the train or car at an intermediate station, without losing his status as passenger:

(1) For any lawful purpose.—Wallace v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 93 S.E. 731, 174 N.C. 171.

(2) For matters of convenience or necessity.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Glossup, 114 S.W. 247, 88 Ark. 225.

(3) For any necessary purpose incident to his journey.—Jones v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Neb., 260 F. 929.

(4) For a purpose not connected with his trip.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Kennedy, 239 S.W. 376, 153 Ark. 77.

Using rest room and toilet

A passenger on a bus who temporarily alights at an intermediate station for the purpose of using the rest room and toilet of the station during a thirty-minute stop-over, with the express or implied consent of the carrier, does not lose his status as passenger on the bus line.—Goodman v. Queen City Lines, 180 S.E. 661, 208 N.C. 323.

82. Ala.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. McCue, 114 So. 218, 216 Ala. 616, 61 A.L.R. 400.
Cal.—Sellars v. Southern Pac. Co., 166 P. 599, 33 Cal.App. 701.
10 C.J. p 629 note 45.

On announcement of allowance of time for meal

Where an announcement is made by those in charge of a passenger train, which had stopped at an intermediate station, that twenty minutes would be allowed for breakfast, a passenger's departure to get breakfast does not constitute a severance of the relation of passenger and carrier.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. McCue, 114 So. 218, 216 Ala. 616, 61 A.L.R. 400.

83. U.S.—Alabama G. S. R. Co. v. Coggins, Tenn., 88 F. 455, 32 C.C.A. 1.

84. Cal.—Sellars v. Southern Pac. Co., 166 P. 599, 33 Cal.App. 701.
10 C.J. p 629 note 47.

85. Cal.—Sellars v. Southern Pac. Co., supra.

86. Neb.—Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Sattler, 90 N.W. 649, 64 Neb. 636.
Tex.—Texas Midland R. Co. v. Ellison, 87 S.W. 213, 39 Tex.Civ.App. 172.
W.Va.—Layne v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 67 S.E. 1103, 66 W.Va. 607.

Minor passenger does not lose his status as passenger by alighting at station on promise of conductor to show him four engines arriving from different points.—Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co. v. Harrelson, C.C.A.Mo., 14 F.2d 893.

87. Tex.—Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Hawley, Civ.App., 235 S.W. 659, dismissed for want of jurisdiction.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Goodman, Civ.App., 51 S.W. 275.

88. Ga.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Stephens, 98 S.E. 176, 23 Ga.App. 200.
10 C.J. p 629 note 49

The Corpus Juris statement is cited with approval in Southern Ry. Co. v. Stephens, 98 S.E. 176, 23 Ga.App. 200.

Leaving vicinity

A passenger on a train, which was delayed on account of wreck elsewhere, on line, who voluntarily left train and its vicinity, ceased to be a passenger until he again entered train or came back to premises to board train.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Stephens, 98 S.E. 176, 23 Ga.App. 200.

Leaving right of way or premises

If a passenger at an intermediate station temporarily leaves the right of way or premises under the carrier's control, the relation of carrier and passenger is suspended.—Blackburn v. Williamson & P. C. Ry. Co., 202 S.W. 500, 180 Ky. 254.

89. Minn.—Tuder v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., 160 N.W. 785, 135 Minn. 294, L.R.A.1917C 86

Failure to return before train starts

Where a passenger left the train and went to a restaurant a block and a half away and failed to return to the station in time to resume his journey on the train his status as passenger ceased, and he had no right to continue his journey on another train without the further payment of fare.—Tuder v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., 160 N.W. 785, 135 Minn. 294, L.R.A.1917C 86.

90. U.S.—Roberts v. Koehler, C.C. Or., 30 F. 94.
Cal.—Drew v. Central Pac. R. Co., 51 Cal. 425.
10 C.J. p 629 notes 51, 52.
Stop-over privileges generally see infra § 647

91. Tex.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Henry, 19 S.W. 870, 84 Tex. 678, 16 L.R.A. 318
10 C.J. p 629 note 53.

92. U.S.—New York, L. E. & W. R. Co. v. Winter, Mass., 12 S.Ct. 356, 143 U.S. 60, 36 L.Ed. 71.
10 C.J. p 629 note 54.
Stop-over privileges generally see infra § 647.

93. Pa.—Damm v. East Penn Transp. Co., 182 A. 720, 721, 120 Pa.Super. 381.

renders his relation as a passenger,[94] unless he so leaves the car on the express or implied invitation of the carrier for some necessary purpose incident to the journey,[95] such as for the purpose of going around a wreck, washout, or other obstruction, and taking another train or car[96] One who leaves a car for the purpose of avoiding a collision does not lose his right to protection as a passenger.[97]

At transfer station. While transferring from one train or car to another and while waiting at a transfer point for the purpose of continuing the journey, under a ticket entitling the passenger so to do, the relation of carrier and passenger continues,[98] as while transferring from one street car or motor bus to another.[99] The relation also does not cease where a passenger, on the invitation of the carrier, leaves the car or train, although not at a regular stopping place, to take another car or train to continue his journey.[1] Where, however, a person desires to travel to a certain point on a designated train which does not stop at such point, and at the suggestion of the agent buys a ticket to an intermediate point, and arrives there in the evening, and later takes the early morning train to his destination, he is not a through passenger.[2] A passenger has also been held to cease to be such while transferring from one car to another, where he is free to choose his own route in doing so, and goes onto the public highway in making the transfer.[3]

94. Pa.—Furby v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 132 A. 796, 286 Pa. 85.
10 C.J. p 629 note 55.

95. U.S.—Jones v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Neb., 260 F. 929.
Md.—Davis v. Central Const. Corporation, 124 A. 396, 144 Md. 90.
Mass.—Poppel v. Boston Elevated Ry. Co., 155 N.E. 267, 258 Mass. 389.
Neb.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Sattler, 90 N.W. 649, 64 Neb. 636, 97 Am.S.R. 666, 57 L.R.A. 890.
Pa.—Damm v. East Penn Transp. Co., 182 A. 720, 120 Pa.Super. 381.

96. Pa.—Damm v. East Penn Transp. Co., supra.
W.Va.—Holtman v. Norfolk & W. Ry. Co., 136 S.E. 855, 103 W.Va. 194.
10 C.J. p 629 note 57.

97. Iowa.—Gradert v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 80 N.W. 559, 109 Iowa 547.
Ohio.—Toledo Consolidated St. R. Co. v. Fuller, 17 Ohio Cir.Ct. 562, 9 Ohio Cir.Dec. 123.
Pa.—Damm v. East Penn Transp. Co., 182 A. 720, 120 Pa.Super. 381.

98. Ga.—Mooneyham v. Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry. Co., 126 S.E. 736, 33 Ga.App. 406
10 C.J. p 630 note 59.

This rule, as stated in Corpus Juris, has been judicially approved.—Davis v. Central Const. Corporation, 124 A. 396, 144 Md. 90.

Waiting in waiting room

Passenger with point of destination on line of connecting carrier, traveling on through ticket calling for continuous passage to destination on next train of connecting carrier leaving junction point, preserves status as passenger when, after leaving train at junction point, he waits in waiting room of depot for purpose of continuing journey.—Mooneyham v. Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry. Co., 126 S.E. 736, 33 Ga.App. 406—10 C.J. p 630 note 59 [a].

99. Cal.—Boa v. San Francisco-Oakland Terminal Rys., 187 P. 2, 182 Cal. 93.
Conn.—Pins v. Connecticut Co., 102 A. 595, 92 Conn. 310
Ill.—Feldman v. Chicago Rys. Co., 124 N.E. 334, 289 Ill. 25, 6 A.L.R. 1291, reversing 212 Ill.App. 482
See Horst v. St. Louis Electric Terminal Ry. Co., 199 Ill.App. 169
Mich.—Moffit v. Grand Rapids Ry. Co., 200 N.W. 274, 228 Mich. 349
Pa.—Damm v. East Penn Transp. Co., 182 A. 720, 120 Pa.Super. 381
10 C.J. p 630 note 60.

This rule as stated in Corpus Juris has been cited with approval—Feldman v. Chicago Rys. Co., 124 N.E. 334, 289 Ill. 25, 6 A.L.R. 1291, reversing 212 Ill.App. 482.

Continuation of relation

One boarding street car, obtaining transfer, and leaving car at usual place of transfer, is "passenger" while on car, while making transfer, or while waiting to transfer, and after he is seated in car to which he has transferred—Moffit v. Grand Rapids Ry. Co., 200 N.W. 274, 228 Mich. 349.

Transferring to car in rear

A passenger of a street car upon being requested to transfer to a car in the rear remains a passenger while walking from car to car—Swink v. Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co., 120 A. 827, 277 Pa. 220.

1. Md.—Davis v. Central Const. Corporation, 124 A. 396, 144 Md. 90.

Transferring to train behind

Where passenger taking train directed was told by fare collector to get off when train stopped, and take a train behind, but stop was not a station, and, after going to station, he was told by policeman, who stated he was in charge, that train following stopped at place where first train stopped, and plaintiff returned there, his status as passenger continued.—Davis v. Central Const. Corporation, 124 A. 396, 144 Md. 90.

2. Minn.—Barnett v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 143 N.W. 263, 123 Minn. 153, 48 L.R.A.,N.S., 262

3. Mass.—Niles v. Boston Elevated Ry. Co., 114 N.E. 730, 225 Mass. 570.
Mo.—Anton v. St. Louis Public Service Co., 71 S.W.2d 702, 335 Mo. 188
Va.—Virginia Ry. & Power Co. v. Dressler, 111 S.E. 243, 132 Va. 342, 22 A.L.R. 301.

"There seems to be good reason and also authority for holding that the relation of passenger is not sustained while a passenger with a transfer is outside of the direction and control of the carrier and walking along the public highway. . . . A transfer ticket imposes no liability on the carrier to make the transfer. The passenger himself makes the transfer, and generally without direction or suggestion from the carrier. . . . In the interim between leaving the car and offering himself as a passenger on another, the passenger is not under the care or custody of the carrier, nor subject to his direction or control, and may be far from the carrier's powers of observation. It would seem unreasonable, therefore, to hold the carrier liable to one as a passenger during such interval."—Virginia Ry. & Power Co. v. Dressler, 111 S.E. 243, 249, 132 Va. 342, 22 A.L.R. 301.

C. STATUTORY REGULATIONS IN GENERAL

§ 567. Power to Regulate

A common carrier of passengers is generally subject to legislative regulation by the state, or by a municipality, under legislative authority.

The general public has such an interest in the business of a common carrier of passengers, such as a railroad or a street railroad, that such business is properly the subject of legislative regulation under the police power of the state,[4] so far as such carrier is engaged in intra-state business,[5] including the right to license or tax such carrier,[6] or to prohibit or regulate the use of the public highways by such a carrier,[7] and including rapid transit in municipalities except in so far as the state has divested itself of such power.[8] The state may, by regulation, protect common carriers who provide their own roads from being impaired by competition from carriers who use the public roads of the state, further than the public convenience and necessity may require.[9]

The power of legislative regulation by the state, however, is subject to the right of the owner of the common carrier to control its business policy,[10] and to the power of congress to regulate interstate commerce, as explained in the C.J.S. title Commerce § 13, also 12 C.J. p 15 notes 80–87; and is subject also to the limitation that the regulation must not violate the state or federal constitution,[11] and must be reasonable,[12] which rea-

4. U.S.—Georgia R & Banking Co v. Smith, Ga., 9 S.Ct. 47, 128 U.S. 174, 32 L.Ed. 377.
Fla.—State v. Quigg, 114 So. 859, 94 Fla. 1056—State v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 54 So. 900, 61 Fla. 799.
Wash.—State v. Howell, 147 P. 1159, 85 Wash. 294.
10 C.J. p 649 note 34.

Any contract usage, custom, or practice by common carrier is subject to lawful governmental rules and regulations.—State v. Jacksonville Terminal Co., 106 So. 576, 90 Fla. 721.

Regulating connections of trains
A statute requiring connecting lines of common carriers to make as close connections as practicable for the convenience of the traveling public, does not mean a simple physical connection of tracks, but a connection of trains.—North Carolina Corp. Commission v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 49 S.E. 191, 137 N.C. 1, 115 Am.S.R. 636, affirmed Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. North Carolina Corp. Commission, 27 S.Ct. 585, 206 U.S. 1, 51 L.Ed. 933.

Statute authorizing formation of passenger corporation
A statute authorizing the creation of corporations to establish and maintain stage lines, and permitting the formation of corporations for the transportation of goods, etc., is broad enough to permit the formation of a corporation for the transportation of passengers.—Staacke v. Routledge, 241 S.W. 994, 111 Tex. 489, affirming, Civ.App., 175 S.W. 444.

Regulation of:
Passenger service and accommodations of street railroads see C.J.S. title Street Railroads § 164, also 60 C.J. p 340 note 80–p 344 note 33.
Public service motor vehicles as common carriers are C.J.S. title Motor Vehicles § 45, also 42 C.J. p 641 notes 62, 63, 65.
Statutory regulation of:
Fares see infra § 582.
Passes see infra § 623.
Stop-over privileges see infra § 647.
Transfers see infra §§ 648–650

5. Fla.—State v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 47 So. 969, 56 Fla. 617, 32 L.R.A.,N.S., 639.
Iowa.—Huston v. City of Des Moines, 156 N.W. 883, 176 Iowa 455.

6. Iowa.—Huston v. City of Des Moines, supra
N.Y.—Public Service Commn. Second Dist. v. Booth, 156 N.Y.S. 140, 170 App.Div. 590
10 C.J. p 649 note 36.
Licensing of vehicles carrying passengers generally see Licenses § 30.

7. Ky.—Reo Bus Lines Co. v. Southern Bus Line Co., 272 S.W. 18, 209 Ky. 40.

No vested right in highways
Common carriers engaged in transportation of persons for profit have no vested or inherent right in highways, and their unrestrained use is equivalent to appropriation of public property for private use, which may be prohibited or regulated by the legislature.—Reo Bus Lines Co. v. Southern Bus Line Co., 272 S.W. 18, 209 Ky. 40.

8. N.Y.—McCabe v. Voorhis, 153 N.E. 849, 243 N.Y. 401, reversing 218 N.Y.S. 807, 218 App.Div. 702.

In New York, under the City Home Rule Law, in the matter of rapid transit regulation, cities have not been fully emancipated from the power of the legislature.—McCabe v. Voorhis, 153 N.E. 849, 243 N.Y. 401, reversing 218 N.Y.S. 807, 218 App.Div. 702.

9. Fla.—Florida Motor Lines v. State Railroad Commission, 132 So. 851, 101 Fla. 1018

10. U.S.—Banton v. Belt Line Ry. Corporation, N.Y., 45 S.Ct. 534, 268 U.S. 413, 69 L.Ed. 1020.

Broad as is its power to regulate, the state does not enjoy the freedom of an owner, who, subject to reasonable regulation in the public interest, retains the management and right to control the business policy of the company.—Banton v. Belt Line Ry. Corporation, N.Y., 45 S.Ct. 534, 268 U.S. 413, 69 L.Ed. 1020.—Northern Pac. Railway v. North Dakota ex rel. McCue, N.D., 35 S.Ct. 429, 236 U.S. 585, 59 L.Ed. 735, L.R.A.1917F 1148, Ann.Cas.1916A 1.

Power to regulate and right of ownership as coexistent
The public power to regulate railroads and the private right of ownership of such property coexist, and the one does not destroy the other; and where the power to regulate is so arbitrarily exercised as to infringe the rights of ownership, it is void as being repugnant to the Fourteenth Amendment of the constitution of the United States, and also to the due process clause of the state constitution.—State R. Commn. v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 80 S.E. 327, 140 Ga. 817, L.R.A.1915E 902, Ann.Cas.1915A 1018.

11. Tex.—Quanah, etc., R. Co. v. Warren, Civ.App., 184 S.W. 232.

12. Fla.—State v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 47 So. 969, 56 Fla. 617, 32 L.R.A.,N.S., 639.
N.M.—Seward v. Denver, etc., R. Co., 131 P. 980, 17 N.M. 557, 46 L.R.A., N.S., 242.

Provision held reasonable
A statutory provision making the right of a railroad company to fix the time of running its trains subject to the power of the railroad commission to require connections to be made when public convenience requires it is reasonable and just.—North Carolina Corp. Commission v.

sonableness and lawfulness is to be determined by the judiciary.[13]

The power of regulation so far as it concerns carriers within the limits of a municipality may be conferred on the municipality,[14] as by requiring the consent of the municipal authorities to operation within the city.[15] A statute, however, authorizing municipalities to regulate certain enumerated carriers does not confer power on them to regulate all passenger carriers.[16]

Terminal facilities. The state may regulate a terminal company by requiring it to serve equally and fairly all railroad common carriers which the public welfare may require and to charge only reasonable rates therefor.[17] A statutory requirement that all common carriers shall afford all reasonable, proper, and equal facilities for receiving, forwarding, and delivering passengers to and from their several lines and connecting lines is violated by a railroad so changing its time card, by which a connection with a connecting road, which is of general convenience, is discontinued, in order to furnish better facilities to several towns.[18] A transportation company, however, operating a railroad and a line of steamboats connecting at the company's wharf, is not required, by the provision of the interstate commerce act prohibiting any undue or unreasonable preference, to permit the boats of a competitor to land boats at such wharf.[19]

Federal regulation. A provision of the Interstate Commerce Act § 3 (1), 49 U.S.C.A. § 3 (1), prohibiting common carriers from giving undue or unreasonable preferences or advantages applies to the transportation of passengers.[20]

§ 568. Power of Public Service Commissions

Power of regulating a common carrier of passengers may be vested, by statute, in a railroad or public service commission, the extent of the commission's powers depending on the terms of the statute.

The power of regulation of a common carrier of passengers, may be, and often is, vested in a railroad or public service commission provided for by statute, which statute also usually defines the extent of the commission's powers,[21] such as with

Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 49 S.E. 191, 137 N.C. 1, 115 Am.S.R. 636, affirmed Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. North Carolina Corp. Commission, 27 S.Ct. 585, 206 U.S. 1, 51 L.Ed. 933.

Pecuniary disadvantage

State has power to require street railroads and like utilities to provide reasonably adequate facilities and services, although compliance may be attended by some pecuniary disadvantage, but may not, under guise of regulation, compel use and operation of company's property and public conveyance without just compensation.—Banton v. Belt Line Ry. Corporation, N.Y., 45 S.Ct. 534, 268 U.S. 413, 69 L.Ed. 1020.

Where mere convenience of the public is the sole consideration, unreasonable regulations that are clearly more burdensome to the carrier than they are correspondingly beneficial to the public are not contemplated by the law; and the property rights of the carrier are protected by organic law from burdens that are not necessary to personal safety and have no fair relation to, or are in excess of just requirements for, a reasonably efficient, nondiscriminating public service.—State v. Jacksonville Terminal Co., 106 So. 576, 90 Fla. 721.

13. N.M.—Seward v. Denver, etc., R. Co., 131 P. 980, 17 N.M. 557, 46 L.R.A.,N.S., 242.

14. Mass.—Commonwealth v. White, 157 N.E. 597, 260 Mass. 300.
10 C.J. p 649 note 43.

An ordinance regulating the manner of boarding and alighting from street cars, and making it unlawful to board moving cars or to ride on street car steps, does not violate a constitutional provision vesting the regulation of public utilities in the railroad commission, where the constitutional provision itself provides that it shall not affect such powers of control over public utilities as relate to the making and enforcing of local police, sanitary, and other regulations, and the regulation, by such ordinance, being such as sought to control, supervise, and regulate the relations between a public utility and the general public in a matter concerning the convenience and safety of the public.—Schultheiss v. Los Angeles Ry. Corporation, 54 P.2d 49, 11 Cal.App.2d 525.

Municipal regulation of street railroad fares see infra § 583.

Regulation of public service motor vehicles by municipality see C.J.S. title Motor Vehicles § 45, also 42 C.J. p 642 note 67–p 643 note 79.

15. N.Y.—Public Service Commn. Second Dist. v. Hurtgan, 154 N.Y.S. 897, 91 Misc. 432.
10 C.J. p 649 note 44.

Consent of municipality to use of street by street railroad see C.J.S. title Street Railroads § 37, also 60 C.J. p 182 note 47–p 189 note 41.

16. Ill.—Metropolitan West Side Electric Ry. v. City of Chicago, 104 N.E. 165, 261 Ill. 624.

17. Fla.—State v. Jacksonville Terminal Co., 27 So. 225, 41 Fla. 377.

18. Va.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Commonwealth, 37 S.E. 294, 98 Va. 758.

19. U.S.—Ilwaco Ry. & Nav. Co. v. Oregon Short Line & U. N. Ry. Co., Wash., 57 F. 673, 6 C.C.A. 495.

20. Ala.—Alabama Great Southern R. Co. v. Conner, 151 So. 355, 227 Ala. 562, certiorari denied Connor v. Alabama Great Southern R. Co., 54 S.Ct. 531, 291 U.S. 675, 78 L.Ed. 1063.
Mo.—Ligon v. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co., 168 S.W. 647, 184 Mo.App. 187.

21. Fla.—State v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 54 So. 900, 61 Fla. 799.
Ill.—Chicago Rys. Co. v. Commerce Commission, 167 N.E. 840, 336 Ill. 51, 67 A.L.R. 938.
Okl.—Tulsa St. Ry. Co. v. Oklahoma Union Ry. Co., 184 P. 71, 76 Okl. 102.
Vt.—City of Barre v. Barre & M. Traction & Power Co., 92 A. 237, 88 Vt. 304.
10 C.J. p 649 note 45.

Carriers within statute

A statute regulating "railroad, express, parlor and sleeping car companies" does not apply to street railroads; but a statute giving the railroad commissioners supervision of all railroads within the state, whether operated by steam, electricity, or any other power, includes street railroads within the commissioners' supervisory powers.—City of Barre v. Barre & M. Traction & Power Co., 92 A. 237, 88 Vt. 304.

regard to regulations of connections, so as to afford reasonable convenience and comfort to the public affected by the service;[22] and if the earnings of the carrier are sufficient it must be prepared to render proper service as required by the commission.[23] The commission, however, has no power to regulate matters of rapid transit covered by particular legislation;[24] and the order of such a commission must not be in violation of statute, and must be reasonable and just; and where it is so it supersedes and annuls any previous rules or regulations of the carrier in conflict therewith.[25] The fact that a minority of the members of a commission dissent does not invalidate an order passed by the majority of the members.[26] If a railroad company is not in fact a common carrier of passengers, an order of the commission regulating it as such is void.[27]

Under some provisions the carrier may appeal from the commission's order,[28] and obtain relief against such order if it is unreasonable;[29] but if the order has been made after a due hearing, on such appeal, the presumption obtains that the order is reasonable, just, and correct, and the burden is on the party complaining to establish its unreasonableness, unjustness, or incorrectness;[30] and where an order is made after hearing testimony sufficient to support the conclusion reached, the court, on appeal, will not substitute its judgment for that of the commission.[31] Where in an action to enjoin an order of such commission the evidence, although conflicting, does not show that the order was unreasonable or arbitrary, an injunction will be denied.[32] It is no objection to a

Regulation of terminal facilities

(1) A terminal or union depot company in rendering service as a common carrier is subject to supervision and regulation by the railroad commissioners, as provided by statute—State v. Jacksonville Terminal Co., 106 So. 576, 90 Fla. 721.

(2) Statutory power conferred on railroad commissioners to regulate, supervise, and control all passenger terminal or union depot companies, whether owned or operated by any railroad in connection with its main line, or by a separate company organized for that purpose, and with reference to requiring the admission into passenger terminals of railroad companies desiring or required by the commissioners to enter, and to fixing reasonable rates of compensation for the uses of such terminals, has no reference to a terminal station owned and used exclusively for its own traffic by any common carrier or railroad company, but applies to those passenger terminals owned or operated by a terminal company or individual, or by a railroad company in connection with its main line, when such terminal company, individual, or railroad company undertakes the public business of furnishing terminal facilities to railroad common carriers.—State v. Jacksonville Terminal Co., 27 So. 225, 41 Fla. 377.

Relieving street railroad from franchise provisions

Under a statute giving the public service commission power to regulate rates and service, where the income of a street railroad, operating under a franchise granted prior to the public service commission law, is not sufficient to pay a reasonable return and provide an adequate and sufficient service, the commission has no power to relieve a street railroad from its franchise provisions.—State v. Public Service Commission of Washington, 172 P. 890, 101 Wash. 601.

The policy of a public utilities act, in regulating an established carrier in a given field and protecting it from competition, is that the public will be more efficiently served and at a more reasonable rate than if other competing lines were authorized to render the same public service in the same territory.—Chicago Rys. Co. v. Commerce Commission, 167 N.E. 840, 336 Ill. 51, 67 A.L.R. 938.

Regulation of public service motor vehicle by public board or commission see C.J.S. title Motor Vehicles § 45, also 42 C.J. p. 643 notes 80–89, p. 644 notes 91–6.

22. Fla.—State v. Florida East Coast Ry. Co., 49 So. 43, 57 Fla. 522.

Regulating connections with other carriers

(1) Statutory provisions that the corporation commission shall have such general control and supervision of railroad companies as is necessary to carry into effect the provisions of the act, and that all common carriers shall afford all reasonable, proper, and equal facilities for the interchange of traffic and forwarding passengers, and shall make as close connections as practicable for the convenience of the traveling public, are within the power of the legislature.—North Carolina Corp. Commission v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 49 S.E. 191, 137 N.C. 1, 115 Am.S.R. 636, affirmed Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. North Carolina Corp. Commission, 27 S.Ct. 585, 206 U.S. 1, 51 L.Ed. 933.

(2) Under such powers the corporation commission may require a railroad company to make connection with a train of another railroad, although it costs the railroad company fifteen dollars a day to do this; its net earnings in the state being nearly two million dollars per year, and several thousand passengers a year being thus saved several hours and the inconvenience of traveling at night.—North Carolina Corp. Commission v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., supra.

Regulation of connections between railroads generally see C.J.S. title Railroads § 56, also 51 C.J. p. 482 note 94–p. 484 note 23.

23. Neb.—In re Lincoln Traction Co., 171 N.W. 192, 103 Neb. 229.

24. N.Y.—City of New York v. Interborough Rapid Transit Co., 249 N.Y.S. 243, 232 App.Div. 233, affirming 240 N.Y.S. 316, 136 Misc. 569, and affirmed 177 N.E. 295, 257 N.Y. 20.

25. Okl.—St. Louis & S.F. R. Co. v. State Travelers' Corp., 148 P. 166, 47 Okl. 374.
10 C.J. p. 650 note 46.

26. Ga.—State R. Commn. v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 80 S.E. 327, 140 Ga. 817, L.R.A.1915E 902, Ann.Cas. 1915A 1018.

27. U.S.—McCoy v. Pacific Spruce Corporation, C.C.A.Or., 1 F.2d 853, affirming, D.C., Pacific Spruce Corporation v. McCoy, 294 F. 711.

28. Okl.—St. Louis & S.F. R. Co. v. State Travelers' Corp., 148 P. 166, 47 Okl. 374.

29. Fla.—State v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 54 So. 900, 61 Fla. 799.

30. Okl.—Tulsa St. Ry. Co. v. Oklahoma Union Ry. Co., 184 P. 71, 76 Okl. 102.
10 C.J. p. 650 note 51.

31. Mich.—Grand Rapids, etc., R. Co. v. State R. Commn., 154 N.W. 15, 188 Mich. 108.

32. Ga.—State R. Commn. v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 80 S.E. 327, 140 Ga. 817, L.R.A.1915E 902, Ann.Cas. 1915A 1018.

general order of a public service commission applying to all railroads giving a certain service that complainant who was served with notice of the hearing claims that it does not afford such service, as complainant would have the right to try that question before it could be determined against complainant.[33] Under a statutory provision that no public utility shall urge grounds not set forth in its application for a rehearing before the commission, a railroad company waives the objection that its receiver was not joined in the proceedings before the commission by not raising the point on rehearing.[34]

§ 569. Penalties for Violation by Carrier of Regulations

Under some statutes, a carrier is subject to a penalty for a violation of the statutory regulations.

Under some statutes the carrier is subject to a penalty for a violation by it of the statutory regulations,[35] or of the orders of the public service commission,[36] and under some provisions an officer or agent of the company, through whose neglect or fault the company fails to obey the commission's order, is guilty of a misdemeanor.[37] Each failure of a railroad company to start its train from the point of origin on schedule time, as required by an order of the railroad commission, is a separate offense and subjects the company to the penalty for each offense.[38]

D. RULES AND REGULATIONS OF CARRIER IN GENERAL

§ 570. Power to Make Regulations

A common carrier of passengers may make such reasonable rules and regulations for the conduct of its business as will protect its interest and the interest of the traveling public.

Subject to statutory regulations, as announced supra §§ 567–569, the whole subject of the making of rules and regulations is left to the common carrier, subject only to control by the courts of their reasonableness, or discriminatory character;[39] and with this limitation a carrier of passengers has the right to make such reasonable rules and regulations as may seem fit and proper for the conduct of its business, in such manner as will protect

33. N.J.—Delaware, etc., R. Co. v. Board of Public Utility Comrs., 87 A. 801, 84 N.J. Law 619.

34. Mo.—State ex rel. Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Atkinson, 192 S.W. 86, 269 Mo. 634, L.R.A.1918A 46, Ann.Cas. 1917E 987.

35. Ill.—City of Chicago v. Chicago City Ry. Co., 111 N.E. 983, 272 Ill. 245.

As to posting notice of transfer rights

Where an ordinance requiring transfers to be used within fifteen minutes is in force, failure of notices concerning transfers to follow a statutory provision giving an hour for their use will not subject a street railway company to a penalty fixed by another statute, requiring such notices to be posted.—City of Chicago v. Chicago City Ry. Co., 111 N.E. 983, 272 Ill. 245.

As to posting copies of anti-tipping statute

A statute making it an offense to fail to post copies of anti-tipping statute in passenger cars applies only to cars actually in use for the transportation of passengers.—State v. Southern Ry. Co. in Mississippi, 72 So. 837, 112 Miss. 23.

Penalty for failure to furnish separate accommodations for white and colored passengers

Tex.—State v. Galveston, etc., R. Co., Civ.App., 184 S.W. 227.

Penalty for:
- Excessive or unauthorized fare see infra §§ 587–589.
- Failure to:
  - Keep ticket office open see infra § 601.
  - Stop at station see infra § 658.
- Issuing free pass see infra § 623.
- Refusal to:
  - Check baggage see infra § 863
  - Issue or accept transfer see infra § 649.
  - Redeem unused ticket see infra § 614.
  - Sell:
    - Mileage book see infra § 582.
    - Ticket over connecting line see infra § 605.

Sections of statutes imposing penalty held not conflicting

Nev.—Ex parte Todd, 210 P. 131, 46 Nev. 214

36. Tex.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. State, Civ.App., 167 S.W. 822.

Amount of penalty

So long as corporation commission does not exceed its power under Rev.L.1910 §§ 1192, 1193, to punish for contempt a violation of its order, and where there has been no error in proceeding prejudicial to defendant, supreme court cannot disturb commission's judgment fixing amount of penalty.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. State, 165 P. 125, 47 Okl. 26.

Evidence held to sustain finding of corporation commission that its order to defendant railroad as to opening its waiting rooms, ticket windows, and baggagerooms an hour before scheduled arrival of trains had been violated.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. State, 165 P. 125, 47 Okl. 26.

37. U.S.—Brooklyn Heights R. Co. v. Straus, D.C.N.Y., 245 F. 132.

Personal and individual act contemplated

A statutory provision making any officer or agent of the company who procures, aids, or abets it in its failure to obey guilty of a misdemeanor contemplates a personal and individual act of the officer or agent, and not the mere failure of the company itself, unless such failure is due to the neglect or fault of the officer or agent.—Brooklyn Heights R. Co. v. Straus, D.C.N.Y., 245 F. 132.

38. Tex.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. State, Civ.App., 167 S.W. 822.

Obligation to conform to timetables generally see infra § 661.

39. Ga.—State R. Commn. v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 80 S.E. 327, 140 Ga. 817, L.R.A.1915E 902, Ann.Cas. 1915A 1018.

Wash.—Davenport v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., 175 P. 298, 299, 103 Wash. 645.

This rule, as stated in Corpus Juris, has received judicial approval.—Davenport v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., supra.

its interest and the best interest of the traveling public.[40] It not only has the right, but it is its duty, to make reasonable rules and regulations necessary to the performance of its duties to the traveling public with the highest degree of efficiency, and to secure the safe, effective, and comfortable operation of its business.[41] It may delegate the power of adopting and enforcing such regulations to its employees engaged in the operation of its property in such business.[42]

In consonance with this right and duty, a common carrier of passengers may make reasonable rules and regulations for the management and operation of its trains and cars,[43] the government of its employees in the conduct of their business on trains,[44] the conduct of employees and of passengers,[45] the convenience, comfort, and safety of its passengers,[46] the transportation of invalid or disabled passengers,[47] and the payment of its charges.[48] It may prescribe the number of passengers

40. Ky.—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S.W.2d 356, 240 Ky. 1—Sturgill v. Chesapeake & O. R. Co., 11 S.W.2d 983, 227 Ky. 44.
N.Y.—Garricott v. New York State Rys., 119 N.E. 94, 223 N.Y. 9, L.R.A.1918D 929, reversing 151 N.Y.S. 1117, 167 App.Div. 953.
Or.—Baggage & Omnibus Transfer Co. v. City of Portland, 164 P. 570, 84 Or. 343, L.R.A.1917F 1080.
Tex.—Davis v. Kirklen, Civ.App., 253 S.W. 330.
Wash.—Davenport v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., 175 P. 298, 103 Wash. 645.
Wis.—Campbell v. Milwaukee Electric Ry. & Light Co., 170 N.W. 937, 169 Wis. 171, 6 A.L.R. 628.
10 C.J. p. 650 note 61.

The rule as stated in Corpus Juris is cited with approval in Davis v. Kirklen, Tex.Civ.App., 253 S.W. 330, 331.

Incidental authority

"The authority to adopt and enforce such regulations is incident to the ownership of property and to its employment in business of a common carrier. . . . And such regulations are such as an individual who happens to be the sole owner of like property, employed in like business, would have the right and power to make, in virtue of his ownership of his property and of his employment as a carrier of passengers for hire."—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S.W.2d 356, 361, 240 Ky. 1.

Operator of bus line

A person or company operating a bus line may adopt rules, regulations, or customs for the benefit of the business, and the convenience, comfort, safety, or health of the passengers, not in conflict with the rules or regulations prescribed by the commissioner, under the power given him by statute.—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S.W.2d 356, 240 Ky. 1.

Requiring wearing of coats in railroad dining room

A corporation operating railroad dining rooms and lunch counters may make and enforce a rule requiring all men to wear coats while eating in its dining rooms.—Fred Harvey v. Corporation Commission of Oklahoma, 229 P. 428, 102 Okl. 266, 36 A.L.R. 1445.

41. Ky.—Casteel v. American Airways, 88 S.W.2d 976, 261 Ky. 818—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S.W.2d 356, 240 Ky. 1.
N.Y.—Montgomery v. Buffalo R. Co., 58 N.E. 770, 165 N.Y. 139—Ketchum v. New York City R. Co., 103 N.Y.S. 486, 118 App.Div. 248.
Utah.—Kenyon Hotel Co. v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., 220 P. 382, 62 Utah 364, 33 A.L.R. 343.

Where the railroad depot adjoins a public street which the people in passing to and from the railroad trains must pass over, it is not only the right but it is the duty of the railroad company to promulgate reasonable rules for the safety and convenience of the public passing to and from the trains.—Kenyon Hotel Co. v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., 220 P. 382, 62 Utah 364, 33 A.L.R. 343.

42. Ky.—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S.W.2d 356, 240 Ky. 1.
N.Y.—Garricott v. New York State Rys., 119 N.E. 94, 223 N.Y. 9, L.R.A.1918D 929, reversing 151 N.Y.S. 1117, 167 App.Div. 953.

"Where an agent has been appointed or employed with authority in him and his assistants to have the charge and management of such property and its use, in the business of transporting passengers, it is incident to his authority to adopt and enforce such reasonable regulations."—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, supra.

43. U.S.—Kyle v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co., Ark., 182 F. 613, 105 C.C.A. 151.
Tex.—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Sanderson, Civ.App., 216 S.W. 286.
10 C.J. p. 651 note 62.

Entrance to cars

Street railroad company may make and enforce reasonable rules with regard to entrances by which passengers may enter car.—Birmingham Electric Co. v. Jones, Ala., 176 So. 303.

Reserving certain cars for certain traffic

Electric railway company had right, as a common carrier, to make a regulation that interurban cars should be reserved for interurban traffic only, and urban traffic excluded therefrom.—Campbell v. Milwaukee Electric Ry. & Light Co., 170 N.W. 937, 169 Wis. 171, 6 A.L.R. 628.

Schedule for operation

In the absence of statutory regulation a carrier may adopt a schedule for the operation of its trains according to which certain trains do not stop at all stations on its line.
Iowa.—Wilkes v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co., 198 N.W. 44, 197 Iowa 832, 36 A.L.R. 1012.
Ky.—Sturgill v. Chesapeake & O. R. Co., 11 S.W.2d 983, 227 Ky. 44.

44. Ohio.—Crawford v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 26 Ohio St. 580.

45. N.Y. — Rowe v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 75 N.Y.S. 893, 71 App.Div. 474.
10 C.J. p. 651 note 64.

46. D.C.—Capital Traction Co. v. Morgan, 44 App.D.C. 237.
Ky. — Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S.W.2d 356, 240 Ky. 1.
10 C.J. p. 651 note 65.

The accommodations of passengers while boarding the carrier's vehicle or being carried by it are subject to such reasonable rules and regulations as the carrier may deem proper to make.
Ky. — Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S.W.2d 356, 240 Ky. 1.
Mich.—Day v. Owen, 5 Mich. 520, 72 Am.D. 62.

Requiring stockmen to ride in caboose

A contract by a drover or caretaker of stock, riding on the same train in which the stock is carried, to ride and remain in the caboose while the train is in motion is valid, and not against sound public policy.—Hulet v. Payne, C.C.A.N.D., 282 F. 401—10 C.J. p. 651 note 65 [a].

47. Ky.—Arnett v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., 248 S.W. 1040, 198 Ky. 491.

48. R.I.—Martin v. Rhode Island Co., 78 A. 548, 32 R.I. 162, 32 L.R.A.,N.S., 695, Ann.Cas.1912C 1283.
10 C.J. p. 651 note 67.
Regulations as to amount of fares see infra § 581.

that may ride at any one time on any of its cars or vehicles,[49] and may adopt and enforce rules providing that, when its coaches or vehicles contain the prescribed reasonable number of passengers, others desiring passage may be refused admittance.[50] It may also make reasonable rules and regulations as to the mode of performance of its duty as carrier,[51] but it may not thereby abridge its duty.[52] Where a railroad company has made such rules and regulations, it is its duty to run its trains according to them.[53]

Inconsistent with rules of commission. A carrier's rules and regulations are void when they are inconsistent with the rules prescribed by the public service commission.[54]

Rules and stipulations distinguished. Some of the regulations adopted by the carrier are sometimes printed on the ticket, and may then be said to constitute a stipulation in the contract rather than a rule governing the rights of the parties.[55]

§ 571. Reasonableness of Regulations

The rules and regulations of a carrier of passengers must be reasonable.

A carrier's rules and regulations must be reasonable or else they are not binding on passengers.[56] A rule or regulation which is in contravention of law, or whose enforcement would invalidate the provisions of a statute, cannot be enforced.[57]

Rules and regulations are reasonable which are suitable to enable the carrier to perform the duties it has undertaken, to secure to itself its just rights, and to conserve the safety, convenience, and comfort of its passengers,[58] particularly where they have been approved by the railroad or public service commission.[59] The following rules or regulations have been held reasonable: Forbidding passengers from boarding or leaving cars while in motion;[60] forbidding passengers from riding on the platform or steps of cars;[61] forbidding patrons

49. Ky.—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S.W.2d 356, 240 Ky. 1.

50. Ky.—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, supra.

51. Ky.—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, supra.
N.H.—Johnson v. Concord R. Corp. 46 N.H. 213, 88 Am.D. 199.
10 C.J. p 651 note 66.

52. D.C.—Capital Traction Co. v. Morgan, 44 App.D.C. 237.

53. Ind.—Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Nuzum, 50 Ind. 141, 19 Am.R. 703—Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Lightcap, 34 N.E. 243, 7 Ind.App. 249—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Field, 34 N.E. 406, 7 Ind.App. 172, 52 Am.S.R. 444.

54. Ky.—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S.W.2d 356, 240 Ky. 1.
Okl.—St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. State Travelers' Corp., 148 P. 166, 168, 47 Okl. 374
10 C.J. p 651 note 69.

55. Kan.—Freeman v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 80 P. 592, 71 Kan. 327, 6 Ann.Cas. 118.
N.J.—State v. Campbell, 32 N.J.Law 309.

56. Ky.—Casteel v. American Airways, 88 S.W.2d 976, 261 Ky. 818—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S.W.2d 356, 240 Ky. 1.
10 C.J. p 652 note 71

The right of a passenger to be carried by a common carrier is generally superior to, and cannot be affected by, the carrier's rules and regulations, but his accommodation while being carried is subject to such reasonable rules and regulations as the carrier may deem proper to make.
Ky. — Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S.W.2d 356, 240 Ky. 1.
Mich.—Day v. Owen, 5 Mich. 520, 72 Am.D. 62.

57. Cal.—Robinson v. Southern Pac. Co., 38 P. 722, 105 Cal. 526, 28 L.R.A. 773.
10 C.J. p 652 note 72.

58. Ky.—Casteel v. American Airways, 88 S.W.2d 976, 261 Ky. 818—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S.W.2d 356, 240 Ky. 1.
N.Y.—Garricott v. New York State Rys., 119 N.E. 94, 223 N.Y. 9, L.R.A.1918D 929, reversing 151 N.Y.S. 1117, 167 App.Div. 953.

Allowing women to board car first
Where a street car is halted preparatory to taking on passengers, an order by the carrier's inspector that women should be allowed to board first is reasonable.—Garricott v. New York State Rys., 119 N.E. 94, 223 N.Y. 9, L.R.A.1918D 929, reversing 151 N.Y.S. 1117, 167 App.Div. 953.

Requiring invalid passenger to be transported on cot
The rule of a carrier requiring an invalid passenger to be transported on a cot, instead of on a bed spring, is reasonable, in view of the greater safety of the passenger while on a cot raised from the floor, and of the greater ease in taking her in and out of the car, so that the carrier could properly require such passenger to be removed from the train, if a cot was not procured for her.—Arnett v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., 248 S.W. 1040, 198 Ky. 491.

Requiring doctor's certificate for invalid passenger
A rule requiring a person unable because of sickness to travel in a passenger car and desiring to travel in a baggage car to have a doctor's certificate that he has no contagious and infectious disease, and that travel in a baggage car will not endanger his life, is reasonable in view of a statutory provision prohibiting the transportation on trains of persons having contagious or infectious diseases.—Davis v. Kirklen, Tex.Civ.App., 253 S.W. 330.

Receiving or discharging bus passengers en route
A rule of a bus company permitting it to receive or discharge passengers while en route, at hotels, residences, post offices, or at other points between its fixed termini, which rule is generally known by the public, is not unreasonable.—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S.W.2d 356, 240 Ky. 1.

59. Wis.—Campbell v. Milwaukee Electric Ry. & Light Co., 170 N.W. 937, 169 Wis. 171, 6 A.L.R. 628.

60. U.S.—Hulet v. Payne, C.C.A.N.D., 282 F. 401.
10 C.J. p 652 note 73.

This rule, as stated in Corpus Juris, has received judicial approval.—Hulet v. Payne, C.C.A.N.D., 282 F. 401, 404.

61. U.S.—Hulet v. Payne, supra.
10 C.J. p 652 note 74.

This rule, as stated in Corpus Juris, has received judicial approval.—Hulet v. Payne, supra.

going to sleep in waiting room or lying down on benches, in the absence of a duty to provide places where patrons may sleep while awaiting the arrival or departure of trains;[62] prohibiting the taking of dangerous articles into cars;[63] limiting the amount of personal effects which a passenger may carry with him in a car;[64] reserving interurban cars for interurban traffic only,[65] requiring the deposit of fare in a box on entering the car, as announced infra § 591; and requiring a passenger to have a ticket[66] or to pay cash fare.[67]

Rules dividing passengers into classes and setting apart particular cars, or portions thereof, for particular classes,[68] such as for the separation of white and colored races, as announced infra § 645, have also been held reasonable; but no rule, regulation, custom, or usage may be relied on by the carrier which will permit it to discriminate against or in favor of a passenger on account of race or color.[69]

Reasonableness a question of law and of fact. The reasonableness of a rule or regulation prescribed by a carrier has been held to be a mixed question of law and of fact,[70] on the other hand in many cases it has been held to be purely a question of law for the court,[71] particularly where the facts are uncontroverted.[72]

Interstate commerce commission. The reasonableness of a rule or regulation by a carrier, within the Interstate Commerce Act, is a question for the interstate commerce commission, where the only questions are whether the carrier's rule was applicable to the case and was properly applied.[73]

§ 572. Notice of Regulations

Notice of a carrier's rules or regulations affecting passengers is generally sufficient if it is given in such a manner that passengers may conveniently advise themselves thereof.

As the validity of a regulation does not depend on contract, express or implied, but on the general power of the carrier to control its business, there is not the necessity, which exists with reference to a special contract regulation, as explained infra §§ 616, 617, of bringing notice of the regulation home to the passenger so that his assent thereto shall appear; but the passenger is bound to take notice and to inform himself of all reasonable regulations governing the purchase of tickets and the transportation of passengers.[74] In the absence of a statute to the contrary, such a rule or regulation may be communicated and made known to the public in any manner sufficient to answer its purpose, and if it is so posted, or otherwise published, that passengers may conveniently advise themselves with reference thereto it is sufficient;[75]

62. Ga.—Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Motes, 43 S.E. 990, 117 Ga. 923, 97 Am.S.R. 223, 62 L.R.A. 507.

63. N.Y.—Dowd v. Albany R. Co., 62 N.Y.S. 179, 47 App.Div. 202.

64. N.J.—Runyan v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 47 A. 422, 65 N.J. Law 228
10 C.J. p 653 note 77.
Limitation of liability as to amount or value of hand baggage see infra § 875.

65. Wis.—Campbell v. Milwaukee Electric Ry. & Light Co., 170 N.W. 937, 169 Wis. 171, 6 A.L.R. 628.

66. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Blythe, 126 S.W. 386, 94 Ark. 153, 29 L.R.A.,N.S., 299.
10 C.J. p 653 note 79.
Exhibition and surrender of tickets generally see infra §§ 609–613.
Requiring ticket or permit on freight train see infra § 606.

67. Mo.—Bolles v. Kansas City Southern R. Co., 115 S.W. 459, 134 Mo.App. 696.
10 C.J. p 653 note 80.
Right to require fare generally see infra § 579.

68. Tenn.—Memphis, etc., R. Co. v. Benson, 4 S.W. 5, 85 Tenn. 627, 4 Am.S.R. 776.
10 C.J. p 653 note 81.

69. Ky.—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S.W.2d 356, 240 Ky. 1.

70. Wis.—Bass v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 36 Wis. 450, 17 Am.R. 495
10 C.J. p 653 note 83–p 654 note 86

71. Ky.—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S.W.2d 356, 240 Ky. 1.
10 C.J. p 653 note 84.
"For the obvious reason that if this question should be left to the jury, on the trial, one jury might hold such rule was reasonable and another might hold the same rule or regulation was unreasonable. Thus, its uniformity and permanency, the essential qualities of every regulation, would be destroyed."—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S.W.2d 356, 362, 240 Ky. 1

72. U.S.—Ohage v. Northern Pac. R. Co., Minn., 200 F. 128, 118 C.C.A. 302.
10 C.J. p 654 note 85.

73. U.S.—Southern R. Co. v. Campbell, 36 S.Ct. 33, 239 U.S. 99, 102, 60 L.Ed. 165, affirming 77 S.E. 745, 94 S.C. 95.
10 C.J. p 654 note 87.
Jurisdiction of interstate commerce commission in general see C.J.S. title Commerce § 142.

74. Ky.—Sturgill v. Chesapeake & O. R. Co., 11 S.W.2d 983, 227 Ky. 44—Chiles v. Chesapeake, etc., Ry. Co., 101 S.W. 386, 125 Ky. 299, 30 Ky. L. 1332, 11 L.R.A.,N.S., 268.
10 C.J. p 654 note 89.
Need not notify each passenger
Notice of existence and operation of reasonable rule or regulation of carrier need not be brought to actual knowledge of each person purchasing ticket.
Ky. — Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S.W.2d 356, 240 Ky. 1
N.Y.—Barker v. Central Park, etc., R. Co., 45 N.E. 550, 151 N.Y. 237, 56 Am.S.R. 626, 35 L.R.A. 489.
10 C.J. p 654 note 89 [a].

75. Ind.—Union Traction Co. of Indiana v. Smith, 123 N.E. 4, 70 Ind. App. 40
Ky. — Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S.W.2d 356, 240 Ky. 1
10 C.J. p 654 note 90
The test to be applied "is the fact they [regulations] are generally known to the public and are reasonable and permanent, not the manner in which they were adopted and made known to the public."—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S.W.2d 356, 364, 240 Ky. 1.

and if it is generally well known, it is not necessary that it be formally adopted and published by writing or in print;[76] it may grow out of custom and usage.[77]

The distinction has been made that rules which cover special cases may properly be brought to the knowledge of the traveling public by notice of publication, but that a rule and notice which is intended to apply to all passengers and to affect all travel and every individual who applies for passage stands on a different basis and requires more direct notice,[78] and it has been held that a notice which is intended to apply to the entire public should be such as to leave no doubt but that it reaches all who are to be affected by it.[79]

Rules relating to the method in which employees shall conduct the business of the carrier, and regulating their authority, are not supposed to be known to the public, and a passenger is not charged with notice thereof, unless they are brought home to him;[80] and before such rules can be enforced against a passenger reasonable notice thereof must be given to him[81]

§ 573. Obedience to, and Enforcement of, Regulations

Passengers are bound to obey all reasonable rules and regulations of the carrier of which they have actual or constructive knowledge, and it is within the power of the carrier to enforce such rules and regulations.

Passengers are bound to obey all reasonable rules and regulations prescribed by the carrier, of which they have knowledge or are charged with knowledge,[82] provided the carrier has afforded them reasonable facilities for doing so.[83]

Enforcement. A person purchasing and receiving a ticket impliedly consents to the enforcement of all existing permanent, reasonable rules, customs and usages of the carrier known to the public, regulating the receiving, loading, transporting, and discharging of passengers;[84] and it is within the power, as well as the duty, of the carrier, through its proper employees, to enforce the observance, of such rules and regulations,[85] notwithstanding the previous existence of a contrary custom;[86] but such enforcement must be done in a reasonable manner, and so as not to inflict unnecessary injury or inconvenience on passengers[87]

§ 574. Waiver or Abrogation of Regulations

A carrier's rules and regulations may be waived or abrogated, as by their habitual violation with the carrier's knowledge

The rules and regulations of a carrier may be waived or abrogated, as by their habitual violation, with the consent or knowledge, actual or construc-

Bulletin announcing state law held not regulation

A bulletin issued by a carrier engaged in both intra-state and interstate carriage of passengers, announcing the enactment of a state statute requiring the segregation of races, declaring the statute applied only to intra-state passengers and requiring its enforcement on trains which carry passengers to which the law does apply, was not by its terms a valid regulation for the segregation of interstate passengers according to race—Washington, B & A. Electric R. Co. v. Waller, 289 F. 598, 53 App D C. 200, 30 A L R. 50.

76. Ky—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S W.2d 356, 240 Ky 1.

In absence of statute to contrary, rules and regulations of carrier may exist and bind both carrier and passengers, without being promulgated in writing or in print.—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S.W 2d 356, 240 Ky. 1.

77. Ky.—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, supra.

As to receiving and unloading passengers

A carrier may by custom establish a rule to receive and unload passengers at any convenient point between the termini of its route manifestly for the accommodation of its passengers, as well as to promote its business. So doing is a valuable privilege to the prospective passenger and an advantage of tremendous value to the carrier.—Brumfield v Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S W 2d 356, 240 Ky. 1.

78. Tenn—Louisville, etc, R. Co. v. Turner, 47 S.W. 223, 100 Tenn. 213, 43 L.R.A. 140.

79. Ind.—Union Traction Co. of Indiana v. Smith, 123 N.E. 4, 70 Ind. App. 40.
Tenn—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Turner, 47 S.W. 223, 100 Tenn. 213, 43 L.R.A. 140.

80. D C.—Washington, B. & A. Electric R. Co. v. Waller, 289 F. 598, 53 App D.C 200, 30 A L R. 50
Tex.—Chicago, R. I & G. Ry. Co. v. Carroll, 193 S.W. 1068, 108 Tex. 378
10 C.J. p 655 note 94.

Oral instructions by a carrier to its conductors to segregate interstate passengers by races is not a valid regulation, binding on the passengers, since knowledge of such regulation should be brought home to the passenger, at least constructively, before he enters the car.—Washington, B. & A. Electric R. Co. v Waller, 289 F. 598, 53 App D C. 200, 30 A.L.R. 50.

81. N.Y.—Hickman v. International Ry. Co., 160 N.Y.S. 994, 97 Misc. 53, reversed on other grounds 164 N.Y.S. 1095
10 C J p 655 note 95.

82. Ky—Casteel v. American Airways, 88 S W.2d 976, 261 Ky. 818.
10 C J. p 655 note 96
Disobedience of rules as:
Contributory negligence see infra § 779.
Grounds for ejection see infra § 819.

83. Mo—Cathey v. St Louis, etc, R. Co., 130 S W 130, 149 Mo App. 134.
10 C J. p 655 note 97.

84. Ky—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S.W.2d 356, 240 Ky. 1

85. Ala.—Birmingham Electric Co. v. Jones, 176 So. 203
Wis.—Campbell v. Milwaukee Electric Ry. & Light Co., 170 N W. 937, 169 Wis. 171, 6 A.L R. 628.
10 C J. p 655 note 98.

86. Ark—Hobbs v. Texas, etc, R. Co., 5 S.W. 586, 49 Ark. 357.

87. Ala.—Birmingham, R. etc, Co. v. McDonough, 44 So. 960, 153 Ala. 122, 127 Am.S.R. 18, 13 L.R.A., N.S., 445.
10 C.J. p 655 note 99.

tive, of the carrier.[88] A railroad company, however, cannot waive a compliance with its regulations by way of discrimination; but, if the regulation is waived for one person, it is waived as to all under like conditions.[89]

§ 575. As to Use of Carrier's Premises

A common carrier of passengers may make reasonable rules and regulations for the use by others of its station grounds and other premises, consistent with the purposes for which they were created.

The station grounds or premises of a common carrier, such as a railroad company, must be devoted primarily to public use to the extent necessary for the public objects intended to be accomplished by the carrier,[90] and they cannot be used, without the carrier's consent, by taxicab men or others to solicit or carry on their business.[91] Accordingly, a common carrier of passengers, such as a railroad company, may make reasonable rules and regulations for the use of its stations and other premises, consistent with the purposes for which it was created and not inconsistent with legally established regulations;[92] and the power which the company has to regulate its station buildings it may delegate to suitable officers.[93] It may exclude from its station grounds those who go there not to transact business with the railroad company, but from curiosity or to transact their private business with passengers or third persons,[94] particularly when they are dishonest and troublesome,[95] and when such persons come on its station grounds in violation of such prohibition it may remove them, using no unnecessary force, as announced infra § 819 a common carrier may exclude from its vehicles and premises persons selling lunches to passengers,[96] and hotel runners soliciting patronage for their hotels.[97] It may also exclude from its station grounds hackmen soliciting the carriage of passengers to and from stations,[98] and for this purpose may obtain an injunction to prevent such persons from entering on its premises;[99] or it may allow all hack-

88. Pa.—Drake v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 20 A. 994, 137 Pa. 352, 21 Am.S.R. 883.
10 C.J. p. 655 note 1, p. 656 note 2.
In the absence of knowledge by the carrier there is no waiver.—Anderson v. Union Traction Co., 7 Pa. Dist. 41.

89. Pa.—Coleman v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 89 A. 87, 242 Pa. 304, 50 L.R.A.,N.S., 432.

90. Mo.—Canary Taxicab Co. v. Terminal Ry. Ass'n of St. Louis, 294 S.W. 88, 316 Mo. 709.

91. U.S.—Black & White Taxicab & Transfer Co. v. Brown & Yellow Taxicab & Transfer Co., Ky., 48 S.Ct. 404, 276 U.S. 518, 72 L.Ed. 681, 57 A.L.R. 426, affirming, C.C.A., 15 F.2d 509, certiorari granted 47 S.Ct. 472, 273 U.S. 690, 71 L.Ed. 842.—Delaware, L. & W. R. Co. v. Town of Morristown, N.J., 48 S.Ct. 276, 276 U.S. 182, 72 L.Ed. 523, 56 A.L.R. 756, reversing, C.C.A., 14 F.2d 257, certiorari granted 47 S.Ct. 335, 273 U.S. 686, 71 L.Ed. 840.

92. Or. — Baggage & Omnibus Transfer Co. v. City of Portland, 164 P. 570, 84 Or. 343, L.R.A. 1917F 1080.
10 C.J. p. 656 note 4.
Baggage facilities
Since railroad companies are responsible for baggage, they may reasonably regulate use of stations and other matters concerning dispatch of business for that purpose.—Baggage & Omnibus Transfer Co. v. City of Portland, 164 P. 570, 84 Or. 343, L.R.A. 1917F 1080.
Municipal regulation of hackmen and hotel runners at depots see C.J.S. title Municipal Corporations § 266, also 43 C.J. p. 380 note 89–p. 381 note 10.

93. Mass.—Com. v. Power, 7 Metc. 596, 41 Am.D. 465.

94. U.S.—Jencks v. Coleman, C.C. R.I., 13 F.Cas.No.7,258, 2 Sumn. 221.
Ga.—Fluker v. Georgia R., etc., Co., 8 S.E. 529, 81 Ga. 461, 12 Am.S.R. 328, 2 L.R.A. 843.
Iowa.—Johnson v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 50 N.W. 543, 51 Iowa 25.

95. Okl.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Armstrong, 120 P. 952, 30 Okl. 134, 39 L.R.A.,N.S., 126, Ann.Cas.1913B 1343.
10 C.J. p. 656 note 7.

96. Ga.—Fluker v. Georgia R., etc., Co., 8 S.E. 529, 81 Ga. 461, 12 Am.S.R. 328, 2 L.R.A. 843.
10 C.J. p. 656 note 9.

97. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Osborn, 55 S.W. 142, 67 Ark. 399.—Landrigan v. State, 31 Ark. 50, 25 Am.R. 547.
Mass.—Commonwealth v. Power, 7 Metc. 596, 41 Am.D. 465.

98. U.S.—Delaware, L. & W. R. Co. v. Town of Morristown, N.J., 48 S.Ct. 276, 276 U.S. 182, 72 L.Ed. 523, 56 A.L.R. 756, reversing, C.C.A., 14 F.2d 257, certiorari granted 47 S.Ct. 335, 273 U.S. 686, 71 L.Ed. 840.
Mo.—Canary Taxicab Co. v. Terminal Ry. Ass'n of St. Louis, 294 S.W. 88, 316 Mo. 709.
10 C.J. p. 656 note 11.

99. Ark.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Hobbs, 13 S.W.2d 610, 178 Ark. 1146.
Conn.—New York, etc., R. Co. v. Scovill, 41 A. 246, 71 Conn. 136, 71 Am.S.R. 159, 42 L.R.A. 157.
Mass.—Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Sullivan, 58 N.E. 689, 177 Mass. 230, 83 Am.S.R. 275.
Tex.—Clisbee v. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co., Civ.App., 230 S.W. 235.
10 C.J. p. 656 note 12.
Grounds for injunction held sufficient
Where hackmen, who had been permitted to enter station grounds to solicit passengers and baggage, continued to trespass on such grounds after notice to cease, for the reason that the company had sold the exclusive privilege to another, and such trespassing hackmen did not deny plaintiff's title to the property or claim any right of way over the same, the company was entitled to an injunction restraining the continuance of such trespasses, since resort to an action at law would occasion a multiplicity of suits, every trespass constituting a new cause of action.—Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Sullivan, 58 N.E. 689, 177 Mass. 230, 83 Am.S.R. 275.
Complaint held sufficient
(1) A complaint, alleging that defendant was trespassing daily on plaintiff railroad company's station, platform, and right of way to sell sandwiches and other foods to passengers on, or alighting from, its trains, in disregard of notices to keep off, thereby so annoying and harrassing plaintiff in the conduct of its business as to amount to a nuisance, that foods sold by him are wrapped in papers and thrown on the grounds, making it dangerous for passengers, and causing extra expense in keeping the grounds clean, that defendant is wholly insolvent, and that plaintiff has no men the same privileges and facilities at its depot on their paying the company a certain compensation.[1] However, the company has no power to exclude from its station grounds persons desiring to transact business with it as a common carrier,[2] and cannot unreasonably prohibit a passenger from having his carriage, whether owned by him or hired for the purpose, enter the station grounds to deposit, or to take away, him or his baggage, as explained infra § 576.

Ferry grounds. Although public patronage of busses as a means of reaching a ferry causes overcongestion of the ferry terminal grounds, the ferry company cannot, consistently with its public duty, exclude all busses from such grounds while admitting all other conveyances, public or private, although not protected by any contractual rights.[3]

§ 576. Exclusive Privileges

A common carrier of passengers, such as a railroad company, by the weight of authority, may grant to a particular person or company the exclusive privilege of using its premises to solicit the patronage of passengers, for the carriage of themselves or their baggage, so long as reasonable accommodations are afforded to the general public for going on and leaving the station premises.

By the weight of authority, even where a statute expressly requires railroad companies to give all persons equal facilities for the use of their depots, such a company, as owner of its stations and station grounds, has power to grant to individuals exclusive privileges to transact business of a particular kind with persons resorting to its stations,[4] such as the exclusive privilege of selling lunches, or of soliciting orders for the sale of lunches, to passengers,[5] or of entering on the cars or other vehicles to solicit the carriage of passengers or baggage,[6] since such a statute applies only to persons having contractual relations with the carrier, and does not forbid the granting of exclusive privileges to persons to solicit patronage within the depot and on the trains of a common carrier,[7] nor require it to allow all hack drivers alike to use its premises as a standing ground to solicit business at its depot when they have no contract with a passenger.[8]

A common carrier of passengers, such as a railroad or terminal company, may, in the absence of constitutional or statutory provisions to the contrary, grant to one person the exclusive right of coming on its cars and station grounds to solicit from passengers the carriage of themselves and their baggage from the station, and may exclude others from coming on the grounds for such soliciting, so long as reasonable accommodations are afforded to the public in general for reaching and leaving the station,[9] and provided such an arrangement is not unnecessary, unreasonable, or arbi-complete, adequate remedy at law, and brings the action to avoid a multiplicity of suits, is sufficient to authorize an injunction.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Hobbs, 13 S.W.2d 610, 178 Ark. 1146.

(2) A complaint for an injunction by a railroad company against one who has violated its rules in coming on its grounds to solicit business is sufficient where it alleges that the company has been damaged thereby, without setting out the evidence to show the elements of such damages, if facts are set forth which show that the damage might be great, on account of the obstruction of the company's business.—New York, etc., R. Co. v. Scovill, 41 A. 246, 71 Conn. 136, 71 Am.S.R. 159, 42 L.R.A. 157.

1. N.Y.—New York Cent., etc., R. Co. v. Sheeley, 27 N.Y.S. 185.
10 C.J. p 657 note 13.

2. Mass.—Old Colony R. Co. v. Tripp, 17 N.E. 89, 147 Mass. 35, 9 Am.S.R. 661.
Tenn.—Summitt v. State, 8 Lea 413, 41 Am.R. 637.
Vt.—Harris v. Stevens, 31 Vt. 79, 73 Am.D. 337.

3. N.J.—Philadelphia & Camden Ferry Co. v. Johnson, 121 A. 900, 94 N.J.Eq. 296.

4. Mass.—Old Colony R. Co. v. Tripp, 17 N.E. 89, 147 Mass. 35, 9 Am.S.R. 661.
10 C.J. p 657 note 18.

A terminal company, in the management and control of its property in matters unconnected with, and beyond the scope of, its duties as a common carrier and not affecting its duties as such, may, as an incident to its ownership, grant to some concessions which it denies to others, provided it acts in good faith and its actions in that respect are consistent with the proper performance of its duties as a common carrier.—State ex rel. Postal Telegraph Cable Co. v. Wells, 118 So. 731, 96 Fla. 591, 60 A.L.R. 1072.

Selling newspapers

Railroad can forbid vending of newspapers in its subway trains and stations by others than those having concessions to do so.—People v. Goldstein, 268 N.Y.S. 50, 150 Misc. 101.

5. Ga.—Fluker v. Georgia R., etc., Co., 8 S.E. 529, 81 Ga. 461, 12 Am.S.R. 328, 2 L.R.A. 843.

6. Ga.—Hart v. Atlanta Terminal Co., 58 S.E. 452, 128 Ga. 754.
Kan.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Kohler, 193 P. 323, 107 Kan. 673, rehearing denied 193 P. 899, 108 Kan. 6, 15 A.L.R. 333.
10 C.J. p 657 note 20.

7. Or.—Baggage & Omnibus Transfer Co. v. City of Portland, 164 P. 570, 84 Or. 343, L.R.A.1917F 1080.
10 C.J. p 657 note 21.

8. N.Y.—Brown v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 27 N.Y.S. 69, 75 Hun 355, appeal dismissed 46 N.E. 1145, 151 N.Y. 674.

9. U.S.—Black & White Taxicab & Transfer Co. v. Brown & Yellow Taxicab & Transfer Co., Ky., 48 S.Ct. 404, 276 U.S. 518, 72 L.Ed. 681, 57 A.L.R. 426, affirming, C.C.A., 15 F.2d 509, certiorari granted 47 S.Ct. 472, 273 U.S. 690, 71 L.Ed. 842.—Delaware, L. & W. R. Co. v. Town of Morristown, N. J., 48 S.Ct. 276, 276 U.S. 182, 72 L.Ed. 523, 56 A.L.R. 756, reversing, C.C.A., 14 F.2d 257, certiorari granted 47 S.Ct. 335, 273 U.S. 686, 71 L.Ed. 840.—Skaggs v. Kansas City Terminal Ry. Co., D.C.Mo., 233 F. 827.
Ala.—Wright v. City of Anniston, 154 So. 597, 26 Ala.App. 109, certiorari denied 154 So. 599, 228 Ala. 554.
Iowa.—Red Top Cab Co. v. McGlashing, 213 N.W. 791, 204 Iowa 791.
Kan.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Kohler, 193 P. 323, 107 Kan. 673, rehearing denied 193 P. 899, 108 Kan.

6, 15 A.L.R. 333—Mader v. City of Topeka, 189 P. 969, 106 Kan. 867, 15 A.L.R. 340.

Mo.—Red Top Taxicab Co. v. Terminal R. Ass'n of St. Louis, 15 S.W.2d 758, 322 Mo. 463—McFall v. Terminal R. Ass'n of St. Louis, Mo., 19 S.W.2d 1119—Columbia Cab Co. v. Terminal R. Ass'n of St. Louis, Mo., 19 S.W.2d 1118—Canary Taxicab Co. v. Terminal Ry. Ass'n of St. Louis, 294 S.W. 88, 316 Mo. 709.

N.J.—Thompson's Express & Storage Co. v. Mount, 111 A. 173, 91 N.J. Eq. 497, 15 A.L.R. 351.

Ohio.—Snyder v. Union Depot Co., 19 Ohio Cir.Ct. 368, 10 Ohio Cir. Dec. 645, reversing 9 Ohio S. & C. Pl.Dec. 63, 7 Ohio N.P. 64.

Or.—Baggage & Omnibus Transfer Co. v. City of Portland, 164 P. 570, 84 Or. 343, L.R.A.1917F 1080.

Pa.—Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. Graham, 64 Pa.Super. 437.

Utah.—Kenyon Hotel Co. v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., 220 P. 382, 62 Utah 364.

W.Va.—Rose v. Public Service Commission, 83 S.E. 85, 75 W.Va. 1, L.R.A.1915B 358, Ann.Cas.1918A 700.

10 C.J. p. 657 note 23.

This rule, stated in Corpus Juris

(1) Has received judicial approval as the majority rule.

Iowa.—Red Top Cab Co. v. McGlashing, 213 N.W. 791, 793, 204 Iowa 791.

Kan.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Kohler, 193 P. 323, 326, 107 Kan. 673, rehearing denied 193 P. 899, 108 Kan. 6, 15 A.L.R. 333.

(2) Is cited generally in State v. Jacksonville Terminal Co., Fla., 106 So. 576, 586.

"The decided weight of authority particularly reflected in the more recent and seemingly better reasoned decisions, including those of the Supreme Court of the United States, is to the effect that a railroad company, as long as it thereby affords reasonable accommodation to the public and violates no constitutional or statutory provision, may grant such exclusive privilege to one company or person."—Canary Taxicab Co. v. Terminal Ry. Ass'n of St. Louis, 294 S.W. 88, 90, 316 Mo. 709.

Reason for rule

"For all purposes, except as inimical to its public duties, the property of a railroad company is its own as fully and absolutely as is the property of private owners. . . . There is no reason why a railroad company should be denied the right to contract with whomsoever it chooses for the private use of its premises when such use will not conflict with the performance of its public duties. The utilization by carriers of all legitimate sources of income from the use of their property is a matter in which the public has an interest. Without doubt, the companies might have excluded all cabs from their premises. There is no discrimination against passengers, for all are admitted to the premises on equal terms from the same points, save that access to the platform opposite the cab stand and access from the platform to other cabs may be wholly or partly obstructed by plaintiff's cabs."—Red Top Cab Co. v. McGlashing, Iowa, 213 N.W. 791, 792.

"In the courts of the United States . . . the rule is . . . well settled that, when not unnecessary, unreasonable, or arbitrary, a railroad may make arrangements, including the granting of special privileges to a single concern, to supply passengers arriving at its terminals with hacks and cabs, and it is not bound, at least in the absence of state legislation requiring it to do so, to accord similar privileges to other persons, even though they be licensed hackmen"—Black & White Taxicab & Transfer Co. v. Brown & Yellow Taxicab & Transfer Co., C.C.A.Ky., 15 F.2d 509, 513, certiorari granted 47 S.Ct. 472, 273 U.S. 690, 71 L.Ed. 842, affirmed 48 S.Ct. 404, 276 U.S. 518, 72 L.Ed. 681, 57 A.L.R. 426

One of the leading, and one of the most instructive, cases respecting the duty of common carriers in this regard, is the case of Donovan v. Pennsylvania Co., Ill., 26 S.Ct. 91, 199 U.S. 279, 50 L.Ed. 192.—Kenyon Hotel Co. v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., 220 P. 382, 384, 62 Utah 364.

Injunction

(1) Where plaintiff transfer company had a contract with railway company not expiring until March 4, giving it exclusive right to solicit business on depot premises, a contract granting such right to defendant could not become effective until March 4, and on February 4 plaintiff was entitled to enjoin defendant temporarily from interfering with its business.—Kansas City S. & G. Terminal Co. v. Interurban Motor Transp. Co., 95 So. 258, 152 La. 1093.

(2) Where railroad company had granted taxicab company exclusive right to transport passengers' baggage, competitive company was properly enjoined from going within depot or on grounds for soliciting business.—Black & White Taxicab & Transfer Co. v. Brown & Yellow Taxicab & Transfer Co., C.C.A.Ky., 15 F.2d 509, certiorari granted 47 S.Ct. 472, 273 U.S. 690, 71 L.Ed. 842, affirmed 48 S.Ct. 404, 276 U.S. 518, 72 L.Ed. 681, 57 A.L.R. 426.

(3) In a suit to determine the railroad's right to grant exclusive rights, it was held that plaintiff cab company was only entitled to have the city's petition for intervention dismissed.—Red Top Cab Co. v. McGlashing, 213 N.W. 791, 204 Iowa 791.

(4) Where a terminal company owning a union depot and a transfer company, engaged in the business of transporting passengers and baggage for hire, sued a second transfer company to restrain it from soliciting business on the depot premises, the question whether the terminal company has granted the other plaintiff the right to occupy any part of the depot premises does not concern defendant, as the terminal company has primarily the right to control the premises, and such right in either plaintiff is fatal to defendant.—Kansas City, S. & G. Terminal Co. v. Interurban Motor Transp. Co., 95 So. 258, 152 La. 1093.

Ordinances

(1) An ordinance attempting to establish hack stands and provide other regulations relating thereto does not affect the right of a railroad company to grant exclusive privilege to one company to solicit transfer of passengers and baggage upon its own grounds where the city's authority under the statute could extend no further than to its streets and public ways and to regulations, if any necessary, tending to afford travelers with sufficient accommodation, there being no claim of any insufficiency in this case.—Clisbee v. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co., Tex.Civ.App., 230 S.W. 235, error refused.

(2) An ordinance of a city prohibiting railroads from granting exclusive privileges of handling baggage is invalid where such power is not vested in the city by its charter.—Baggage & Omnibus Transfer Co. v. City of Portland, 164 P. 570, 84 Or. 343, L.R.A.1917F 1080.

Police officers cannot interfere

In the absence of statutory authority a city cannot authorize police officers to interfere with an exclusive privilege granted by a railway company to a firm of cab and baggagemen to stand its vehicles on a portion of the property owned by the railway company, when the space so granted is not required for the necessary and convenient use of the public having business with the railway company.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Kohler, 193 F. 323, 107 Kan. 673, rehearing denied 193 P. 899, 108 Kan. 6, 15 A.L.R. 333.

Rental of portion of baggage room

A railroad company may rent a portion of its baggage room to another and concede to him the privileges necessarily incident to the use thereof, provided that by so doing it does not interfere with the exercise by any other person of any trary;[10] and this rule applies although the person to whom the exclusive privilege has been granted is not a duly licensed hackman, in accordance with a municipal ordinance.[11] This rule, however, does not prevent others from entering to deliver or receive passengers or baggage on an order or contract,[12] nor does it apply to portions of streets over which the company has no private right of ownership or exclusive control.[13]

This rule, giving a railroad company the right to grant such exclusive privileges, is subject only to regulation by the state in the interest of the public as to the service to be furnished,[14] and is not a monopoly in the odious sense of the word, and does not involve an improper use by the railroad company of its property;[15] nor is it invalid as against public policy or as an illegal discrimination.[16]

Minority rule. According to some authorities, however, a railroad company has no right to grant to one hackman the exclusive privilege of entering right which he may lawfully demand of the company as a common carrier.—Hart v. Atlanta Terminal Co, 58 S.E 452, 128 Ga. 754—10 C.J. p 657 note 23 [g]

Under charter powers

A railroad company may grant exclusive privileges at one of its stations to a transfer company where its charter empowers it to make all such regulations, rules, and by-laws as are necessary for the government of the corporation, or for effecting the object for which it was created, provided they are not repugnant to the laws and constitution of the United States—Black & White Taxicab & Transfer Co v Brown & Yellow Taxicab & Transfer Co, Ky., 48 S Ct. 404, 276 U.S 518, 72 L Ed 681, 57 A L.R. 426, affirming, C C A., 15 F.2d 509, certiorari granted 47 S. Ct 472, 273 U S. 690, 71 L Ed. 842

10. U.S.—Donovan v. Pennsylvania Co., Ill., 26 S.Ct 91, 199 U S. 279, 50 L.Ed. 192—Black & White Taxicab & Transfer Co. v. Brown & Yellow Taxicab & Transfer Co, C C.A Ky., 15 F.2d 509, certiorari granted 47 S Ct. 472, 273 U.S. 690, 71 L Ed. 842, affirmed 48 S.Ct. 404, 276 U.S. 518, 72 L Ed. 681, 57 A. L R. 426..

11. Mass.—Boston, etc, R Co. v Sullivan, 58 N.E 689, 177 Mass 230, 83 Am.S R. 275.
10 C.J p 658 note 24.

12. U.S.—Black & White Taxicab & Transfer Co. v. Brown & Yellow Taxicab & Transfer Co, Ky., 48 S Ct. 404, 276 U S. 518, 72 L Ed 681, 57 A L.R 426, affirming. C C A, 15 F 2d 509, certiorari granted 47 S Ct 472, 273 U.S. 690, 71 L Ed 842
Tex.—Clisbee v Chicago, R. I. & G Ry. Co, Civ.App., 230 S.W. 235, error refused.
10 C.J. p 658 note 25.

13. Ark.—Austeel v Bridges, 31 S. W.2d 958, 182 Ark. 518.

Under an ordinance providing for the closing of portions of certain streets and granting such portions to a railroad for a depot and other railroad purposes, the railroad company acquires no private right of ownership and no exclusive control over the streets which could be farmed out to taxicab companies even if permissible under the law to make an exclusive contract with respect thereto—Austeel v Bridges, 31 S W.2d 958, 182 Ark. 518.

Vacated alley

A taxi company and a city have no property rights in a cab stand located in a vacated alley, and leased by a railroad company to a rival company, where an ordinance conveyed the alley to the railroad and it has complied with the provisions of the conveyance—Red Top Cab Co. v McGlashing, 213 N W. 791, 204 Iowa 791.

14. Utah—Oregon Short Line R. Co. v Davidson, 94 P. 10, 33 Utah 370, 16 L R.A,N S., 777, 14 Ann Cas. 489

Constitutional restriction

(1) A constitutional provision that no railroad company shall make any exclusive or preferential arrangement for the conduct of any business as a common carrier does not prevent its granting exclusive privileges to a transfer company at its stations—Black & White Taxicab & Transfer Co v Brown & Yellow Taxicab & Transfer Co., Ky., 48 S Ct. 404, 276 U.S 518, 72 L.Ed 681, 57 A L.R. 426, affirming, C.C.A., 15 F 2d 509, certiorari granted 47 S Ct 472, 273 U.S 690, 71 L Ed. 842.

(2) A constitutional provision prohibiting passing of laws granting exclusive privileges does not prohibit carrier's power to grant exclusive rights to a transfer company, since it applies only to the enactment of laws.—Baggage & Omnibus Transfer Co. v. City of Portland, 164 P. 570, 84 Or. 343, L R.A.1917F 1080.

Police power

The advantage gained by granting exclusive privileges to a transfer company to solicit passenger's baggage is subordinate to a reasonable exercise of police power—Baggage & Omnibus Transfer Co. v. City of Portland, 164 P. 570, 84 Or. 343, L. R.A 1917F 1080.

15. U.S.—Donovan v. Pennsylvania Co., Ill, 26 S.Ct. 91, 199 U.S 279, 50 L Ed. 192—Black & White Taxicab & Transfer Co v. Brown & Yellow Taxicab & Transfer Co, C C A Ky, 15 F 2d 509, 513, certiorari granted 47 S Ct. 472, 273 U S 690, 71 L.Ed. 842, affirmed 48 S Ct. 404, 276 U.S 518, 72 L Ed 681, 57 A.L R. 426
N J.—Thompson's Express & Storage Co v. Whitemore, 102 A. 692, 88 N J Eq. 535
Tex.—Clisbee v Chicago, R. I & G. Ry. Co, Civ App., 230 S W 235.

16. U S.—Black & White Taxicab & Transfer Co. v. Brown & Yellow Taxicab & Transfer Co, Ky., 48 S. Ct. 404, 276 U.S 518, 72 L Ed 681, 57 A L R 426, affirming, C.C. A, 15 F 2d 509 certiorari granted 47 S.Ct. 472, 273 U S 690, 71 L.Ed. 842
Mo.—Canary Taxicab Co. v Terminal Ry Ass'n of St. Louis, 294 S W 88 316 Mo 709, distinguishing Kansas City Terminal Ry. Co v. James, 251 S W 53, 298 Mo 497, and Cravens v. Rodgers, 14 S.W. 106, 101 Mo. 247.

A railroad company leasing space in its station building and midway for the exclusive use of a taxicab company, and instructing its servants to escort passengers desiring taxicabs to the cab stand of such company, and permitting only such company to solicit business on the railroad property, is not guilty of unlawful discrimination—Red Top Taxicab Co. v. Terminal R. Ass'n of St Louis, 15 S W 2d 758, 322 Mo. 463—McFall v Terminal R. Ass'n of St Louis, Mo., 19 S W.2d 1119—Columbia Cab Co v. Terminal R. Ass'n of St Louis, Mo, 19 S W.2d 1118.

Under Public Utilities Act

Entering into a contract with a railroad company, whereby exclusive right to solicit orders for baggage delivery, hack, taxicab, and omnibus service is given to one engaged in such business, is not unjust discrimination within the prohibition of Public Utilities Act, which refers only to what a public utility is under a legal obligation to do, a railroad not being under any obligation to permit any man in such business to solicit on its platforms at stations—Thompson's Express & Storage Co. v Mount, 111 A. 173, 91 N. J Eq. 497, 15 A.L.R. 351.

its grounds to solicit the carriage of passengers or baggage to the exclusion of others,[17] on the ground that it would create a monopoly, prevent competition, and inconvenience the public,[18] and as being against a constitutional or statutory provision requiring all railroad companies to grant equal facilities for the transportation of passengers and freight to all persons.[19]

A railroad company owning or operating a dock or wharf in connection with its depot grounds cannot grant the exclusive privilege of receiving and discharging passengers thereat to one steamboat company to the exclusion of all others.[20]

§ 577. Designating Places for Hacks to Stand

A railroad company may designate the places on its premises where vehicles may stand to receive or discharge passengers and baggage.

Even though a carrier has no power to grant an exclusive privilege to one hack or omnibus line to occupy the depot grounds with its vehicles and solicit the patronage of incoming passengers, it has power to designate the place abutting on the platform where the owners of competing lines shall stand their respective vehicles, while awaiting the arrival and departure of trains, and where they shall receive and discharge passengers and baggage; and it may remove one who willfully disobeys such a regulation, using as much force as may be necessary.[21]

E. FARES, TICKETS, AND SPECIAL CONTRACTS

1. Fares

§ 578. Definitions

Fare is the price of passage or the sum paid or to be paid the carrier for transporting a passenger. A ticket becomes a fare when it is accepted by the conductor.

Fare is the price of passage or the sum paid or to be paid the carrier for transporting a passenger.[22] When a ticket is accepted by the conductor, it becomes a fare, but not before.[23]

"Rate of fare," when used in dealing with the question of transportation by a carrier, means the price or charge for the transportation of passengers.[24] In a transportation franchise, it is the measure of the consideration moving to the carrier for its service rendered.[25]

Rate. As used in a statute requiring railroads to carry passengers on its road "at a rate not ex-

17. Pa.—Commonwealth v. Grau, 16 Pa Dist. 806
10 C.J. p 659 note 26.

Under Kentucky law, railroad company cannot grant to one person, to exclusion of all others, right to come on depot ground with vehicles for receiving passengers.—Black & White Taxicab & Transfer Co. v. Brown & Yellow Taxicab & Transfer Co., C.C.A.Ky., 15 F.2d 509, certiorari granted 47 S.Ct. 472, 273 U.S. 690, 71 L.Ed. 842, affirmed 48 S.Ct. 404, 276 U.S. 518, 72 L.Ed. 681, 57 A.L.R. 426.

18. Ill.—Pennsylvania Co. v. Chicago, 54 N.E. 825, 181 Ill. 289, 53 L.R.A. 223.
10 C.J. p 659 note 27.

19. Mich.—Kalamazoo Hack, etc., Co. v. Sootsma, 47 N.W. 667, 84 Mich. 194, 22 Am.S.R. 693, 10 L.R.A. 819.
Mont.—Montana Union R. Co. v. Langlois, 24 P. 209, 9 Mont. 419, 18 Am.S.R. 745, 8 L.R.A. 753

20. Fla.—Indian River Steamboat Co. v. East Coast Transp. Co., 10 So. 460, 28 Fla. 337, 29 Am.S.R. 258
Idaho.—Cœur d'Alene, etc., Transp. Co. v. Ferrell, 128 P. 565, 22 Idaho 752, 43 L.R.A.,N.S., 965.
10 C.J. p 659 note 29.

21. Mich.—Cole v. Rowen, 50 N.W. 138, 88 Mich. 219, 13 L.R.A. 848.
10 C.J. p 659 notes 30, 31.
Failure or refusal to comply with regulations as ground for ejection in general see infra § 819
Municipal regulation designating stands at railroad station see C.J.S. title Municipal Corporations § 266.

22. N.Y.—Chase v. New York Cent. R. Co., 26 N.Y. 523.
N.C.—McNeal Pipe, etc., Co. v. Howland, 16 S.E. 857, 111 N.C. 615, 20 L.R.A. 743
Pa.—Philadelphia v. Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co. 77 A. 501, 228 Pa. 325, 21 Ann.Cas. 87.
10 C.J. p 660 note 37.
Payment of fare as creating relation of carrier and passenger see supra § 559.

Commutation of fares
(1) The selling of a ticket for a term at a less price than the aggregate of daily fares for the term is a commutation of fares.—Abbott L.D.
(2) Commutation tickets see infra § 603.

Term relates to passengers
In common acceptance, when used in relation to common carriers, the term relates to passengers and not to freight.—De Grauw v. Long Island Electric R. Co., 60 N.Y.S. 163, 43 App.Div. 502, affirmed 57 N.E. 1108, 163 N.Y. 597

23. N.J.—Shelton v. Erie R. Co., 66 A. 403, 73 N.J.Law 558, 118 Am.S.R. 704, 9 L.R.A.,N.S., 727, 9 Ann.Cas. 883.
Tickets generally see infra §§ 597–621.

24. Pa.—Philadelphia v. Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co., 77 A. 501, 228 Pa. 325, 21 Ann.Cas. 87.
10 C.J. p 660 note 38.

Particular charge held not rate of fare
"A total charge of 25 cents for 6 rides is not a rate of fare either in the etymological or legal sense."—Philadelphia v. Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co., 77 A. 501, 502, 228 Pa. 325, 21 Ann.Cas. 87.

25. Ohio.—Parks v. Cleveland Ry. Co., 177 N.E. 28, 124 Ohio St. 79, affirming 176 N.E. 472, 38 Ohio App. 315.

ceeding two cents per mile," the word "rate" means price, amount.[26] A free pass, issued to an employee or a member of his family, is not included in the word "rates" as used in a statute requiring the filing of rate schedules and charges and regulations.[27]

A joint rate is a rate prescribed to be charged for the transportation of passengers over the connecting lines of two or more railroads, and to be divided among them for the service rendered by each respectively.[28]

§ 579. Right to Require Fare

Authority to carry passengers implies authority to charge a reasonable sum therefor, and on proper demand the passenger must make payment or produce a ticket showing payment, since the carrier cannot generally be required to carry passengers free.

Authority conferred upon a corporation to carry passengers implies authority to charge a reasonable sum for the service rendered,[29] and ordinarily it cannot be required to carry passengers without reward,[30] even though the railroad is regarded as a public highway.[31] Looking at the relation of carrier and passenger as arising out of contract, it is evident, as already pointed out in §§ 549-551, that a person may be a passenger without payment, if accepted as such by the carrier; nevertheless, to give rise to any contractual relation, consideration on the part of the passenger is essential;[32] and on demand of the conductor or other agent or servant properly empowered for the purpose, the passenger is under obligation to make payment, or to produce a ticket showing payment.[33] Where a passenger, shortly after boarding a car and paying his fare, leaves the car and boards another car attached thereto, he becomes a new passenger and liable for another fare.[34]

§ 580. Rate or Amount of Fare

a. In general
b. Factors involved in determination of reasonable rate

a. In General

A carrier is entitled to charge reasonable rates which will yield a compensatory return, but no more.

As already stated in § 579, a carrier has a right to be compensated for the transportation of passengers. It is entitled at all times to charge reasonable rates for the service furnished, that is, such rates as will produce a reasonable net income on the fair value of its property after deduction for depreciation and necessary expenses incident to operation.[35] A railroad is not prevented from seeking such compensatory rates by the fact that it has violated particular provisions of the franchise agreement under which it operates,[36] nor is it precluded from earning a fair rate of return by the fact that it also independently operates bus lines which are in partial competition with its railway lines.[37] On the other hand, regardless of its financial condition, a railroad company is not entitled to charge passenger fares yielding more than a fair return on the value of its property devoted to public use.[38]

b. Factors Involved in Determination of Reasonable Rate

(1) In general
(2) Value of property; rate base

26. N.Y.—Chase v. New York Cent. R. Co., 26 N.Y. 523.

27. Ind.—Clark v. Southern R. Co., 119 N.E. 539, 69 Ind.App. 697.

28. Ga.—Hill v. Wadley Southern Ry. Co., 57 S.E. 795, 128 Ga. 705.

29. U.S.—Stone v. Farmers' L. & T. Co., Miss., 6 S.Ct 334, 388, 1191, 116 U.S. 307, 29 L.Ed. 636.
10 C.J. p 677 note 56.
Part of franchise
The right to charge fares by a street railway company is a part of the franchise to use the streets. —Long v. City of Shreveport, 91 So. 825, 151 La. 423.

30. Ind.—Indianapolis v. Navin, 47 N.E. 525, 51 N.E. 80, 151 Ind 139, 41 L.R.A. 337.
Requiring certain officials to be carried free see infra § 582

31. Mo.—Farber v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 22 S.W. 631, 116 Mo. 81, 20 L.R.A. 350.
10 C.J. p 677 note 58.

32. N.C.—Turner v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 70 N.C. 1.
10 C.J. p 678 note 60.

33. Conn.—Norton v. Consolidated R. Co., 63 A. 1087, 79 Conn 109, 118 Am.S.R. 132, 6 Ann.Cas. 943.
N.J.—Jersey City, etc., R. Co. v. Morgan, 18 A. 904, 52 N.J.Law 60, affirmed 21 A. 783, 52 N.J.Law 558.
S.C.—Cave v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 77 S.E. 1017, 94 S.C. 282, L.R.A.1915B 915, Ann.Cas.1915A 1065.
Mistake of conductor as to right to transportation see infra § 818.
Refusal to produce ticket as terminating relation of passenger and carrier see supra § 563.

34. N.Y.—Tasker v. Third Ave. R. Co., 57 N.Y.S. 395, 27 Misc. 824.

35. Mass.—Donham v. Public Service Commission, 122 N.E. 397, 232 Mass. 309.
Pa.—City of Philadelphia v. Public Service Commission, 83 Pa.Super. 8.
Wis.—Milwaukee Electric Ry. & Light Co. v. Railroad Commission of Wisconsin, 172 N.W. 746, 169 Wis. 421.

36. Mo.—State ex rel. Kansas City Public Service Co. v. Latshaw, 30 S.W.2d 105, 325 Mo. 909, appeal dismissed Latshaw v. State of Missouri ex rel. Kansas City Public Service Co., 51 S.Ct. 101, 282 U.S. 806, 75 L.Ed. 723.

37. U.S.—International Ry. Co. v. Prendergast, D.C.N.Y., 1 F.Supp. 623.
Promotion of public convenience
Special master's finding in rate case that bus service established by street railway company through subsidiary promoted public convenience and that it did not seriously affect the competition of car lines was held sustained by evidence.—International Ry. Co. v. Prendergast, D.C.N.Y., 1 F.Supp. 623.

38. N.Y.—Yonkers R. Co. v. Maltbie, 296 N.Y.S. 411, 251 App.Div. 204.

(1) In General

A carrier is entitled to an adequate return on the fair value of its property, and in computing such return consideration must be given to the cost of maintenance, general expenses, and depreciation. Whether rates are reasonable should be generally determined by their effect on the net earnings of the company from passenger traffic throughout the entire system within the jurisdiction.

The factors involved in determination of a reasonable rate for the carrying of passengers are, in general, the same as those involved in fixing freight rates, and such general rules have already been considered in §§ 282–299. Cases involving passenger rates specifically will be hereinafter considered in this and the sections immediately following.

Passenger carriers, like other public service corporations, are entitled to an adequate return on the actual investment,[39] or, as it has been said, on the fair value of its property devoted to public use,[40] or, at least, a return sufficient to pay operating expenses.[41] What is an adequate rate of return depends greatly on the circumstances, the locality, the amount of risk involved, and the rate expected and realized in such locality on investments of a similar nature.[42] The company is not entitled to exact such rates as will enable it at all times not only to pay operating expenses, but also to meet the interest regularly accruing on all of its outstanding obligations and justify a dividend on all of its stock.[43] Further, if the rate established will yield a reasonable return to the carrier at present, it cannot be said to be confiscatory because it fails to yield in addition an amount for the purpose of recouping prior losses.[44]

In determining the reasonableness of rates, the cost of maintenance, upkeep, and general expenses must be considered as well as the actual cost of transportation.[45] The interest paid by a street railway company on its bonds may be included in computing the cost of carrying each passenger although the company has ceased to operate cars over a portion of the lines mortgaged to secure the bonds.[46] A railroad company may also properly charge its returns with an annual sum to provide for depreciation and replacement,[47] but it cannot 39. Mass.—Donham v. Public Service Commission, 122 N.E. 397, 232 Mass. 309.

10 C.J. p 665 note 17.

Reduced passenger rate which in a typical year, on experiment, yields a revenue equal to that produced by a former higher rate in a year of exceptional prosperity is not unreasonable.—Central of Georgia R. Co v. Alabama R. Commn., D.C.Ala., 209 F. 75.

40. U.S.—Los Angeles Ry. Corporation v. Railroad Commission of California, D.C.Cal., 29 F.2d 140, affirmed Railroad Commission of California v. Los Angeles Ry. Corporation, 50 S.Ct. 71, 280 U.S. 145, 74 L.Ed. 234
N.Y.—Yonkers R. Co. v. Maltbie, 274 N.Y.S. 535, 242 App.Div. 319, motion granted 195 N.E. 191, 266 N.Y. 542.
Wis.—Milwaukee Electric Ry. & Light Co. v. Railroad Commission of Wisconsin, 172 N.W. 746, 169 Wis. 421.
Determination of value of property see infra this section subdivision (2).

41. U.S.—Bellamy v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., Ark., 215 F. 18, 131 C.C.A. 326, L.R.A.1915A 1 and note
10 C.J. p 666 note 19.

42. N.Y.—Yonkers R. Co. v. Maltbie, 296 N.Y.S. 411, 251 App.Div. 204.
10 C.J. p 665 note 17 [b] (2)

Rate of seven and one-half per cent is a fair return.—Milwaukee Electric Ry. & Light Co. v. Railroad Commission of Wisconsin, 172 N.W. 746, 169 Wis. 421.

Return of over six per cent is not confiscatory, in the absence of evidence to the contray.—Yonkers R. Co. v. Maltbie, 296 N.Y.S. 411, 251 App.Div. 204

Return of four and nine-tenths per cent held confiscatory
U.S.—Los Angeles Ry. Corporation v. Railroad Commission of California, D.C.Cal., 29 F.2d 140, affirmed Railroad Commission of California v. Los Angeles Ry. Corporation, 50 S.Ct. 71, 280 U.S. 145, 74 L.Ed. 234

43. U.S.—Smyth v. Ames, Neb., 18 S.Ct. 418, 169 U.S. 466, 42 L.Ed. 819, modified on other grounds 18 S.Ct. 888, 171 U.S. 361, 43 L.Ed. 197.
Ill.—Chicago Union Tract. Co. v. Chicago, 65 N.E. 470, 199 Ill. 579.

44. U.S.—South, etc., Alabama R. Co. v. Alabama R. Commn., D.C. Ala., 210 F. 465.

45. N.Y.—Peo. v. Public Service Commn., 145 N.Y.S. 503, 159 App. Div. 531, affirmed 109 N.E. 1089, 215 N.Y. 689.
Wash.—Puget Sound Electric R. Co. v. State R. Commn., 117 P. 739, 65 Wash. 75, Ann.Cas.1913B 763

46. U.S.—Belt Line Ry. Corporation v. Newton, D.C.N.Y., 273 F. 272

47. U.S.—Chicago Rys. Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission, D.C. Ill., 277 F. 970
N.Y.—Yonkers R. Co. v. Maltbie, 274 N.Y.S. 535, 242 App.Div. 319, motion granted 195 N.E. 191, 266 N.Y. 542.
10 C.J. p 666 note 23

Purpose of permitting depreciation charge in determining value of street railroad company's property as rate base is to compensate utility for property consumed in service, and duty of public service commission, guided by experience in rate making, is to spread such charge fairly over years of life of property.—Yonkers R. Co. v. Maltbie, 296 N.Y.S. 411, 251 App.Div. 204

"Straight line" method of computation
(1) The public service commission did not err in figuring accrued and annual depreciation of street railroad company's property by "straight line" method to fix value thereof for rate-making purposes.—Yonkers R. Co. v. Maltbie, 296 N.Y.S. 411, 251 App.Div. 204.

(2) "Straight line" method as based on accrual of depreciation at a uniform rate over the entire period of the probable life of the property, see C.J.S. title Public Utilities § 18, also 51 C.J. p. 19 notes 29–30, and Straight, 60 C.J. p 131 notes 73–78.

Straight percentage of value
Choosing by special master of some straight percentage of value of physical property was an incorrect method of assigning value to depreciation in street railway rate case, particularly where there was estimate of depreciation on the several units referred to in accounts in evidence.—International Ry. Co. v. Prendergast, D.C.N.Y., 1 F.Supp. 623.

Property right
Where ordinances authorize and require street railroad companies operating thereunder to set aside each year a certain percentage of gross receipts for renewals, and provide that at the end of the grant to the charge to the income of one year the burdens of the deterioration of past years.[48] Depreciation should be based on the present value of the railroad's property and not the cost value.[49] The expense of bus operations may be properly considered in determining the rates of a street railroad company where the value of the property as a rate base included the property devoted to bus operations.[50]

Comparison with other rates. A rate voluntarily established by the company, in common with practically all other companies doing business in that part of the country, and maintained for many years, may be used as a basis for comparison in determining the reasonableness of a rate of passenger fare.[51] So, it has been said that there can be no better evidence of the reasonableness of a street railroad rate than its general adoption in franchises granted by other municipalities, over a long succession of years, with acquiescence by the public without question.[52] A commission, however, is not required to adopt the rate between two designated points, fixed by interurban franchise, as the basis for determination of the reasonableness of rates between other points;[53] nor will a rate established by it be held unreasonable on the ground that it exceeds the sum of fares between intermediate points fixed by independent franchise contracts.[54]

Earnings from other lines. Generally, whether or not particular rates are fair and reasonable must be determined by the effect on the net earnings throughout the whole line within the jurisdiction, and not on any particular division,[55] notwithstanding it was formerly an independent line.[56] It has been held, however, that subways and elevated roads operated by the same company under different leases and under distinct financial arrangements do not necessarily constitute a unified system for rate-making purposes,[57] and, where only the street companies the city may purchase the properties at the valuation fixed by the ordinances, or, if it grants the right to other companies to operate the railways, such other companies should take over the properties at the same price, the state commerce commission, in proceedings to determine fares, has no power to prevent the setting aside of funds representing a depreciation sufficient to take care of necessary renewals, since, if such fund should not be on hand at the expiration of the grant, an abatement of the contract price could be secured, and the right to set aside the fund is a property right, which cannot be taken away by the state without the consent of the company—Chicago Rys. Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission, D.C.Ill., 277 F. 970

48. Wash.—Puget Sound Electric R. Co. v. State R. Commn., 117 P. 739, 65 Wash. 75, Ann.Cas.1913B 763.

49. N.Y.—Yonkers R. Co. v. Maltbie 274 N.Y.S. 535, 242 App.Div. 319, motion granted 195 N.E. 191, 266 N.Y. 542.

50. U.S.—Los Angeles Ry. Corporation v. Railroad Commission of California, D.C.Cal., 29 F.2d 140, affirmed Railroad Commission of California v. Los Angeles Ry. Corporation, 50 S.Ct. 71, 280 U.S. 145, 74 L.Ed. 234.

51. U.S.—South, etc., Alabama R. Co. v. Alabama R. Commn., D.C.Ala., 210 F. 465.

52. N.J.—O'Brien v. Board of Public Utility Com'rs, 105 A. 132, 92 N.J.Law 44, affirmed 106 A. 414, 92 N.J.Law 587.

53. Ohio.—Stark County v. Public Utilities Commission, 131 N.E. 157, 102 Ohio St. 124.

54. Ohio.—Stark County v. Public Utilities Commission, supra.

Reason for rule

"Fares fixed by franchise between intermediate points may be either too high or too low to yield an adequate return and cannot of themselves be taken as a basis for determining the reasonableness of a through rate not so fixed"—Stark County v. Public Utilities Commission, 131 N.E. 157, 158, 102 Ohio St. 124.

55. U.S.—Groesbeck v. Duluth, S. S. & A. Ry Co., Mich., 40 S.Ct. 38, 250 U.S. 607, 63 L.Ed. 1167.
Mass.—City of Fall River v. Public Service Commission, 117 N.E. 915, 228 Mass. 575.
Wis.—City of Milwaukee v. Railroad Commission, 240 N.W. 165, 206 Wis. 339.
10 C.J. p 666 note 25.

Division for convenience of interstate traffic

In determining, at a railroad's suit, whether a state statute fixing rates for intra-state passenger traffic is confiscatory, a division of the railroad built, not in a desire to serve local needs, but to establish a through line traversing sparsely settled country between two points, for the convenience largely of interstate traffic, cannot be excluded from the calculation, where the state statute has clearly applied the doctrine of averages to the problem of rates.—Groesbeck v. Duluth, S. S. & A. Ry. Co., Mich., 40 S.Ct. 38, 250 U.S. 607, 63 L.Ed. 1167.

Operation of trains over another road

The results of operating through passenger trains over another railroad to an important point lying only fourteen miles from the lines of the first will not be excluded from the calculation of whether rates are reasonable—Groesbeck v. Duluth, S. S. & A. Ry. Co., Mich., 40 S.Ct. 38, 250 U.S. 607, 63 L.Ed. 1167.

Urban and suburban lines

Where railroad operated street railways and suburban railways as one system, the reasonableness of rates fixed by the railroad commission as to operation of suburban line is not affected by the fact that such line will be operated at a loss under the rates so fixed, the test of reasonableness being the effect on the system as a whole.—City of Milwaukee v. Railroad Commission, 240 N.W. 165, 206 Wis. 339—Milwaukee Electric Ry. & Light Co. v. Railroad Commission of Wisconsin, 177 N.W. 25, 171 Wis. 297.

56. U.S.—Groesbeck v. Duluth, S. S. & A. Ry. Co., Mich., 40 S.Ct. 38, 250 U.S. 607, 63 L.Ed. 1167.
10 C.J. p 666 note 26
Effect of consolidation of several roads in determining reasonableness see generally supra § 297.

Line purchased to avoid competition

A line of the railroad originally built by a competitor, paralleling the railroad's main line and purchased by the railroad's predecessor to avoid competition, now used mainly for heavy freight, the intra-state passenger travel over it being slight, is not to be excluded from the calculation of whether the rate fixed by the statute is confiscatory on any ground that its construction was not required by transportation needs.—Groesbeck v. Duluth, S. S. & A. Ry. Co., Mich., 40 S.Ct. 38, 250 U.S. 607, 63 L.Ed. 1167.

57. U.S.—Gilchrist v. Interborough Rapid Transit Co., N.Y., 49 S.Ct. 282, 278 U.S. 159, 73 L.Ed. 652, reversing D.C., Interborough Rapid railroad fares to be charged within a certain city are in controversy, a city system of street railroads may be treated as a separate operating unit, apart from other suburban and interurban lines and international bridges also operated by the same company.[58]

Earnings from other business. According to some decisions, in determining the reasonableness of a particular passenger rate, the entire net revenue of the railroad must be looked to, from whatever source derived, whether from passengers, freight, express, or from investments held by the company.[59] By other authority although the reasonableness of a single rate or partial schedule as well as the sufficiency in the aggregate of the return on the carrier's intra-state business should be considered in determining whether the intra-state business will yield a fair return on the value of the property devoted to such business,[60] it is held, in determining whether the rate for specific passenger service is reasonable, that the entire net revenue of the road, from whatever character of service derived, is not to be looked to, since the specific service regulation must have its charges so fixed as to return to the road a normal profit on such specific branch of the service by itself;[61] the regulation of the specific service must be such as to bring a proper return to the railroad company for such service, independently of the return to it from other services,[62] and if the yield to the carrier from intra-state passenger earnings under a specific rate is sufficiently reasonable in amount to remunerate it for the service performed thereunder, confiscation cannot result from such a rate, even though the entire earnings derived from intra-state business, both freight and passenger, are unremunerative.[63] The remedy for such a situation is the adjustment of freight rates, and not the disturbance of the passenger rates.[64] However, in determining whether a passenger rate is confiscatory, the passenger service, including sleeping car, parlor car, and dining car facilities, must be treated as a whole, and not as separate operations to be charged with their proportion of specific and general expenses, and to be credited only with amounts received from charges for their specific service.[65]

Interstate and intra-state business. The reasonableness of an intra-state rate must be determined from the intra-state business alone, and the interstate business should not be considered,[66] except that the amount of interstate fares earned by that portion of the railroad lying within the state may be included in the computation.[67]

(2) Value of Property; Rate Base

Although no one factor involved in determining the value of property is conclusive, among the principal proper elements to be considered are original cost of construction, expenditures for permanent improvements, the amount and value of the company's bonds and stock, and reproduction cost.

All relevant factors must be taken into account in determining the fair value of the railroad company's property, for the purpose of rate-making.[68] Among the principal proper elements to be considered are original cost of construction, the amount expended in permanent improvements, the amount and market value of the company's bonds and stock, the present, as compared with the original, cost of construction, the probable earning capacity of the property under particular rates, and the sum required to meet operating expenses.[69] The estimat-

Transit Co. v. Gilchrist, 26 F.2d 912.

58. U.S.—International Ry. Co. v. Prendergast, D.C.N.Y., 1 F.Supp. 623.

Railway line, of relatively inconsequential value, serving industrial plants just outside corporate limits of Buffalo and connected with Buffalo system may, however, be properly included in such system where street railway fares to be charged in Buffalo were in controversy.—International Ry. Co. v. Prendergast, D.C.N.Y., 1 F.Supp. 623.

59. Ark.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Smith, 29 S.W. 752, 60 Ark. 221.
Fla.—Pensacola, etc., R. Co. v. State, 5 So. 833, 25 Fla. 310, 3 L.R.A. 661.

60. U.S.—South, etc., Alabama R. Co. v. Alabama R. Commn., D.C. Ala., 210 F. 465—Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Alabama R. Commn., D.C.Ala., 209 F. 75.
10 C.J. p. 666 note 29.

61. U.S.—Norfolk, etc., R. Co. v. Conley, W.Va., 35 S.Ct. 437, 236 U.S. 605, 59 L.Ed. 745.
10 C.J. p. 666 note 30.

62. Md.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Towers, 94 A. 330, 126 Md. 59.

63. U.S.—South, etc., Alabama R. Co. v. Alabama R. Commn., D.C. Ala., 210 F. 465.
10 C.J. p. 666 note 30 [b].

64. U.S.—South, etc., Alabama R. Co. v. Alabama R. Commn., supra

Unreasonably low freight rates

A deficiency in intra-state earnings due to unreasonably low freight rates should be overcome by raising freight rates until they afford a reasonable return, and not by raising already reasonable passenger rates to accomplish that end.—South, etc., Alabama R. Commn. v. Alabama R. Commn., D.C.Ala., 210 F. 465.

65. U.S.—Groesbeck v. Duluth, S. S. & A. Ry. Co., Mich., 40 S.Ct. 38, 250 U.S. 607, 63 L.Ed. 1167.

Main use in interstate travel

The fact that these added facilities are used mainly by interstate travelers is immaterial.—Groesbeck v. Duluth, S. S. & A. Ry. Co., Mich., 40 S.Ct. 38, 250 U.S. 607, 63 L.Ed. 1167.

66. U.S.—Smyth v. Ames, Neb., 18 S.Ct. 418, 169 U.S. 466, 42 L.Ed. 819, modified on other grounds 18 S.Ct. 888, 171 U.S. 361, 43 L.Ed. 197.
10 C.J. p. 667 note 35.

67. U.S.—Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Alabama R. Commn., D.C.Ala., 209 F. 75
Mich.—State R. Commn. v. Wabash R. Co., 85 N.W. 466, 126 Mich. 113

68. Mo.—State ex rel. and to Use of City of St. Louis v. Public Service Commission, 34 S.W.2d 507, 326 Mo. 751.
N.Y.—Yonkers R. Co. v. Maltbie, 296 N.Y.S. 411, 251 App.Div. 204.

69. U.S.—Los Angeles Ry. Corporation v. Railroad Commission of ed original cost or the assumed historical cost of the carrier's property cannot be made the sole basis for the determination of the rate base, where the greatest portion of the property was built or acquired before a general rise in prices.[70] It has been said that, ordinarily, the reproduction cost new, less depreciation, is the dominant factor in determining the value of the property, and that this of necessity must be the rule, where there are no other sufficient data on the subject.[71] A commission cannot ignore the item of reproduction cost in fixing the rate base, on the theory that if the property was not already in existence, it would not be reproduced, since the only question in issue is whether the company is receiving a fair return on property devoted to public use.[72] However, in an appraisal of property value, the application of the reproduction cost according to the general rules and principles of valuation is not a sole criterion and is not conclusive; due weight must be given to elements of valuation used generally in rate-making cases, to arrive at a fair and not excessive valuation.[73] A commission is not bound to allow as the base the amounts paid by the railroad in purchasing separate systems of which its system was composed, since such amounts do not necessarily represent fair or actual values.[74] The commission must allow a reasonable amount for going concern value, and it cannot exclude such item on the theory that street railways were generally losing ground and being replaced by busses;[75] but where the element of going value is inextricably interwoven with other elements of value in the rate base so that there is adequate allowance therefor, a separate specific item for such value need not be made.[76] It has been said, that the value of street railway franchises may not be properly included in rate base valuation;[77] nor can the value of a railway company's perpetual easements in the city streets be included.[78] A commission cannot eliminate working capital from the rate base on the theory that the company's money was all cash and that it would be on hand to meet obligations before they were incurred;[79] but an allowance for working cash capital to cover payments of accident claims need not be made if it is shown that the company's daily receipts are sufficient to cover such claims and that all accident expenses are charged to operating expenses.[80] Where the railway operates cars leased from another company, the value of such cars may properly be included in the rate base if the rental is excluded from the operating expenses.[81]

Interstate and intra-state property. Values cannot be apportioned as between interstate and intrastate business and freight and passenger business on a gross revenue basis, nor can a carrier be permitted to charge for more costly equipment, roadbed, track, and structures constituting a part of an interstate route than would be justified for the conduct of intra-state business.[82] It has been held,

California, D.C.Cal., 29 F.2d 140, affirmed Railroad Commission of California v. Los Angeles Ry. Corporation, 50 S.Ct. 71, 280 U.S. 145, 74 L.Ed. 234.

70. N.Y.—Yonkers R. Co. v. Maltbie, 274 N.Y.S. 535, 242 App.Div. 319, motion granted 195 N.E. 191, 266 N.Y. 542.

71. U.S.—Westinghouse Electric & Mfg. Co. v. Denver Tramway Co., D.C.Colo., 3 F.2d 285, appeal transferred City and County of Denver v. Stenger, 47 S.Ct. 343, 273 U.S. 657, 71 L.Ed. 826.

Depreciation must be considered

Appraisal of street railway property based on cost of reproduction without considering depreciation is erroneous.—City of Rochester v. New York State Rys., 217 N.Y.S. 452, 127 Misc. 766.

72. N.Y.—Yonkers R. Co. v. Maltbie, 274 N.Y.S. 535, 242 App.Div. 319, motion granted 195 N.E. 191, 266 N.Y. 542.

73. N.Y.—City of Rochester v. New York State Rys., 217 N.Y.S. 452, 127 Misc. 766.

74. Wis.—Milwaukee Electric Ry. & Light Co. v. Railroad Commission of Wisconsin, 172 N.W. 746, 169 Wis. 421.

75. N.Y.—Yonkers R. Co. v. Maltbie, 274 N.Y.S. 535, 242 App.Div. 319, motion granted 195 N.E. 191, 266 N.Y. 542.

Difficulty in determining going value will not justify disregarding of it in fixing rate base.—Yonkers R. Co. v. Maltbie, 274 N.Y.S. 535, 242 App. Div. 319, motion granted 195 N.E. 191, 266 N.Y. 542.

76. N.Y.—Yonkers R. Co. v. Maltbie, 296 N.Y.S. 411, 251 App.Div. 204

77. D.C.—Public Utilities Commission of District of Columbia v. Capital Traction Co., 17 F.2d 673, 57 App.D.C. 85.

78. U.S.—Westinghouse Electric & Mfg. Co. v. Denver Tramway Co., D.C.Colo., 3 F.2d 285, appeal transferred City and County of Denver v. Stenger, 47 S.Ct. 343, 273 U.S. 657, 71 L.Ed. 826.

Easements are property of value

Easements in streets, whatever their duration or terms may be, are property of value, indispensable to other property rights of street railway company, whether or not such value can be considered in fixing the base on which rates are to be established.—Westinghouse Electric & Mfg. Co. v. Denver Tramway Co., D.C.Colo., 3 F.2d 285, appeal transferred City and County of Denver v. Stenger, 47 S.Ct. 343, 273 U.S. 657, 71 L.Ed. 826.

79. N.Y.—Yonkers R. Co. v. Maltbie, 274 N.Y.S. 535, 242 App.Div. 319, motion granted 195 N.E. 191, 266 N.Y. 542.

80. N.Y.—Yonkers R. Co. v. Maltbie, 296 N.Y.S. 411, 251 App.Div. 204

81. N.Y.—Yonkers R. Co. v. Maltbie, 274 N.Y.S. 535, 242 App.Div. 319, motion granted 195 N.E. 191, 266 N.Y. 542

Relative efficiency of leased cars

Evidence of relative efficiency of street railroad company's service cars and passenger and service cars rented by it from another company, as compared with new and more efficient cars, was material and competent on question of valuation thereof for rate-making purposes.—Yonkers R. Co. v. Maltbie, 296 N.Y.S. 411, 251 App.Div. 204.

82. U.S.—Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Alabama R. Commn., D.C.Ala., 209 F. 75.

however, that this rule does not apply to a railroad built and operated essentially for interstate purposes, and where the intra-state business is merely incidental and too inconsiderable to make it feasible to fix rates on the basis of comparative values.[83] The values of a company's intra-state property, for the determination of the reasonableness of the intra-state rates, may be obtained by taking the tax values and raising them one hundred per cent.[84]

§ 581. Rate Fixed by Carrier

a. In general
b. Filed and published rates

a. In General

Within the limits set by legislative regulation, and subject thereto, a railroad company may fix and establish, increase, or reduce its rates, so long as they are reasonable and not unjustly discriminatory, and this may be done, under some statutes, by the filing of schedules with the regulatory commission.

Within the limits prescribed by federal or state regulation, a common carrier, such as a railroad or street railroad company, may fix or establish the rate of fare to be charged for the transportation of passengers,[85] subject to the requirement hereinafter discussed in this section that the rates fixed be reasonable and without unjust discrimination. Acting in accordance with statutory requirements, the carrier may also make a reasonable increase in its passenger rates, if the established rates are not compensatory, whether by reason of a change in conditions or otherwise,[86] and its right to do so is not affected by the fact that such increase is impolitic,[87] or that its patrons have acted in reliance on the existing rates.[88] Although a carrier acting under a constitutional provision may reduce its rate of fare from one point to another, for the purpose of competing with another carrier, in such case the rate cannot again be raised without the consent of the governmental authority in which is vested the power to regulate fares.[89]

Interstate carriers are authorized by the Interstate Commerce Act to fix and establish their own passenger rates by properly filing and publishing schedules therefor,[90] and, by following a similar procedure, the nature and effect of which is treated in subdivision b of this section, intra-state carriers, under some state statutes, may change their rates within the maximum fixed by law,[91] subject to the power of the railroad or public service commission to suspend temporarily the operation of the proposed rates and to annul them if found to be un-

83. Va.—Washington Southern R. Co. v. Com., 71 S.E. 539, 112 Va. 515.

84. U.S.—Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Alabama R. Commn., D.C.Ala., 209 F. 75.

85. U.S.—Henry L. Doherty & Co. v. Toledo Rys. & Light Co., D.C. Ohio, 254 F. 597.
N.Y.—In re Dry Dock, E. B. & B. R. Co., 172 N.E. 516, 254 N.Y. 305, affirming Dry Dock, E. B. & B. R. Co. v. Fullen, 239 N.Y.S. 501, 228 App.Div. 354.
10 C.J. p 660 notes 40, 41, p 663 note 88, p 664 notes 89, 90.

Who may regulate fares
The rates of fare need not be established by the board of directors and proved by a record of their action; agents other than the directors may be empowered to regulate such matters.—Jeffersonville R. Co. v. Rogers, 28 Ind. 1, 92 Am.D. 276.

86. Ill.—State Public Utilities Commission v. Chicago & W. T. Ry. Co., 114 N.E. 325, 275 Ill. 555, Ann. Cas 1917C 50.
N.Y.—Dry Dock, E. B. & B. R. Co. v. Fullen, 239 N.Y.S. 501, 228 App. Div. 354 affirmed In re Dry Dock, E. B. & B. R. Co., 172 N.E. 516, 254 N.Y. 305.
Utah.—Salt Lake City v. Utah Light & Traction Co., 173 P. 556, 52 Utah 210, 3 A.L.R. 715.
10 C.J. p 661 note 54.

Necessity of consent of commission
After passage of Public Utilities Act, but before it went into effect, street and interurban railway companies might, without consent of utilities commission, reasonably increase fares.—State Public Utilities Commission v. Chicago & W. T. Ry. Co., 114 N.E. 325, 275 Ill. 555, Ann. Cas 1917C 50.

87. N.Y.—Peo. v. Public Service Commn., 109 N.E. 252, 215 N.Y. 241, affirming 145 N.Y.S. 513, 159 App. Div. 546.

88. Utah.—Salt Lake City v. Utah Light & Traction Co., 173 P. 556, 52 Utah 210, 3 A.L.R. 715.

Street railroad is not estopped from increasing rates, which have become inadequate, by the fact that many persons have built homes along the route of the road in reliance on the existing rates.—Salt Lake City v. Utah Light & Traction Co., 173 P. 556, 52 Utah 210, 3 A.L.R. 715

89. Cal.—Edson v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 77 P. 894, 144 Cal. 182.
10 C.J. p 661 note 53.

90. Tex.—Neubert v. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co., 296 S.W. 1090, 116 Tex. 644, 53 A.L.R. 1224.

Redemption of unused tickets
Carrier in preparing rate schedule under the Interstate Commerce Act, may declare intention to redeem unused, or partially unused, passenger tickets.—Neubert v. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co., 296 S.W. 1090, 116 Tex. 644, 53 A.L.R. 1224

91. N.J.—Gillen v. Public Service Ry. Co., 116 A. 621, 97 N.J. Law 333
N.Y.—Dry Dock, E. B. & B. R. Co. v. Fullen, 239 N.Y.S. 501, 228 App. Div. 354, affirmed In re Dry Dock, E. B. & B. R. Co., 172 N.E. 516, 254 N.Y. 305.

Mortgage effecting evasion
Where no schedule of rates was filed for a line organized before the creation of the public service commission, receivers operating such lines after foreclosure of a mortgage, who abolished one fare privileges and established certain fares, giving notice thereof only under a section of the statute dealing with the initial establishment of rates, were not subject to prosecution for a violation of a provision that a carrier shall not change its rates without compliance with the Public Service Commission Law, since the act of the receivers was in no sense a change of rates, and it was no answer that such construction of the law would permit a railroad company to sever its lines into parts by executing separate mortgages, and thus evade the Public Service Commission Law, as another section of that law requires approval of mortgages, thus obviating such a result.—People ex rel. Huff v. Warden and Keeper of Prison of City of New York, 194 N.Y.S. 862, 118 Misc. 681.

reasonable and discriminatory, as will hereinafter be discussed in § 582 b. Under some statutes distinguishing between rates initially established by the carrier and rates established by law or franchise agreement, a railroad cannot effectively increase its rates over the maximum permitted by statute by merely filing schedules therefor, since such rates can only be changed by action of the commission after proper complaint and hearing.[92]

Rates established by a carrier must be just and reasonable,[93] and without unjust discrimination.[94] In accordance with the general rule stated in § 376 supra, the mere fact that a railroad's passenger rates are discriminatory does not render them unlawful; only an arbitrary and unreasonable discrimination is prohibited.[95] If a difference in passenger rates is based on a reasonable and fair difference in conditions equitably and logically justifying a different rate, it is not invalid.[96] Accordingly, the carrier may discriminate in favor of those who purchase tickets before entering its car, see infra § 601, or who purchase "party rate" or commutation tickets;[97] and a party rate ticket is not an unjust discrimination within the meaning of the Interstate Commerce Act, when it is offered to the public generally.[98] Although it has been said to be the rule at common law that a carrier which charges the general public only reasonable fares is not precluded from charging particular customers still lower fares,[99] it has been held that a railroad's regulation by which more fare is required of one person than of another under similar conditions is unreasonable, and cannot be enforced.[1] In determining the reasonableness of a discrimination in rates between different localities or stations, the circumstances and relative conditions are to be taken into consideration, and a difference in mileage rate is not in itself the determinative test.[2] The 92. N.Y.—In re Dry Dock, E. B. & B. R. Co., 172 N.E. 516, 254 N.Y. 305, affirming Dry Dock, E. B. & B. R. Co. v. Fullen, 239 N.Y.S. 501, 228 App.Div. 354.

Duplication

Sections of the same statute providing methods for changing rate of fare by the filing of schedules and by order of the commission after hearing, are presumptively not obvious duplication, but relate to different classes of cases.—Dry Dock, E. B. & B. R. Co. v. Fullen, 239 N.Y.S. 501, 228 App.Div. 354, affirmed In re Dry Dock, E. B. & B. R. Co., 172 N.E. 516, 254 N.Y. 305.

93. Ill.—Ruggles v. People, 91 Ill. 256, affirmed 2 S.Ct. 832, 108 U.S. 526, 27 L.Ed. 812.

N.Y.—In re Dry Dock, E. B. & B. R. Co., 172 N.E. 516, 254 N.Y. 305, affirming Dry Dock, E. B. & B. R. Co. v. Fullen, 239 N.Y.S. 501, 228 App.Div. 354

Tex.—Neubert v. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co., 296 S.W. 1090, 116 Tex. 644, 53 A.L.R. 1224.

10 C.J. p. 660 note 40.

Determination of reasonableness see supra § 580 b

94. Ky.—Kentucky Traction & Terminal Co. v. Barrett, 195 S.W. 1124, 176 Ky. 605—Kentucky Traction & Terminal Co. v. Murray, 195 S.W. 1119, 176 Ky. 593, error dismissed Murray v. Kentucky Traction & Terminal Co., 39 S.Ct. 388, 249 U.S. 623, 63 L.Ed. 806.

Mo.—State ex rel. and to Use of Pugh v. Public Service Commission, 10 S.W.2d 946, 321 Mo. 297.

Ohio.—Hocking Valley Ry. Co. v. Railroad Commission of Ohio, 5 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 265, affirmed Railroad Commission of Ohio v. Hocking Valley Ry. Co., 91 N.E. 865, 82 Ohio St. 25.

Tex.—Neubert v. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co., 296 S.W. 1090, 116 Tex. 644, 53 A.L.R. 1224.

10 C.J. p. 660 note 41

Under Interstate Commerce Act, a passenger carrier is responsible for what it puts in its rates and regulations, and is punishable for unlawful discrimination therein.—Neubert v. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co., 296 S.W. 1090, 116 Tex. 644, 53 A.L.R. 1224.

Liability for misrepresentation as to schedule

Railroad could not be held liable to passenger for misrepresentations as to schedule approved by interstate commerce commission, since it would open door for special favors other than those provided for in the schedule.—Foley v. Chicago Great Western R. Co., 217 N.W. 563, 205 Iowa 72.

Acceptance of expired ticket

Conductor's accepting expired ticket redeemable at price paid was not unlawful under statutes forbidding special rates and preferences.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. Burton, C.C.A.W.Va., 62 F.2d 110, 88 A.L.R. 756, certiorari denied 53 S.Ct. 507, 288 U.S. 617, 77 L.Ed. 990.

95. Ga.—Georgia Public Service Commission v. Atlanta & W. P. R. Co., 139 S.E. 725, 164 Ga. 822

Mo.—State ex rel. and to Use of Pugh v. Public Service Commission, 10 S.W.2d 946, 321 Mo. 297.

Ohio.—Hocking Valley Ry. v. Railroad Commission of Ohio, 5 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 265, affirmed Railroad Commission of Ohio v. Hocking Valley Ry. Co., 91 N.E. 865, 82 Ohio St. 25.

Pa.—Bradley v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 66 Pa.Super. 428.

96. Mo.—State ex rel. and to Use of Pugh v. Public Service Commission, 10 S.W.2d 946, 321 Mo. 297.

Ohio.—Hocking Valley Ry. v. Railroad Commission of Ohio, 5 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 265, affirmed Railroad Commission of Ohio v. Hocking Valley Ry. Co., 91 N.E. 865, 82 Ohio St. 25.

97. U.S.—Interstate Commerce Commn. v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., Ohio, 12 S.Ct. 844, 145 U.S. 263, 36 L.Ed. 699, affirming, C.C., 43 F. 37

10 C.J. p. 660 note 44.

Ticket with greater number of rides

That fifty-ride bearer commutation tickets did not sell at a lower mileage rate than ten-ride tickets did not establish unjust discrimination.—State ex rel. and to Use of Pugh v. Public Service Commission, 10 S.W.2d 946, 321 Mo. 297.

98. U.S.—Interstate Commerce Commn. v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., Ohio, 12 S.Ct. 844, 145 U.S. 263, 36 L.Ed. 699, affirming, C.C., 43 F. 37.

10 C.J. p. 660 note 45.

99. Mass.—Spafford v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 128 Mass. 326

Neb.—State v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 199 N.W. 534, 112 Neb. 248.

N.Y.—Onondaga Golf and Country Club v. Syracuse & S. R. Co., 160 N.Y.S. 693, 96 Misc. 213.

1. Ga.—Phillips v. Southern R. Co., 40 S.E. 268, 114 Ga. 284.

Iowa.—State v. Omaha, etc., R. Co., 84 N.W. 983, 113 Iowa 30, 86 Am.St.R. 357, 52 L.R.A. 315.

Mich.—Coy v. Detroit, etc., R. Co., 85 N.W. 6, 125 Mich. 616.

2. Mo.—State ex rel. and to Use of Pugh v. Public Service Commission, 10 S.W.2d 946, 321 Mo. 297.

voluntary establishment by a carrier of commutation rates between certain localities, less than the ordinary mileage rates, and the failure to offer such commutation rates for transit between other localities on the carrier's lines does not constitute unjust discrimination where circumstances differed and the carrier had not established any general policy of issuing such tickets.[3]

Local or through rate; journey by stages. Where a railroad establishes two legal schedules of fares, one through and one local, and passengers are given the right to contract for passage of either kind, although the destination may be the same under either contract, it has been guilty of no discrimination in exacting a greater rate for through passage.[4] It has been held that a passenger is entitled to make his journey by stages to obtain the benefit of local fares, when they are less than the through fare, notwithstanding the statute makes it unlawful for a carrier to charge or collect any rate different from that fixed in the schedules filed.[5] In such case, the passenger, when he pays his fare to a certain station and then remains on the train and demands transportation from that station to a still further station, stands in the same situation, so far as paying for his further passage is concerned, as if he had boarded the train at the intermediate station.[6] It has been held, however, that under a regulation of the carrier in an approved rate schedule specifically so providing, a passenger cannot choose a combination of local rates in order to avoid payment of the through rate from the point of boarding the train to the point of destination.[7]

Reduced rate. To constitute a reduced rate, the rate must be one which is lower than another rate which is offered to the public, and the sale of a return trip ticket at a price less than two single trip fares is not a sale at a reduced rate.[8] A custom of allowing a reduced rate on particular days or occasions or to particular persons imposes no obligation on the carrier to continue such custom,[9] and where such custom has been abandoned, one is not entitled to be carried, on tendering the reduced rate of fare;[10] but where, during the continuance of such custom or offer, a passenger is unable to procure a ticket through the fault of the carrier, he is entitled to be carried on a tender of the reduced fare.[11]

Special trains. Under a tariff sheet promulgated by a carrier and approved by the interstate commerce commission providing for a minimum charge for a special train, with certain exceptions for special trains in certain states, the minimum charge applies to such trains in other states.[12]

Credit for transportation. Under justifying circumstances, a reasonable extension of credit by a carrier pursuant to a contract for transportation is not in violation of the Interstate Commerce Act provision forbidding favoritism by carriers.[13] The acceptance by a carrier of transportation re-

Pa.—Bradley v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 66 Pa Super. 428.

Otherwise stated

Where neither the constitution or the legislation relating to the regulation of common carriers so requires, the cost of transportation need not in all cases be proportionate to the distance over which the service is rendered—Bradley v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 66 Pa.Super. 428.

Competition as factor involved

Different rates per mile between different points is not unreasonable where competition entered as factor—Hocking Valley Ry. v. Railroad Commission of Ohio, 5 Ohio N.P.,N. S., 265, affirmed Railroad Commission of Ohio v. Hocking Valley Ry. Co., 91 N.E. 865, 82 Ohio St. 25.

Relative cost of transportation

Where it appears that the company charged the same rates of fare to a station two and seven-tenths miles from its terminal as to a station four and one-tenth miles, and the commission finds from sufficient and competent evidence that the business between the terminal and first station was carried on at a considerable loss, and that there was a greater relative cost of transportation to the first station than to the second, such rate is not unjustly discriminatory.—Bradley v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 66 Pa.Super. 428.

Group arrangement of rates

Arrangement of suburban passenger rates into groups is not invalid solely because it results in preference in mileage rate.—State ex rel and to Use of Pugh v. Public Service Commission, 10 S.W.2d 946, 321 Mo. 297.

3. Ga.—Georgia Public Service Commission v. Atlanta & W. P. R. Co., 139 S.E. 725, 164 Ga. 822.

4. Ind.—Brown v. Terre Haute, I. & E. Traction Co., 113 N.E. 313, 63 Ind.App. 327, denying rehearing 110 N.E. 703, 63 Ind.App. 327.

5. Ind.—Brown v. Terre Haute, I. & E. Traction Co., supra.

6. Ga.—Perry v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 70 S.E. 1122, 9 Ga.App. 260.
Okl.—Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. State, 150 P. 108, 47 Okl. 645.
10 C.J. p 661 note 59.

7. Ind.—Arbuckle v. State, 124 N.E. 395, 188 Ind. 444—Brown v. Terre Haute, I. & E. Traction Co., 110 N.E. 703, 63 Ind.App. 327, rehearing denied 113 N.E. 313, 63 Ind.App. 327.

8. Mo.—Robert v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 127 S.W. 925, 148 Mo.App. 96.

9. Ga.—Johnson v. Georgia R., etc., Co., 34 S.E. 127, 108 Ga. 496, 46 L.R.A. 502.
Miss.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Dunnigan, 50 So. 443, 95 Miss. 749, 24 L.R.A.,N.S., 503, Ann.Cas.1912A 159 and note.
10 C.J. p 661 note 50.

10. Ga.—Johnson v. Georgia R., etc., Co., 34 S.E. 127, 108 Ga. 496, 46 L.R.A. 502.
10 C.J. p 661 note 51.

11. Ind.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Graham, 29 N.E. 170, 3 Ind.App. 28, 50 Am.S.R. 256.
10 C.J. p 661 note 52.

12. Ark.—Bush v. Cole, 194 S.W. 24, 128 Ark. 411.

13. Colo.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Bowman, 158 P. 814, 61 Colo. 477.

quests calling for a given rate, the furnishing of the transportation, and the rendering of bills at that rate prevents it from claiming that such rate is only available when payment is made in cash.[14]

Length of trip on belt line. In the absence of legislative regulation, a street railroad company operating a belt line may by a reasonable regulation define the length of trip to which a passenger is entitled for his fare, and beyond which he cannot ride without paying an additional fare; and this is true even where a person, by taking a car on the same street going in an opposite direction, may reach his destination and have by that route a continuous one fare ride before reaching the end of the line.[15]

Transfers. The right of a street car company to establish rules and regulations to prevent fraud on it in the use of transfers does not confer any authority upon it to amend, change, or abrogate city ordinances respecting transfer points.[16]

Men in military service. In the absence of some arrangement for a reduced rate, a railroad is entitled to the established individual rates, less land grant deductions, for the transportation of men in military service.[17] The rate for through transportation of a party, composed of men in military service, where the carrier has no through party rate on file, is the individual through rate for each person, not the combination of a party rate, which had been filed, applying to part of the distance, and of the individual rates for the rest of it.[18] Where a carrier publishes its rates for performing a special service in transporting troops, and such rates are well known to the officials of the government who order such service and make no objection at the time it is rendered, the government is liable for the rates as published.[19]

b. Filed and Published Rates

A carrier may be required to file and publish its rates and a failure to do so will, unless the statute otherwise provides, render the rates void. A filed and published interstate rate is binding on both carrier and passenger.

Under the Interstate Commerce Act a carrier must file and publish its passenger rates,[20] and rates not so filed and published are apparently unlawful and void.[21] Although the Act also requires that a notice of a change in rates be posted, under its terms, such notice may be dispensed with by rule of the commission.[22] The published rates are binding on both the carrier and the passenger,[23] unless found to be unreasonable by the interstate commerce commission,[24] and they must be charged by the carrier and paid by the passenger without deviation therefrom.[25] In other words, a schedule of rates filed with, and approved by, the interstate commerce commission has the force of law and both the carrier and the passenger are bound to have knowledge thereof; neither the misquotation of rates nor ignorance is an excuse for charging or paying less or more than the filed rates.[26]

14. U.S.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. United States, 52 Ct.Cl. 259.

15. Pa.—Com. v. Doe, 44 Pa.Super. 331.

16. Va.—Virginia Electric & Power Co. v. Wynne, 141 S.E. 829, 149 Va. 882.

17. U.S.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co v. U. S., 41 S.Ct. 456, 256 U.S 205, 65 L.Ed. 891, reversing 55 Ct. Cl. 528.
10 C.J. p 661 note 46.

18. U.S.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. U. S., supra.

19. U.S.—Los Angeles & Salt Lake R. Co. v. U. S., 55 Ct.Cl. 305.

20. Ind.—Clark v. Southern Ry. Co., 119 N.E. 539, 69 Ind.App. 697.
Tex.—Neubert v. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co., 296 S.W 1090, 116 Tex. 644, 53 A.L.R. 1224.
10 C.J. p 662 note 63.

Filing of modifying regulations

"The rates, fares, and charges, as filed are indicative of the apparent consideration to be paid for transportation, but if there is any rule or regulation promulgated by the carrier that modifies such apparent rate, fare, or charge, it also must be filed with or as a part of the schedule, that the real rate, etc., or the real value of the service may be disclosed."—Clark v. Southern Ry. Co, 119 N.E. 539, 69 Ind.App. 697.

Schedules concerning free passes need not, however, be filed with the commission.—Clark v. Southern Ry. Co, 119 N.E. 539, 69 Ind.App. 697—52 C.J. p 1143 note 39 [c].

Concurrence in surcharge schedule

A railroad's concurrence in surcharge tariff schedule published for their benefit by Pullman Company may be inferred from circumstances if necessary to afford legal basis for collection—Waters v. Pullman Co, 10 F.2d 622, 56 App.D.C. 57, certiorari denied 46 S.Ct. 351, 270 U.S. 651, 70 L.Ed. 781.

21. Ind.—Clark v. Southern Ry. Co., 119 N.E. 539, 69 Ind.App. 697.

22. Miss.—Mississippi Cent. R. Co v Graham, 80 So. 66, 118 Miss. 761

Excursion fares

Interstate Commerce Rule adopted October 12, 1915, amending rule 52 as to posting of notice of change in passenger tariffs by dispensing with the necessity of posting notice, applies to excursion fares for which only a three-day posting of notice was necessary under the amendment of rule 52, adopted December 2, 1912, as well as to other rates and fares.—Mississippi Cent R. Co. v. Graham, 80 So. 66, 118 Miss 761.

23. Ind.—Clark v. Southern Ry. Co, 119 N.E. 539, 69 Ind.App. 697.

24. U.S.—Louisville, etc, R. Co. v. Maxwell, Tenn., 35 S.Ct. 494, 237 U.S. 94, 59 L.Ed. 853, L.R.A.1915E 665.

25. Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Osborn, 161 A. 756, 106 Pa.Super. 45.
W.Va.—Dorr v Chesapeake & O Ry. Co, 88 S.E. 666, 78 W.Va 150, L.R.A 1916E 622.
10 C.J. p 662 note 64.

Interstate passenger is not entitled to be carried any portion of the journey for less than the interstate rate. He cannot travel part of the journey at intra-state fare.—Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. v. Ashinger, 162 P. 814, 63 Okl. 120, L.R.A.1917D 1180.

26. Iowa.—Foley v. Chicago Great Western R. Co, 217 N.W. 563, 564, 205 Iowa 72.
10 C.J. p 662 note 66.

Under a state statute making such procedure a condition precedent to the effectiveness of a change of rates, a carrier cannot validly put a change into operation unless it has complied with the statute as to the public posting and publishing of schedules containing the new rates;[27] other statutes requiring posting and publishing of a change in rates have, however, been construed as merely rendering the carrier liable in damages for noncompliance and not as invalidating the proposed change of rates.[28] The publishing and filing of rates may also be required by the order of a public service commission.[29]

§ 582. Legislative Regulation

a. In general
b. Power of commission
c. Particular regulations

a. In General

A state has the power, not subject to irrevocable delegation, to regulate intra-state passenger rates, regardless of effect on any contract existing between carriers and private parties, but any such regulation, whether imposed by itself or its authorized agency, must not interfere with the general level of interstate rates, and must be reasonable, nonconfiscatory and not unjustly discriminatory.

A state has the undoubted power to establish and regulate the rates to be charged by common carriers, such as railroads or street railroads, for the exclusively intra-state carriage of passengers.[30] This power exists even over a railroad corporation

"The rate fixed by the schedule is not simply a matter of contract, nor is the filing of the schedule merely a matter of notice. The schedule has the force of law. Both carrier and customer are bound to know the rate and its accompanying limitations and privileges. It makes no difference that the customer did not in fact see or know of the published schedule, nor is it material that the carrier knows of the agent's or the customer's ignorance." — Foley v. Chicago Great Western R. Co., supra.

Mistake as to rate for requested routing

Although a passenger might have gone and returned by a direct route to and from his point of destination, if he expresses a desire to go and come by a different route he must pay the filed tariff rates for the route taken notwithstanding a misquotation made by the carrier's agent and accepted by him in good faith, since such a mistake is not a mere misrouting by error of the carrier which will relieve the passenger from paying the tariff rate for the route he has taken.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Maxwell, Tenn., 35 S.Ct. 494, 237 U.S. 94, 59 L.Ed. 863, L.R.A. 1915E 665.

27. Pa. — City of Pittsburgh v. Pittsburgh Rys. Co., 103 A. 372, 259 Pa. 558, affirming Pittsburgh Rys. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 66 Pa.Super. 243, 253.

Word "post" as used in a statute providing that no change in any tariff or schedule shall be made by a public service company except after thirty days posted and published notice to the commission and to the public, means the bringing to the notice or attention of the public by affixing to a post or wall, or putting up in some public place, to placard —City of Pittsburgh v. Pittsburgh Rys. Co., 103 A. 372, 259 Pa. 558, affirming Pittsburgh Rys. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 66 Pa. Super. 243, 253.

28. Nev.—Crumley v. Southern Pac. Co., 177 P. 17, 18, 42 Nev. 337.

"While it was the duty of the company to give the notice required . . . its failure to do so did not have the effect of invalidating the changes made . . . for such notice was intended merely to bring to the attention of the public that a change in the tariff schedule had in fact been made; and, as we view it, the only consequence which would follow a failure to give that notice would be that any persons damaged by reason of such failure might recover damages therefor"—Crumley v. Southern Pac. Co., supra.

29. N.J.—Delaware, etc., R. Co. v. Board of Public Utility Comrs., 87 A. 801, 84 N.J.Law 619.
10 C.J. p. 662 note 67.

30. U.S.—City of Covington, Ky. v. Cincinnati, N. & C. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Ky., 71 F.2d 117, certiorari denied Cincinnati, N. & C. Ry. Co. v. City of Covington, Ky., 55 S.Ct. 142, 293 U.S. 612, 79 L.Ed. 702, and City of Covington v. Cincinnati, N. & C. Ry. Co., 55 S.Ct. 142, 293 U.S. 612, 79 L.Ed. 702—O'Keefe v. City of New Orleans, D.C.La., 273 F. 560, affirmed, C.C.A., City of New Orleans v. O'Keefe, 280 F. 92—Westinghouse Electric & Mfg. Co. v. Binghamton Ry. Co., D.C.N.Y., 255 F. 378, appeal dismissed 257 F. 726, 169 C.C.A. 14.
Fla.—State v. Railroad Com'rs of Florida, 84 So. 444, 79 Fla. 526—State v. Burr, 84 So. 61, 79 Fla. 290
Ga.—Georgia Ry. & Power Co. v. Railroad Commission of Georgia, 98 S.E. 696, 149 Ga. 1, 5 A.L.R. 1.
Ill.—Hoyne v. Chicago & O. P. Elevated R. Co., 128 N.E. 587, 294 Ill. 413—State Public Utilities Commission v. City of Quincy, 125 N.E. 374, 290 Ill. 360—State Public Utilities Commission v. Chicago & W. T. Ry. Co., 114 N.E. 325, 275 Ill. 555, Ann.Cas.1917C 50
La.—State v. City of New Orleans, 91 So. 533, 151 La. 24.
Mich.—Groesbeck v. Detroit United Ry., 177 N.W. 726, 210 Mich. 227.
Mo.—State ex rel. Kansas City Public Service Co. v. Latshaw, 30 S.W.2d 105, 325 Mo. 909, appeal dismissed Latshaw v. State of Missouri ex rel. Kansas City Public Service Co., 51 S.Ct. 101, 282 U.S. 806, 75 L.Ed. 723—Kansas City v. Public Service Commission of Missouri, 210 S.W. 381, 276 Mo. 539, error dismissed 40 S.Ct. 54, 250 U.S. 652, 63 L.Ed. 1190—City of St. Louis v. Public Service Commission, 207 S.W. 805—City of St. Louis v. Public Service Commission of Missouri, 207 S.W. 799, 276 Mo. 509
N.Y.—In re Dry Dock, E. B. & B. R. Co., 172 N.E. 516, 254 N.Y. 305, affirming Dry Dock, E. B. & B. R. Co. v. Fullen, 239 N.Y.S. 501, 228 App.Div. 354—Dillon v. Erie R. Co., 43 N.Y.S. 320, 19 Misc. 116—Beardsley v. New York, L. E. & W. R. Co., 40 N.Y.S. 1077, 17 Misc. 256, affirmed 44 N.Y.S. 175, 15 App.Div. 251.
N.C.—In re Petition for Increase of Street Car Fares in City of Charlotte, 101 S.E. 619, 179 N.C. 151
Okl.—Swain v. Oklahoma Ry. Co., 32 P.2d 51, 168 Okl. 133.
Or.—City of Portland v. Public Service Commission of Oregon, 173 P. 1178, 89 Or. 325.
Pa.—City of Scranton v. Public Service Commission, 110 A. 775, 268 Pa. 192, affirming 73 Pa.Super. 192—Borough of Wilkinsburg v. Public Service Commission, 72 Pa.Super. 423.
Va.—City of Richmond v. Virginia Ry. & Power Co., 126 S.E. 353, 141 Va. 69.
10 C.J. p. 662 note 70.

created by an act of congress, in the absence of anything in the act indicating an intent by congress to remove such corporation from state control.[31] However, a state, in regulating intra-state rates, must be assumed to intend to act within the limits set by the federal constitution,[32] and it cannot so regulate intra-state fares as to interfere with the general level of interstate rates established by the interstate commerce commission.[33]

Although the state's power may by appropriate enactment be delegated to, and exercised by, a municipality, as will be considered in § 583, or by a railroad or public service commission, see subdivision b of this section, the state legislature cannot divest itself of the right to reassume and exercise its sovereign rights in this regard.[34] Although the state may at least qualifiedly delegate the power of rate fixing to a carrier, this can be done only by words of positive grant in the carrier's charter or by something which is in law equivalent thereto;[35] such power, it has been said, can be suspended in a given case only by a contract for a definite time by the supreme legislative body of the state or under authority clearly delegated by such body.[36]

The power of the state or its agencies to regulate rates cannot be withdrawn or limited by contracts or other obligations existing between a carrier and another party.[37] Accordingly, the power of legislative regulation is not restricted by the Basis of power

(1) "The rate-making authority over public utilities is an attribute of sovereignty, inherent in the state, as an element of her police power" —State v. City of New Orleans, 91 So. 533, 535, 151 La. 24.

(2) "A continuance of adequate, efficient service by public utilities, particularly by street railroads in a growing city, vitally affects the public welfare. In granting to corporations franchises to engage in the business of common carriers, the law contemplates . . . an adequate and efficient service and that a reasonable compensation therefor shall be allowed, to comport with organic property rights. . . . Therefore it is clearly within the legislative power and duty to enact regulations by which a reasonable return for service rendered by common carriers may be effectuated as well as to enact regulations by which excessive charges and unjust discriminations by common carriers may be prevented and redressed"— State v. Burr, 84 So. 61, 72, 79 Fla. 290.

(3) Other statements of similar import see 10 C.J. p 662 note 70 [a]

Local or special legislation

A statute regulating street car fares in cities of the second class is not local or special legislation within the prohibition of the constitution —Ashworth v. Pittsburgh Ry. Co., 34 Pa.Co. 253.

Same fare as for interstate service

Statute forbidding railroad corporation having New York franchise, operating to and from stations within city of over a million, and owned, controlled, or operated by railroad corporation having franchise from another state, to charge rate per mile within such city in excess of rates charged for similar service from such city to stations in adjacent state, prohibits higher fares between stations in New York City on Long Island Railroad than are charged for similar mileage between New York City and stations in New Jersey on Pennsylvania Railroad — Transit Commission v. Long Island R. Co, 294 N.Y.S. 133, 250 App.Div. 448.

Mortgaging of road

A statutory provision for the mortgaging of a street railroad under a mortgage reserving to the railroad the right to operate twenty years after the date that its property might come into the possession of another as the result of foreclosure proceedings, and fixing the rate of fare to be charged for such twenty-year period, does not affect the legislature's right through the utilities commission to regulate fares while the railroad is in the hands of the mortgagor.—Humphrey Co. v. Cleveland Ry. Co, 9 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 609

Change of maximum rates

Legislature possesses power to change street railroad's maximum rates contained in earlier statutes when it appears rates are unjust and unreasonable —In re Dry Dock, E. B. & B. R. Co, 172 N.E. 516, 254 N.Y. 305, affirming Dry Dock, E. B. & B. R. Co. v. Fullen, 239 N.Y.S. 501, 228 App.Div. 354.

31. U.S.—Ames v. Union Pac. R. Co., C.C.Neb. 64 F. 165 affirmed 18 S.Ct. 418, 169 U.S. 466, 42 L.Ed. 819
10 C.J. p 663 note 73.

32. U.S.—Rowland v. Boyle, Ark., 37 S.Ct. 577, 244 U.S. 106, 61 L.Ed. 1022, affirming, D.C., Boyle v. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co., 222 F. 539.

33. Va.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Commonwealth, 133 S.E. 883, 145 Va. 62.

Pullman surcharge

(1) In view of the rule stated in the text, the state corporation commission cannot order the removal of intra-state Pullman surcharges, where to do so would break down the interstate surcharges established by the interstate commerce commission —Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Commonwealth, 133 S.E. 883, 145 Va. 62.

(2) Where the intra-state Pullman surcharge is worth one hundred thousand dollars annually to carriers in state, it is not removable on ground that loss would be de minimis.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Commonwealth, supra.

(3) The removal of such surcharge is not authorized even though the Pullman Company is under contract to pay railroads for hauling Pullman cars —Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Commonwealth, supra.

34. Mich.—Groesbeck v. Detroit United Ry., 177 N.W. 726, 210 Mich. 237.
Okl.—Swain v. Oklahoma Ry. Co., 32 P.2d 51, 168 Okl. 133.

35. Ind.—Indianapolis v. Navin, 47 N.E. 525, 51 N.E. 80, 151 Ind. 139, 41 L.R.A. 337.
10 C.J. p 664 note 91.

36. U.S.—Portland R., etc., Co. v. Portland, D.C.Or., 201 F. 119.

37. N.Y.—People ex rel. City of New York v. Nixon, 128 N.E. 245, 229 N.Y. 356, reversing 180 N.Y.S. 130, 190 App.Div. 612, affirming 179 N.Y.S. 82, 109 Misc. 7—Onondaga Golf & Country Club v. Syracuse & S. R. Co., 160 N.Y.S. 693, 96 Misc. 213.
Okl.—Little v. Oklahoma Ry. Co., 223 P. 692, 97 Okl. 286.
Effect of contract between carrier and municipality see infra § 583 b.

Statute authorizing increase in rates

A statute authorizing increase in maximum rates chargeable by street railroad when found inadequate to yield fair return, annulled existing contracts between carriers and private parties, in conflict therewith.— People ex rel. City of New York v. Nixon, 128 N.E. 245, 229 N.Y. 356, fact that the income of the company has been pledged to the payment of obligations on the faith of its charter,[38] and a statute reducing rates is not invalid because of the fact that a contract existed between two companies for the interchange of traffic at the rates of fare which existed prior to its enactment.[39] Also, a contract between the carrier and a private party fixing the fares for the transporting of passengers between specified points is beyond the power of the parties and is unenforceable,[40] at least, after the particular service required by the contract is specifically rendered unlawful by statute.[41]

The action of the state, through the legislature or a public service commission, in establishing a single fare rate does not exhaust its power to regulate transportation charges; and after establishing such rate it may make a reasonable regulation affecting mileage or commutation rates.[42]

Rates must be reasonable. The state's power to regulate rates is subject to the limitations that the rates established by it or its authorized agency must be reasonable and fair, both to the carrier and to the public,[43] and that they must not be such as amount in law to the taking of private property for public use without just compensation or without due process of law.[44] It has apparently been held, however, that where a law fixing maximum rates existed at the time a railroad company was chartered and entered into and became a condition of its franchise, the company cannot secure judicial authorization to increase such rates notwithstanding that they have become unreasonable and confiscatory.[45] reversing 180 N.Y.S. 130, 190 App. Div. 612, affirming 179 N.Y.S. 82, 109 Misc. 7.

38. U.S.—Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co v. Cutts, Iowa, 94 U.S. 155, 24 L.Ed. 94.

39. N.Y.—Buffalo East Side R. Co v. Buffalo St. R. Co., 19 N.E. 63, 111 N.Y. 132, 2 L.R.A. 284.

40. Okl.—Little v. Oklahoma Ry. Co, 223 P. 692, 97 Okl. 286.

41. N.Y.—Onondaga Golf and Country Club v. Syracuse & S. R. Co., 160 N.Y.S. 693, 96 Misc. 213.

Lower rate of fare

Under a statute providing that a carrier shall charge the same compensation for the same service, a contract, insuring club members a lower fare than the general public, is void after the law became effective, even though it was, in the absence of the statute, valid when made.—Onondaga Golf and Country Club v. Syracuse & S. R. Co., 160 N.Y.S. 693, 96 Misc. 213.

42. Md.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Towers, 94 A. 330, 126 Md. 59.

43. U.S.—Duluth St. Ry. Co. v. Railroad and Warehouse Commission of Minnesota, Minn., 4 F.2d 543, affirmed Railroad and Warehouse Commission of Minnesota v. Duluth Street Ry. Co., 47 S.Ct. 489, 273 U.S. 625, 71 L.Ed. 807—Public Service Ry. Co. v. Board of Public Utility Commissioners, D.C.N.J., 276 F. 979, 984, appeal dismissed Board of Public Utility Com'rs of State of New Jersey v Public Service Ry. Co., 45 S.Ct. 9, 266 U.S 636, 69 L.Ed. 481—Kansas City., C., C. & St J Ry. Co. v Barker, D.C.Mo., 242 F 310

Pa.—City of Philadelphia v Public Service Commission, 83 Pa.Super 8.

10 C.J p 664 note 99.

"The state . . . must consider both the rights of the public and the rights of the corporation. Out of this situation it must evolve what the law terms a just and reasonable rate, which when made by compulsion of public authority can never exceed the value of the service to the consumer and cannot be made so low as to confiscate the property devoted to that service. . . . The reasonable worth of the service rendered is the maximum of the permissible rate and a fair return on the value of the property employed for the public convenience is the minimum. It must fall between these two extremes."—Public Service Ry Co. v Board of Public Utility Commissioners, supra.

Determination of reasonableness of rate see supra § 580.

Commutation rates

A statute giving the commission power to fix maximum rates for commutation tickets does not authorize the commission to prescribe suburban commutation rates which would still further reduce to any extent earnings falling short of a fair return to any extent.—Kansas City, C., C & St. J. Ry. Co. v. Barker, D.C.Mo., 242 F. 310.

Former and prospective earnings

In fixing the rates at any particular time, the railroad's former earnings and probable prospective earnings should be considered with a view to so adjusting the rates as to permit a fair and reasonable return —Omaha & C. B St. Ry. Co. v. Nebraska State Railway Commission, 173 N.W. 690, 103 Neb. 695

Commission cannot annul rates which are not unjust and unreasonable.—Peo. v. Public Service Commn., 145 N.Y.S. 503, 159 App Div. 531, affirmed 109 N.E. 1089, 215 N.Y. 689.

44. U.S.—Duluth St Ry. Co v. Railroad and Warehouse Commission of Minnesota, D.C.Minn., 4 F. 2d 543, affirmed Railroad and Warehouse Commission of Minnesota v Duluth St Ry. Co., 47 S. Ct 489, 273 U.S. 625, 71 L.Ed. 807—Public Service Ry Co. v. Board of Public Utility Commissioners, D.C.N.J., 276 F. 979, appeal dismissed Board of Public Utility Com'rs of State of New Jersey v. Public Service R. Co., 45 S.Ct. 9, 266 U.S 636, 69 L.Ed. 481—Bellamy v. Missouri, etc, R Co, Ark., 215 F. 18, 131 C.C.A. 326, L.R.A 1915A 1 and note.

Ind.—Indianapolis v. Nevin, 47 N.E 525, 51 N.E. 80, 151 Ind. 139, 41 L. R.A. 337, 344.

Mass.—Commonwealth v. Interstate Consol St. R. Co., 73 N.E 530, 187 Mass. 436, 11 L.R.A.,N.S., 973, affirmed 28 S.Ct 26, 207 U.S. 79, 52 L.Ed. 111.

10 C.J p 664 note 1.

Joint rates

(1) State is without power to require transfer passengers, paying joint rate, to be carried at a loss or without substantial compensation over proper cost of such service, including not only expenditures incurred exclusively for that traffic, but also a just proportion of the expenses incurred for all traffic, of which transfer traffic forms a part'—Banton v Belt Line Ry. Corporation, N.Y., 45 S.Ct. 534, 268 U.S. 413, 69 L.Ed 1020.

(2) A joint rate fixed by the public service commission, which is in fact confiscatory, cannot be sustained on the ground that it is a reasonable service requirement.—Banton v. Belt Line Ry Corporation, supra.

45. U.S.—Charleston-Isle of Palms Traction Co. v. Shealy, D.C.S.C., 266 F. 406.

Although it has been said that rates can go no higher than the service is reasonably worth to the public requiring the service, even though charges so limited would fail to produce a fair return to the carrier on its investment,[46] other authority holds that if a reasonable and just rate will be prejudicial to a community it is unfortunate, but furnishes no reason why the company should be required to render the service at a loss.[47] Particular rates of fare and regulations in connection therewith, prescribed by statute or order of a commission, have been held, under the evidence presented, to be, on the one hand, valid, either as necessary to assure a reasonable return to the carrier,[48] or as sufficiently compensatory, against attack by the carrier as being confiscatory,[49] and on the other hand, invalid because unreasonable and inadequate to yield a sufficient return.[50] Where a carrier vol-

46. Wash.—Puget Sound Electric R. Co. v. State R. Commn., 117 P. 739, 65 Wash. 75, Ann.Cas.1913B 763.
10 C J p 664 note 2.

47. N Y.—Peo. v. Public Service Commn., 145 N.Y.S. 503, 159 App. Div. 531, affirmed 109 N.E. 1089, 215 N.Y. 689.

Advantage of lesser rate

A commission cannot annul rates fixed by a carrier merely because a lesser rate would be to the advantage of the public.—Peo. v. Public Service Commn., 145 N.Y.S. 503, 159 App.Div 531, affirmed 109 N.E. 1089, 215 N.Y 689.

48. Ill.—Chicago Rys Co. v. City of Chicago, 126 N E 585, 292 Ill 190, error dismissed City of Chicago v. Chicago Rys Co., 42 S Ct 95, 257 U.S. 617, 66 L Ed 399.
Mo.—State ex rel and to Use of Pugh v. Public Service Commission, 10 S.W.2d 946, 321 Mo. 297
Pa.—City of Philadelphia v. Public Service Commission, 83 Pa Super. 8.
R.I.—Public Utilities Commission v. Rhode Island Co., 110 A. 654, 43 R.I. 135.

Finding of service furnished at loss

Mo.—State ex rel. and to Use of Pugh v. Public Service Commission, 10 S W.2d 946, 321 Mo. 297.

Necessity for increase shown

U.S.—Westinghouse Electric & Mfg. Co. v. Binghamton Ry. Co., D C. N.Y., 255 F. 378, appeal dismissed 257 F 726, 169 C.C.A. 14.

Enlargement of single fare zone

(1) A finding of the commission in fixing rates, that a certain line did not extend farther than the single fare zones of other lines afforded a substantial basis for the action of the commission in including such line within the single fare zone.—West v. United Rys. & Electric Co. of Baltimore, 142 A 870, 155 Md 572, appeal dismissed United Rys. & Electric Co of Baltimore v. West, 49 S. Ct. 79, 278 U.S. 567, 73 L.Ed. 510.

(2) Commission's order, including in street railway's single fare zone suburban area served by urban system, thus necessitating an increase in the single fare required to be charged to yield a compensatory return, was, nevertheless, reasonable.—City of Milwaukee v. Railroad Commission, 240 N W. 165, 206 Wis 339.

(3) The enlargement of the single fare area and the increase in the rate of fare cannot be considered unreasonable solely because of the increase in rate, where, the rates charged in the single fare area formerly existing were in any case inadequate to yield a sufficient return to the carrier.—City of Milwaukee v. Railroad Commission, supra.

Temporary increase

Increase from five to seven cents of street car fares, after increase of employees' wages from forty-eight to sixty-five cents per hour, pending investigation as to what was adequate rate, was held to be reasonable.—Chicago Rys Co v. City of Chicago, 126 N E. 585, 292 Ill. 190, error dismissed City of Chicago v. Chicago Rys. Co., 42 S.Ct 95, 257 U S. 617, 66 L Ed. 399.

49. U.S.—Gilchrist v. Interborough Rapid Transit Co. N.Y., 49 S.Ct. 282, 279 U.S. 159, 73 L Ed. 652, reversing, D C, Interborough Rapid Transit Co. v. Gilchrist, 26 F.2d 912—Ann Arbor R. Co. v Fellows, D C.Mich., 236 F 387, appeal dismissed Ann Arbor R. Co. v. Glasgow, 39 S.Ct. 5, 248 U S. 588, 63 L.Ed. 434.
Pa.—Jones v. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co, 69 Pa Super 568.
Wis.—Milwaukee Electric Ry. & Light Co. v. Railroad Commission of Wisconsin, 172 N.W. 746, 169 Wis. 421.

Experimental rates

An order fixing fares of seven cents on sale of five tickets, otherwise ten cents to be in effect for experimental period of two to four months was not irrational or unconstitutional or unreasonable to extent of affording less revenue than rates proposed by receiver of company, nor was the experimental period of excessive duration.—Donham v. Public Service Commission, 122 N.E 397, 232 Mass. 309.

Five-cent fare

An order of the public service commission fixing a five-cent instead of a ten-cent rate between two towns will be sustained, where it appears the commission considered the surroundings, the size of the towns, and the rates charged by other roads, and from the substantial evidence offered determined that a five-cent rate was reasonable.—Jones v Delaware, L. & W. R Co., 69 Pa Super. 568.

50. U.S.—Los Angeles Ry Corporation v. Railroad Commission of California, D.C.Cal., 29 F 2d 140, affirmed Railroad Commission of California v. Los Angeles Ry. Corporation, 50 S.Ct 71, 280 U.S 145, 74 L.Ed. 234—Duluth St Ry Co. v. Railroad and Warehouse Commission of Minnesota, D.C Minn., 4 F 2d 543, affirmed Railroad and Warehouse Commission of Minnesota v Duluth Street Ry Co., 47 S.Ct. 489, 273 U S. 625, 71 L Ed. 807—Public Service Ry Co. v. Board of Public Utility Commissioners, D.C N J., 276 F. 979, appeal dismissed Board of Public Utility Com'rs of State of New Jersey v. Public Service R. Co., 45 S.Ct. 9, 266 U S 636, 69 L.Ed. 481—Belt Line Ry. Corporation v. Newton, D.C.N Y., 273 F. 272—Westinghouse Electric & Mfg. Co v. Binghamton Ry Co., D.C N.Y., 255 F. 378, appeal dismissed 257 F. 726, 169 C.C.A. 14.
Minn.—State v. St. Paul City Ry. Co, 265 N.W. 434, 196 Minn. 456.

Acceptance of transfers

Where the cost of carrying each passenger on a street railway exceeds four cents, and a majority of its passengers either travel on or receive transfers as required by an order of the state public service commission, which allows it only two cents for such passengers and its income is less than the operating expenses and interest on borrowed money, the order requiring the acceptance and issuing of transfers for the prescribed share in the fare is confiscatory, so that its enforcement should be restrained.—Belt Line Ry. Corporation v. Newton, D.C.N.Y., 273 F. 272.

Material reduction of revenue

Evidence sustained finding that order of state railroad and warehouse commission requiring street railways to sell two tokens for fifteen cents would materially reduce revenue obtained under former fare of ten cents cash or six tokens for forty-five cents, so as to require setting aside order under stipulation.—

untarily maintains a certain passenger rate for years, it is estopped to claim, in support of a contention that a reduced rate is confiscatory, that such rate was unremunerative.[51]

A rate established by statute is binding on the carrier until in the first instance, on application by the carrier or by some one injuriously affected thereby, or on the initiative of the public service commission, such rate has been investigated by the commission and judicially determined to be unreasonable or confiscatory as to a particular carrier.[52]

Unjust discrimination. The rates established by the legislature or its authorized agency must not amount to unjust discrimination.[53] Although unjust discrimination in railroad rates was forbidden by the common law, and it needs neither a statute nor a constitutional provision to make such discrimination in rates unlawful,[54] a state may, without violating the fourteenth amendment, prohibit any unjust discrimination by a domestic railroad company against any persons or localities on its lines,[55] and may leave it to the railroad commission to determine whether the rates are, or are not, discriminatory.[56]

The mere fact that a rate is discriminatory is not conclusive of its invalidity,[57] especially where the discrimination is produced by an unreasonable overcharge for one type of service,[58] only unjust and arbitrary discriminations are prohibited,[59] and if the difference in rates is based on a reasonable and fair difference in conditions which equitably and logically justify a different rate, it is not invalid as an unjust discrimination.[60] So, a constitutional provision prohibiting the charging of a greater sum for a through rate than for the aggregate of the intermediate rates, is not contravened by a commission order fixing a through interurban rate higher than the combined local street car service rates for the same distance, where the services are distinct and different, and different and reasonable methods for establishing the rates of each are followed.[61]

State v. St Paul City Ry. Co., 265 N.W. 434, 196 Minn. 456.

51. U.S.—Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Alabama R. Commn., D.C.Ala., 209 F. 75.

52. W.Va.—State v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 85 S.E. 714, 76 W.Va. 399.

53. Tex.—St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. State, 261 S.W. 996, 113 Tex. 570, 33 A.L.R. 367, reversing State v. St. Louis S. W. Ry. Co. of Texas, Civ.App., 197 S.W. 1006.

10 C.J. p 665 note 7.

Sale of mileage books as discrimination see infra subdivision c (1) of this section.

Special rates to soldiers as discrimination see infra subdivision c (4) of this section.

Evidence held not to show that public service commission's order approving increased suburban passenger rates was unjustly discriminatory.—State ex rel. and to Use of Pugh v. Public Service Commission, 10 S.W.2d 946, 321 Mo. 297.

54. Mo.—State v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 172 S.W. 35, 262 Mo. 507, L.R.A.1915C 778, Ann.Cas.1916E 949.

55. U.S.—Portland R., etc., Co. v. Oregon R. Commn., 33 S.Ct. 820, 827, 229 U.S. 397, 414, 57 L.Ed. 1248, 1259, affirming 105 P. 709, 109 P. 273, 56 Or. 468.

Ga.—Phillips v. Southern R. Co., 40 S.E. 268, 114 Ga. 284.

10 C.J. p 665 note 9.

Railroads as public highways

A constitutional provision forbidding discrimination is binding on the state, notwithstanding that by the constitution railroads are declared to be public highways.—State v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 172 S.W. 35, 262 Mo. 507, L.R.A.1915C 778, Ann.Cas.1916E 949.

Declaration of sovereign power

A constitutional provision authorizing the legislature to enact laws to prevent unjust discrimination is a declaration of the sovereign power over the carrier's duties to the public to demand only a reasonable rate without unjust discrimination, although the legislature has enacted no laws to carry out the constitutional provision.—Peo. v. Suburban R. Co., 53 N.E. 349, 178 Ill. 594, 49 L.R.A. 650.

56. U.S.—Portland R., etc., Co. v. Oregon R. Commn., 33 S.Ct. 820, 827, 229 U.S. 397, 414, 57 L.Ed. 1248, 1259, affirming 105 P. 709, 109 P. 273, 56 Or. 468.

57. Mo.—State ex rel. and to Use of Pugh v. Public Service Commission, 10 S.W.2d 946, 321 Mo. 297.

10 C.J. p 665 note 13.

Rate exceeding intermediate rates

A rate established by the commission will not be held unjustly discriminatory on the ground that it exceeds the sum of fares between intermediate points fixed by independent franchise contracts, since fares fixed by franchise may be either too high or too low to yield an adequate return and cannot of themselves be taken as a basis for determining the reasonableness of a through rate not so fixed.—Stark County v. Public Utilities Commission, 131 N.E. 157, 102 Ohio St. 124.

58. N.H.—State v. Maine Cent. R. Co., 92 A. 837, 77 N.H. 425.

10 C.J. p 665 note 14.

59. Mo.—State ex rel. and to Use of Pugh v. Public Service Commission, 10 S.W.2d 946, 321 Mo. 297.

Tex.—St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. State, 261 S.W. 996, 113 Tex. 570, 33 A.L.R. 367, reversing State v. St. Louis S. W. Ry. Co. of Texas, Civ.App., 197 S.W. 1006.

10 C.J. p 665 note 15.

Meaning of "unjust"

A constitutional provision that the legislature shall pass laws to prevent unjust discrimination, does not forbid all discrimination in fares, but only such as will operate unjustly, "unjust" being probably used in sense of that which is opposed to a law which is the test of right or wrong.—St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. State, 261 S.W. 996, 113 Tex. 570, 33 A.L.R. 367, reversing State v. St. Louis S. W. Ry. Co. of Texas, Civ.App., 197 S.W. 1006.

60. Mo.—State ex rel. and to Use of Pugh v. Public Service Commission, 10 S.W.2d 946, 321 Mo. 297.

10 C.J. p 665 note 15.

61. Cal.—City of Pasadena v. Railroad Commission of California, 218 P. 412, 192 Cal. 61.

Finding of difference sustained

Evidence that interurban cars were larger and more comfortable than local street cars, for a portion of the distance used tracks exclusively reserved for them, stopped only at designated places, and were

b. Power of Commission

Where the legislature has conferred such authority, a commission may have the power, in a proper case, to reduce or increase rates, to fix and adjust joint rates, to suspend or annul unjust or unreasonable rates established by a carrier, and to compel observance of lawfully established rates; but in exercising such powers, the commission must proceed in the manner prescribed by statute.

Within constitutional limitations, the power of the state to regulate the intra-state passenger rates of common carriers, including street railroads, may be properly delegated to a public service or railroad commission;[62] and such power may also be vested in a commission by virtue of a constitutional provision to that effect.[63] Although the commission has ordinarily only this delegated power,[64] and cannot act outside the authority conferred upon it by the legislature,[65] it may, within the limits prescribed by the legislature, regulate and fix the passenger rates of common carriers, including street railroads.[66] Accordingly, subject to compliance with statutory requisites as to its proceedings, operated at a high speed on published time-tables, sustained a finding that a substantial difference existed between the character of local street car service and interurban service.—City of Pasadena v. Railroad Commission of California, 218 P. 412, 192 Cal. 61.

62. Del.—Robertson v. Wilmington & P. Traction Co., 104 A. 839, 7 Boyce 755.
Ill.—State Public Utilities Commission v. Chicago & W. T. Ry. Co., 114 N.E. 325, 275 Ill. 555, Ann. Cas.1917C 50.
Mo.—State ex rel Kansas City Public Service Co. v. Latshaw, 30 S.W. 2d 105, 325 Mo. 909, appeal dismissed Latshaw v. State of Missouri ex rel Kansas City Public Service Co., 51 S.Ct. 101, 282 U. S. 806, 75 L.Ed. 723.
N.Y.—United Traction Co. v. Public Service Commission, 219 N.Y.S. 421, 219 App.Div. 95.
Pa.—Foltz v. Public Service Commission, 73 Pa.Super. 24.
R.I.—Public Utilities Commission v. Rhode Island Co., 110 A. 654, 43 R.I. 135.
10 C.J. p 663 notes 72, 74.

63. Okl.—Swain v. Oklahoma Ry. Co., 32 P.2d 51, 168 Okl. 133—Tulsa St. Ry. Co. v. Oklahoma Union Ry. Co., 184 P. 71, 76 Okl. 102.

Power not exclusive

Neb.Const. art. 5 § 19a, did not give the state railway commission power to fix transportation rates to the exclusion of the state legislature.—State v. Clarke, 153 N.W. 623, 98 Neb. 566.

64. N.Y.—United Traction Co. v. Public Service Commission, 219 N.Y.S. 421, 219 App.Div. 95.

65. U.S.—Southern Pac. Co. v. Bartine, D.C.Nev., 1 F.2d 323.
10 C.J. p 663 note 74.

Subway fares

Transit commission has no greater authority respecting subway fares than statute gave its predecessor, the public service commission.—City of New York v. Interborough Rapid Transit Co., 177 N.E. 295, 257 N.Y. 20, affirming 249 N.Y.S. 243, 232 App.Div. 233, affirming 240 N.Y.S. 316, 136 Misc. 569.

66. U.S.—East St. Louis & S. Ry. Co. v. Brundage, D.C.Ill., 10 F.2d 830—Duluth St. Ry. Co. v. Railroad and Warehouse Commission of Minnesota, D.C.Minn., 4 F.2d 543, affirmed Railroad and Warehouse Commission of Minnesota v. Duluth Street Ry. Co., 47 S.Ct. 489, 273 U.S. 625, 71 L.Ed. 807.
Fla.—State v. Railroad Com'rs of Florida, 84 So. 444, 79 Fla. 526—State v. Burr, 84 So. 61, 79 Fla. 290.
Ga.—Georgia Public Service Commission v. Atlanta & W. P. R. Co., 139 S.E. 725, 164 Ga. 822—Georgia Ry. & Power Co. v. Railroad Commission of Georgia, 98 S.E. 696, 149 Ga. 1, 5 A.L.R. 1.
Minn.—City of St. Paul v. Railroad and Warehouse Commission, 203 N.W. 972, 163 Minn. 274.
Miss.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Mississippi Railroad Commission, 77 So. 314, 116 Miss. 484.
N.Y.—Quinby v. Public Service Commission of State of New York for Second Dist., 119 N.E. 433, 223 N.Y. 244, 3 A.L.R. 685, reversing 169 N.Y.S. 1109, 183 App.Div. 914 affirming 169 N.Y.S. 976, 102 Misc. 337, reargument denied 124 N.E. 790, 227 N.Y. 601.
Ohio.—King Powder Co. v. Thrasher, 20 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 401.
Okl.—Swain v. Oklahoma Ry. Co., 32 P.2d 51, 168 Okl. 133.
R.I.—Public Utilities Commission v. Rhode Island Co., 110 A. 654, 43 R.I. 135.
Wis.—City of Milwaukee v. Railroad Commission, 240 N.W. 165, 206 Wis. 339.
10 C.J. p 663 notes 72, 74.
Power to regulate street railroad rates fixed by municipal ordinance or franchise see infra § 583 c.

Street railroads

(1) A statute conferring upon the railroad commissioners authority to regulate the tariff rates of "all railroads, railroad companies and common carriers," must be interpreted by its own terms, and must be considered as a whole in determining whether it applies to street railroads.—State v. Burr, 84 So. 61, 79 Fla. 290.

(2) As so interpreted authority to prescribe reasonable and just rates of street car fares is vested in the railroad commissioners.—State v. Railroad Com'rs of Florida, 84 So. 444, 79 Fla. 526—State v. Burr, supra.

Rates from "point to point"

The words "point to point," as used in a statute conferring upon railroad commissioners authority to regulate transportation rates from point to point within the state, do not necessarily mean from an established station to an established station, but may include transportation between the stops of a street car.—State v. Burr, 84 So. 61, 79 Fla. 290.

Ticket rate and train rate

A statute making it unlawful for railroads to collect more than the regular fare from passengers who board trains at places where tickets are not offered for sale, was not designed to control the railroad commission in fixing maximum rates and does not prevent the commission from fixing the maximum ticket rate and the maximum train rate at the same amount per mile.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Mississippi Railroad Commission, 77 So. 314, 116 Miss. 484.

Absence of valid contract as to fares

(1) Under a statute conferring upon the railroad commission the right to regulate rates to be charged by street railways, except where a valid, subsisting contract with respect to the rate existed between a municipality and the carrier, the commission has the duty, on application of the carrier, to fix the fare, if no such valid contract was in effect.—Georgia Ry. & Power Co. v. Railroad Commission of Georgia, 98 S.E. 696, 149 Ga. 1, 5 A.L.R. 1.

(2) As to street railway franchises containing no limitation on fares public service commission has jurisdiction to regulate fares.—City of Yonkers v. Maltbie, 245 N.Y.S. 514, 138 Misc. 572, affirmed 248 N.Y.S. 75, 231 App.Div. 415.

the commission, under its authority to fix just and reasonable rates may, in a proper case, reduce,[67] increase,[68] or change,[69] the rates of fare to be charged. Moreover, in the absence of statutory limitation to the commission's authority, such reduction[70] or increase[71] may be granted where necessary to assure the establishment of a reasonable rate, notwithstanding that it is in contravention of an existing maximum rate fixed by statute, and this power to increase the statutory maximum will be found to exist especially where the statute authorizing the commission to fix just and reasonable rates specifically repeals inconsistent acts or parts thereof.[72] If, however, the legislature has not granted the necessary authority, or has forbidden the commission to disturb a statutory maximum fare limitation,[73] as by a provision restricting street railroad fares to five cents, in the same

Police power

Corporation commission's order, fixing street railroad fares as to lines outside municipal limits, was made under police power, not under contract, as affects the right of subsequent modification—Lynchburg Traction & Light Co. v. City of Lynchburg, C.C.A.Va., 16 F.2d 763.

67. Ill.—State Public Utilities Commission v. Chicago & W. T. Ry. Co., 114 N.E. 325, 275 Ill. 555, Ann.Cas.1917C 50.

N.Y.—People ex rel. City of New York v. Nixon, 128 N.E. 245, 229 N.Y. 356, reversing 180 N.Y.S. 130, 190 App.Div. 612, affirming 179 N.Y.S. 82, 109 Misc. 7—Quinby v. Public Service Commission of State of New York for Second Dist., 119 N.E. 433, 223 N.Y. 244, 3 A.L.R. 685, reversing 169 N.Y.S. 1109, 183 App.Div. 914, affirming 169 N.Y.S. 976, 102 Misc. 337, reargument denied 124 N.E. 790, 227 N.Y. 601.

10 C.J. p. 663 note 77.

68. U.S.—Westinghouse Electric & Mfg. Co. v. Binghamton Ry. Co., D.C.N.Y., 255 F. 378, appeal dismissed 257 F. 726, 169 C.C.A. 14.

Del.—Robertson v. Wilmington & P. Traction Co., 104 A. 839, 7 Boyce 155.

Md.—Chenoweth v. Maloy, 123 A. 77, 143 Md. 622.

Mass.—Donham v. Public Service Commission, 122 N.E. 397, 232 Mass. 309.

N.Y.—Quinby v. Public Service Commission of State of New York for Second Dist., 119 N.E. 433, 223 N.Y. 244, 3 A.L.R. 685, reversing 169 N.Y.S. 1109, 183 App.Div. 914, affirming 169 N.Y.S. 976, 102 Misc. 337, reargument denied 124 N.E. 790, 227 N.Y. 601—People ex rel. New York & N. S. Traction Co. v. Public Service Commission of State of New York for Second District, 162 N.Y.S. 405, 175 App.Div. 869.

N.C.—In re Petition for Increase of Street Car Fares in City of Charlotte, 101 S.E. 619, 179 N.C. 151.

Wis.—Smith v. Railroad Commission of Wisconsin, 173 N.W. 312, 169 Wis. 547.

Sale of tickets at lower rate than cash fare

(1) Order of public service commission requiring issuance by street railway lines of five tickets for thirty-five cents, ten-cent fare being required when paid in cash, is within the statutory authority of commission, to fix just and reasonable rates of fare, such authority not being restricted to orders involving only cash fares notwithstanding the failure of the carrier to propose the sale of tickets—City of Fall River v. Public Service Commission, 122 N.E. 406, 232 Mass. 329.

(2) Such a regulation is not in violation of the federal or state constitution.—Donham v. Public Service Commission, 122 N.E. 397, 232 Mass. 309.

69. U.S.—Westinghouse Electric & Mfg. Co. v. Binghamton Ry. Co., D.C.N.Y., 255 F. 378, appeal dismissed 255 F. 726, 169 C.C.A. 14

70. Ill.—State Public Utilities Commission v. Chicago & W. T. Ry. Co., 114 N.E. 325, 275 Ill. 555, Ann.Cas.1917C 50.

N.Y.—Quinby v. Public Service Commission of State of New York for Second Dist., 119 N.E. 433, 223 N.Y. 244, 3 A.L.R. 685, reversing 169 N.Y.S. 1109, 183 App.Div. 914, affirming 169 N.Y.S. 976, 102 Misc. 337, reargument denied 124 N.E. 790, 227 N.Y. 601.

Otherwise stated

A legislative enactment fixing a maximum rate per mile, pursuant to authorization by the state constitution, does not preclude the public utilities commission from reducing the rate chargeable by railroads within the statutory maximum.—State Public Utilities Commission v. Chicago & W. T. Ry. Co., 114 N.E. 325, 275 Ill. 555, Ann.Cas.1917C 50.

71. Del.—Robertson v. Wilmington & P. Traction Co., 104 A. 839, 7 Boyce 155.

N.Y.—In re Dry Dock, E. B. & B. R. Co., 172 N.E. 516, 254 N.Y. 305, affirming Dry Dock, E. B. & B. R. Co. v. Fullen, 239 N.Y.S. 501, 228 App.Div. 354—People ex rel. City of New York v. Nixon, 128 N.E. 245, 229 N.Y. 356, reversing 180 N.Y.S. 130, 190 App.Div. 612, affirming 179 N.Y.S. 82, 109 Misc. 7—Quinby v. Public Service Commission of State of New York for Second Dist., 119 N.E. 433, 223 N.Y. 244, 3 A.L.R. 685, reversing 169 N.Y.S. 1109, 183 App.Div. 914, affirming 169 N.Y.S. 976, 102 Misc. 337, reargument denied 124 N.E. 790, 227 N.Y. 601—Evens v. Phelps, 211 N.Y.S. 650, 214 App.Div. 122, affirmed 158 N.E. 310, 246 N.Y. 224.

10 C.J. p. 669 note 67 [f].

Power to fix maximum book mileage rates in excess of the maximum fixed by statute see infra subdivision c (1) of this section.

Authority held sufficient

A statute authorizing the commission "to hear and examine complaints concerning rates charged by any . . . public utility and to make such recommendations and orders as it may deem proper concerning such rates" is sufficient to empower the commission to increase a rate fixed by statute in the exercise of the regulatory power.—Robertson v. Wilmington & P. Traction Co., 104 A. 839, 7 Boyce, Del., 155.

72. Md.—Chenoweth v. Maloy, 123 A. 77, 143 Md. 622.

Maximum rates fixed by city charter granted by state are so subject to increase.—Chenoweth v. Maloy, 123 A. 77, 143 Md. 622.

73. U.S.—East St. Louis & S. Ry. Co. v. Brundage, D.C.Ill., 10 F.2d 830.

Neb.—State v. Clarke, 153 N.W. 623, 98 Neb. 566.

General authority insufficient

A grant of authority to the commission to regulate the rates of common carriers is not sufficient to authorize it to increase the rates beyond that provided for in a law fixing a maximum rate per mile, it being the intention of the legislature in specifically fixing a maximum fare and then conferring general powers of regulation upon the commission to permit the latter to regulate rates only within the prescribed limit.—State v. Clarke, 153 N.W. 623, 98 Neb. 566.

Electric railroad incorporated under Railroad Act is bound by two-cent fare law, and hence cannot secure an increase from the commission above such rate where the commission is prohibited by law from disturbing the statutory maximum.—East St. Louis & S. Ry. Co. v. Brundage, D.C.Ill., 10 F.2d 830.

act empowering the commission to regulate rates to assure railroads a reasonable return,[74] such maximum fare may not be increased by it, even though the company's income from such rate is not sufficient to yield it a reasonable return;[75] but the commission is not so restricted by a statutory provision requiring that carriers' charges be just and reasonable, and no more than allowed by law or by order of the commission "conformably with the law."[76]

A commission's authority to regulate rates is not limited by a statute authorizing municipalities to enter into "service-at-cost" agreements with utilities subject to approval by the commission, since the authority to approve such contracts implies an authority to investigate the facts, determine the value of the company's property, and determine the reasonableness of the rate.[77]

Under some statutes so providing, the commission has power to suspend or annul unjust and unreasonable rates established by the carrier;[78] but this can be done only after it has determined on satisfactory evidence that the rates are unjust and unreasonable, where the carrier has a statutory right to a hearing,[79] although it may be authorized to suspend an increase in rates by the carrier pending the hearing and determination of their reasonableness, without notice to the carrier.[80] The commission may also have the power to authorize a temporary increase of rates pending a determinate valuation of the railroad company's property devoted to public use,[81] and the fixing of a permanent rate on a full hearing;[82] to permit a street railway company to file a new schedule of rates within less than three years after the determination of the previous rate, under a statute providing that no rate be changed within such time except on application to, and approval by, the commission;[83] to compel observance, by the carrier, of a statute,[84] or of a valid contract between a municipality and a railroad company,[85] fixing rates; and to restrain a street railway company from putting a changed rate into effect where such company has not complied with the statutory requisites of publicly posting and publishing schedules of such changed rate.[86] Under its power to 74. Wash.—State v. Public Service Commission of Washington, 172 P. 890, 894, 101 Wash. 601.

"When the street railroads were first made subject to the jurisdiction of the Public Service Commission, there was an express provision in the same act which provided that no street railroad company should charge more than five cents. It cannot therefore be held that it was the intention of the Legislature by continuing in section 53 substantially the same provisions that had been embodied in the prior law [authorizing the commission to fix a just and reasonable rate where the existing rates are insufficient to yield a reasonable return] . . . to thereby grant to the Public Service Commission the right to fix a rate in excess of five cents and disregard the provision in section 25 limiting the rate to that sum."—State v. Public Service Commission of Washington, supra.

75. Wash.—State v. Public Service Commission of Washington, supra.

76. Md.—Chenoweth v. Maloy, 123 A. 77, 143 Md. 622.

Conformance with law as to exercise of powers

"Conformably with the law" means rates fixed by order of the commission, provided it conforms with the law in doing so, and does not prevent the commission from fixing a rate higher than one previously established by statute.—Chenoweth v. Maloy, 123 A. 77, 143 Md. 622.

77. Mo.—State ex rel. Kansas City Public Service Co. v. Latshaw, 30 S.W.2d 105, 325 Mo. 909, appeal dismissed Latshaw v. State of Missouri ex rel. Kansas City Public Service Co., 51 S.Ct. 101, 282 U.S. 806, 75 L.Ed. 723.

78. Ill.—State Public Utilities Commission v. Chicago & W. T. Ry. Co., 114 N.E. 325, 275 Ill. 555, Ann. Cas. 1917C 50.

N.J.—Gillen v. Public Service Ry. Co., 116 A. 621, 97 N.J.Law 333.

10 C.J. p. 663 note 77.

79. Ill.—State Public Utilities Commission v. Chicago & W. T. Ry. Co., 114 N.E. 325, 275 Ill. 555, Ann. Cas. 1917C 50.

10 C.J. p. 663 note 78.

Rates pending determination

Rates filed in original schedules of the carrier cannot be set aside by the commission except after full hearing and determination of their reasonableness, and the commission in the absence of statutory authority therefor may not prescribe other rates pending its determination.—State Public Utilities Commission v. Chicago & W. T. Ry. Co., 114 N.E. 325, 275 Ill. 555, Ann. Cas. 1917C 50.

80. U.S.—Trenton, etc., Tract. Corp. v. Trenton, D.C.N.J., 227 F. 502, affirmed 229 F. 140, 143 C.C.A. 416.

81. Pa.—City of Scranton v. Public Service Commission, 73 Pa. Super. 192, 197, affirmed 110 A. 775, 268 Pa. 192.

Emergency

A situation, due to an unexpected rise in prices and wages which makes it altogether probable that the past and present rate charged by street railway company is insufficient to yield a revenue which will pay a fair return on investment, although not constituting what would technically be denominated an emergency, may, when shown, be sufficient for the allowance by the state railway commission of a temporary increased rate.—Omaha & C. B. St. Ry. Co. v. Nebraska State Railway Commission, 173 N.W. 690, 103 Neb. 695.

82. Ill.—Chicago Rys. Co. v. City of Chicago, 126 N.E. 585, 292 Ill. 190, error dismissed City of Chicago v. Chicago Rys. Co., 42 S.Ct. 95, 257 U.S. 617, 66 L.Ed. 399.

83. Pa.—City of Philadelphia v. Public Service Commission, 84 Pa. Super. 135.

84. W.Va.—State v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 85 S.E. 714, 76 W.Va. 399.

Rate not determined unreasonable

Until a statutory rate has been investigated by the commission and determined to be unreasonable or confiscatory as to a particular carrier, or until such statute has been amended or otherwise nullified, the public service commission has jurisdiction to compel observance of such rate by the carrier.—State v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 85 S.E. 714, 76 W.Va. 399.

85. N.J.—Trenton & Mercer County Traction Corp. v. Inhabitants of City of Trenton, 101 A. 562, 90 N.J. Law 378, affirmed Trenton & Mercer County Traction Corp. v. Board of Public Utility Com'rs, 103 A. 1054, 91 N.J.Law 719.

86. Pa.—City of Pittsburgh v. Pitts-regulate methods of operation, however, a commission cannot, as a means of forcing improved methods, penalize street railroad companies with a rate which will not return even operating expenses.[87]

A statute authorizing the commission to fix rates and services on its own motion has been held to apply only when the question is one of reasonableness of the fares and service, and not when the question is one of law as to the fares chargeable by a carrier under its franchise.[88]

An order of the commission raising rates under its power to take such action in the case of an emergency may be sustained as a general rate order authorized by statute, notwithstanding that the court finds that no emergency existed.[89]

A statutory provision authorizing investigations and inquiries by the commission on its own motion does not authorize the making of any order, and an order directing a railroad company to collect only a single fare between certain points is without jurisdiction and may be attacked collaterally in a prosecution for ejecting a passenger refusing to pay an additional fare.[90]

Coordination of fare zones. A commission has jurisdiction to determine an application for the coördination of fare zones of a street railroad and a bus corporation serving the same territory.[91]

Joint rates. Under a statute authorizing the commission to require physical connection of roads at junction points, the commission may make a valid order that a transfer system be installed by two street railroad companies, designating the point of transfer, fixing the rate for joint service, and providing for the division of such charges between the companies.[92] Where existing joint rates are confiscatory as to one railroad and excessive as to the other, the commission may adjust and apportion the joint rates so as to make them reasonably remunerative to both companies.[93]

Proceedings before commission. A commission in exercising its powers of regulation must act in the manner prescribed by the statute granting it power.[94] Thus, where the statute so provides, a new rate can be fixed and ordered by the commission only after a proper hearing and investigation as to the reasonableness of the old rate.[95] The fact that proceedings of the commission regulating rates of fare are not instituted by the state does not affect the validity of the regulation, where the statute authorizes the commission to act on its own motion, on the petition of the railroad company or on complaint of other specified persons and groups.[96] Even apart from specific statutory authorization, a railroad, as well as a citizen, has the right to be heard by the commission, and in a proper case, to obtain a change in its rates.[97] Under some statutes, however, the rates of a street railroad cannot be changed on an ex parte application of the company, without an opportunity accorded on public notice to citizens and taxpayers to be heard.[98] In an investigation of the necessity of increased rates to meet increased operating costs and wage demands, the commission may properly hear representatives of the railroad and its employees.[99] burgh Rys. Co., 103 A. 372, 259 Pa. 558, affirming Pittsburgh Rys. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 66 Pa.Super. 243, 253.

87. U.S.—Chicago Rys. Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission, D.C. Ill., 277 F. 970.

88. N.Y.—People v. Monarch, 185 N.Y.S. 5, 193 App.Div. 707.

89. Wis.—Smith v. Railroad Commission of Wisconsin, 173 N.W. 312, 169 Wis. 547.

90. N.Y.—People v. Monarch, 185 N.Y.S. 5, 193 App.Div. 707.

91. N.J.—Borough v. Roselle Park v. Board of Public Utility Com'rs, 144 A. 623, 7 N.J.Misc. 141, affirmed Town of Irvington v. Board of Public Utility Com'rs, 152 A. 921, 107 N.J.Law 191.

Offer of consolidation of street railroad and bus corporations during hearing on application for coördination of fare zones was immaterial to the issue.—Borough of Roselle Park v. Board of Public Utility Com'rs, 144 A. 623, 7 N.J.Misc. 141, affirmed Town of Irvington v. Board of Public Utility Com'rs, 152 A. 921, 107 N.J.Law 191.

Valuation

Board of public utility commissioners could coördinate as to fare zones in operation of street railroad and bus corporations serving same territory without valuation of property.—Borough of Roselle Park v. Board of Public Utility Com'rs, 144 A. 623, 7 N.J.Misc. 141, affirmed Town of Irvington v. Board of Public Utility Com'rs, 152 A. 921, 107 N.J.Law 191.

92. Okl.—Tulsa St. Ry. Co. v. Oklahoma Union Ry. Co., 184 P. 71, 76 Okl. 102.

93. Ill.—State Public Utilities Commission v. Chicago & W. T. Ry. Co., 114 N.E. 325, 275 Ill. 555, Ann.Cas. 1917C 50.

94. U.S.—Southern Pac. Co. v. Bartine, D.C.Nev., 1 F.2d 323.

95. U.S.—Southern Pac. Co. v. Bartine, supra.

96. Or.—City of Portland v. Public Service Commission of Oregon, 173 P. 1178, 89 Or. 325.

Navigation companies

Under a statutory provision that any person or corporation may file a written complaint with the commission, a railroad commission has jurisdiction to establish a through route and joint rate on a railroad to a city on petition of incorporated navigation companies, the fact that it has no jurisdiction over their business, or over water rates, being immaterial.—Grand Rapids, etc., R. Co. v. Michigan R. Commn., 154 N.W. 15, 188 Mich. 108.

97. Del.—Robertson v. Wilmington & P. Traction Co., 104 A. 839, 7 Boyce 155.

98. Del.—Robertson v. Wilmington & P. Traction Co., supra.

99. Ill.—Chicago Rys. Co. v. City of Chicago, 126 N.E. 585, 292 Ill. 190, error dismissed City of Chicago v. Chicago Rys. Co., 42 S.Ct. 95, 257 U.S. 617, 66 L.Ed. 399.

The commission, in a proceeding to fix rates, is required to weigh all competent evidence in determining the value of the railroad company's property,[1] and it cannot submit its own conclusions or judgments in place of the evidence presented as to reproduction cost;[2] but only such data as is introduced in evidence may be considered, and an order based on data not so introduced is invalid, notwithstanding that such data is otherwise clearly relevant and material.[3] Considerable latitude is permitted the commission in the investigation of relevant facts as to valuation and other aspects of the determination of the reasonableness of particular rates,[4] and it has been held that any evidence tending to establish the present value of the property is competent.[5] All items entering into the accounts presented by the company and the nature of all expenditures going to reduce the net earnings are subject to investigation;[6] but if the company stipulates that certain expenditures are not to be considered as affecting the value of its property or as having any bearing on the rates of fare it may charge, an investigation of such expenditures is no longer material and may not be required.[7] The commission is not bound, in its estimate of value, by the conclusion reached in an action previously brought in the federal court against a city, in which the street railroad company whose rates were involved was operated.[8]

A finding of the commission that the valuation of a street railroad's property is upward of a specified sum, not objected to by the company, may under certain circumstances, constitute a sufficiently definite valuation for the purpose of ascertaining a rate base.[9] It has been held, however, that in the absence of statutory requirement therefor, a definite appraisal of the value of the railroad company's property is not essential to the determination of the reasonableness of a proposed increase in rates,[10] at least, where the commission can determine such value from other evidence.[11]

In proceedings before a commission to annul increased rates, in the absence of a showing that the lower rates were reasonable and compensatory, the fact that such rates had been in force for some years raises no presumption that an increase therein is unreasonable;[12] the carrier is entitled to have the commission pass on the merits of the question whether the increased rates are unreasonable under the conditions then existing,[13] and where in such proceedings the commission does not find that the increased rates are unreasonable or unjust, it is erroneous for it to vacate them and to require the restoration of the preexisting lower rates merely on the ground that the carrier has failed to overcome the presumption that the increase was unreasonable.[14]

1. Mo.—State ex rel. and to Use of City of St. Louis v. Public Service Commission, 34 S.W.2d 507, 326 Mo. 751.

2. N.Y.—Yonkers R. Co. v. Maltbie, 274 N.Y.S. 535, 242 App.Div. 319, motion granted 195 N.E. 191, 266 N.Y. 542.

3. U.S.—Southern Pac. Co. v. Bartine, D.C.Nev., 1 F.2d 323.

4. Minn.—State v. Minneapolis Street Ry. Co., 191 N.W. 1004, 154 Minn. 401.

Inspection of stock books

The court properly directed a corporation holding the stock of a street railway company and the officers and directors of the holding company to permit the city to inspect the stock books of the holding company, since the railroad and warehouse commission and the city should have considerable latitude in the pursuit of such information.—State v. Minneapolis Street Ry. Co., 191 N.W. 1004, 154 Minn. 401.

5. N.Y.—Yonkers R. Co. v. Maltbie, 296 N.Y.S. 411, 251 App.Div. 204.

Appraisal not supported by inventories

That an appraisal of a railroad's properties, offered in evidence by such company in a proceeding before the commission, did not include the inventories on which it was based, did not make such proof inadmissible.—City of New York v. Nixon, 183 N.Y.S. 6, 111 Misc. 224.

6. Minn.—State v. Minneapolis Street Ry. Co., 191 N.W. 1004, 154 Minn. 401.

7. Minn.—State v. Minneapolis Street Ry. Co., supra.

8. Wis.—Milwaukee Electric Ry. & Light Co. v. Railroad Commission of Wisconsin, 172 N.W. 746, 169 Wis. 421.

9. Pa.—City of Philadelphia v. Public Service Commission, 84 Pa.Super. 135.

10. N.J.—O'Brien v. Board of Public Utilities Com'rs, 106 A. 414, 92 N.J.Law 587, affirming 105 A. 132, 92 N.J.Law 44.
Pa.—City of Philadelphia v. Public Service Commission, 84 Pa.Super. 135

Increase to meet changed conditions

Where increase in rate of trolley company over former reasonable charge is only sufficient to prevent deficit in operations because of new and extraordinary conditions, no useful purpose can be served by a valuation of all its property.—O'Brien v. Board of Public Utilities Com'rs, 106 A. 414, 92 N.J.Law 587, affirming 105 A. 132, 92 N.J.Law 44.

11. Pa.—City of Philadelphia v. Public Service Commission, 83 Pa.Super. 8

12. N.Y.—Peo. v. Public Service Commn., 109 N.E. 252, 215 N.Y. 241, affirming 145 N.Y.S. 513, 159 App.Div. 546.

13. N.Y.—Peo. v. Public Service Commn., 145 N.Y.S. 513, 159 App.Div. 546, affirmed 109 N.E. 252, 215 N.Y. 241.

14. N.Y.—Peo. v. Public Service Commn., 145 N.Y.S. 513, 159 App.Div. 546, affirmed 109 N.E. 242, 215 N.Y. 241

Reason for rule

In view of the regulations imposed on railroad companies and the public reports required of them, it is improper to assume that they have peculiar and hidden knowledge of their affairs, and so should have the burden of justifying an increase of rates, instead of those objecting having the burden of proving that the increase was not required.—Peo. v. Public Service Commn., 109 N.E. 252, 215 N.Y. 241, affirming 145 N.Y.S. 513, 159 App.Div. 546.

The order of the commission, to be valid, must be within the issues framed on the hearing before it.[15]

The commission's rejection of a requested tariff for street railway fares is a final determination.[16]

c. Particular Regulations

(1) Sale of mileage books
(2) Free transportation of specified officers
(3) Single fare for continuous trip; transfers
(4) Other regulations

(1) Sale of Mileage Books

Statutes requiring the sale of mileage books at less than the regular fare are invalid, except as to railroad companies organized subsequent to their enactment, but in so far as they are valid, the carrier may be subjected to a penalty for refusal to issue such books or to accept them for transportation.

A statute requiring a railroad company to issue mileage books at less than the regular fare has been held invalid as a discrimination in favor of those who purchase such tickets, and as depriving the company of its property without due process of law, and without equal protection of the laws,[17] particularly where such mileage books are required to be sold to one class of persons at a lower rate than to another class;[18] but such a statute has been held valid as applied to railroad companies organized subsequent to its enactment.[19] Where the statute so provides, the public service commission has the power to increase the maximum mileage book rates.[20]

In so far as the state may validly require the sale of mileage tickets, it may subject a railroad company to a penalty for a refusal to sell such a ticket, or to accept it for transportation when issued;[21] and any conditions as to the exercise of the right of issuance of the mileage book or of its acceptance for transportation not warranted by the terms of the statute are not enforceable by the carrier, and a noncompliance by the passenger therewith constitutes no defense to an action to recover a penalty for a violation of the statute.[22] Where, however, a demand is made for a mileage book, as provided for by a statute which has been superseded by a later statute, a railroad company may, without subjecting itself to a penalty, refuse to issue it.[23]

(2) Free Transportation of Specified Officers

A railroad may be required to transport specified public officers free of charge, but there is authority to the contrary.

Although there is some authority to the contrary,[24] it has been held that a statute requiring street railroads to transport firemen or police officers free of charge is a valid exercise of the police power of the state, since policemen are frequently required to be on street cars in the execution of their duties as such,[25] and that such a provision

15. U.S.—Southern Pac. Co. v. Bartine, D.C.Nev., 1 F.2d 323.

Rates on branch line

On hearing before railroad commission to determine reasonableness of passenger rates, where issue framed by commission itself involved only question of reducing rates over main line to three cents and over a particular branch to four cents, an order reducing rates on the main line and the branch lines to three cents was broader than the issue involved, and invalid.—Southern Pac. Co. v. Bartine, D.C.Nev., 1 F.2d 323.

16. U.S.—International Ry. Co. v. Prendergast, D.C.N.Y., 29 F.2d 296.

17. U.S.—Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 19 S.Ct. 565, 173 U.S. 684, 43 L.Ed. 858, reversing 72 N.W. 328, 114 Mich. 460.
10 C.J. p 671 note 92.

18. U.S.—Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, supra.
10 C.J. p 671 note 94.

19. N.Y.—Parish v. Ulster, etc., R. Co., 85 N.E. 153, 192 N.Y. 353—Minor v. Erie R. Co., 64 N.E. 454, 171 N.Y. 566, affirming 76 N.Y.S. 513, 73 App.Div. 621, and appeal dismissed 26 S.Ct. 744, 199 U.S. 613, 50 L.Ed. 333.
10 C.J. p 671 note 93.

20. In New York

(1) The rule stated in the text has been enunciated—Peo v. Public Service Commn., 156 N.Y.S. 1065, 171 App.Div. 607—10 C.J. p 672 note 95.

(2) The commission's power to fix such maximum in excess of the maximum fixed by the Railroad Law is not affected by a provision in the Public Service Commission Law empowering the commission to fix maximum rates generally, notwithstanding a higher rate, fare, or charge was theretofore authorized by the statute.—Peo. v. Public Service Commn., supra.

(3) Power of commission to fix rates in excess of statutory maximum generally see supra this section subdivision b.

21. N.Y.—Watson v. New York, etc., R. Co., 54 N.Y.S. 201, 24 Misc. 628.
10 C.J. p 672 note 97.

Penalty cannot be imposed for refusal to sell a mileage ticket, as required by a statute, when applied to railroad companies organized prior to its enactment, since such statute can have no valid application thereto—Beardsley v. New York, etc., R. Co., 56 N.E. 488, 162 N.Y. 230, reversing 44 N.Y.S. 175, 15 App.Div. 251, affirming 40 N.Y.S. 1077, 17 Misc. 256.

22. N.Y.—Trolan v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 52 N.Y.S. 257, 31 App. Div. 320.
10 C.J. p 672 note 98.

23. N.Y.—Watson v. New York, etc., R. Co., 54 N.Y.S. 201, 24 Misc. 628.

24. N.Y.—Wilson v. United Tract. Co., 76 N.Y.S. 203, 72 App.Div. 233.

Reason for rule

A statute requiring firemen and policemen to be carried free is unconstitutional as depriving the company of property without due process of law, for, although it is conceded that public safety requires policemen and firemen to be carried on street railroad cars, such safety will not be promoted by their carriage free of charge—Wilson v. United Traction Co., 76 N.Y.S. 203, 72 App.Div. 233.

25. U.S.—Sutton v. State of New Jersey, N.J., 37 S.Ct. 508, 244 U.S. 258, 61 L.Ed. 1117.

is not the taking of property without just compensation.[26] An ordinance requiring the free transportation of mail carriers, which is effective as a contract between the municipality and the railway, is not affected in its operation by a subsequent state enactment forbidding railroads from carrying certain persons free.[27] A municipality has discretion to amend a franchise requiring such free transportation and eliminate from its operation the transportation of specified officers.[28] Under an ordinance requiring a street railroad company to furnish free transportation to specified officers of the city on the mayor's application, the mayor cannot exercise arbitrary power in requesting such transportation, nor can the company exercise arbitrary power in responding to such request.[29] A statute requiring a railroad company to transport public messengers free of charge does not include a county treasurer with state funds to be paid into the treasury of the state.[30] A statute requiring a state official to be carried free by a railroad includes the secretary to the governor whose duties are prescribed by statute.[31] An order of the public service commissioners that the members of the state water supply commission shall receive free transportation over all railroads operated in the state is not an exercise of the police power.[32]

(3) Single Fare for Continuous Trip; Transfers

Where the regulation so provides, a carrier may be required to furnish a continuous ride over particular lines for a single fare of a specified amount; but particular regulations of this nature have been held not to require transportation, for the single fare, beyond the specified terminus or to the terminus and back.

Where a statute, commission regulation, or ordinance so provides, a street railroad may be restricted to the collection of a single fare, of a stated amount, for a continuous ride over the street railroad company's lines within certain geographical limits,[33] and to a specified additional fare for

Ala.—Montgomery Light & Traction Co. v. Avant, 80 So. 497, 202 Ala 404, 3 A.L.R. 384.
10 C.J. p 668 note 45.

Reserved power to alter charter

A statute requiring that street railways grant free transportation to city detectives is a valid exercise of the state's power, especially under its reserved power to alter the charter of a railway company, in its discretion.—Sutton v. State of New Jersey, N.J., 37 S.Ct. 508, 244 U.S. 258, 61 L.Ed. 1117.

When in uniform

(1) An ordinance requiring the free transportation of members of the police force "when in uniform" includes a plain clothes man wearing only the badge prescribed by his superior.—Montgomery Light & Traction Co. v. Avant, 80 So. 497, 202 Ala. 404, 3 A.L.R. 384.

(2) Under ordinance requiring traction company to transport free members of police force and fire department "when in uniform," the rule of contemporaneous construction by company and city officers as to the badge of a plain clothes man being his uniform would have a bearing in construing the words "when in uniform."—Montgomery Light & Traction Co. v. Avant, supra.

(3) Construction of ordinance requiring traction company to furnish free transportation to police officers when in uniform, construed to entitle a plain clothes man wearing only the badge prescribed by his superior to free transportation, did not abrogate any contract right secured against impairment by the state or federal constitution; nor does it violate a state constitutional provision limiting the duration of street railroad franchises.—Montgomery Light & Traction Co. v. Avant, supra.

26. N.J.—State v. Sutton, 84 A. 1057, 83 N.J.Law 46, affirmed 94 A. 788, 87 N.J.Law 192, and affirmed Sutton v. State of New Jersey, 37 S.Ct. 508, 244 U.S. 258, 61 L.Ed. 1117

27. Ohio.—City of Steubenville v. Steubenville, East Liverpool & Beaver Valley Traction Co., 13 Ohio App. 493.

28. Ark.—Little Rock Ry. & Electric Co. v. Dowell, 142 S.W. 165, 101 Ark. 223, Ann.Cas.1913D 1086.

29. Ala.—Montgomery Light & Traction Co. v. Avant, 80 So. 497, 202 Ala 404, 3 A.L.R. 384.

30. Cal.—Pfister v. Central Pac. R. Co., 11 P. 686, 70 Cal. 169, 59 Am. R. 404.

31. N.J.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Herrmann, 96 A. 665, 88 N.J.Law 526.

32. N.J.—Delaware, etc., R. Co. v. Board of Public Utilities Comrs., 88 A. 849, 85 N.J.Law 28

33. U.S.—Puget Sound Traction, Light & Power Co. v. Reynolds, Wash., 37 S.Ct. 705, 244 U.S. 574, 61 L.Ed. 1325, affirming D.C., 233 F. 371.
N.Y.—People ex rel Brooklyn City R. Co. v. Nixon, 184 N.Y.S. 369, 193 App.Div. 746, affirmed 130 N.E. 915, 230 N.Y. 614.
10 C.J. p 669 note 69, p 670 notes 74–87.

Through service on lines within single system

Street railroad company, operating number of lines as part of single system, may be required by commission order to establish through service on payment of single fare.—Puget Sound Traction, Light & Power Co. v. Reynolds, Wash., 37 S.Ct. 705, 244 U.S. 574, 61 L.Ed. 1325, affirming, D.C., 233 F. 371

Limitation of fare for service as connecting carrier

(1) A prohibition against charging more than five cents for five miles or less, contained in one of the grants of a traction company which operates three different lines, is limited to its services as a connecting carrier, and does not apply to the carriage of passengers over its several lines.—Raynor v. New York, etc., Tract. Co., 151 N.Y.S. 417, 166 App.Div. 927, reversing 149 N.Y.S. 151, 86 Misc. 201.

(2) Where such company owns and operates several lines under several grants, it cannot be considered as a connecting carrier when transporting passengers from one of its lines to another.—Raynor v. New York, etc., Tract. Co., supra.

(3) Where such company can charge ten cents between two points, it may charge that amount for transportation originating on another of its own lines, although it is considered as operating connecting lines.—Raynor v. New York, etc., Tract. Co., supra.

Fare paid in paper

If a city railroad company secures a charter allowing it to receive a fare of five cents, at a time when specie is the lawful currency, and subsequently the government issues a paper currency, which enhances the value of the original fare, the company will be justified in advancing distances beyond such limits;[34] or it may be required to sell a certain number of tickets for such transit for a specified sum.[35] A statute imposing a single fare limitation for transportation to points within a city does not apply where a city makes an extraordinary extension of its geographical limits.[36] Such single fare regulations apply only to the particular railroad corporations,[37] and lines of road,[38] the fare to six cents, when paid in paper—Moneypenny v. Sixth Ave. R Co 30 N Y Super 328, 4 Abb Pr,N S, 357, 35 How Pr. 452.

Penalty for violation

Section 101 of the Railroad Law requiring a specified single fare to be charged for a continuous trip within city limits provides no penalty for a violation thereof but the right to recover such penalty must be sought under § 39 which provides for the forfeiture of fifty dollars to the aggrieved party in case of an overcharge—Bull v. New York City R Co., 85 N.E. 385, 192 N.Y. 361, 19 L.R.A.,N.S., 778, affirming 106 N Y S 378, 121 App.Div. 582—Baron v. New York City R. Co., 105 N Y S. 258, 120 App Div 134, reversing 102 N.Y.S 746, 52 Misc 581.

Contrary rule of carrier

Under a statute requiring street railroads to carry passengers for a single fare between any two points on roads operated under contract as a continuous line, a passenger is entitled to transfer privileges despite a rule of the street railroad company forbidding the issuing of transfers to points in the easterly parts of a city from any point west of a named street.—Ritter v. International Ry. Co., 159 N.Y S. 870.

34. N Y.—People ex rel Brooklyn City R. Co. v. Nixon, 184 N.Y S 369, 193 App Div. 746, affirmed 130 N.E 915, 230 N.Y. 614.
10 C J. p 669 note 70.

Annexation or consolidation

A street railroad extending through a city and a town, having under its franchises the right to collect a fare of a stated amount in each is not affected as to such right by the annexation of the town to the city, or by the subsequent consolidation of the city with another city.—People ex rel Brooklyn City R Co v. Nixon, 184 N.Y S 369, 193 App Div. 746, affirmed 130 N.E. 915, 230 N.Y 614

35. Mass—City of Fall River v Public Service Commission, 122 N E. 406, 232 Mass. 329.
Wis.—Milwaukee Electric Ry. & Light Co. v. Railroad Commission of Wisconsin, 172 N W. 746, 169 Wis. 421
10 C J. p 669 note 71, p 672 note 4 [b].

36. N.Y—Willis v. City of Rochester, 157 N Y.S 815, 93 Misc. 239, affirmed 159 N Y S 1150, 173 App. Div 957.

37. Street surface railroads incorporated under statute

(1) A statute imposing a single fare limitation on corporations operating street railroads which have been incorporated within its provisions applies only to street surface railroads and does not apply where a surface railroad leases the lines of an elevated railroad or steam surface railroad—Peo v Brooklyn Heights R Co, 79 N E 838, 187 N. Y. 48

(2) Such a statute does not apply to railroad companies which are not constructed and operated within its terms.—People ex rel Brooklyn City R Co. v Nixon, 184 N.Y S 369, 193 App Div. 746, affirmed 130 N E 915, 230 N Y. 614.
10 C.J. p 670 note 80.

38. Fare beyond terminus

(1) A municipality may require as a condition precedent that the purchaser of a street railroad franchise shall transport passengers for one fare to and from points beyond one of the termini of the proposed route over the line of other companies.—Peo. v. Barnard, 18 N.E 354, 110 N.Y. 548, reversing 48 Hun 57.

(2) But, where a traction company contracted with a city by acceptance of an ordinance granting permission to maintain its railroad, conditioned that specified rates of fare should be charged, and no words were used indicating that the parties were contracting for any other corporation, its obligation was to carry passengers for the stipulated fares only over its own lines.—Reed v. Trenton, 85 A. 270, 80 N.J.Eq 503.

Connecting and branch lines

(1) A statute imposing a single fare for a continuous ride over a carrier street railroad's line and any connecting branch or extension thereof, refers to transportation over a continuous and connected line of road composed of a main line and tributary lines.—Bull v New York City R. Co, 85 N E. 385, 192 N Y. 361, 19 L R.A.,N S, 778, affirming 106 N.Y S. 378, 121 App Div. 582—King v Nassau Electric R Co, 112 N Y S 589, 128 App Div. 130—10 C.J p 670 note 75

(2) Such statute also does not apply where two lines owned by the same company do not connect, that is, do not run into each other, but on the contrary cross at right angles—O Connor v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 108 N Y S 471, 123 App Div 784—Baron v. New York City R Co, 105 N Y S 258, 120 App Div. 134, reversing 102 N Y.S. 746, 52 Misc 581.

Leased lines

(1) A statutory provision requiring a single fare for passage over a main line and any branch or extension thereof does not apply to roads operated under a lease or contract, but only to the main line and branches thereof built by the carrying company itself—O'Connor v Brooklyn Heights R. Co, 108 N Y S. 471, 123 App Div 784—Baron v. New York City R. Co, 105 N Y S 258, 120 App. Div. 134, reversing 102 N Y S. 746, 52 Misc. 581.

(2) It has been held, however, under the same statute, that a street railroad company organized under the statute could not charge more than the specified fare within the city limits, whether it operated its own lines, or leased other lines whose owners had a right to charge a higher rate.—McNulty v. Brooklyn Heights R Co, 66 N Y S. 57, 31 Misc 674.

(3) The single fare limitation may be imposed over a leased line under another statutory provision that, where one street surface railroad company acquires by lease or otherwise the right to operate another street surface railroad, after the passage of such statutes, it is required to carry a passenger not only over its own road but also over the connecting leased road operated by it within the limits of a city or village for a single fare—Bull v. New York City R Co, 85 N E 385, 192 N. Y 361, 19 L R A,N S, 778, affirming 106 N Y S. 378, 121 App Div 582—People v Brooklyn Heights R Co, 79 N E 838, 187 N Y. 48.
10 C J. p 670 note 78.

Controlled road

Under a statute applying a single fare limitation to a ride over a railway's road or roads, or any connecting branch thereof, "operated by it or under its control," the control referred to means the control of the operation of the road and not merely the control of the corporation or individuals who operate it by reason of the ownership of a majority stock interest—Senior v. New York City R Co., 97 N Y S. 645, 111 App Div. 39, affirmed 80 N E 1120, 187 N.Y. 559—10 C J p 670 note 74

Subsequent extension of lines

(1) An ordinance fixing a maximum fare for street railroad companies has no application to connecting lines afterward constructed by such roads.—Ellis v. Milwaukee City R. Co, 30 N W. 218, 67 Wis. 135, 58 Am.R. 858.

(2) But under a statute so providing, the single fare may apply to an extension of the railroad's lines subsequent to the statute, if the included within their terms, and do not restrict other railroads or lines from charging the rate of fare provided in their charters.[39] A regulation requiring a street railroad company to charge but a single fare for a continuous ride over its lines does not entitle a passenger to ride to a terminus and back again for a single fare.[40] A franchise given an interurban line, providing that a continuous ride from a town to a particular street in a city be furnished for a single fare of five cents, does not entitle passengers to go to any particular place of destination on such street or to be transported along the street after it has been reached.[41]

(4) Other Regulations

Various other regulations as to passenger rates have been held to be valid and have been construed.

A statute dividing railroad companies into classes according to the length of the roads operated or the amount of business done, and fixing a limit for passenger fares for each class, does not deny a corporation the equal protection of the laws.[42] Moreover, the legislature may, if it sees fit, establish rates for each railroad separately, and, as different roads may reasonably require different rates, certain roads may be exempted or excluded from a statute fixing rates.[43] right to construct such branch or extension was acquired under its provisions.—Mendoza v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 64 N.Y.S. 745, 51 App.Div. 430, reversing 62 N.Y.S. 580, 48 App.Div. 62.

"Existing railroads"

Under a contract between the city of New York and a railway company, providing for a five cent fare over a continuous line to be constructed but until completion of such line, allowing same fare for continuous ride over "existing railroads" to be charged that was charged at the end of the fiscal year prior to the contract, the railway company may charge the same amount, ten cents, as it formerly did to a particular point over existing railroads, although a portion of such line is furnished by itself to complete the continuous route, since such portion is an "existing" railway within the definition of the contract.—Merksamer v. Garrison, 181 N.Y.S. 197, 111 Misc. 195.

39. Leased lines not within statute

(1) Where the statute requires that only street surface railroads incorporated under its provisions maintain a single fare of five cents, such fare need not be maintained over a leased elevated road, and the lessee company may charge in addition to the single fare of five cents over its own road, the fare which by its charter the leased elevated road was entitled to charge.—Peo. v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 79 N.E. 838, 187 N.Y. 48.

(2) Likewise, the statute does not restrict to a single fare the charge over a street railroad and a connecting steam surface line, and the latter may additionally impose the fare provided for by its charter.—Peo. v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., supra—Barnett v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 65 N.Y.S. 1068, 53 App.Div. 432.

(3) Further, the additional fare over the steam surface line may be exacted, notwithstanding that the street railroad company leasing such line changes the motive power and operates it as an electric surface railroad.—Peo. v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., supra.

(4) A street railroad company which leases a road organized prior to the date specified in the statute requiring a single fare for any continuous line organized after such date, is not required to maintain a single fare over both its own and the leased line but may exact an additional charge for transportation over the latter line, notwithstanding the two are operated as a connected line.—Barnett v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., supra.

Right unaffected by act of lessee

A street railroad company, not subject to a statute imposing a single fare limitation, on termination of its lease of a line on which it had right under its charters to charge two fares, resumes possession with such right unaffected by the fact that its lessee had voluntarily charged only one fare thereon.—People ex rel. Brooklyn City R. Co. v. Nixon, 184 N.Y.S. 369, 193 App.Div. 746, affirmed 130 N.E. 915, 230 N.Y. 614.

Effect of extensions

Right of a street railroad company, excepted from the operation of a statute imposing a single fare limitation, to charge on one line two fares as provided by its franchises, was not affected by extension of other lines under consents by the city providing for one five-cent fare over all its lines, "unless a rate . . . in excess . . . may be lawfully charged," in view of a statutory provision permitting a railroad not within the act, which builds extensions under the act, to charge its authorized rate prior to the extensions.—People ex rel. Brooklyn City R. Co. v. Nixon, 184 N.Y.S. 369, 193 App.Div. 746, affirmed 130 N.E. 915, 230 N.Y. 614.

40. Pa.—Wimmer v. Union Tract. Co., 12 Pa.Super. 467.

Intent of ordinance

An ordinance that provides that the rate of fare "shall not exceed the present fare" for a single continuous ride, shows no intention to diminish the amount of fare collectable, by requiring a ride to the terminus and back for a single fare, but only to prevent a subsequent increase.—Wimmer v. Union Tract. Co., 12 Pa. Super. 467.

41. Mich.—Zilwaukee Tp. v. Saginaw Bay City Ry. Co., 131 N.W. 37, 213 Mich. 61.

42. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Gill, 15 S.W. 18, 54 Ark. 101, 115, 11 L.R.A. 452, affirmed 15 S.Ct. 484, 156 U.S. 649, 39 L.Ed. 567.
10 C.J. p. 667 note 39.

43. Mich.—Groesbeck v. Detroit United Ry., 177 N.W. 726, 210 Mich. 227.
10 C.J. p. 667 note 40.

Statute not invalid as discriminatory

A provision of a statute, excepting from the rate thereby fixed passenger carriers earning over eight thousand dollars per mile, when construed with the next provision, that carriers earning more than ten thousand dollars per mile can charge only two cents per mile instead of two and one-half cents, as fixed by another section of the act, does not exclude a carrier theretofore earning eight thousand dollars per mile from all the provisions of the act, but only from the provision authorizing the two and one-half-cent rate, and as so construed is not void for unreasonable discrimination.—Groesbeck v. Detroit United Ry., 177 N.W. 726, 210 Mich. 227.

Earnings for preceding year

A statutory provision to the effect that in the future whenever passenger earnings of certain railways shall increase to equal ten thousand dollars per mile the carrier can charge only two cents per mile, applies to a carrier whose earnings for the year preceding the enactment exceeded ten thousand dollars per mile.—Groesbeck v. Detroit United Ry., 177 N.W. 726, 210 Mich. 227.

Hacks. An ordinance fixing the rate of fare for the hire of hacks is within the legislative authority of a municipality authorized to regulate such conveyances,[44] and it has been held that such rate of fare includes compensation for time and trouble in going for the passenger as well as in carrying him to his point of destination, and that the driver cannot make a special contract for a higher rate of fare after the passenger has entered or begun to enter the carriage.[45] An ordinance regulating public hackmen is not discriminatory because it applies only to those engaged in transporting passengers for hire who solicit business on the streets.[46]

Reduced fare to pupils. Where a statute or ordinance so provides, a street railroad company may be required to transport school children at a fare lower than the regular fare.[47] The words "pupils" and "schools" as used in such a statute or ordinance are of broad significance and may, by the connection in which they are used, be held to include students in higher institutions of learning;[48] but, ordinarily, and without something to indicate that a wider meaning was intended to be given to such words, they will not be taken to include students of higher institutions of learning, such as colleges, universities, or institutions for the teaching of trades, professions, or business.[49] The term, "public schools," as used in such a statute, has been held to include a parochial school maintained by private benevolence.[50]

Special rates to soldiers. According to some authority, a statute requiring railroads to give special rates to militiamen traveling on orders does not violate a constitutional provision forbidding discrimination in rates, and is not otherwise invalid under the state and federal constitutions.[51] By other authority, such a statute is void as denying to the railroad companies the equal protection of the laws guaranteed by the fourteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States.[52] Also, it has been held that such a statute violates a constitutional provision that the legislature shall pass laws to prevent unjust discrimination in passenger fares,[53] although it is not in contravention of a provision forbidding discrimination between, or in favor of, transportation companies and individuals.[54]

Charge for fraction of mile. Where a carrier is authorized to make certain charges per mile, the same fare may usually be charged for a part of a mile as is charged for a whole mile;[55] but it has been held that a charge cannot be made for a fraction of a mile unless it is so large a fraction as to make a charge of one cent or more not in excess of the rate per mile fixed by the statute.[56]

44. Ala.—Bray v. State, 37 So. 250, 140 Ala. 172
N.Y.—Yellow Taxicab Co. v Gaynor, 143 N.Y.S. 279, 82 Misc. 94, affirmed 144 N.Y.S. 299, 494, 159 App.Div. 893.
10 C.J. p 668 note 54.
Regulation of fares of motor-driven vehicles see C.J.S. title Motor Vehicles § 54, also 42 C.J. p 656 notes 8–20.

45. Mass.—Com. v. Duane, 98 Mass 1

46. N.Y.—Yellow Taxicab Co. v. Gaynor, 143 N.Y.S. 279, 82 Misc. 94, affirmed 144 N.Y.S. 299, 159 App.Div. 893.

47. Ohio—City of Cincinnati v. Cincinnati Traction Co., 23 Ohio N.P., N.S., 585.
10 C.J. p 670 note 88.

Statute held not violated

An ordinance increasing street car fares from five to six cents did not violate a statute providing that no franchise be modified or changed at the railroad's request unless it consents to the insertion in its franchise of a provision for the transportation of school children for not more than three-fifths of the fare charged adults, where the original franchise required school children to be transported for two and one-half cents, and the amending ordinance provided that this fare should remain unchanged.—Long v. City of Shreveport, 91 So. 825, 151 La. 423.

48. Mass.—Clinton v. Worcester Cons. St. R. Co., 85 N.E. 507, 199 Mass 279
Va.—Northrop v. Richmond, 53 S.E. 962, 105 Va. 335
10 C.J. p 671 note 89

49. La.—Long v. City of Shreveport, 91 So. 825, 151 La. 423.
10 C.J. p 671 note 90.

Students eighteen years of age or over, attending business colleges, or the junior and senior classes of other colleges, cannot be considered "school children" within a statute requiring any street railway requesting any modification of its franchise to agree to transport school children for three-fifths of the fare charged adults.—Long v. City of Shreveport, 91 So. 825, 151 La. 423.

50. Okl.—Oklahoma R. Co. v. St. Joseph's Parochial School, 127 P. 1087, 33 Okl. 755

Catholic convent schools

Under an ordinance requiring issuance of tickets on traction lines to children of specified ages attending "public or parochial" schools, the word "parochial" applies to convent schools and high schools maintained by the catholic church.—City of Cincinnati v. Cincinnati Traction Co., 23 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 585.

51. Minn.—State v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 137 N.W. 2, 118 Minn. 380 41 L.R.A.,N.S., 524, Ann.Cas.1913E 494

52. Kan.—In re Gardner, 113 P. 1054, 84 Kan. 264, 33 L.R.A.,N.S., 956.

53. Mo.—State v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 172 S.W. 35, 262 Mo. 507, L.R.A.1915C 778, Ann.Cas.1916E 949.
10 C.J. p 668 note 52

54. Mo.—State v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., supra.

55. Ark.—Jonesboro, etc., R. Co. v. Brookfield, 112 S.W. 977, 87 Ark. 409
N.J.—Hunter v. Erie R. Co., 56 A. 139, 70 N.J.Law 101.
Ohio—Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Wells, 62 N.E. 332, 65 Ohio St. 313, 58 L.R.A. 651.
10 C.J. p 667 note 41.

56. Mich.—Chamberlain v. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co., 81 N.W. 339, 122 Mich. 477—Zagelmeyer v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 60 N.W. 436, 102 Mich. 214, 47 Am.S.R. 514.
10 C.J. p 668 note 42.

Fare nearest certain integer. Under a statute so providing, a carrier may charge that multiple of five which is nearest the product reached by multiplying the distance by the rate, whether it is above or below the actual fare;[57] and in case the fare is equally distant from the multiple next above and the one next below, either may be charged.[58]

Local and through rates. Under an act which requires transportation at "fair and reasonable rates," the carrier is not bound to transport local passengers at through rates, if the local rates are "fair and reasonable."[59]

Maximum rate. Subject to the limitation that the rate fixed must be reasonable and fair, as already discussed in subdivision a of this section, the legislature or the commission may fix a maximum rate beyond which the carrier cannot charge a passenger for transportation, and such maximum rate when fixed is binding on the courts in their adjudications as well as on the parties in their dealings;[60] and such power is not surrendered so as to leave it to be determined by the courts, free of all legislative control, by statutory authority to the company "from time to time to fix, regulate," etc., charges.[61] A commission order fixing the maximum ticket rate and the maximum train rate each at the same amount per mile is not, because of the failure to discriminate between the two, unreasonable and void.[62] The right granted a street railroad to operate a line on its agreement not to charge a fare in excess of a stated amount gives it the right to charge the maximum.[63]

Minimum rate. Under some statutes or regulations thereunder so providing, a minimum amount may be charged where the regular fare for the distance traveled is less than that amount;[64] but such minimum charge cannot be made for a fraction of a journey for which a passenger's mileage book falls short.[65]

Authorized or actual charges. A statute permitting a street railroad to charge the rates authorized by a prior franchise until such rates are changed by commission empowers the railroad to charge fares for which its franchise gave authority, notwithstanding that such fares were not collected by it before it became subject to the statute.[66]

§ 583. Municipal Regulation

a. In general
b. Validity and effect of franchise provision or agreement for fixed rate
c. Power of state or commission to change rates fixed by municipality

a. In General

A municipality may regulate the rates of fare of railroads within its limits only if the authority to do so has been clearly granted to it by the state, but, although the right conferred on it to grant franchises does not confer the power to prescribe rates, it may fix certain rates as a condition to its grant. Rates fixed by the municipality must be reasonable and not unjustly discriminatory.

As already stated in § 582, the power of regulation of street railroad rates is vested in the state, and a municipality has no power of regulation of such rates independent of that conferred on it by the sovereign power.[67] Consequently, in 57. Ohio—Cleveland, etc., R Co v. Wells, 55 N.E. 827, 61 Ohio St. 268, affirming 17 Ohio Cir Ct. 201, 9 Ohio Cir.Dec. 527—Heaton v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 2 Ohio S. & C.P. 590, 1 Ohio N.P. 188, 433.

58. Ohio.—Cleveland, etc, R. Co. v. Wells, 55 N.E. 827, 61 Ohio St. 268, affirming 17 Ohio Cir.Ct. 201, 9 Ohio Cir.Dec, 527.

59. U S—Union Pac. R Co. v U. S, 20 Ct Cl. 70, affirmed 6 S.Ct. 772, 117 U.S. 355, 29 L.Ed. 920.
10 C.J. p 669 note 63.

60. Ga—Georgia Public Service Commission v. Atlanta & W. P. R. Co., 139 S.E. 725, 164 Ga. 822.
10 C.J. p 669 note 67.

Railroads within statute

(1) A railroad owned, controlled, or operated by another, but not connecting therewith, is not a part thereof, within statute fixing maximum rates for passenger transportation—Coal & Coke Ry Co. v. Conley, 67 S.E. 613, 67 W.Va. 129.

(2) Electric railroad incorporated under Railroad Act retains such character, and hence is subject to a statute fixing the maximum rate for companies within such act at two cents per mile.—East St. Louis & S. Ry. Co. v. Brundage, D.C.Ill., 10 F.2d 830.

61. U.S.—Stone v. New Orleans, etc., R. Co., Miss., 6 S.Ct. 349, 116 U.S. 352, 29 L.Ed 651—Stone v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., Miss., 6 S.Ct. 348, 388, 1191, 116 U.S. 347, 29 L Ed. 650—Stone v. Farmers' L. & T. Co., Miss., 6 S Ct. 334, 388, 1191, 116 U S 307, 29 L.Ed. 636.

62. Miss.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Mississippi Railroad Commission, 77 So. 314, 116 Miss. 484.

63. N Y—People ex rel. Brooklyn City R Co v. Nixon, 184 N Y S. 369, 193 App Div. 746, affirmed 130 N.E 915, 230 N Y. 614.

64. Fla.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Berry, 50 So. 579, 58 Fla. 300.
S C.—Kibler v. Southern R. Co., 40 S.E. 556, 62 S.C. 252.
10 C.J. p 669 note 64.

65. Fla.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Berry, 50 So. 579, 58 Fla 300.
10 C J. p 669 note 65.

66. Minn—Anderson v. St. Paul City Ry. Co., 188 N.W. 286, 152 Minn. 213.

Interurban passengers

Under the rule stated in the text, a street railroad, given the right by its former franchise to collect a fare from any passenger over any part of its railway, could collect a fare from interurban passengers to or from a so-called midway district, although no such fare was collected before the street railroad became subject to the act.—Anderson v. St. Paul City Ry. Co., 188 N.W. 286, 152 Minn 213.

67. U.S—City of Covington, Ky., v. Cincinnati, N. & C. Ry. Co., C.C.A. Ky, 71 F.2d 117, certiorari denied Cincinnati, N. & C. Ry Co. v. City of Covington, Ky, 55 S.Ct. 142, 293 U.S. 612, 79 L.Ed. 702, and City of the absence of a grant of authority from the state, a municipality cannot interfere with a street railroad company in the regulation of its rates of fare under express statutory authority.[68] However, where the legislature has not given exclusive authority over rates to a state regulatory body,[69] and has expressly or impliedly delegated this power to a municipality, it may regulate the rates of passenger fares to be charged by street railroad companies within its jurisdiction,[70] subject to the superior regulatory powers of the state or its authorized agency, as will hereinafter be considered in subdivision c of this section. Such power of the municipality is not subject to judicial control unless it is unlawfully or arbitrarily exercised,[71] and the question whether a provision in the franchise granted a street railroad company by a city, which fixes the maximum fares, is valid is one for the courts and not for the railroad or public service commission.[72]

As respects municipal regulation, the important question is whether in a given case power has in fact been granted to the municipality by the state; the authority must be contained in express terms or must arise by necessary implication from the language used in the legislative act, or it does not exist.[73] So, a grant of authority in a municipal charter to pass ordinances for municipal purposes generally, to control the streets, and to prescribe regulations, or to fix reasonable charges for enumerated vehicles, without specific mention of street railroads, is ordinarily insufficient to authorize an enactment fixing rates of fare to be charged by such railroads,[74] although a similar

Covington v. Cincinnati, N & C. R Co., 55 S.Ct. 142, 293 U.S. 612, 79 L.Ed. 702.

Ga.—Georgia Ry & Power Co v Railroad Commission of Georgia, 98 S.E. 696, 149 Ga. 1, 5 A.L.R. 1

Fla.—State v Railroad Com'rs of Florida, 84 So. 444, 79 Fla. 526—State v. Burr, 84 So. 61, 79 Fla. 290.

Ohio.—Village of Wyoming v Ohio Traction Co., 135 N.E. 675, 104 Ohio St. 325.

Okl.—Swain v. Oklahoma Ry. Co., 32 P.2d 51, 168 Okl. 133.

Pa.—City of Easton v. Easton Transit Co., 17 Pa.Dist. 711.

Ordinance without authority is void

Ga.—Georgia Ry. & Power Co v. Railroad Commission of Georgia, 98 S.E. 696, 149 Ga. 1, 5 A.L.R. 1.

10 C.J. p. 673 note 8 [b].

68. Mass.—Wellesley v. Boston, etc., St. R. Co., 74 N.E. 355, 188 Mass. 250—Keefe v. Lexington, etc., St. R. Co., 70 N.E. 37, 185 Mass. 183.

69. U.S.—Portland R., etc. Co. v. Portland, D.C.Or., 210 F. 667.

10 C.J. p. 672 note 3

70. La.—State v City of New Orleans, 91 So. 533, 151 La. 24

Ohio.—Rogers v. City of Cincinnati, 22 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 401.

10 C.J. p. 672 note 4.

Ordinances or municipal regulations requiring.

Free transportation of firemen, policemen, or other officers see supra § 582 c (2).

Reduced fare for school children see supra § 582 c (4).

Single fare for continuous trip see supra § 582 c (3).

Specified rate of fare for hacks see supra § 582 c (4)

Ordinance not vague or ambiguous

An amendment referring to ordinances granting franchises held by a street railway company, and increasing the fare fixed in them, was not vague and unambiguous because it did not amend and reordain each section of each ordinance fixing fares.—Long v City of Shreveport, 91 So. 825, 151 La. 423

Ordinance applicable to entire system

Municipal ordinance as to street car fares and transfers was held to apply to entire street railway system, consisting of several lines, franchises for some of which are still in force, while those for others had expired.—Detroit United Ry. Co. v City of Detroit, Mich., 39 S.Ct. 151, 248 U.S. 429, 63 L.Ed. 341.

71. U.S.—Houston Electric Co v. City of Houston D.C.Tex., 265 F. 360—Henry L. Doherty & Co v Toledo Rys. & Light Co., D.C. Ohio, 254 F. 597

10 C.J. p. 673 note 5.

72. Vt.—Barre v Barre, etc., Power, etc., Co., 92 A. 237, 88 Vt. 304.

73. Fla.—State v Railroad Com'rs of Florida, 84 So. 444, 79 Fla. 526—State v. Burr, 84 So. 61, 79 Fla. 290.

Ga.—Georgia Ry. & Power Co v Railroad Commission of Georgia, 98 S.E. 696, 149 Ga. 1, 5 A.L.R. 1

N.Y.—Koehn v. Public Service Commission, Second Dist., 176 N.Y.S. 147, 107 Misc. 151

10 C.J. p. 673 note 8

Doubt resolved against city

Any doubt as to whether a statute authorizes a municipality to fix rates must be resolved against the authority of the city.—State v. Railroad Com'rs of Florida, 84 So. 444, 79 Fla. 526

Delegation strictly construed

Any delegation of authority to a municipality to regulate rates must be strictly construed.—City of Richmond v. Virginia Ry. & Power Co., 126 S.E. 353, 141 Va. 69.

Rule applied to regulation of interurban rates

N.Y.—Koehn v. Public Service Commission, Second Dist., 176 N.Y.S. 147, 107 Misc. 151

Statutes held to confer authority

It has been held, under particular statutes, that authority to fix street railroad rates within a city was vested in the municipal council and not in the public service commission. —State v. City of New Orleans, 91 So. 533, 151 La. 24.

Special law prevails

If there is a general law conferring on municipalities authority to fix rates for street railroads, and also a special law conferring a similar power on a particular city which is inconsistent with the general law, the special or local law prevails as to the city to which it applies.—State v. Burr, 84 So. 61, 79 Fla. 290.

74. Ga.—Georgia Ry & Power Co. v. Railroad Commission of Georgia, 98 S.E. 696, 149 Ga. 1, 5 A.L.R. 1

10 C.J. p. 674 note 14

"We do not think that the sections of the charter of the city of Atlanta giving them control over the streets, nor that authorizing the municipality to prescribe 'reasonable charges to be collected by hacks, cabs, drays or other licensed vehicles for the transportation of persons,' etc., nor that part of the charter authorizing them to pass ordinances generally for a municipal purpose . . . nor similar provisions in the charter, grant to the city the power to fix the rates of fare upon lines of [a] street railroad; that power is not expressly given in any of these provisions of the charter, nor is it to be necessarily inferred from any of the powers actually granted."—Georgia Ry. & statute has been held to evidence such an intention in view of a general clause including within such grant of authority, "like occupations."[75] A provision in the act incorporating a street railroad company that makes the rates of fare "subject to the approval of the mayor and city council" confers no power on the city to fix rates originally,[76] and even though power to fix rates could thus be conferred, it is exhausted by the passage of an ordinance under which the road is constructed and maximum rates prescribed.[77] It has also been held that the governmental power to prescribe rates is not in itself conferred on a city by power given to it to contract as to the rates to be charged,[78] or by a constitutional or statutory provision requiring the city's consent to the construction and operation of a street railroad within its environs.[79] It seems, however, that, where by statute or constitution the consent of the municipality affected is a requisite to the grant of any street railroad franchise, or where the city is itself empowered to grant franchises, it may impose a stipulated rate of fare as a condition to its consent,[80] or to its grant of a franchise,[81] and make the franchise defeasible on noncompliance with the prescribed rates.[82] As appears in subdivision b of this section, a municipality may also bargain with reference to rates for transportation to points outside the city limits, as a condition to granting the use of its streets.

Authority granted a municipality to fix rates at the end of a specified period continues until the power is exercised.[83]

In exercising authority to fix rates, the municipality need not designate a definite rate of fare, but may instead provide a fixed rule by which rates based on service at cost shall be determined, and, in such case, the ordinance is not objectionable as fixing an uncertain or variable rate.[84]

Method and procedure for setting rate. A municipality may properly provide in a franchise for the operation of a street railroad that in case of disagreement between it and the railroad as to the rate of fare to be charged, such rate shall be settled by arbitration.[85] This does not involve an invalid delegation of legislative authority of the Power Co v. Railroad Commission of Georgia, 98 S.E. 696, 701, 149 Ga. 1, 5 A.L.R. 1.

75. Ill.—Chicago Union Tract. Co. v. Chicago, 65 N.E. 451, 199 Ill. 484, 59 L.R.A. 631.
10 C.J. p. 674 note 15.

76. U.S.—Old Colony Trust Co. v. Atlanta, C.C.Ga., 83 F. 39, 42, affirmed 88 F. 859, 32 C.C.A. 125.

77. Old Colony Trust Co. v. Atlanta, C.C.Ga., 83 F. 39, affirmed 88 F. 859, 32 C.C.A. 125.

78. Va.—City of Richmond v. Virginia Ry. & Power Co., 126 S.E. 353, 141 Va. 69.

79. N.Y.—In re Fleming, 191 N.Y.S. 586, 117 Misc. 373, appeal dismissed 192 N.Y.S. 925.
Va.—City of Richmond v. Virginia Ry. & Power Co., 126 S.E. 353, 141 Va. 69.

Condition imposed by subsequent ordinance

An ordinance imposing conditions on a street railway company, when the privilege is originally granted to occupy its streets, none of which fixes the fares to be charged nor bears any relation thereto, does not make it liable to such regulation by another ordinance enacted several years afterward, by virtue of a provision contained in it that the company shall be subject to "all lawful alterations or additions" to such conditions.—City of Easton v. Easton Transit Co., 17 Pa.Dist. 711.

80. Mo.—City of St. Louis v. Public Service Commission, 207 S.W. 805, 276 Mo. 509—City of St. Louis v. Public Service Commission of Missouri 207 S.W. 799, 276 Mo. 509.
N.Y.—Quinby v. Public Service Commission of State of New York for Second Dist., 119 N.E. 433, 223 N.Y. 244, 3 A.L.R. 685, reversing 169 N.Y.S. 1109, 183 App.Div. 914, affirming 169 N.Y.S. 976, 102 Misc. 337, reargument denied 124 N.E. 790, 227 N.Y. 601—People ex rel. Incorporated Village of Brownville v. Public Service Commission of New York, Second Dist., 191 N.Y.S. 293, 198 App.Div. 391—In re Fleming, 191 N.Y.S. 586, 117 Misc. 373, appeal dismissed 192 N.Y.S. 925.
Utah.—Salt Lake City v. Utah Light & Traction Co. 173 P. 556, 52 Utah 210, 3 A.L.R. 715.

81. U.S.—Portland R., etc., Co. v. Portland, D.C.Or., 201 F. 119.

Rate for special cars

Under a franchise reserving the right to fix rate of fares on special cars, municipality may authorize special rate on such special cars.—Stafford v. Cleveland R. Co., 20 Oh.Cir.Ct.,N.S., 129.

82. N.Y.—People ex rel. Incorporated Village of Brownville v. Public Service Commission of New York, Second Dist., 191 N.Y.S. 293, 198 App.Div. 391.

83. Ohio.—Rogers v. City of Cincinnati, 22 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 401.

Fixing of rate at specified intervals

A statute authorizing the city to fix rates at the end of twenty years from the passage of the act, and every fifteen years thereafter, empowers the city to fix rates at any time after the period named until a valid contract is entered into with the railroad for the balance of the period, and the city's power is continuous and cannot be exhausted either by lapse of time or by an ineffectual attempt to reach an agreement with the railroad.—Rogers v. City of Cincinnati, 22 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 401.

84. Ohio.—Rogers v. City of Cincinnati, supra.

85. Ohio.—Parks v. Cleveland Ry. Co., 176 N.E. 472, 38 Ohio App. 315, affirmed 177 N.E. 28, 124 Ohio St. 79.

Arbitration award binding on parties

Ohio.—Parks v. Cleveland Ry. Co., 176 N.E. 472, 38 Ohio App. 315, affirmed 177 N.E. 28, 124 Ohio St. 79.

Appraisement

(1) The power being admitted, the fact that rates not yet in dispute are submitted for determination does not render the determination unauthorized as a future arbitration since technically it is merely an appraisement of the value of the service provided by the carrier, and is not a technical arbitration designed to terminate all controversies between the parties.—Parks v. Cleveland Ry. Co., 177 N.E. 28, 124 Ohio St. 79, affirming 176 N.E. 472, 38 Ohio App. 315.

(2) A municipality by applying to a commission, pursuant to statute, for the approval of a contract for street car service, which contract city where the city is authorized only to contract with street railroads as to rates and not to regulate them.[86] An ordinance which provides for the procedure to be followed for any change of rates by the council, whether such change is initiated by the council or proposed by the railway, is not objectionable as depriving the council of the legislative power to fix and determine rates where such power is specifically reserved.[87]

Enforcement by city of carrier's fare regulations. Although a municipality may have no authority to control the rates and charges of a street railroad, it can, because of the public interest in the maintenance of reasonable rates, require, under penalty, that the public shall observe the railroad's rules and regulations concerning rates.[88]

Regulation must be reasonable and nondiscriminatory. The power of municipal regulation of street railroad rates is subject to the limitations that there is reasonable need considering the nature and extent of the service, of lower rates and better terms than those existing, and that the rates and terms fixed by the ordinance are clearly not unreasonable, in view of all the conditions.[89] So, an ordinance fixing rates is ordinarily, on the one hand, subject to change by the city to protect the public from an excessive charge for service, and, on the other hand, subject to attack by the railroad company as unreasonable and confiscatory;[90] as indicated in subdivision b of this section, however, rates fixed by an ordinance operative as a binding contract may preclude alteration by the city, or attack by the railroad, except where a change of rate is agreed to by both parties. In order to enjoin the enforcement of an ordinance reducing fares, it is not incumbent for the railroad to show that the reduced rate is confiscatory within meaning of the federal constitution, but it is sufficient that the rate is unreasonable, unjust, and insufficient to maintain a fair return on the value of the property.[91] A rate which is reasonable when fixed, under the conditions then existing, may subsequently become unreasonable by reason of the company's building extensions and connecting lines, changing its motive power, and otherwise rendering increased services at an additional cost;[92] conversely, a rate unreasonable when fixed may become valid as a result of a subsequent lessening of operating costs and reproduction value.[93]

Rates fixed by municipal regulation must not unreasonably discriminate against any particular class of persons;[94] but, where all the residents of a municipality receive a reasonable service at a reasonable price, a discrimination in favor of the residents of a certain locality, resting on a sense of justice and fair play, is not reprehensible.[95]

b. Validity and Effect of Franchise Provision or Agreement for Fixed Rate

Although a municipality may not ordinarily contract provides for appraisal of the street railroad's property and authorizes a review of the appraisal in the courts, does not thereby ratify the appraisal.—City of Rochester v New York State Rys., 217 N.Y.S. 452, 127 Misc. 766.

86. Ohio.—Parks v. Cleveland Ry. Co, 177 N.E. 28, 124 Ohio St. 79, affirming 176 N.E. 472, 38 Ohio App. 315.

87. Ky.—Poggel v. Louisville Ry. Co., 10 S.W.2d 305, 225 Ky. 784.

88. Mo.—Ex parte Packman, 296 S. W. 366, 317 Mo 732.

89. U.S.—Milwaukee Electric R., etc., Co. v. Milwaukee, C.C.Wis., 87 F. 577.
Wis.—Ellis v. Milwaukee City R Co., 30 N.W. 218, 67 Wis. 135, 58 Am.R. 858
10 C.J. p 675 note 24.

Neither of these conditions is independent of the other, and, although the public interest is of the first importance, the test is not what is desirable on the part of either, but what is reasonable in respect of both.

U.S.—Milwaukee Electric R, etc., Co. v. Milwaukee, C.C.Wis, 87 F. 577
Wis.—Ellis v. Milwaukee City R. Co., 30 N.W. 218, 67 Wis. 135, 58 Am.R. 858.

Presumption of reasonableness
Rates prescribed by municipal ordinances will be presumed to be reasonable until their unreasonableness is shown.
U.S.—Milwaukee Electric R., etc, Co. v. Milwaukee, C.C Wis., 87 F. 577.
Ill.—Chicago Union Tract Co v. Chicago 65 N.E. 470, 199 Ill. 579.
Wis.—Ellis v. Milwaukee City R. Co, 30 N.W. 218, 67 Wis. 135, 58 Am R. 858.

Reasonable return
Although, after the franchises for some of the lines of a street railway company have expired, the city can require the tracks of such lines to be removed, it cannot require continuance of service thereon on terms not allowing a reasonable return on investment, as this would amount to denial of due process of law.—Detroit United Ry. Co. v. City of Detroit, Mich., 39 S.Ct. 151, 248 U.S. 429, 63 L.Ed 341.

90. U.S.—Westinghouse Electric & Mfg Co. v. Denver Tramway Co., D.C Colo., 3 F.2d 285, appeal transferred City and County of Denver v. Stenger, 47 S.Ct. 343, 273 U.S. 657, 71 L.Ed 825—San Antonio Public Service Co. v. City of San Antonio, D.C.Tex., 257 F. 467, affirmed City of San Antonio v. San Antonio Public Service Co., 41 S. Ct. 428, 255 U.S. 547, 65 L.Ed. 777.

91. Tex.—Houston Electric Co. v. City of Houston, Civ.App, 212 S. W 198, error granted

92. U.S.—Galveston Electric Co. v. City of Galveston, Tex, 42 S.Ct. 351, 258 U.S. 388, 66 L.Ed 678, affirming, D.C, 272 F. 147.
10 C.J. p 675 note 26.

93. U.S.—Galveston Electric Co. v. City of Galveston, supra.

94. Pa.—City of Easton v Easton Transit Co., 17 Pa.Dist. 711.
10 C.J p 675 note 29.

95. La.—Forman v. New Orleans, etc, R. Co., 4 So. 246, 40 La.Ann. 446.

with a carrier for rates of fare in contravention of state regulation, it may, where authority has been clearly conferred on it by the state, and where the suspension of the regulatory power is not prohibited by the organic law, enter into a contract with a carrier for the maintenance of fixed fares for a definite term; such contract is binding on both parties, unless modified by mutual consent for a sufficient consideration, and precludes reduction of the rate by the city, or attack on the rate by the carrier as confiscatory.

Where the state legislature proceeds to exercise its power to fix rates for a street railroad company, such company and a municipality cannot contract as to the matter,[96] and by such means supersede or modify the rates fixed.[97] However, although as appears later in this section, the constitutions of some states have been held to prohibit the enforcement of such contracts in those jurisdictions where the suspension of the regulatory power is not expressly or impliedly prohibited by the organic law, and, where authority has been conferred on the municipality by appropriate state enactment, the municipality may enter into a contract with a street railroad to maintain a specified rate of fare, for a reasonable term of years.[98] Authority so to contract may also be derived from the city's right to impose conditions on a franchise grant, as long as the state has not exercised and is not seeking to exercise its police power as to street railroad fares.[99] In imposing the terms

96. U.S.—Westinghouse Electric & Mfg. Co. v. Binghamton Ry Co., D.C.N.Y., 255 F. 378, appeal dismissed 257 F. 726, 169 C.C.A. 14.

Power of state to alter rates fixed by existing contracts see infra subdivision e of this section.

Municipal consent to operation

Although a statute, relating to street railroads, provided for consent of municipal authorities to the construction and operation of such roads, yet as the act itself, by fixing the rate of fare, showed a legislative exercise of the rate-making power, the consent did not create any contract between the municipality and street railroad company, restricting the latter to the rate of fare prescribed in the act.—Westinghouse Electric & Mfg. Co. v. Binghamton Ry. Co., D.C.N.Y., 255 F. 378, appeal dismissed 257 F. 726, 169 C.C.A. 14.

Where authority to cross city streets is derived from the legislature, a statutory provision requiring the city's consent thereto, intended only to permit the city to regulate the construction and operation of the crossing, does not authorize the city, as a condition of granting its consent, to revise or change the fares prescribed by the legislature.—People ex rel New York, W. & B. Ry. Co. v. Public Service Commission, First Dist., 183 N.Y.S. 473, 193 App. Div. 445, affirmed 130 N.E. 911, 230 N.Y. 604.

97. N.Y.—In re Huff, 172 N.E. 520, 254 N.Y. 316, affirming 239 N.Y.S. 840, 228 App. Div. 763.

Schedules increasing fares beyond the statutory maximum on lines for which the legislature has granted franchises are unlawful, regardless of later contract franchises entered into with a municipality.—In re Huff, 172 N.E. 520, 254 N.Y. 316, affirming 239 N.Y.S. 840, 228 App. Div. 763.

98. U.S.—Railroad Commission of California v. Los Angeles Ry. Corporation, Cal., 50 S.Ct. 71, 280 U.S. 145, 74 L.Ed. 234, affirming, D.C., Los Angeles Ry. Corporation v. Railroad Commission of California, 29 F.2d 140—Columbus Ry., Power & Light Co. v. City of Columbus, Ohio, 39 S.Ct. 349, 249 U.S. 399, 63 L.Ed. 669, 6 A.L.R. 1648, affirming, D.C., 253 F. 499—Detroit v. Detroit Citizens' St. R. Co., Mich., 22 S.Ct. 410, 184 U.S. 368, 46 L.Ed. 592—Cincinnati, N. & C. Ry. Co. v. City of Cincinnati, Ohio, C.C.A. Ohio, 71 F.2d 124, certiorari denied 55 S.Ct. 142, 293 U.S. 612, 79 L.Ed. 702.

Ohio.—Interurban Ry. & Terminal Co. v. Public Utilities Commission, 120 N.E. 831, 98 Ohio St. 287, 3 A.L.R. 696—Interurban Ry. & Term. Co. v. City of Cincinnati, 112 N.E. 186, 93 Ohio St. 108—Rogers v. City of Cincinnati, 22 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 401.

10 C.J. p. 674 note 16.

Construction of particular agreements

(1) An agreement by a suburban railroad with a town to maintain the same rate of fare between the town and a certain city as that charged by it between such city and another city obligates it to charge only the rate charged by it between such other points, although on a line subsequently built or purchased by it.—West Bloomfield Tp. v. Detroit United R. Co., 109 N.W. 258, 146 Mich. 198, 117 Am.S.R. 628.

(2) A contract between a municipality and a railway specifying the fare chargeable for transportation to another city requires passengers to be carried in either direction at the stipulated rate, especially where this construction agrees with the practice followed for many years.—Georgia Ry. & Power Co. v. City of College Park, Ga., 43 S.Ct. 617, 262 U.S. 441, 67 L.Ed. 1074.

Provision held contractual and not regulatory

A section in a street railroad franchise providing that, in consideration of the rights conveyed to the grantee, he should not charge more than five cents for a single ride is a contractual obligation, and not merely a regulative provision.—Meridian Light & Ry. Co. v. City of Meridian, D.C.Miss., 265 F. 765.

Sufficiency of consideration

Where city was threatening to alter franchises of street railway company to its detriment, passage of ordinance which does not contain threatened changes is sufficient consideration for agreement of company to continue existing fares.—Trenton & Mercer County Traction Corp. v. Inhabitants of City of Trenton, 101 A. 562, 90 N.J.Law 378, affirmed Trenton & Mercer County Traction Corp. v. Board of Public Utility Com'rs, 103 A. 1054, 91 N.J.Law 719.

When contract complete

Where street railway company's directors had ordered its officers to execute agreement as to fares on passage of ordinance of same tenor and officers cannot vary its terms and directors do not intend to pass on matter again, agreement becomes binding on passage of ordinance.—Trenton & Mercer County Traction Corp. v. Inhabitants of City of Trenton, 101 A. 562, 90 N.J.Law 378, affirmed Trenton & Mercer County Traction Corp. v. Board of Public Utility Com'rs, 103 A. 1054, 91 N.J. Law 719.

Rescission for mistake

A street railroad company cannot rescind a contract with a city as to fares because of its own mistake, not induced by the city, as to the power reserved by the city to alter its franchise ordinance.—Trenton & Mercer County Traction Corp. v. Inhabitants of City of Trenton, 101 A. 562, 90 N.J.Law 378, affirmed Trenton & Mercer County Traction Corp. v. Board of Public Utility Com'rs, 103 A. 1054, 91 N.J.Law 719.

99. Ga.—Georgia Ry. & Power Co. v. Railroad Commission of Georgia, 98 S.E. 696, 149 Ga. 1, 5 A.L.R. 1.

and conditions on which a street railroad may operate within the municipal limits, the city may contract for a fixed rate of fare for transit to and from points outside the city limits,[1] as for transit to another city,[2] even though such other city may be a point located outside the state, and the contract, although involving interstate transportation, is valid so long as congress does not exercise its paramount authority with respect thereto.[3]

A surrender of the municipality's power of regulation by such a contract is a grave act and the courts will not construe an ordinance as having such an effect unless the authority to make the contract is plain and the intention to do so clearly and unmistakably appears;[4] and the rule of construction requiring a clear and explicit intent to suspend the regulatory power applies whether the company or the city is asserting the contract.[5] Particular ordinances fixing rates of fare have, accordingly, been held not to establish a contract obligating the maintenance of the specified rates, on the ground that the municipality had not been authorized by the legislature so to fix rates,[6] or

1. Ohio.—Village of Wyoming v Ohio Traction Co., 135 N.E 675, 104 Ohio St. 325.
10 C J. p 673 note 11.

In New York

(1) The rule stated in the text has been declared applicable to an interurban street railroad line using city streets by consent of the municipality.—People ex rel. Incorporated Village of Brownville v. Public Service Commission of New York, Second Dist., 191 N.Y.S. 293, 198 App Div. 391—10 C J. p 673 note 11 [b].

(2) It has been held, however, in a case involving an interurban high speed line, not a street railroad, that the fixing of interurban fares by franchise agreement is not germane to the public purpose of the existence of the city government, and is contrary to public policy, and infringes on the state legislative powers, and is not warranted by the constitutional provision requiring the city's consent to the use of its streets by a street railroad.—Koehn v. Public Service Commission, Second Dist., 176 N.Y.S. 147, 107 Misc. 151.

2. Ohio.—Interurban Ry. & Terminal Co v. City of Cincinnati, 112 N.E. 186, 93 Ohio St. 108.

Rate conditioned on annexation

A municipality may, in granting a franchise for the operation of a street railroad through its streets require as a condition thereof that the railroad maintain a specified fare for transit to another particular city if it should become annexed to such other city.—Interurban Ry. & Terminal Co v. City of Cincinnati, 112 N. E. 186, 93 Ohio St. 108.

Point within other city

Where a franchise under which an interurban railway was constructed through a township declared that the rate of fare should not exceed a certain rate per mile to any point within a named city, and the railway company, which had traffic arrangements with railways in the city, for a number of years, carried passengers beyond the city line to central points therein for the specified rate, a successor company which operated not only the interurban railway but also the railways within the city is bound by such practice and cannot insist that the contract rate is applicable only up to its interurban depot at the city line.—Sandstone Tp v. Michigan Ry Co., 164 N.W. 404, 198 Mich. 234.

3. U.S.—Cincinnati, N. & C. Ry. Co v. City of Cincinnati, Ohio, C.C.A. Ohio, 71 F.2d 124, certiorari denied 55 S.Ct. 142, 293 U.S. 612, 79 L Ed 702—City of Covington, Ky. v. Cincinnati, N. & C. Ry. Co., C.C.A Ky., 71 F.2d 117, certiorari denied Cincinnati, N. & C. Ry Co. v. City of Covington, Ky., 55 S Ct. 142, 293 U.S. 612, 79 L Ed 702, and City of Covington v. Cincinnati, N & C Ry. Co., 55 S.Ct. 142, 293 U.S. 612, 79 L Ed 702.

Possible abuse of power immaterial

City's power to contract with street railway company for interstate rates in consideration of grant of right to use city streets cannot be denied because of its possible abuse, contract resulting from exercise of such power being invalidated by fraud, but not by improvidence —City of Covington, Ky, v. Cincinnati, N. & C. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Ky., 71 F.2d 117, certiorari denied Cincinnati, N. & C Ry. Co. v. City of Covington, Ky, 55 S Ct. 142, 293 U.S. 612, 79 L Ed 702, and City of Covington v. Cincinnati, N. & C. Ry Co, 55 S.Ct. 142, 293 U.S. 612, 79 L Ed. 702.

Different rate for transit to city

Such a contract is not invalidated by the fact that the rate stipulated differs from the established rates for transportation from points outside the state to the city.—Cincinnati, N. & C Ry. Co v City of Cincinnati, Ohio, C C A Ohio, 71 F.2d 124, certiorari denied 55 S Ct. 142, 293 U S 612, 79 L.Ed 702

4. U.S.—Railroad Commission of California v. Los Angeles Ry. Corporation, Cal., 50 S Ct. 71, 280 U.S. 145, 74 L Ed. 234, affirming, D C, Los Angeles Ry. Corporation v. Railroad Commission of California, 29 F 2d 140—City of Paducah v. Paducah Ry. Co., Ky, 43 S Ct. 335, 261 U S 267, 67 L.Ed 647—San Antonio Public Service Co v. City of San Antonio, D C Tex, 257 F. 467, affirmed City of San Antonio v. San Antonio Public Service Co, 41 S Ct. 428, 255 U S. 547, 65 L Ed 777.

Ohio.—Village of Wyoming v. Ohio Traction Co, 135 N E. 675, 104 Ohio St 325.

5. U.S.—City of Louisville v. Louisville Ry. Co, C C A Ky, 281 F. 353.

6. U S.—Railroad Commission of California v. Los Angeles Ry Corporation, Cal., 50 S.Ct 71, 280 U S 145, 74 L Ed. 234, affirming, D.C., Los Angeles Ry. Corporation v Railroad Commission of California, 29 F.2d 140.

Mo.—State ex rel. Kansas City Public Service Co v. Latshaw, 30 S. W.2d 105, 325 Mo. 909, appeal dismissed Latshaw v. State of Missouri ex rel. Kansas City Public Service Co, 51 S Ct. 101, 282 U S. 806, 75 L Ed 723

10 C J p 673 note 10—p 674 note 21

Factors determining rates

City did not have authority to contract regarding valuation, income, and depreciation, which were factors determining street car company's rates.—State ex rel. Kansas City Public Service Co v. Latshaw, 30 S W 2d 105, 325 Mo. 909, appeal dismissed Latshaw v. State of Missouri ex rel. Kansas City Public Service Co, 51 S Ct 101, 282 U.S. 806, 75 L.Ed. 723

Powers conferred on commission

Provisions with respect to rates in franchises of street railroads granted since the adoption of constitutional provisions conferring all rate regulating powers on the railroad commission cannot be considered as binding contracts of inviolable nature.—Los Angeles Ry. Corporation v. Railroad Commission of California, D C Cal, 29 F 2d 140, affirmed Railroad Commission of California v. Los Angeles Ry Corporation, 50 S.Ct. 71, 280 U S 145, 74 L Ed. 234

Provisions of a city charter au-

that the ordinance was not intended to have such an effect.[7] So, also, a statute extending the charter of a street car company for a term of years will not be construed as extending existing rate contracts between a city and the company for such period of time, in the absence of clear and explicit language.[8] A statute amending a railway company's charter, authorizing it to enter into agreements with the city to change or extend contracts then in force, even if construed as ratifying an existing contract fixing the rate of fare, does not make that contract irrevocable, where a further provision reserves the power of amendment and regulation of rights and franchises to the legislature and the city.[9] Contracts between a municipality and a carrier as to rates will, if possible, not be construed as of indefinite duration.[10]

The validity of a contract fixing the rate of fare to be charged is not affected by the right given the railroad in its charter to receive a fair compensation to be fixed by its directors, or by the right reserved to the city in the contract to amend the ordinance, where such reservation is not intended to apply to the rate of fare The term of such a contract is not restricted by the subsequent adoption of constitutional provisions limiting the duration of franchises, notwithstanding the railroad failed to commence construction of tracks before the adoption of such provisions, or ordinances extending the franchises were enacted after the coming into effect of the constitutional limitation.[11]

The effect of the passage and acceptance of a contract ordinance granting a franchise to a street thorizing the city to impose conditions on the grant of any franchise and to fix and determine rates are insufficient to empower the city to establish the rates to be charged by a street railroad company by contract—Railroad Commission of California v. Los Angeles Ry. Corporation, Cal., 50 S.Ct. 71, 280 U.S. 145, 74 L.Ed. 234, affirming, D.C., Los Angeles Ry. Corporation v. Railroad Commission of California, 29 F.2d 140.

7. U.S.—City of Paducah v. Paducah Ry. Co., Ky., 43 S.Ct. 335, 261 U.S. 267, 67 L.Ed. 647—City of San Antonio v. San Antonio Public Service Co., Tex., 41 S.Ct. 428, 255 U.S. 547, 65 L.Ed. 777, affirming, D.C., San Antonio Public Service Co. v. City of San Antonio, 257 F. 467

Ordinance providing for adjustment of fare

An ordinance granting a franchise for a term of years which fixes the maximum fare for the first year but provides for possible adjustments of such fare by the city each succeeding year does not show a contract binding on the carrier to accept the rate of fare prescribed for the first year as a maximum fare for the life of the franchise.—City of Paducah v. Paducah Ry. Co., Ky., 43 S.Ct. 335, 261 U.S. 267, 67 L.Ed. 647.

Prior treatment of ordinance as a regulation

An ordinance giving the city's consent to the consolidation of gas and electric companies with the street railroad company, which imposed on consolidated company all the limitations and duties imposed on either of the constituent companies, does not make the five-cent street railroad fare, fixed by the street railway ordinance, binding as a contract rate, although enacted prior to the adoption of a constitutional amendment prohibiting the irrevocable grant of a franchise, where it did not expressly evidence such an intention, and especially where it had theretofore been held that the rate was not a contract rate, but could be modified by the city—City of San Antonio v. San Antonio Public Service Co., Tex., 41 S.Ct. 428, 255 U.S. 547, 65 L.Ed. 777, affirming, D.C., San Antonio Public Service Co. v. City of San Antonio, 257 F. 467.

Failure to prescribe rate of fare

No contract regulating rates was effected by an ordinance granting a franchise for the operation of a street railroad to a consolidated company acquiring the properties of several public utilities, where such ordinance did not in direct terms prescribe the rate of fare but merely provided for the issuance of free transfers on the payment of a full fare, there being no statement as to what constituted a full fare.—Georgia Ry. & Power Co. v. Railroad Commission of Georgia, 98 S.E. 696, 149 Ga. 1, 5 A.L.R. 1

8. U.S.—City of Louisville v. Louisville Ry. Co., C.C.A.Ky., 281 F. 353.

Contract ingrafted on charter

Where a contract with a city, which fixed street car fares, had become ingrafted on the charter given the company by the legislature, the acceptance by the company of the extension of its charter and right to occupy the streets of the city would not bind the company to comply with the rate contract after its expiration, unless such was the intention of the legislature.—City of Louisville v. Louisville Ry. Co., C.C.A.Ky., 281 F. 353.

Operation after termination of contract

A contract provision giving the company the right to continue permanently to operate after the expiration of the contract until the city elected to purchase the lines did not require the company to operate at the contract rate after the expiration of the original contract, and before the city exercised its option to purchase the lines, where in the meantime an act of the legislature had extended the company's charter and its right to occupy the streets.—City of Louisville v. Louisville Ry. Co., C.C.A.Ky., 281 F. 353.

9. U.S.—City of Louisville v. Louisville Ry. Co., C.C.A.Ky., 281 F. 353.

10. N.C.—In re Petition for Increase of Street Car Fares in City of Charlotte, 101 S.E. 619, 179 N.C. 151.

Perpetual five cent fare

A contract between a city and a street railroad company, giving the company the right to operate on the streets for a term of thirty years, with the privilege of continuing to operate after expiration of the term until the city chose to purchase the lines of the company, will not be construed as intended to make perpetual the five-cent fare fixed by the original contract, subject only to the right of the city to purchase the lines, unless such intention is clearly expressed.—City of Louisville v. Louisville Ry. Co., C.C.A.Ky., 281 F. 353.

11. U.S.—City of Covington, Ky., v. Cincinnati, N. & C. Ry. Co., C.C.A. Ky., 71 F.2d 117, certiorari denied Cincinnati, N. & C. Ry Co. v. City of Covington, Ky., 55 S.Ct. 142, 293 U.S. 612, 79 L.Ed. 702, and City of Covington v. Cincinnati, N. & C. Ry. Co., 55 S.Ct. 142, 293 U.S. 612, 79 L.Ed. 702.

railroad company and authorizing it to charge a specified rate of fare for a given period is to make such provision for rates govern between the parties, as long as the railroad company retains the franchise and operates thereunder.[12] During such time the municipality's regulatory power to alter or interfere with the rate is suspended,[13] and it cannot require the company to reduce such rate,[14] notwithstanding the municipality has in such ordinance otherwise reserved to itself the right to prescribe from time to time the rules and regulations for the operation of the road.[15] Moreover, an ordinance consenting to a consolidation and extension of lines on condition that a specified fare be charged during the life of the grant may operate to prevent the municipality from changing the rate notwithstanding that a prior ordinance consenting to the renewal of one of the franchises in question reserved to the municipality the right to regulate fares.[16] The street railroad's right to charge the specified fare under such a contract is not abandoned or abrogated by its acceptance of a municipal ordinance which requires it to issue transfers,[17] or which authorizes it to change the motive power of its lines from horse power to electricity, even though the original franchise named only animal or pneumatic power.[18]

On its part, the railroad company has assumed a contractual obligation by its acceptance of the franchise with its conditions,[19] and it is bound to abide by the terms of the agreement and cannot increase the stipulated rate of fare during the continuance of the contract.[20] In this regard, the rail-

12. Ohio.—Interurban Ry. & Terminal Co. v. Public Utilities Commission, 120 N.E. 831, 98 Ohio St. 287, 3 A.L.R. 696—Interurban Ry. & Term Co. v. City of Cincinnati, 112 N.E. 186, 93 Ohio St. 108.

Transfers

Where a contract ordinance provides for the issuance of transfers at intersecting points therein designated and limits the time during which such transfers are valid, a street railway cannot be required, by subsequent ordinance not involving the exercise of the police power or the power to fix rates, to permit transfer at points other than intersections, or to increase the length of time during which transfers are valid.—City of Chicago v. Chicago City Ry. Co., 111 N.E. 983, 272 Ill. 245.

13. Ohio.—Rogers v. City of Cincinnati, 22 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 401.
10 C.J. p 674 note 16

Period of operation

The contract right of a street railway company to charge five-cent fares, secured against impairment "during the term of its charter" by a municipal ordinance ratified by statute, extends for fifty years, where the company undertook to organize for that period, under Minn. Gen.St.1866 c. 34 tits. 1, 2 §§ 1–53, and in its certificate of incorporation stated that its corporate life was to be for that term, and has continued to act as a corporation since the expiration of the thirty years which would have been its corporate life, if organized, as the municipality contends it should have been, under tit. 2 of such chapter.—City of Minneapolis v. Minneapolis St. Ry. Co., Minn., 30 S.Ct. 118, 215 U.S. 417, 54 L.Ed. 259, modifying, C.C., Minneapolis St. Ry. Co. v. City of Minneapolis, 155 F. 989.

Ordinance requiring increase of fare

An ordinance requiring a specified fare to be charged to certain points is inoperative in so far as it undertakes to compel the railway company to increase its fares to points as to which it has contracts, either with public bodies such as municipalities or with private parties.—Humphrey Co. v. R. Co., 9 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 609.

14. U.S.—Detroit United Ry. Co. v. City of Detroit, Mich., 39 S.Ct. 151, 248 U.S. 429, 63 L.Ed. 341.
10 C.J. p 674 note 18.

Single fare for continuous trip

(1) The obligation of the franchise contract for a line of a street railway company, fixing the fare on such line at five cents without transfer, is impaired, in the case of a continuous trip beginning on a nonfranchise line and extending over it and a franchise line, by an ordinance requiring all such service for five cents.—Detroit United Ry. Co. v. City of Detroit, Mich., 39 S.Ct. 151, 248 U.S. 429, 63 L.Ed. 341.

(2) The section of the ordinance requiring such continuous transit over both franchise and nonfranchise lines for a single fare, in violation of the railroad's franchise right, cannot be regarded as modified by another section providing that the ordinance should not be construed as impairing the obligation of any contract, and hence such other section does not prevent the ordinance from being declared invalid.—Detroit United Ry. Co. v. City of Detroit, supra.

15. U.S.—Detroit v. Detroit Citizens' St. R. Co., Mich., 22 S.Ct. 410, 184 U.S. 368, 46 L.Ed. 592.

16. U.S.—Cleveland v. Cleveland City R. Co., Ohio, 24 S.Ct. 756, 764, 194 U.S. 517, 538, 48 L.Ed. 1102, 1109, affirming, C.C., 94 F. 385.

17. U.S.—City of Minneapolis v. Minneapolis St. Ry. Co., Minn., 30 S.Ct. 118, 215 U.S. 417, 54 L.Ed. 259, modifying C.C., Minneapolis St. Ry. Co. v. City of Minneapolis, 155 F. 989.

18. U.S.—City of Minneapolis v. Minneapolis St. Ry. Co., supra.

19. N.Y.—Public Service Commission, Second Dist., v. International Ry. Co., 172 N.Y.S. 551, 185 App. Div. 220, reversed on other grounds 120 N.E. 727, 224 N.Y. 631.
10 C.J. p 674 note 20

Same as private individuals

In regard to the modification or abrogation of contract obligations voluntarily assumed, public service corporations stand on the same footing as individuals.—Public Service Commission, Second Dist. v. International Ry. Co., 172 N.Y.S. 551, 185 App.Div. 220, reversed on other grounds 120 N.E. 727, 224 N.Y. 631.

20. Mass.—Westwood v. Dedham, etc., St. R. Co., 95 N.E. 81, 209 Mass. 213.
Wash.—State v. Seattle Electric Co., 128 P. 220, 71 Wash. 213, 43 L.R.A.,N.S., 172.

Discontinuing sale of strip tickets

Where a street railroad company contracts with the city that the existing rates of fare might be changed from time to time, but only with the consent of both parties to the contract, and at the date of the contract the company charges five cents for a continuous ride and sells tickets in strips at the rate of six for twenty-five cents and gives free transfers at certain intersections on either cash fares or tickets, the company does not violate the contract by discontinuing the sale of strip tickets without the city's consent.—Philadelphia v. Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co., 77 A. 501, 228 Pa. 325, 21 Ann.Cas. 87.

road company cannot be heard to complain that the stipulated rate is inadequate and confiscatory, and a court will not undertake to grant relief from the fixed rate on such ground.[21] It has also been held that, even though a city is without legislative power to contract with reference to street railroad fares, the railroad cannot, while claiming benefits under the franchise, avoid a stipulation fixing the fare, which is not violative of any law or contrary to any public policy,[22] and that the court will not relieve the railroad from the obligation to maintain the stipulated fare, even though it is confiscatory, since this consideration is not one for the courts under the circumstances.[23]

Mergers or consolidations. The obligation to maintain the stipulated fare attaches not only to the grantee of the franchise but also to a successor company which has assumed the franchise and agreed with the municipality to abide by its terms,[24] and it continues in effect despite the expiration of the charter of the original grantee.[25] Such contract is binding also as to lines of other companies under long-term leases to the railroad which is the party to the agreement.[26] Likewise, the fact that the municipality contracting with the carrier becomes a part of another city during the period of the contract's operation does not affect its validity.[27]

The carrier's obligation to maintain the stipulated fare cannot however be imposed beyond the terms of the contract; hence, the stipulated fare cannot be extended to territory afterward annexed to the municipality,[28] unless the application of the stipulated rate to such territory is construed to be

21. U.S.—Georgia Power Co. v. City of Decatur, 50 S.Ct. 369, 281 U.S. 505, 74 L.Ed. 999, affirming 149 S.E. 32, 168 Ga. 705, certiorari granted 50 S.Ct. 38, 280 U.S. 544, 74 L.Ed. 604—Railroad Commission of California v. Los Angeles Ry. Corporation, Cal., 50 S.Ct. 71, 280 U.S. 145, 74 L.Ed. 234, affirming, D.C., Los Angeles Ry. Corporation v. Railroad Commission of California, 29 F.2d 140—Georgia Ry. & Power Co. v. Town of Decatur, Ga., 43 S.Ct. 613, 262 U.S. 432, 67 L.Ed. 1065—City of Paducah v. Paducah Ry. Co., Ky., 43 S.Ct. 335, 261 U.S. 267, 67 L.Ed. 647—Columbus Ry., Power & Light Co. v. City of Columbus, Ohio, 39 S.Ct. 349, 249 U.S. 399, 63 L.Ed. 669, 6 A.L.R. 1648, affirming, D.C., 253 F. 499—Cincinnati, N. & C. Ry. Co. v. City of Cincinnati, Ohio, C.C.A.Ohio, 71 F.2d 124, certiorari denied 55 S.Ct. 142, 293 U.S. 612, 79 L.Ed. 702—City of Covington, Ky. v. Cincinnati, N. & C. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Ky., 71 F.2d 117, certiorari denied Cincinnati, N. & C. Ry. Co. v. City of Covington, Ky., 55 S.Ct. 142, 293 U.S. 612, 79 L.Ed. 702, and City of Covington v. Cincinnati, N. & C. Ry. Co., 55 S.Ct. 142, 293 U.S. 612, 79 L.Ed. 702—Michigan Ry. Co. v. City of Lansing, D.C.Mich., 260 F. 322—North American Const. Co. v. Des Moines City Ry. Co., D.C.Iowa, 256 F. 107—Westinghouse Electric & Mfg. Co. v. Binghamton Ry. Co., D.C.N.Y., 255 F. 378, appeal dismissed 257 F. 726, 169 C.C.A. 14.

N.Y.—Public Service Commission, Second Dist., v. International Ry. Co., 172 N.Y.S. 551, 185 App.Div. 220, reversed on other grounds, 120 N.E. 727, 224 N.Y. 631.

Ohio.—City of Cincinnati v. Interurban Ry. & Terminal Co., 14 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 420.

Class of service must yield

The franchise of the railway company being definite as to rates for fares, without any provision as to change thereof, there can, in case of insufficient income, be no increase of fares, but class of service must yield.—North American Const. Co. v. Des Moines City Ry. Co., D.C.Iowa, 256 F. 107.

Excessive wage demands

That the employees of a public service corporation demand wages which the corporation regards as excessive does not relieve it from its contract obligations to the public.—Public Service Commission, Second Dist., v. International Ry. Co., 172 N.Y.S. 551, 185 App.Div. 220, reversed on other grounds 120 N.E. 727, 224 N.Y. 631.

Increased expenses

(1) The company cannot avoid the obligation to maintain the rate fixed in the franchise on the ground that the increased operating expenses, due to the war and the higher wages fixed by the war labor board, make it unprofitable, especially in the absence of a showing that further operation under the contract was impossible, or even that operation thereunder for the entire term of the franchise would be unremunerative.—Columbus Ry., Power & Light Co. v. City of Columbus, Ohio, Ohio, 39 S.Ct. 349, 249 U.S. 399, 63 L.Ed. 669, 6 A.L.R. 1648, affirming, D.C., 253 F. 499.

(2) The contract cannot be terminated by the company on the ground that the continuance of normal labor conditions was an implied term.—Burr v. City of Columbus, Ohio, D.C.Ohio, 256 F. 261, affirmed 39 S.Ct. 354, 249 U.S. 415, 63 L.Ed. 679.

(3) The fixing of wages to be paid by a street railroad company in arbitration by the war labor board, although at a rate which, under the charter contract between the company and the city, is confiscatory, is not such a direct interference with the contract by the government as to excuse the company from performance.—Burr v. City of Columbus, Ohio, supra.

22. U.S.—Meridian Light & Ry. Co. v. City of Meridian, D.C.Miss., 265 F. 765.
10 C.J. p 675 note 31.

23. U.S.—Meridian Light & Ry. Co. v. City of Meridian, supra.

24. U.S.—Georgia Power Co. v. City of Decatur, 50 S.Ct. 369, 281 U.S. 505, 74 L.Ed. 999, affirming 149 S.E. 32, 168 Ga. 705, certiorari granted 50 S.Ct. 38, 280 U.S. 544, 74 L.Ed. 604
10 C.J. p 674 note 19 [a].

25. U.S.—Georgia Power Co. v. City of Decatur, supra.

26. N.J.—Trenton & Mercer County Traction Corp. v. Inhabitants of City of Trenton, 101 A. 562, 90 N.J.Law 378, affirmed Trenton & Mercer County Traction Corp. v. Board of Public Utility Com'rs, 103 A. 1054, 91 N.J.Law 719.

27. U.S.—City of Covington, Ky., v. Cincinnati, N. & C. Ry. Co., C.C.A. Ky., 71 F.2d 117, certiorari denied Cincinnati, N. & C. Ry. Co. v. City of Covington, Ky., 55 S.Ct. 142, 293 U.S. 612, 79 L.Ed. 702, and City of Covington v. Cincinnati, N. & C. Ry. Co., 55 S.Ct. 142, 293 U.S. 612, 79 L.Ed. 702.
Ohio.—Village of Wyoming v. Ohio Traction Co., 135 N.E. 675, 104 Ohio St. 325.

28. U.S.—Georgia Ry. & Power Co. v. City of College Park, Ga., 43 S.Ct. 617, 262 U.S. 441, 67 L.Ed. 1074—Georgia Ry. & Power Co. v. Town of Decatur, Ga., 43 S.Ct. 613, 262 U.S. 432, 67 L.Ed. 1065—

intended by the parties to be within the terms of the contract.[29]

Modification or change of franchise rate. As stated above, a rate fixed by contract is inviolable by the municipality and the railroad during the term of the agreement, but a modification or change of such rate may be effected where it is consented to by both the parties for a sufficient consideration.[30] A charter provision requiring the grant of a franchise to be submitted to the voters does not apply to a change or an amendment of the rate fixed in a franchise.[31] Where the agreement provides that the rate of fare therein provided for shall not be increased without the consent of the corporate authorities, a consent by the city to a temporary increase, subject to revocation, does not preclude the city from later revoking the increase and compelling the railroad to abide by the contract rate;[32] and the carrier cannot insist on the maintenance of such temporary increase where the city council's consent thereto was in excess of its powers under a city charter requiring the city electors to approve any alteration of a franchise.[33]

Where contract invalid under organic law. Under the constitutional provisions of some states prohibiting the suspension of the police power or the irrevocable grant of any privilege or franchise, a municipality cannot make a binding contract with a street railroad as to the rate of fare to be charged.[34] In these jurisdictions, such a contract is at all times subject to the reserved legislative power of the state acting through the municipality, to fix rates, so long as they are not made confiscatory, and hence the municipality exercising the state's power by delegation may authorize a higher rate than the maximum fixed by the franchise without impairing the obligation of contract.[35] In such Detroit United Ry. v. People of State of Michigan, Mich., 37 S.Ct. 87, 242 U.S. 238, 61 L.Ed 268, reversing People v. Detroit United Ry., 125 N.W. 700, 162 Mich. 460, 139 Am.S.R. 582, and City of Detroit v. Detroit United Ry., 139 N.W. 56, 173 Mich. 314.

Impairment of franchise right

Contract obligations of street railway which had acquired with all their franchises certain suburban lines were unconstitutionally impaired by effect given to Detroit annexation acts by decision requiring reduced rates in effect under the Detroit franchise to be in force in such annexed territory, notwithstanding the franchises for the lines in such territory provided for a higher rate of fare.—Detroit United Ry. v People of State of Michigan, 37 S.Ct. 87, 242 U.S. 238, 61 L.Ed. 268, reversing People v. Detroit United Ry., 125 N.W. 700, 162 Mich. 460, 139 Am.S.R. 582 and City of Detroit v. Detroit United Ry., 139 N.W. 56, 173 Mich. 314.

Interurban fare

Where contract between a municipality and an electric railway company fixed the fare chargeable between the municipality and another city, the application of such fare to territory afterward annexed to the municipality was invalid.—Georgia Ry. & Power Co. v. City of College Park, Ga., 43 S.Ct. 617, 262 U.S. 441, 67 L.Ed. 1074—Georgia Ry. & Power Co. v. Town of Decatur, Ga., 43 S.Ct. 613, 262 U.S. 432, 67 L.Ed 1065.

29. Ind.—Indiana R. Co. v. Hoffman, 69 N.E. 399, 161 Ind. 593.
10 C.J. p 672 note 4 [d] (1).
"It may be presumed that appellant [railroad company] under its contract whereby it agreed to issue the transfer tickets within the city limits must have contemplated that the city in the future might exercise the right of annexing territory, and thereby extend its limits. Upon no view of the case can the provision "within the limits of the city" be interpreted to have been intended under the agreement . . . to apply only to such limits as then fixed"—Indiana R. Co v. Hoffman, 69 N.E. 399, 401, 161 Ind. 593.

30. U.S.—Detroit v. Detroit Citizens' St. R. Co., Mich., 22 S.Ct. 410, 184 U.S. 368, 46 L.Ed. 592.
10 C.J. p 674 note 17.

Consideration for increase held sufficient

(1) Change of motive power by railroad—Clement v. Cincinnati, 9 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 688, 16 Cinc.L. Bul. 355—Cincinnati v. Cincinnati St. R. Co., 2 Ohio S. & C.P. 466, 2 Ohio N.P. 298—10 C.J. p 674 note 17 [a].

(2) An ordinance granting an increase in the fare chargeable under a franchise agreement is not invalid for want of consideration, where, owing to the increased cost of operation, proper service cannot be maintained without an increase, as the public benefits to be derived supply whatever motive or consideration may be necessary.—Long v City of Shreveport, 91 So. 325, 151 La. 423.

Rights of city

A resolution of the city council agreeing to an increase in fare over that named in the franchise disposes of "rights of the city" within a charter provision suspending ordinances of such a character for thirty days before they can take effect—International Ry. Co. v. Rann, 171 N.Y.S. 193, 104 Misc. 46, affirmed 171 N.Y.S 1088, 185 App.Div. 906, which is affirmed 120 N.E. 153, 224 N.Y. 83.

31. N.Y.—International Ry. Co. v. Rann, supra

32. U.S.—Michigan Ry. Co. v. City of Lansing, D.C.Mich., 260 F. 322.

33. U.S.—Michigan Ry. Co. v. City of Lansing, supra.

Agreement not impaired by subsequent charter

A city charter provision requiring the electors to consent to any franchise alteration does not impair a franchise agreement requiring that any increase of fare be consented to by the corporate authorities since the charter merely changes the method of obtaining the city's consent to any change—Michigan Ry. Co. v. City of Lansing, D.C.Mich., 260 F. 322.

34. U.S.—City of San Antonio v. San Antonio Public Service Co., Tex., 41 S.Ct. 428, 255 U.S. 547, 65 L.Ed. 777, affirming, D.C., San Antonio Public Service Co. v. City of San Antonio, 257 F. 467—City of New Orleans v. O'Keefe, C.C.A. La., 280 F. 92, affirming, D.C., O'Keefe v City of New Orleans, 273 F. 560—City and County of Denver v. Stenger, C.C.A.Colo., 277 F. 865.

35. U.S.—O'Keefe v. City of New Orleans, D.C.La., 273 F. 560, affirmed, C.C.A., City of New Orleans v. O'Keefe, 280 F. 92.
La.—Black v. New Orleans Ry. & Light Co., 82 So. 81, 145 La. 180.
Tex.—Dallas Ry. Co. v. Geller, 271 S.W. 1106, 114 Tex. 484, reversing Geller v. Dallas Ry. Co., Civ.App., 245 S.W. 254.

states, an ordinance granting a street railroad franchise and imposing a maximum fare limitation must be taken as an exercise of the regulating power and not as imposing a unilateral contract or condition on the grantee to observe the limitation even though it becomes confiscatory;[36] and such a contract, if binding on the railroad and not on the city, would be void for want of mutuality.[37] A binding contract fixing the fares being absent, the railroad is not obliged to continue to operate at the stipulated rate where such rate is confiscatory, and it may seek relief from the enforcement thereof and secure the establishment of a reasonable rate;[38] and the city cannot enforce such confiscatory rate as a condition precedent to the right to continue to use its streets.[39]

c. Power of State or Commission to Change Rates Fixed by Municipality

(1) In general

(2) Where legislature has limited commission's authority

(1) In General

The legislature or its properly authorized agency may, without unlawfully impairing any obligation, exercise its supreme power of regulation and change rates fixed in a municipal ordinance, franchise provision, or contract, except, possibly, where it has expressly conferred authority on the municipality inviolably to contract with the railroad as to rates.

As already stated in § 582 a, the supreme power to regulate the rates charged by common carriers resides in the state, and, accordingly, such power may be exercised by it notwithstanding its regulation is in derogation of an existing municipal ordinance, franchise, or contract provision fixing the rate,[40] at least, in the absence of authority expressly conferred by the constitution or by statute to the municipality permitting it inviolably to reg-

Modification required by public welfare

A city's contract with a street railway to whom it has granted privilege of operating in its streets, etc., is subject to modification by an ordinance authorizing an increase in car fare, when required by public welfare, such as war conditions, increasing the cost of service and necessitating higher rates.—Black v. New Orleans Ry. & Light Co., 82 So. 81, 145 La. 180.

36. U.S.—City of San Antonio v. San Antonio Public Service Co., Tex., 41 S.Ct. 428, 255 U.S. 547, 65 L.Ed. 777, affirming, D.C., San Antonio Public Service Co. v. City of San Antonio, 257 F. 467—City and County of Denver v. Stenger, C.C.A.Colo., 277 F. 865.

37. U.S.—City and County of Denver v. Stenger, supra.

38. U.S.—Railroad Commission of California v. Los Angeles Ry. Corporation, Cal., 50 S.Ct. 71, 280 U.S. 145, 74 L.Ed. 234, affirming, D.C., Los Angeles Ry. Corporation v. Railroad Commission of California, 29 F.2d 140—City of San Antonio v. San Antonio Public Service Co., Tex., 41 S.Ct. 428, 255 U.S. 547, 65 L.Ed. 777, affirming, D.C., San Antonio Public Service Co. v. City of San Antonio, 257 F. 467—City of Louisville v. Louisville Ry. Co., C.C.A.Ky., 281 F. 353—City and County of Denver v. Stenger, C.C.A.Colo., 277 F. 865—O'Keefe v. City of New Orleans, D.C.La., 273 F. 560, affirmed City of New Orleans v. O'Keefe, C.C.A., 280 F. 92.

Rates fixed by noncontractual ordinance

Ordinances which were not contractual in form or in substance, and which declared in their preambles that the ordinances were for the purpose of "regulating and fixing the charges to be collected by" a street railroad, and which merely specified the rates to be charged by the railroad, were not contracts between the city and the street railroad, and did not preclude railroad from increasing rates, where rates so fixed were confiscatory.—City and County of Denver v. Stenger, C.C.A.Colo., 277 F. 865.

39. U.S.—City of New Orleans v. O'Keefe, C.C.A.La., 280 F. 92, affirming, D.C., O'Keefe v. City of New Orleans, 273 F. 560.

40. U.S.—Railroad Commission of California v. Los Angeles Ry. Corporation, Cal., 50 S.Ct. 71, 280 U.S. 145, 74 L.Ed. 234, affirming, D.C., Los Angeles Ry. Corporation v. Railroad Commission of California, 29 F.2d 140—City of Englewood v. Denver & S.P. Ry. Co., 39 S.Ct. 100, 248 U.S. 294, 63 L.Ed. 253, dismissing error Denver & S.P. Ry. Co. v. City of Englewood, 161 P. 151, 62 Colo. 229, 4 A.L.R. 956—Puget Sound Traction, Light & Power Co. v. Reynolds, Wash., 37 S.Ct. 705, 244 U.S. 574, 61 L.Ed. 1325, affirming, D.C., 233 F. 371—Milwaukee Electric Ry. & L. Co. v. Railroad Commission of Wisconsin, Wis., 35 S.Ct. 820, 238 U.S. 174, 59 L.Ed. 1254—International Ry. Co. v. Prendergast, D.C.N.Y., 52 F.2d 293—Public Service Ry. Co. v. Board of Public Utility Commissioners, D.C.N.J., 276 F. 979, 986, appeal dismissed Board of Public Utility Com'rs of State of New Jersey v. Public Service R. Co., 45 S.Ct. 9, 266 U.S. 636, 69 L.Ed. 481—O'Keefe v. City of New Orleans, D.C.La., 273 F. 560, affirmed, C.C.A., City of New Orleans v. O'Keefe, 280 F. 92.

Colo.—Denver & S.P. Ry. Co. v. City of Englewood, 161 P. 151, 62 Colo. 229, 4 A.L.R. 956, error dismissed City of Englewood v. Denver & S.P. Ry. Co., 39 S.Ct. 100, 248 U.S. 294, 63 L.Ed. 253.

Fla.—State v. Railroad Com'rs of Florida, 84 So. 444, 79 Fla. 526—State v. Burr, 84 So. 61, 79 Fla. 290

Ga.—Georgia Ry. & Power Co. v. Railroad Commission of Georgia, 98 S.E. 696, 149 Ga. 1, 5 A.L.R. 1.

Ill.—Hoyne v. Chicago & O.P. Elevated R. Co., 128 N.E. 587, 294 Ill. 413—Chicago Rys. Co. v. City of Chicago, 126 N.E. 585, 292 Ill. 190, error dismissed City of Chicago v. Chicago Rys. Co., 42 S.Ct. 95, 257 U.S. 617, 66 L.Ed. 399—State Public Utilities Commission v. City of Quincy, 125 N.E. 374, 290 Ill. 360.

Mo.—State ex rel. Kansas City Public Service Co. v. Latshaw, 30 S.W.2d 105, 325 Mo. 909, appeal dismissed Latshaw v. State of Missouri ex rel. Kansas City Public Service Co., 51 S.Ct. 101, 282 U.S. 806, 75 L.Ed. 723—Kansas City v. Public Service Commission of Missouri, 210 S.W. 381, 276 Mo. 539, error dismissed 40 S.Ct. 54, 250 U.S. 652, 63 L.Ed. 1190—City of St. Louis v. Public Service Commission, 207 S.W. 805, 276 Mo. 509—City of St. Louis v. Public Service Commission of Missouri, 207 S.W. 799, 276 Mo. 509.

N.J.—O'Brien v. Board of Public Utilities Com'rs, 106 A. 414, 92 N.J.Law 587, affirming 105 A. 132, 92 N.J.Law 44—O'Brien v. Board ulate or contract for the rate to be charged by the carrier.[41] It has further been held that, even of Public Utility Com'rs, 105 A. 132, 92 N.J Law 44, affirmed 106 A. 414, 92 N.J.Law 587—Atlantic Coast Electric Ry Co. v Board of Public Utility Com'rs, 104 A. 218, 92 N.J Law 168, 12 A.L.R. 737, reversing 99 A. 395, 89 N.J. Law 407, error dismissed 41 S Ct. 10, 254 U.S. 660, 65 L.Ed. 462.

N.C.—In re Petition for Increase of Street Car Fares in City of Charlotte, 101 S.E. 619, 179 N.C. 151.

Or.—City of Portland v Public Service Commission of Oregon, 173 P. 1178, 89 Or. 325

Pa.—City of Scranton v. Public Service Commission, 110 A. 775, 268 Pa. 192, affirming 73 Pa Super. 192—St Clair Borough v. Tamaqua & Pottsville Electric Ry. Co., 103 A. 287, 259 Pa. 462, 5 A.L.R 20—Borough of Edgewood, v Public Service Commission, 75 Pa Super 280—City of Scranton v. Public Service Commission, 73 Pa Super. 192, affirmed 110 A 775, 268 Pa 192—Foltz v Public Service Commission, 73 Pa Super. 24—Borough of Wilkinsburg v. Public Service Commission, 72 Pa Super. 423

Utah.—Salt Lake City v. Utah Light & Traction Co., 173 P. 556, 561, 52 Utah 210, 3 A.L.R. 715

Wis.—City of Milwaukee v. Railroad Commission, 240 N.W. 165, 206 Wis. 339.

10 C.J. p 675 notes 27, 28

"The Legislature . . . [has] the undoubted authority under the police power of the state to increase or decrease those fares as it deems proper, or to authorize the Public Service Commission to do the same. . . . And this is true whether the franchise ordinance mentioned is considered as a contract or a regulation enactment; it having been enacted and agreed to subject to the police power of the state, it must give way upon the exercise of that power by the Legislature or by its duly authorized agent, the Public Service Commission"—City of St. Louis v. Public Service Commission, 207 S.W. 805, 276 Mo. 509—City of St. Louis v. Public Service Commission of Missouri, 207 S.W. 799, 804, 276 Mo. 509.

"It is now settled law that so long as the state does not interfere the rates agreed upon between the cities and the street railway companies in the franchise ordinances are binding and enforceable. Neither party, without the consent of the other, may disregard any rate that is agreed upon between them. Either party may, however, make application to the Utilities Commission, if one is created by Legislative enactment, for the purpose of being relieved from the rates fixed in the franchise ordinance, and if it be made to appear that the rates under existing conditions have become unfair or unreasonable, in that they are either too high or too low, the commission may establish a rate which will again respond to the existing conditions. . . . In doing that the constitutional rights of the parties are neither invaded nor disregarded, for the simple reason that when the original rate was fixed by agreement it was still subject to modification at any time by the sovereign power of the state, providing the fare as fixed is found to be unfair and unreasonable"—Salt Lake City v. Utah Light & Traction Co., supra.

"The contract being subject to legislative control, the intervention of the state, either on behalf of the public utility to secure a reasonable return for the service rendered or of the city to cause a reduction of rates which have become excessive, does not abrogate a contract, of which the law is an integral part."—Chicago Rys. Co. v. City of Chicago, 126 N.E. 585, 590, 292 Ill. 190, error dismissed City of Chicago v. Chicago Rys. Co., 42 S.Ct. 95, 257 U.S. 617, 66 L.Ed. 399.

Nature of franchise immaterial

A general law, designed to regulate the rates of all carriers of the state, applies equally to companies operating under ordinances which regulate rates as a condition precedent to consent of the municipality, or under franchises in which the franchises are not so regulated—City of McKeesport v. Public Service Commission, 72 Pa.Super. 434—City of Pittsburg v. Public Service Commission, 72 Pa.Super. 433—Harbor Creek Township v. Public Service Commission, 72 Pa.Super. 433—Borough of North Braddock v. Public Service Commission, 72 Pa.Super. 432—City of Reading v. Public Service Commission, 72 Pa.Super. 432—Borough of Wilkinsburg v. Public Service Commission, 72 Pa.Super. 423.

Repealed ordinance

A city ordinance respecting the fares to be charged by a street railroad cannot be urged as a bar to the fixing of rates by the public service commission, where a subsequent state statute fixing the fare to be charged repealed the ordinance.—Chenoweth v. Maloy, 123 A. 77, 143 Md. 622.

Rights of city divested by statute

Under a statute regulating rates for the transportation of passengers but providing that it shall not apply to the rates of street or interurban railroads within cities or within five miles of their boundaries, the rights of municipalities under franchise contracts fixing passenger rates were divested except such as are retained by the proviso—Detroit United Ry. v. Oakland Circuit Judge, 183 N.W. 938, 215 Mich. 275.

Statute reserving power

The rule stated in the text follows at least where the contract between the municipality and the carrier was entered into at the time a statute existed reserving to the legislature the power to regulate rates, such reservation must be regarded as an implied term of the contract, and the rate fixed is only provisional, subject to the state's exercise of its power—In re Fleming, 191 N.Y.S. 586, 117 Misc. 373, appeal dismissed 192 N.Y.S. 925.

The state is not estopped from raising commutation rates fixed in a franchise by the fact that many persons have built homes along the route of the street railway in reliance on the existing rates.—Salt Lake City v Utah Light & Traction Co., 173 P. 556, 52 Utah 210, 3 A.L.R. 715.

Well considered case reviewing authorities

Fla.—State v. Burr, 84 So. 61, 79 Fla. 290.

41. U.S.—Puget Sound Traction, Light & Power Co. v Reynolds, Wash., 37 S.Ct. 705, 244 U.S. 574, 61 L.Ed 1325, affirming, D.C., 233 F. 371—Milwaukee Electric Ry & L. Co. v. Railroad Commission of Wisconsin, Wis., 35 S.Ct. 820, 238 U.S 174, 59 L.Ed. 1254.

Colo.—Denver & S. P. Ry. Co. v. City of Englewood, 161 P. 151, 62 Colo 229, 4 A.L.R. 956, error dismissed City of Englewood v. Denver & S. P. Ry. Co., 39 S.Ct. 100, 248 U.S. 294, 63 L.Ed. 253.

Fla.—State v. Burr, 84 So. 61, 79 Fla. 290.

Ill.—Hoyne v. Chicago & O P Elevated R. Co., 128 N.E. 587, 294 Ill. 413.

N.J.—Atlantic Coast Electric Ry. Co. v. Board of Public Utility Com'rs, 104 A 218, 92 N.J.Law 168, 12 A. L.R. 737, reversing 99 A. 395, 89 N.J.Law 407, error dismissed 41 S Ct. 10, 254 U.S. 660, 65 L.Ed 462

Authority not shown

The Charter Act of the City of Pensacola does not clearly and plainly give to it the power to prescribe rates for street car fares to the exclusion of state authority, if at all.—State v. Railroad Com'rs of Florida, 84 So. 444, 79 Fla. 526.

Ratification of existing franchises

An act of the territorial legislature confirming franchises made by municipalities prior to its assumption of sovereignty did not have the

where the state has expressly authorized a municipality to fix,[42] or contract as to,[43] rates, it may thereafter reassume and exercise these powers and change the rate specified in the franchise granted by the city, without securing the city's consent thereto.[44] This supreme power of the state to regulate rates is not abridged, denied, or irrevocably delegated to a municipality by a constitutional or statutory provision making the consent of the municipality affected a condition to the grant of any franchise for the operation of a street railroad;[45] nor is such power affected by effect of irrevocably granting to the municipality the right or authority to fix the rate of fare to be charged and hence did not preclude the state from changing the rate fixed under such franchises—Swain v. Oklahoma Ry. Co., 32 P.2d 51, 168 Okl. 133.

Power to fix lower or higher fare

Where a city under its charter is without authority to contract with reference to a street railroad rate, which is an inherently legislative power, the state can fix a lower or higher fare than that fixed by street railroad franchise, if the facts justify and it is in the public interest to do so.—Meridian Light & Ry. Co. v. City of Meridian, D.C.Miss., 265 F. 765.

42. Mich.—Groesbeck v. Detroit United Ry., 177 N.W. 1023, 210 Mich 227.
Okl.—Swain v. Oklahoma Ry. Co., 32 P.2d 51, 168 Okl. 133.

Delegation and not contract

A statute providing that rates estabhshed by agreement shall not be increased without the consent of the municipal authorities is merely a delegation of state power, and not a contract between the state and the municipality, and the legislature may reassume and exercise such rate-making right without the consent of the municipality.—Groesbeck v. Detroit United Ry., 177 N.W. 1023, 210 Mich 227

Authority in abeyance during contract

Even if a provision of the city charter can be construed as giving the city the power to prescribe rates, the corporation commission is not divested of power to regulate such rates because of a constitutional provision saving to the municipality such right of regulation as is expressly conferred by statute, where the city enters into a binding contract with the street railroad as to the rate to be charged, since in such case its power of regulation is in abeyance during the term of the contract, and the commission's power of regulation remains unfettered.—City of Richmond v. Virginia Ry. & Power Co, 126 S.E. 353, 141 Va. 69.

43. Fla.—State v. Burr, 84 So. 61, 79 Fla. 290.
Va.—City of Richmond v. Virginia Ry. & Power Co., 126 S.E. 353, 141 Va. 69.

In Massachusetts

(1) Under a statute empowering the public service commission to regulate rates notwithstanding any agreement entered into by any board of officers acting under delegated authority, prior thereto, the commission has power to approve an increase in the rate of fare agreed to in the franchise granted by a town, although it was within the power of the town, as conferred by prior statute, to fix the fares by agreement as a condition to the grant of the franchise.—Board of Survey of Arlington v Bay State St. Ry. Co, 113 N.E. 273, 224 Mass 463, 5 A.L.R. 24

(2) It has been said, however, that "the right to exact fares of a specified amount for a term of years not grossly unreasonable in length, established by contract with a public service corporation pursuant to legislative authority, cannot thereafter be varied by statute without violating section 10 of article 1 of the Constitution of the United States, although power to fix just compensation for service furnished by public utilities in general is vested in the Legislature."—In re Opinions of the Justices, Mass., 199 N.E. 538, 543.

44. Mich.—Groesbeck v. Detroit United Ry., 177 N.W. 726, 1023, 210 Mich. 227.

45. U.S.—International Ry. Co v Prendergast, D.C.N.Y., 52 F.2d 293—Westinghouse Electric & Mfg Co. v. Binghamton Ry. Co, D.C. N.Y., 255 F. 378, appeal dismissed 257 F. 726, 169 C.C.A. 14.
Ill.—Hoyne v. Chicago & O. P. Elevated R. Co, 128 N.E. 587, 295 Ill. 413—State Public Utilities Commission v. Chicago & W. T. Ry. Co., 114 N.E. 325, 275 Ill. 555, Ann.Cas.1917C 50.
Mo.—Kansas City v. Public Service Commission of Missouri, 210 S.W. 381, 276 Mo. 539, error dismissed 40 S.Ct. 54, 250 U.S. 652, 63 L.Ed. 1190—City of St. Louis v. Public Service Commission, 207 S.W. 805, 276 Mo 509—City of St. Louis v Public Service Commission of Missouri, 207 S.W 799, 276 Mo. 509.
N.Y.—People ex rel. Village of Brownsville v. Public Service Commission, 205 N.Y.S. 525, 209 App.Div. 640, affirmed 148 N.E. 716, 240 N.Y. 586—Village of Mamaroneck v. Public Service Commission, 203 N.Y.S. 678, 208 App.Div 330, affirmed People ex rel. Village of Mamaroneck v. Public Service Commission of State of New York, 144 N.E. 903, 238 N.Y. 588—Koehn v. Public Service Commission, Second Dist., 176 N.Y.S. 147, 107 Misc. 151
Pa.—City of Scranton v. Public Service Commission, 110 A. 775, 268 Pa 192, affirming 73 Pa.Super 192—Foltz v. Public Service Commission, 73 Pa.Super. 24—Borough of Wilkinsburg v Public Service Commission, 72 Pa.Super. 423
Utah—Salt Lake City v. Utah Light & Traction Co., 173 P. 556, 52 Utah 210, 3 A.L.R. 715.

"We are also satisfied that the Legislature has the power to change rates, even though they were established as a condition for the consents given under the constitutional provision in question. There is nothing in the constitutional provision relating to consents by local authorities and abutting property owners which expressly or by implication takes away from the Legislature the power to regulate rates. If the local authorities and abutting property owners attach conditions to their consents which are proper subjects of legislative regulation, the fact that the result may operate to defeat that condition does not take away from the Legislature its rate-making power when it chooses to exercise that power, and the Legislature may exercise that power through the agency of the Public Service Commission."—People ex rel. Village of Brownsville v Public Service Commission, 205 N.Y.S. 525, 209 App.Div 640, affirmed 148 N.E. 716, 240 N.Y. 586.

Power of regulation neither granted nor prohibited

A constitutional provision, requiring a city's consent to construction and operation of a street railroad, neither grants nor prohibits the city from admitting on terms and conditions including fixed fares, which power is incidental to the power to withhold consent, and a city so contracting acts under its general reserved powers subject to the public policy of the state.—City of St. Louis v. Public Service Commission, 207 S.W. 805, 276 Mo. 509—City of St. Louis v. Public Service Commission of Missouri, 207 S.W. 799, 276 Mo. 509.

State not bound by estoppel of carrier

While a municipality, even if it authority conferred on a municipality to grant franchises under appropriate conditions, for the operation of street railroads within its territory.[46] The fixing of a rate other than that provided for in the franchise or contract to which the municipality and the carrier are parties does not fall within the constitutional inhibition against impairment of obligations, since such agreements are deemed to be made subject to the supervening police power, of which the state cannot divest itself;[47] and the state, acting through its utilities commission, may authorize an increase in the rate fixed by the contract without requiring the railroad company to surrender its rights thereunder.[48]

The state's paramount authority over rates irrespective of any attempted establishment by municipal ordinance, franchise, or contract may be exercised on its behalf by a regulatory commission to which the power has been duly delegated,[49] and has overstepped the purview of the constitutional provision requiring its consent to the construction of a street railroad, in assuming to fix interurban rates, may bind the railroad by estoppel after the latter has obtained the benefits of the consent, it cannot bind the state by a twenty-year provision in the consent, providing for modification of fares by public authority only after the expiration of that period—Koehn v. Public Service Commission, Second Dist., 176 N.Y.S. 147, 107 Misc. 151

46. U.S.—Milwaukee Electric Ry & L. Co. v. Railroad Commission of Wisconsin, Wis., 35 S.Ct. 820, 238 U.S. 174, 59 L.Ed. 1254—O'Keefe v. City of New Orleans, D.C.La., 273 F. 560, affirmed, C.C.A., City of New Orleans v. O'Keefe, 280 F. 92.

Ill.—Chicago Rys. Co. v. City of Chicago, 126 N.E. 585, 292 Ill. 190, error dismissed City of Chicago v. Chicago Rys. Co., 42 S.Ct. 95, 257 U.S. 617, 66 L.Ed. 399.

N.J.—Atlantic Coast Electric Ry. Co. v. Board of Public Utility Com'rs, 104 A. 218, 92 N.J.Law 168, 12 A.L.R. 737, reversing 99 A. 395, 89 N.J.Law 407, error dismissed 41 S.Ct. 10, 254 U.S. 660, 65 L.Ed. 462

Va.—City of Richmond v. Virginia Ry. & Power Co., 126 S.E. 353, 141 Va. 69.

Provision of city charter

Under a constitutional provision authorizing the corporation commission to regulate rates, and statutes enacted pursuant thereto, the commission can regulate rates of street railroad, although city and railroad subsequent to adoption of Constitution had entered into contracts fixing rates good as between city and railroad, notwithstanding another section of the constitution authorizing cities to grant franchises and a provision of the city charter empowering city to enter into contracts as to rates—City of Richmond & Virginia Ry. & Power Co., 126 S.E. 353, 141 Va. 69.

Authority to grant franchise for specified term

A statute authorizing city to consent to construction of street railroad for period not exceeding twenty years does not confer right to contract for rates for twenty-year period free from legislative control nor does contract under that law fixing rates and giving city fifty-five per cent of net proceeds preclude public utilities commission as agent of state from changing rates—Chicago Rys. Co. v. City of Chicago, 126 N.E. 585, 292 Ill. 190, error dismissed City of Chicago v. Chicago Rys. Co., 42 S.Ct. 95, 257 U.S. 617, 66 L.Ed. 399

47. U.S.—City of Englewood v. Denver & S. P. Ry. Co., 39 S.Ct. 100, 248 U.S. 294, 63 L.Ed. 253, dismissing error Denver & S. P. Ry. Co. v. City of Englewood, Colo., 161 P. 151.

Ill.—Hoyne v. Chicago & O. P. Elevated R. Co., 128 N.E. 587, 295 Ill. 413.

Mich.—Groesbeck v. Detroit United Ry., 177 N.W. 726, 210 Mich. 227.

Mo.—State ex rel. Kansas City Public Service Co. v. Latshaw, 30 S.W. 2d 105, 325 Mo. 909, appeal dismissed Latshaw v. State of Missouri ex rel. Kansas City Public Service Co., 51 S.Ct. 101, 282 U.S. 806, 75 L.Ed. 723.

Va.—City of Richmond v. Virginia Ry. & Power Co., 126 S.E. 353, 141 Va. 69.

Contracts are subject to police power

Under constitutional provisions conferring on the corporation commission the power to regulate rates, the commission could fix rates of street railroad, notwithstanding contracts, good as between city and railroad, entered into before adoption of constitution, pursuant to particular statutory authorizations, since such contracts were entered into subject to power of state, in exercise of police power, to regulate rates.—City of Richmond v. Virginia Ry. & Power Co., 126 S.E. 353, 141 Va. 69.

48. Ill.—Chicago Rys. Co. v. City of Chicago, 126 N.E. 585, 292 Ill. 190, error dismissed City of Chicago v. Chicago Rys. Co., 42 S.Ct. 95, 257 U.S. 617, 66 L.Ed. 399.

49. U.S.—Railroad Commission of California v. Los Angeles Ry. Corporation, Cal., 50 S.Ct. 71, 280 U.S. 145, 74 L.Ed. 231, affirming, D.C., Los Angeles Ry. Corporation v. Railroad Commission of California, 29 F.2d 140—City of Englewood v. Denver & S. P. Ry. Co., 39 S.Ct. 100, 248 U.S. 294, 63 L.Ed. 253, dismissing error Denver & S. P. Ry. Co. v. City of Englewood, 161 P. 151, 62 Colo. 229, 4 A.L.R. 956—Public Service Ry. Co. v. Board of Public Utility Commissioners, D.C.N.J., 276 F. 979, appeal dismissed Board of Public Utility Com'rs of State of New Jersey v. Public Service R. Co., 45 S.Ct. 9, 266 U.S. 636, 69 L.Ed. 481.

Fla.—State v. Burr, 84 So. 61, 79 Fla. 290.

Ill.—Hoyne v. Chicago & O. P. Elevated R. Co., 128 N.E. 587, 295 Ill. 413—State Public Utilities Commission v. City of Quincy, 125 N.E. 374, 290 Ill. 360—State Public Utilities Commission v. Chicago & W. T. Ry. Co., 114 N.E. 325, 275 Ill. 555, Ann.Cas.1917C 50.

Mass.—Board of Survey of Arlington v. Bay State St. Ry. Co., 113 N.E. 273, 224 Mass. 463, 5 A.L.R. 24.

Mo.—Kansas City v. Public Service Commission of Missouri, 210 S.W. 381, 276 Mo. 539, error dismissed 40 S.Ct. 54, 250 U.S. 652, 63 L.Ed. 1190—City of St. Louis v. Public Service Commission, 207 S.W. 805, 276 Mo. 509—City of St. Louis v. Public Service Commission of Missouri, 207 S.W. 799, 276 Mo. 509.

N.J.—O'Brien v. Board of Public Utility Com'rs, 105 A. 132, 92 N.J. Law 44, affirmed 106 A. 414, 92 N.J.Law 587.

N.Y.—People ex rel. Village of Brownsville v. Public Service Commission, 205 N.Y.S. 525, 209 App. Div. 640, affirmed 148 N.E. 716, 240 N.Y. 586—Village of Mamaroneck v. Public Service Commission, 203 N.Y.S. 678, 208 App.Div. 330, affirmed People ex rel. Village of Mamaroneck v. Public Service Commission of State of New York, 144 N.E. 903, 238 N.Y. 588—Koehn v. Public Service Commission, Second Dist., 176 N.Y.S. 147, 107 Misc. 151.

the fact that the rate affected by the order of the commission was agreed on by a franchise entered into prior to the enactment of the law creating the commission does not invalidate the regulation, where the commission has been given the power to deal with conditions as they arise;[50] but, as will be indicated in the following subdivision of this section, however, the commission may be unable to regulate rates fixed by contract ordinance where the state legislature has prohibited, or not given authority to, the commission to interfere therewith.

It has been said, on the other hand, that, unless restrained by its constitution, the state, acting through its legislature, may contract away its power to regulate the rates of fare, by delegating to the municipality the power to do so,[51] and that rates so fixed by the municipality may amount to an "irrepealable contract, binding future Legislatures,"[52] although it will not be presumed that the state has surrendered all of its power to reg-

N.C.—In re Petition for Increase of Street Car Fares in City of Charlotte, 101 S.E. 619, 179 N.C. 151.

Or.—City of Portland v. Public Service Commission of Oregon, 173 P. 1178, 89 Or. 325.

Pa.—City of Philadelphia v. Public Service Commission, 83 Pa.Super. 8.—Foltz v. Public Service Commission, 73 Pa.Super. 24.

Va.—City of Richmond v. Virginia Ry. & Power Co., 126 S.E. 353, 141 Va. 69.

Wis.—City of Milwaukee v. Railroad Commission, 240 N.W. 165, 206 Wis. 339.

Authority as to commutation rates

A provision of a statute creating the commission and empowering it to regulate rates that "nothing in this act contained shall be construed . . . to prevent carrying out of contracts for free or reduced rate passenger transportation or other public utility service heretofore made, founded upon adequate consideration and lawful when made," was not intended to apply to commutation rates fixed in a franchise ordinance and did not prevent the commission from regulating such rates.—Salt Lake City v. Utah Light & Traction Co., 173 P. 556, 52 Utah 210, 3 A.L.R. 715.

Annulment of city's authority

City's authority to represent the state in regard to the fares of a street railway, which had been given a franchise, was annulled by act creating public service commission, and such authority given to such commission, which as state's agent could agree to change in the franchise allowing company an increased rate of fare.—City of Portland v. Public Service Commission of Oregon, 173 P. 1178, 89 Or. 325.

Conditions warranting increase of rate

Where a street railway was being run at a loss, the public utility commissioners, under statutory provisions conferring authority to regulate rates, should have granted a request to raise the fare from five to six cents, although there were local contracts with municipalities through which it ran.—Northampton, Easton & Washington Traction Co. v. Board of Public Utility Com'rs, N.J., 102 A. 930.

Conditions of franchise as to increase of rate

Where city entered into service-at-cost agreement with street railway, public service commission, under statute, could hear application for increase in rates regardless of franchise agreement providing for increase only where additions were made to property.—State ex rel. Kansas City Public Service Co. v. Latshaw, 30 S.W.2d 105, 325 Mo. 909, appeal dismissed Latshaw v. State of Missouri ex rel. Kansas City Public Service Co., 51 S.Ct. 101, 282 U.S. 806, 75 L.Ed. 723.

Exclusive jurisdiction

Railway Commission Act gives exclusive original jurisdiction of cases involving the rates of common carriers, as street railway companies, to the state railway commission and such law is not affected by the charter provisions of the city of Omaha, in which the street railway applying for increased rates was located.—Omaha & C. B. St. Ry. Co. v. Nebraska State Railway Commission, 173 N.W. 690, 103 Neb. 695.

Expiration of period of contract

Order of public utilities commission for increase of fares to be charged by street railroad did not violate the rights of a city secured by contract with the railroad, such contract, expressly running only for twenty years, having expired before the commission's order. — Public Utilities Commission v. Rhode Island Co., 110 A. 654, 43 R.I. 135.

Res judicata

Decisions of corporation commission rendered in connection with franchise obligations to sell labor and student tickets at certain rates were not res judicata as to power of commission to fix street railroad rates different from those fixed by contracts between railroad and city, since such decisions were rendered in proceedings not involving exercise of police power of state to regulate rates of public service corporations.—City of Richmond v. Virginia Ry. & Power Co., 126 S.E. 353, 141 Va. 69.

Although a railroad company may be estopped by municipal consents from increasing intra-state interurban fares, the public service commission is not prevented thereby from exercising authority "upon its own motion," under a statute conferring such authority, where creditors, stock and bond holders, and the public generally are interested in avoiding the destruction of the public utility, since the police power of the state must have been reserved, there being no clear constitutional or statutory provisions to the contrary.—Koehn v. Public Service Commission, Second Dist., 176 N.Y.S. 147, 107 Misc. 151.

50. Or.—City of Portland v. Public Service Commission of Oregon, 173 P. 1178, 89 Or. 325.

51. U.S.—Columbus Ry., Power & Light Co. v. City of Columbus, Ohio, D.C.Ohio, 253 F. 499, affirmed 39 S.Ct. 349, 249 U.S. 399, 63 L.Ed. 669, 6 A.L.R. 1648.

Fla.—State v. Burr, 84 So. 61, 71, 79 Fla. 290.

"Unless the state by constitutional provision . . . or by other reservation duly made, retains the right to change rates for public service fairly and reasonably made by a duly authorized and valid contract between a public utility company and a municipality, the obligation of the contract cannot in general be lawfully impaired by subsequent legislation in so far as it injures contract rights of the company that have not been waived or in any way terminated."—State v. Burr, supra.

52. N.J.—Atlantic Coast Electric Ry. Co. v. Board of Public Utility Com'rs, 104 A. 218, 219, 92 N.J.Law 168, 12 A.L.R. 737, reversing 99 A. 395, 89 N.J.Law 407, error dismissed 41 S.Ct. 10, 254 U.S. 660, 65 L.Ed. 462.

Contract cannot be impaired

It has been said by way of dictum that a contract fixing rates, entered into by a municipality under authority of a statute permitting it to establish rates of fare by agreement and providing that such rate be not increased without its consent, cannot be impaired by the state or any of its agencies.—Michigan Ry. Co. v. Lansing, D.C.Mich., 260 F. 322.

ulate street railway rates, unless such intent clearly appears in the act delegating regulatory powers to the city.[53] Thus, it has been held that, where a state enactment clearly gives to a municipality the power to make a binding contract as to the rate of fare, a statute permitting the city to fix the terms and conditions for the operation of street railroads being so construed, the state, acting through its agency, the public utilities commission, cannot change the rate during the term of the contract, without the consent of the municipality affected.[54] Also, in some jurisdictions, it has been held that the state public service commission may interfere with municipal franchise provisions, only in respect of rates involving the rights of the general public, and not as to matters involving the proprietary rights of the city, where the state has vested in the municipality its police power in respect of the latter.[55]

(2) Where Legislature Has Limited Commission's Authority

A commission may be denied the right to interfere with rates fixed in a franchise agreement between a municipality and a railroad where the statute creating the commission and defining its powers prohibits the disturbance of rates so fixed or does not confer the necessary authority to do so.

In a number of jurisdictions, although the power of the state to regulate rates fixed by contract ordinances has been acknowledged, the state commission has been denied the right to interfere with rates so fixed, where the statute creating the commission and limiting the powers conferred on it either expressly or impliedly recognized valid existing utility contracts as enforceable obligations,[56] and prohibited the commission from disturbing rates fixed in them;[57] the commission may, however, temporarily increase the rates fixed by municipal franchise agreement where the statute

53. U.S.—Milwaukee Electric Ry. & L. Co. v. Railroad Commission of Wisconsin, Wis., 35 S.Ct. 820, 822, 238 U.S. 174, 59 L.Ed. 1254—City of Covington, Ky., v. Cincinnati, N. & C. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Ky., 71 F.2d 117, certiorari denied Cincinnati, N. & C. Ry. Co. v. City of Covington, Ky., 55 S.Ct. 142, 293 U.S. 612, 79 L.Ed. 702 and City of Covington v. Cincinnati, N. & C. R. Co., 55 S.Ct. 142, 293 U.S. 612, 79 L.Ed. 702.

"The fixing of rates which may be charged by public service corporations, of the character here involved, is a legislative function of the state, and while the right to make contracts which shall prevent the state during a given period from exercising this important power has been recognized and approved by judicial decisions, it has been uniformly held in this court that the renunciation of a sovereign right of this character must be evidenced by terms so clear and unequivocal as to permit of no doubt as to their proper construction."—Milwaukee Electric Ry & L. Co. v. Railroad Commission of Wisconsin, supra.

54. Ohio.—Interurban Ry. & Terminal Co. v. Public Utilities Commission, 120 N.E. 831, 98 Ohio St. 287, 3 A.L.R. 696—Mahoning & Shenango Ry. & Light Co. v. Public Utilities Commission, 120 N.E. 835, 98 Ohio St. 303—Toledo, Bowling Green & Southern Traction Co. v. Public Utilities Commission, 120 N.E. 835, 98 Ohio St. 305.

The constitutional inhibition against impairment of obligation prevents the commission from changing the rate fixed by a binding contract entered into pursuant to legislative authority from the state.—Interurban Ry & Terminal Co. v. Public Utilities Commission, 120 N.E. 831, 98 Ohio St. 287, 3 A.L.R. 696

55. Wash.—State v. Seattle & R. V. Ry. Co., 194 P. 820, 113 Wash. 684, 15 A.L.R. 1194, distinguishing State v. Public Service Commission, 173 P. 737, 103 Wash. 72.

Free transit of policemen and firemen

The enactment of the Public Service Commission Law of 1911 did not supersede the right of a city of the first class to insist on the enforcement of its rights under the terms of franchise ordinance passed by the city and accepted by a street railway company prior to the going into effect of the law requiring grantees, their successors or assigns, to carry the city's policemen and firemen free when engaged in their official respective duties, since the state vested the city with all of its police power touching this subject matter.—State v. Seattle & R. V. Ry. Co., 194 P. 820, 113 Wash. 684, 15 A.L.R. 1194.

Sale of commutation tickets

(1) Under statute authorizing the public service commission to control and regulate rates, the commission could authorize a street railway to discontinue selling one dollar commutation tickets entitling the purchaser to twenty-five rides, although sale of such tickets was required by franchise from the city.—State v. Public Service Commission, 173 P. 737, 103 Wash. 72.

(2) In respect of the sale of such tickets, which involves the rights of the public generally, the state public service commission may abrogate municipal franchise provisions.—State v. Seattle & R. V. Ry. Co., 194 P. 820, 113 Wash. 684, 15 A.L.R. 1194.

56. Ind.—State v. Lewis, 120 N.E. 129, 187 Ind. 564.

Ohio.—Interurban Ry. & Terminal Co. v. Public Utilities Commission, 120 N.E. 831, 98 Ohio St. 287, 3 A.L.R. 696.

57. U.S.—Georgia Ry. & Power Co. v. Town of Decatur, Ga., 43 S.Ct. 613, 262 U.S. 432, 67 L.Ed. 1065

Ga.—Georgia Ry. & Power Co. v. Town of Decatur, 108 S.E. 615, 152 Ga. 143—Georgia Ry & Power Co. v. Railroad Commission of Georgia, 98 S.E. 696, 149 Ga. 1, 5 A.L.R. 1.

Valid subsisting contract held shown

Ga.—Georgia Ry & Power Co. v. Railroad Commission of Georgia, 98 S.E. 696, 149 Ga. 1, 5 A.L.R. 1

Transfers

Where a contract between a city and an electric railway company, fixing the fare chargeable between such city and another city, contained no provision on the subject of transfers, an order of the railroad commission requiring the issuance of free transfers was erroneous.—Georgia Ry. & Power Co. v. City of College Park, Ga., 43 S.Ct. 617, 262 U.S. 441, 67 L.Ed. 1074.

In Michigan

The filing of a proposed schedule of rates with the railroad commission by a road, prior to enactment of a statute delegating to it full powers of regulation, did not authorize an increase of rates in excess of those fixed in the franchise in view of a provision in the statute creating the commission, declaring that it does not authorize the commission to impair any existing franchise.—Humphrey v. Detroit, M. & T. S.L. Ry., 181 N.W. 975, 213 Mich. 113, denying rehearing 180 N.W. 373, 212 Mich. 91.

conferred such authority in the case of an emergency,[58] and it may, of course, make orders which do not go beyond the terms of the contract.[59]

In New York, rates fixed by a municipality as a condition to the grant of its consent to the construction of a street railroad, which is required by the state constitution, cannot be disturbed by the public service commission, since the state legislature has not specifically conferred on the commission authority to do so.[60] Notwithstanding the 58. Ind.—State v. Lewis, 120 N.E. 129, 187 Ind. 564.

Increased expenses due to war

Street railroad's petition for increased fares, due to expenses occasioned by war, was held to show emergency giving public service commission jurisdiction under Acts 1913 c 76 § 122 to consider the advisability of increasing the rate of fares.—State v. Lewis, 120 N.E. 129, 187 Ind. 564.

59. U.S.—Georgia Ry. & Power Co. v. Town of Decatur, Ga., 43 S.Ct. 613, 262 U.S. 432, 67 L.Ed. 1065.

Transfers

An order of a state railroad commission directing that no change be made in the matter of issuing free transfers on an electric railway on which rates were fixed by contract with municipality was not open to constitutional objection, when, so far as appeared, it did not go beyond the terms of the contract specifically providing for transfers.—Georgia Ry. & Power Co. v. Town of Decatur, Ga., 43 S.Ct. 613, 262 U.S. 432, 67 L.Ed. 1065.

60. U.S.—International Ry. Co. v. Prendergast, D.C.N.Y., 52 F.2d 293—Westinghouse Electric & Mfg. Co. v. Binghamton Ry. Co., D.C.N.Y., 255 F. 378, appeal dismissed 257 F. 726, 169 C.C.A. 14.

N.Y.—City of New York v. Interborough Rapid Transit Co., 177 N.E. 295, 257 N.Y. 20, affirming 249 N.Y.S. 243, 232 App.Div. 233, which affirmed 240 N.Y.S. 316, 136 Misc. 569—City of Niagara Falls v. Public Service Commission of New York for Second Dist., 128 N.E. 247, 229 N.Y. 333, reversing 178 N.Y.S. 882, 190 App.Div. 890, which reversed 177 N.Y.S. 861, 108 Misc. 567—Quinby v. Public Service Commission of State of New York for Second Dist., 119 N.E. 433, 437, 223 N.Y. 244, 3 A.L.R. 685, reversing 169 N.Y.S. 1109, 183 App.Div. 914, which affirmed 169 N.Y.S. 976, 102 Misc. 337, reargument denied 124 N.E. 790, 227 N.Y. 601, overruling People ex rel. New York & N. S. Traction Co. v. Public Service Commission of State of New York for Second District, 162 N.Y.S. 405, 175 App.Div. 869—People v. Monarch, 185 N.Y.S. 5, 193 App.Div. 707—City of New York v. Richmond Light & R. Co., 183 N.Y.S. 922—International Ry. Co. v. Rann, 171 N.Y.S. 193, 104 Misc. 46, affirmed 171 N.Y.S. 1088, 185 App.Div. 906, affirmed 120 N.E. 153, 224 N.Y. 83

"In the absence of clear and definite language conferring without ambiguity, jurisdiction upon the public service commission to increase rates of fare agreed upon by the street railroad and the local authorities, we should not unnecessarily hold that the Legislature has intended to delegate any of its powers in the matter, whatever its powers may be. The Public Service Commissions Law (sections 26, 49, subd. 1) and the Railroad Law (section 181) deal with maximum rates of fare established by statute, but make no reference in terms to rates established by agreement with local authorities."—Quinby v. Public Service Commission of State of New York for Second Dist., supra.

"The Quinby case [Quinby v. Public Service Commission, etc., supra] is intended by the Court of Appeals to hold that the Public Service Commission is without jurisdiction in any case to increase or decrease a rate of fare which has been agreed to by the enactment of a statute fixing the maximum rate of fare, and followed by the granting of a consent by the municipality to the construction and operation of the road, and which consent specifies the rate of fare to be charged, assuming, of course, that the contract made by such consent and the acceptance thereof, and by constructing and operating the road, has not been modified or abrogated by subsequent action or agreement, and also that it is immaterial to the question of jurisdiction whether or not such agreement or contract was subsequently ratified or approved by legislative action."—Westinghouse Electric & Mfg. Co. v. Binghamton Ry. Co., D.C.N.Y., 255 F. 378, 415, appeal dismissed 257 F. 726, 169 C.C.A. 14.

Regulation by transit commission

(1) The transit commission, as successor to the public service commission in regard to regulation of rates within the city of New York, is not authorized to alter a rate fixed by contract between the city of New York and a transit company.—City of New York v. Interborough Rapid Transit Co., 177 N.E. 295, 257 N.Y. 20, affirming 249 N.Y.S. 243, 232 App. Div. 233, which affirmed 240 N.Y.S. 316, 136 Misc. 569.

(2) Transit commission's power to increase elevated railway fares cannot be implied, but must be given by language admitting of no other reasonable construction.—City of New York v. Interborough Rapid Transit Co., supra.

(3) Transit commission was not authorized to increase elevated railway fares fixed by statute and extension certificate, especially in view of compact link between them and subways as to which contracts existed fixing the rate of fare, not within the control of the commission.—City of New York v. Interborough Rapid Transit Co., supra.

Interurban rates

(1) The rule stated in the text applies not only to urban rates but also to interurban rates so that, where a city consents to the use of its streets on condition that a certain rate be charged for transit to and from a neighboring city, the commission cannot interfere therewith.—Village of Mamaroneck v. Public Service Commission, 203 N.Y.S. 678, 208 App. Div. 330, affirmed People ex rel. Village of Mamaroneck v. Public Service Commission of State of New York, 144 N.E. 903, 238 N.Y. 588—People ex rel. Incorporated Village of Brownville v. Public Service Commission of New York, Second Dist., 191 N.Y.S. 293, 198 App.Div. 391.

(2) This is so notwithstanding the increase sought is not in the fares within the city litigating the change, but merely the fare for the portion of the transit in the neighboring city, which city has consented to the increase.—Village of Mamaroneck v. Public Service Commission, supra.

(3) It is not within the power of the public service commission to adopt a schedule filed by a street railway company, which eliminated a reduced return trip fare, for transit to and from a neighboring city, and thereby abrogate a condition attached to the franchise under which the company continues to operate where such franchise was granted prior to 1907.—People ex rel. Incorporated Village of Brownville v. Public Service Commission of New York, Second Dist., supra.

(4) It has been held, on the other hand, that interurban rates are not within the rule stated in the text and that, therefore, the commission may increase the rate fixed by the municipality as a condition to its grant of a franchise.—Koehn v. Public Service Commission, Second Dist., 176 N.Y.S. 147, 107 Misc. 151.

Rule under prior statute conferring authority

(1) It being conceded that the leg-

lack of such specific authority, however, the commission may, with the consent of the local authorities, evidenced as provided by law, increase rates of fare previously agreed on by the street railroad company and the municipality,[61] and it may regulate rates of railroads deriving their right to operate from the state, notwithstanding any attempted fixing of the rate by a municipality.[62] Further, the rule stated above, limiting the commission's authority, does not preclude the commission from regulating rates fixed by contract where the contract was entered into subsequent to the date of the enactment of legislation creating the commission and empowering it to regulate rates,[63] or, alislature has the power to regulate rates notwithstanding the constitutional provision requiring the consent of a municipality to the construction of a street railroad, and that its power to do so may be delegated to the public service commission, an amendment to the Public Service Commissions Law, L. 1921 c 134 § 29, and c 335 § 2, providing that the commission may regulate fares "notwithstanding that a higher . . . rate, fare, or charge has been heretofore prescribed by general or special statute, contract, grant, franchise, condition, consent, or other agreement" authorized the commission, before the repeal of such amendment, to increase a rate of fare fixed as a condition to the consent required by the constitutional provision.—People ex rel. Village of Brownsville v. Public Service Commission, 205 N.Y.S. 525, 209 App.Div. 640, affirmed 148 N.E. 716, 240 N.Y. 586—In re Fleming, 191 N.Y.S. 586, 117 Misc. 373, appeal dismissed 192 N.Y.S. 925.

(2) The authority delegated by this amendment to regulate rates, although established by franchise or contract, was taken away by L.1923 c 891, and the state of the law in regard to the commission's powers prior to the amendment was restored, so that the commission had not thereafter the authority to interfere with a rate fixed in a franchise as a condition to the municipality's consent.—Village of Mamaroneck v. Public Service Commission, 203 N.Y.S. 678, 208 App Div. 330, affirmed People ex rel. Village of Mamaroneck v. Public Service Commission of State of New York, 144 N.E. 903, 238 N.Y. 588.

(3) After the repeal of the amendment by L.1923 c 891 the authority of the commission did not continue even as respects petitions for new schedules filed prior to such repeal but not yet acted on at the time of the repeal. General Construction L. §§ 93, 94, relating to the prosecution of any "action or proceeding" to final effect notwithstanding the repeal of the statute involved, is not applicable, and the filing of petition for a new schedule is not an "action or proceeding" under sections 11-a and 46-a of such construction law.—Village of Mamaroneck v. Public Service Commission, supra.

Franchise rates are legislative in character

Franchise provisions as to rates of fares are in effect legislative rates when fixed and made by municipalities under sovereign power delegated to them and are binding, at least, until the legislature changes them by itself or by its properly authorized agency.—International Ry. Co v. Prendergast, D.C.N.Y., 52 F.2d 293.

Order reserving contract rights

An order of the public service commission, authorizing a railway company to charge two cents for transfers on its line, and excepting any contract rights of the city from its operation, does not, in view of the express exception violate previous franchises requiring free transfers; nor does it affect the city in its proprietary capacity as owner of the city streets.—City of New York v. Nixon, 183 N.Y.S. 6, 111 Misc. 224.

61. N.Y.—International Ry. Co. v. Rann, 120 N.E. 153, 224 N.Y. 83, affirming 171 N.Y.S. 1083, 185 App Div. 906, which affirms 171 N.Y.S. 193, 104 Misc. 46.

62. N.Y.—Evens v. Public Service Commission, Second Dist., 158 N.E. 310, 246 N.Y. 224, affirming Evens v. Phelps, 211 N.Y.S. 650, 214 App Div. 122—People ex rel. Garrison v. Nixon, 128 N.E. 255, 229 N.Y. 575, affirming 181 N.Y.S. 949, 191 App.Div. 945, reargument denied 129 N.E. 943, 229 N.Y. 645, motion to amend remittitur denied 129 N.E. 943, 229 N.Y. 647.

Road organized under General Railroad Law

Under Public Service Commissions L. §§ 29, 49, the public service commission had jurisdiction to authorize a railroad which was not a street railroad, within Const. art 3 § 18, but one organized under the General Railroad Law of 1850, using private right of way acquired under the present Railroad L. §§ 8, 9, 21, across streets in the city of New York, to charge a higher rate of fare within the city limits than that prescribed by an ordinance, under Greater New York Charter §§ 72–74, as amended by L.1901 c 466, giving city's consent to use of streets since the fixing of such rates was within police power of state, and since state had, under Railroad L. § 57, fixed the rate to be charged, precluding the city from making the charging of a specified rate a condition to its consent to use of streets by the railroad.—People ex rel. New York, W. & B. Ry Co v. Public Service Commission, First Dist., 183 N.Y.S. 473, 193 App Div 445, affirmed 130 N.E. 911, 230 N.Y. 604.

63. U.S.—International Ry. Co. v Prendergast, D.C.N.Y., 52 F.2d 293—Interborough Rapid Transit Co. v Gilchrist, D.C.N.Y., 26 F.2d 912, reversed on other grounds Gilchrist v. Interborough Rapid Transit Co., 49 S.Ct. 282, 279 U.S. 159, 73 L.Ed. 652.

N.Y.—City of New York v. Interborough Rapid Transit Co., 177 N.E. 295, 257 N.Y. 20, affirming 249 N.Y.S. 243, 232 App.Div. 233, which affirmed 240 N.Y.S. 316, 136 Misc. 569—People ex rel. Garrison v. Nixon, 128 N.E. 255, 229 N.Y. 575, affirming 181 N.Y.S. 949, 191 App.Div. 945, reargument denied 129 N.E. 943, 229 N.Y. 645, motion to amend remittitur denied 129 N.E. 943, 229 N.Y. 647—People ex rel. City of New York v Nixon, 128 N.E. 245, 247, 229 N.Y. 356, reversing 180 N.Y.S. 130, 190 App Div. 612, which affirmed 179 N.Y.S. 82, 109 Misc. 7—City of Yonkers v. Maltbie, 245 N.Y.S. 514, 138 Misc 572, affirmed 248 N.Y.S. 75, 231 App. Div. 415—Koehn v. Public Service Commission, Second Dist., 176 N.Y.S. 147, 107 Misc. 151.

"The statute which clothed the commission with jurisdiction to increase charges, if found to be inadequate, was notice to municipalities that franchises thereafter granted must be coupled with no conditions inconsistent with the jurisdiction thus conferred. The commission is now holding the city to terms which were accepted by implication when the conditions were imposed. . . . This is merely to give effect to the settled rule that contracts are made in submission to existing legislation."—People ex rel. City of New York v. Nixon, supra.

Earlier franchise superseded

A street railroad franchise granted in 1911 modified and superseded prior franchises and must be regarded as having been made subject to existing statutes conferring powers of regulation on the public service commission; hence the commission could entertain jurisdiction to change the rate of fare fixed in such franchise.—City of Yonkers v. Maltbie, 245 N.Y.S. 514, 138 Misc. 572, affirmed 248 N.Y.S. 75, 231 App.Div. 415.

though entered into prior to such time, was substantially modified or abrogated by contracts subsequent to such time, as by new contracts consenting to a change of motive power,[64] where the contract was entered into prior to the effective date of the constitutional provision requiring the municipality's consent to the construction of street railroads;[65] or where the contract expressly reserved to the legislature,[66] or to the public service commission,[67] the right to regulate the fares to be charged. The commission may also exercise authority where the contract,[68] or an agreement for a consolidation and extension of lines, modifying such contract,[69] is conditioned on compliance with a part of the railroad law which reserves to the legislature the right to regulate the rates of carriers subject to the law, and another provision gives the commission authority to act for the legislature under the law. If only a small portion of an entire system is beyond the control of the commission because of franchise agreements fixing rates, the commission may nevertheless regulate rates for the entire system.[70] Where the commission was given specific statutory authority to regulate rates even where fixed by franchise agreement, and proceeded to modify rates so fixed, a subsequent statute withdrawing such authority does not have the effect of reviving the franchise rates which had been superseded by the legal order of the commission, and the commission may thereafter regulate rates modified by it during the time it had authority to do so.[71] The statute repealing the prior statutory provision extending the commission's authority over rates fixed by franchise did not affect its established authority to regulate franchise rates specifically superseded by

Interurban rates

N.Y.—Koehn v. Public Service Commission, Second Dist., 176 N.Y.S. 147, 107 Misc. 151.

64. U.S.—Westinghouse Electric & Mfg. Co. v. Binghamton Ry. Co., D.C.N.Y., 255 F. 378, appeal dismissed 257 F. 726, 169 C.C.A. 14.

N.Y.—Evens v. Public Service Commission, Second Dist., 158 N.E. 310, 246 N.Y. 224, affirming Evens v. Phelps, 211 N.Y.S. 650, 214 App. Div. 122.

Prior contracts not superseded

Particular contracts entered into after the enactment of the Public Service Commissions Law have, however, been held not to supersede or modify prior contracts limiting fares so as to authorize an increase thereof by the commission.—City of New York v. Interborough Rapid Transit Co., 177 N.E. 295, 257 N.Y. 20, affirming 249 N.Y.S. 243, 232 App.Div. 233, which affirmed 240 N.Y.S. 316, 136 Misc. 569.

65. N.Y.—City of New York v. Interborough Rapid Transit Co., supra—Evens v. Public Service Commission, Second Dist., 158 N.E. 310, 246 N.Y. 224, affirming order Evens v. Phelps, 211 N.Y.S. 650, 214 App. Div. 122—People ex rel. Garrison v. Nixon, 128 N.E. 255, 229 N.Y. 575, affirming 181 N.Y.S. 949, 191 App.Div. 945, reargument denied 129 N.E. 943, 229 N.Y. 645, motion denied 129 N.E. 943, 229 N.Y. 647.

66. N.Y.—International Ry. Co. v. Public Service Commission, Second Dist., 124 N.E. 123, 226 N.Y. 474 affirming and answering certified questions 175 N.Y.S. 906, 188 App Div. 944, reargument denied 126 N.E. 911, 227 N.Y. 669.

Effect of "Milburn Agreement"

(1) Milburn Agreement, between city of Buffalo and street railways, abolishing transfers, was held not to preclude public service commission from authorizing increased fares in view of fact that it reserved the right of the legislature to regulate such fares; nor was such agreement, under Public Service Commission L. § 49 subd. 6, prohibiting commission from modifying it, a limitation on other subdivisions of same section giving commission power to regulate rates since the power to regulate transfers is distinct from that to regulate rate.—International Ry. Co. v. Public Service Commission, Second Dist., 124 N.E. 123, 226 N.Y. 474, affirming and answering certified questions 175 N.Y.S. 906, 188 App.Div. 944, reargument denied 126 N.E. 911, 227 N.Y. 669.

(2) Under Public Service Commission L. § 49, the commission has power to entertain a proceeding to increase rates where the rate of fare was fixed by the Milburn Agreement, since such agreement had effect only when ratified by the legislature by L.1892 c. 151, and became operative as a statutory rate subject to further regulation.—International Ry. Co. v. Public Service Commission, Second Dist., 174 N.Y.S. 403, 106 Misc. 293.

67. N.Y.—City of New York v. Richmond Light & R. Co., 183 N.Y.S. 922.

68. N.Y.—City of Yonkers v. Maltbie, 248 N.Y.S. 75, 231 App.Div. 415, affirming 245 N.Y.S. 514, 138 Misc. 572—Fagal v. Public Service Commission, 227 N.Y.S. 18, 131 Misc. 398—O'Connor v. Public Service Commission, Second Dist., 186 N.Y.S. 390, 114 Misc. 337.

Franchise superseding prior franchises

Street railroad franchise granted in 1911 modified and superseded all preceding franchises as to rates of fare and, where such franchise was made subject to the provisions of Railroad L. art. 5 which reserves to the legislature the right to regulate fares of railroads subject to that law, the commission has power to increase fares fixed by the franchise.—City of Yonkers v. Maltbie, 248 N.Y.S. 75, 231 App.Div. 415, affirming 245 N.Y.S. 514, 138 Misc. 572.

Entire system of lines

The commission may exercise authority over an entire system of lines, even though a portion is operated under franchises not within its control where a major portion of the franchises are conditioned on compliance with the provisions of the railroad law as set forth in the text.—Fagal v. Public Service Commission, 227 N.Y.S. 18, 131 Misc. 398.

69. U.S.—Westinghouse Electric & Mfg. Co. v. Binghamton Ry. Co., D.C.N.Y., 255 F. 378, appeal dismissed 257 F. 726, 169 C.C.A. 14.

N.Y.—Evens v. Public Service Commission, Second Dist., 158 N.E. 310, 246 N.Y. 224, affirming Evens v. Phelps, 211 N.Y.S. 650, 214 App. Div. 122—United Traction Co. v. Public Service Commission, 219 N.Y.S. 421, 219 App.Div. 95.

70. N.Y.—City of New York v. Interborough Rapid Transit Co., 177 N.E. 295, 257 N.Y. 20, affirming 249 N.Y.S. 243, 232 App.Div. 233, which affirmed 240 N.Y.S. 316, 136 Misc. 569—Evens v. Public Service Commission, Second Dist., 158 N.E. 310, 246 N.Y. 224, affirming Evens v. Phelps, 211 N.Y.S. 650, 214 App. Div. 122.

71. N.Y.—City of Yonkers v. Maltbie, 248 N.Y.S. 75, 231 App.Div. 415, affirming 245 N.Y.S. 514, 138 Misc. 572—United Traction Co. v. Public Service Commission, 219 N.Y.S. 421, 219 App.Div. 95.

statute, or rates fixed in various franchise agreements modified by other agreements made subject to provisions of the railroad law reserving authority to regulate to the legislature.[72]

§ 584. Proceedings to Enforce, or Obtain Relief from Rates

a. Judicial supervision in general
b. Injunction
c. Review of commission orders by appeal or action to set aside

a. Judicial Supervision in General

Courts generally may not interfere with the legislative regulation of rates except to afford protection against unreasonable and confiscatory rates.

As already stated in § 582, the primary duty of regulating and fixing the rates to be charged by a carrier is on the legislature or its authorized agency; the extent of judicial interference therewith is generally limited to protection against unreasonable or confiscatory rates.[73] So, the courts ordinarily may not review a commission's determination, in fixing rates, of questions of business or public policy;[74] and although they may in a given instance be called on to decide in the course of litigation whether a certain rate or regulation is reasonable or unreasonable, or to declare that a given statutory or commission regulation is confiscatory,[75] subject to some apparent qualifications treated in subdivision b (1) (b) of this section, they, in general, have no power to affirmatively determine and prescribe reasonable regulations and rates.[76]

If a railroad attempts to enforce improper and detrimental regulations, where the statute so provides, recourse must first be had to the state commission authorized to act thereon, and the courts must yield the prior right of determination to such tribunal.[77]

In a proceeding to review an appraisal made under a contract between a municipality and a street railroad, the municipality is not barred by laches or the statute of limitations where the contract directed no particular method of review and set no time limit therefor, and the action for review was brought within a reasonable time.[78]

b. Injunction

(1) To obtain relief from rates
(2) To enforce compliance with rates

(1) To Obtain Relief from Rates

(a) In general
(b) Preliminary injunction
(c) Jurisdiction

(a) In General

The enforcement of a rate clearly shown to be con-

72. N.Y.—United Traction Co. v. Public Service Commission, supra.

73. U.S.—Galveston Electric Co. v. City of Galveston, D.C.Tex., 272 F. 147, affirmed 42 S.Ct. 351, 258 U.S. 388, 66 L.Ed. 678—Houston Electric Co. v. City of Houston, D.C. Tex., 265 F. 360—Henry L. Doherty & Co. v. Toledo Rys. & Light Co., D.C.Ohio, 254 F. 597—Ann Arbor R. Co. v. Fellows, D.C.Mich., 236 F. 387, appeal dismissed Ann Arbor R. Co. v. Glasgow, 39 S.Ct. 5, 248 U.S. 588, 63 L.Ed. 434.
Wis.—City of Milwaukee v. Railroad Commission, 240 N.W. 165, 206 Wis. 339—Milwaukee Electric Ry. & Light Co. v. Railroad Commission of Wisconsin, 172 N.W. 746, 169 Wis. 421.
10 C.J. p. 675 note 33.
Modification of contracts between city and subway operating companies involving increase in fare is a matter involving municipal policy with which courts ordinarily will not interfere.—Halleran v. City of New York, 228 N.Y.S. 116, 132 Misc. 73.

74. U.S.—Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Alabama R. Commn., D.C.Ala., 209 F. 75.
10 C.J. p. 677 note 45.

75. U.S.—Duluth St. Ry. Co. v. Railroad and Warehouse Commission of Minnesota, D.C.Minn., 4 F.2d 543, affirmed Railroad and Warehouse Commission of Minnesota v. Duluth Street Ry. Co., 47 S.Ct. 489, 273 U.S. 625, 71 L.Ed. 807—Henry L. Doherty & Co. v. Toledo Rys. & Light Co., D.C.Ohio, 254 F. 597.
Wis.—City of Milwaukee v. Railroad Commission, 240 N.W. 165, 206 Wis. 339—Milwaukee Electric Ry. & Light Co. v. Railroad Commission of Wisconsin, 172 N.W. 746, 169 Wis. 421.
10 C.J. p. 675 note 34.

76. U.S.—Duluth St. Ry. Co. v. Railroad and Warehouse Commission of Minnesota, D.C.Minn., 4 F.2d 543, affirmed Railroad and Warehouse Commission of Minnesota v. Duluth Street Ry. Co., 47 S.Ct. 489, 273 U.S. 625, 71 L.Ed. 807—Houston Electric Co. v. City of Houston, D.C.Tex., 265 F. 360, 361—City of Toledo v. Toledo Rys. & Light Co., Ohio, 259 F. 450, 170 C.C.A. 426—Henry L. Doherty & Co. v. Toledo Rys. & Light Co., D.C.Ohio, 254 F. 597.
Wis.—City of Milwaukee v. Railroad Commission, 240 N.W. 165, 206 Wis. 339—Milwaukee Electric Ry. & Light Co. v. Railroad Commission of Wisconsin, 172 N.W. 746, 169 Wis. 421.
10 C.J. p. 675 note 35.
"The settled principle [is] that the fixing of rates, involving considerations of expediency, policy, and fairness under existing conditions as between the utility and the public, rests with the rate-making body . . . and that the right of judicial interference attaches only when it is established that the rate fixed denies to the utility a fair return . . . and, accordingly, that the scope of the inquiry is limited to the testing out of the rate of fare allowed, in order to determine whether or not it results in the prohibited taking of plaintiff's property, and does not embrace authority for binding the rate-making body to any particular plan for fixing fares other than, in the operation thereof, plaintiff shall be enabled to realize the fair return protected by the constitutional provision."—Houston Electric Co. v. City of Houston, supra.

77. Wis.—Campbell v. Milwaukee Electric Ry. & Light Co., 170 N.W. 937, 169 Wis. 171.

78. N.Y.—City of Rochester v. New York State Rys., 217 N.Y.S. 452, 127 Misc. 766.

fiscatory may be restrained by injunction, even before it has gone into operation, and the court may, as a condition thereof, fix a temporary maximum rate or order a temporary increase; and a carrier is not precluded from injunctive relief because it has previously acquiesced to the attacked rates. The court cannot restrain the commission from proceeding with its determination and its injunction as to enforcement of a certain rate does not prevent the commission from acting thereafter to fix a reasonable rate.

The enforcement of an unreasonable rate fixed by statute or commission regulation,[79] or of a rate fixed by an invalid ordinance,[80] may, in a proper case, be restrained by injunction, regardless of whether the rate attacked is unreasonable as initially fixed or afterward became so by reason of changed conditions,[81] although, the rule is imperative that such relief,[82] especially where sought

79. U.S.—Los Angeles Ry. Corporation v. Railroad Commission of California, D.C.Cal., 29 F.2d 140, affirmed Railroad Commission of California v Los Angeles Ry Corporation, 50 S.Ct 71, 280 U.S. 145, 74 L.Ed. 234—Augusta-Aiken Ry. & Electric Corporation v. Railroad Commission of South Carolina, C.C.A.S.C., 281 F. 977—Chicago Rys. Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission, D.C Ill., 277 F. 970—Public Service Ry. Co. v. Board of Public Utility Commissioners, D.C.N.J., 276 F. 979, appeal dismissed Board of Public Utility Com'rs of State of New Jersey v. Public Service Ry Co., 45 S.Ct. 9, 266 U.S. 636, 69 L.Ed. 481.
10 C.J. p 676 note 38.

Injunction properly refused

Under particular circumstances, it was held that the court did not abuse its discretion in refusing an injunction to restrain city from enforcing an ordinance repealing an earlier ordinance increasing street railway fares.—Houston Electric Co. v. City of Houston, Tex.Civ.App., 212 S.W. 198, error granted.

Parties

(1) In a suit by a street railway alleging confiscation of its property through failure of the public service commission to prescribe fair and reasonable rates, various municipalities adverse to the railway company are proper parties to the determination of the questions involved.—International Ry. Co. v. Prendergast, D.C.N.Y., 29 F.2d 296.

(2) The public service commission was the sole necessary party, in so far as certain municipalities were concerned, in such a suit—International Ry. Co. v. Prendergast, supra

(3) Holders of mortgage bonds of a railroad company cannot maintain a suit to enjoin the enforcement of a state statute fixing rates unless it is shown that the mortgage trustee, representing all the bondholders, has refused to bring the suit—Winthrop v. Fellows, D.C.Mich., 230 F. 702, appeal dismissed 38 S.Ct. 189, 245 U.S. 679, 62 L.Ed. 544.

(4) Proceedings maintainable by bondholders for relief against unreasonable rates generally see supra § 310.

(5) The trustee under a railroad mortgage which is in process of foreclosure while the railroad is in the hands of receivers has no such interest in the future earnings of the road as to entitle it to question the validity of a rate statute, unless it is clearly shown that the mortgaged property is not of sufficient value to pay the mortgage debt after satisfying precedent liens.—Winthrop v. Fellows, supra

Pleadings generally held sufficient

U.S.—International Ry. Co v. Prendergast, D.C.N.Y., 29 F.2d 296.
10 C.J. p 676 note 38 [b].

Bill held insufficient to warrant relief

In a proceeding by a street railway to restrain a city from enforcing an ordinance reducing fares, pleadings did not show that reduced fare was unreasonable, unjust, or insufficient to maintain and pay a fair return on the value of the property—Houston Electric Co. v. City of Houston, Tex.Civ.App., 212 S.W. 198, error granted.

Supplemental bill

Street railway alleging confiscation of property through failure of commission to prescribe reasonable rates was held to be entitled to file supplemental bill alleging new facts.—International Ry. Co. v. Prendergast, D.C.N.Y., 29 F.2d 296.

Adoption of master's report

Where rate of return found by special master is based on an erroneous theory and the rate determined by the court on the evidence is high enough to avoid confiscation, master's conclusion that street car fares fixed by commission will result in confiscation cannot be adopted in a suit attacking the commission's determination.—International Ry. Co. v. Prendergast, D.C.N.Y., 1 F.Supp. 623.

Free passes

A case for injunctive relief against a statute requiring carriers to issue free passes to certain classes of persons as not made on mere averment that legislature violated constitution in authorizing free transportation to certain classes, nor by allegation that free transportation, issued under act, adds to carriers' operating expense.—St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. State, 261 S.W. 996, 113 Tex. 570, 33 A.L.R. 367, reversing State v. St. Louis S. W. Ry. Co. of Texas, Civ.App., 197 S.W. 1006.

80. Suit by qualified elector

(1) Where a city board of commissioners passed an ordinance as an emergency measure increasing street railway rates, an elector and citizen, and patron of the railway company was entitled to sue to restrain the operation of the ordinance, on the ground of invalidity, he having no adequate legal remedy by mandamus because of the declaration of the emergency, the provision that the ordinance should take immediate effect cutting off his right to file protest and to proceed thereunder.—Geller v. Dallas Ry. Co., Civ.App., 245 S.W. 254, reversed on other grounds Dallas R. Co. v. Geller, 271 S.W. 1106, 114 Tex. 484.

(2) Under a statute requiring ordinances granting franchises to be on file for one week before adoption, and notice thereof to be published, and requiring approval by the electors of street railway franchises, and publication of the ordinance itself before the submission to the voters, a qualified elector injured by an ordinance increasing the rate of fare may sue for an injunction, as the purpose of the first publication is to give those injuriously affected an opportunity to protect their rights in the courts.—Long v. City of Shreveport, 91 So. 325, 151 La. 423.

81. U.S.—Augusta-Aiken Ry. & Electric Corporation v. Railroad Commission of South Carolina, C.C.A.S.C., 281 F. 977, 980.
"It is not the fixing but the enforcement of a confiscatory rate that invades the constitutional rights of the carrier. To deny permission to raise an existing rate is in necessary effect to enforce that rate, and obviously confiscation may be as completely effected by refusing an increase as by requiring a reduction. It is therefore immaterial whether the rate be confiscatory when it is prescribed, or afterwards becomes so by reason of changed conditions. . . . It cannot be doubted that the power of the courts to enjoin confiscation effected by reduction is equally ample, and its exercise equally obligatory, to enjoin confiscation effected by refusal to permit an increase."—Augusta-Aiken Ry. & Electric Corporation v. Railroad Commission of South Carolina, supra.

82. U.S.—Galveston Electric Co. v. City of Galveston, D.C.Tex., 272 F.

before final hearing,[83] will not be granted, unless the confiscatory character of the rate is clear.

Since the courts cannot interfere with the commission's exercise of its regulatory powers, save only to protect against unreasonable rates, the commission cannot be enjoined from proceeding with its determination of the reasonableness of certain rates, for it will not be presumed that its orders will be arbitrary, oppressive, or unlawful;[84] so, a court, on behest of a carrier which has filed a schedule increasing its rates above the maximum provided for by statute, cannot enjoin the commission from interfering therewith, until the commission has investigated and determined that the increase in rate is unreasonable.[85] On the other hand, a commission order reducing fares, in force immediately after its passage, is a complete exercise of the legislative power, so as to support a suit for an injunction, in the absence of any provision for suspension by an application for rehearing, although under the statute, a motion to reconsider might have been made and entertained in the discretion of the commission.[86] Where after institution of a suit attacking rates as confiscatory, the commission fixes new increased rates, which are also claimed by the carrier to be confiscatory, such order does not remit matters to the legislative state but places the subject matter subject to review by the courts, justifying the filing of a supplemental bill,[87] and the railroad company's operation under the rates fixed by the order in question does not constitute a waiver or abandonment of the pending action.[88]

Where in a suit by a railroad to restrain the putting into effect of a statute or order of a commission fixing rates the evidence as to the unreasonableness of the proposed rates is unsatisfactory, the rates should be allowed to take effect experimentally, to await a demonstration of their reasonableness or unreasonableness by actual trial for a reasonable length of time, subject to a future application for a change.[89] A suit to enjoin the enforcement of a statute, ordinance, or order fixing rates is, however, not premature because no test period has intervened during which the effect of the rates can be determined,[90] as the proof of the inadequacy of the proposed rate may be so clear and convincing as to warrant the court in enjoining its imposition in advance of the time it is put into operation.[91] Further, the rule sometimes followed of permitting the enforcement of a reduced rate for a trial period does not require a trial period for an ordinance granting a partial increase in the rate, where the unchallenged computations show a larger increase to be necessary.[92]

It has been held, notwithstanding the rule stat-

147, affirmed 42 S.Ct. 351, 258 U.S. 388, 66 L.Ed. 678—Ann Arbor R. Co. v. Fellows, D.C.Mich., 336 F. 387, appeal dismissed Ann Arbor R. Co. v. Glasgow, 39 S.Ct. 5, 248 U.S. 588, 63 L.Ed. 434.
10 C.J. p. 677 note 42.

83. U.S.—International Ry. Co. v. Prendergast, D.C.N.Y., 52 F.2d 293.
10 C.J. p. 677 note 43

All doubts will be resolved against plaintiff, on application for a preliminary injunction restraining the enforcement of an order of the commission reducing street car fares.—Chicago Rys. Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission, D.C.Ill., 277 F. 970.

Under conflicting evidence as to valuations, expenses, and earnings of railway, preliminary injunction to restrain enforcement of rates was denied, but issues were referred to master.—International Ry. Co. v. Prendergast, D.C.N.Y., 52 F.2d 293.

84. U.S.—Meridian Light & Ry. Co. v. City of Meridian, D.C.Miss., 265 F. 765.
Kan.—Kansas City v. Public Utilities Commission of Kansas, 176 P. 324, 325, 103 Kan. 473.
"Upon any issue which it has jurisdiction to consider the commission must decide for itself in the first instance. The presumption is that it will decide right; but, if not, the remedy lies in a subsequent action in the courts."—Kansas City v. Public Utilities Commission of Kansas, supra.

Power to allow application for increase

As public utilities commission's power to allow street railroad's application for increased rates depends on circumstances, it may determine for itself, in first instance, the facts in that regard, the remedy of anyone aggrieved being by subsequent action in the courts, and a proceeding to enjoin the commission from acting in the first instance does not lie—Kansas City v. Public Utilities Commission of Kansas, 176 P. 324, 103 Kan. 473.

85. W.Va.—State v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., W.Va., 85 S.E. 714, 76 W.Va. 399.

86. U.S.—Chicago Rys. Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission, D.C.Ill., 277 F. 970.

87. U.S.—International Ry. Co. v. Prendergast, D.C.N.Y., 52 F.2d 293.

88. U.S.—International Ry. Co. v. Prendergast, D.C.N.Y., 29 F.2d 296.

89. U.S.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Hadley, C.C.Mo., 155 F. 220.
Md.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Towers, 94 A. 330, 126 Md. 59.

90. U.S.—Duluth St. Ry. Co. v. Railroad and Warehouse Commission of Minnesota, D.C.Minn., 4 F.2d 543, affirmed Railroad and Warehouse Commission of Minnesota v. Duluth Street Ry. Co., 47 S.Ct. 489, 273 U.S. 625, 71 L.Ed. 807.

91. U.S.—Henry L. Doherty & Co. v. Toledo Rys. & Light Co., D.C.Ohio, 254 F. 597.

Injunction held justified

Where city authorities proposed to take action to compel a carrier which was operating without a franchise, to sell eleven tickets for fifty cents, it was held that such action, under the circumstances, would work a confiscation of the company's property, and so would be enjoined in advance, the company being entitled to charge for its service a sum which would give a fair return.—Henry L. Doherty & Co. v. Toledo Rys. & Light Co., D.C.Ohio, 254 F. 597.

92. U.S.—City of Toledo v. Toledo Rys. & Light Co., Ohio, 259 F. 450, 170 C.C.A. 426.

ed in subdivision a of this section, that the courts will not undertake to prescribe rates, that a court of equity, on granting an injunction restraining the enforcement of a rate as confiscatory, may name a rate as a condition of the injunction, beyond which the carrier may not charge, pending final adjudication and the determination of a just rate by the proper body.[93] It has also been held that the court may issue a temporary injunction increasing the rates fixed in a contract between a municipality and a carrier, where such rates have been found to be confiscatory,[94] and that such injunction is not objectionable as disturbing the existing state of affairs, where the contract in which the rate is fixed evidences a primary intent to establish reasonable rates as the status quo.[95]

In a suit by a taxpayer to enjoin as unreasonable and invalid an increase of rates effected by arbitration between a municipality and railroad, the validity of the franchise providing for such arbitration cannot be tested.[96]

Defenses. A carrier cannot be estopped from securing relief in equity from confiscatory rates by reason of its having acquiesced for a long period to such rates.[97] That a railroad company seeking to enjoin enforcement of an order fixing a joint rate was in fact incorporated and acquired the rights, privileges, and franchises of its predecessors while such order was in force, does not preclude it from attacking such order on its becoming unreasonable and confiscatory.[98] A railroad company is not bound to attack prescribed rates as to all its routes, and the fact that it does not seek an injunction against the operation of the order fixing confiscatory rates, as to lines of another company which owned all of complainant's stock, is not a ground for denial of an injunction.[99]

Effect of injunction. An injunction issued by a court of competent jurisdiction, restraining the enforcement of a rate law during the pendency of an action, will suspend the operation of such rates until final determination of their validity.[1] An injunction restraining the enforcement of a rate fixed by the commission does not prevent the commission from thereafter proceeding, under the law of its creation, to fix a reasonable rate.[2]

Decree. An injunction against the enforcement of an ordinance fixing fares, which are confiscatory under the prevailing conditions, should safeguard the right of the city under its charter and the franchise to exercise properly its power to prescribe just and reasonable fares, if conditions subsequently change.[3]

A petition to modify a decree enjoining enforcement of a statute fixing maximum rates on condition that the railroad does not exceed rates specified therein will be denied, where it is not shown that changed conditions have rendered the statutory rate no longer confiscatory or that the rates permitted by the decree have become more than sufficient to yield a reasonable return.[4]

(b) Preliminary Injunction

A preliminary injunction restraining the enforcement of the attacked rate pending final determination may be issued where it is shown that irreparable injury will otherwise occur and that passengers will be protected in case the rate is ultimately found valid.

A court may, in a proper case, issue a temporary injunction against the enforcement of the alleged confiscatory rate, pending final determination of the validity of such rate,[5] where the reasonableness of the rate is doubtful and the carrier will

93. U.S.—Augusta-Aiken Ry. & Electric Corporation v. Railroad Commission of South Carolina, C.C.A.S.C., 281 F. 977, 981—Public Service Ry. Co. v. Board of Public Utility Commissioners, D.C.N.J., 276 F. 979, appeal dismissed Board of Public Utility Com'rs of State of New Jersey v. Public Service R. Co., 45 S.Ct. 9, 266 U.S. 636, 69 L.Ed. 481—City of Toledo v. Toledo Rys. & Light Co., Ohio, 259 F. 450, 170 C.C.A. 426.

"When an injunction is asked to restrain the enforcement of an unreasonable rate, the court may make its granting conditional upon the doing of equity by plaintiff, and thus may require the plaintiff to consent to charge no more than what seems to the court to be reasonable—just as in tax injunction cases, the plaintiff is often required to pay what the court thinks a fair tax before it will give relief against the excessive part. In any of these instances, there is an indirect fixing or determination by the court, but each of these indirect results is fully within the judicial power."—Augusta-Aiken Ry. & Electric Corporation v. Railroad Commission of South Carolina, supra—City of Toledo v. Toledo Rys. & Light Co., Ohio, supra.

94. U.S.—City of Council Bluffs v. Omaha & C. B. St. Ry. Co., C.C.A. Iowa, 9 F.2d 246.

95. U.S.—City of Council Bluffs v. Omaha & C. B. St. Ry. Co., supra.

96. Ohio.—Parks v. Cleveland Ry. Co., 176 N.E. 472, 38 Ohio App. 315, affirmed 177 N.E. 28, 124 Ohio St. 79.

97. U.S.—City of Council Bluffs v. Omaha & C. B. St. Ry. Co., C.C.A. Iowa, 9 F.2d 246.

98. U.S.—Banton v. Belt Line Ry. Corporation, N.Y., 45 S.Ct. 534, 268 U.S. 413, 69 L.Ed. 1020.

99. U.S.—Banton v. Belt Line Ry. Corporation, supra.

1. Minn.—State v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 153 N.W. 320, 130 Minn. 144, L.R.A.1916B 764.

2. U.S.—Augusta-Aiken Ry. & Electric Corporation v. Railroad Commission of South Carolina, C.C.A. S.C., 281 F. 977.

3. U.S.—City of Paducah v. Paducah Ry. Co., Ky., 43 S.Ct. 335, 261 U.S. 267, 67 L.Ed. 647.

4. U.S.—East St. Louis & S. Ry. Co. v. Brundage, D.C.Ill., 10 F.2d 830.

5. U.S.—Chicago Rys. Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission, D.C.Ill., suffer irreparable injury by adhering thereto, and where the injunction can be so guarded that no material injury will result in the case that the attacked rate is ultimately found valid,[6] as by a provision requiring the carrier to post an indemnifying bond,[7] or to issue redeemable claim checks to its passengers.[8] It has been held, on the other hand, that a preliminary injunction will be denied where the circumstances do not indicate that the carrier will suffer irreparable injury by compliance, until the final hearing, with the statute or regulation being attacked,[9] notwithstanding that there is serious doubt of its constitutionality,[10] and that it is not sufficient reason for the granting of such an injunction that the carrier furnish a bond to return the excess fare in the event that the existing rate is found to be nonconfiscatory, since it is not practical to protect fully the rights of the public in such a manner.[11] A preliminary injunction suspending the enforcement of a state statute fixing railroad rates has also been refused where the statute in question had been in force for a number of years and it appeared that the case could be heard on its merits within a very short time.[12]

(c) Jurisdiction

A federal court may have jurisdiction to enjoin the enforcement of a confiscatory rate fixed by state statute or commission, regardless of the carrier's failure to follow the statutory procedure of reviewing the commission's orders in the state courts, but, ordinarily, where the statute provides for review, it must be followed and relief by way of a direct suit for an injunction cannot be obtained in the state courts.

A federal court may have jurisdiction to determine whether a rate prescribed by a state statute or a commission acting thereunder is reasonable or confiscatory, and it may enjoin the enforcement of such rate if it finds it to be confiscatory.[13] Such jurisdiction may be exercised notwithstanding that the state statute provides for review of commission orders by the state courts, and no such prior determination has been had.[14] Ordinarily, how-

277 F. 970—Joplin & P. Ry. Co v. Public Service Commission of Missouri D C Mo, 267 F 584.

Showing held to authorize injunction

(1) An uncontradicted showing that an interurban railway was losing money, although it was charging a higher rate in its interstate traffic and traffic in another state than was permitted by a state public service commission's order, is sufficient, in the absence of a satisfactory explanation why the business within that state should be more profitable than the other business, to authorize a temporary injunction against the enforcement of the order prescribing the rate—Joplin & P. Ry. Co. v. Public Service Commission of Missouri, D.C Mo, 267 F. 584.

(2) An order granting a preliminary injunction restraining a city from interference with the control, operation, or management of a street railway system by the company or with its collection of fares in accordance with a schedule adopted, but expressly recognizing the right of the city to act through appropriate legislation, was justified by threatened executive interference—City of Toledo v. Toledo Rys & Light Co, Ohio, 259 F. 450, 170 C.C.A. 426.

Conflicting affidavits

Where, on a motion for an injunction pendente lite to restrain the enforcing of a city ordinance prescribing rates of fare to be charged by hackmen, the affidavits present a sharp conflict of fact as to whether hacks could be operated at a profit at such rates, this fact will not be determined on affidavits on a preliminary hearing in advance of the trial—Yellow Taxicab Co. v. Gaynor, 143 N.Y.S 279, 82 Misc 94, affirmed 144 N.Y.S. 299, 159 App.Div. 893.

6. N.Y—Willis v City of Rochester, 157 N.Y.S. 815, 93 Misc. 239, affirmed 159 N.Y.S. 1150, 173 App. Div. 957.

7. U.S—City of Council Bluffs v. Omaha & C. B St. Ry. Co., C.C.A. Iowa, 9 F.2d 246

8. N.Y.—Willis v. City of Rochester, 157 N.Y.S. 815, 93 Misc 239, affirmed 159 N.Y.S. 1150, 173 App. Div. 957.

9. U.S.—Meridian Light & Ry. Co. v. City of Meridian, D.C Miss., 265 F. 765.

10 C.J. p 677 note 50.

No danger of injury shown

In a suit to enjoin the enforcement of a five cent street railroad fare as provided by the franchise, where it appeared that the franchise imposed no penalty for charging a higher fare, and that the city had attempted to pass no ordinance imposing such penalty, nor had taken any other action to enforce the provision, no danger of irreparable injury to the company was shown—Meridian Light & Ry. Co v. City of Meridian, D C Miss., 265 F. 765.

10. U.S—Ahern v. Newtown & B. St. R Co, C C Mass., 105 F. 702

11. U.S.—International Ry. Co. v. Prendergast, D C.N.Y., 52 F.2d 293.

12. U S.—Ann Arbor R. Co. v. Fellows, D.C.Mich, 236 F. 387, appeal dismissed Ann Arbor R Co. v Glasgow, 39 S Ct 5, 248 U S 588, 63 L.Ed 434.

13. U S.—Banton v. Belt Line Ry Corporation, N.Y, 45 S.Ct. 534, 268 U S 413, 69 L.Ed 1020—International Ry Co. v Prendergast, D C N Y., 29 F.2d 296—Los Angeles Ry. Corporation v Railroad Commission of California, D C Cal, 29 F 2d 140, affirmed Railroad Commission of California v. Los Angeles Ry Corporation, 50 S Ct. 71, 280 U S 145, 74 L Ed 234—Duluth St Ry. Co v Railroad and Warehouse Commission of Minnesota, D C Minn., 4 F.2d 543, affirmed Railroad and Warehouse Commission of Minnesota v. Duluth Street Ry. Co, 47 S Ct. 439, 273 U S. 625, 71 L Ed 807—Chicago Rys Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission, D C Ill, 277 F. 970—Public Service Ry. Co v Board of Public Utility Commissioners, D C N.J, 276 F. 979, appeal dismissed Board of Public Utility Com'rs for State of New Jersey v Public Service Ry Co., 45 S Ct. 9, 266 U.S. 636, 69 L Ed. 481.

10 C.J. p 675 note 36

Federal court will be bound by decision of state court as to whether or not the rate prescribed applies to given individuals or given localities.—Portland, etc, R Co v Oregon R Commn, Or., 33 S.Ct. 820, 229 U S. 397, 57 L.Ed 1248—10 C.J. p 676 note 37.

14. U.S.—Railroad and Warehouse Commission of Minnesota v. Duluth St Ry. Co., Minn, 47 S Ct 489, 273 U.S. 625, 71 L.Ed. 807, affirming, D.C., Duluth St. Ry. Co. v.

ever, the established method for review of orders of the commission, such as by appeal to specified state courts, must be followed, and a party cannot disregard this procedure and directly bring suit in a state court to enjoin enforcement of the commission order,[15] if the commission had jurisdiction of the matter in question.[16] Accordingly, where the statute furnishes a direct and adequate remedy by appeal, a commission order increasing fares above those fixed in a municipal ordinance cannot be attacked by a municipality's suit in the state court to enjoin its enforcement,[17] or by a collateral proceeding by information in chancery brought by the state's attorney.[18]

Since, under some statutes, when complaint is made of a rate fixed in a carrier's tariff schedule, relief must be sought through the commission in the first instance, a court has no jurisdiction to entertain a suit to enjoin a carrier from enforcing a rule contained in its filed schedules, as in violation of a statute.[19]

(2) To Enforce Compliance with Rates

Injunction may issue, in a proper case, to enforce compliance by the carrier with rates established by law or by municipal or private contract, and to prevent it from collecting an excessive or unauthorized fare.

A court may, in a proper case, issue an injunction to enforce compliance by the carrier with rates fixed by statute,[20] ordinance,[21] or contract between a municipality and a railroad.[22] So, an

Railroad and Warehouse Commission of Minnesota, 4 F.2d 543—International Ry. Co. v. Prendergast, D.C.N.Y., 52 F.2d 293—International Ry. Co. v. Prendergast, D.C.N.Y., 29 F.2d 296—Los Angeles Ry. Corporation v. Railroad Commission of California, D.C.Cal., 29 F.2d 140, affirmed Railroad Commission of California v. Los Angeles Ry. Corporation, 50 S.Ct. 71, 280 U.S. 145, 74 L.Ed. 234

Completion of legislative process

An order of the railroad and warehouse commission fixing street railway fares ends the legislative function of rate making, and the judicial hearing provided by state statute is not a continuation of the legislative rate-making process, the completion of which is prerequisite to the obtaining of relief in the federal courts—Duluth St. Ry. Co. v. Railroad and Warehouse Commission of Minnesota, D.C.Minn., 4 F.2d 543, affirmed Railroad and Warehouse Commission of Minnesota v. Duluth Street Ry. Co., 47 S.Ct. 489, 273 U.S. 625, 71 L.Ed. 807.

Election to come under statute

Street railway's election to comply with and come under terms of statute, providing among other things for an appeal to the state district court from orders of the commission, was not a contract, requiring such an appeal before bringing suit in the federal courts to enjoin enforcement of order.—Railroad and Warehouse Commission of Minnesota v. Duluth St. Ry. Co., Minn., 47 S.Ct. 489, 273 U.S. 625, 71 L.Ed. 807, affirming, D.C., Duluth St. Ry. Co. v. Railroad and Warehouse Commission of Minnesota, 4 F.2d 543

Impairment of city's right of appeal

Street railway was not required to appeal to the state court as provided by statute, before suing in the federal court to enjoin enforcement of order, on the theory that such a suit would otherwise cut off the city's right of appeal under the statute.—Railroad & Warehouse Commission of Minnesota v. Duluth St. Ry. Co., Minn., 47 S.Ct. 489, 273 U.S. 625, 71 L.Ed. 807, affirming, D.C., Duluth St. Ry. Co. v. Railroad & Warehouse Commission of Minnesota, 4 F.2d 543.

15. Colo.—Denver & S. P. Ry. Co. v. City of Englewood, 161 P. 151, 62 Colo. 229, 4 A.L.R. 956.
Ill.—Hoyne v. Chicago & O. P. Elevated R. Co., 128 N.E. 587, 294 Ill. 413.
Okl.—Swain v. Oklahoma Ry. Co., 32 P.2d 51, 168 Okl. 133.

16. N.Y.—City of New York v. Richmond Light & R. Co., 183 N.Y.S. 922.

Review by certiorari

If a determination of the public service commission concerning the rates to be charged by city railway is not satisfactory to the city, the city must apply to the commission for a rehearing, and if the determination of the commission is not satisfactory, it may be reviewed by the court in a certiorari proceeding, and the city cannot, without following such procedure, come into a court of equity for correction and review of a determination of the commission, if the commission had jurisdiction to make an order in the matter.—City of New York v. Richmond Light & R. Co., 183 N.Y.S. 922.

17. Colo.—Denver & S. P. Ry. Co. v. City of Englewood, 161 P. 151, 62 Colo. 229, 4 A.L.R. 956.
N.Y.—City of New York v. Richmond Light & R. Co., 183 N.Y.S. 922.
Okl.—Swain v. Oklahoma Ry. Co., 32 P.2d 51, 168 Okl. 133

18. Ill.—Hoyne v. Chicago & O. P. Elevated R. Co., 128 N.E. 587, 294 Ill. 413.

19. Mich.—Detroit United Ry. v. Oakland Circuit Judge, 183 N.W. 938, 215 Mich. 275.

20. N.Y.—Transit Commission v. Long Island R. Co., 3 N.E.2d 622, 272 N.Y. 27, affirming 288 N.Y.S. 938, 248 App.Div. 749.
Proceedings to enforce rates generally see supra § 304.

Rate charged by subsidiary corporation

(1) Supreme court had jurisdiction in summary proceeding to grant temporary injunction in transit commission's proceeding against railroad under statute providing that subsidiary domestic railroad corporation shall not charge rate within city of specified population exceeding rate charged by parent foreign corporation for similar service to adjacent state.—Transit Commission v. Long Island R. Co., 3 N.E.2d 622, 272 N.Y. 27, affirming 288 N.Y.S. 938, 248 App. Div. 749.

(2) The presumption of constitutionality of the statute was sufficiently supported to enable the court to enforce it against the carrier, by injunction.—Transit Commission v. Long Island R. Co., 3 N.E.2d 622, 272 N.Y. 27, affirming 288 N.Y.S. 938, 248 App.Div. 749

21. La.—City of Lake Charles v. Lake Charles Ry., Light & Waterworks Co., 80 So. 260, 144 La. 217.

Municipal corporation may sue for injunction against violation of an ordinance limiting street car fares.—City of Lake Charles v. Lake Charles Ry., Light & Waterworks Co., 80 So. 260, 144 La. 217.

22. N.Y.—City of New York v. Interborough Rapid Transit Co., 240 N.Y.S. 316, 136 Misc. 569, affirmed 249 N.Y.S. 243, 232 App.Div. 233, affirmed 177 N.E. 295, 257 N.Y. 20.

Grounds for injunction

Threatened violation of provisions regulating fare in contract leasing transit system was sufficient ground for injunction.—City of New York v. Interborough Rapid Transit Co., 240 N.Y.S. 316, 136 Misc. 569, af-injunction may issue to restrain a railroad or a street railroad company from collecting an excessive or unauthorized rate of fare.[23] It has also been held that injunction is a proper remedy to enforce the performance of a contract between a carrier and a private party limiting the rate of fare to be charged between specified points, in a suit by such private party to prevent an attempted increase in the rate.[24]

It has been said that where the carrier has charged a rate in excess of that fixed in its filed schedule, resort may be had to a court for relief, in the first instance, without application to the commission;[25] but it has also been held an increase of fare by a carrier above the rate specified in a contract with a municipality will not be restrained by a court at the suit of the municipality where the reasonableness of the increase, notwithstanding the contract, is a matter for prior determination by the public service commission.[26]

An application to restrain a railroad from violating a maximum rate statute will be denied where it is shown that the carrier has obeyed such statute for a long term of years and intends to continue to do so.[27]

c. Review of Commission Orders by Appeal or Action to Set Aside

Under statutes so providing, commission orders with respect to rates may be reviewed by the courts by an appeal thereto or by an action to set aside the order; but on such review, the commission order will not be disturbed unless clearly shown to be unreasonable and unsupported by the evidence, and the court, under its appellate jurisdiction, cannot amend or correct the order or substitute another one therefor.

Where the statute so provides, proceedings may be brought in the state courts to set aside an order of the commission regulating and fixing rates.[28] In such a proceeding, the commission order cannot be disturbed unless it is established by clear and satisfactory evidence that the order is unreasonable or otherwise unlawful,[29] and where the statute so provides, the burden is on complainant to show that the order sought to be set aside is unlawful or unreasonable.[30] Where the commission, after fixing street railroad fares, thereafter rescinded the same in a new proceeding on the ground that the rate was then unreasonable, the court, cannot, in a proceeding attacking the first rate first fixed, treat the rescission by the commission as having voided the rate ab initio.[31] A city is not entitled to be heard as a party to a proceeding instituted by a street railway company to review and annul orders of the commission respecting street car fares.[32]

Appeal from order of commission; certiorari. In some states, under statutes providing for such review, orders of the commission are appealable to specified state courts.[33] Also, a writ of certiorari firmed 249 N.Y.S. 243, 232 App.Div. 233, affirmed 177 N.E. 295, 257 N.Y. 20.

23. Minn.—Anderson v. St. Paul City Ry. Co., 188 N.W. 286, 152 Minn. 213.
10 C.J. p 678 note 67.

Who may bring action

(1) While it is probably true that private users of transportation facilities furnished by a street railway company cannot maintain an action to fix the rate of fare, or to determine the reasonableness of the rate charged, yet, if the street railway company is exacting a higher rate than is permitted by existing law, such users may maintain an action to restrain the company from enforcing more than the lawful rate.—Anderson v. St. Paul City Ry. Co., 188 N.W. 286, 152 Minn. 213.

(2) It has been held, however, that owners of property abutting on the road, who have no contract with the company as to the rate of fare, are not proper parties plaintiff to a bill by the township authorities to restrain the company from collecting a greater rate of fare than that stipulated in a contract with the township, since such owners have no interest different from that of the general public.—Millcreek Tp. v. Erie Rapid Transit St. R. Co., 58 A. 613, 209 Pa. 300.

24. Ohio—Humphrey Co. v. Cleveland Ry Co., 9 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 609.

25. Mich.—Detroit United Ry v. Oakland Circuit Judge, 183 N.W. 938, 215 Mich. 275.

26. Pa.—St. Clair Borough v. Tamaqua & Pottsville Electric Ry. Co., 103 A. 237, 259 Pa. 462, 5 A.L.R. 20—Borough of Wilkinsburg v. Consolidated Traction Co., 72 Pa. Super. 437—McKeesport v. Pittsburgh Rys. Co., 72 Pa.Super. 435

27. Neb.—State v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co., 159 N.W. 410, 100 Neb. 268.

28. Wis.—City of Milwaukee v. Railroad Commission, 240 N.W. 165, 206 Wis. 339—Smith v. Railroad Commission of Wisconsin, 173 N.W. 312, 169 Wis. 547—Milwaukee Electric Ry. & Light Co. v. Railroad Commission of Wisconsin, 172 N.W. 746, 169 Wis. 421.
10 C.J. p 676 note 39

Admissibility of evidence

Evidence that a rate established by the public service commission is not compensatory is admissible in proceedings to review a commission's order with respect to sale of mileage books, attacked as effecting an unlawful discrimination, since a rate not compensatory cannot be enforced.—Boston, etc., R. Co. v. State, 93 A. 306, 77 N.H. 437.

29. Wis.—City of Milwaukee v. Railroad Commission, 240 N.W. 165, 206 Wis. 339—Smith v. Railroad Commission of Wisconsin, 173 N.W. 312, 169 Wis. 547.

A statutory provision giving prima facie effect to determination of commissioners, applies to the determination of facts on evidence as to unreasonable rates, but does not countervail the well settled rule that in proceedings in error the presumption is that the court below applied the law correctly.—State R. Comm'n v. Hocking Valley R. Co., 91 N.E. 865, 82 Ohio St. 25, 33—10 C.J. p 676 note 39 [c]

30. Wis.—Milwaukee Electric Ry. & Light Co. v. Railroad Commission of Wisconsin, 172 N.W. 746, 169 Wis. 421.

31. Wis.—Milwaukee Electric Ry. & Light Co. v. Railroad Commission of Wisconsin, supra.

32. Mass.—Donham v. Public Service Commission, 122 N.E. 397, 232 Mass. 309.

33. Minn.—City of St. Paul v. Railroad and Warehouse Commission, 203 N.W. 972, 163 Minn. 274.

to review the commission's determination may be had in some jurisdictions.[34] Although an appeal from an order fixing rates brings before the court the question of valuation of the railroad's property, a finding of the commission as to value, without the fixing of any rate, is not appealable.[35]

In some jurisdictions, the court is limited on appeal to an affirmance or reversal of the order and it may not amend or correct the order of the commission, or substitute another order therefor.[36] Further, the findings of the commission should not be disturbed on review unless they bear evidence of having been reached arbitrarily and without a full consideration of the controlling facts;[37] but the courts may review the questions submitted in so far as requiring the application of legal principles.[38]

On a review by certiorari, the court may not disturb the order, if it is fair and reasonable within the grant of power constitutionally conferred by the legislature, and sufficiently supported by the evidence before the commission.[39]

Pa.—St. Clair Borough v. Tamaqua & Pottsville Electric Ry. Co., 103 A. 287, 259 Pa. 462, 5 A.L.R. 20. 10 C.J. p. 676 note 39.

Notice of appeal

(1) A notice of appeal by citizens and taxpayers from an order of the board of public utility commissioners for a city, stating that such order was made on a given date and granted to a traction company "the right to charge a seven-cent fare per passenger riding on cars of such company," is sufficient under a statutory provision requiring the notice of appeal to set forth the order appealed from.—Robertson v. Wilmington & P. Traction Co., Del.Super., 104 A. 839, 7 Boyce, 155.

(2) That a petition by citizens and taxpayers for the stay of the order was also signed by others than the parties signing the notice of appeal, does not invalidate the notice.—Robertson v. Wilmington & P. Traction Co., supra.

34. N.Y.—Yonkers R. Co. v. Maltbie, 296 N.Y.S. 411, 251 App.Div. 204—City of New York v. Richmond Light & R. Co., 183 N.Y.S. 922.

Pendency of action for injunction

Certiorari by transit company to review certain proceedings of transit commission denying a fare increase was held, however, to be improper where an action by the city was pending to enjoin the company from charging more than contract fare and various restraining orders prevented the commission from exercising jurisdiction.—City of New York v. Interborough Rapid Transit Co., 249 N.Y.S. 243, 232 App.Div. 233, affirming 240 N.Y.S. 316, 136 Misc. 569, and affirmed 177 N.E. 295, 257 N.Y. 20.

Allegations of petition held defective

(1) In a petition for certiorari by a city to review an order of the public service commission, authorizing the receiver of a railway company to charge two cents for transfers on its lines to a certain date, and an order denying city's application for a reversal or modification of the order, allegations that orders "were made without adequate or competent proof" and that "the receiver . . failed to submit proper competent or adequate proofs that the proposed increased rate was just or reasonable," were mere conclusions.—City of New York v. Nixon, 183 N.Y.S. 6, 111 Misc. 224.

(2) Allegations in the petition of the commission's violation of certain provisions of the public service commissions law, without allegations of fact showing wherein such provisions were violated, are conclusions of law not meriting further consideration.—City of New York v. Nixon, supra.

35. Minn.—City of St. Paul v. Railroad and Warehouse Commission, 203 N.W. 972, 163 Minn. 274.

36. U.S.—Wilmington City R. Co. v. Taylor, D.C.Del., 198 F. 159. 10 C.J. p. 677 note 46.

37. Wash.—Puget Sound Electric R. Co. v. State R. Commn., 117 P. 739, 65 Wash. 75, Ann.Cas.1913B 763. 10 C.J. p. 677 note 47.

Determination held not arbitrary

In a proceeding before the board of public utilities commissioners for permission to charge a higher railway fare, the evidence was held not to support a claim that the board acted arbitrarily in finding and determining the proposed ten-cent fare per zone would be unjust and unreasonable.—New Jersey Central Traction Co. v. Board of Public Utility Com'rs, 113 A. 692, 96 N.J.Law 90.

Forecast of probable future values

Record in street car fare proceeding did not show that public service commission failed to make proper forecast of probable future values as required.—State ex rel. and to Use of City of St. Louis v. Public Service Commission, 34 S.W.2d 507, 326 Mo. 751.

Allowance for going value

City conceding propriety of allowing something for going value in street car fare proceeding and presenting no evidence as to such value could not complain because public service commission finally allowed less than evidence presented by the railroad warranted.—State ex rel. and to Use of City of St. Louis v. Public Service Commission, 34 S.W.2d 507, 326 Mo. 751.

Allowance for promotion costs

City conceding propriety of public service commission's allowing two million dollars for promotion and consolidation in original cost estimate in street car fare proceeding could not contend on an appeal from such proceeding that no allowance therefor should be made.—State ex rel. and to Use of City of St. Louis v. Public Service Commission, 34 S.W.2d 507, 326 Mo. 751.

38. Wash.—Puget Sound Electric R. Co. v. State R. Commn., 117 P. 739, 65 Wash. 75, Ann.Cas.1913B 763.

39. N.Y.—Yonkers R. Co. v. Maltbie, 296 N.Y.S. 411, 251 App.Div. 204.

Burden of proof is on street railroad company applying for certiorari to review public service commission's determination denying its application for permission to increase its passengers fares, even in absence of statute imposing such burden, company being moving party having affirmative of issue.—Yonkers R. Co. v. Maltbie, 296 N.Y.S. 411, 251 App.Div. 204.

Determinations not to be disturbed because supported by evidence

(1) Determination as to value of street railroad company's property for rate-making purposes, on rehearing, after judicial annulment of its previous determination fixing higher valuation.—Yonkers R. Co. v. Maltbie, 296 N.Y.S. 411, 251 App.Div. 204.

(2) Whether witnesses were qualified to testify as experts on matters involved in valuation of street railway properties.—Yonkers R. Co. v. Maltbie, supra.

(3) The commission's finding that annual depreciation of street railroad company's property should be ascertained by dividing value thereof by number of years of its remaining service life.—Yonkers R. Co. v. Maltbie, supra.

(4) The commission's finding as to further depreciation of item in val-

An appeal by a municipality from an order granting a street railway an increased fare presents to the court not only the contention that the increase is unauthorized because in excess of the rate fixed in the franchise contract, but also the contention that the increased fare is unreasonable.[40] A proposition that the commission in fixing street car fares ignored the relation of value to earnings cannot be considered on appeal from the commission order by a municipality, where it was not raised before the commission either in the original proceeding or on the application for rehearing.[41]

A municipality may be a proper party to appeal from an order of the commission granting a street railway an increase in fares above the rate fixed in a franchise contract.[42] A city in such a position may also be permitted to intervene as a party in a certiorari proceeding by the carrier to review the determination of the commission prohibiting an increase of fare.[43]

Pending final disposition of its writ of certiorari to review a commission order with respect to fares, a carrier cannot secure a judicial order suspending and staying the enforcement of the commission order, where the granting of such a stay is not authorized by law.[44] Municipalities appealing from a commission order are entitled to notice of hearing on a petition by the carrier to a judge not to have the appeal operate as a stay of the order, which would otherwise be the effect of such an appeal under a statutory provision to that effect, but a failure to give such notice does not render a judge's order granting the petition of the carrier void, where such judge has jurisdiction to grant the petition, and it must be treated as valid until set aside.[45]

A court decision annulling the commission's determination denying an application for an increase of rates, because made without supporting evidence, does not preclude the commission from reopening the proceeding and receiving further evidence to justify its determination.[46]

§ 585. Actions for Fares or Charges

A carrier receiving less than its published rate for a ticket may recover the deficiency from the passenger.

Under some statutes, where a carrier receives for a ticket an amount less than the published rate, it may recover from the passenger using the ticket the difference between the amount paid and the amount which should have been collected,[47] irrespective of the liability of the purchaser of the ticket.[48] Where a carrier refunds fares under uation of its property for engineering and superintendence.—Yonkers R. Co. v. Maltbie, supra.

(5) Commission's finding that return of over six per cent on its valuation of street railroad company's property for rate-making purposes was ample, in absence of evidence of facts relative to usual return on investments or what would be reasonable rate of return.—Yonkers R. Co. v. Maltbie, supra.

Appraisal not supported by inventory

That an appraisal of company's properties, offered in evidence by the company in a proceeding before the commission, did not include the inventories on which it was based, did not make it impossible for the court to find that there was competent proof of all the facts necessary to be proved, to authorize the making of the determination.—City of New York v. Nixon, 183 N.Y.S. 6, 111 Misc. 224.

40. N.C.—In re Petition for Increase of Street Car Fares in City of Charlotte, 101 S.E. 619, 179 N.C. 151.

41. Mo.—State ex rel. and to Use of City of St. Louis v. Public Service Commission, 34 S.W.2d 507, 326 Mo. 751.

42. Ill.—Chicago Rys. Co. v. City of Chicago, 126 N.E. 585, 292 Ill. 190, error dismissed City of Chicago v. Chicago Rys. Co., 42 S.Ct. 95, 257 U.S. 617, 66 L.Ed. 399.

N.C.—In re Petition for Increase of Street Car Fares in City of Charlotte, 101 S.E. 619, 179 N.C. 151.

43. N.Y.—Dry Dock, E. B. & B. R. Co. v. Fullen, 239 N.Y.S. 501, 228 App. Div. 354, affirmed In re Dry Dock, E. B. & B. R. Co., 172 N.E. 516, 254 N.Y. 305.

44. N.Y.—People ex rel. Brooklyn City R. Co. v. Public Service Commission of State of New York for First Dist., 181 N.Y.S. 790, 110 Misc. 509.

Conditions to granting of stay

A statutory provision with respect to the conditions on which a stay of a commission order may be granted, does not authorize a motion for a stay by a railroad company, pending the final disposition of its writ of certiorari allowed on an order of the public service commission, it being apparently intended only to prevent issuance of an ex parte stay and not to modify the general statutory rule that injunctive relief may only be granted in an action and not on a motion of this sort.—People ex rel. Brooklyn City R. Co. v. Public Service Commission of State of New York for First Dist., 181 N.Y.S. 790, 110 Misc. 509.

45. R.I.—Public Utilities Commission v. Rhode Island Co., 107 A. 871, 42 R.I. 379.

46. N.Y.—Yonkers R. Co. v. Maltbie, 296 N.Y.S. 411, 251 App. Div. 204.

47. Ill.—Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Bates, 223 Ill.App. 325.

Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Osborn, 161 A. 756, 106 Pa.Super. 45.

10 C.J. p. 684 note 68

Husband and father

A man traveling with his wife and daughter is responsible for undercharges on the tickets of both.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Osborn, 161 A. 756, 106 Pa.Super. 45.

Special train

Acceptance by agent of fifty dollars in full settlement of tariff due for special train does not preclude railway company from suing for amount due according to its published tariff sheets, approved by interstate commerce commission.—Bush v. Cole, 194 S.W. 24, 128 Ark. 411.

48. Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Osborn, 161 A. 756, 106 Pa.Super. 45.

Purchaser comparatively unimportant

"Beyond seeing that the law against the unlawful sale of railroad tickets is observed . . . it is comparatively unimportant who purchases railroad tickets. This is con-protest on the unauthorized order of a government officer, it cannot in any event recover the sum refunded in the court of claims.[49]

§ 586. Recovery Back of Excessive or Unauthorized Charges

Overcharges in passenger fares may be recovered with interest, and, if the overcharge was willfully exacted, punitive damages may also be recovered.

If the agents of the carrier exact a larger amount by way of fare than the carrier is entitled to, the passenger may recover back the excess charge, with interest.[50] Where the overcharge is willful or wanton, exemplary damages may be recovered,[51] regardless of whether the overcharge is accompanied by some other breach of duty which, in itself, is sufficient to justify exemplary damages.[52]

A passenger on a street railroad cannot recover back a fare on the ground that the distance traversed was not sufficient for the amount paid, nor for the refusal to issue a transfer from one line to another to enable him to reach his destination, either on an implied contract or on any common-law right;[53] and a passenger who voluntarily pays an overcharge before the beginning of a long journey cannot recover for inconveniences resulting from a lack of sufficient funds while traveling.[54] Where a person riding on a drover's pass seeks to recover for return transportation under a contract of shipment, he must comply with the terms of the contract.[55]

§ 587. Criminal Responsibility and Penalties for Excessive or Unauthorized Charges

a. Overcharges
b. Discriminations

a. Overcharges

(1) In general
(2) Who may recover
(3) Defenses

(1) In General

Under some statutes a penalty is imposed on carriers for charging excessive fares, and any agent of the company charging an excessive fare is guilty of a misdemeanor. Such state statutes have no application to interstate commerce.

Under some statutes a penalty is imposed on carriers for charging fares in excess of those allowed by law,[56] the penalty usually including attorney's fees;[57] and under some of these statutes any agent of the company charging an excessive fare is guilty of a misdemeanor, although the company itself is not indictable for a violation of the act, but is subject to the penalty only.[58] stantly done by porters and agents at hotels, by friends and relatives Whether such purchase will render the buyers liable to the railroad company, in case of an undercharge, is, in this case, not material. The passenger who uses the ticket is certainly liable"—Pennsylvania R. Co. v Osborn, 161 A. 756, 106 Pa.Super. 45.

49. U.S.—Norfolk Southern R. Co. v. U S, 59 Ct.Cl. 517.

50. Ark.—St. Louis, I. M & S. Ry. Co v. Williams, 199 S.W. 376, 131 Ark. 442, affirmed 40 S.Ct. 71, 251 U.S. 63, 64 L.Ed. 139.
10 C.J. p 678 note 63.

Person entitled to ride free

Where a carrier was under a contractual obligation to issue annual tickets entitling a certain passenger to ride without charge over its entire railway system, the passenger could recover fares which he had been obliged to pay as a result of the issuance of tickets entitling him to ride over only a limited portion of the system.—Thatcher v. West Chester St. Ry. Co., 35 Pa.Super. 615.

Evidence of overcharge

In action against a carrier, to recover amount of overcharge of a fare and penalty allowed, testimony that plaintiff had several times previously been charged a less fare will support a verdict that she had been overcharged.—St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co v. Williams, 199 S.W. 376, 131 Ark. 442, affirmed 40 S.Ct. 71, 251 U.S. 63, 64 L.Ed 139.

51. S.C.—Medlin v. Southern Ry Co., 141 S.E. 185, 143 S.C. 91, 56 A.L.R. 767.
10 C.J. p 678 note 65.

Liability for act of conductor

Where the rate of fare for the transportation of passengers was fixed by statute, the act of a railway conductor in willfully overcharging a passenger was not his independent act, but was an act within the scope of his agency for which the railroad company was liable.—Medlin v. Southern Ry. Co, 141 S.E. 185, 143 S.C. 91, 56 A.L.R. 767

52. S.C.—Medlin v. Southern Ry. Co, supra.

53. Pa.—Pittsburgh R. Co. v. Alexander, 20 Pa.Dist. 413.

54. N.C.—Parsons v. Norfolk & W. Ry. Co., 156 S.E. 137, 200 N.C. 54.

55. Idaho.—Campbell v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., 275 P. 576, 47 Idaho 223.

Demand for return ticket

Shipper was not entitled to recover return transportation without proof of demand for return ticket or offer to surrender contract.—Campbell v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., 275 P. 576, 47 Idaho 223.

56. U.S.—St. Louis, I M. & S. Ry. Co. v. Williams, 40 S.Ct. 71, 251 U.S. 63, 64 L.Ed. 139, affirming 199 S.W. 376, 131 Ark. 442.
10 C.J. p 678 note 68.

Statute held inapplicable

A statute prescribing a penalty for charging rates in excess of those prescribed by law does not apply to a railroad, where it is not shown that the special acts authorizing its formation were followed up by an actual and due formation of a corporation under and pursuant to the general railroad act.—Palm v. New York, N. H & H. R. Co., 12 N.Y.S. 554, 58 N.Y.Super. 502, 35 N.Y.St. 457.

57. Ark.—Dow v. Beidelman, 5 S.W. 718, 49 Ark. 455.

58. N.C.—State v. Southern R. Co., 59 S.E. 570, 145 N.C. 495, 13 L.R.A.,N.S., 966.
10 C.J. p 678 note 71.

Such statutes are essentially penal in nature,[59] the penalty being given not as a satisfaction for the injury received,[60] but to compensate the party injured for his expenses in the prosecution and to compel the payment of such a sum by the company violating the law, as effectually to stop the practice.[61] Although, like all other penal statutes, these statutes are subject to strict construction,[62] the words of the statute should not be so narrowed as to exclude cases which the words in their ordinary and common acceptation would comprehend.[63] It has been held, in accordance with these rules, that such statutes have no application in case of an overcharge, made in violation of the carrier's rates and rules, which the carrier is not shown to have ratified;[64] but, on the other hand, it has been held that the carrier is liable for the statutory penalty where the overcharge is made designedly and not through inadvertence or mistake,[65] even though it is made contrary to orders.[66] A carrier does not render itself liable by exacting the full amount of fare authorized by law, although it voluntarily accepted less at the commencement of the transportation.[67]

Interstate transportation. Where a passenger travels from a point within to a point without the state, not desiring or offering to break up the continuous passage by paying to the last station within the state, the transaction is one of interstate commerce and the state statute does not apply;[68] but where in such case he desires to break up the continuity of his journey and offers, but is refused permission, to pay his fare to the last station in the state, intending there to get a ticket for the rest of the trip, and a fare is collected of him greater than he would have to pay had he been permitted so to do, there is a matter of intrastate commerce involved to which the statute applies.[69]

Carriers liable. Street surface railroads as well as steam railroads are liable under the provisions of some statutes imposing penalties for charging excessive fares.[70] A railroad company which is running its trains over a piece of road without legal authority, and hence is not entitled to exact a fare, cannot be held liable for the penalty.[71]

Receivers are not subject to a penalty under a statute prohibiting excessive charges by railroad corporations.[72]

(2) Who May Recover

Where the statute so provides, the party aggrieved, who is the person intending to become a passenger, may recover the penalty.

Under some statutes the penalty for excessive charges may be recovered by the "party aggrieved,"[73] who is the person intending to become a passenger,[74] although his ticket was purchased by another for him.[75] Where children in charge of a parent or another having custody of them are

Prohibition and penalty in different sections

This rule applies notwithstanding the prohibition to charge in excess of the maximum rate and the penalty for a violation thereof are not found in the same but in different sections.—State v. Southern R. Co., 59 S.E. 570, 145 N.C. 495, 13 L.R.A., N.S., 966.

Doctrine of accessories inapplicable

N.C.—State v. Southern R. Co., 59 S.E. 570, 145 N.C. 495, 13 L.R.A., N.S., 966.

59. U.S.—St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co. v. Williams, 40 S.Ct. 71, 251 U.S. 63, 64 L.Ed. 139, affirming 199 S.W. 376, 131 Ark. 442.
N.Y.—Merksamer v. Garrison, 181 N.Y.S. 197, 111 Misc. 195.
10 C.J. p. 679 note 75.

60. Ark.—St. Louis R. Co. v. Gill, 15 S.W. 18, 54 Ark. 101, 11 L.R.A. 452.
N.Y.—Fisher v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 46 N.Y. 644.

61. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Frisby, 129 S.W. 291, 95 Ark. 281.
10 C.J. p. 678 note 74.

62. N.Y.—Merksamer v. Garrison, 181 N.Y.S. 197, 111 Misc. 195.
10 C.J. p. 679 note 75.

63. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Waldrop, 123 S.W. 778, 93 Ark. 42.

64. W.Va.—Hall v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 28 S.E. 754, 44 W.Va. 36, 67 Am.S.R. 757, 41 L.R.A. 669.

65. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Baker, 175 S.W. 397, 118 Ark. 69
N.Y.—Petze v. Coney Island, etc., R. Co., 111 N.Y.S. 532, 127 App.Div. 351
10 C.J. p. 679 note 78.

66. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Ryan, 19 S.W. 839, 56 Ark. 245.

67. N.Y.—King v. Nassau Electric R. Co., 112 N.Y.S. 589, 128 App. Div. 130.

68. Ark.—Kansas City Southern R. Co. v. Brooks, 105 S.W. 93, 84 Ark. 233.
Transportation from one state to another as interstate commerce see C.J.S. title Commerce § 23, also 12 C.J. p. 22 note 48-p. 23 note 52.

69. Ark.—Kansas City Southern R. Co. v. Brooks, 105 S.W. 93, 84 Ark. 233.

70. N.Y.—Petze v. Coney Island, etc., R. Co., 111 N.Y.S. 532, 127 App.Div. 351—King v. Syracuse, etc., R. Co., 131 N.Y.S. 878.

Horse cars

A statute prohibiting and penalizing railroad companies charging more than a stated sum for each mile "was not intended to apply to city railroads which are drawn by horses, but to those propelled by steam."—Hoyt v. Sixth Ave. R. Co., 1 Daly, N.Y., 528, 529.

Street railroad held not included

N.Y.—Moneypenny v. Sixth Ave. R. Co., 30 N.Y.Super. 328, 4 Abb.Pr. N.S. 357, 35 How.Pr. 452.

71. N.Y.—Enton v. Nassau Electric R. Co., 124 N.Y.S. 555, 68 Misc. 385.
10 C.J. p. 679 note 84.

72. N.Y.—Merksamer v. Garrison, 181 N.Y.S. 197, 111 Misc. 195.

73. Ark.—St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. v. Alverson, 271 S.W. 27, 168 Ark. 662.

74. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Frisby, 129 S.W. 291, 95 Ark. 281—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Freeman, 128 S.W. 1024, 95 Ark. 218.

75. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Frisby, 129 S.W. 291, 95 Ark. 281

overcharged by a carrier, they are "persons aggrieved" and entitled to sue for the penalty, although the overcharge is not paid by them but by the persons in charge of them.[76]

(3) Defenses

Matters which justify the carrier's action may constitute a defense to an action to recover a penalty for excessive charges.

Matters which take the carrier's action in charging the fare out of the operation of the statute may be set up as a defense to an action to recover a statutory penalty from a carrier for charging excessive fares. Accordingly, where the penalty is sought for collecting a higher fare than that permitted by statute, and the carrier had no opportunity to resort to another remedy against the statutory fare, the fact that the rate fixed is unreasonable and confiscatory may constitute a good defense;[77] but to make this defense available it should clearly appear that the statutory rate is unreasonable, and the mere fact that the business and traffic is small and unremunerative does not of itself establish the unreasonableness of the rate.[78] An injunction restraining a railroad company from putting a rate in force is a complete defense in a prosecution for a violation of the statute establishing such rate.[79]

On the other hand, it is not a defense to an action to recover a penalty for extorting excessive fares that the passenger was riding in expectation of being overcharged and merely for the purpose of becoming entitled to sue for the penalty,[80] or that the fare was paid by the passenger under a champertous agreement with an attorney to induce the company to accept the overcharge and then to recover the penalty;[81] or that the payment of the overcharge was voluntarily made by the passenger,[82] nor is it a good defense that the excessive fare was in fact not actually paid, where the statute authorizes a recovery if the carrier should "demand or charge such excessive fare;"[83] or that the amount paid in excess of the legal rate of fare was repayable on presentation by the passenger of a slip given him on making the payment;[84] or that a greater fare was demanded because a speed greater than the ordinary speed was requested.[85]

Mistake. No penalty, of course, can be recovered for an overcharge due to inadvertence or mistake not amounting to gross negligence, where the statute expressly so provides.[86] Such a statute is intended to apply only to intentional wrong or reckless carelessness by the railroad company.[87] It has been held, under such a statute, that an honest mistake of law as well as of fact will excuse the carrier;[88] but the mistake which is to be relieved from must not have been the result of carelessness on the part of the carrier in being advised on the subject of its legal rights.[89]

Under statutes containing no express provision exempting the carrier from liability in case of mistake, the carrier is subject to a penalty only where it intentionally charges an excessive fare,[90]

—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Freeman, 128 S.W. 1024, 95 Ark. 218.
Ohio.—Pennsylvania Co. v. O'Connell, 95 N.E. 773, 84 Ohio St. 218, Ann.Cas.1912C 540.
10 C.J. p 679 note 86.

76. Ark.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Davis, 170 S.W. 245, 114 Ark. 519.
10 C.J. p 679 note 87.

77. U.S.—St. Louis & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Stevenson, Ark., 15 S.Ct. 484, 491, 156 U.S. 667, 39 L.Ed. 573—St. Louis & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Gill, Ark., 15 S.Ct. 484, 156 U.S. 649, 39 L.Ed. 567.
10 C.J. p 679 note 88.

78. Ark.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Smith, 29 S.W. 752, 60 Ark. 221.

79. Minn.—State v. Chicago, etc., Co., 153 N.W. 320, 130 Minn. 144, L.R.A.1916B 764.

80. N.Y.—Fisher v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 46 N.Y. 644.
10 C.J. p 679 note 91.

81. Ark.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Smith, 29 S.W. 752, 60 Ark. 221.
Reason for rule
"The 'champertous' agreement . . . if available for any purpose, can only be set up when the agreement is sought to be enforced. The right . . . [to sue for a penalty] does not grow out of it, but solely out of the fact that the railway company charged and received a greater compensation than that allowed by law. The company was not justified by the agreement in demanding and receiving excessive compensation. How, then, could it be a good defense? No effort was made in this suit to enforce it. The right of action in this case is not dependent on or controlled by it. It could not, then, affect the right to the penalty."—Missouri Pac. Ry. Co. v. Smith, 29 S.W. 752, 753, 60 Ark. 221.

82. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Gill, 15 S.W. 18, 54 Ark. 101, 11 L.R.A. 452, affirmed 15 S.Ct. 484, 156 U.S. 649, 39 L.Ed. 567.

83. Hawaii.—Ballou v. Hawaiian Tramways Co., 10 Hawaii 376.

84. N.Y.—Hogan v. Long Island R. Co., 126 N.Y.S. 449, 142 App.Div. 29.

85. Mass.—Commonwealth v. Loud, 3 Metc. 328, 37 Am.D. 139.

86. N.Y.—Wysocki v. Erie R. Co., 140 N.Y.S. 950, 155 App.Div. 798.
10 C.J. p 680 note 97.

87. N.Y.—McCarthy v. International R. Co., 110 N.Y.S. 936, 126 App.Div. 152.

88. N.Y.—Goodspeed v. Ithaca St. R. Co., 77 N.E. 392, 184 N.Y. 351, affirmed 84 N.Y.S. 383, 88 App.Div. 147.
10 C.J. p 680 note 99.

89. N.Y.—Goodspeed v. Ithaca St. R. Co., supra.
10 C.J. p 680 note 1.

90. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Baker, 175 S.W. 397, 118 Ark. 69—Little Rock & Ft. S. Ry. Co. v. Clark, 25 S.W. 504, 58 Ark. 490.
Ticket short of destination
(1) Where a ticket agent on receiving a fare for transportation to a designated point, by a mistake and an honest mistake of a conductor in collecting fare, without the intention of taking an amount greater than was lawful, will not make the carrier liable.[91] However, if the carrier or its agent demands and receives for the fare an amount that is in excess of what is lawful, knowing that he is receiving that amount,[92] or if through its willfulness or culpable negligence it charges and receives a greater amount than the law allows,[93] the carrier will be liable for the penalty, and the mistake of making such overcharge will not constitute a defense.

b. Discriminations

Unjust discriminations as to passenger fares, under the statutes, generally subject the carrier to criminal responsibility or to a penalty.

Under the provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act as amended, 49 U.S.C.A. §§ 2, 10, 41, discrimination by common carriers in interstate rates is unlawful, and any corporation or person who sells or attempts to sell or furnish a service for other than the legal rate commits a misdemeanor.[94] While no collusion between the carrier and the person acting for it is required,[95] the carrier's employees or other persons are not guilty unless the carrier itself is guilty as principal.[96] Accordingly, where an employee, acting outside the scope of his employment, sells tickets at reduced rates, he is not guilty under the Act, since such acts attach no criminality to the carrier.[97] It has also been held that a contract whereby a carrier agrees to telegraph a ticket without exacting an extra charge, is not in violation of the Act, the additional expense necessary to telegraph being considered a mere incidental cost to be attributed to the carrier's promotion of its own business and service.[98]

Under state statutes prohibiting and penalizing unjust discriminations, and declaring it to be an unjust discrimination for any railroad to make or give any undue or unreasonable preference or advantage to any particular person, a discrimination between through passengers and persons purchasing tickets at intermediate stations is not an unjust discrimination.[99] So, where a carrier transports through passengers over a detoured route without the payment of additional fare, but refuses this privilege to persons purchasing tickets at intermediate stations, it is not subject to a penalty, especially where it subsequently accords the latter class the same privilege.[1] It is not a discrimination, within the meaning of some state statutory prohibitions, for a carrier to return the unconsumed portion of a passenger's fare on ejecting him.[2] gives a ticket to a point at a less distance, and the conductor requires, in addition to the surrender of the ticket, the payment of the legal fare between the two points, the passenger is not entitled to recover the penalty, there being an honest mistake, and no intention to charge more than the legal rate.—Smith v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 176 S.W. 308, 118 Ark. 291—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. McDermott, 152 S.W. 983, 106 Ark. 170, 44 L.R.A.,N.S., 281 and note.

(2) In such a case, however, the carrier would be liable in damages for violating the contract of carriage.—Smith v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., supra.

91. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Baker, 175 S.W. 397, 118 Ark. 69—Little Rock & Ft. S. Ry. Co. v. Clark, 25 S.W. 504, 58 Ark. 490.

Mistake in making change

"An honest mistake by a conductor in making change, without the intention of taking an amount greater than was lawful, will not make defendant liable."—Little Rock & Ft. S. Ry. Co. v. Clark, 25 S.W. 504, 58 Ark. 490.

92. Ark.—St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. v. Alverson, 271 S.W. 27, 168 Ark. 662
10 C.J. p. 680 note 4.

Promise to return excess on ascertaining mistake

Where excess fare was collected from passenger by conductor deliberately and intentionally, fact that latter stated he would return money if fare had been paid, and did offer to return it after ascertaining mistake, did not prevent passenger, as a party aggrieved, from suing for statutory penalty.—St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. v. Alverson, 271 S.W. 27, 168 Ark. 662.

Overcharge resulting from joint action of conductors

Where the first conductor on a train failed to punch a passenger's ticket and return it, and a second conductor required the passenger to repay her fare, the railroad was responsible for acts of both conductors, and, as the result of their joint action was that she was required to pay excess fare, the passenger, as a party aggrieved, was entitled to recover the statutory penalty.—St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. v. Alverson, 271 S.W. 27, 168 Ark. 662.

93. Ark.—St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co. v. Waldrop, 123 S.W. 778, 93 Ark. 42.
10 C.J. p. 680 note 5.

94. U.S.—U. S. v. Estes, D.C.Ill., 6 F.2d 902

95. U.S.—U. S. v. Estes, supra.

96. U.S.—U. S. v. Peterson, D.C. Mont., 1 F.2d 1018.

Reason for rule

"Unless there is a common carrier guilty as principal, the carrier's employees or other persons cannot be guilty . . . because they are not of the class that alone can commit the offenses by the statutes denounced, viz., common carriers who willfully discriminate, and those persons who aid or abet them therein."—U. S. v. Peterson, D.C.Mont., 1 F.2d 1018, 1019.

97. U.S.—U. S. v. Peterson, supra

"Taking the statutes as a whole, it seems clear their intent is to include the employee only when 'acting within the scope of his employment' and thereby imposing equal guilt upon the carrier."—U. S. v. Peterson, supra.

98. Ala.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Rowe, 73 So. 634, 198 Ala. 353

99. Tex.—Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Wells, Civ.App., 191 S.W. 815—Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Frazier, Civ.App., 191 S.W. 808.

1. Tex.—Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Wells, Civ.App., 191 S.W. 815—Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Frazier, Civ.App., 191 S.W. 808.

2. Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Watson, 255 S.W. 1056, 201 Ky. 108.

§ 588. Amount and Number of Penalties Recoverable

Subject to the limitation that the penalties must be reasonable, the amount and number of penalties recoverable depend on the language of the statute involved.

Where the statute provides that for a violation thereof the carrier shall forfeit a certain sum, which sum may be recovered, together with the excess so received, by the party paying the same, and omitting the words, "for each and every offense," only one penalty can be recovered for all overcharges exacted from one person prior to the commencement of the action.[3] It has been held, however, that under a provision that the carrier shall forfeit and pay to the party aggrieved a sum equal to double the amount of the overcharge, but in no case less than a certain sum, the party aggrieved may recover for each overcharge.[4] A carrier charging excessive fare on a single purchase of two tickets is subject to but one penalty, in the absence of anything to show that it intended to apportion its wrongful act between the two tickets.[5]

Amount; excessive penalties. Where the statute declares that the railroad company exacting excessive fares is liable in three times the excess, the company which charges excessive fares for transportation over its own line and a connecting road is liable only in three times the excess of its own fare; the penalty does not extend to an excess charge on the connecting road.[6]

A statute which, by imposing excessive penalties, operates to deter carriers from resorting to the courts to determine the reasonableness of the legislative regulation, and which compels submission, is unconstitutional.[7] However, statutes imposing penalties of not less than fifty or more than three hundred dollars,[8] or not less than two hundred and fifty dollars,[9] are not so unreasonable and excessive as to be rendered unconstitutional.

§ 589. Actions and Prosecutions

Actions and prosecutions of this character are governed by the usual rules.

In accordance with the general rules governing actions to recover penalties, as discussed in C.J.S. title Penalties §§ 7–18, also 25 C.J. p 1181 note 46–p 1213 note 78, an action to recover the penalty for charging excessive fares may be brought in the county where the ticket was sold.[10]

Parties. Where the statute so provides, the penalty may be recovered in a private and not a public suit.[11]

Pleading and indictment. Plaintiff's initial pleading, in an action of this character, to be sufficient must set forth facts sufficient to state a cause of action.[12] Under some statutes the title of the statute should be indorsed on the process.[13] The petition need not negative matters of defense, as for instance, that the ticket was purchased for the purpose of obtaining a penalty;[14] nor is it necessary to plead matters of evidence.[15] An answer attacking the statute under which the penalty is sought to be enforced as unconstitutional, because under its terms the carrier would be obliged to operate its railway at a loss is insufficient to raise the constitutional question, unless it appears that the rate fixed is unreasonable.[16]

Under the Interstate Commerce Act, 49 U.S.C.A. § 10, an indictment of an employee of a carrier for accepting less than the legal fare need not show specifically the exact relationship between defendant and the carrier.[17]

Evidence. The burden is on plaintiff to show facts sufficient to bring his case within the provisions of the statute.[18] The mere act of taking or

Return of fare or ticket on ejection of passenger see infra § 825.

3. N.Y.—Fisher v New York, Cent., etc., R. Co., 46 N.Y. 644, 658.
10 C.J. p 680 note 9.

4. Ohio.—Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Moore, 33 Ohio St. 384, 385, 31 Am. R. 543, distinguishing Fisher v. New York Cent. R. Co., 46 N.Y. 644.

5. Ark.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Young, 145 S.W. 203, 102 Ark. 599.

6. Wis.—Streeter v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 40 Wis. 294.

7. Pa.—Central R. Co. of New Jersey v. Northampton County, 18 Pa. Dist. 143.

8. Ark.—St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co. v. Williams, 199 S.W. 376, 131 Ark. 442, affirmed 40 S.Ct. 71, 251 U.S. 63, 64 L.Ed. 139.
10 C.J. p 678 note 68 [a].

9. S.C.—Brown v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 115 S.E. 638, 122 S.C. 333.

10. Ohio.—Pennsylvania Co. v. O'Connell, 95 N.E. 773, 84 Ohio St. 218, Ann.Cas 1912C 540.

11. U.S.—St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co. v. Williams, 40 S.Ct. 71, 251 U.S. 63, 64 L.Ed. 139, affirming 199 S.W. 376, 131 Ark. 442.

12. A newspaper publisher, to recover damages and the statutory penalty for extortion and unjust discrimination, must show in his petition that he was treated in the contract or mileage coupons differently, to his injury, than other publishers or editors.—Russell v. St. Louis & S. W. Ry. Co. of Texas, Tex. Civ.App., 250 S.W. 1076

13. N.J.—Hunter v. Erie R. Co., 56 A. 139, 70 N.J.L. 101.
10 C.J. p 681 note 14.

14. Ohio.—Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Cook, 37 Ohio St. 265.

15. N.Y.—Nellis v New York Cent. R. Co., 30 N.Y. 505.
10 C.J. p 681 note 16.

16. Ark.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Smith, 29 S.W. 752, 60 Ark. 221.
10 C.J. p 681 note 17.

17. U.S.—U. S. v. Estes, D.C.Ill., 6 F.2d 902.

18. Mich.—Humphrey v. Detroit, M.

receiving more than the lawful fare raises a presumption against the carrier and is prima facie evidence of a violation of a statute forbidding excess fares.[19]

Questions of fact and law. Where the evidence on a question of fact is conflicting, it should be submitted to the jury for its determination under proper instructions,[20] but where the facts are undisputed and lead to but one conclusion, the question becomes one of law for the court.[21]

§ 590. Time, Place, and Mode of Tender or Payment

In the absence of a statute providing otherwise, a carrier may make and enforce reasonable regulations as to the time, place, and mode of payment of fare.

In the absence of a statute to the contrary, a carrier may make and enforce reasonable regulations as to the time, place, and mode of payment of fare.[22] As a general rule, the time of taking the fare, whether at the carrier's station or office, or in the car or other vehicle, is immaterial;[23] but the carrier may demand prepayment of fare, and, if it does not, it must be presumed to rely on its lien on the passenger's baggage or on his integrity.[24]

§ 591. Depositing Fare

Rules requiring passengers to deposit their fares in a box or other device are reasonable and must be met.

A rule of a street railroad company requiring passengers to deposit their fare in a box or other device on the car, on entering such car,[25] or within a given time or distance,[26] is reasonable, and must be complied with by the passengers. Exceptional circumstances may arise which will make the strict enforcement of the rule vexatious, but the carrier need not provide for all possible exceptions justifying a suspension of the rule.[27] Where a passenger has paid his fare he cannot be compelled to put another fare in the box.[28]

Correction of mistake. Where a passenger, by mistake, deposits in the box an amount greater than & T. S. L. Ry., 180 N.W. 373, 212 Mich 91, rehearing denied 181 N. W. 975, 213 Mich. 113.

10 C J. p 681 note 18.

Evidence held insufficient

(1) A judgment against a carrier for the penalty for an overcharge between two stations is not supported by evidence merely that the mileposts between such stations showed the distance to be so many miles, where it does not appear that the company had any connection with such mileposts, or that they were located on its right of way.—Little Rock, etc., R. Co. v. Wells, 33 S.W. 208, 61 Ark. 354, 54 Am.S. R. 216, 30 L.R.A. 560.

(2) Evidence that a railroad company owned stock in another company, which in turn owned stock in a third company which had overcharged a passenger, and that the officers of the two former companies were the same persons, was insufficient to establish that the first company operated the third company at the time the passenger was overcharged.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Bolling, 48 S.W. 806, 66 Ark. 646.

(3) Evidence that the interstate commerce commission had approved proposed rate increases was insufficient to establish that such approval affected the rates on the intrastate line of the carrier.—Humphrey v. Detroit, M. & T. S. L. Ry., 180 N.W. 373, 212 Mich. 91, rehearing denied 181 N.W. 975, 213 Mich. 113

(4) Where a traffic manager testified that a tariff schedule of increased rates, similar to one approved by the interstate commerce commission, had been filed with the state railroad commission, but was unable to swear that it had been filed, the evidence was insufficient to establish that such a schedule had been filed except as shown by the receipt of the commission which was not in the record.—Humphrey v. Detroit, M. & T. S. L. Ry., supra.

19. S C—Brown v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 115 S.E. 638, 122 S.C. 333.
10 C.J. p 680 note 3.

20. Tex.—Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Frazier, Civ.App., 191 S.W. 808.

Questions held for jury

(1) Whether defendant charged an excessive fare, where the evidence as to the station to which the purchaser requested a ticket is conflicting.—Kinsey v. Southern Ry. Co., 177 S.E. 149, 174 S.C. 192.

(2) Whether an agent of the carrier did intentionally charge a greater sum than the regular fare.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Summers, 246 S.W. 859, 158 Ark 643.

(3) Whether or not the carrier was guilty of gross negligence in allowing a conductor to take charge of its cars and collect fares without adopting some effectual method of notifying him of a change in the rate of fares.—King v. Syracuse, etc., R. Co, 131 N.Y.S. 878.

(4) Whether a railroad station was a regular station or a flag station within the meaning of a statute authorizing railroad companies to make special charges to passengers boarding a train or alighting at other than regular stations.—Clark v. Jonesboro, etc., R. Co., 112 S.W. 961, 87 Ark. 385.

21. Tex.—Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Frazier, Civ.App., 191 S.W. 808.

22. Pa.—Robb v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 14 Pa.Super. 282.
10 C.J. p 681 note 22.

23. Iowa.—Russ v. The War Eagle, 14 Iowa 363
N.Y.—Gordon v. Grand St., etc., R. Co., 40 Barb. 546.
Payment of fare as establishing relation of carrier and passenger see supra § 559.

24. Miss.—Hurt v. Southern R. Co., 40 Miss. 391.

25. Va.—Virginia Ry. & Power Co. v. O'Flaherty, 88 S.E. 312, 118 Va. 749, Ann Cas.1918D 471.
10 C J. p 681 note 26.

26. Ky.—Curtis v. Louisville City R. Co., 23 S.W. 363, 94 Ky. 573, 15 Ky.L. 351, 21 L.R.A. 649.

27. N.Y.—Elder v. International R. Co., 122 N.Y.S. 880, 68 Misc. 22, affirmed 128 N.Y.S. 1122, 143 App. Div. 960.

28. Ky.—Curtis v. Louisville City R. Co., 23 S.W. 363, 94 Ky. 573, 15 Ky.L. 351, 21 L.R.A. 649.

Facts held to constitute payment

Where an employee authorized to make change, by mistake, retained a nickel belonging to a passenger, the retention, under the circumstances, constituted a payment of the fare, which the employee could have put in the box had he desired.—Curtis v. Louisville City R. Co., 23 S.W. 363, 94 Ky. 573, 15 Ky.L. 351, 21 L.R.A. 649.

the fare, he is entitled to restitution of the excess, and if the employee in charge is not authorized to return it and in that manner correct the mistake, it is a reasonable course to adopt for the passenger to receive the fare of another passenger, and in that way reimburse himself. A regulation requiring a passenger who may be deprived of his money by inadvertently depositing in the box more than the amount of the fare to go to the office for his reimbursement and the correction of the mistake is unreasonable.[29]

§ 592. Medium of Payment

In the absence of a statute to the contrary, a passenger may tender payment in any lawful money and the carrier may not require a particular kind. Also, in the absence of a statute to the contrary, payment of fare in money is not necessary.

In the absence of a special statute requiring payment in some particular kind of money, a passenger may tender payment in any good and lawful money, and the carrier is not entitled to insist on a particular kind of money, as, for instance, coin instead of legal tender notes.[30] It must accept legal tender notes at their face value, in payment of fare when demanded in advance of transportation; and if it exacts payment in gold or silver coin, or the market value thereof in such notes, it is liable to the statutory penalty for charging a rate greater than that allowed by law.[31]

Unless a payment in money is expressly required, the fare need not be paid even in money, for any valuable consideration moving from the person to the carrier will render him a paying passenger.[32] However, under the Interstate Commerce Act as amended, 49 U.S.C.A. § 6 par (7), a carrier cannot accept any compensation other than cash for interstate transportation,[33] and hence the delivery of such transportation in exchange for advertising,[34] or for injuries received,[35] or for services or property,[36] is a violation of the act, although such a transaction is permitted by a state statute,[37] and although the contract between the carrier and the passenger for such transportation was entered into prior to passage of the act.[38] However, a contract for the carriage of a caretaker of live stock, whose transportation is included in the rate for the stock, is not violative of this provision.[39]

The acceptance of other than cash in payment of a passenger's fare is also prohibited under some state statutes.[40] Thus a statutory provision which prohibits a common carrier from charging one person a greater or a less compensation than another, and which also prohibits charging other than the rates fixed and established, which rates are expressed and measured by dollars and cents, prevents a carrier from collecting or receiving other than cash in payment of a passenger's fare.[41]

29. N.Y.—Corbett v. Twenty-third St. R. Co., 42 Hun 587.

30. Cal.—Tarbell v. Central Pac. R. Co., 34 Cal. 616.
Ga.—Atlanta Cons. St. R. Co. v. Keeny, 25 S.E. 629, 99 Ga. 266, 33 L.R.A. 824.
10 C.J. p. 682 note 32.

31. N.Y.—Lewis v. New York Cent. R. Co., 49 Barb. 330.
10 C.J. p. 682 note 33.
Penalty for excessive or unauthorized charges see generally supra §§ 587–589.

32. Tex.—Russell v. St. Louis & S.W. Ry. Co. of Texas, Civ.App., 250 S.W. 1076.
10 C.J. p. 682 note 35.

Advertising

(1) A contract whereby a railroad company in consideration of certain advertising issues a mileage book to be used for transportation only between points entirely within the state, but not in connection with or for any part of an interstate trip, is not invalid.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Holman, 64 So. 7, 106 Miss. 449.

(2) Statutory provisions in some states authorize contracts, between railroads and newspaper publishers, for transportation in exchange for advertising. The form or terms of such contracts are not prescribed, and the only restrictions are that such contracts shall be upon the same basis of charge as is charged the public generally for a like service, and the exchange be on a basis of value received in all cases, and that the contracts be approved by the Railroad Commission and filed in its office.—Russell v. St. Louis & S.W. Ry. Co. of Texas, Tex.Civ.App., 250 S.W. 1076.

33. U.S.—Chicago, I. & L. R. Co. v. U. S., Ill., 31 S.Ct. 272, 219 U.S. 486, 55 L.Ed. 305, affirming, C.C., 163 F. 114—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Mottley, 31 S.Ct. 265, 219 U.S. 467, 55 L.Ed. 297, 34 L.R.A., N.S., 671, reversing 118 S.W. 892, 133 Ky. 652.
10 C.J. p. 682 note 37.

34. U.S.—Chicago, I. & L. R. Co. v. U. S., Ill., 31 S.Ct. 272, 219 U.S. 486, 55 L.Ed. 305, affirming, C.C., 163 F. 114—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Mottley, 31 S.Ct. 265, 219 U.S. 467, 55 L.Ed. 297, 34 L.R.A., N.S., 671, reversing 118 S.W. 982, 133 Ky. 652.
Miss.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Holman, 64 So. 7, 106 Miss. 449.

35. U.S.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Mottley, 31 S.Ct. 265, 219 U.S. 467, 55 L.Ed. 297, 34 L.R.A.,N.S., 671, reversing 118 S.W. 982, 133 Ky. 652.

36. U.S.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Mottley, supra.

37. U.S.—Chicago, I. & L. R. Co. v. U. S., Ill., 31 S.Ct. 272, 219 U.S. 486, 55 L.Ed. 305, affirming, C.C., 163 F. 114.

38. U.S.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Mottley, 31 S.Ct. 265, 219 U.S. 467, 55 L.Ed. 297, 34 L.R.A.,N.S., 671, reversing 118 S.W. 982, 133 Ky. 652.

39. U.S.—Tripp v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., Mich., 238 F. 449, 151 C.C.A. 385, certiorari denied Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Tripp, 37 S.Ct. 475, 243 U.S. 648, 61 L.Ed. 945.

40. Neb.—State v. Union Pac. R. Co., 126 N.W. 859, 87 Neb. 29, 31 L.R.A.,N.S., 657.

41. Ind.—Evansville, etc., R. Co. v. Vanada, 106 N.E. 388, 57 Ind.App. 415.
Neb.—State v. Union Pac. R. Co., 126 N.W. 859, 87 Neb. 29, 31 L.R.A.,N.S., 657.
10 C.J. p. 683 note 44.

Smooth or mutilated money. A silver coin, worn smooth by constant and long continued handling while being circulated as a part of the national currency, but distinguishable and not appreciably diminished in weight, is a good tender for car fare.[42] The conductor, however, has the right to demand an entire bill and is not bound to accept one from which a portion has been torn; if any part which may aid in determining whether it is a genuine bill is absent, he is under no duty to receive it.[43]

§ 593. Amount of Tender; Making Change

A passenger need not tender the exact fare, but must tender a reasonable sum which the carrier must accept and furnish change.

A passenger, particularly one on a street car, is not bound to tender the exact fare, but he must tender a reasonable sum, and the carrier must accept such tender and furnish change.[44] What is a reasonable sum within the meaning of these rules is usually a question for the court to determine,[45] and depends largely on whether the carrier is a steam railroad or a street railroad.[46] It has been held that a tender of a five-dollar bill in payment of a five-cent fare is unreasonable;[47] but, on the other hand, the contrary has also been held.[48] It has also been held, where a large bill is tendered to the conductor with the request that he return the change when they reach the terminal of the carrier in a large city, that the size of the bill is immaterial.[49]

A demand for change, as a condition precedent to giving up the money, defeats a tender which is otherwise good.[50]

Rules fixing the maximum amount for which change will be made. The carrier may make a reasonable rule fixing the maximum amount for which change will be made;[51] and, where such a rule exists, a tender of more than the maximum amount is not a good tender;[52] and in such a case the conductor is not bound to change a bill of a larger denomination than that fixed as the maximum, although he has sufficient change on hand so to do, as he is allowed considerable discretion in deciding whether he has sufficient change for the probable demands of the trip to allow him to change more than the maximum amount in a particular case.[53]

§ 594. By and to Whom Tender or Payment Made

Tender or payment may be made by anyone, but it is not sufficient unless it is made to an agent authorized to accept payment.

The fare need not be paid by the passenger himself.[54] If an actual tender of fare is made, the 42. Ala.—Mobile St. R. Co. v. Watters, 33 So. 42, 135 Ala. 227.

Ill.—Chicago Union Tract. Co. v. McClevey, 126 Ill.App. 21.
N.J.—Jersey City, etc., R. Co. v. Morgan, 18 A. 904, 52 N.J.Law 60, affirmed 21 A. 783, 52 N.J.Law 558, appeal dismissed 16 S.Ct. 276, 160 U.S. 288, 40 L.Ed. 430.

43. N.J.—North Hudson County R. Co. v. Anderson, 39 A. 905, 61 N.J. Law 248, 68 Am.S.R. 703, 40 L.R.A. 410.

44. N.Y.—Barker v. Central Park, etc., R. Co., 45 N.E. 550, 151 N.Y. 237, 56 Am.S.R. 626, 35 L.R.A. 489.
10 C.J. p. 683 notes 47, 48.

45. Tenn.—Knoxville Tract. Co. v. Wilkerson, 99 S.W. 992, 117 Tenn. 482, 9 L.R.A.,N.S., 579, 10 Ann.Cas. 641.
10 C.J. p. 683 note 52.

Mixed question of fact and law

It has been held that what constitutes reasonable tender "is a mixed question of fact and law to be determined in each case, taking into account always the size of the city, town, or village, where the passage is demanded, the volume of business done, and the facilities for making change"—Jones v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 68 So. 924, 925, 926, 109 Miss. 655.

46. Miss.—Jones v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., supra.
"A distinction ought to be made, we think, between passengers traveling on steam railroads and those traveling on street railroads. Passengers of the former class are expected to prepare themselves with tickets procured at the regular office established at the station where the trains regularly stop. Horse cars and cable cars stop at all points along the road at the beck of those desiring to ride, and the conductors do not, as a general thing expect to receive tickets for passage"
Cal.—Barrett v. Market-St. Ry. Co., 22 P. 859, 860, 81 Cal. 296, 6 L.R.A. 336, 15 Am.S.R. 61.
Miss.—Jones v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 68 So. 924, 925, 109 Miss. 655.

47. N.Y.—Barker v. Central Park, etc., R. Co., 45 N.E. 550, 151 N.Y. 237, 56 Am.S.R. 626, 35 L.R.A. 489.
Pa.—Muldowney v. Pittsburg, etc., Tract. Co., 8 Pa.Super. 335.

48. Cal.—Barrett v. Market St. R. Co., 22 P. 859, 81 Cal. 296, 15 Am. S.R. 61, 6 L.R.A. 336.

49. Miss.—Jones v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 68 So. 924, 109 Miss. 655.

50. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Cottengim, 104 S.W. 280, 31 Ky.L. 871, 13 L.R.A.,N.S., 624.

51. Ga.—Burge v. Georgia R., etc., Co., 65 S.E. 879, 133 Ga. 423, 18 Ann.Cas. 42.
Tenn.—Knoxville Tract. Co. v. Wilkerson, 99 S.W. 992, 117 Tenn. 482, 9 L.R.A.,N.S., 579, 10 Ann.Cas. 641.

Rule fixing five dollars held reasonable

Tenn.—Knoxville Tract. Co. v. Wilkerson, 99 S.W. 992, 117 Tenn. 482, 9 L.R.A.,N.S., 579, 10 Ann.Cas. 641.

Rules fixing two dollars held reasonable

Ga.—Burge v. Georgia R., etc., Co., 65 S.E. 879, 133 Ga. 423, 18 Ann. Cas. 42—Wynn v. Georgia R., etc., Co., 64 S.E. 278, 6 Ga.App. 77.
N.Y.—Barker v. Central Park, etc., R. Co., 45 N.E. 550, 151 N.Y. 237, 56 Am.S.R. 626, 35 L.R.A. 489.
S.C.—Funderburg v. Augusta, etc., R. Co., 61 S.E. 1075, 81 S.C. 141, 21 L.R.A.,N.S., 868.

52. Ga.—Wynn v. Georgia R., etc., Co., 64 S.E. 278, 6 Ga.App. 77.
S.C.—Funderburg v. Augusta, etc., R. Co., 61 S.E. 1075, 81 S.C. 141, 21 L.R.A.,N.S., 868.
10 C.J. p. 683 note 50.

53. S.C.—Funderburg v. Augusta, etc., R. Co., supra.

54. Pa.—Rowdin v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 57 A. 1125, 208 Pa. 623.
S.C.—Mims v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 48 S.E. 269, 69 S.C. 338.

conductor cannot refuse it, no matter by whom the tender is made,[55] except that, where a stranger's offer to pay the passenger's fare is addressed to the passenger and not to the conductor, the latter is not bound to accept it in the face of the passenger's unqualified dissent.[56]

Payment or tender of fare may be made to any agent authorized to accept payment,[57] who is usually the conductor;[58] and a tender or payment to one not so authorized, such as to a brakeman, is not sufficient.[59] An offer to pay an employee who informs the passenger that he is not only unauthorized to receive it but also that he is prohibited from so doing is not an offer to the company.[60]

Tender or payment to avoid ejection will be hereinafter considered in § 812.

§ 595. Back Fare

If a passenger has failed to pay for the carriage already received, he cannot insist on further transportation without payment of the back fare.

If a passenger has failed to pay for the carriage already received on the train, he cannot insist on being allowed to continue his trip without payment of back fare.[61] Accordingly, if a conductor, through mistake, collects less than the regular train fare he may, on discovering the mistake within a reasonable time, require the passenger to pay the proper fare, unless his right so to do has been waived, as where the conductor receives and retains the amount paid without demanding more, for more than a reasonable length of time.[62]

§ 596. Passenger on Wrong Train

Where a passenger, through no fault of the carrier, takes the wrong train, he may be required to pay to the first station where the train stops.

If the passenger, by his own mistake and without fault of the servants of the carrier, takes the wrong train, he may be required to pay to the first station beyond, where the train stops;[63] but, as already pointed out in § 557, while on the train by mistake he is a passenger.

2. Tickets

§ 597. Purchase and Sale

The passenger must provide himself with the necessary evidence of his right to transportation, and where reasonable opportunities are afforded may be required to procure a ticket before entering the train.

Ordinarily it is the duty of the passenger to provide himself with the necessary evidence of his right to transportation, and, if he fails so to do through no fault of the carrier or its agents, the passenger will be entitled only to such transportation as he shows himself entitled to.[64] If the carrier sees fit, it may, by proper regulation, require the passenger to procure a ticket before entering the train for transportation, provided reasonable opportunities are afforded the passenger to secure a ticket,[65] and such a regulation is reasonable.[66]

The carrier must sell its tickets without discrimination and in the order of application;[67] and it may be held liable in damages where it negligently fails to give a passenger an opportunity to purchase a ticket,[68] or wrongfully or negligently refuses to sell him one,[69] or to furnish him one in exchange, under the provisions of a mileage book.[70] A carrier may also be liable in damages for its failure to furnish plaintiff a ticket that will carry him to the destination to which he has paid the fare charged.[71]

Tex.—Trinity Valley R. Co v. Stewart, Civ App, 62 S.W. 1085.
10 C J p 684 note 60.

55. Pa.—Ham v. Delaware, etc., Canal Co., 21 A. 1012, 142 Pa. 617

56. Pa—Muldowney v. Pittsburg, etc., Tract. Co, 8 Pa.Super 335.

57. N J.—Shelton v. Erie R. Co., 66 A. 403, 73 N.J Law 558, 118 Am.S. R. 704, 9 L R A ,N.S., 727, 9 Ann. Cas. 883.
Ohio.—Cleveland, etc, R. Co. v. Bartram, 11 Ohio St. 457

58. N.J.—Shelton v. Erie R. Co., 66 A. 403, 73 N.J.Law 558, 118 Am. S.R. 704, 9 L.R A ,N.S., 727, 9 Ann Cas 883.

59. Kan.—Mendenhall v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 71 P. 846, 66 Kan. 438, 97 Am S R. 380, 61 L R.A. 120.
10 C.J. p 684 note 65.

60. Ohio.—Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Bartram, 11 Ohio St. 457.

61. Ga.—Coyle v. Southern R Co, 37 S E. 163, 112 Ga. 121.

62. Minn.—Wardwell v. Chicago, etc., R. Co, 49 N.W. 206, 46 Minn. 514, 24 Am S.R. 246, 13 L.R.A. 596.

63. Ky.—Illinois Cent R. Co v Billington, 30 S.W. 885, 17 Ky L 271
10 C J. p 684 note 71.

64. Ga.—Adams v. Louisville & N. R Co., 109 S E. 703, 27 Ga App 720.
10 C J. p 684 note 73, p 687 note 11 [b].

65. Ark.—Simmons v. Lusk, 194 S. W. 11, 128 Ark. 336.
10 C J. p 684 note 74.

66. Ark —St. Louis Southwestern R. Co. v. Branch, 153 S.W. 118, 106 Ark. 269.
10 C.J. p 684 note 75.

67. N.J —State v. Delaware, etc., R. Co, 48 N.J.Law 55, 2 A. 803, 57 Am. R. 543.

Tex.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Howell, Civ App, 166 S.W. 81.
10 C J. p 685 note 77.

68. Ga.—Southern R. Co. v. Johnson, 70 S E. 69, 8 Ga.App 654.
10 C J p 685 notes 78, 79.

69. N.C —Coleman v Southern R. Co, 50 S.E. 690, 133 N C. 351.
10 C J p 685 note 80.

70. Ill.—Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Daniels, 90 Ill.App. 154
Ky.—Schmidt v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 74 S W. 674, 25 Ky.L. 11.
10 C J. p 685 note 81.

71. Ala.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Penny, 114 So. 15, 22 Ala.App. 199.
10 C J. p 685 note 82.

Half-fare ticket

A prospective passenger, applying for a full-fare ticket, and paying the full fare charged for such ticket, but receiving only a half-fare ticket, may recover of the carrier for damages

Sale of tickets on cars. Regulations have been made, and held reasonable, requiring street railroad companies to keep tickets for sale on their cars.[72]

§ 598. Authority to Sell; Brokers

The business of purchasing and selling nontransferable tickets without the authority of the carrier is an actionable wrong, and under some statutes constitutes a crime.

The carrying on of the business of purchasing and selling nontransferable tickets for profit to the injury of the carrier issuing such tickets is an actionable wrong,[73] and under statutory provisions in some jurisdictions the sale of such a ticket without the authority of the carrier constitutes a crime.[74]

Generally statutory provisions prohibiting persons from selling railroad tickets, unless they are specially authorized by the railroad company, and making it a penal offense for them so to do, have been upheld as a valid exercise of the police power,[75] although there is authority to the contrary.[76] Such statutes are not invalid as an interference with interstate commerce,[77] or as granting to anyone privileges or immunities denied to others, or as depriving any person of property without due process of law, or as impairing the obligation of contracts,[78] or as a delegation of the police power of the state to grant licenses to engage in a business[79]

A statute making it unlawful for any person other than a duly authorized agent of the company to "sell or deal in tickets" has no application to the sale of a single ticket by a person not a dealer therein.[80]

Ticket obtained in another state. A person who buys a ticket from a dealer who is not an authorized agent of the company, in a state where such sale is lawful, is entitled to transportation into another state over the railroad by which the ticket was issued, although a statute of the latter state makes the sale unlawful.[81]

§ 599. Sale on Credit

A mere delay in payment for a ticket does not invalidate it, at least where it is not a forbidden sale on credit.

The mere fact that the ticket is not actually paid for at the time of purchase does not invalidate resulting from its failure to furnish the proper ticket.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Penny, 114 So. 15, 22 Ala.App. 199.

72. Mich.—West Bloomfield Tp. v. Detroit United R. Co., 109 N.W. 258, 146 Mich. 198, 117 Am.S.R. 628—Rice v. Detroit, etc., R. Co., 81 N.W. 927, 122 Mich. 677, 48 L.R.A. 84.
Neb.—Sternberg v. State, 54 N.W. 553, 36 Neb. 307, 19 L.R.A. 570.
10 C.J. p 685 note 83.

73. U.S.—Bitterman v. Louisville & N. R. Co., La., 28 S.Ct. 91, 207 U.S. 205, 52 L.Ed. 171, affirming 144 F. 34, 75 C.C.A. 192.

Actual malice not required

Actual malice, in the sense of personal ill will, is not required, since the wanton disregard of the rights of the carrier causing injury to it, which such business involves, constitutes legal malice.—Bitterman v. Louisville & N. R. Co., La., 28 S.Ct. 91, 207 U.S. 205, 52 L.Ed. 171, affirming 144 F. 34, 75 C.C.A. 192.

74. Ill.—People v. Lewis, 6 N.E.2d 175, 365 Ill. 156, affirming 1 N.E.2d 696, 285 Ill.App. 171.
10 C.J. p 686 note 86.

Sufficiency of information

(1) An information charging accused with unlawfully selling the return portion of a nontransferable railroad ticket without the authority of the railroad company need not negative exceptions in the statute creating the crime.—People v. Lewis, 6 N.E.2d 175, 365 Ill. 156, affirming 1 N.E.2d 696, 285 Ill.App. 171.

(2) "It is not necessary to set out in the information the name of the purchaser of the ticket"—People v. Lewis, 1 N.E.2d 696, 697, 285 Ill. App. 171, affirmed 6 N.E.2d 175, 365 Ill. 156.

75. Minn.—State v. Corbett, 59 N.W. 317, 57 Minn. 345, 24 L.R.A. 498.
10 C.J. p 686 note 88.

The object of such provisions is the prevention of ticket brokerage or ticket scalping.
Or.—State v. Thompson, 84 P. 476, 47 Or. 492, 4 L.R.A.,N.S., 480, 8 Ann. Cas. 646.
Tenn.—Samuelson v. State, 95 S.W. 1012, 116 Tenn. 470, 115 Am.S.R. 805.
10 C.J. p 686 note 89.

In Texas

(1) A municipal ordinance making it unlawful to sell, barter, or transfer in the city, for any consideration whatever, the whole or any part of any railroad ticket, unless duly authorized in writing so to do by the railroad issuing the same, is constitutional and in pursuance of a valid delegation of the police power of the state, in the absence of any statute on the subject.—Ex p. Hughes, 100 S.W. 160, 50 Tex.Cr. 614.

(2) But an act prohibiting anyone except a duly authorized agent from selling railroad tickets, and further providing that its provisions shall not apply to any person holding a ticket upon which is not plainly printed that "it is a penal offense for him or her to sell, barter, or transfer said ticket for a consideration," has no application to a ticket containing no such printed matter, and such a ticket is assignable.—International & G. N. R. Co. v. Ing, 68 S.W. 722, 29 Tex.Civ.App. 398.

(3) It has been held that an act of the latter character is unconstitutional and void because it gives to the railroad companies the power to determine whether the sale of its tickets shall constitute a criminal offense.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Mahaffey, 84 S.W. 646, 98 Tex. 392—Jannin v. State, Cr., 51 S.W. 1126.

76. N.Y.—Peo. v. City Prison Warden, 51 N.E. 1006, 157 N.Y. 116, 68 Am.S.R. 763, 43 L.R.A. 264, reversing 50 N.Y.S. 56, 26 App.Div. 228.
10 C.J. p 686 note 87.

77. Minn.—State v. Corbett, 59 N.W. 317, 57 Minn. 345, 24 L.R.A. 498.
10 C.J. p 686 note 90.

78. Ill.—Burdick v. Peo., 36 N.E. 948, 149 Ill. 600, 41 Am.S.R. 329, 24 L.R.A. 152.
10 C.J. p 686 notes 91, 92.

79. Minn.—State v. Corbett, 59 N.W. 317, 57 Minn. 345, 24 L.R.A. 498.

80. N.C.—State v. Clarke, 14 S.E. 84, 109 N.C. 739—State v. Ray, 14 S.E. 83, 109 N.C. 736, 14 L.R.A. 529.

81. Pa.—Sleeper v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 100 Pa. 259, 45 Am.R. 380.

it, at least where it could not be called a credit sale, but only a delay in payment and payment was expected and made the same day.[82] An agent authorized to sell tickets and to stamp and deliver the same, on receiving pay therefor, however, cannot bind his principal by turning over tickets to a third person, a ticket broker, to be in turn sold by him and to be paid for when so sold.[83]

§ 600. Delivery to Purchaser

It is the duty of the ticket agent to exercise reasonable care in delivering the ticket; where a wrong ticket is mistakenly furnished, the carrier will be liable, unless the passenger knew or had reason to believe that he was not given the correct ticket.

It is the duty of a ticket agent to exercise reasonable care in delivering the ticket so that the purchaser may get it, and if the purchaser is called away after applying for a ticket and putting down his money, it will be no delivery for the agent to put the ticket on the counter in his absence, if it does not come into his possession.[84] If a ticket agent by mistake gives a passenger the wrong ticket, the carrier is bound by the real contract between the parties;[85] but if the passenger knows or has reason to believe that the ticket handed him is not the ticket for which he called, he cannot thereafter complain that he received an improper ticket.[86]

§ 601. Extra Charge on Failure to Purchase Ticket

a. In general

b. Opportunity to purchase ticket

c. Waiver of right to demand extra fare

a. In General

Generally where a passenger violates a regulation requiring the purchase of a ticket before entering the train he may be subjected to a reasonable extra charge.

As already noted in § 597, the carrier may require the passenger to procure a ticket before entering the train, and, subject to some qualifications, where the passenger fails to comply with such a regulation, the carrier may properly exact a sum in addition to the amount which would have been charged for a ticket to the same destination, and such extra charge is generally recognized as a reasonable regulation and not unlawful as a discrimination,[87] particularly where the regulation provides for a refunding of the excess on the presentation by the passenger of a check at the ticket office.[88] Such a regulation is not unreasonable because it provides that as to passengers getting on the train at stations where there is no ticket office, or on trains where on account of the excessive rush of business it is impossible to issue the refunding check, the collection of the excess shall be omitted.[89]

Under some statutes such extra charge is expressly authorized,[90] except where the passage is wholly within the limits of an incorporated city.[91] Under other statutes, however, passengers who fail to procure tickets must be transported at the same rate and price charged for tickets for the same service.[92]

82. Iowa.—Ellsworth v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 63 N.W. 584, 95 Iowa 98, 29 L.R.A. 173.
10 C.J. p 687 note 3.

83. Ohio.—Frank v. Ingalls, 41 Ohio St. 560.

84. U.S.—Quigley v. Central Pac. R. Co., C.C.Nev., 20 F.Cas.No.11,510, 5 Sawy. 107.

85. Ala.—Pullman Co. v. Riley, 59 So. 761, 5 Ala.App. 561.

Ticket for wrong station

A railroad company is liable for damages resulting to a passenger for furnishing a ticket to a different station from that called for, which would include the amount paid out by the passenger on account of the mistake.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. McDermott, 152 S.W. 983, 106 Ark. 170, 44 L.R.A.,N.S., 281—10 C.J. p 680 note 8.

Wrong date limit

A ticket agent authorized to sell two kinds of return trip tickets, with different date limits for the return trip, must issue a ticket for the time limit demanded by a passenger, and, where he inserts, without the fault of the passenger, an erroneous date limit for return, the passenger may recover the damages sustained.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Howell, Tex.Civ.App., 166 S.W. 81.

86. Ala.—Pullman Co. v. Riley, 59 So. 761, 5 Ala.App. 561.

Duty to inspect ticket

A passenger may, in the absence of actual notice to the contrary, assume that the carrier has furnished him with a ticket correctly stating the terms of the contract actually made, and is not bound to inspect the ticket to see that the carrier has performed its duty.—Gulf, etc. R. Co. v. Copeland, 42 S.W. 239, 17 Tex.Civ.App. 55.

87. Ga.—Adams v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 109 S.E. 703, 27 Ga.App. 720
Miss.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Mississippi Railroad Commission, 77 So. 314, 116 Miss. 484.
10 C.J. p 687 note 11.
Ejection of passenger for failure to pay extra charge see infra § 811.

Rule effected by discount

This rule may also be effected by the carrier's making a deduction from the regular or advertised fare in case of those buying tickets at the station.

Ga.—Coyle v. Southern R. Co., 37 S.E. 163, 112 Ga. 121.
Me.—State v. Goold, 53 Me. 279.
Mass.—Swan v. Manchester, etc., R. Co., 132 Mass. 116, 42 Am.R. 432.
10 C.J. p 688 note 15.

88. Minn.—Allen v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 133 N.W. 462, 116 Minn. 119, Ann.Cas.1913A 1197.
10 C.J. p 688 note 12.

89. Pa.—Reese v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 19 A. 72, 131 Pa. 422, 17 Am.S.R. 818, 6 L.R.A. 529.

90. N.Y.—Hogan v. Long Island R. Co., 100 N.E. 47, 206 N.Y. 440, reversing 126 N.Y.S. 449, 142 App.Div. 29
10 C.J. p 688 note 16.

91. N.Y.—Hogan v. Long Island R. Co., supra.
S.C.—Weber v. Southern R. Co., 43 S.E. 888, 65 S.C. 356.
10 C.J. p 688 note 17.

92. Ark.—St. Louis Southwestern R. Co. v. Hammett, 136 S.W. 191, 98 Ark. 418.

It has been held that, if a passenger pays only from one station to another without a ticket, he may be compelled to pay an extra charge at each station, as a new contract between him and the company is thus made at each station,[93] and that, although he is on the train with a ticket, if he desires to go further than his ticket calls for, he may be required to pay the extra amount for the further transportation, notwithstanding he has no opportunity to procure another ticket.[94] On the other hand it has been held that, where the passenger has had no opportunity to procure another ticket, he is entitled to continue his journey by tendering or paying the regular fare.[95]

Limitation of amount of extra charge. In the absence of a statutory limitation the amount of such extra charge must be reasonable;[96] and it has been held, under some statutes, that the extra charge can in no case exceed the maximum rate allowed the carrier by law.[97] Where, however, the excess is to be refunded under reasonable conditions, the fact that the two sums might exceed the maximum rate authorized does not constitute an illegal charge, as such additional sum is in no sense a charge for transportation.[98]

Sufficiency of effort to procure ticket. Where the passenger makes no effort to procure a ticket,[99] or where he merely goes to the window of the ticket office, and not finding the agent there immediately enters the cars without making any effort to see if the agent is within the office, or to attract his notice,[1] he may be required to pay the train rate of fare; and this is also true where he reaches the station too late to buy a ticket before taking the train.[2] Where, however, the company fails to observe the statute relative to keeping open the ticket office, it cannot demand a higher rate, even though the passenger did not apply at the office for a ticket within the time specified, since the court regards the provision of the statute as an absolute rule, the operation of which is in no wise dependent on the attempt or intent of the purchaser to buy a ticket.[3]

b. Opportunity to Purchase Ticket

A condition precedent to the enforcement of a regulation exacting an extra charge is that the carrier afford the passenger a reasonable opportunity to purchase a ticket.

As a condition precedent to the enforcement of a regulation exacting an extra charge in case of a failure to purchase a ticket, the carrier must have afforded to the passenger a reasonable opportunity to procure a ticket.[4] The duty of the company in this respect may be stated thus: It must furnish a convenient and accessible place for the sale of tickets with a competent person in attendance ready to sell them,[5] which place should be open and accessible to all passengers for a reasonable time before the departure of each train, so that the passenger's failure to obtain a ticket shall really be a case of neglect on his part and not the fault of the company.[6] If a reasonable opportunity to purchase is not afforded, the passenger is entitled to have the regular fare accepted for his transportation,[7] al-

93. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Parks, 18 Ill. 460, 68 Am.D. 562.

94. Ill.—Lake Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Quisenberry, 48 Ill.App. 338
Tex.—Easton v. Waters, App., 16 S.W. 540.

95. Ga.—Brown v. Central of Georgia R. Co., 58 S.E. 163, 128 Ga. 635.
Wis.—Phettiplace v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 54 N.W. 1092, 84 Wis. 412, 20 L.R.A. 483.

Order by corporation commission
In some jurisdictions an order to such effect may be made by the corporation commission as to travel within the state.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry Co. v. State, 150 P. 108, 47 Okl. 645—10 C.J. p 688 note 22.

96. W.Va.—White v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. 26 W.Va. 800

97. Miss.—Illinois Cent. R. Co v. Mississippi Railroad Commission, 77 So 314, 116 Miss. 484.
10 C.J. p 688 note 24.

98. Pa.—Reese v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 19 A. 72, 131 Pa 422, 17 Am. S.R. 818, 6 L.R.A. 529.

Particular charge held not illegal
A rule that passengers shall pay ten cents extra with a subsequent refundment when cash is tendered instead of a ticket, is a reasonable rule and is not in violation of a statute fixing the maximum rate for the transportation of passengers—Allen v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 133 N.W. 462, 116 Minn. 119, Ann.Cas.1913A 1197.

99. Kan.—Union Pac. R. Co. v. Wolf, 38 P. 786, 54 Kan 592

1. Ind.—Indianapolis, etc., R. Co v. Kennedy, 77 Ind 507.

2. Ga.—Coyle v. Southern R Co., 37 S.E. 163, 112 Ga. 121.
Ind.—Lake Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Mayo, 30 N.E. 1106, 4 Ind.App 413.
Minn.—Allen v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 133 N.W. 462, 116 Minn. 119, Ann. Cas 1913A 1197.

3. Tex.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. McClanahan, 1 S.W. 576, 66 Tex. 530—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Dyer, 95 S.W. 12, 43 Tex.Civ.App. 93.

4. Ala.—Southern Ry. Co v Blackwell, 100 So. 215, 211 Ala. 216—Louisville & N. R. Co v. Harper, 83 So 142, 203 Ala. 398
10 C.J. p 689 note 26

5. Ky.—Ponder v Lexington, etc., R Co., 174 S.W. 786, 164 Ky. 69.
10 C.J. p 689 note 26

6. Ga.—Adams v Louisville & N R Co., 109 S.E. 703, 27 Ga.App. 720.
10 C.J. p 689 note 26.

Purchase en route
A passenger cannot while en route be required to leave the train in order to purchase a ticket.—Central R., etc., Co v. Strickland, 16 S.E. 352, 90 Ga 562—Adams v Louisville & N. R. Co., 109 S.E. 703, 27 Ga.App. 720

7. Ala.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Harper, 83 So. 142, 203 Ala 398
Ga.—Adams v. Louisville & N. R Co., 109 S.E. 703, 27 Ga.App. 720.
10 C.J. p 689 note 26.

Journey over two lines
Where a passenger, having no ticket without his fault, paid the regular ticket rate to a junction point of the carrier's line, but showed no reason for not providing himself with a

though the contrary has also been held.[8] Accordingly, where there is no ticket office, or it is not kept open during a reasonable time before the departure of the train, so that a ticket may be bought, the regulation is not applicable.[9]

Time for keeping open office. Reasonable time for keeping open the office for the sale of tickets has been held to mean up to the time fixed by the published rules of the company for the departure of the train and not up to the time of actual departure;[10] and it is not necessary that the office be kept open until the very moment the train departs if the agent, in the usual course of the practicable discharge of his duties, has afforded opportunity for the purchase of tickets.[11] What is a reasonable time is usually a question of fact for the determination of the jury under the circumstances of the particular case,[12] with reference to the requirements, convenience, and demand of the public at the station in question.[13]

Under a statutory provision that the ticket office shall be kept open at least one hour prior to the departure of each passenger train,[14] or just prior to the departure of the train,[15] it has been held that the actual departure and not the advertised time of departure is meant. Where, however, the requirement is to keep the office open a specified time before the schedule time for the departure of the train, it is not necessary that an opportunity be afforded for the purchase of a ticket after the schedule time for departure, although the train is late.[16] If there is no one in attendance to sell tickets, the office is not "open" within the meaning of the statute.[17]

It is a good defense to a prosecution, under statutes making it an offense for a ticket agent to neglect to keep the ticket office open for the time prescribed by statute, that the railroad company did not sell tickets at such station for such train, but permitted the passengers to pay regular ticket fare on the train.[18]

c. Waiver of Right to Demand Extra Fare

In the absence of a mistake, the conductor by accepting and retaining the regular ticket fare waives the right to require payment of the extra charge, provided the passenger is justified in the belief that it was accepted as payment in full.

When a passenger in good faith tenders the regular ticket fare, and the conductor takes and retains it, he thereby waives the right to require the passenger to pay the difference between the ticket and train fare, provided the passenger is, from the attendant circumstances, justified in the belief that it was accepted as payment in full.[19] So, where the conductor receives and retains the ticket fare without demanding more until the train has passed the place at which he must exercise or abandon the right to eject the passenger for nonpayment, the latter has the right to assume that the amount paid ticket for the remainder of his journey, the conductor of the train there taken was entitled to collect the train rate for the remainder of his journey.—Adams v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 109 S.E. 703, 27 Ga.App. 720.

8. Conn.—Crocker v. New London, etc., R. Co., 24 Conn. 249.
N.Y.—Bordeaux v. Erie R. Co., 8 Hun 579.
10 C.J. p 689 note 27

9. Ky.—Snellbaker v. Paducah, etc., R. Co., 23 S.W. 509, 94 Ky. 597, 15 Ky.L. 380.
10 C.J. p 689 note 28.

10. Ill.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. South, 43 Ill. 176, 92 Am.D. 103—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Bauer, 66 Ill.App 124.
Mass.—Swan v. Manchester, etc., R. Co., 132 Mass. 116, 42 Am.R. 432.

11. S.C.—Talbert v. Charleston, etc., R. Co., 55 S.E. 138, 75 S.C. 138.
10 C.J. p 689 note 30.

12. Ga.—Central R., etc., Co. v. Strickland, 10 S.E. 352, 90 Ga. 562.
Iowa.—Everett v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 28 N.W. 410, 69 Iowa 15, 58 Am.R. 207.
Minn.—Du Laurans v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 15 Minn. 49, 2 Am.R. 102.
10 C.J. p 689 note 31.

13. Iowa.—Everett v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 28 N.W. 410, 69 Iowa 15, 58 Am.R. 207.

14. N.Y.—Nellis v. New York Cent. R. Co., 30 N.Y. 505—Chase v. New York Cent. R. Co., 26 N.Y. 523—Porter v. New York Cent. R. Co., 34 Barb. 353, 355.

In Texas

(1) Under a statute requiring ticket offices to be kept open for one-half hour prior to the departure of each train, an instruction that it was the duty of the carrier to keep its office open for a half hour before the arrival of the train and until the departure thereof imposed a greater duty upon the carrier than was imposed by law.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Mills, 65 S.W. 74, 27 Tex.Civ.App. 245.

(2) A failure to keep the office open as required by such a statute constitutes negligence.—International & G. N. R. Co. v. Lister, Civ.App., 72 S.W. 107.

15. Kan.—Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Hogue, 31 P. 698, 50 Kan. 40—Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Dwelle, 24 P. 500, 44 Kan. 394.

16. Ill.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. South, 43 Ill. 176, 92 Am.D. 103—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Bauer, 66 Ill.App 124—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Brisbane, 24 Ill.App. 463.
Mass.—Swan v. Manchester, etc., R. Co., 132 Mass. 116, 42 Am.R. 432.

In Kentucky, under a statute requiring railroad companies to keep their ticket offices open at least thirty minutes immediately preceding the schedule time of departure of passenger trains, and that, when any regular passenger train is delayed for thirty minutes in its arrival notice of the length of time of the delay shall be posted, a railroad company need not, where a train is seven minutes late, keep its office open up to the time of departure.—Ponder v. Lexington, etc., R. Co., 174 S.W. 786, 164 Ky. 69.

17. Tex.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Dyer, 95 S.W. 12, 43 Tex.Civ.App. 93.
10 C.J. p 689 note 37.

18. Tenn.—Brady v. State, 15 Lea 628.

19. Minn.—Wardwell v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 49 N.W. 206, 46 Minn. 514, 24 Am.S.R. 246, 13 L.R.A. 596, qualifying Du Laurans v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 15 Minn 29, 49, 2 Am.R. 102.

is satisfactory.[20] However, if the regular ticket fare is received through mistake, the conductor has a reasonable time to demand the extra fare.[21] The fact that the carrier has in other cases required only the regular fare is immaterial.[22]

§ 602. Representations and Acts of Agent or Employee

As a general rule representations within the apparent scope of a ticket agent's or conductor's authority bind the carrier.

Any agent allowed to exercise general authority to sell tickets over the line of a carrier thereby binds the carrier,[23] and any representation or promise within the apparent scope of his authority in making such contract for transportation will be binding,[24] particularly where the carrier has acted on the contract with knowledge of the facts.[25] If the terms of a ticket in effect are dependent on punches or marks not ordinarily intelligible to a purchaser, he may rely on the representations of the agent with regard to their effect.[26] A carrier, however, is not liable for agreements or special contracts made by an agent, not within the scope of his authority.[27] Thus the carrier has been held not liable for the representations of a ticket agent that a ticket may be used by one other than the original purchaser,[28] or that the conductor would transport without a ticket one who had lost his ticket.[29] Also, a carrier is not liable for the representations of its agent that coupons attached to a contract of carriage would entitle the purchaser to travel over a road not included in the contract and not authorized by the filed and published tariffs.[30] An agent authorized to sell cannot bind the carrier by delegating his authority to another, as by putting tickets already stamped and prepared for delivery into the hands of a third person, without the carrier's knowledge or consent.[31]

Representations subsequent to sale of ticket. A clear distinction appears to exist between an agent's representations at the time of the selling of the ticket and subsequent representations of an agent of the same company with regard thereto;[32] representations as to the effect of a ticket, not made in connection with its sale, are without authority,[33] and are not binding on the company.[34]

20. Minn.—Wardwell v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 49 N.W. 206, 46 Minn. 514, 24 Am.S.R. 246, 13 L.R.A. 596

21. Ind.—Lake Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Mays, 30 N.E. 1106, 4 Ind.App. 413.
Minn.—Wardwell v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 49 N.W. 206, 46 Minn. 514, 24 Am.S.R. 246, 13 L.R.A. 596, qualifying Du Laurans v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 15 Minn. 49, 2 Am.R. 102.

22. Ind.—Sage v. Evansville, etc., R. Co., 33 N.E. 771, 134 Ind. 100.

23. U.S.—Winters v. Cowen, C.C. Ohio, 90 F. 99, affirmed 96 F. 929, 37 C.C.A. 628
Ky.—Southern R. Co. v. Marshall, 64 S.W. 418, 111 Ky. 560, 23 Ky.L. 813.
Waiver of conditions by agent see infra § 621.

24. Ala.—Lamb v. Mitchell, 80 So. 151, 16 Ala.App. 577.
10 C.J. p. 690 note 49.

Scope of ticket agent's authority

(1) "The ticket agent generally has power to make contracts for the carrier for the carriage of passengers, and such contracts are within the scope of his apparent duties."—Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. O'Keefe, 88 So. 1, 2, 125 Miss. 536

(2) "The authorities agree that a ticket agent authorized to sell tickets has authority, and that it is his duty, upon application of a passenger or intended passenger, to give information as to the proper train upon which a ticket entitles the passenger to travel, and other like information regarding the use of the ticket."—Lamb v. Mitchell, 80 So. 151, 16 Ala.App. 577.

(3) Other statements see 10 C.J. p. 690 note 49 [a].

Agent authorized to sell tickets over connecting line

An agent of a carrier who has authority to sell a passenger ticket over its own line and that of a connecting carrier has authority to bind his principal by representations relating to the transportation over both lines.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Spurling, 170 S.W. 192, 160 Ky. 819, Ann.Cas.1916A 487.

25. Ky.—Southern R. Co. v. Marshall, 64 S.W. 418, 111 Ky. 560, 23 Ky.L. 813.
10 C.J. p. 690 note 50.

26. Tenn.—O'Rourke v. Citizens' St. R. Co., 52 S.W. 872, 103 Tenn. 124, 76 Am.S.R. 639, 46 L.R.A. 614.
Tex.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Copeland, 42 S.W. 239, 17 Tex.Civ.App. 55.
10 C.J. p. 690 note 51.

27. Me.—Cuozzo v. Maine Cent. R. Co., 91 A. 1006, 112 Me. 560.
10 C.J. p. 691 note 62.

28. Ga.—Coyle v. Southern R. Co., 37 S.E. 163, 112 Ga. 121.
Transferability of tickets see infra § 607.

Validation of nontransferable ticket

The fact that one other than the original purchaser of a nontransferable ticket had the return portion validated by one of the agents of the carrier gave him no right to use the ticket, since it was not within the scope of the agent's authority to extend the privileges afforded by the ticket to one other than the original purchaser.—Boston v. Southern Pac. Co., 194 S.W. 814, 175 Ky. 641.

29. Tex.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 84 S.W. 852, 38 Tex.Civ.App. 4.

30. Ala.—Alabama Great Southern R. Co. v. Vermillion, 77 So. 67, 69, 16 Ala.App. 229.
"The defendant [carrier] cannot be held liable for a statement by the defendant's agent that the coupons are good over a road not included in the contract, when the law charges plaintiff [purchaser] with a knowledge of the fact that they are not, and that it would be unlawful for defendant to so contract."—Alabama Great Southern R. Co. v. Vermillion, supra.

31. Ga.—Comer v. Foley, 25 S.E. 671, 98 Ga. 678.
Ohio.—Frank v. Ingalls, 41 Ohio St. 560.

32. Ga.—Shoenig v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 86 S.E. 940, 17 Ga.App. 350.

33. U.S.—Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co. v. Cameron, Ind.T., 66 F. 709, 14 C.C.A. 358.
Ga.—Shoenig v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 86 S.E. 940, 17 Ga.App. 350.
Iowa.—Hanlon v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 80 N.W. 223, 109 Iowa 136.
10 C.J. p. 690 note 53.

34. Iowa.—Hanlon v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., supra.

Limiting agent's authority. If the carrier seeks to limit the ticket agent's authority it must have its rules posted in its passenger depots or else it must otherwise bring the limitation to the attention of the passenger.[35]

Railroad conductors may make reasonable arrangements as to passengers transported under their direction,[36] but conductors have no authority to make special contracts of carriage.[37]

§ 603. Nature and Effect of Ticket

a. Particular types defined
b. Ticket as contract

a. Particular Types Defined

The various types of tickets have been defined.

A commutation ticket is a railroad ticket giving the holder the right to travel at a certain rate for a limited number of trips, or for an unlimited number within a certain period of time, for a less amount than would be paid in the aggregate for so many separate trips.[38] As otherwise defined it is a ticket for one passenger, good for more than one ride, or for more than one passenger for one ride, sold at a reduced rate;[39] a season ticket.[40]

Coupon tickets. Coupon tickets are complete tickets fastened together, and issued by carriers of passengers to be detached and given up in payment of fare.[41]

Excursion ticket. An excursion ticket is one of the varieties of special rate tickets coming within the designation or general description of "commutation tickets."[42]

Mileage book. A mileage book is a contract of carriage, having attached thereto coupons, one for every mile, each coupon being in two parts, one for the passenger's fare, the other for his baggage.[43]

Party-rate ticket. A party-rate ticket is a single ticket covering the transportation of ten or more persons from one place to another.[44] As otherwise

35. Miss.—Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. O'Keefe, 88 So. 1, 125 Miss. 536.

36. N.Y.—Wright v. Glens Falls, etc., R. Co., 48 N.Y.S. 1026, 24 App. Div. 617.
Tex.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Burns, Civ. App., 104 S.W. 1081, affirmed 107 S.W. 49, 101 Tex. 329.
10 C.J. p. 691 note 65.

37. Pa.—Anderson v. Union Traction Co., 7 Pa.Dist. 41.
38. Black L. D.

Similar definitions

(1) The purchase of a right to go upon a certain route during a specified period for a less amount than would be paid in the aggregate for separate trips.
U.S.—Interstate Commerce Commission v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., C.C. Ohio, 43 F. 37, 56, affirmed 12 S.Ct. 844, 145 U.S. 263, 36 L.Ed. 699.
Ind.—Etter v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 86 N.E. 1020, 171 Ind. 581, 587, 588.

(2) A ticket issued at a reduced rate by a carrier of passengers, entitling the holder to be carried over a given route a limited number of times, or an unlimited number during a certain period
U.S.—Interstate Commerce Commission v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., supra.
Ind.—Etter v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., supra.

(3) A railway or other ticket entitling the holder to repeated passage or other service, etc., at a reduced rate.—Etter v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., supra.

(4) A ticket, as for transportation, which is the evidence of a contract for service at a reduced rate.
U.S.—Interstate Commerce Commission v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., Ohio, 12 S.Ct. 844, 145 U.S. 263, 277, 36 L.Ed. 699, affirming, C.C., 43 F. 37.
Ind.—Etter v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., supra.

"Party-rate" ticket distinguished

(1) "The difference between commutation and party-rate tickets is that commutation tickets are issued to induce people to travel more frequently, and party-rate tickets are issued to induce more people to travel. There is, however, no difference in principle between them, the object in both cases being to increase travel without unjust discrimination, and to secure patronage that would not otherwise be secured."—Interstate Commerce Commission v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., C.C.Ohio, 43 F. 37, 56, affirmed 12 S.Ct. 844, 145 U.S. 263, 36 L.Ed. 699.

(2) "A one-way party ticket entitles the number of persons specified thereon to transportation of the quality indicated by the ticket, without stop-over, from and to the stations named on the ticket, within the limit specified. It is used for irregular travel between points varying with the applications of parties traveling one way. A commutation ticket entitles the holder (one person) to one first-class passage, without stop-over, for each number indicated on, or each coupon attached to, the ticket, between the stations named, in either direction, and is available to anyone under the conditions and within the limit specified in the contract. It is a kind of ticket largely used by suburban residents traveling between their homes and the larger cities, such as business men, school children, employees, etc. It has various forms, but is uniform in substance. It is a ticket generally on sale regularly by railroads, while party rates are commonly made to suit the particular conditions governing each party. We think the best expert railroad authority is to the above effect, and also that party-rate tickets are an entirely distinct class from commutation tickets, and are for a different class of travel"—Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 2 Int.Com.Rep. 729, 731.

(3) Other statements see 12 C.J. p. 216 note 48 [a].

39. U.S.—Interstate Commerce Commission v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., C.C.Ohio, 43 F. 37, 43, affirmed 12 S.Ct. 844, 145 U.S. 263, 36 L.Ed. 699.
Ind.—Etter v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 86 N.E. 1020, 171 Ind. 581, 587, 588.

40. Ind.—Etter v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., supra.

41. English L. D.

42. U.S.—Interstate Commerce Commission v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., C.C.Ohio, 43 F. 37, 43, affirmed 12 S.Ct. 844, 145 U.S. 263, 36 L.Ed. 699.
23 C.J. p. 276 note 13

43. Ga.—Southern R. Co. v. Rosenheim, 58 S.E. 81, 1 Ga.App. 766, 770.
40 C.J. p. 658 note 52.

44. U.S.—Interstate Commerce Commission v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., Ohio, 12 S.Ct. 844, 145 U.S. 263, defined, it is a ticket for the transportation of a number of persons from a place in one state or territory to a place situate in another state or territory at a rate less than that charged to a single individual for a like transportation on the same trip.[45]

Stop-over ticket. A stop-over ticket is one which gives a right to stop at a station beyond the time of the departure of the train on which one came with the purpose of continuing one's journey on a subsequent train.[46]

b. Ticket as Contract

Subject to some qualifications, the ordinary railroad ticket is not a contract, and is generally regarded as in the nature of a receipt or voucher showing that the passenger has paid his fare, and evidencing his right to transportation.

Subject to certain qualifications, the ordinary railroad ticket is not a contract in itself,[47] but merely a memorandum thereof,[48] and is generally regarded as in the nature of a receipt,[49] or as a token or voucher,[50] showing that the passenger has paid his fare. Such a ticket is evidence of the right to transportation furnished to the passenger in consequence of a contract to carry,[51] but is not evidence of the terms of passage, nor conclusive of the right to passage,[52] since the actual contract 278, 36 L Ed. 699, affirming, C C., 43 F. 37.

47 C.J. p 1320 note 25.

45. Ga.—Raleigh, etc, R. Co. v. Swanson, 28 S.E 601, 102 Ga. 754, 759, 39 L.R A. 275.

46. Cal.—Robinson v Southern Pac. R Co., 38 P. 94, 100, 105 Cal. 526, 556, 28 L.R A. 773.

Well known to general public

"A 'stop-over' ticket is a thing well known, not only in railroad circles, but to the general public,—so well known as to have gone into the common dictionaries of the language."—Robinson v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 38 P. 94, 100, 105 Cal. 526, 28 L.R.A 773.

47. Cal.—Ames v Southern Pac Co., 75 P. 310, 141 Cal. 728, 99 Am. S.R. 98.
Ill.—Lust v. Metropolitan West Side Elevated Ry Co., 222 Ill.App. 288.
Ky.—Guy v. Interstate Transit, 51 S. W.2d 455, 244 Ky. 479—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S.W 2d 356, 240 Ky 1—Louisville & N. R Co. v. Sandlin, 272 S. W 912, 209 Ky. 442.
Nev.—Summerfield v. Hines, 197 P. 690, 45 Nev. 60.
Okl —Dickinson v. Bryant, 172 P. 432, 69 Okl. 297, L.R A.1918E 978.
10 C.J. p 692 note 73.

48. Ky.—Guy v. Interstate Transit, 51 S.W.2d 455, 458, 244 Ky. 479—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S.W.2d 356, 362, 240 Ky 1—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Sandlin, 272 S.W. 912, 913, 209 Ky. 442.
10 C.J. p 692 note 73 [e].

"As between carrier and passenger the ticket is only a memorandum of the contract for carriage, the terms and details of which have been agreed upon before the delivery of the ticket."—Guy v. Interstate Transit, supra—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, supra—Louisville & N. R Co. v. Sandlin, supra.

As between passenger and conductor, ticket is evidence of passenger's rights.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v Sandlin, 272 S.W 912, 209 Ky. 442.

49. Cal.—Ames v Southern Pac. Co., 75 P. 310, 311, 141 Cal 728, 99 Am. S.R. 98.
Ill.—Lust v Metropolitan West Side Elevated Ry. Co, 222 Ill App 288
Nev.—Summerfield v. Hines, 197 P. 690, 692, 45 Nev. 60.
10 C.J. p 692 note 73 [d]

"It is more in the nature of a receipt given by the railroad company as evidence that the passenger has paid his fare for a certain kind of passage on the proper trains of the company, as limited and regulated by its rules"
Cal.—Ames v. Southern Pac. Co., supra
Nev.—Summerfield v. Hines, supra.

An elevated street railway ticket is merely a receipt and not a contract to carry, and a purchaser who presents such a ticket in payment of his fare, after the rate of fare has been raised by the public utilities commission, may be required to pay the difference between the price of the ticket and the new rate—Lust v. Metropolitan West Side Elevated Ry. Co., 222 Ill.App. 288.

As property

(1) An ordinary railroad ticket has more the character of personal property than of a negotiable instrument.—Frank v. Ingalls, 41 Ohio St 560, 564—51 C.J p 371 note 27.

(2) Yet it is not merchandise or a chattel.—State v. Corbett, 59 N W. 317, 57 Minn. 345, 350, 24 L.R A. 498—51 C.J. p 371 note 28.

50. Ind.—Pittsburgh, C., C. & St L. Ry. Co v. Higgs, 76 N.E. 299, 165 Ind. 694
47 C.J. p 1373 note 22 [b]—51 C.J. p 371 note 29.

It is a convenient symbol to represent the fact that the bearer has paid to the company the agreed price for his conveyance upon the road to the place designated.—Cleveland, etc. R. Co. v. Bartram, 11 Ohio St. 457, 462—Frank v. Ingalls, 41 Ohio St. 560, 563.

"Ordinary local tickets . . . are mere tokens to the passenger and vouchers for the conductor, adopted for convenience to show that the passenger has paid his fare from one place to another."—Watson v. Louisville, etc., R Co., 52 S.W. 1024, 104 Tenn 194, 200, 49 L R A 454—Louisville, etc., R Co. v. Turner, 47 S W 223, 100 Tenn. 213, 224, 43 L.R.A. 140.

Passage ticket for ocean voyage distinguished

"There is a distinction between the ordinary railroad ticket and a passage ticket for an ocean voyage, in that the former may be frequently treated as a token, while the latter partakes more of the character of a contract."—Murray v. Cunard S S. Co., 193 N.Y.S 220, 221, 200 App Div. 466

51. Okl.—Dickinson v. Bryant, 172 P. 432, 69 Okl. 297, L.R A.1918E 978.

Primary function of ticket

"Primarily, the function of a ticket is to serve as evidence, as between the conductor of the carrier's train and the passenger, of the latter's right to transportation"—Louisville & N. R. Co. v Rieley, 93 S.E. 574, 575, 121 Va. 469, L.R A 1918A 775.

Delivery of ticket as sufficient evidence

"Where a carrier sells a passenger a ticket, its delivery is sufficient evidence that it has contracted to carry him to the point named in the ticket within a reasonable time, not on a certain vehicle or coach of the passenger's own choosing, but subject to the rights of the carrier to assign the holder to the particular vehicle, and to the seat to be occupied by the holder while being transported."—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S.W.2d 356, 363, 240 Ky. 1

52. Tenn.—Watson v. Louisville & N R Co, 56 S.W. 1024, 104 Tenn. 194, 49 L R.A. 454.

between the carrier and the passenger, made when the ticket is purchased, governs, notwithstanding recitals in the ticket.[53] While a passenger has a right to assume that a ticket delivered to him conforms to his contract,[54] either party may prove the rejection or waiver of any terms therein indorsed.[55]

On the other hand, it has been held that a ticket may be both a receipt and a contract.[56] Thus, where, in addition to its usual form, the ticket contains some reasonable stipulation or condition which the passenger has assented to, it may, to the extent of such stipulation, evidence[57] or constitute[58] the contract. Without regard to particular stipulations or to the assent of the passenger, it has been held that tickets are the contracts, or evidences of the contracts, of the carriers,[59] and that the face of the ticket is conclusive evidence to the conductor of the terms of the contract.[60]

Ticket purporting to be complete agreement; special contract. Generally where a ticket purports to be a complete agreement and sets out the terms of a special contract it is to be looked to as the evidence of the contract, and is conclusive as to its terms.[61]

A transfer ticket of a street railroad company is evidence of the contract as made out and punched by the carrier.[62]

A train check issued by a conductor in taking up a ticket is merely evidence of the right to transportation of the person to whom it is given.[63]

Devolution. A mileage book, at the death of the one to whom it is issued, goes to his personal representatives.[64]

§ 604. Construction: What Law Governs

Where a ticket is ambiguous, it should be construed most strongly against the carrier. In the absence of an intention of the parties to the contrary, the contract should be governed by the law of the place where the ticket is bought.

Where a ticket is of doubtful meaning, or ambiguous, it should be construed most strongly against the carrier by whom it is issued, and in favor of the purchaser.[65] In the absence of an express contract to the contrary, the passenger accepts his ticket subject to the custom and usages, and 53. Tex.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Wynn, 97 S.W. 506, 44 Tex.Civ. App. 29.

10 C.J. p 692 note 75.

54. U.S.—Harmon v. Jensen, C.C.A. Mich., 176 F. 519, 100 C.C.A. 115, 20 Ann.Cas. 1224.
10 C.J. p 692 note 76.

55. Me.—Burnham v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 63 Me. 298, 18 Am.R. 220.
10 C.J. p 692 note 77.

56. Va.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Rieley, 93 S.E. 574, 121 Va. 469, L.R.A.1918A 775.
10 C.J. p 692 note 79.

Custom and usage important

Custom and usage may have an important bearing in determining whether a ticket may, in particular cases, constitute a contract as well as serve as evidence of the passenger's right to transportation.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Rieley, 93 S.E. 574, 121 Va. 469, L.R.A.1918A 775.

57. Va.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Rieley, supra.

Implied assent from acceptance and use

"The very fact that the passenger knows the primary function . . . of the ticket and that he takes it to be used by him to serve such function, and so uses it, in the minds of some courts implies an assent on the part of the passenger to the stipulation on the ticket with respect to his rights of transportation (an implied meeting of the minds of the contracting parties being held to exist in such cases), and hence the ticket is held to evidence a contract between the passenger and carrier to the extent of such stipulations."—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Rieley, 93 S.E. 574, 576, 121 Va. 469, L.R.A. 1918A 775.

A nontransferable ticket evidences a legal contract between the carrier and the purchaser, and limits the benefits of the contract to him.—Kirby v. Union Pac. R. Co., 119 P. 1042, 51 Colo. 509, Ann.Cas.1913B 461.

58. Ind.—Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Evans, 82 N.E. 773, 169 Ind. 410.—Pittsburg, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Higgs, 76 N.E. 299, 165 Ind. 694.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Wright, 47 N.E. 491, 18 Ind.App. 125.

Ticket containing limitations as to use

That part of a ticket providing that its use is limited to the purchaser and the dependent members of his family, and that a transfer will involve its forfeiture, constitutes a contract between the purchaser and the carrier, by the limitations of which he binds himself by accepting the ticket.—Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Evans, 82 N.E. 773, 169 Ind. 410.

59. Minn.—State v. Corbett, 59 N.W. 317, 57 Minn. 345, 350, 24 L.R.A. 498.

60. N.J.—Delaney v. Erie R. Co., 117 A. 395, 97 N.J.Law 434, affirmed 119 A. 924, 98 N.J.Law 558.

"Conclusive force is to be given to the intrinsic effect of a railroad ticket, as expressed on its face, when tendered by the passenger, so the face of the ticket is conclusive evidence to the conductor of the terms of the contract of carriage on which the conductor has a right to rely."—Delaney v. Erie R. Co., 117 A. 395, 97 N.J.Law 434, affirmed 119 A. 924, 98 N.J.Law, 558.

Conclusiveness of ticket as between conductor and passenger see infra § 816.

61. Ill.—See Martin v. Chicago, Duluth & Georgian Bay Transit Co., 194 Ill.App. 480.
Ind.—Calloway v. Mellett, 44 N.E. 198, 15 Ind.App. 366, 57 Am.S.R. 238.
10 C.J. p 692 note 78.
Special contracts generally see infra § 615.

62. Pa.—Golden v. Pittsburg R. Co., 28 Pa.Super. 313.
10 C.J. p 692 note 74.

63. U.S.—Cody v. Central Pac. R. Co., C.C.Nev., 5 F.Cas.No.2,940, 4 Sawy. 114.
10 C.J. p 695 note 14.

64. N.C.—Minnish v. Southern R. Co., 47 S.E. 432, 135 N.C. 342.

65. Ohio.—Ann Arbor R. Co. v. Amos, 97 N.E. 978, 85 Ohio St. 300, 43 L.R.A.,N.S., 587.
10 C.J. p 693 note 83.

rules and regulations of the carrier.[66] The ticket entitles him to transportation within a reasonable time, but not on any particular vehicle used by the carrier.[67] A ticket for a continuous passage is not necessarily a "through" ticket, but may merely indicate that there are no stop-over privileges.[68]

What law governs. In the absence of circumstances indicating that the parties contracted with intent that some other law should govern, a contract evidenced by a railroad ticket is generally governed by the law of the place where it is made, that is, where the ticket is bought;[69] but a special contract which affects only the remedy is governed by the law of the forum.[70]

§ 605. Tickets over Connecting Lines

In the absence of a statute to the contrary or an agreement between the carriers, one carrier does not have the power to bind a connecting carrier by issuing a through ticket over its lines.

In the absence of a statute to the contrary or any arrangement between carriers operating connecting lines, there is no right on the part of either to bind the other by the sale of a ticket for through transportation over the two lines.[71] Where, however, there is such an arrangement, the connecting carrier is bound to honor tickets or coupons sold by the initial carrier for transportation over the connecting line,[72] even after the arrangement has terminated, provided the purchaser had no notice thereof.[73] The initial carrier, in selling the ticket in such a case, acts as the agent of the connecting carrier, although there has been no direct appointment to that effect;[74] but a connecting carrier cannot legally make the initial carrier its agent to sell a ticket for interstate transportation over a route prohibited by tariffs filed with the interstate commerce commission.[75] Where the initial carrier has exceeded its authority, and the purchaser has notice of limitations on such authority, the connecting carrier is not bound to honor the ticket.[76]

Mileage tickets. Where by agreement between two companies each is constituted the agent of the other in the sale of mileage tickets good over both lines, neither may repudiate a ticket over its line sold by the other, on account of the subsequent abrogation of the agreement.[77] Where, however, the mileage ticket specifies the number of miles that may be traveled on each road, the portion of the ticket unused on one road is not available for transportation on the other.[78]

Penalty. Under some statutes, the validity of which has been upheld, a railroad company is required to sell tickets over the lines of a connecting carrier and is subject to a penalty for a violation of this requirement.[79] Such a statute is intended solely to prevent one railroad company from discriminating against a connecting company but it has been held that no liability attaches for the penalty imposed for a refusal to sell a ticket to a point on the line of the connecting company, unless such connecting company has tendered its tickets and requested their sale.[80] Where a connecting line having an office or agency has on sale tickets furnished by another connecting railroad and refuses to sell them to a prospective passenger, the connecting line is subject to the penalty.[81]

66. Ky.—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S.W.2d 356, 362, 240 Ky. 1.
"In the absence of an express contract to the contrary the passenger accepts the ticket subject to the custom and usages, rules and regulations of the carrier, which are uniform and permanent and are intended to protect and promote the comfort, convenience, safety, or health of all passengers alike, and at the same time secure the rights of the carrier."—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, supra.

67. Ky.—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, supra.
Performance of contract to transport on proper train or conveyance see infra § 641.

68. Md.—Stewart Taxi-Service Co. v. Spencer, 132 A. 153, 149 Md. 635.

69. Mo.—Robert v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 127 S.W. 925, 148 Mo.App. 96.
10 C.J. p 693 note 84.

70. Tex.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Dysart, 130 S.W. 1047, 62 Tex.Civ. App. 7.
10 C.J. p 693 note 85.

71. U.S.—Oregon Short Line, etc., R. Co. v. Northern Pac. R. Co., C.C.Or., 51 F. 465, affirmed 61 F. 158, 9 C.C.A. 409
10 C.J. p 693 note 87.
Nature and extent of liability of connecting carriers see infra § 653

72. Tex.—Mexican Cent. R. Co. v. Goodman, Civ.App., 43 S.W. 580.
10 C.J. p 693 note 88.

73. Ind.—Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Berryman, 36 N.E. 728, 11 Ind.App. 640

74. U.S.—Cowen v. Winters, Ohio, 96 F. 929, 37 C.C.A. 628, affirming, C.C., 90 F. 99.
Ind.—Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Berryman, 36 N.E. 728, 11 Ind.App. 640.
Mont.—Brian v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., 105 P. 489, 40 Mont. 109, 25 L.R.A., N.S., 459, 20 Ann.Cas. 311.

75. Ala.—Seaboard Air Line R. Co. v. Patrick, 65 So. 437, 10 Ala.App. 341.
10 C.J. p 693 note 91.

76. U.S.—Anderson v. New York & N. H. R. Co., C.C.Conn., 1 F.Cas. No.360, 6 Am.L.Rev. 754.
Tex.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Carroll, Civ.App., 151 S.W. 1116.

77. U.S.—Cowen v. Winters, Ohio, 96 F. 929, 37 C.C.A. 628, affirming, C.C., 90 F. 99.

78. Ind.—Terre Haute, etc., R. Co. v. Fitzgerald, 47 Ind. 79.

79. Ga.—Stephens v. Central of Georgia R. Co., 75 S.E. 1041, 138 Ga. 625, 42 L.R.A.,N.S., 541, Ann. Cas.1913E 609.
10 C.J. p 694 note 96.

80. Ga.—Jones v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 63 S.E. 627, 132 Ga. 11—Wimberly v. Georgia Southern, etc., R. Co., 63 S.E. 29, 5 Ga.App. 263.
10 C.J. p 694 note 97.

81. Ga.—Stephens v. Central Georgia R. Co., 75 S.E. 1041, 1044, 138

§ 606. Requiring Ticket or Permit on Freight Train

A regulation requiring persons wishing to ride on freight trains to pay fare or to procure a ticket or special permit in advance is reasonable, but the carrier must afford reasonable facilities therefor.

It is a reasonable regulation to require persons wishing to take passage on freight trains to pay fare or to procure a ticket[82] or a special permit[83] in advance. Of course, this right carries with it a corresponding duty on the part of the carrier to afford reasonable facilities for compliance.[84]

§ 607. Transferability of Tickets

a. In general
b. Restriction of use to original purchaser

a. In General

In the absence of a constitutional or statutory prohibition, or of a stipulation to the contrary on the face thereof, an ordinary ticket is transferable.

In the absence of a constitutional or a statutory prohibition, or of a stipulation to the contrary on the face thereof, an ordinary ticket, merely indicating a right to be transported by the carrier between two points named on its line, is transferable,[85] and the right to be transported between the points thus indicated passes by delivery of the ticket to the transferee,[86] although it is purchased from a ticket scalper.[87]

A ticket in coupon form, calling for transportation over connecting lines, with stop-over privileges under certain conditions, is transferable at the terminus of each division.[88]

A train check issued by a conductor in taking up a ticket is not assignable or transferable.[89]

b. Restriction of Use to Original Purchaser

Unless prohibited by statute, a carrier may make its tickets nontransferable, and one other than the original purchaser is not entitled to transportation on such a ticket. A ticket may also be limited to the use of several persons.

Unless prohibited by statute it is competent for a carrier of passengers to restrict the use of its tickets to the original purchaser, and where by a stipulation a ticket is made nontransferable, one other than the person to whom it is issued is not entitled to transportation thereon,[90] as, for example, where the words "not transferable," or words of like import, are printed on the ticket.[91] Thus a railroad company may make special reduced rate tickets nontransferable, and in such a case the original purchaser cannot assign or transfer them, or any rights

Ga. 625, 42 L.R.A.,N.S., 541, Ann. Cas.1913E 609.

"When one railroad places its tickets with another railroad, which has an office or agency and physical connection with the former, this is substantially a request to sell such tickets. And if the carrier having them for sale refuses to sell them at the rate fixed by the railroad commission of this state, this constitutes a discrimination within the purview of the statute, and the carrier so refusing . . . is liable for the penalty provided by . . . statute."—Stephens v. Central of Georgia R. Co., supra.

82. Ark.—McCook v. Northrup, 45 S.W. 547, 65 Ark. 225.
10 C.J. p 694 note 99.
Persons riding on freight trains as passengers see supra § 552.

83. Tex.—Ellis v. Houston East, etc., R. Co., 70 S.W. 114, 30 Tex. Civ.App 172.
10 C.J. p 694 note 1.

84. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Flagg, 43 Ill. 364, 92 Am.D 133
Mo.—Cross v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 56 Mo.App. 664.
Tex.—Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Jackson, Civ.App., 61 S.W. 440.
Opportunity to purchase ticket as affecting right to exact extra fare see supra § 601 b.

85. Ohio.—Knecht v. Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co., 6 Ohio N.P., N.S., 13
10 C.J. p 694 note 3.

86. Ga.—Spencer v. Lovejoy, 23 S.E. 836, 96 Ga 657, 51 Am.S.R. 152.
10 C.J. p 694 note 3.

87. Ohio.—Knecht v. Cleveland, C., C & St. L. Ry. Co., 6 Ohio N.P., N.S., 13.
10 C.J. p 694 note 4.
Authority to sell tickets see supra § 598.

88. Or.—Nichols v. Southern Pac. Co., 31 P. 296, 23 Or. 123, 37 Am.S.R. 664, 18 L.R.A. 55.

89. U.S.—Cody v. Central Pac. R. Co., C.C.Nev., 5 F.Cas.No.2,940, 4 Sawy. 114.
Mo.—Walker v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 15 Mo.App. 333

90. Ky.—Boston v. Southern Pac. Co., 194 S.W. 814, 175 Ky. 641.
10 C.J. p 694 note 7, p 695 note 8.
Use of nontransferable tickets or passes as affecting status of passenger see supra § 560.

Secret or undisclosed regulation

However, "a secret or undisclosed rule or regulation of the railroad company will not avail the company, if the ticket itself is unrestricted in form and the purchaser is without knowledge of such rule."—Knecht v. Cleveland, C., C & St. L. Ry. Co., 6 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 13, 15.

Special agent to dispose of ticket

Where a company delivers a ticket to a person, with power in the latter to sell and transfer the same, buts its validity has on its face been expressly limited to the first purchaser, the effect of the transaction is to constitute such person a special agent to dispose of the ticket on the terms named; and no authority being given such agent to vary the terms, it results that after a sale by the agent and the insertion of the purchaser's name, it becomes valueless in the hands of any other person.—Davis v. South Carolina, etc., R. Co., 33 S.E. 437, 107 Ga 420.

Statute held inapplicable

Under a statute providing that, "when by the terms of an instrument its assignment is prohibited, an assignment of it shall nevertheless be valid," the word "instrument" did not embrace mileage tickets issued at reduced rates, and the use of such a ticket could be restricted to the original purchaser.—Way v. Chicago, etc. R. Co., 19 N.W. 828, 64 Iowa 48, 52 Am.R. 431.

91. U.S.—Cody v. Central Pac. R. Co., C.C.Nev., 5 F.Cas.No.2,940, 4 Sawy. 114.
10 C.J. p 695 note 8.

whatever thereunder, to any third person.[92] Under the Interstate Commerce Act, 49 U.S.C.A. § 1 et seq, which recognizes the power of carriers to issue nontransferable tickets,[93] it is the duty of the railroad company to prevent the wrongful use of such tickets,[94] although under such act a railroad company cannot make a ticket nontransferable unless such limitation is shown in its schedule.[95]

The regular fare may be required of a person, other than the original purchaser, who attempts to travel on a ticket containing such a restriction, notwithstanding he bought it on the assurance of a pretended but unauthorized agent of the company that it would be accepted.[96]

Failure to affix signature. Where the conditions of a nontransferable ticket contemplate that it shall bear the signature of the original purchaser, the fact that it is unsigned will not confer on a third person who purchases it the right to ride on the ticket,[97] unless it is originally sold with the express understanding that it is to be used by such person.[98]

Ticket intended for several persons. A ticket may be limited to the use of several persons, such as the purchaser and the dependent members of his family.[99] It has been held that such a ticket authorizes a son who is residing with the father as a member of his family to travel thereon, notwithstanding he has attained his majority, unless at the time of purchase the purchaser is informed that a son over twenty-one years of age will not, under the regulations of the company, be allowed to ride on it.[1]

Ticket issued in wrong name. Where a ticket, on its face not transferable, is issued in the name of the wrong person, the conductor may refuse to receive it when tendered by the person for whom it was in fact purchased.[2]

Transferee cannot avoid transfer. The nontransferable clause is one which the carrier may insist on or waive at its election, and hence a transferee of the use of such a ticket cannot take advantage of the clause to avoid his liability to the owner of the ticket.[3]

Injunction. Persons may be enjoined from buying and selling tickets issued at reduced rates to persons who contract and bind themselves not to transfer them, the nontransferability being clearly apparent on the face of the tickets.[4]

§ 608. Forfeiture of Ticket

Nontransferable tickets may be forfeited and taken up by the carrier when presented by a person not entitled to ride thereon.

A carrier selling a ticket at a reduced rate, under an agreement that it shall not be transferred, may forfeit it when presented by one not entitled to ride thereunder,[5] particularly where there is a stipulation between the carrier and the purchaser which gives it the right to forfeit his ticket if presented by another person,[6] as where the filed tariffs of the carrier contain a provision to that effect.[7] The carrier may invoke the aid of equity to cancel the contract because of the fraud thus perpetrated,[8] or, if the ticket is used by another, it may sue for dam-

92. Ky.—Boston v. Southern Pac. Co., 194 S.W. 814, 175 Ky. 641.
10 C.J. p 695 note 9.

Return trip ticket
Where a private individual sold a return trip ticket at a price less than the single fare, the buyer had no right to use it when it contained a stipulation that it could be used only by the original purchaser, especially in view of the fact that his use would be a violation of the federal statute requiring uniform rates.—Boston v. Southern Pac. Co., 194 S.W. 814, 175 Ky. 641.

93. Ky—Boston v. Southern Pac. Co., supra.
10 C.J. p 695 note 11 [a].

94. U.S.—Bitterman v. Louisville & N. R. Co., La., 28 S.Ct. 91, 207 U.S. 205, 52 L.Ed. 171, 12 Ann.Cas. 693, affirming 144 F. 34, 75 C.C.A. 192.
10 C.J. p 695 note 11

95. U.S.—Baltimore & O. R. Co v. Hamburger, C.C.Va., 155 F. 849.
10 C.J. p 695 note 12.

96. Utah.—Drummond v. Southern Pac. Co., 25 P. 733, 7 Utah 118.

97. Minn.—Rahilly v. St Paul, etc., R. Co., 68 N.W. 853, 66 Minn. 153.
10 C.J. p 695 note 17.

98. Kan.—Jevons v Union Pac. R Co., 78 P. 817, 70 Kan. 491.
Tex.—Southern Pac R Co. v. Bailey, Civ.App., 91 S.W. 820.
10 C.J p 695 note 18.

99. Ind—Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Evans, 82 N.E. 773, 169 Ind. 410
10 C.J. p 696 note 21.

1. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Chisholm, 79 Ill 584.

2. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Bannerman, 15 Ill.App. 100.
10 C.J. p 695 note 19.

3. N.Y.—Bartlett v. Cook, 100 N.Y.S. 1036, 115 App.Div. 836—Cook v. Bartlett, 100 N.Y.S. 1032, 115 App. Div. 829
10 C.J. p 695 note 16.

4. Ohio—Kinner v. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co., 69 N.E. 614, 69 Ohio St. 339.
10 C.J. p 696 note 25.

5. N.Y.—Cantor v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 278 N.Y.S 448, 155 Misc. 805, reversing 270 N.Y.S. 346, 150 Misc 844.
10 C.J p 696 note 26.

6. N.J.—Harris v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 72 A. 50, 77 N.J.Law 278.
10 C.J. p 696 note 27.

7. N.Y.—Weinstein v. Long Island R. Co., 282 N.Y.S. 865, 157 Misc. 117.

Construction
Tariff provisions are strictly construed where a penalty or forfeiture is invoked.—Weinstein v. Long Island R Co., 282 N.Y.S. 865, 157 Misc 117.

Filed tariffs as part of contract
The filed tariffs of the carrier are a part of the contract between it and the purchaser of a commutation ticket—Weinstein v. Long Island R Co, 282 N.Y.S. 865, 157 Misc. 117—Cantor v. Pennsylvania R Co., 278 N.Y.S. 448, 155 Misc. 805, reversing 270 N.Y.S. 346, 150 Misc. 844.

8. Mo.—Schubach v. McDonald, 73 S.W. 1020, 179 Mo. 163, 101 Am S R. 452, 65 L.R.A. 136, appeal dis-ages for the breach of the contract.[9]

While there is authority that the right to forfeit can only arise out of a wrongful act on the part of the owner of the ticket,[10] and that no such right exists where the ticket is presented by a third person without the owner's authority,[11] it has also been held that the carrier may forfeit a ticket which the original owner has lost, and which has been subsequently presented to the carrier by a stranger.[12] The presentation of a mileage book by the original purchaser for the transportation of another accompanying him does not justify a forfeiture of the book under a rule providing for its forfeiture if presented by anyone other than the original purchaser.[13]

A ticket fraudulently obtained from the carrier is subject to forfeiture in the hands of a purchaser, although he had no knowledge of the fraud.[14]

Where the carrier wrongfully forfeits a ticket, it will be liable to the owner thereof for damages.[15]

Waiver. A carrier does not waive its right to forfeit a ticket because of a previous improper use, by subsequently honoring the ticket, unless in so doing it has knowledge or notice of the improper use.[16]

Right to take up ticket. Where a ticket, by its terms nontransferable, is presented by one other than the original purchaser, the conductor may, in accordance with the provisions of the ticket, take up the ticket and demand full fare,[17] and the holder is not entitled to demand the return of the dishonored ticket as a condition precedent to payment of fare, even though it is wrongfully taken up, if it is a ticket on which the passenger is not entitled to ride.[18] The right to take up a ticket is not limited to the occasion when presented by a third person, but it may be taken up when subsequently presented by the rightful holder.[19] It has been held, however, under a statute requiring railroads to issue mileage books, that a company cannot prescribe as a condition that, if presented by a person other than the one named therein, the book shall be taken up.[20] A condition that, if the purchaser fails to comply with the terms of the ticket, the company may "refuse to accept" it does not give the conductor the right to take it up when found in the hands of a third person, but merely the right to refuse to honor it.[21]

Ticket issued under assumed name. Where the ticket is limited to the original purchaser, and purports to contain his name and a description of his personal appearance, and is issued to another purchaser under an assumed name with the knowledge and assent of the agent, the conductor may not take up the ticket when presented by the purchaser for transportation.[22] It has also been held that the carrier cannot confiscate a mileage ticket purchased by a broker in a fictitious name without offering to return the money paid.[23]

§ 609. Exhibition and Surrender of Tickets

A carrier may make regulations requiring passengers to exhibit and surrender their tickets to the proper train officials at suitable and reasonable times.

A carrier may make regulations requiring passengers to exhibit and surrender their tickets to the proper train officials at suitable and reasonable times;[24] and such regulations will not be condemn-missed 25 S.Ct. 797, 196 U.S. 644, 49 L.Ed. 632.

9. Mo.—Schubach v. McDonald, supra.

10. N.J.—Harris v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 72 A. 50, 77 N.J.Law 278

Proof of permission or connivance important

"Where the company insists on a forfeiture, it . . . becomes important for it to prove not only that the ticket had been offered wrongfully, but that this had been done with the permission or connivance of the owner."—Harris v. Delaware, etc., R. Co, 72 A. 50, 77 N.J.Law 278, 282.

11. Minn.—Mueller v. Chicago, etc., R. Co, 77 N.W. 566, 75 Minn. 109.
N.J.—Harris v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 72 A. 50, 77 N.J.Law 278.
10 C.J. p 696 note 28.

12. N.Y.—Cantor v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 278 N.Y.S. 448, 155 Misc. 805, reversing 270 N.Y.S. 346, 150 Misc. 844.

But it has been held that tariff provisions relating to the taking up and forfeiture of tickets apply "only to cases where the ticket has been wrongfully transferred, not where it has been lost by reason of the holder's negligence or stolen"—Weinstein v. Long Island R. Co, 282 N.Y.S. 865, 868, 157 Misc. 117.

13. U.S.—Southern R. Co. v. Campbell, 36 S.Ct. 33, 239 U.S. 99, 60 L.Ed. 165, affirming 77 S.E. 745, 94 S.C. 95.

14. Ohio.—Frank v. Ingalls, 41 Ohio St. 560.

15. S.C.—Smith v. Southern R. Co., 71 S.E. 47, 88 S.C. 541.
10 C.J. p 697 note 42.

16. Ind.—Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Evans, 82 N.E. 773, 169 Ind. 410

17. N.J.—Colton v. Delaware, etc., R. Co, 77 A. 1020, 80 N.J.Law 592.
10 C.J. p 696 note 35.

18. Minn.—Rahilly v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 68 N.W. 853, 66 Minn. 153.

19. N.J.—Trupin v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co, 93 A. 93, 87 N.J.Law 9—Harris v Delaware, etc., R. Co., 72 A. 50, 77 N.J.Law 278.

20. N.Y.—Watson v. New York, etc., R. Co, 54 N.Y.S. 201, 24 Misc. 628.

21. Neb.—Post v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 15 N.W. 225, 14 Neb. 110, 45 Am.R. 100.

22. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Pendergast, 75 Ill.App. 133.

23. Ohio.—Morton v. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co., 5 Ohio S. & C.P. 580, 7 Ohio N.P 605.

24. Miss.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Cox, 96 So. 685, 132 Miss. 471.
10 C.J. p 697 note 44.
Ejection for refusal to exhibit or surrender ticket see infra § 810.

ed unless they are palpably unjust and oppressive.[25] Thus a passenger may lawfully be required to produce his ticket before entering the train,[26] and to this end the railroad company may require passengers to enter at certain doors, provided sufficient facilities are afforded, and may close other doors to prevent entrance therein of passengers.[27] A passenger may also be required to exhibit his ticket on passing through the carrier's gates for the purpose of taking a train,[28] and the gateman may, in the exercise of his judgment, refuse to allow a person to pass through the gate on a defective ticket.[29] The passenger may also be required to exhibit his ticket whenever reasonably requested by the conductor,[30] even two or more times.[31]

The conductor of a connecting carrier is not authorized to agree on behalf of another carrier that a passenger may be carried by the latter without exhibiting a ticket.[32]

Surrender of tickets A carrier may require a passenger to surrender his ticket after securing a seat in the car or other vehicle used for transportation.[33] Where a passenger with a ticket to a flag station has been overlooked by the conductor, it is his duty to call the conductor's attention to the fact, and surrender his ticket, in order that the conductor may know the passenger's destination, and have the train stopped for him to alight.[34]

§ 610. Right to Token in Exchange

Unless the passenger's destination is the next station, he should not be required to surrender his ticket without receiving a check or other token as evidence of payment of fare.

It is not unreasonable to require a passenger to render up his ticket at any time in the course of his journey, provided a conductor's check is given him in exchange.[35] He may in like manner be required to deliver it up without receiving such a check, provided the next station at which the train stops is his point of destination.[36] He should not, however, be required to part with his ticket without receiving a check or other adequate token of payment of fare, at a considerable distance from his point of destination, when there are intervening stations at which the train stops.[37] It is incumbent on the conductor to exercise care in seeing that, after he has taken the passenger's ticket, the latter is provided with a check or other evidence of his right of continuing his journey;[38] and where it is necessary for the passenger to change, for the performance of the road's contract, it is necessary that the conductor, after taking up the passenger's ticket, should return it to him before reaching the changing point, or in place thereof, should give him something that the new conductor will accept for passage to his destination.[39] Where a passenger's ticket has been taken from him, and not returned, he may buy another ticket and sue the carrier for its price.[40]

25. N.Y.—Vedder v. Fellows, 20 N.Y. 126.

26. Miss—Illinois Cent R. Co v. Cox, 96 So. 685, 132 Miss. 471.
10 C.J. p 697 note 46.

"Such rules are reasonable and tend to benefit the passenger and the carrier in preventing mistakes and disputes"—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Cox, 96 So. 685, 132 Miss. 471.

Damage

The fact that a servant of a carrier insists on the exhibition by the passengers of tickets or transportation before entering its trains, in a manner not insulting, does not afford an item or element of damage to a passenger, and where such a rule is adopted it is error to instruct the jury in a suit for damages that it was the duty of the carrier to admit the passenger on presenting himself if he had a ticket, when he refused to exhibit the ticket when requested to do so—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Cox, 96 So. 685, 132 Miss. 471.

27. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Dyer, 170 S.W. 1013, 115 Ark. 262.

28. D.C.—Watkins v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 21 D.C. 1.

Md.—Northern Cent. R. Co. v. O'Conner, 24 A. 449, 76 Md. 207, 35 Am.S.R. 422, 16 L.R.A. 449.

Minn.—Dickerman v. St. Paul Union Depot Co., 46 N.W. 907, 44 Minn 433.

29. Md.—Northern Cent. R. Co. v. O'Conner, 24 A 449, 76 Md. 207, 35 Am.S.R. 422, 16 L.R.A. 449.

30. N.Y.—Robinson v. New York, etc., R. Co., 150 N.Y.S. 925, 165 App.Div. 429.
10 C.J. p 697 note 50.

31. N.Y.—Hibbard v. New York, etc., R. Co., 15 N.Y. 455.
10 C.J. p 697 note 51.

32. N.Y.—Robinson v. New York, etc., R. Co., 150 N.Y.S. 925, 165 App.Div. 429.

33. Ill.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Louthan, 80 Ill.App. 579.
Duty to furnish seat as condition to surrender of ticket see infra § 645.

34. Ga.—Georgia Cent. R. Co. v. Dorsey, 32 S.E. 873, 106 Ga. 826.
10 C.J. p 698 note 53.
Duty to stop at flag stations see infra § 655.

35. N.Y.—Northern R. Co. v. Page, 22 Barb. 130.

36. Ill.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Whittemore, 43 Ill. 420, 92 Am.D. 138.

37. N.H.—State v. Thompson, 20 N.H. 250.

38. Cal.—Sloane v. Southern California R. Co. 44 P. 320, 111 Cal. 668, 32 L.R.A. 193.

Reason for rule

"The passenger is not required to question the action of the conductor in taking up his ticket, but has to assume that his conduct in taking or withholding the ticket is in accordance with the rules of the company. It is therefore incumbent upon the conductor to exercise more than ordinary care in seeing that, after he has taken the ticket from the passenger, the latter shall be provided with the means of continuing the journey."—Sloane v. Southern California R. Co., 44 P. 320, 325, 111 Cal. 668, 32 L.R.A. 193.

39. N.C.—Sawyer v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 86 S.E. 166, 171 N.C. 13.

40. N.Y.—Stewart v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 88 N.Y.S. 377.

§ 611. Holder of Commutation Ticket

A commutation ticket holder must produce such ticket on proper demand and on failure so to do may be required to pay the ordinary fare.

A person traveling on a commutation ticket must produce the same when required by the conductor, although known by the latter to be the holder of such a ticket,[41] and if he fails or refuses so to do, he may be required to pay the ordinary fare,[42] or, as will be hereinafter pointed out in § 810, he may be ejected.

A regulation that monthly commutation tickets shall be surrendered by the holders to the conductor on the last trip taken during the periods for which they are issued is reasonable.[43]

§ 612. Coupon Tickets; Detachment of Coupons

A rule that the carrier will not accept coupon tickets if detached is reasonable, although such a provision should not be enforced in case the detachment is not the fault of the passenger.

A carrier has the right to use coupon books, and, in consideration of the reduced rate at which they are sold, to provide that the coupons will not be accepted if detached.[44] Such a provision is reasonable and valid,[45] and in such a case tender of a detached coupon is ordinarily not sufficient to entitle the passenger to transportation.[46] Such a stipulation should not, however, be insisted on where the detachment is made without the fault of the passenger.[47] If, while the passenger is detaching a coupon, the conductor calls the passenger's attention to the fact that it is the conductor's duty to detach it, he should desist and hand the ticket and coupons to the conductor, and it will then be the duty of the latter, if he saw the coupons detached, or can readily ascertain that they have been detached from the ticket, to accept them, but the conductor will not be bound to receive the detached coupons without seeing the ticket.[48]

A practice of accepting detached coupons may constitute a waiver of the stipulation.[49]

§ 613. Where Ticket Is Lost

A passenger who has lost his ticket has no right to demand transportation.

The rule requiring the exhibition of a ticket applies, even though the passenger had a ticket but has lost it;[50] and there is no distinction in the rights of the passenger whether he loses or mislays his ticket before boarding the train or subsequently;[51] or whether he exhibited his ticket to an employee stationed at the door of the car for such purpose.[52] Where a commutation ticket is purchased at a price less than regular fare, and contains a condition requiring it to be presented by the holder to the conductor on each trip, presentation is a condition precedent to the right of the purchaser to be transported on it, and the rule is not changed by the fact of the loss of the ticket.[53]

§ 614. Redemption of Unused Ticket

At common law a carrier is under no obligation to redeem an unused ticket. Statutory provisions subjecting the carrier to a penalty for refusing to redeem unused tickets are strictly construed.

At common law, a carrier is under no obligation to redeem an unused ticket,[54] particularly where the ticket is sold at a special rate, with the condi-

41. N.J.—Ripley v. New Jersey, R. etc., Co., 31 N.J.Law 388.
Ohio.—Crawford v Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 26 Ohio St. 580.

42. Conn.—Downs v. New York, etc., R. Co., 36 Conn. 287, 4 Am. R. 77.

43. N.J.—Rogers v. Atlantic City R. Co., 34 A. 11, 57 N.J Law 703.
Pa.—Bennett v. Railroad Co., 7 Phila. 11.

44. Ark.—Ft. Smith & Van Buren Dist. v. Kidd, 241 S.W. 374, 153 Ark. 489.
Detaching coupons as terminating relation of passenger and carrier see supra § 563.

45. Mass.—Boston, etc., R. Co. v Chipman, 14 N.E. 940, 146 Mass. 107, 4 Am.S.R. 293.
10 C.J. p 698 note 65.

46. Md.—United R., etc., Co. v. Hardesty, 51 A. 406, 94 Md. 661, 57 L.R.A. 275.
10 C.J. p 698 note 66.

47. Miss.—Fairfield v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 48 So. 513, 94 Miss. 887, 136 Am.S.R. 611, 19 Ann.Cas. 456.
Wis.—Wightman v. Chicago, etc., R. Co, 73 Wis. 169, 40 N.W. 689, 9 Am.S.R. 778, 2 L.R.A. 185.
10 C.J. p 698 note 68.

48. Tenn.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Harris, 9 Lea 180, 42 Am.R. 668.

49. Ind.—Pennsylvania Co. v. Bray, 25 N.E. 439, 125 Ind. 229.
Minn.—Thompson v. Truesdale, 63 N W. 259, 61 Minn. 129, 52 Am.S.R 579.

50. Ga.—Harp v. Southern R. Co., 47 S.E. 206, 119 Ga. 927, 100 Am. S.R. 212.
Ejection of passenger for failure to produce ticket see infra § 810.

Passenger's loss

A passenger who loses his ticket has no right to be carried on making or offering to make proof that the one paid for has been lost; the loss falls on him, and not on the carrier.—Harp v. Southern Ry. Co., 47 S.E. 206, 119 Ga. 927, 100 Am.S.R. 212.

51. Ga.—Harp v. Southern Ry. Co., supra.
Tenn.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Fleming, 14 Lea 128.

52. Ga.—Harp v. Southern Ry. Co., 47 S.E 206, 119 Ga. 927, 100 Am. S.R 212.
Tenn.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Fleming, 14 Lea 128.
10 C.J. p 699 note 72.

53. Ga.—Southern R. Co. v. De Sausure, 42 S.E. 479, 116 Ga. 53.
N.J.—Rogers v. Atlantic City R. Co., 34 A. 11, 57 N.J.Law 703
10 C.J. p 699 note 73.

54. Tex.—Neubert v. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co., Civ.App., 248 S.W. 141.
10 C.J. p 699 note 75.

Either contractual or statutory

A provision for the redemption of tion that the company shall not be required to refund because of its nonuser.[55] Accordingly, a carrier, having sold a ticket, may, in the absence of a statute, treat the purchase price as having been irrevocably paid, as long as it stands ready to furnish the transportation.[56]

Where so required by statute, carriers of passengers are required to redeem unused tickets or parts of tickets issued by them, or be liable to a prescribed penalty.[57] Such a statute is reasonable,[58] and enters into the contract of carriage.[59] In so far as such a statute provides for a forfeiture, it is highly penal in nature and should be strictly construed.[60] It applies only to those purchasing tickets in good faith and for actual use;[61] and it has no application to tickets for interstate transportation,[62] or to tickets used by the original purchaser and thereafter sold by him, although the transferee is without notice of such fact.[63] A statutory requirement that provision shall be made for the redemption of tickets is not satisfied by the mere appointment of one person as the one through whom redemption must be made.[64]

Under statutes requiring the redemption of such tickets as the purchaser or owner has not used or received transportation for, it has been held that the carrier may reasonably require, as a condition of the redemption, that ticket holders surrender their tickets and submit a written statement as to why the ticket was not used.[65] On the other hand, it has been held under a statute containing no provision requiring, as a condition of redemption, that the purchaser of a ticket sign a receipt or statement of facts concerning it, that failure to sign such a statement is no defense to an action to recover the penalty, at least in the absence of a request so to do.[66] Where the statute limits the right of redemption to persons who shall have purchased the ticket from an authorized agent of the railroad company, an assignee of a nontransferable ticket may not require the railroad company to redeem it.[67]

Sufficiency of demand for redemption. Where the agent knows that the holder is at the ticket office with the tickets then in his possession, for the purpose of asking that they be redeemed, and the agent declines to redeem them, the necessity for a more formal offer and demand is thereby obviated.[68]

Place and time of redemption. Under some stat-an unused, or partially unused, railroad ticket necessarily is either a part of the contract between the carrier and the passenger, or read into the contract because of the existence of a valid law to that effect. —Neubert v Chicago, R I. & G. Ry. Co., 296 S.W. 1090, 116 Tex. 644, 53 A.L.R. 1224.

55. Ga.—Southern R. Co. v. De Sausure, 42 S.E. 479, 116 Ga. 53.
10 C.J. p 699 note 76.

56. N.Y.—Salomon v. New York Cent. etc., R. Co., 150 N.Y.S. 282, 165 App Div. 35

57. Tex.—Neubert v. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co., Civ.App., 248 S.W. 141.
10 C.J. p 699 note 77, p 700 note 78,

Sufficiency of pleading in penalty action; rescission

In an action seeking judgment for the price of an unused ticket and for the statutory penalty for refusing to redeem such ticket, the pleading states no equitable grounds for rescission where it does not allege that the ticket was presented to the company when redemption was demanded, or that the holder is able and willing to return the ticket, or that the holder offers to do equity, or contains any excuse for these omissions.—Neubert v. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co., Tex.Civ.App., 248 S.W. 141.

58. Tex.—Neubert v. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co., 296 S.W. 1090, 116 Tex. 644, 53 A.L.R. 1224.

59. Ill.—Burn v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 153 Ill.App. 319.

60. Iowa.—Prichard v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 166 N.W. 299, 182 Iowa 894.

61. Iowa.—Cook v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 113 N.W. 1079, 136 Iowa 497—Jolley v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 93 N.W. 555, 119 Iowa 491.

Good faith of purchaser

It has been held that such a statute was intended for the benefit of those purchasing tickets in good faith and for actual use, and may not be invoked by one who procures tickets with the sole object of bringing suit against the company in the event of its failure to redeem, and thereby recovering a penalty and seeking revenge for past difficulties. —Cook v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 113 N.W. 1079, 136 Iowa 497—Jolley v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 93 N.W. 555, 119 Iowa 491.

62. Tex.—Neubert v. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co., 296 S.W. 1090, 116 Tex. 644, 53 A.L.R. 1224—Neubert v. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co., Civ.App., 248 S.W. 141.

"We are of opinion . . . that the statutes . . have no application to interstate commerce, but that they were intended to apply, and do apply, only to intrastate commerce."—Neubert v. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co., 296 S.W. 1090, 1094, 116 Tex. 644, 53 A.L.R. 1224.

63. Tex.—Levinson v. Texas, etc., R. Co., 43 S.W. 901, 17 Tex.Civ. App. 617.

64. Iowa.—Rohrig v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 106 N.W. 935, 130 Iowa 380.
10 C.J. p 700 note 85.

Telegraph operator's refusal to redeem

Where redemption is demanded of a telegraph operator who is relieving the station agent, his refusal to redeem will render the carrier liable for the penalty, and the mere fact that the regular ticket agent had been authorized to redeem the tickets is no excuse.—Rohrig v. Chicago, R. I & P. Ry. Co., 106 N.W. 935, 130 Iowa 380.

65. Iowa.—Prichard v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 166 N.W. 299, 182 Iowa 894.

Posting conditions as notice

Where a carrier has complied with statutory provisions in posting conditions for redemption of unused tickets, a ticket holder is charged with notice of such conditions.—Prichard v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 166 N.W. 299, 182 Iowa 894.

66. N.Y.—Thompson v. New York Cent. R. Co., 195 N.Y.S. 954, 119 Misc. 99.

67. N.Y.—Salomon v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 150 N.Y.S. 282, 165 App.Div. 35.

68. Iowa.—Jolley v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 93 N.W. 555, 119 Iowa 491.

utes redemption is required to be made at the place of purchase, and it is no defense, in an action to recover a penalty for a refusal to redeem, that the ticket holder was directed to apply for redemption at a different place.[69]

Under statutes prescribing the time within which redemption must be made, the carrier's liability for the price of the ticket and for the prescribed penalty attaches, on the mere neglect of the company to redeem within the prescribed time after demand,[70] and the holder is not required to return to the company's office for his money within such time after demand.[71] However, immediate payment upon the date of demand is not required,[72] since the carrier may employ, for the purposes of redemption, processes of disbursement which are most orderly to it.[73] Where the carrier does not limit the period within which redemption shall be demanded, as authorized by such a statute, demand is timely if made within the period of the general statute of limitations.[74]

3. Conditions and Limitations; Special Contracts

§ 615. In General

A ticket may be issued containing special conditions and limitations, and, if reasonable, may be such as to constitute a special contract.

A ticket may be issued containing special conditions or limitations, that is, it may be such as to constitute a special contract.[75] Thus a carrier is under no general obligation to carry anyone for less than the regular rates, and if it does so for special accommodation, any reasonable condition imposed on the passenger should be performed, and in default of performance he may be required to pay the regular fare.[76] Where a ticket is such as to constitute a special contract, its terms will not be affected by any general representations of the carrier, by posted notices, advertisement, or otherwise, as to the effect of such tickets;[77] and the posting of notices in waiting rooms and ticket offices, and on the cars, putting conditions or limitations on ordinary tickets, is not sufficient to charge a passenger with notice thereof.[78]

The conditions attached even in the case of a special contract ticket must be reasonable.[79] A condition in a ticket that in case of error or dispute the passenger agrees to pay the regular fare and to apply at the carrier's office for correction and reimbursement is unreasonable and void.[80]

Time of making. Ordinarily the actual contract between the carrier and the prospective passenger arises when the ticket is purchased,[81] but arrangements may be made in advance for transportation for a special occasion or trip, and such arrangements may constitute a special contract,[82] although made prior to the purchase of a ticket.[83]

Mileage ticket. Limitations and restrictions on the use of a mileage ticket when properly made a 69. Iowa.—Shaw v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co., 113 N.W. 478.

70. Iowa.—Jolley v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 93 N.W. 555, 119 Iowa 491.

71. Iowa.—Prichard v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 166 N.W. 299, 300, 182 Iowa 894.
10 C.J. p. 700 note 87.
"The patron need not repeat his demand nor present himself a second time."—Prichard v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., supra.

72. Iowa.—Prichard v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., supra.
10 C.J. p. 699 note 77 [c] (2).

73. Tex.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Beaird, Civ.App., 169 S.W. 1050.

74. Iowa.—Jolley v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 93 N.W. 555, 119 Iowa 491.

75. Mont.—Sanden v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 115 P. 408, 43 Mont. 209, 34 L.R.A.,N.S., 711.
10 C.J. p. 700 note 90.
Limitation of, or exemption from, liability see infra §§ 625–639.

76. Ind.—Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Evans, 82 N.E. 773, 169 Ind. 410.
10 C.J. p. 700 note 91.

77. Minn.—Dunlap v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 28 N.W. 240, 35 Minn. 203.
Miss.—Howard v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 61 Miss. 194.

78. Tenn.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Turner, 47 S.W. 223, 100 Tenn. 213, 43 L.R.A. 140.
10 C.J. p. 700 note 93.

79. Kan.—Freeman v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 80 P. 592, 71 Kan. 327, 6 Ann.Cas. 118.
10 C.J. p. 701 note 94.

80. Ga.—Georgia R., etc., Co. v. Baker, 54 S.E. 639, 125 Ga. 562, 114 Am.S.R. 246, 7 L.R.A.,N.S., 103, 5 Ann.Cas. 484.
10 C.J. p. 701 note 96.

Mere advice
It has been held that a provision on a ticket, printed under the head "caution," that in cases of doubt the passenger should pay the rate which the conductor demands, take his receipt, and report to the general office is mere advice and not a part of the ticket.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Gortikov, 45 So. 363, 90 Miss. 787, 122 Am.S.R. 324, 14 L.R.A.,N.S., 464.

81. Ohio.—Canadian Pac. Ry. Co. v. Meier, 156 N.E. 150, 23 Ohio App. 394.

82. Ky.—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S.W.2d 356, 240 Ky. 1.
Ohio.—Canadian Pac. Ry. Co. v. Meier, 156 N.E. 150, 23 Ohio App. 394.

Arrangement by telephone from hotel with bus company for transportation of passengers constituted contract with carrier.—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S.W.2d 356, 240 Ky. 1.

Not mere offer
Reservations for touring party were not mere offer by carrier but contract unaffected by advance in rates before deposit was due.—Canadian Pac. Ry. Co. v. Meier, 156 N.E. 150, 23 Ohio App. 394.

83. Ohio.—Canadian Pac. Ry. Co. v. Meier, supra.

Purchase of space for touring party, to be paid for by date certain or have space sold for purchaser's account, created special contract with carrier prior to purchase of ticket.—Canadian Pac. Ry. Co. v. Meier, 156 N.E. 150, 23 Ohio App. 394.

part of the contract are binding on the purchaser.[84] Thus a purchaser of an interchangeable mileage book is bound by a condition that undetached coupons shall be honored on trains only for transportation from a nonagency station, or from an agency station not open for the sale of tickets;[85] and, where offices are open for the sale of tickets and the holder of such a book has a reasonable opportunity so to do, he is required to present the book and procure an exchange mileage ticket, and if he fails so to do he cannot tender coupons from the book for his transportation;[86] but where the holder is prevented from exchanging coupons for a mileage ticket, as by reason of the company's failure to afford him reasonable facilities for making the exchange, the book becomes a complete contract for carriage entitling him to carriage without exchanging the coupons for a ticket.[87] Where the holder boards a train at a nonagency station he is entitled to ride to the end of his journey without getting off at any intermediate station to exchange his mileage coupons for a ticket.[88]

Mutilated ticket. To mutilate a ticket within the meaning of a stipulation on its face that it shall not be good for passage if mutilated in any way, it must be deprived of some essential part, and hence a ticket is valid, although torn in two pieces, where both pieces are presented to the conductor at the same time and it is apparent that they are parts of the same ticket, that together they form the entire ticket, and that no fraud has been perpetrated on the railroad company.[89] Although a street railroad company, pursuant to its rules, may refuse a transfer ticket which is mutilated after coming into possession of a passenger, it cannot refuse a ticket mutilated before it is given to him.[90]

Deficiency under special tariff. In the absence of a contract guaranteeing the number of passengers, persons who induce a carrier to publish with the interstate commerce commission a special tariff for a minimum number of passengers, and who deposit a sum of money as evidence of their good faith, are not liable for any deficiency arising under the tariff.[91]

84. Miss.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Holman, 64 So. 7, 106 Miss. 449.
N.Y.—Horton v. Erie R. Co., 83 N.Y.S. 733, 86 App.Div. 379, appeal dismissed 72 N.E. 1152, 179 N.Y. 589.

Discrimination

(1) Conditions of mileage coupons exchanged with a newspaper publisher for advertising fixing a time limit, and naming the person entitled to use them, and withholding pro rata value of unused mileage, upon the holder's failure to redeem the same, are not extortion under the statute, nor unjust discrimination in the absence of allegation that timely demand was made for transportation, and that limitations complained of were not included in mileage coupons issued to other publishers.—Russell v. St. Louis & S. W. Ry. Co. of Texas, Tex.Civ.App., 250 S.W. 1076.

(2) There was no unjust discrimination by a railroad against a publisher where there was no showing that limitations in mileage coupons issued in payment of advertising were not similar to limitations contained in all mileage coupons issued to other publishers for like contemporaneous services.—Russell v. St. Louis & S. W. Ry. Co. of Texas, supra.

Good for intra-state journeys only

(1) A provision that the ticket shall be accepted for transportation only for journeys wholly within the state is enforceable.
Ga.—State R. Commn. v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 80 S.E. 327, 140 Ga. 817, L.R.A.1915E 902, Ann.Cas. 1915A 1018.
Miss.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Holman, 64 So. 7, 106 Miss. 449.
N.Y.—Horton v. Erie R. Co., 72 N.Y.S. 1018, 65 App.Div. 587, 10 N.Y.Ann.Cas. 321.

(2) However, it has been held that such a provision should be construed to mean that it will be accepted for only so much of a journey as lies within the state, and that, where one takes a trip from a point within to one without the state, he may pay for the part within the state with his mileage.—Horton v. Erie R. Co., 83 N.Y.S. 733, 86 App.Div. 379, appeal dismissed 72 N.E. 1152, 179 N.Y. 589.

(3) The latter construction, however, will not prevail where the ticket expressly provides otherwise.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Holman, supra.

Limitations and restrictions not authorized by statute are not binding on the purchaser where there is no consideration for any agreement on his part to limit the use of the ticket further than prescribed by statute.
N.Y.—Parish v. Ulster, etc., R. Co., 85 N.E. 153, 192 N.Y. 353.—Horton v. Erie R. Co., 72 N.Y.S. 1018, 65 App.Div. 587, 10 N.Y.Ann.Cas. 321.—Watson v. New York, etc., R. Co., 54 N.Y.S. 201, 24 Misc. 628.
S.C.—Eberle v. Southern R. Co., 79 S.E. 793, 98 S.C. 89.
10 C.J. p 701 note 8.

85. Ga.—Perry v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 70 S.E. 1122, 9 Ga.App. 260
S.C.—Des Portes v. Southern R. Co., 69 S.E. 148, 87 S.C. 160.
Tenn.—N., etc., R. Co. v. Read, 4 Tenn.Civ.A. 98.

86. Ga.—Perry v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 70 S.E. 1122, 9 Ga.App. 260.
N.C.—Harvey v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 69 S.E. 627, 153 N.C. 567.
S.C.—Des Portes v. Southern R. Co., 69 S.E. 148, 87 S.C. 160.
10 C.J. p 701 note 5.

87. N.C.—Harvey v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 69 S.E. 627, 153 N.C. 567.
S.C.—Des Portes v. Southern R. Co., 69 S.E. 148, 87 S.C. 160.

Negligent attendance of ticket agent

A passenger unable to procure an exchange ticket because of the negligent attendance of the carrier's ticket agent is not entitled to transportation without such ticket.—Robb v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 14 Pa.Super. 282.

88. Tenn.—N., etc., R. Co. v. Read, 4 Tenn.Civ.App. 98.

89. Ga.—Young v. Georgia Cent. R. Co., 47 S.E. 556, 120 Ga. 25, 102 Am.S.R. 68, 65 L.R.A. 436, 1 Ann.Cas. 24.

90. N.Y.—Koch v. New York City R. Co., 95 N.Y.S. 559.

91. Mo.—St. Louis Electric Terminal Ry. Co. v. Buechel, App., 213 S.W. 177.

§ 616. Knowledge and Assent of Passenger

Conditions printed on a ticket attempting to limit the purchaser's right to transportation are ineffective, unless his attention is called to them or they are known and assented to by him.

While there may be some uncertainty and even conflict in the authorities,[92] in accordance with the rule already discussed in § 603 that an ordinary ticket bought at the usual full fare and not for a special occasion is regarded as a mere receipt or voucher evidencing the purchaser's right to be carried, it is generally held that conditions printed on the ticket attempting to limit the purchaser's unlimited right of transportation are of no effect unless his attention is called to them or they are known and assented to by him, the mere acceptance of the ticket not being enough to make them a part of the contract.[93] This is particularly true where the system of figures and punches used to indicate the condition or limitation is not easily understood by a person of ordinary intelligence,[94] or where the words are printed in such fine type that they cannot be read without the aid of a powerful magnifying glass.[95]

§ 617. Special Tickets or Contracts

In the absence of fraud or mistake, a purchaser accepting or signing a special contract ticket containing reasonable conditions will be presumed to have assented thereto, although he did not in fact read them. Secret limitations on the authority of a general agent do not exempt the carrier from liability on contracts within the apparent scope of his authority.

As already noted in § 603 b, where a ticket purports to be a complete agreement and sets out the terms of a special contract, it is to be looked to as the evidence of the contract, and reasonable conditions inserted therein are binding on the purchaser, as they are presumed to be assented to by him in the acceptance of the ticket itself,[96] irrespective of whether or not he read it.[97] It has been held also that, where the words expressing the limitation are contained on the back of the ticket, in order to bind the holder it must appear that he read them or knew of them when he accepted the contract.[98]

Signing ticket. Where the purchaser signs the ticket it must be presumed, in the absence of fraud, misrepresentation, or mistake, that he read the conditions and assented to them, and he will be bound, although he did not in fact read them.[99] However, it is not indispensable that the ticket be signed by the purchaser if he has notice of its terms, or is put upon inquiry, and assents thereto.[1] Also, in case of tickets, such as mileage tickets or tickets over connecting lines, the very terms of which imply an assent which is required to be given by signature, the failure to sign does not relieve the purchaser who accepts and uses the ticket from the limitations or conditions contained therein.[2]

92. Tenn.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v Turner, 47 S.W. 223, 100 Tenn. 213, 43 L.R.A. 140.

93. S.C.—Norman v. Southern R. Co., 44 S.E. 83, 65 S.C. 517, 95 Am.S.R. 809.
10 C.J. p 702 note 14.

94. Tenn.—O'Rourke v. Citizens' St. R. Co., 52 S.W. 872, 103 Tenn. 124, 76 Am.S.R. 639, 46 L.R.A. 614.
10 C.J. p 702 note 15.

95. Ill.—Princell v. Pickwick Greyhound Lines, 262 Ill.App. 398.

96. U.S.—Boylan v. Hot Springs R. Co., Ill., 10 S.Ct. 50, 132 U.S. 146, 33 L.Ed. 290
10 C.J. p 702 note 17.

97. Mass.—French v. Merchants', etc., Transp. Co., 85 N.E. 424, 199 Mass. 433, 127 Am.S.R. 506, 19 L.R.A.,N.S., 1006.
10 C.J. p 702 note 18.
"The usual rule is that a passenger who accepts a ticket on which the contract of transportation is stated is bound by its terms whether he reads it or not"—French v. Merchants', etc., Transp. Co., supra.

In the absence of fraud, imposition, or deceit the law presumes that the purchaser of a ticket, which contained contract stipulations plainly printed on its face, had knowledge of its contents and assented to its terms—Boling v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 88 S.W. 35, 189 Mo. 219.

Inability to read; ticket purchased by agent
The facts that the passenger's ticket is purchased for him by his agent in a wrong name, and that he cannot read, do not affect the validity of the condition contained in the ticket which the passenger accepts and uses, where there is no fraud on the part of anyone in the sale of the ticket.—Southern R. Co. v. White, 33 S.E. 952, 108 Ga. 201.

98. U.S.—The Majestic, D.C.N.Y., 56 F. 244, affirmed 17 S.Ct. 597, 166 U.S. 375, 41 L.Ed. 1039, reversing 60 F. 624, 9 C.C.A. 161, 23 L.R.A. 746.
Tex.—San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. Newman, 43 S.W. 915, 17 Tex.Civ.App. 606.
10 C.J. p 703 note 20.

99. U.S.—Boylan v. Hot Springs R. Co., Ill., 10 S.Ct. 50, 132 U.S. 146, 33 L.Ed. 290.
10 C.J. p 703 note 21.

1. Tenn.—Watson v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 56 S.W. 1024, 104 Tenn. 194, 49 L.R.A. 454.

Reduced rates putting purchaser on inquiry
Where a ticket is sold at a reduced rate on a special occasion, this is sufficient to put the purchaser on inquiry and affect him with notice to expect some special terms or conditions, although he may be unable to read, and it is immaterial that he does not sign the contract or have its contents explained to him—Watson v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 56 S.W. 1024, 104 Tenn. 194, 49 L.R.A. 454—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Turner, 47 S.W. 223, 100 Tenn. 213, 43 L.R.A. 140—10 C.J. p 703 note 23.

2. Minn.—Rahilly v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., 68 N.W. 853, 66 Minn. 153.
10 C.J. p 703 note 22.

Round trip ticket sold at reduced rate
Where a round trip ticket sold at a reduced rate contains in the body thereof a requirement as to identification and signing by the passenger, the assent of a passenger who accepts and uses it is conclusively presumed notwithstanding he does not sign the ticket—Abram v. Gulf, etc., R. Co., 18 S.W. 321, 83 Tex. 61—Ketcheson v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 46 S.W. 907, 19 Tex.Civ.App. 288.

Secret limitations on the authority of a general agent, not communicated to persons dealing with him as agent, do not exempt the carrier from liability on contracts made by the agent and within the scope of his apparent authority.[3]

§ 618. Limitations as to Time

a. In general
b. Effect of expiration of time limit

a. In General

Although in the absence of a binding limitation, a ticket is presumed to be unlimited as to time and may be used at any time within the period fixed by the statute of limitations, in the absence of a statute to the contrary a carrier may limit a reasonable time within which a ticket may be used.

In the absence of any binding stipulation or limitation, a ticket will be presumed to be unlimited as to time,[4] and it may be used at any time within the period fixed by the statute of limitations.[5] In the absence of a statute to the contrary, a carrier has power,[6] subject to the qualification that the limitation must be reasonable,[7] to limit the time within which tickets may be used. If the time limit is less than is sufficient to accomplish the trip, it is, of course, unreasonable and therefore of no effect.[8] On the other hand, limitations have been held to be reasonable which limit the use of the ticket to a continuous passage beginning on the date of sale,[9] or to one day from date of sale,[10] especially where there is also a provision for refunding the purchase price or any unused part thereof if the ticket is not used within that time.[11]

A statute making all railroad tickets available for a specified time from date has no force beyond the territorial limits of the state; and hence it will not apply to the case of a ticket calling for passage from a point within to a point without the state, while the ticket is being used beyond the limits of the state.[12]

Conflicting limitations. As between a time limitation appearing on a ticket covering an interstate trip, and a limitation appearing in the tariff sheets filed with the interstate commerce commission, the latter must govern.[13]

Limitation posted. A purchaser is not bound by a time limitation in a notice posted in the ticket office or in a circular, unless he has read it or has had notice of its contents.[14]

Particular limitations construed. In construing limitations as to time, it has been held that the stipulation "not good for passage after" a certain number of days from date, or "on and from date stamped on back," limits only the time of the commencement of the journey, so that, if the journey is commenced before midnight of the last day, the ticket remains good until its completion, if pursued continuously, although the time expires while en route.[15] Where, however, the stipulation is such

3. Ala.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Rowe, 73 So. 634, 198 Ala. 353.
Ky.—Shelton Taxi Co. v. Bowling, 51 S.W.2d 468, 244 Ky. 817.
Secret or private instructions to agent generally see C.J.S. title Agency § 95.

Contract to transport passenger on long trip held within apparent scope of taxicab driver's authority to carry passengers and contract for their carriage.—Shelton Taxi Co. v. Bowling, 51 S.W.2d 468, 244 Ky. 817.

Contract to telegraph transportation Secret limitations upon the authority of a railroad's general agent do not exempt the railroad from the obligations of engagements made by him within his ostensible authority as to telegraph transportation to a person on a connecting railway line. —Southern Ry. Co. v. Rowe, 73 So. 634, 198 Ala. 353.

4. Kan.—Freeman v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 80 P. 592, 71 Kan. 327, 6 Ann.Cas. 118.
10 C.J. p 703 note 26.

A round trip ticket, not limited by its terms, is, after being used one way, good for the return trip at such time as the holder is disposed to present it, unless he is notified to the contrary at the time of purchase.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Spicker, 105 Pa. 142.

5. Kan.—Freeman v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 80 P. 592, 71 Kan. 327, 6 Ann.Cas. 118.
10 C.J. p 703 note 27, p 704 note 35

A first-class railroad ticket, making no provision as to time of use, is subject to the statute of limitations, beginning to run from its date of issue.—Cassiano v. Galveston, etc., R. Co., Tex.Civ.App., 82 S.W. 806

6. Ill.—Pennington v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 97 N.E. 289, 252 Ill. 584, 37 L.R.A.,N.S., 983, reversing 160 Ill. App. 128
10 C.J. p 703 note 30.

7. Va.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Rieley, 93 S.E. 574, 121 Va. 469, L.R.A.1918A 775
10 C.J. p 703 note 31.

8. Mont.—Brian v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., 105 P. 489, 40 Mont. 109, 25 L.R.A.,N.S., 459.
Tex.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Wright, 30 S.W. 294, 10 Tex.Civ.App. 179.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Wright, 21 S.W. 399, 2 Tex.Civ.App. 463.

9. Va.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Rieley, 93 S.E. 574, 121 Va. 469, L.R.A.1918A 775.

10. Ill.—Burn v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 153 Ill.App. 319
La.—Coburn v. Morgan's Louisiana, etc., R. Co., 29 So. 882, 105 La. 398, 83 Am.S.R. 242.
Miss.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Marlett, 23 So. 583, 75 Miss. 956.
10 C.J. p 704 note 33

11. Ga.—Southern R. Co. v. Watson, 36 S.E. 209, 110 Ga. 681
Miss.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Marlett, 23 So. 583, 75 Miss. 956.

12. Me.—Carpenter v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 72 Me. 388, 39 Am.R. 340.
Mass.—Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Trafton, 23 N.E. 829, 151 Mass. 229

13. Ark.—Gordon v. Kansas City Southern Ry. Co., 2 S.W.2d 675, 176 Ark. 230.

14. Ga.—Georgia R. Co. v. Baldoni, 42 S.E. 364, 115 Ga. 1013
Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Spicker, 105 Pa. 142.
Tenn.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Turner, 47 S.W. 223, 100 Tenn. 213, 43 L.R.A. 140.

15. Mont.—Brian v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., 105 P. 489, 40 Mont.

that the ticket expires or is not to be good after a certain limit of time, the transportation must be completed by that time.[16] If a ticket bears date prior to the purchase from the agent, and is limited to one day from date of sale, the passenger is entitled to passage within one day from the time of purchase.[17]

The words "good this trip only" on a ticket will not have the effect of limiting the undertaking of the company to any particular day, as they do not relate to time but to a journey, and, if the ticket has not previously been used, it entitles the holder to a passage on a subsequent day, as well as on the day it bears date.[18] A ticket that bears on its face the words "good for this day only," with the date indorsed, is not good on a subsequent day,[19] especially where the rate of fare has lawfully been increased in the meantime.[20]

b. Effect of Expiration of Time Limit

It is generally held that the purchaser is bound by a limitation on the ticket as to the time within which it can be used and that he cannot use the ticket for transportation after the expiration of that time, provided the carrier is not the cause of the delay.

There is a seeming conflict of authority as to the effect of the expiration of the time limit on a ticket issued by a carrier. This conflict arises apparently from a difference in view as to whether a time limit stamped or printed on a ticket is a regulation of the carrier, or a matter of contract between the parties.[21] Where such a limitation is considered as a regulation, where a reasonable limitation as to the time within which a ticket may be used is printed or stamped on the face of the ticket, the purchaser is bound by it and must take notice thereof, and he is not entitled to use the ticket for transportation after the expiration of the time specified,[22] unless the ticket has been extended by a duly authorized agent of the carrier,[23] or unless the limitation has been waived, as will be noted in § 621. Also, according to some authorities, although the ticket is in ordinary ticket, the fact that it is limited as to time makes it more than a mere receipt or token, as it expresses at least a part of the contract between the parties, and by accepting it the passenger assents to the limit as expressed and is not entitled to use it after that limit has expired.[24] On the other hand, it has been held that such a limitation is a matter of contract and not a matter of regulation, and that the usual rule as to the knowledge and assent of the passenger to a limitation of an ordinary ticket, supra § 616, applies, and that the passenger is not bound by the limit of time expressed in such ticket unless he has notice thereof at the time of purchasing the ticket.[25]

A passenger is not entitled to transportation on an expired ticket, although he has on other occasions been permitted to ride on such ticket or even on the particular ticket in question,[26] or has checked baggage on the ticket,[27] or although an unauthorized agent of the company has made representations to him of his right to ride thereon.[28]

To carry a passenger after the date of expiration on a ticket, owing to a mistake in writing such 109, 25 L.R.A.,N.S., 459, 20 Ann.Cas. 311.

10 C.J. p 704 note 38.

Limitation to midnight

Where ticket provided that it should not be good for passage after midnight July 14, and passage was commenced before midnight on such date, passenger had right to complete journey after midnight—Woodard v Texas & P. Ry. Co., 86 S.W.2d 38, 126 Tex 30, reversing Texas & P Ry. Co. v Woodard, Civ App., 53 S.W.2d 82.

16. Miss.—Mitchell v. Southern R. Co., 27 So. 834, 77 Miss. 917.
10 C.J. p 704 note 39.

17. Iowa.—Ellsworth v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 63 N.W. 584, 95 Iowa 98, 29 L.R.A. 173.
W.Va.—Trice v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 21 S.E. 1022, 40 W.Va 271.

18. N.Y.—Pier v. Finch, 24 Barb. 514.

19. Me.—Burnham v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 63 Me. 298, 18 Am.R. 220.
N.Y.—Boice v. Hudson River R. Co., 61 Barb. 611.

20. N.Y.—Boice v. Hudson River R. Co., supra

21. Va.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Rieley, 93 S.E. 574, 575, 121 Va. 469, L.R.A 1918A 775.

22. Va.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Rieley, supra
10 C.J. p 704 note 45.
"Primarily, the function of a ticket is to serve as evidence, as between the conductor of the carrier's train and the passenger, of the latter's right to transportation. When a ticket is serving such function, the time limit contained on it (whether on its face, or back or within its folds, is immaterial) is a regulation of the carrier for the conduct of its business, the validity of which is to be determined upon the sole inquiry of its reasonableness as such regulation, and not upon any inquiry as to its validity as a contract between a passenger and carrier."—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Rieley, supra.

23. Cal.—Elliott v. Southern Pac Co., 79 P 420, 145 Cal. 441, 68 L.R.A. 393.

La.—Randall v. New Orleans, etc., R. Co., 13 So. 166, 45 La.Ann. 778.
10 C.J. p 705 note 46.

24. Iowa.—Hanlon v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 80 N.W. 223, 109 Iowa 136.
Kan.—Freeman v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 80 P. 592, 71 Kan. 327, 6 Ann. Cas. 118.
La.—Coburn v Morgan's Louisiana, etc., R. Co., 29 So. 882, 105 La. 398, 83 Am.S.R. 242.

25. S.C.—Norman v. Southern Ry. Co., 44 S.E. 83, 65 S.C. 517, 95 Am. S.R. 809.
Tenn.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Turner, 47 S.W. 223, 100 Tenn. 213, 43 L.R.A. 140.
10 C.J. p 705 note 49.

26. N.Y.—Hill v. Syracuse, etc., R. Co., 63 N.Y. 101.
10 C.J. p 705 note 50.

27. N.Y.—Wentz v. Erie R. Co., 3 Hun 241.

28. Md.—McClure v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 34 Md. 532, 6 Am.R. 345.
N.Y.—Boice v. Hudson River R. Co., 61 Barb. 611.

date, is not a violation of the Interstate Commerce Act, since the erroneous issuance of a ticket in terms not conforming to the actual contract does not make an unlawful contract.[29]

Fault of carrier. It has been held that if, by fault of the carrier, the passenger is delayed, so that he cannot complete his journey within the limitation of the ticket, then he is entitled, notwithstanding such limitation, to continue his journey to his destination,[30] but this rule does not apply where the delay is caused by a third person.[31] It has been held, however, that the fact that the carrier fraudulently concealed the fact that it might not be able to carry the passenger on his return trip within the time prescribed in the ticket does not entitle the passenger to use an expired ticket.[32]

Mileage tickets. A mileage ticket limited as to time and good for a specified number of miles ceases to be valid at the expiration of that time, although the number of miles has not been traveled out.[33] However, a limitation of one day on the use of a mileage ticket for two thousand miles is void on its face,[34] and where such limitation is caused by a mistake of the agent the passenger is not bound by the contract until it is reformed in a court of equity.[35]

Tickets over connecting lines. Where a railroad company sells a limited ticket over its own and connecting roads, and such ticket is a joint contract of the several carriers, a passenger who is delayed by the fault of one of the roads is entitled to complete his journey on such ticket, although the time expires before he reaches the last of the connecting lines.[36] It is sufficient if the trip is begun on a particular line and the ticket is presented before midnight on the day named as the limit, although the journey is not completed on that line until after that time;[37] but where the ticket is in coupon form, and expressly provides that the carrier selling it is merely the agent of the connecting roads and is not responsible beyond its own line, the passenger is not entitled to be carried over the last road after the time has expired, although he is delayed by the fault of one of the other companies.[38] Where the last day of the limitation falls on Sunday, and the last line runs no train on that day, the passenger will be entitled to transportation if he presents himself for the first train of the next day.[39] Where the ticket is unlimited, and the passenger has used it over the first road, he is at liberty to begin his journey over the second road when he pleases.[40]

§ 619. Limitations as to Trains

Although an undisclosed rule of the carrier will not limit the use of a ticket to particular trains, the carrier may provide by a stipulation on the ticket that certain tickets shall be good only on particular trains.

Although an undisclosed rule of a carrier will not limit the use of a ticket to particular trains,[41] the carrier may provide by a regulation or condition on the ticket that certain tickets shall be good

29. Ky.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Fleming, 146 S.W. 1110, 148 Ky. 473.
10 C.J. p 705 note 53.

30. Ala.—Morningstar v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 33 So. 156, 135 Ala. 251.
10 C.J. p 705 note 54.

No Sunday trains

Where a passenger holds a limited ticket which expires on Sunday and he is prevented from riding on that date because the company runs no trains, he is entitled to a passage on the next day.—Little Rock, etc., R. Co. v. Dean, 43 Ark. 529, 51 Am. R. 584.

Reason for rule

The rule is more applicable to a contract for carriage than to ordinary contracts, for the reason that the time for performance is imposed by the company by way of limitation, and the contract should be so construed as to save the right and prevent a forfeiture, if it can be done.—Little Rock, etc., R. Co. v. Dean, 43 Ark. 529, 51 Am.R. 584.

Train late

Where the railroad company fails to run its trains on time, a ticket holder who boards the first passenger train stopping at his station after the purchase of his ticket is not to be ousted from the train on the ground that the limit of the ticket has expired.—Marx v. Louisiana Western R. Co., 36 So. 862, 112 La. 1085.

31. Cal.—Elliott v. Southern Pac. Co., 79 P. 420, 145 Cal. 441, 68 L.R.A. 393.
10 C.J. p 705 note 55.

32. Cal.—Elliott v. Southern Pac. Co., supra.

33. Iowa.—Sherman v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 40 Iowa 45.
Mo.—Lillis v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 64 Mo. 464, 27 Am.R. 255.
Ohio.—Powell v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 25 Ohio St. 70.

34. Minn.—Krueger v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 71 N.W. 683, 68 Minn. 445, 64 Am.S.R. 487.

35. Minn.—Krueger v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., supra.

36. Tex.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Looney, 19 S.W. 1039, 85 Tex. 158, 34 Am.S.R. 787, 16 L.R.A. 471.
10 C.J. p 705 note 62.

37. Mont.—Brian v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., 105 P. 489, 40 Mont. 109, 25 L.R.A.,N.S., 459, 20 Ann. Cas. 311.

38. Mont.—Brian v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., supra.
Ohio.—Pennsylvania Co. v. Hine, 41 Ohio St. 276.
10 C.J. p 706 note 64.

39. Ark.—Little Rock, etc., R. Co. v. Dean, 43 Ark. 529, 51 Am.R. 584.

40. Mich.—Brooke v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 15 Mich. 332.

41. Tex.—Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Carroll, 193 S.W. 1068, 108 Tex. 378.
Duty to transport on proper train see infra § 641.

Ticket sold at reduced rate

Where a carrier authorized another carrier to sell tickets over its road, and such carrier sold a ticket at a reduced rate in accordance with published tariffs, an undisclosed rule of the first carrier that such ticket was invalid on a certain train did not relieve it of liability on the contract.—Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Carroll, 193 S.W. 1068, 108 Tex. 378.

only on particular trains.[42] Thus the carrier may require that holders of excursion tickets shall travel on the trains provided for that special purpose, and not on regular trains;[43] and it may refuse to recognize as a passenger one who is riding on any train other than the one on which he is entitled to travel by his ticket,[44] as by refusing him passage on a second-class ticket on a train on which only first-class tickets are accepted.[45] Where the ticket calls for a "continuous trip only" between two points, it is not valid for passage to an intermediate point on a train which does not make the whole trip.[46]

§ 620. Stamping, Signing, and Identification

a. In general
b. Sufficiency of identification

a. In General

Reasonable provisions requiring the signing or stamping of reduced rate tickets and the identification of the holder thereof are valid, and a compliance therewith is essential to the passenger's right to transportation, unless such failure is due to the fault of the carrier or its servants or agents.

Usual conditions in an excursion ticket, sold for a round trip at a reduced rate, that before the returning portion of the ticket may be used it must be presented by the holder to an agent at the other end of the line to be signed or stamped by him, and that the holder must identify himself as the original purchaser by writing his signature on the ticket or, if this is not satisfactory to the validating agent, by producing other proofs of his identity, have been upheld as reasonable and valid.[47] Where there is an obvious mistake in the body of the contract indorsed on the ticket as to the place of identification, but which is inconsistent with the whole tenor of the contract and does not mislead the holder, the contract requiring a restamping of the ticket is not invalidated.[48] It is the duty of the passenger to present his ticket to the validating agent, and it is then the duty of the agent to see that the validating is properly done.[49] The passenger is not required to discover any mistake of the agent, nor need he use specific terms in requesting the agent to validate the ticket; but it is sufficient that the ticket comes into the agent's hands with information that the passenger is starting on his return journey.[50]

Signing by the purchaser at the time of issuance is also sometimes required as to other special tickets.[51]

Effect of noncompliance. The passenger's right to transportation is unaffected by the arbitrary refusal of the agent to stamp and sign the ticket,[52] or by his neglect so to do,[53] when the ticket is properly presented to him. It has been held that, where there was no one present at the station authorized to validate the ticket, and the passenger did everything that ordinary prudence and diligence would require to obtain a validation of the ticket, he is entitled to ride on the unvalidated ticket on explaining the circumstances to the conductor,[54] since it is incumbent on the carrier to have present, at a reasonable time before the arrival of trains on which the ticket would be good for passage, on any date on which the purchaser might see fit to use it, an agent authorized to sign and to stamp the ticket in the manner therein provided.[55]

Where the ticket is for carriage over several lines and contemplates that it shall be validated by the agent at the point of destination for the return trip, the company issuing the ticket is liable for the fault

42. Minn.—Dunlap v. Northern Pac. R Co., 28 N W 240, 35 Minn 203
Pa.—Robb v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 14 Pa.Super. 282.
10 C J. p 706 note 69.

43. N.C.—McRae v. Wilmington, etc., R Co., 88 N C. 526, 43 Am.R. 745.
Tex.—England v. International, etc, R Co., 73 S.W. 24, 32 Tex.Civ.App 86
10 C.J. p 706 note 70.

44. Miss.—Howard v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 61 Miss. 194.

45. U.S.—New York, L. E. & W. Ry. Co. v. Bennett, Tenn., 50 F. 496, 1 C.C.A. 544.

46. Md.—Johnson v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 63 Md. 106.

47. Tenn.—Watson v. Louisville, etc, R Co., 56 S.W. 1024, 104 Tenn. 194, 49 L.R.A. 454.
10 C.J. p 706 note 74.
Failure to have ticket stamped as terminating relation of passenger and carrier see supra § 563.

48. S C.—Bethea v. Northeastern R Co., 1 S E. 372, 26 S C. 91.

49. Ky.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Williams, 143 S W. 760, 147 Ky 52
Tex.—Houston, etc., R Co. v. Arey, 44 S.W. 894, 18 Tex.Civ.App. 457.
10 C.J p 706 note 76.

50. Ky.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Williams, 143 S W. 760, 147 Ky. 52.
10 C.J p 707 note 78.

51. Okl.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Newburn, 110 P. 1065, 27 Okl. 9, 30 L.R.A.,N.S., 432.
Tex.—Ketcheson v. Southern Pac. Co., 46 S.W. 907, 19 Tex.Civ.App. 288—Mexican Cent. R. Co. v. Goodman, Civ.App., 43 S.W. 580.
10 C.J. p 707 note 79.

52. Tex.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Payne, 87 S.W. 330, 99 Tex. 46, 122 Am S.R. 603, 70 L.R.A. 946.
10 C.J. p 707 note 86.
Failure to comply with conditions as to stamping, signing, and identification as grounds for ejection see infra § 813.

53. U S.—Northern Pac R. Co. v. Pauson, Cal., 70 F. 585, 17 C.C.A. 287.

54. Ga.—Southern R. Co. v. Wood, 39 S E. 894, 114 Ga. 140, 55 L.R.A. 536.
La.—Wilcox v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 7 La.A., Orleans, 370.
10 C.J. p 707 note 88.

55. Ga.—Southern R. Co. v. Wood, 39 S.E. 894, 114 Ga. 140, 55 L.R.A. 536.

of such agent in failing properly to validate the ticket,[56] unless the initial company acts merely as agent for the connecting lines in issuing the ticket,[57] or unless the ticket provides that such company will not be responsible beyond its own line.[58]

It is incumbent on the purchaser to use reasonable means of complying with a condition as to identifying himself to the agent;[59] and where, after ample opportunity for complying with such stipulation has been afforded to him, he fails so to do, he is not entitled to transportation on his ticket,[60] unless in so doing he relies on the representations of an authorized agent of the company.[61]

b. Sufficiency of Identification

The burden of establishing identification is on the ticket holder. He is not required to identify himself to the satisfaction of the agent, in the absence of an express provision to that effect, but he must offer such proof as would satisfy a reasonable man.

It has been held that the purchaser merely writing his name, without more, is not necessarily a sufficient identification, but that he must offer to the agent such proof of his identity as would satisfy a reasonable man,[62] and that he is not bound to identify himself to the satisfaction of the train agent.[63] The validating agent is not required to accept the holder's verbal assurance of his identity or to institute other inquiries with a view of satisfying himself on such subject, as the burden is on the holder to produce sufficient evidence of his identification,[64] but the agent cannot refuse to hear facts on the subject of identification;[65] and, on the refusal of the conductor or agent to allow the passenger to identify himself by signature, he cannot be required to furnish other identification.[66] Where the ticket provides that the holder shall identify himself "to the satisfaction" of a designated agent, such agent is the party to determine the sufficiency of the identification, and it may not be referred to a jury to determine whether he was or was not "satisfied" with the proof of identity.[67]

§ 621. Waiver of Conditions

a. In general
b. Omission to enforce condition

a. In General

Except where there is a stipulation to the contrary in the ticket itself, an agent authorized to determine the passenger's right to transportation may waive conditions in the ticket; a ticket agent, however, cannot do so after the sale of the ticket.

Except where it is stipulated in the ticket itself that no agent or employee has authority to waive the conditions,[68] a general officer, or an agent authorized to determine whether or not a passenger is entitled to transportation, may waive the conditions in a ticket.[69] Such a waiver, however, cannot be made by an agent or servant having no authori-

56. Kan.—Chase v. Atchison, etc., R Co., 79 P. 153, 70 Kan. 546.
Tex.—Gulf, etc., R. Co v. St. John, 35 S.W 501, 13 Tex.Civ App. 257.
10 C J. p 707 note 90.
Nature and extent of connecting carrier's liability generally see infra § 653

57. S C.—Bethea v. Northeastern R Co., 1 S.E 372, 26 S.C 91.

58. U.S —Mosher v. St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co., Mo., 8 S Ct. 1324, 127 U.S. 390, 32 L.Ed. 249.
Mo.—Boling v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 88 S.W. 35, 189 Mo. 219.
Tex.—Clark v. Galveston etc., R Co., Civ.App., 137 S W. 716.
10 C.J. p 707 note 92.

59. Ga —Southern R. Co. v. Barlow, 30 S E. 732, 104 Ga. 213, 69 Am. S.R 166.
10 C J p 708 note 93.

60. Kan.—Dangerfield v. Atchison, etc., R Co., 61 P 405, 62 Kan. 85.
10 C.J. p 708 note 94.

61. Tex —Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Lee, Civ.App., 123 S.W. 154.
10 C.J. p 708 note 95.

62. Ga.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Barlow, 30 S E. 732, 104 Ga. 213, 69 Am.S.R. 166.
10 C.J. p 707 note 80.
"Printing" name
If the purchaser of a ticket, at the time of buying the same, intentionally adopted, as the method of signing his name, the making of the letters thereof in the form of printed characters, and thus rendered it impossible to identify himself as the original purchaser by reproducing his signature, the burden was on him to find other means of satisfactory identification. Merely proving by witnesses that his name was the same as that "printed" upon the ticket would not in every case, and under all circumstances, be sufficient or satisfactory proof that he was the original purchaser.—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Cannon, 32 S.E 874, 106 Ga 828.

63. Ky.—Southern R. Co. v Cassell, 92 S W 281, 122 Ky. 317, 28 Ky.L. 1230.
10 C J. p 707 note 81.
Reason for rule
"The contract, properly construed, is not that the purchaser will satisfy the conductor of his identity as original purchaser. No quantity of evidence might have done that. For after all had been done that could have been, and all that any reasonable person would have required, still the conductor . . . might not have been satisfied, and would have had the right under . . . [this] view of the law to have refused the ticket and ejected the passenger under circumstances most unreasonable and unwarranted. Such could not have been the intention of both parties in entering into the contract of carriage."—Southern R. Co. v. Cassell, 92 S W. 281, 282, 122 Ky. 317, 28 Ky.L 1230.

64. Ky —Baltimore, etc., R Co. v. Hudson, 80 S W. 454, 117 Ky. 995, 25 Ky.L 2154.

65. Tex —Houston, etc, R Co. v. Lee, Civ.App., 123 S W 154.

66. Va.—Norfolk, etc., R. Co. v. Anderson, 17 S E. 757, 90 Va. 1, 44 Am.S R. 884.

67. S.C.—Bethea v. Northeastern R. Co., 1 S E 372, 26 S.C 91.

68. U S.—Boylan v. Hot Springs R. Co., Ill, 10 S Ct. 50, 132 U.S. 146, 33 L.Ed. 290.
10 C J. p 708 note 96.

69. U.S —Chesapeake & O Ry. Co v. Burton, C.C.A W.Va., 62 F.2d 110.
10 C J. p 708 note 97.
The Corpus Juris text has been cited with full approval in Chesapeake & O. R. Co. v. Burton, C.C.A. W Va., 62 F.2d 110.

ty to determine such a question, such as a baggagemaster, or an agent giving information not in connection with the sale of the ticket.[70] A waiver by one conductor as to his portion of the route will not, as a general rule, be binding on other conductors.[71] A purchaser of tickets with authority to resell them may waive a requirement as to signature.[72]

After sale of ticket. A ticket agent has not the implied power to bind the company, after the sale of the ticket is fully completed and his duties in regard to it are at an end, by representations which contradict the plain terms of the ticket sold.[73] An agent who has sold a ticket has no implied authority, after the ticket has expired by limitation, to waive such limitation and make a new contract as to its use.[74]

b. Omission to Enforce Condition

Ordinarily failure to require compliance with the conditions of a ticket in past instances does not amount to a waiver, unless such instances have been so numerous as to induce the passenger to believe that the conditions have been abandoned.

The fact that compliance with the conditions of a ticket has not been required in other instances will not amount to a waiver of such conditions,[75] unless on the occasion in question such instances were known to the passenger and were sufficiently numerous to induce him to believe that the requirement had been abandoned.[76] Thus the fact that the passenger has on other occasions been permitted to ride on an expired ticket, or even on the particular ticket in question, does not establish a custom to that effect, and so entitle the passenger to transportation.[77] It has been held, however, that, where a condition, such as that a ticket shall be signed by the purchaser, has been ignored by the selling agent or the conductor and the passenger has been allowed to ride thereon without signature, so that the omission to require signature is not to be deemed a mere oversight, the condition must be regarded as waived.[78] The act of a conductor in accepting an expired ticket has also been held to constitute a waiver of its defect.[79]

Where a ticket is not stamped as required, a waiver of the requirement cannot be predicated on the fact that the gatekeeper allows the passenger to pass without punching his ticket, or that the sleeping car conductor fails to remark the defect, where the regular conductor detects it at once and calls the passenger's attention to it.[80] Where one conductor fails to discover that the holder of a nontransferable ticket is not in fact the original purchaser, but the second conductor detects the fraud, there is no waiver of the condition in the ticket against its transfer.[81]

4. Passes

§ 622. In General

a. Definitions
b. Issuance; nature and effect

a. Definitions

A "pass" is a ticket, issued by a carrier, authorizing a designated person to travel free on its lines, between certain points or for a limited time.

The term "pass" has been defined as a ticket issued by a railroad or other transportation company, authorizing a designated person to travel free on its lines, between certain points or for a limited time.[82]

A gratuitous pass is an instruction to the carrier's conductors to receive and carry the passee upon its trains.[83]

70. Utah.—Drummond v. Southern Pac. Co., 25 P. 733, 7 Utah 118.
10 C.J. p 708 note 98.

71. Kan.—Dangerfield v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 61 P. 405, 62 Kan. 85.
10 C.J. p 708 note 99

72. Cal.—Elser v. Southern Pac. Co., 94 P. 852, 7 Cal.App. 493.

73. Iowa.—Hanlon v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 80 N.W. 223, 109 Iowa 136
10 C.J. p 708 note 2.

74. Ill.—Pennington v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 97 N.E. 289, 252 Ill. 584, 37 L.R.A.,N.S., 983, reversing 160 Ill.App. 128.

75. Vt.—Thorp v. Concord R. Co., 17 A. 791, 61 Vt. 378.
10 C.J. p 708 note 4.

76. Tenn.—Watson v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 56 S.W. 1024, 104 Tenn. 194, 49 L.R.A. 454.
10 C.J. p 708 note 4.

Accepting detached coupons

Where the company has been accustomed to honor coupons when detached, this constitutes evidence of a waiver by it of a condition in the ticket requiring them to be detached only by the conductor.—Thompson v. Truesdale, 63 N.W. 259, 61 Minn. 129, 52 Am.S.R. 579.

Unstamped tickets

The fact that other passengers, or indeed the passenger in question, on other occasions, have been allowed to travel without having tickets stamped will not abrogate the rule, unless such occurrences are so common or frequent as to amount to a custom or an abandonment of the rule, and to mislead the passenger.—Watson v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 56 S.W. 1024, 104 Tenn. 194, 49 L.R.A. 454.

77. Mich.—Johnson v. Michigan United R. Co., 116 N.W. 529, 153 Mich. 65.
10 C.J. p 709 note 5.

78. Ohio.—Kent v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 12 N.E. 798, 45 Ohio St. 284, 4 Am.S.R. 539
Okl.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Newburn, 110 P. 1065, 27 Okl. 9, 30 L.R.A.,N.S., 432.

79. U.S.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. Burton, C.C.A.W.Va., 62 F.2d 110.

80. Pa.—Bowers v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 27 A. 893, 158 Pa. 302

81. Kan.—Dangerfield v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 61 P. 405, 62 Kan. 85.

82. Black L.D.

83. Minn.—Bergerson v. Great

A drover's pass is a ticket given without charge to those who accompany consignments of cattle.[84] As otherwise defined, it is a railroad pass to one who goes along in charge of the cattle, to care for them, feed and water them, and unload them;[85] a contract for the carriage of a person in charge of cattle on a freight train, without charge.[86]

b. Issuance; Nature and Effect

A free pass is a mere license and not a contract, and in the absence of a statute requiring the issuance of passes, a person using a pass is deemed to have assented to the conditions thereon.

A free pass is not a contract,[87] but is a mere license to ride on the trains of the carrier;[88] and when given as a gratuity it is none the less a free pass because the carrier requires the person using it to sign an agreement exempting it from liability for injuries,[89] or because the giving of such pass is customary.[90] Conditions on the back of a pass which has expired, or which has had no legal existence, can have no legal effect.[91]

Contract to issue. A contract based on a good consideration, to grant a life pass, unless prohibited by statute, is valid and binding on the company, and for its refusal to perform the same the company may be held liable in damages,[92] and the fact that the contract expresses that transportation is to be furnished "free of charge" does not necessarily mean that it is a gratuity.[93] It has been held, however, that the receivers of a railroad cannot make an agreement for a free life pass which will bind subsequent owners of the road.[94] A pass given in consideration of rights granted does not entitle the holder thereof to travel free on a road subsequently leased and operated in connection with the original line;[95] and the fact that such a pass has been honored for use over a connecting line does not bind a consolidated company which buys both roads to recognize the pass beyond the limits of the original line granting it.[96]

Where a carrier engages that a person shall be "carried free of charge," he is under no duty to apply for a pass, and if none is furnished him he is entitled to be carried without one,[97] and it is the Northern Ry. Co., 196 N.W. 670, 671, 158 Minn. 20.

Free pass

(1) A free pass means the privilege of riding over a railroad without payment of the customary fare.—Perkins v. New York Cent. R. Co., 24 N.Y. 196, 203, 82 Am.D. 281.

(2) Free pass within the meaning of statutory prohibitions see infra § 623.

84. Va.—Norfolk, etc., R. Co. v. Tanner, 41 S.E. 721, 100 Va. 379, 383, quoting Cooley Torts 2d ed., p 826.

85. Tex.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Ivy, 9 S.W. 346, 349, 71 Tex. 409, 413, 10 Am.S.R. 758, 1 L.R.A. 500.

86. Vt.—Sprigg v. Rutland R. Co., 60 A. 143, 144, 77 Vt. 347.

87. U.S.—Smith v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., Okl., 194 F. 79, 114 C.C.A. 157.

Minn.—Bergerson v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 196 N.W. 670, 158 Minn. 20.

Mere gratuity

(1) A free pass authorized to be given to an employee's family is a mere gratuity.

U.S.—Charleston & W. C. R. Co. v. Thompson, Ga., 34 S.Ct. 964, 234 U.S. 576, 58 L.Ed. 1478.

Ind.—Payne v. Elliott, 133 N.E. 751, 77 Ind.App. 415.—Clark v. Southern Ry. Co., 119 N.E. 539, 69 Ind.App. 697.

Mo.—Pinnell v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., 263 S.W. 182, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 123, 266 U.S. 623, 69 L.Ed. 473.

Tenn.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Linear, 198 S.W. 887, 138 Tenn. 543, L.R.A. 1918B 1114.

(2) A pass issued by defendant railroad to deceased, an officer of another railroad, in exchange for passes issued by his railroad to officers of defendant, is a free pass or gratuity.—Ft. Wayne & Wabash Valley Traction Co. v. Justus, 115 N.E. 585, 186 Ind. 464.

(3) Where a common carrier entered into a contract with a telegraph company, by which each was to render to the other certain services, and the carrier agreed to transport free of charge "all persons in the employ of the telegraph company when traveling on the business of said company," and under this contract the carrier issued to a telegraph lineman an annual pass, and the lineman used the pass on a trip for his individual pleasure or on business of his own, the pass when so used was gratuitous and not in consideration of services.—Brooks v. Bugg, 131 S.E. 365, 34 Ga.App. 761.

(4) Interstate pass issued by terminal railroad association to flagman of proprietary railroad was a free pass without consideration, notwithstanding flagman effected saving in using pass in going to and from his work, where his compensation would have been same whether or not he received pass.—Dunn v. Alton R. Co., Mo.App., 88 S.W.2d 224.

(5) Where plaintiff, tie inspector for company from which railroad bought ties, obtained railroad's permission to accompany its tie inspector on inspection trip, so that discrepancies in inspection might be adjusted on spot, pass was not issued for valuable consideration, arrangement being chiefly for benefit of the company and plaintiff.—Ellis v. Davis, C.C.A.Tex., 4 F.2d 323.

88. Minn.—Bergerson v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 196 N.W. 670, 158 Minn. 20.

10 C.J. p 678 note 60 [a].

89. Tex.—Stamp v. New Mexico Eastern R. Co., Civ.App., 161 S.W. 450.

Limitation of or exemption from liability see infra §§ 634–635.

Persons riding on passes as passengers see supra §§ 550–551.

90. Tex.—Stamp v. New Mexico Eastern R. Co., supra.

91. N.C.—McNeill v. Durham, etc., R. Co., 47 S.E. 765, 135 N.C. 682, 67 L.R.A. 227.

92. Pa.—Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Douthet, 88 Pa. 243, 32 Am.R. 451.

93. N.H.—Emerson v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 75 A. 529, 75 N.H. 427, 428, 27 L.R.A.,N.S., 331.

10 C.J. p 710 note 20.

94. N.J.—Martin v. New York, etc., R. Co., 36 N.J.Eq. 109.

95. Md.—Western Maryland R. Co. v. Lynch, 34 A. 40, 82 Md. 233.

10 C.J. p 709 note 12.

96. N.J.—Schmoele v. Atlantic City R. Co., 160 A. 524, 110 N.J.Eq. 597, affirming 155 A. 143, 108 N.J.Eq. 353.

10 C.J. p 709 note 13.

97. Minn.—Grimes v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 33 N.W. 33, 37 Minn. 66.

duty of the carrier to inform the conductors of the right of such person to be carried free of charge.[98] Where, under a contract for an annual pass, on the expiration of the first pass application for a renewal is made, but a second renewal is not applied for thereafter, it has been held to be a question of fact for the jury as to whether an application is, under the circumstances, necessary or not.[99]

Assent to conditions. One who receives and uses a pass to procure free transportation must be deemed to have assented to the conditions indorsed thereon whether he reads and signs them or not,[1] except that, where the pass is, by statute, required to be issued on certain conditions, he is not bound by additional conditions thereon, to which he has not assented.[2]

Caretakers' passes. A pass issued under the exception in the Interstate Commerce Act as amended, permitting the issuing of free transportation to necessary caretakers, is not "free" in the popular sense of the word, but free in name only, and is a part of the consideration of the contract of shipment.[3] Such transportation is transportation for hire, with all the legal incidents of paid transportation.[4] Although there is sometimes a custom permitting an owner to accompany his stock, he is ordinarily not entitled, as a matter of right, to a pass on a freight train on which he has a shipment of stock,[5] unless such a pass is, by statute, required to be given.[6] A provision in the published tariffs of the carrier, that free or reduced transportation shall not be issued for shippers and caretakers and that they shall pay full fare returning, implies that passes will be issued to the destination of the shipment.[7]

§ 623. Passes Forbidden by Law

a. Under Interstate Commerce Act
b. Under state law

a. Under Interstate Commerce Act

The giving or use of a free pass, subject to certain exceptions, is prohibited by the Interstate Commerce Act, even though a valid contract has been entered into to issue such passes prior to the enactment of the prohibition.

Under the Interstate Commerce Act, 49 U.S.C.A. § 1, a common carrier is expressly prohibited, except in certain specified cases, from issuing or giving an interstate free ticket, free pass, or free transportation, and if it does so in violation of the act it is guilty of a misdemeanor and subject to a penalty;[8] and likewise any person other than those excepted, who uses such interstate free transportation, is subject to a like penalty.[9] The offense results ordinarily from a joint combination in which both the passenger and the carrier are participants, and the purpose and effect of the statute is to punish each of them.[10] It has been held that giving an undue preference or advantage to a particular person in violation of this act is not complete where a free pass had been delivered, unless there

98. Minn.—Grimes v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., supra.

99. Va.—Knopf v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 8 S.E. 787, 85 Va. 769

1. Wash.—Muldoon v. Seattle City R. Co., 38 P. 995, 996, 10 Wash. 311, 45 Am.S.R. 787.
10 C.J. p. 709 note 17.
"We think it may be fairly held that a person receiving a ticket for free transportation is bound to see and know all of the conditions printed thereon which the carrier sees fit to lawfully impose."—Muldoon v. Seattle City R. Co., supra.

2. Mo.—Chorn v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 153 S.W. 1060, 168 Mo.App. 518.
10 C.J. p. 710 note 18.

3. Me.—Miller v. Maine Cent. R. Co., 133 A. 907, 125 Me. 338, 47 A.L.R. 720.

4. U.S.—Norfolk Southern R. Co. v. Chatman, N.C., 37 S.Ct. 499, 244 U.S. 276, 61 L.Ed. 1131, L.R.A.1917F 1128, affirming 222 F. 802, 138 C.C.A. 350.

5. Ky.—Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Collinsworth, 153 S.W. 241, 152 Ky. 197.

6. Mo.—Chorn v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 153 S.W. 1060, 168 Mo.App. 518.

Statute inapplicable to interstate shipments

A statute providing that railroad companies shall furnish free transportation to shippers of live stock in certain cases, and authorizing actions to be brought to recover penalties for its violation, has no application to interstate shipments.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Sinclair, 94 P. 123, 77 Kan. 228—State v. Otis, 56 P. 14, 60 Kan. 248.

False representations of ownership as crime

Under a statute providing for the free transportation of caretakers of live stock and watermelons, and providing that any person who falsely represents himself or another as the owner or shipper of such freight, for the purpose of procuring more transportation than is allowed by the statute, is guilty of a misdemeanor, the mere shipping of melons in the name of another person who accompanies the shipment does not constitute a violation of the statute, at least where it appears that the railroad agent had knowledge of the true ownership of the shipment.—Rooney v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., 286 S.W. 153, 220 Mo.App. 273.

7. U.S.—Norfolk Southern R. Co. v. Chatman, N.C., 37 S.Ct. 499, 501, 244 U.S. 276, 61 L.Ed. 1131, L.R.A. 1917F 1128, affirming 222 F. 802, 138 C.C.A. 350.
"The language of the . . . [tariff] implies that . . . [caretakers'] passes will be issued . . . to destination of the shipment and was intended as notice to shippers that return passes would not be allowed"—Norfolk Southern R. Co. v. Chatman, supra.

8. U.S.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Messina, 36 S.Ct. 368, 240 U.S. 395, 60 L.Ed. 709, reversing Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. Messina, 67 So. 963, 109 Miss. 143.
10 C.J. p. 711 note 35.

9. U.S.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Messina, 36 S.Ct. 368, 240 U.S. 395, 60 L.Ed. 709, reversing 67 So. 963, 109 Miss. 143.
10 C.J. p. 711 note 36.

10. W.Va.—Comisky v. Norfolk & W. Ry. Co., 90 S.E. 385, 79 W.Va. 148, L.R.A.1917D 220.

was also an actual transportation on the pass.[11]

Since the issuance of passes to members of an employee's family is not prohibited, such passes are impliedly authorized.[12] The word "families," as used in the exception in the act prohibiting the issuance of any pass except to employees and their families, is used in the restrictive sense, and means a collective body of persons living in one house under one head.[13]

The provisions of the act do not extend to the postal service of the United States, nor prohibit the transportation by railroad companies free of charge of such officers or agents of the government as are employed in that service;[14] nor do they not prohibit the issuance of passes to officers, agents, and employees of carriers not subject to the act, such, for instance, as to officers and agents of transatlantic steamship companies and foreign railroad companies.[15]

Contract for issuance of pass. In view of the prohibition of the Interstate Commerce Act, 49 U.S.C.A. § 6, against demanding, collecting or receiving a greater or less or different compensation for the transportation of persons, than appears in the carrier's published tariffs, contracts for the issuance of passes, although based on a consideration, are unenforceable,[16] notwithstanding they were entered into prior to the passage of the act, and were valid when made,[17] or that the contract was to issue a pass to an employee of the carrier.[18]

b. Under State Law

Under statutory provisions in some jurisdictions the issuance of passes is prohibited except in certain specified instances; and any carrier issuing a pass, or any person accepting or using a pass, in violation of such a statute, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

Under constitutional or statutory provisions in some jurisdictions railroad companies are prohibited, except in certain specified cases, from granting free passes over their roads,[19] such as to public 11. U.S.—In re Huntington, D.C.N.Y., 68 F. 881.

10 C.J. p 711 note 37.

12. Ind.—Clark v. Southern Ry. Co., 119 N.E. 539, 69 Ind.App. 697

Prior to amendment
The exception allowed in § 22 of the Act prior to its amendment, in favor of officers and employees of the road, did not include the families of such persons—Ex parte Koehler, C.C.Or., 31 F. 315, 12 Sawy. 446.

13. Mo.—Wentz v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 168 S.W. 1166, 259 Mo. 450, Ann.Cas.1916B 317.

Father of adult employee not within term
The term does not include the father of an adult employee not living with him nor dependent on him.—Wentz v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 168 S.W. 1166, 259 Mo. 450, Ann.Cas 1916B 317.

14. 18 Op.Atty.-Gen. 587.
"As the act does not include the mail service in its provisions, none of the lawful, customary, and necessary instrumentalities by which that service is conducted is subjected to the law."—18 Op. Atty.-Gen. 587, 591.

15. U.S.—U. S. v. Erie R. Co., N.Y., 35 S.Ct. 396, 236 U.S. 259, 59 L.Ed. 567, affirming, D.C., 213 F. 391

16. Ind.—Payne v. Elliott, 133 N.E. 751, 77 Ind.App. 415.
Tenn.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Linear, 198 S.W. 887, 138 Tenn. 543, L.R.A. 1918B 1114.
W.Va.—Dorr v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., 88 S.E. 666, 78 W.Va. 150, L.R.A.1916E 622

Prior to the Hepburn Act it was said that "the interstate commerce act of congress does not prohibit the issuance of railway passes upon a moneyed or other valuable consideration, but only prohibits free transportation."—Curry v. Kansas & C. P. Ry. Co., 48 P. 579, 58 Kan. 6.

17. U.S.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Mottley, 31 S.Ct. 265, 219 U.S. 467, 55 L.Ed. 297, 34 L.R.A.,N.S., 671, reversing 118 S.W. 982, 133 Ky. 652.
10 C.J. p 711 note 39.
Medium of payment of fare see supra § 592.

Reason for rule
"The agreement . . . must necessarily be regarded as having been made subject to the possibility that, at some future time, Congress might so exert its whole constitutional power in regulating interstate commerce as to render that agreement unenforceable or to impair its value That the exercise of such power may be hampered or restricted to any extent by contracts previously made between individuals or corporations, is inconceivable. The framers of the constitution never intended any such state of things to exist."
U.S.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Mottley, 31 S.Ct. 265, 271, 219 U.S. 467, 482, 55 L.Ed. 297, 34 L.R.A., N.S., 671, reversing 118 S.W. 982, 133 Ky. 652.
Wash.—Cowley v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 123 P. 998, 999, 68 Wash. 558, 41 L.R.A.,N.S., 559.

18. Ind.—Payne v. Elliot, 133 N.E. 751, 77 Ind.App. 415.
Tenn.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Linear, 198 S.W. 887, 138 Tenn. 543, L.R.A. 1918B 1114.

19. Ky.—Commonwealth v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., 65 S.W.2d 95 251 Ky. 382—Kentucky Traction & Terminal Co. v. Barrett, 195 S.W. 1124, 176 Ky. 605—Kentucky Traction & Terminal Co. v. Murray, 195 S.W. 1119, 176 Ky. 593, error dismissed Murray v. Kentucky Traction & Terminal Co., 39 S.Ct. 388, 249 U.S. 623, 63 L.Ed. 806.
Neb.—State v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 199 N.W. 534, 112 Neb. 248
N.J.—Perkins v. Public Service Ry. Co., 99 A. 387, 87 N.J.Eq. 134.
10 C.J. p 710 notes 26, 27.

What constitutes free pass
As used in statutory prohibitions of free passes, the term "free pass" means a pass for which a full consideration is not given, and the transportation paid for in the usual way, at the usual time and at tariff rates, it means the privilege of riding over a railroad without payment of the customary fare.
La.—Coco v. Oden, 79 So. 287, 143 La. 718, 8 A.L.R. 679, error dismissed Odon v. Coco, 39 S.Ct. 386, 249 U.S. 587, 63 L.Ed. 790.
Tex.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Wells-Fargo Exp. Co., 110 S.W. 38, 101 Tex. 564.
Free pass defined generally see supra § 622.

In West Virginia that portion of the Public Service Commission Act which prohibits the issuance and use of passes is a general regulatory provision, sanctioned by, and not in violation of, the provision of the state constitution giving county courts administration of the estabofficers;[20] and a pass issued in violation of such a statute is void and of no effect.[21] Also under some statutes, subject to certain exceptions, it is a penal offense for a person to accept free transportation on a railroad, or to use or ride on free passes thereon,[22] or for the carrier to issue such free transportation or pass,[23] although there is no intent to violate the statute.[24]

Such a statute is within the power of the legislature to regulate the business of common carriers by preventing unjust discrimination, and is a reasonable exercise of the police power of the state.[25] The mere fact that certain persons are exempted from the operation of the statute does not invalidate it,[26] although in such a case it will be strictly construed.[27] A railroad in issuing a pass to a person not within the operation of the statute acts as a common carrier.[28]

Contract to issue pass. Where the statutory prohibition is against the issuance of "free passes" to public officers, a pass for which a full consideration is rendered is not unlawful.[29] However, under statutes prohibiting free transportation or free passes generally, a contract for the issuance of a pass to a person not within the statutory exceptions is invalid.[30] lishment and regulation of roads, ways, bridges, ferries and mills.—Shrader v. Steubenville, East Liverpool & Beaver Valley Traction Co., 99 S.E. 207, 84 W.Va. 1.

20. La.—Coco v. Oden, 79 So. 287, 143 La. 718, 8 A.L.R. 679, error dismissed Odon v. Coco, 39 S.Ct. 386, 249 U.S. 587, 63 L.Ed. 790.
10 C.J. p 710 note 28.

What officers within prohibition

(1) Notary public.—Peo. v. Rathbone, 40 N.E. 395, 145 N.Y. 434, 28 L.R.A. 384.

(2) Officers and agents of the state railroad commission.—Matter of Railroad Com'rs, 32 N.Y.S. 1115, 11 Misc. 103—10 C.J. p 711 note 44.

(3) Railroad policeman appointed by the governor, and required to take the constitutional oath, and by virtue of his appointment authorized to perform the duties of a peace officer.—Dempsey v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 40 N.E. 867, 146 N.Y. 290.

(4) Sheriff.—Coco v. Oden, 79 So. 287, 143 La. 718, 8 A.L.R. 679, error dismissed Odon v. Coco, 39 S.Ct. 386, 249 U.S. 587, 63 L.Ed. 790.

Private contractual relations between a public officer and a corporation may be such as to distinguish the case from that of an ordinary public officer, so as to make legal the issue of a pass.—Dempsey v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 40 N.E. 867, 146 N.Y. 290.

21. W.Va.—Bailey v. Bartlett, 163 S.E. 615, 112 W.Va. 27.

22. Neb.—State v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 199 N.W. 534, 112 Neb. 248.
W.Va.—State v. Ankrom, 103 S.E. 925, 86 W.Va. 570.
10 C.J. p 710 note 29.

Exchange of tickets not violation of statute

Where a shipper accompanied live stock over one road, and his assistant accompanied a shipment over another, and they received return tickets, to which they were entitled under shipping contracts, their exchange of such tickets, made with the ticket agent's consent, was not a violation of spirit or substance of a statute prohibiting the issuance of free passes but providing an exception in the case of caretakers accompanying live stock.—Gruhl v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 168 N.W. 127, 140 Minn. 353.

Riding free without pass

It has been held that it is not an offense under such statutes for a person to attempt to ride free without attempting to use the pass.—Carpenter v. Trinity & B. V. Ry. Co., 184 S.W. 186, 108 Tex. 52, 1 A.L.R. 1449, reversing, Civ.App., 146 S.W. 363.

Sufficiency of indictment

Indictment charging with reasonable certainty and precision the procurement and use of a pass entitling holder to free transportation or service by a public service corporation is sufficient on demurrer.—State v. Ankrom, 103 S.E. 925, 86 W.Va. 570.

Word "aid" construed

Although the word "aid" does not necessarily embrace or imply guilty knowledge or purpose, yet when supplemented by "abet," as both are used in a statute providing that every officer, agent, etc., of any public service corporation, or any patron, passenger, or other person, who procures, aids, or abets any violation of any provision of such statute by any public service corporation shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, both terms jointly indicate such knowledge and purpose and the intention to encourage the commission of the offense.—State v. Ankrom, 103 S.E. 925, 86 W.Va. 570.

23. Ky.—Commonwealth v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., 65 S.W.2d 95, 251 Ky. 382.
Neb.—State v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 199 N.W. 534, 112 Neb. 248.
10 C.J. p 710 note 30.

Joint participation

Acts 1913 c 9 §§ 6, 7, Code 1913 §§ 6, 7 [secs. 641, 642], forbidding free transportation of passengers by carriers, except of employees, intend joint participation and punishment of carrier and passenger, either directly or indirectly, to constitute a violation thereof.—Comisky v. Norfolk & W. Ry. Co., 90 S.E. 385, 79 W.Va. 148, L.R.A.1917D 220.

24. Fla.—State v. Live Oak, etc., R. Co., 70 So. 550, 70 Fla. 564.

25. Ky.—Kentucky Traction & Terminal Co. v. Barrett, 195 S.W. 1124, 176 Ky. 605—Kentucky Traction & Terminal Co. v. Murray, 195 S.W. 1119, 176 Ky. 593, error dismissed Murray v. Kentucky Traction & Terminal Co., 39 S.Ct. 388, 249 U.S. 623, 63 L.Ed. 806.
10 C.J. p 711 note 33.

26. Neb.—State v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 199 N.W. 534, 112 Neb. 248.

Statute held valid

There being reasonable grounds for legislative classification of persons with respect to rates of fare paid, under Anti-Pass Law, Acts 1907 c 42 § 2, as amended by Acts 1911, c 83, Vernon Pen.Code Annot.1916 art 1533, and law affecting equally all persons similarly situated under similar circumstances, it is not invalid.—St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. State, 261 S.W. 996, 113 Tex. 570, 33 A.L.R. 367, reversing State v. St. Louis S. W. Ry. Co. of Texas, Civ. App., 197 S.W. 1006.

27. Neb.—State v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 199 N.W. 534, 112 Neb. 248.

28. N.H.—Wessman v. Boston & M. R. R., 152 A. 476, 84 N.H. 475.

29. N.Y.—Dempsey v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 40 N.E. 867, 146 N.Y. 290.

30. Ind.—Payne v. Elliott, 133 N.E. 751, 77 Ind.App. 415.
10 C.J. p 710 note 29 [a].

A contract whereby a railroad agrees to carry a person and the members of his family for life between two points in consideration of deeds to right of way is violative of a statute providing that no public utility shall make or give, directly or indirectly, any undue or unreasonable preference or advantage to any

While it has been held that such a statute is prospective in its operation, and does not operate to destroy or impair the obligation of contracts made prior to its passage,[31] there is authority to the contrary,[32] and it has been held that, where a public officer is prohibited from making use of a pass as well as from receiving one, he may not avail himself of a pass notwithstanding it was issued before the provision became operative.[33]

Interstate pass. The issuance of a pass limited to interstate transportation is not a violation of a statute prohibiting the issuance of passes for transportation within the state.[34]

Passenger carried past station. A statute prohibiting carriers from transporting passengers free does not prevent a railroad company, on carrying a passenger past his station by mistake, from carrying him free to the next station.[35]

§ 624. Revocability of Pass

A pass issued without consideration is revocable at any time.

As already pointed out in § 622 b, a pass issued without consideration is a mere license, which is revocable at any time,[36] even while the holder is a passenger on it.[37] This is especially true where the right is expressly reserved to cancel the pass at any time.[38] The leasing of a railroad works a revocation of prior passes issued without consideration.[39]

F. LIMITATION OF, OR EXEMPTION FROM, LIABILITY

1. In General

§ 625. Early Rule

Under the rule of some of the earlier cases, a common carrier could not by any means avoid its common-law liabilities.

According to some of the earlier cases, a common carrier could not by any means whatever avoid the liabilities imposed on it by the common law.[40]

§ 626. Present Rules

Under present rules, a common carrier cannot limit its liability for its willful misconduct; and the limitation of liability under the Carmack amendment does not apply to personal injuries to a passenger.

It may be broadly said that under the present rules a common carrier cannot limit its liability, or exempt itself from liability, to a passenger for injuries resulting from its willful misconduct;[41] so a carrier cannot exempt itself from responsibility for the fraudulent, willful, or reckless misconduct of person, corporation, or locality.—Schmoele v. Atlantic City R. Co., 155 A. 143, 108 N.J.Eq. 353, affirmed 160 A. 524, 110 N.J.Eq. 597—Perkins v. Public Service Ry. Co., 99 A. 387, 87 N.J.Eq. 134.

An agreement in the nature of a free pass for life between a railroad company and a prospective shipper is invalid, where the consideration mentioned is one dollar, and the proof is to the effect that the pass was merely a gratuity in recognition of past kindnesses.—Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Peterson, 58 Pa.Super. 44.

31. N.H.—Emerson v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 75 A. 529, 75 N.H. 427, 27 L.R.A.,N.S., 331.
Tex.—St. Louis Southwestern R. Co. v. Mitchell-Crittenden Tie Co., Civ.App., 148 S.W. 1191—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Wells, Civ.App., 108 S.W. 174, affirmed, Sup., 110 S.W. 41—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Wells, Civ.App., 108 S.W. 172, affirmed 110 S.W. 38, 101 Tex. 564.
10 C.J. p 711 note 38.

32. N.J.—Schmoele v. Atlantic City R. Co., 155 A. 143, 108 N.J.Eq. 353, affirmed but the text point left undecided, 160 A. 524, 110 N.J.Eq. 597.

33. N.Y.—Peo. v. Rathbone, 40 N.E. 395, 145 N.Y. 434, 28 L.R.A. 384.

34. Ky.—Commonwealth v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., 65 S.W.2d 95, 251 Ky. 382.

Words "within this state" construed
The words "within this state" must be construed to mean from one point in state to another point in state, in order to validate statute prohibiting common carriers from issuing free passes for transportation of passengers within this state.—Commonwealth v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., 65 S.W.2d 95, 251 Ky. 382.

35. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Green, Tex.Civ.App., 141 S.W. 341.

36. Minn.—Bergerson v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 196 N.W. 670, 671, 153 Minn. 20.
N.C.—Turner v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 70 N.C. 1.
10 C.J. p 712 note 48.

The rule as stated in Corpus Juris has been cited with approval by the court in Bergerson v. Great Northern Ry. Co., supra.

37. U.S.—Smith v. Atchison, T. & S.F. Ry. Co., Okl., 194 F. 79, 114 C.C.A. 157.
Minn.—Bergerson v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 196 N.W. 670, 671, 153 Minn. 20.
10 C.J. p 712 note 50.
"If . . . [a person] seeks to travel on a free pass, he does so at his peril."—Bergerson v. Great Northern Ry. Co., supra.

38. Minn.—Bergerson v. Great Northern Ry. Co., supra.
10 C.J. p 712 note 49.

Stipulation on back
"A free pass, having on its back that it 'may be revoked by the railroad company at any time,' to ride on trains . . . may be revoked . . . at any time."—Bergerson v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 196 N.W. 670, 158 Minn. 20.

39. N.C.—Turner v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 70 N.C. 1.

40. Ga.—Fish v. Chapman, 2 Ga. 349, 46 Am.D. 393.
Ohio.—Jones v. Voorhees, 10 Ohio 145.

Historical summary
Ind.—Vandalia R. Co. v. Stevens, 114 N.E. 1001, 67 Ind.App. 238.

41. Ind.—Ft. Wayne & Wabash Valley Traction Co. v. Justus, 115 N.E. 585, 186 Ind. 464—Mitten v. Delano, 116 N.E. 744, 65 Ind.App. 701.
Miss.—Gulf & S.I.R. Co. v. Sullivan, 119 So. 501, 155 Miss. 1, 62 A.L.R. 191.
S.C.—Turman v. Seaboard Air Line Ry., 89 S.E. 655, 105 S.C. 287.

its agent or employee.[42] The situation with respect to injuries occasioned by the carrier's negligence is considered in §§ 629–639 infra.

The Carmack amendment under which a carrier may limit its liability by published tariff does not apply to the carrier's liability for personal injuries suffered by a passenger.[43]

§ 627. By Contract

By special contract, founded on valuable consideration, a carrier may limit its liability for injuries not arising from its willful misconduct or negligence, provided the limitation is just and reasonable.

In the absence of statutory restrictions, a common carrier may limit its liability by special contract for exemption from responsibility for injuries not arising from the negligence, see infra §§ 629–639, or willful misconduct, see supra § 626. of itself or its servants,[44] especially where the passenger is carried at a reduced fare;[45] but the exemption provided for in the contract must be such as is deemed just and reasonable in law,[46] and the contract must be founded on a valuable consideration, which may consist in a reduction of the passenger's fare or something equivalent.[47]

Where the terms of the special contract limiting the carrier's liability are set out in full in the ticket issued to the passenger, the limitation of liability contained therein has been held to be impliedly assented to by the acceptance and use of the ticket;[48] and it has also been held that the fact that the special contract when printed or written is not signed Contracts limiting liability of sleeping car companies see infra § 905.

Limitation of contractual obligation for through transportation over connecting lines see infra § 652.

Limitation of liability as to passenger's baggage and effects see infra §§ 874–878.

Limitation of time for commencing action see infra § 758.

Written notice of injury as condition precedent to action see infra § 758.

Reason for rule

A contract exempting a carrier from "the intended wrongful acts of its servants . . . would militate against good order, and would be against public policy."—Turman v. Seaboard Air Line Ry., 89 S.E. 655, 105 S.C. 287, 291.

Rule applied to gratuitous passengers

Ind.—Ft. Wayne v. Wabash Valley Traction Co. v. Justus, 115 N.E. 585, 186 Ind. 464—Mitten v. Delano, 116 N.E. 744, 65 Ind.App. 701.

Miss.—Gulf & S. I. R. Co. v. Sullivan, 119 So. 501, 155 Miss. 1, 62 A.L.R. 191.

S.C.—Turman v. Seaboard Air Line Ry., 89 S.E. 655, 105 S.C. 287.

Rule applied to private carrier

A provision in a contract to haul a circus train that the carrier shall not be liable for injuries "arising from any cause whatsoever" is void in so far as the carrier is relieved from liability for injuries "willfully and intentionally inflicted," even though in making the contract the carrier is acting as a private, and not as a common, carrier.—Dierickx v. Davis, 137 N.E. 685, 689, 80 Ind.App. 71, certiorari denied 44 S.Ct. 36, 263 U.S. 709, 68 L.Ed. 518.

Not "liable under any circumstances"

A provision in a pass that the carrier shall not "be liable under any circumstances, whether of negligence of agent or otherwise," has been construed not to exempt the carrier from responsibility for the intended wrongful acts of its employees.—Turman v. Seaboard Air Line Ry., 89 S.E. 655, 656, 105 S.C. 287.

Abusive conduct of conductor

Miss.—Gulf & S. I. R. Co. v. Sullivan, 119 So. 501, 155 Miss. 1, 62 A.L.R. 191.

42. La.—Higgins v. New Orleans, etc., R. Co., 28 La.Ann. 133.

43. Dictum Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. Woodbury, 41 S.Ct. 114, 254 U.S. 357, 65 L.Ed. 301, reversing Woodbury v. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co., Tex.Civ.App., 209 S.W. 432.

As to drovers see infra § 635.

As to employees of others in general see infra § 633.

44. Pa.—Crary v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 53 A. 363, 203 Pa. 525, 93 Am.St.R. 778, 59 L.R.A. 815.

10 C.J. p. 712 note 55.

Furnishing lights and stopping for drover

Although a person riding on a drover's pass is a passenger, the carrier can stipulate in such pass against liability for failure to set the passenger down at a station or to furnish lights for his accommodation, such a provision not being a contract relieving the carrier of liability for its negligence.—Roberts v. Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co., Tex.Civ.App., 229 S.W. 954.

45. Mont.—Miley v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 108 P. 5, 41 Mont. 51.

Liability as insurer waived

"By the purchase and acceptance of the ticket at a reduced rate, with the condition indorsed on it that the . . . [passenger], in using it, would assume all risks of accident and damage to his person, there was an agreement between him and the railroad company that the common-law rule making the common carrier an insurer of his safety should be set aside, and that he would be bound by the agreement between them as the law defining the duty and liability of the . . . [railroad company] in carrying him. . . . That such an agreement may be made has long since been settled."—Crary v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 53 A. 363, 203 Pa. 525, 93 Am.St.R. 778, 59 L.R.A. 815.

46. Ill.—Crane v. Railway Express Agency, 12 N.E.2d 672, 293 Ill.App. 328.

10 C.J. p. 713 note 66.

47. Ill.—Arnold v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 83 Ill. 273, 25 Am.R. 383.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Morrison, 19 Ill. 136.

10 C.J. p. 713 note 64.

Particular mode of conveyance

Where a passenger purchases a ticket for carriage on a freight train, which contains stipulations exempting the railroad from liability for injuries, the consideration which supports the limitation is the promise by the company to carry him by this particular mode of conveyance, to which but for the promise he would not be entitled.—Arnold v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 83 Ill. 273, 25 Am.R. 386.

Performance of a duty already imposed

In holding that a stipulation for exemption from liability contained in a pass issued to a mail agent was without consideration, since the carrying of the agent was a duty already imposed on the carrier, the court said: "A promise by one party to do that which he is already under a legal obligation to perform has frequently been held to be insufficient as a consideration to support a contract."—Seybolt v. New York, etc., R. Co., 95 N.Y. 562, 575, 47 Am.R. 75.

48. Mass.—O'Regan v. Cunard SS. Co., 35 N.E. 1070, 160 Mass. 356, 39 Am.St.R. 484.

Knowledge and assent of passenger to conditions and limitations see generally supra § 616.

by the passenger is immaterial where the requisites to its validity in other respects exist.[49]

§ 628. By Notice

A common carrier cannot limit its liability to a passenger by any mere notice.

A common carrier cannot limit its liability to a passenger by any mere notice, even though the notice is expressly brought to his knowledge,[50] and constitutional or statutory provisions in several jurisdictions, prohibiting the limitation of liability by notice, have been construed or applied.[51]

2. For Negligence

§ 629. In General

The general rule, subject to qualifications and some dissent, is that a contract exempting a common carrier from liability for negligence to a passenger is void; but this rule does not apply to private carriers or to common carriers when acting outside their duties as such.

In analogy to the rule established in the case of carriers of goods, that any contract relieving the carrier from liability for negligence is invalid, supra § 99, it is widely held, in broad terms, that any contract purporting to exempt a common carrier of passengers from liability to a passenger for the negligence of itself or its employees is void, as being against public policy,[52] and that no contract, condition, or limitation will relieve the carrier from liability to a passenger carried for compensation or hire for the consequences of the negligence of the carrier or its employees, or modify that liability so as to restrict it within the limits fixed by the common law.[53] These broad rules, however, are subject to qualifications and exceptions, which will appear in succeeding sections.

Constitutional or statutory provisions. Particular constitutional or statutory provisions expressly providing that the carrier cannot by contract exempt itself from, or limit, its common-law liability for injury occasioned by its neglect or misconduct have been construed or applied in a number of cases;[54] and under such provisions a contract ex-

49. Mass.—Quimby v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 23 N.E. 205, 150 Mass. 365, 5 L.R.A. 846.

50. N.Y.—Bissell v. New York Cent. R. Co., 25 N.Y. 442, 82 Am.D. 369
10 C.J. p 714 note 69.
Notice of conditions and limitations generally see supra § 615.
Notice of regulations see supra § 572.

51. Ga.—Phillips v. Georgia R., etc., Co., 20 S.E. 247, 93 Ga. 356.
10 C.J. p 714 note 70.

52. U.S.—Curtiss-Wright Flying Service v. Glose, C.C.A.N.J., 66 F.2d 710, certiorari denied 54 S.Ct. 132, 290 U.S. 696, 78 L.Ed. 599—Oceanic Steam Nav. Co. v. Corcoran, C.C.A. N.Y., 9 F.2d 724, 57 A.L.R. 163.
Ind.—Vandalia R. Co. v. Stevens, 114 N.E. 1001, 67 Ind.App. 238.
Iowa.—Shadduck v. Chicago, M., St. P. & P. R. Co., 252 N.W. 772, 218 Iowa 281.
Neb.—Maucher v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co., 159 N.W. 422, 100 Neb. 237, error dismissed Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Maucher, 39 S.Ct. 108, 248 U.S. 359, 63 L.Ed. 294
N.H.—Wessman v. Boston & M. R. R., 152 A. 476, 84 N.H. 475.
Tex.—Nevill v. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co., Com.App., 244 S.W. 980, reversing, Civ.App., 187 S.W. 388, and reversed on other grounds, Com. App., 252 S.W. 483—International-Great Northern R. Co. v. Lucas, Civ.App., 70 S.W.2d 226, reversed on other grounds, Com.App., 99 S.W.2d 297, opinion corrected 100 S.W.2d 97.
10 C.J. p 714 note 75.
Dictum Broderson v. Rainier Nat. Park Co., Wash., 60 P.2d 234.
Corpus Juris quoted
Mo.—Alexander v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., 2 S.W.2d 165, 166, 221 Mo.App. 271.
Corpus Juris cited
Colo.—Otis Elevator Co. v. Maryland Casualty Co., 33 P.2d 974, 977, 95 Colo. 99.
"It is against the policy of the law to permit any one, be he common carrier or not, to relieve himself by contract from the performance of his common-law duty to use ordinary care to avoid injuring those with whom he knew or should have known his business would bring him in contact."—Wessman v. Boston & M. R. R., 152 A. 476, 478, 84 N.H. 475.
"In England . . . it is . . . settled that a public carrier may exempt itself from liability for its own or its agent's negligence."—Oceanic Steam Nav. Co. v. Corcoran, C.C.A.N.Y., 9 F.2d 724, 728, 57 A.L.R. 163—10 C.J. p 717 notes 84–88, p 718 notes 89, 90

53. Me.—Miller v. Maine Cent. R. Co., 133 A. 907, 125 Me. 338, 47 A.L.R. 720.
Md.—Western Maryland Ry. Co. v. Shatzer, 120 A. 840, 142 Md. 274
Mass.—Palmer v. Boston & M. R. R., 116 N.E. 899, 227 Mass. 493.
Mo.—Alexander v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., 2 S.W.2d 165, 221 Mo.App. 271.
N.H.—Wessman v. Boston & M. R. R., 152 A. 476, 84 N.H. 475.
N.J.—Sheridan v. New Jersey & N. Y. R. Co., 141 A. 811, 104 N.J.Law 622.
10 C.J. p 716 note 76.
Gratuitous passengers see infra § 634.
Corpus Juris quoted
Mo.—Alexander v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., 2 S.W.2d 165, 166, 221 Mo.App. 271.
Reason for rule
"The reason . . . would seem to me to be that as a common carrier is a quasi public agency enjoying a franchise, and generally a monopoly, to serve the public for, and in consideration of, the carrier's own profit, the latter as a matter of public policy will not be permitted, while receiving the profit, to escape the service. One of the elements of that service in the case of a common carrier of passengers for hire is that it and its servants shall use a high degree of care for the safety of the passengers. The public which grants the profit-privilege is naturally interested in the performance of the reciprocal service. It is therefore a matter of true public policy which renders void any attempt to contract out of existence the right of the traveling public to have its safety properly conserved at the hands of those instrumentalities which, in consideration of such conservation, it has created and authorized to serve it and to take toll for so doing."—Sheridan v. New Jersey & N. Y. R. Co., 141 A. 811, 813, 104 N.J.Law 622.

54. Iowa.—Shadduck v. Chicago, M., St. P. & P. R. Co., 252 N.W. 772, 218 Iowa 281.

empting the carrier from liability will not be valid, even though it is attached as a condition to some special privilege which might have sustained it at common law.[55] Particular statutes applicable to employees of others, gratuitous passengers, and express messengers are considered in §§ 633, 634, 636, infra, respectively.

Carriers included in rule. The general rule above stated is applicable to all common carriers, whether by land or water,[56] or by air.[57]

A private carrier, however, is not included within the general rule, and may wholly absolve itself by contract from liability for its negligence,[58] even as to a passenger for hire;[59] nor is the general rule applicable to a common carrier acting outside its duties as a common carrier;[60] in such case the carrier may contract as a private carrier[61] and may, in the absence of statutes to the contrary, exempt itself from liability for negligence,[62] other than, it has been held, willful and wanton negligence.[63]

Neb.—Maucher v. Chicago, R. I & P. Ry. Co. 159 N.W. 422, 100 Neb. 237, error dismissed Chicago, R. I & P. R. Co. v. Maucher, 39 S.Ct. 108, 248 U.S. 359, 63 L.Ed. 294.

10 C.J. p. 717 note 78

55. Tex.—Ft. Worth, etc., R. Co. v. Rogers, 53 S.W. 366, 21 Tex.Civ. App. 605

10 C.J. p. 717 note 79.

56. U.S.—Curtiss-Wright Flying Service v. Glose, C.C.A.N.J., 66 F. 2d 710, certiorari denied 54 S.Ct. 132, 290 U.S. 696, 78 L.Ed. 599.

10 C.J. p. 717 note 81.

Limitation of liability of carriers by water see C.J.S. title Shipping § 195, also 58 C.J. p. 562 notes 35–38.

57. U.S.—Curtiss-Wright Flying Service v. Glose, C.C.A.N.J., 66 F. 2d 710, certiorari denied 54 S.Ct. 132, 290 U.S. 696, 78 L.Ed. 599.

Limitation of liability of common carrier by air see Aerial Navigation § 43.

Reason for rule

"What reason is there why the same principles applicable to land and water should not also be applied to air transportation? . . . All alike perform the same service, viz., transportation. They are competitors for the same class of business. Every passenger carrier by airplane means a passenger less for the railroad or the steamship. Transportation, as its derivation denotes, is a carrying across, and, whether the carrying be by rail, by water or by air, the purpose in view and the thing done are identical in result."—Curtiss-Wright Flying Service v. Glose, C.C.A.N.J., 66 F.2d 710, 712, certiorari denied 54 S.Ct. 132, 290 U.S. 696, 78 L.Ed. 599.

58. Ark.—Dodson v. Clark County Lumber Co., 184 S.W. 417, 123 Ark. 50.

10 C.J. p. 717 note 82.

A logging company which constructs a railroad to haul its materials to its sawmill and which is not engaged in the carriage of passengers may, in a contract with another to haul his material, exempt itself from all liability to him for injuries resulting from its negligence while carrying him to and from the place where he is getting out his material, since the logging company is "not a 'public carrier,' and, being engaged in performing purely a private service . . . [has] the right to prescribe the terms on which it . . . [will] perform the same."—Dodson v. Clark County Lumber Co., 184 S.W. 417, 418, 123 Ark. 50.

59. Ind.—Malott v. Weston, 98 N.E. 127, 51 Ind.App. 572

Tex.—Sullivan-Sanford Lumber Co. v. Watson, 155 S.W. 179, reversing, Civ.App., 135 S.W. 635

60. U.S.—Santa Fé P. & P. R. Co. v. Grant Bros. Const. Co., Ariz., 33 S. Ct. 474, 228 U.S. 177, 57 L.Ed. 787.

61. U.S.—McCree v. Davis, C.C.A. Ohio, 280 F. 959.

Ind.—Dierickx v. Davis, 137 N.E. 685, 80 Ind.App. 71, certiorari denied 44 S.Ct. 36, 263 U.S. 709, 68 L.Ed. 518.

Me.—Buckley v. Bangor, etc., R. Co., 93 A. 65, 113 Me. 164, L.R.A. 1916A 617

62. U.S.—McCree v. Davis, C.C.A. Ohio, 280 F. 959

Ill.—Chicago, etc. R. Co. v. Hamler, 74 N.E. 705, 215 Ill. 525, 106 Am.S.R. 187, 1 L.R.A.N.S., 674, 3 Ann. Cas. 42, reversing 114 Ill.App. 141.

Ind.—Russell v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 61 N.E. 678, 157 Ind. 305, 87 Am.S.R. 214, 55 L.R.A. 253—Dierickx v. Davis, 137 N.E. 685, 80 Ind.App. 71, certiorari denied 44 S.Ct. 36, 263 U.S. 709, 68 L.Ed. 518.

Mich.—Sabol v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 238 N.W. 281, 255 Mich. 548, certiorari denied Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. v. Sabol, 52 S.Ct. 265, 284 U.S. 638, 76 L.Ed. 581.

10 C.J. p. 717 notes 80, 82, p. 719 note 5.

Rule applied to:

Circus employees see infra § 633.

Express messengers see infra § 636.

Sleeping car employees see infra § 633.

"The authorities are unanimous in holding that a railway company, although distinctively a common carrier when engaged in the performance of its legal duties, nevertheless, when acting in matters not within the scope of its legal duties, may contract as a private carrier and may lawfully provide in such a contract that it shall not be liable for injury to persons or property caused by its negligence."—Dierickx v. Davis 137 N.E. 685, 689, 80 Ind. App. 71, certiorari denied 44 S.Ct. 36, 263 U.S. 709, 68 L.Ed. 518.

Reason for rule

"Manifestly, this rule [that a common carrier cannot limit its liability] has no application when a railroad company is acting outside the performance of its duty as a common carrier. In such case, it is dealing with matters involving ordinary considerations of contractual relation; those who choose to enter into engagements with it are not at a disadvantage; and its stipulations even against liability for its own neglect are not repugnant to the requirements of its public service."

U.S.—Santa Fé P. & P. R. Co. v. Grant Bros. Const. Co., Ariz., 33 S. Ct. 474, 477, 228 U.S. 177, 57 L.Ed. 787

Tex.—Neville v. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co., Com.App., 252 S.W. 483, 485.

"General test" of validity

"If the service is one that is not imposed upon the carrier as a duty, it may undertake it upon such terms as it may see fit. According to many authorities, the general test, then to apply to contracts of common carriers, limiting their liability, is whether they relate to duties which they are bound to perform, or whether they relate to services which are optional for them to perform."—Denver, etc., R. Co. v. Whan, 89 P. 39, 39 Colo. 230, 236, 11 L.R.A.,N.S., 432, 12 Ann.Cas. 732.

Contract as determining liability

Where, under a special contract limiting its liability, a carrier undertakes duties which it is under no obligation to perform, the terms of the contract determine the extent to which the carrier is liable for injuries to a person carried under the contract.—Denver, etc., R. Co. v. Whan, 89 P. 39, 39 Colo. 230, 11 L.R.A.,N.S., 432, 12 Ann.Cas. 732.

63. U.S.—McCree v. Davis, C.C.A. Ohio, 280 F. 959

Mich.—Sabol v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 238 N.W. 281, 255 Mich. 548, certiorari denied Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. v. Sabol, 52 S.Ct. 265, 284 U.S. 638, 76 L.Ed. 581.

However, it has been held that a common carrier undertaking to transport a person not its employee cannot by contract lawfully constitute itself a private carrier in the particular of being relieved of its common-law liability as a common carrier, the carriage of passengers for hire being within the scope of its business as a common carrier.[64]

In New York, contrary to the weight of authority as previously stated in this section, a carrier may, for a sufficient consideration passing to the passenger,[65] such as a reduction in rates,[66] stipulate for an exemption from liability for its negligence,[67] although as to a passenger for hire a contract limiting a carrier's liability for negligence is void unless the passenger is given the option of purchasing a ticket under which liability is unlimited.[68] To exempt a carrier from liability for negligence, the contract for exemption must be expressed in unequivocal terms,[69] or in such terms as to leave no doubt as to the meaning of the parties,[70] general words of limitation being insufficient in themselves to exempt the carrier from liability for negligence.[71]

The New York holdings to the effect that a carrier may limit its liability for negligence should, however, be compared with the holdings in that state as to degrees of negligence and grades of agents, considered in §§ 630, 631 infra, respectively.

§ 630. Degrees of Negligence

Under some authorities, a carrier may exempt itself from liability for ordinary, but not for gross, negligence; but others have rejected this distinction.

A distinction has been made between ordinary negligence and gross negligence, some cases holding that the carrier may exempt itself from liability for the former, but not for the latter.[72] In other cases,

Degrees of negligence generally see infra § 630.

64. Tex.—International-Great Northern R. Co. v. Lucas, Civ.App., 70 S.W.2d 226, 230, reversed on other grounds, Com.App., 99 S.W.2d 297, opinion corrected 100 S.W.2d 97.

65. N.Y.—Murray v. Cunard S. S. Co., 193 N.Y.S. 220, 200 App.Div. 466.

10 C.J. p. 718 note 97.

Consideration not shown

"The mere statement in the ticket that 'the price of passage hereunder has been fixed partly with reference to the liability assumed by the company as defined by this contract' is not of itself sufficient to show any consideration for an exemption from liability for the carrier's negligence."—Murray v. Cunard S. S. Co., 193 N.Y.S. 220, 222, 200 App.Div. 466

66. N.Y.—Anderson v. Erie R. Co., 119 N.E. 557, 223 N.Y. 277, affirming order 157 N.Y.S. 740, 171 App. Div. 687.

Limitation of liability as to passengers carried at reduced rates generally see infra § 632.

67. N.Y.—Anderson v. Erie R. Co., 119 N.E. 557, 223 N.Y. 277, affirming order 157 N.Y.S. 740, 171 App. Div. 687—Seybolt v. New York, etc., R. Co., 95 N.Y. 562, 47 Am.R. 75—Murray v. Cunard S. S. Co., 193 N.Y.S. 220, 200 App.Div. 466.

10 C.J. p. 718 notes 94, 97.

Authorities reviewed

N.Y.—Anderson v. Erie R. Co., 157 N.Y.S. 740, 171 App.Div. 687, affirmed 119 N.E. 557, 223 N.Y. 277.

68. N.Y.—Conklin v. Canadian-Colonial Airways, 194 N.E. 692, 266 N.Y. 244, affirming 271 N.Y.S. 1107, 242 App.Div. 625.

Refusal to carry without contract against liability

"Is it the law of this state that a common carrier of passengers for hire can refuse to carry them unless they stipulate or contract that the carrier shall not be liable for its own negligence or that of its employees? This state has never gone that far."—Conklin v. Canadian-Colonial Airways, 194 N.E. 692, 693, 266 N.Y. 244, affirming 271 N.Y.S. 1107, 242 App.Div. 625.

Reduced or alternative rates

The passenger will not be deemed to have assented to a stipulation in his ticket exempting the carrier from liability to him for the negligence of its employees, where it is not shown that the ticket was sold at a reduced rate, or that there was a higher rate which the passenger could have paid to secure full protection.—Murray v. Cunard S. S. Co., 193 N.Y.S. 220, 200 App.Div. 466.

69. N.Y.—Kenney v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 26 N.E. 626, 125 N.Y. 422

10 C.J. p. 718 note 94.

Reason for rule

"Every presumption is against an intention to contract for immunity for not exercising ordinary diligence in the transaction of any business, and hence the general rule is that contracts will not be so construed, unless expressed in unequivocal terms."—Mynard v. Syracuse, etc., R. Co., 71 N.Y. 180, 183, 27 Am.R. 28.

Release "from all claims" insufficient

A condition in a ticket issued by a railroad company releasing it "from all claims for damages for personal injuries from whatever cause" is not sufficiently plain and unequivocal in its terms to release the carrier from liability for injuries resulting to a passenger from its negligence.—Dow v. Syracuse, etc., R. Co., 80 N.Y.S. 941, 944, 81 App. Div. 362

70. N.Y.—Blair v. Erie R. Co., 66 N.Y. 313, 23 Am.R. 55—Magnin v. Dinsmore, 56 N.Y. 168—Perkins v. New York Cent. R. Co., 24 N.Y. 196, 82 Am.D. 281.

71. N.Y.—Elliott v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 11 N.Y.S. 691, 692.

10 C.J. p. 718 note 94

"When general words of release may be made operative, without including negligence of the carrier or servants, such construction as will exclude exemption for negligence must obtain."—Elliott v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., supra.

72. Mont.—John v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 111 P. 632, 42 Mont. 18, 32 L.R.A.,N.S., 85

10 C.J. p. 718 note 91.

Rule not applied to passengers for hire

Ill.—Crane v. Railway Express Agency, 12 N.E.2d 672, 293 Ill. App. 328.

10 C.J. p. 718 note 92.

In New York

(1) The rule stated in the text is supported by some of the earlier New York cases—Smith v. New York Cent. R. Co., 29 Barb. 132, affirmed 24 N.Y. 222—Boswell v. Hudson River R. Co., 18 N.Y.Super. 699.

(2) To be effective, a contract for exemption was required to be clear and specific in its terms, general words of limitation being in themselves insufficient to exempt the carrier from liability for negligence.

however, this distinction has been rejected[73] as being too artificial and vague for clear definition or practical application.[74]

Degrees of negligence on the part of the carrier and its employees are considered in § 631 infra; degrees with respect to employees of others and gratuitous passengers are considered in §§ 633, 634, infra, respectively.

§ 631. Negligence of Carrier and That of Its Employees

Under some early New York cases, a carrier might exempt itself from liability for any degree of negligence of subordinate employees, but as to its own acts it could contract against liability only for negligence not constituting willful or wanton misconduct.

Under the distinction made in some of the earlier New York cases between the negligence of the carrier itself, as represented by its directors or managing officers, and that of its subordinate employees, a carrier might exempt itself from liability for any degree of negligence on the part of such employees, whereas, as to its own acts, it could contract against liability only for negligence not constituting willful and wanton misconduct,[75] however, with these holdings should be compared those in other New York cases as to exemption from liability generally, considered in § 629 supra, and as to degrees of negligence, considered in § 630 supra.

This distinction between the negligence of the carrier and that of its employees has, however, been repudiated in other jurisdictions.[76]

§ 632. Applications of Rule to Particular Classes of Passengers

It is generally held that a carrier cannot exempt itself from liability for negligence as to passengers carried at reduced rates or under so-called passes issued for consideration, passengers carried on freight trains, unless carriage on such trains is only by special permission, and passengers accompanying inanimate freight as caretakers thereof.

The general rule, stated in § 629 supra, that a common carrier of passengers cannot exempt itself from liability for negligence has been applied to passengers carried at reduced rates,[77] although —Smith v. New York Cent. R. Co., supra.

(3) Other New York cases involving degrees of negligence are treated, where pertinent, in §§ 631, 634.

73. U.S.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Lockwood, N.Y., 17 Wall. 357, 21 L.Ed. 627—Philadelphia & Reading R. Co. v. Derby, Pa., 14 How. 468, 14 L.Ed. 502.
Conn.—Griswold v. New York, etc., R. Co., 4 A. 261, 53 Conn. 371, 55 Am.R. 115

74. Conn.—Griswold v. New York, etc., R. Co., supra.

75. N.Y.—Perkins v. New York Cent. R. Co., 24 N.Y. 196, 82 Am.D. 281.
10 C.J. p. 718 note 97.
Distinction applied to gratuitous passengers see infra § 634.
"The principle therefore is, that parties cannot contract that they themselves may with impunity be guilty of willful misconduct. . . . But the rule has no application to contracts exempting them from liability for the acts of third persons. There is some difficulty in applying these principles to railroad companies on account of the artificial nature of corporations. As they can act only through agents, it may with about equal plausibility be said, on the one hand, that every act of their authorized agents, and on the other, that no such act is to be regarded as a direct act of the corporation. But a distinction is no doubt to be made, between the directors or managing officers of a corporation and its subordinate agents. As the former exercise all the powers of the corporation and are its only direct medium of communication with outside parties, they must, in respect to all its external relations, be considered as identical with the corporation itself. No contract, therefore, can exempt a railroad company from liability for the willful or wanton misconduct or gross recklessness of its directors; but the rule extends to no other officer or agent of the company."—Perkins v. New York Cent. R. Co., 24 N.Y. 196, 213, 82 Am.Dec. 281.

Defective rail

Even if a release by a passenger is invalid as to the negligence of the company or the directors, negligence in permitting a defective rail to be used, unknown to the company, is that of its servants, as to which the release is valid.—Anderson v. Erie R. Co., 157 N.Y.S. 740, 171 App.Div. 687, affirmed 119 N.E. 557, 223 N.Y. 277.

76. U.S.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Lockwood, N.Y., 17 Wall. 357, 21 L.Ed. 627
N.H.—Wessman v. Boston & M. R. R., 152 A. 476, 84 N.H. 475.
10 C.J. p. 719 note 1.

Distinction criticized

(1) "The New York courts attempt a distinction between the negligence of the corporation, acting through its president and board of directors, and the negligence of their employees or servants and agents, a distinction which, we confess, we are unable to perceive. All corporations act by and through their agents, for whose acts, in the line of their business, the corporation appointing them is held liable."—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Read, 37 Ill. 484, 508, 27 Am.D. 260.

(2) With reference to this distinction, it has been said: "In the nature of things, every corporation must act solely through agents, and that their powers and duties may differ in degree, it seems to us, should make no difference, in so far as duties and liabilities to passengers, whether free or paying full fare, are concerned. The true inquiry, at last, is, did the injury result from the negligence of any agent of the corporation, while acting within the scope of his employment? . . . The negligence of the agent, of whatsoever grade, as to matters within the scope of his employment, with reference to passengers, is the negligence of the corporation itself, which, all the American cases agree, fixes a liability which the carrier cannot be permitted to avoid by contract"—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. McGown, 65 Tex. 640, 644.

77. Mo.—Alexander v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., 2 S.W.2d 165, 221 Mo.App. 271.
N.J.—Sheridan v. New Jersey & N. Y. R. Co., 141 A. 811, 104 N.J.Law 622.
10 C.J. p. 716 note 77.
"It is immaterial . . . that the attempted limitation on . . . liability is agreed to by the passenger in consideration of special concessions in the matter of rate of fare there is authority to the contrary.[78] Likewise, the general rule is applicable to passengers carried on so-called passes in return for some benefit or advantage to the carrier,[79] as where the pass is given to the carrier's employee as part of his compensation.[80]

Passengers on freight trains. Apart from contracts with caretakers of inanimate freight and caretakers of live stock, who are considered later in this section and in § 635 infra, respectively, a contract with a passenger on a freight train, whereby the carrier is exempted from liability for injuries received by the passenger while riding on such train, is against public policy and void,[81] except where the train is one from which passengers are excluded except by special permission;[82] but at least one statute permitting a carrier to limit its liability to passengers carried on freight trains, except for willful negligence, has been construed or applied.[83]

Caretakers of inanimate freight. A contract between a carrier and a person accompanying inanimate freight as a caretaker thereof, exempting the carrier from liability to him for its negligence, is or other departure from the rules applicable to passengers paying full fare It is enough that there is any consideration for the carriage."—Walther v. Southern Pac Co., 116 P. 51, 159 Cal. 769, 772, 37 L.R.A., N.S., 235.

Corpus Juris quoted

Mo.—Alexander v St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., 2 S.W.2d 165, 166, 221 Mo App. 271.

Gratuitous carriage distinguished

(1) A common carrier granting gratuitous transportation may exempt itself from liability for negligence, since by such transportation it "puts off its character as a common carrier . . . and becomes a mere mandatary;" but "where the . . . [carrier] exacts any compensation for the carriage" it may not thus exempt itself from liability, since in such case "the relationship of common carrier and passenger, and the liability of the . . . [carrier] as a common carrier, persists."—Alexander v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., 2 S.W.2d 165, 168, 221 Mo App 271.

(2) Exemption from liability to gratuitous passengers generally see infra § 634

78. N.Y.—Anderson v. Erie R. Co., 119 N.E. 557, 223 N.Y. 277, affirming 157 N.Y.S. 740, 171 App.Div. 687.

79. U.S.—Grand Trunk R. Co. v. Stevens, Me., 95 U.S. 655, 24 L.Ed 535
10 C.J. p 719 note 2
Drover's pass see infra § 635.

Conditions printed on pass

Where there is a valid consideration for a pass given by a railroad company, conditions printed on such pass, exempting the company from responsibility for the negligence of its servants, do not bind the passenger and should not be admitted in evidence in an action for damages for injuries caused by negligence—Williams v Oregon Short Line R. Co., 54 P. 991, 18 Utah 210, 72 Am.S.R. 777.

80. Mass.—Palmer v Boston & M. R. R., 116 N.E. 899, 227 Mass. 493.
Pa.—Borden v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 76 Pa.Super 517
10 C.J. p 719 note 3.
Carrier's employees as passengers generally see supra § 546.

Rule not changed by statute

(1) A statute providing, in effect, that "no common carrier shall . . . issue . . . free transportation," but permitting "free or reduced rate service to its employes . . . does not prohibit the giving of a pass [to a carrier's employee] as part consideration for the service rendered by the employé," and, therefore, such statute does not change the rule stated in the text by making such a pass a gratuitous pass, so as to render applicable the rule with respect to gratuitous passes—Palmer v. Boston & M. R. R., 116 N.E. 899, 900, 227 Mass. 493

(2) Gratuitous pass see infra § 634.

81. Or.—Richmond v Southern Pac. Co., 67 P. 947, 41 Or. 54, 93 Am.S.R. 694, 57 L.R.A. 616.
10 C.J. p 719 note 7.
"The defendant, having voluntarily designated its freight train to carry passengers . . . thereby became . . . a common carrier of passengers by the means so adopted, and its special contract in respect to the attempted limitation did not devest it of that character; for, if it is the habit of a railroad company to carry passengers on a freight train, it becomes a common carrier of passengers by that means, and thereby assumes the liabilities of such carriers"—Richmond v Southern Pac. Co., 67 P. 947, 949, 41 Or. 54

82. Mich.—Van Auken v Michigan Cent. R. Co., 148 N.W. 819, 182 Mich 331
10 C.J. p 719 note 8.

Regulatory contract distinguished

(1) An agreement, by one holding a special permit, to assume the risks incident to boarding the caboose of a freight train at any place where it may be stopped for conducting the freight business of the carrier, is "not a limitation of the liability of the . . . [carrier] for its own negligence, but . . . a reasonable regulation which it might adopt for the purpose of carrying on its freight business."—Chicago, etc. R. Co v. Mann, 111 N.W 379, 381, 78 Neb. 541

(2) Power to make regulations see supra § 570.

Release construed; negligence included

(1) A contract executed by an inspector of locomotive appliances in consideration of permission to ride on the carrier's engines, releasing the carrier from "all damage" arising from his presence on the engines, releases the carrier from liability for negligence, "since, whatever his status, there would be no liability to him except for negligence."—Allen v. Erie R. Co., C.C.A. Ohio, 2 F.2d 712, 713

(2) A provision included in the contract above referred to that the inspector would "observe the railroad employés' rules does not affect the validity of the . . . contract" as a release.—Allen v. Erie R. Co., supra.

83. In Kansas

(1) A statute permitting railroad companies to limit their liability to passengers carried on freight trains to which a caboose is attached, except for willful negligence, has been held not to give such companies the right to demand a release of liability from a passenger on a mixed train consisting of freight cars, a passenger coach, and a combination car, regularly operated, carrying passengers and stopping at platforms as passenger trains usually do—Schwartz v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 109 P. 767, 83 Kan 30 void, since the caretaker is regarded as a passenger for hire, the consideration for his carriage being either the services rendered in caring for the freight or the charge made for the transportation thereof;[84] and it has been said that, if the caretaker is carried under an interstate pass which is gratuitous in the ordinary meaning of that term, any contract of release based thereon is void, since such a pass is in violation of the Interstate Commerce Act.[85]

(2) Under the statute above referred to, the railroad company has no right to require a passenger riding on a freight train to give a release different from that designated by the statute, nor to refuse to accept a passenger because he declines to give such a different release—Davis v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 106 P. 288, 81 Kan. 505.

§ 633. Employees of Others in General

If, in transporting the employees of another, a carrier acts as a common carrier, contracts between the carrier and employer and between the employer and employees exempting the carrier from liability to the employees for its negligence are void; but, if the employees, such as sleeping car and circus employees, are transported in a manner not imposed on the carrier as a common carrier's duty, as where the carrier moves the employer's own cars over its road, such contracts are generally held valid, except where statutory or constitutional provisions have a contrary effect.

If, in transporting the employees of another under a special contract with the employer, the carrier is acting as a common, and not as a private, carrier, a provision in such contract relieving the carrier from liability to such employees for its negligence, and a similar provision in a corresponding contract between the employee and his employer, are void under the general rule, stated in § 629 supra, that a common carrier cannot exempt itself from liability to a passenger for its negligence;[86] but, where the contract between the employer and the carrier merely provides for indemnifying the latter in case it should be held liable, such contract does not violate general rule above referred to,[87]

84. Me.—Buckley v. Bangor, etc., R. Co., 93 A. 65, 113 Me. 164, L.R.A. 1916A 617.
Drovers see infra § 635.

Caretaker of potatoes
Me.—Buckley v Bangor, etc., R. Co., 93 A. 65, 113 Me. 164, L.R.A 1916A 617.

Pass erroneously designated as "gratuitous"
If a pass under which a caretaker is carried, although it is designated as a "gratuitous free pass," is in fact a pass for a consideration, a stipulation contained therein releasing the carrier from liability for negligence is invalid.—Miller v. Maine Cent. R. Co., 133 A. 907, 125 Me. 338, 47 A.L.R. 720.

Carrier's failure to offer caretakers
A contract between a shipper of milk and a carrier, whereby the latter was indemnified against claims for personal injuries to the shipper's employees while carried free as caretakers of the milk shipped, is void where transportation of the milk under the care of men provided by the carrier was not offered as an alternative to the shipper and no reduction in rates was made as a consideration for the limitation; and a contract between the shipper and his employee indemnifying the shipper against claims for injuries to the employee while riding on the cars of the carrier, which contract was based on such void contract, cannot be availed of by the carrier as against the employee.—Baker v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 65 A. 386, 74 N.H. 100, 124 Am.S.R. 937, 12 Ann. Cas. 1072

85. Me.—Miller v. Maine Cent. R. Co., 133 A. 907, 125 Me. 338, 47 A.L.R. 720.

86. Ind.—Vandalia R. Co. v. Stevens, 114 N.E. 1001, 67 Ind.App. 238.
Employees of others as passengers generally see § 547 supra.

Rule applied to employees of mining company
Ind.—Vandalia R. Co. v Stevens, 114 N.E. 1001, 67 Ind.App. 238.

Express messengers and show employees distinguished
(1) "The express messenger cases and show employe cases . . . are cases where the shipper demanded and was given a carriage and transportation entirely different from that extended to the shipping public generally. The express company in those cases asked and obtained a combined carriage of property and the agent in charge thereof, and demanded and obtained space for such carriage in a particular car, and obtained privileges in connection with such transportation which are not demanded by, or given to, the ordinary shipper. . . . The express company . . . cannot demand or obtain from another common carrier transportation of its property different from that which the other carrier owes to the shipping public generally, except by special contract for the special carriage desired. Such carriage has always been by special contract, and has likewise been recognized as private carriage rather than common carriage. . . . So, also, with the show cases. . . . The transportation was a mixed transportation of property and persons, in cars owned by, and under the supervision, management, and control of, the show company. It is a kind of transportation which the railroad company does not owe to, and which is not given to, the public generally. In such respects, the express messenger cases and the show employe cases are wholly different from the instant case."—Vandalia R. Co. v. Stevens, 114 N.E. 1001, 1006, 67 Ind.App. 238.

(2) Express messengers see infra § 636.

(3) Circus employees see infra this section.

87. Tex.—San Antonio & A. P. Ry. Co. v. Tracy, 130 S.W. 639, 61 Tex.Civ.App. 574.
10 C.J. p. 722 note 30, p 723 note 42 [a].

Indemnity contract of partnership
(1) A provision in a construction contract entered into between a partnership and a railroad company, whereby the former agrees to assume all liability for injuries to, or deaths of the "agents and employees" of the partnership occurring during the transportation of such persons over the lines of the carrier, does not exempt the railroad company from liability for the death of a partner on the theory that such partner is an agent of the partnership, since the term "agents and employees" does not include the members, of a partnership.—International-Great Northern R. Co. v. Lucas, Tex.Com.App., 99 S.W.2d 297, 299, reversing, Civ.App., 70 S.W.2d 226, opinion corrected, Com.App., 100 S.W.2d 97.

(2) The indemnity features of the contract above referred to, if regarded as including injuries to, or death of, the partners while carried over the lines of the carrier, are void as against public policy, since in such a case the carrier would be relieved of its liability as a common carrier.—International-Great Northern R. Co. v Lucas, Tex.Civ.App., 70 S.W.2d 226, reversed on other grounds, Com.App., 99 S.W.2d 297, opinion corrected 100 S.W.2d 97.

since it is not a contract against the carrier's negligence.[88]

Transportation not within carrier's duty. While there is some authority to the contrary,[89] where a carrier transports, in a manner not imposed on it as a duty of a common carrier, the employees of another under a special contract with the employer, a condition in such contract exempting the carrier from liability to such employees for injuries caused by its negligence is generally considered valid,[90] except where statutory and constitutional provisions relating to employees of sleeping car companies and circus companies, considered in succeeding paragraphs of this section, have a different effect Likewise, except as such statutes otherwise provide, a corresponding contract between such an employee and his employer, whereby the former ratifies and assents to the contract between the carrier and his employer and releases the carrier from liability to him for its negligence, is considered valid and binding on the employee;[91] and such contract between the employee and his employer inures to the benefit of the carrier.[92] In the absence of such a contract on the part of the employee, however, it has been held that he is not bound by the contract between his employer and the carrier where he has no knowledge thereof;[93] but this holding should be contrasted with the holdings with reference to circus employees and express messengers, stated later in this section and in § 636 infra, respectively.

In some jurisdictions, however, such contracts as here considered, although valid in cases of ordinary negligence, are held to be ineffective to relieve the carrier from liability for injuries resulting from its willful and wanton negligence.[94]

88. Tex.—San Antonio & A. P. Ry Co. v. Tracy, 130 S.W. 639, 61 Tex. Civ.App. 574.

89. N.H.—Bernardi Greater Shows v. Boston & M. R. R., 165 A. 124, 86 N.H. 146.

90. U.S.—McCree v. Davis, C.C.A. Ohio, 280 F. 959.
Ind.—Dierickx v. Davis, 137 N.E. 685, 80 Ind.App. 71, certiorari denied 44 S.Ct. 36, 263 U.S. 709, 68 L.Ed. 518.
Mich.—Sabol v Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 238 N.W. 281, 255 Mich. 548, certiorari denied Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co v. Sabol, 52 S.Ct. 265, 284 U.S. 688, 76 L.Ed 581.
10 C.J. p 721 note 27.

Corpus Juris quoted
Md.—Western Maryland Ry. Co. v. Shatzer, 120 A. 840, 843, 142 Md. 274.

Reason for rule
(1) "The authorities are unanimous in holding that a railway company, although distinctively a common carrier when engaged in the performance of its legal duties, nevertheless, when acting in matters not within the scope of its legal duties, may contract as a private carrier and may lawfully provide in such a contract that it shall not be liable for injury to persons . . . caused by its negligence."—Dierickx v. Davis, 137 N.E. 685, 689, 80 Ind. App 71, certiorari denied 44 S.Ct. 36, 263 U.S. 709, 68 L.Ed. 518. To same effect McCree v. Davis, C.C.A.Ohio, 80 F 959, 963.

(2) "With respect to duties which . . . [the carrier] is under no obligation to perform, it may limit its liability by contract, and in such cases the liability of the carrier to one injured by its negligence will depend upon the terms of such contract. . . . In other words, if the service is one that is not imposed on the carrier as a duty, it may undertake it upon such terms as it may see fit."—Denver, etc., R. Co. v. Whan, 89 P. 39, 41, 39 Colo 230, 11 L.R.A.,N.S., 432, 12 Ann.Cas. 732.

"Carefully prepared opinion in the case of Denver, etc., R. Co. v Whan, 89 Pac. 39, 39 Colo. 230, 11 L.R.A.,N.S., 432, 12 Ann.Cas 732."—Neville v. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co., Tex.Com. App., 252 S.W. 483, 485, reversing 244 S.W. 980, which reversed, Civ App., 187 S.W. 388.

"General test"
"According to many authorities, the general test . . . to apply to contracts of common carriers, limiting their liability, is whether they relate to duties which they are bound to perform, or whether they relate to services which are optional for them to perform."—Denver, etc., R. Co. v. Whan, 89 P. 39, 41, 39 Colo 230, 11 L.R.A.,N.S., 432, 12 Ann. Cas. 732.

91. Tex.—Neville v. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry Co., Com.App., 252 S.W. 483, reversing 244 S.W. 980, which reversed, Civ.App., 187 S.W. 388, applying federal rule.
10 C.J. p 722 note 28.

Corpus Juris quoted
Md.—Western Maryland Ry. Co. v. Shatzer, 120 A. 840, 843, 142 Md. 274.

Rule applied to employee of a news agency transported on the carrier's trains for the purpose of selling newspapers, periodicals, and other articles customarily sold by news agents.—Neville v. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co., Tex.Com.App., 252 S.W. 483, reversing 244 S.W. 980, which reversed, Civ.App., 187 S.W. 388, applying federal rule.

Fellow servant statute inapplicable
Where the employee is not also an employee of the carrier, such a contract as referred to in the text is not rendered invalid by a fellow servant statute providing that the carrier shall make no contract restricting its liability to an employee for negligence.—Robinson v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 35 S.Ct. 491, 237 U.S. 84, 59 L.Ed. 849, affirming 40 App.D.C 169, L.R.A.1915D 510—Sager v. Northern Pac. R. Co., C.C. Minn., 166 F. 526—10 C.J. p 722 note 29.

92. Tex.—Neville v. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry Co., Com.App., 252 S.W. 483, reversing 244 S.W. 980, which reversed, Civ.App., 187 S.W. 388, applying federal rule.

93. Md.—Western Maryland Ry. Co v. Shatzer, 120 A. 840, 142 Md 274.
10 C.J. p 722 note 31.
Extent to which drover bound see infra § 635.
Extent to which express messenger bound see infra § 636.

Corpus Juris quoted
Md.—Western Maryland Ry. Co. v. Shatzer, 120 A. 840, 843, 142 Md. 274.

"Better reasoned cases"
"It seems to us that the better reasoned cases for the most part decline to adopt the theory that an employé is bound . . . without having agreed upon the arrangement" between the carrier and his employer—Western Maryland Ry Co v. Shatzer, 120 A. 840, 845, 142 Md. 274.

94. U.S.—McCree v. Davis, C.C.A. Ohio, 280 F. 959.
Mich.—Sabol v Chicago & N. W Ry. Co., 238 N.W. 281, 255 Mich. 548, certiorari denied Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co v. Sabol, 52 S.Ct. 265, 284 U.S. 688, 76 L.Ed. 581.

Employees of sleeping car company. A contract between a railroad company and a sleeping car company by which the former relieves itself from liability for injuries to employees of the latter riding in a sleeping car attached to a train is valid.[95] So, also, a contract between a sleeping car company and its employee, whereby he assents to or ratifies the contract between the sleeping car company and the railroad company, releasing or limiting the latter's liability for personal injury to such employee while traveling over the railroad, is, in the absence of statute to the contrary, not void as against public policy,[96] since such employee is not a passenger of the railroad company;[97] and, in the absence of fraud or misrepresentation, it is binding on the employee, even though he fails to read it.[98]

Since such a contract between the sleeping car employee and his employer is prima facie for the benefit of the carrier, the carrier will be presumed to have accepted its provisions,[99] and may claim its advantages as one in whose interest the agreement is made,[1] and, in a jurisdiction not recognizing the doctrine of comparative negligence, it is a complete defense to the carrier even as to its gross negligence.[2]

Several statutory provisions have been held not to render invalid such contract between the sleeping car company and its employee, or inapplicable in determining its validity,[3] while other statutory and

Degrees of negligence generally see supra § 630

"It is a settled rule of law that a contract purporting to release the . . . [carrier] from all liability for negligence would be ineffective as a defense, where the injury to the . . . [employee] results from . . . willful and wanton negligence on the part of the servants of the . . . [carrier]."—McCree v. Davis, C.C.A.Ohio, 280 F. 959, 965.

A leading federal authority

U.S.—McCree v. Davis, C.C.A.Ohio, 280 F. 959

95. Colo.—Denver, etc., R. Co., v. Whan, 89 P. 39, 39 Colo. 230, 11 L.R.A.,N.S., 432, 12 Ann.Cas. 732.
Ind.—Russell v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 61 N.E. 678, 157 Ind. 305, 87 Am.S.R. 214, 55 L.R.A. 253.

Reason for rule

"Not being under any legal obligation to haul the cars of the Pullman Company for the purpose mentioned in its contract with that company, and not being under any obligation to transport the . . . [Pullman Company's employee] over its lines in the capacity [in which] he was riding, the . . . [carrier] had the legal right to dictate the terms upon which it would haul the cars of the Pullman Company . . . and the conditions under which its employés might ride therein when being so hauled."—Denver, etc., R. Co. v. Whan, 89 P. 39, 41, 39 Colo. 230, 11 L.R.A.,N.S., 432, 12 Ann.Cas. 732.

To same effect Russell v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 61 N.E. 678, 682, 157 Ind. 305, 87 Am.S.R. 214, 55 L.R.A. 253.

96. U.S.—Eubanks v. Southern Ry. Co., D.C.Fla., 244 F. 891.
Mass.—Kean v. New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co., 97 N.E. 64, 210 Mass. 449.
10 C.J. p 722 note 37.
Contra Carter v. Southern Ry.-Carolina Division, 84 S.E. 999, 100 S.C. 403.

Release as covering injuries from negligence

A contract by a sleeping car employee, releasing transportation companies from all claims for "liability of any nature or character whatsoever," includes a release of liability for personal injuries caused by the negligence of the carrier.—Russell v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 61 N.E. 678, 679, 157 Ind. 305, 87 Am.S.R. 214, 55 L.R.A. 253.

When exemption begins

Where a contract between a sleeping car porter and his employer bore date as of the date when he commenced the service, recited on its face that it was entered into in consideration of the employment, which was for no particular time, and provided for daily wages, payable monthly, a provision releasing railroads from liability for injuries to such porter was effective as to any occurrence after the contract was executed, although it was not in fact signed until seven months after his employment.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Hamler, 74 N.E. 705, 215 Ill. 525, 106 Am.S.R. 187, 1 L.R.A.,N.S., 674, 3 Ann.Cas. 42, reversing 114 Ill.App. 141.

97. U.S.—Eubanks v. Southern Ry. Co., D.C.Fla., 244 F. 891.
10 C.J. p 722 note 37.
Sleeping car employees as passengers generally see § 547 supra.

98. U.S.—New York Cent., & H. R. R. Co. v. Difendaffer, Ill., 125 F. 893, 62 C.C.A. 1

99. Ind.—Russell v. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co., 61 N.E. 678, 157 Ind. 305, 87 Am.S.R. 214, 55 L.R.A. 253.

1. Colo.—Denver, etc., R. Co. v. Whan, 89 P. 39, 39 Colo. 230, 11 L.R.A.,N.S., 432, 12 Ann.Cas. 732.
10 C.J. p 722 note 37 [a] (3).

2. Ill.—Chicago, etc. R. Co. v. Hamler, 74 N.E. 705, 215 Ill. 525, 106 Am.S.R. 187, 1 L.R.A.,N.S., 674, 3 Ann.Cas. 42, reversing 114 Ill.App. 141.
10 C.J. p 722 note 37 [a] (4).

Degrees of negligence generally see supra § 630.

3. Employers' Liability Act

(1) A Pullman porter may stipulate in his contract with the Pullman Company to exempt any carrier hauling the cars of the Pullman Company from liability for injuries notwithstanding the prohibition of the Employers' Liability Act prohibiting, in effect, a carrier from limiting its liability to its employees, he not being an employee of the carrier.—Robinson v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 35 S.Ct. 491, 237 U.S. 84, 59 L.Ed. 849, affirming 40 App.D.C. 169, L.R.A. 1915D 510.

(2) If, however, such a stipulation is made by an employee of the Pullman Company who is also an employee of the railroad company, it is invalid under the Employers' Liability Act.—Robinson v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., supra.

In Missouri, a statute providing that no contract made between "any railroad corporation" and any of its "agents or servants," based on the contingency of his injury or death and limiting the liability of such railroad corporation for damages "under the provisions of this act" shall be valid, has no application to a contract made by a Pullman car porter with the Pullman Company, whereby he releases it from liability for negligent injury, agrees to indemnify it for any liability incurred on such account to a railroad company carrying its cars under contract of indemnity for negligent injury to Pullman employees, agrees that the contract may be assigned to such carrying company for purposes of defense, and also releases the carrying company.—McDermon v. Southern Pac. Co., C.C.Mo., 122 F. 669, 673.

"Railroad . . . liable for any damage done"

A statute in substance providing "that a railroad company shall be liable for any damage done to per-constitutional provisions have been construed and applied so as to render such a contract void.[4]

Employees of circus company. Except as statutory or constitutional provisions have a contrary effect,[5] a provision in a carrier's special contract with a circus company to furnish motive power and move the circus over the carrier's road, exempting the carrier from liability to the circus employees for accident or injury occasioned by the carrier's negligence, is, under most authorities, valid and not contrary to public policy,[6] despite some authority to the contrary,[7] since in such a case the carrier acts as a private, and not as a common, carrier;[8] sons" unless it shows that it has used "all reasonable care and diligence; the presumption in all cases being against the company," having been construed as "a declaration of the common-law liability, with the addition that the presumption of negligence is cast upon the . . . [carrier]," does not render invalid a contract between a sleeping car employee and his employer exempting the carrier over whose lines he is carried from liability on account of any injury to him—Eubank v Southern Ry. Co., D.C.Fla., 244 F. 891, 892, construing Florida statute

4. In Pennsylvania, under constitutional provisions providing, in effect, that "all railroad . . . companies shall be common carriers," that "no . . . unreasonable discrimination shall be made," and that no common carrier shall "engage . . . in any other business than that of common carriers," a contract between a sleeping car employee and his employer exempting the transporting carrier from responsibility for its negligence is void.—Coleman v. Pennsylvania R. Co, 89 A. 87, 92, 242 Pa 304, 50 L.R.A.,N.S., 432, Ann. Cas.1915B 529—Banks v. Pittsburg, etc., R Co., 55 Pa.Super. 301.

In Texas a contract between a Pullman employee and the Pullman Company whereby the former waives all damages for injuries that may be inflicted by the carrier is "condemned and rendered invalid by article 4560i, Sayles' Ann.Civ.Rev St. 1897"—San Antonio & A. P. Ry. Co., v. Tracy, 130 S.W. 639, 642, 61 Tex. Civ.App. 574.

5. "Liability . . . shall never be limited"

Under a constitutional provision that "the liability of railroad corporations as common carriers shall never be limited," and a statute under which "every railroad is bound to give transportation on equal terms," a contract between a carrier and a circus company providing, in effect, that the carrier shall not be liable for injuries to, among others, the employees of the circus company, is void—Maucher v. Chicago, R. I & P. Ry Co., 159 N.W. 422, 426, 100 Neb 237, error dismissed Chicago, R. I & P. R. Co. v. Maucher, 39 S Ct 108, 248 U S 359, 63 L Ed 294

6. U.S—Sasinowski v. Boston & M. R. R., C.C.A.Mass., 74 F.2d 628—McCree v. Davis, C.C.A.Ohio, 280 F 959.

Ind—Dierickx v. Davis, 137 N.E. 685, 80 Ind App 71, certiorari denied 44 S Ct. 36, 263 U.S 709, 68 L.Ed. 518.

Mich—Sabol v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co, 238 N.W. 281, 255 Mich 548, certiorari denied Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co v. Sabol, 52 S.Ct. 265, 284 U.S. 688, 76 L.Ed. 581

10 C.J. p 723 notes 42, 43.

The Hepburn Act and Carmack amendment do not prohibit a contract between a carrier and a circus company for hauling the circus train, in which contract the carrier is relieved from liability to the employees of the circus company for its negligence.—Dierickx v. Davis, 137 N.E. 685, 689, 80 Ind.App. 71, certiorari denied 44 S Ct. 36, 263 U.S 709, 68 L.Ed. 518.

Exemption limited to transportation

Where an employee of a show company was injured by the carrier's negligence while walking to his sleeping car, which was temporarily stored in the carrier's yards for use as living quarters by him and his fellow employees, a condition in the contract between the carrier and the show company exempting the carrier from liability during transportation did not relieve the carrier from liability to the employee, for such injuries, which did not arise "during the period of transportation."—Missouri Pac R. Co. v. Curcio, 261 S W. 896, 898, 164 Ark. 350.

Indemnity contract

Where the contract provided that the carrier should not be liable for any injury to any employee of the circus company to an amount greater than fifty dollars, and that, if it should be so held liable, the circus company would pay it the excess of such amount, whether the carrier was to be regarded as a common or as a private carrier, under the contract, the purpose of the contract was not to exempt it from liability for negligence, but to indemnify it in case it should be liable; and hence such contract did not violate either the rule of public policy or the common-law doctrine that a carrier cannot, by contract, secure exemption from liability for injuries to passengers caused by its own negligence.—Seaboard Air Line R Co v. Main, 43 S.E. 930, 132 N.C. 445.

7. N.H.—Bernardi Greater Shows v Boston & M. R. R., 165 A. 124, 86 N.H 146.

8. U.S.—Sasinowski v. Boston & M. R. R., C.C.A.Mass., 74 F 2d 628—McCree v. Davis, C C A Ohio, 280 F. 959

Ind—Dierickx v. Davis, 137 N.E. 685, 80 Ind App. 71, certiorari denied 44 S.Ct. 36, 263 U S. 709, 68 L Ed. 518.

Mich—Sabol v Chicago & N. W. Ry Co, 238 N.W. 281, 255 Mich 548, certiorari denied Chicago & N. W Ry. Co. v. Sabol, 52 S Ct. 265, 284 U.S 688, 76 L Ed. 581.

10 C J. p 723 note 44.

Contra Bernardi Greater Shows v. Boston & M. R. R., 165 A. 124, 86 N.H. 146.

"It is apparent, and the important fact is, that the show company was not seeking transportation for persons and property in the usual course of the business of a common carrier by rail. It sought to have its own train of cars moved from place to place on a time schedule suitable to its own peculiar purpose . . . From the very nature of the service desired, and from the situation of the parties, it is clear that the property and employés of the show company were not to be intrusted to the railway company in the manner in which freight and passengers are intrusted to a common carrier. The railway company might have refused absolutely to receive or to haul the cars of the show company; for the railway company did not hold itself out as engaging in the business of hauling or moving trains for others. It follows, then, that the railway company had the right to enter into the contract with the show company on the conditions therein stated. The contract is valid; and in the performance thereof the railway company was not acting as a common carrier."—Dierickx v. Davis, 137 N.E 685, 688, 80 Ind.App. 71, certiorari denied 44 S. Ct. 36, 263 U.S. 709, 68 L.Ed 518.

Contract of hiring of carrier's employees

(1) A carrier's agreement with a circus company stipulating in the first paragraph thereof that the carrier shall furnish the use of its line and employees and shall "transport the show," and also stipulating in subsequent paragraphs that the contract is a mere hiring by the carrier but such a contract has been held ineffective to exempt the carrier from liability to the circus employee for injuries resulting from its willful and wanton negligence.[9]

In accepting transportation under the contract between the carrier and the circus company, the latter's employee has been held bound by the terms thereof;[10] but it has also been held that such a contract does not operate as a matter of law to defeat the employee's right to recover from the carrier for injuries caused by its negligence where he has no knowledge of the contract, and has not authorized the circus company to bind him thereby.[11]

In New York. In accordance with the general rule established in New York, as stated in § 629 supra, a carrier may stipulate with an employer for exemption from liability to the latter's employees for its own negligence or that of its servants;[12] but such a contract is to be strictly construed against the carrier,[13] and, where the employee has no knowledge of such contract, he is not bound thereby.[14]

Employees carried on elevators. It has been held that a provision in a lease that the landlord shall not be liable for any damages occasioned by a failure to repair an elevator in the leased premises will not preclude a recovery by the tenant's employee who is not a party to the lease, since the landlord, who occupies the relation of a common carrier of passengers to such employee, cannot limit his liability except by express contract with the employee.[15]

§ 634. Gratuitous Passengers; Free Passes

By the weight of authority, a stipulation in a free pass exempting a carrier from liability to the passenger for negligence is valid, and this rule applies to interstate free passes; but some authorities limit the rule to ordinary negligence, while others have applied it to the negligence of the carrier's employees, as distinguished from its own; still other authorities hold such a stipulation void.

While it has been said that there is a great contrariety of opinion as to the validity of a stipulation in a free pass exempting the carrier from liability for injury occasioned by negligence, or providing that the passenger assumes all risk of injury,[16] most of the authorities, with qualifications, later appearing, as to degrees of negligence, regard such a stipulation in a free pass as valid and binding on the passenger.[17] The majority rule has been of its equipment and employees and that the carrier shall not be liable for its employees' negligence, has been construed not to be a contract to transport as a common carrier.—Sasinowski v. Boston & M R. R., C C A.Mass., 74 F.2d 628, 634.

(2) The provision in such agreement that the carrier shall "transport the show" is not so repugnant to the subsequent provision that it is a mere hiring as to prevent the operation of the agreement as a contract of hiring.—Sasinowski v. Boston & M. R R., supra.

(3) If such agreement is a valid contract of hiring of the railroad employees to operate the circus train, they became the servants of the circus company, and the carrier would be relieved from liability for their ordinary negligence—Sasinowski v. Boston & M. R. R., supra.

9. U.S.—McCree v. Davis, C.C.A Ohio, 280 F. 959.
Mich.—Sabol v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co, 238 N W 281, 255 Mich. 548, certiorari denied Chicago & N. W Ry Co. v. Sabol, 52 S.Ct. 265, 284 U S. 688, 76 L Ed. 581.
Degrees of negligence generally see supra § 630.

10. U.S.—Sasinowski v. Boston & M R. R, C.C.A.Mass, 74 F.2d 628—McCree v. Davis, C C.A.Ohio, 280 F. 959.
Ind.—Dierickx v. Davis, 137 N.E. 685, 80 Ind App. 71, certiorari denied 44 S Ct. 36, 263 U.S. 709, 68 L.Ed. 518.
Extent to which drover bound see infra § 635.
Extent to which express messenger bound see infra § 636.

11. U S.—Sager v. Northern Pac. R. Co, C C.Minn, 166 F. 526.

12. N.Y.—Elliott v. New York Cent., etc, R Co, 11 N.Y.S. 691.

13. N.Y.—Elliott v. New York Cent., etc, R Co., supra.
General release construed against exemption
"The exemption must be expressed in terms, and when general words of release may be made operative, without including negligence of the carrier or servants, such construction as will exclude exemption for negligence must obtain."—Elliott v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 11 N.Y.S. 691, 692.
Agreement to include release in pass
A contract between a railroad company and a telegraph company, containing the provision that the employees of the telegraph company shall, when carried under the contract, exhibit passes in which all responsibility of the railroad company "for any loss or damage or injury . . . shall be waived and released in a form usual in such cases," does not in itself constitute a release which will relieve the railroad company from liability for personal injuries to such an employee, but only provides for a release which should appear on the pass—Elliott v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 11 N.Y.S. 691, 692.

14. N.Y.—Coppock v. Lond Island R. Co., 34 N.Y.S 1039, 89 Hun 186.

15. Ill.—Springer v. Ford, 59 N.E. 953, 189 Ill. 430, 82 Am.S.R. 464, 52 L.R.A. 930, affirming 88 Ill. App. 529.

16. Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Brown, 217 S.W. 686, 186 Ky. 435. 10 C.J. p 720 note 11.

17. U.S.—Kansas City Southern Ry. Co. v. Van Zant, 43 S Ct. 176, 260 U.S. 459, 67 L Ed 348, reversing Van Zant v. Kansas City Southern Ry. Co, 232 S.W. 696, 289 Mo 163—Bush v Bremner, C.C.A.Minn., 36 F 2d 189, affirming, D.C., 29 F. 2d 844—Ellis v. Davis, C C.A.Tex., 4 F.2d 323.
Fla.—O'Brien v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 128 So. 9, 99 Fla. 843
Ga.—Devero v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 181 S E. 421, 51 Ga.App. 699—Forster v. Southern Ry. Co., 146 S.E. 516, 39 Ga App 216—Brooks v Bugg, 131 S.E 365, 34 Ga App 761—Wright v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 89 S.E. 457, 18 Ga.App. 290.
Ind.—Ft. Wayne & Wabash Valley Traction Co. v. Justus, 115 N.E. 585, 186 Ind. 464—Clark v. Southern Ry Co., 119 N.E. 539, 69 Ind.

held to apply, even though notice of such stipulation may not have been brought home to the pas-

App 697—Mitten v Delano, 116 N.E 744, 65 Ind App 701.

Dictum, Vandalia R Co. v Stevens, 114 N E 1001, 67 Ind App. 238.

Mo—Pinnell v St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co, 263 S.W 182, certiorari denied 45 S Ct 123, 266 U S 623, 69 L Ed 473, applying federal law—Dunn v. Alton R Co, App, 88 S.W 2d 224, applying federal law.

N Y.—Wilder v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 156 N E 88, 245 N Y 36, 52 A.L R 188, affirming, 217 N.Y S. 56, 217 App.Div. 661, and answering certified questions 217 N.Y S 937, 218 App Div 714—Hester v. Manhattan Bridge Three-Cent Line, 212 N Y.S. 292, 214 App.Div. 534.

Okl.—Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. v. Zuber, 184 P. 452, 76 Okl. 146, 7 A.L.R. 840, appeal dismissed 41 S Ct 322, 255 U.S. 561, 65 L.Ed. 786, error dismissed 41 S.Ct. 449, 256 U S. 681, 65 L.Ed 1169.

Tenn.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Hadley, 11 Tenn App 642.

Va.—Williamson v. Seaboard Air Line Ry., 118 S.E. 255, 136 Va. 626, certiorari denied Williamson v Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co, 44 S Ct. 37, 263 U S 710, 68 L.Ed. 518, applying federal law.

10 C.J p 720 note 13.

Dictum Miller v. Maine Cent. R Co., 133 A 907, 125 Me. 338, 47 A L R. 720—Sheridan v. New Jersey & N. Y. R. Co., 141 A. 811, 104 N.J.Law 622.

Exemption in:

Caretaker's pass see supra § 632.

Drover's pass see infra § 635.

Pass issued for consideration see supra § 632.

Pass of express messenger see infra § 636.

Citing Corpus Juris

Ind.—Clark v. Southern Ry. Co., 119 N E. 539, 541, 69 Ind.App. 697.

Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Brown, 217 S.W. 686, 687, 186 Ky. 435.

Weight of authority

The rule stated in the text "is supported by the weight of authority of the state courts of this country, as well as by . . . federal decisions."—O'Brien v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 128 So. 9, 11, 99 Fla. 843

Reasons for rule

(1) "The rule . . . does not proceed upon the theory that in such case there is a consideration for the exemption contract, but proceeds upon the theory that there is a lack of consideration or compensation for the contract of carriage, so that the railway company, with the consent of the person to be carried, puts off its character as a common carrier as to him, and becomes a mere mandatary, and the relationship of common carrier and passenger does not exist, and it is on this theory that . . the contract is upheld"—Alexander v St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co, 2 S W.2d 165, 168, 221 Mo. App. 271.

(2) "Not only is no principle of public policy subverted by denying the holder of a free pass the right to repudiate his contract, but there is sound public policy in holding him to it. The expenses of operating railroads are borne by the general public,—that is, by the patrons who pay. In so far as persons stand aloof from the general public they increase the burden or at least postpone the day of lower rates. If the pass-takers, in addition, were allowed to recover judgments for personal injuries by disavowing their agreements, they would be making a positive increase of disbursements, to be borne ultimately by the general public."—Payne v. Terre Haute, etc., R Co, 62 N.E. 472, 157 Ind. 616, 620, 56 L R A. 472.

Particular classes of passengers held bound

(1) Carrier's employee.—Wright v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co, 89 S.E. 457, 18 Ga.App. 290.

(2) Members of family of carrier's employee.

U S.—Bush v. Bremner, C C A Minn, 36 F.2d 189, affirming, D C., 29 F 2d 844.

Fla.—O'Brien v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co, 128 So. 9, 99 Fla. 843.

Ga.—Devero v Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 181 S E 421, 51 Ga.App 699.

Ind.—Clark v. Southern Ry. Co, 119 N.E 539, 69 Ind App 697.

Mo—Pinnell v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co, 263 S.W., 182, certiorari denied 45 S Ct. 123, 266 U. S 623, 69 L.Ed. 473.

Okl—Missouri, K. & T. Ry Co. v. Zuber, 184 P. 452, 76 Okl. 146, 7 A L.R. 840, appeal dismissed 41 S Ct. 322, 255 U S. 561, 65 L.Ed 786, error dismissed 41 S Ct. 449, 256 U.S. 681, 65 L.Ed. 1169.

(3) Employee of another carrier.

Ind—Ft. Wayne & Wabash Valley Traction Co. v. Justus, 115 N.E. 585, 186 Ind. 464.

Mo.—Dunn v. Alton R. Co., App., 88 S.W.2d 224.

(4) Minors.

Conn—Griswold v. New York, etc., R. Co., 4 A. 261, 53 Conn. 371, 55 Am R. 115.

Mo—Pinnell v St Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., supra.

10 C.J. p 724 note 51 [a].

Contra Pennsylvania Co. v. Purvis, 128 Ill.App. 367.

Size of type stipulated by statute

A penal statute declaring it to be unlawful for a carrier to issue any pass or ticket subject to any condition limiting the carrier's liability, "unless such condition shall be printed in nonpareil type, or in type or characters as large or larger than nonpareil type," renders invalid such a condition printed on a free pass in type smaller than that required by the statute, even though the passenger has accepted and used the pass and has signed his name as an acceptance of such condition—Clark v Southern Ry. Co., 119 N E. 539, 69 Ind.App. 697.

Injury at point where pass ineffective

Where a car in which a passenger was riding under a pass exempting the carrier from liability to him for personal injuries escaped from control and ran past the point up to which the pass was effective, after which he was injured, the exemption from liability was still effective to release the carrier, since its relations to the injured passenger had not been changed so as to make him a passenger from whom a fare was due.—Hester v. Manhattan Bridge Three-Cent Line, 212 N Y.S. 292, 214 App Div. 534.

Stipulation conditional on use of pass

Where a pass book containing a number of free passes requires the conductor to collect a pass each time the book is used, a failure to do so, the passenger being permitted to ride without the use of a pass, renders ineffective a stipulation in the pass book to the effect that it is to be used at the risk of the person presenting it, since in such case the stipulation is conditional on the use of the pass—Nashville Ry. & Light Co v. Overby, 223 S W. 997, 143 Tenn 581.

Pass for use of station and structures

Where a lineman was given a pass entitling him to free passage through the carrier's station and onto its structures, but not to free transit on its trains, a condition in such pass whereby he assumed all risks of accident while using the pass did not debar him from recovery against the carrier for injuries resulting from its negligence while he was repairing electric lines on its structures, since, there being no relation of passenger and carrier between the parties, the rule as to contracting against negligence when such relation exists was not applicable.—Wagner v Brooklyn Heights R Co, 74 N.Y.S 809, 69 App Div 349, affirmed in 66 N.E. 1117, 174 N.Y. 520.

senger,[18] although as to this there is some authority to the contrary,[19] and even though the passenger may have purchased a ticket for a drawing room car.[20]

The rule applies to all interstate free passes issued under the exemptions of the Interstate Commerce Act, prohibiting, with certain exceptions, the giving of passes,[21] but not to an interstate free pass not falling within the exemptions.[22] The rule has been broadly held to apply notwithstanding the giving of the pass is a breach of the federal statutes relating to interstate traffic.[23]

Such a stipulation in a pass, however, is of no effect as against a statute giving damages to the widow and next of kin of a passenger where death results from the negligence of the carrier and its employees;[24] and it has been held that such a stipulation does not bind the employee of another where the employee has no knowledge of the fact that he is carried under a pass in accordance with an arrangement between his employer and the carrier.[25]

Degrees of negligence. Some courts, while expressly or impliedly conceding the right of a carrier to exempt itself from liability to a passenger carried under a free pass in cases of ordinary negligence, refuse to apply the principle in cases of higher degrees of negligence variously referred to as willful, wanton, or gross negligence;[26] and in 18. U.S.—Boering v. Chesapeake Beach R. Co., 24 S.Ct. 515, 193 U.S. 442, 48 L.Ed. 742, affirming 20 App. D.C. 500.

Me.—Rogers v. Kennebec Steamboat Co., 29 A. 1069, 86 Me. 261, 25 L.R.A. 491.
Mass.—Quimby v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 23 N.E. 205, 150 Mass. 365, 5 L.R.A. 846.
10 C.J. p 720 note 14
Assent to conditions in pass generally see supra § 622.

The duty to ascertain the conditions in a pass rests on the one receiving the privileges of gratuitous carriage—Boering v. Chesapeake Beach R. Co., 24 S.Ct. 515, 193 U.S. 442, 48 L.Ed. 742, affirming 20 App. D.C. 500.

Condition accepted, although pass not read

One who takes transportation under a free pass containing a condition that he assumes all risk of personal injury is deemed to have accepted it on that condition, whether he has read it or not.—Rogers v. Kennebec Steamboat Co., 29 A. 1069, 86 Me. 261, 25 L.R.A. 491.

19. N.Y.—Pendergast v. Union R. Co., 41 N.Y.S. 927, 10 App.Div. 207.

Notice on prior occasion insufficient

The fact that a foreman of a street car company had at previous times notified an employee when giving him a pass that "he had to ride at his own risk, and that the company was entirely blameless," is not notice to the employee of a claim by the company of exemption from liability on all subsequent occasions on which he used the cars without pay—Pendergast v. Union R. Co., 41 N.Y.S. 927, 928, 10 App.Div. 207.

20. N.Y.—Ulrich v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 15 N.E. 60, 108 N.Y. 80, 2 Am.S.R. 369, reversing 13 Daly 129.

21. U.S.—Kansas City Southern Ry. Co. v. Van Zant, 43 S.Ct. 176, 260 U.S. 459, 67 L.Ed. 348, reversing Van Zant v. Kansas City Southern Ry. Co., 232 S.W. 696, 289 Mo. 163
Mo.—Pinnell v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., 263 S.W. 182, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 123, 266 U.S. 623, 69 L.Ed. 473—Dunn v. Alton R. Co., App., 88 S.W.2d 224.
Contra McGrath v. Payne, Mo., 245 S.W. 1061.
Va.—Williamson v. Seaboard Air Line Ry., 118 S.E. 255, 136 Va. 626, certiorari denied Williamson v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 44 S.Ct. 37, 263 U.S. 710, 68 L.Ed. 518.
10 C.J. p 720 note 16.

Wife of employee

A carrier may validly stipulate in a pass for interstate transportation issued to the wife of an employee under the Interstate Commerce Act that it shall not be liable for negligent injury to her person—Charleston, etc., R. Co. v. Thompson, 34 S.Ct. 964, 234 U.S. 576, 58 L.Ed. 1476, reversing 79 S.E. 242, 13 Ga.App. 541.

Stop-over in state of destination

That a passenger on an interstate pass, from a point in South Carolina to a point in Virginia, stopped off at a point in Virginia, and was injured while boarding a train to resume her journey to the Virginia destination, did not change the character of her trip to render it intrastate, so as to make applicable a Virginia statute invalidating a stipulation in such pass exempting the carrier from liability for injuries—Williamson v. Seaboard Air Line Ry., 118 S.E. 255, 136 Va. 626, certiorari denied Williamson v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 44 S.Ct. 37, 263 U.S. 710, 68 L.Ed. 518.

Federal statute adopted by state

Where the provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act relating to the issuance of free passes are adopted by a state railroad commission as its own provisions for the issuance of intra-state free passes, a pass issued to a carrier's employee, being controlled by the decision of the federal supreme court, is a gratuitous pass, and not one for a consideration, and hence a stipulation in such pass exempting the carrier from liability is valid.—Wright v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 89 S.E. 457, 18 Ga.App. 290.

22. Me.—Miller v. Maine Cent. R. Co., 133 A. 907, 125 Me. 338, 47 A.L.R. 720.
Caretaker's pass see supra § 632.

23. U.S.—Duncan v. Maine Cent. R. Co., C.C.Me., 113 F. 508.

24. N.Y.—Tingley v. Long Island R. Co., 96 N.Y.S. 865, 109 App.Div. 793, 17 N.Y.Ann.Cas. 440.

25. Md.—Western Maryland Ry. Co. v. Shatzer, 120 A. 840, 142 Md. 274.
Employees of another generally see supra § 633.

Telegraph employees

Where a telegraph company had an arrangement with a carrier for the free transportation of its employees, and in accordance therewith individual passes were issued to the foreman of the former for the transportation of one "foreman and ten helpers," an employee of the telegraph company carried under such a pass is not bound by a stipulation therein exempting the carrier from liability where he does not know that his transportation is under a pass—Western Maryland Ry. Co. v. Shatzer, 120 A. 840, 842, 142 Md. 274.

26. U.S.—Virginia Beach Bus Line v. Campbell, C.C.A.N.C., 73 F.2d 97, certiorari denied 55 S.Ct. 637, 294 U.S. 727, 79 L.Ed. 1258.
Ga.—Devero v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 181 S.E. 421, 51 Ga.App. 699—Forster v. Southern Ry. Co., 146 S.E. 516, 39 Ga.App. 216—Brooks v. Bugg, 131 S.E. 365, 34 Ga.App. 761—Wright v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 89 S.E. 457, 18 Ga.App. 290
Tenn.—Louisville & N. Ry. Co. v. Hadley, 11 Tenn.App. 642.
10 C.J. p 720 note 19.
Degrees of negligence generally see supra § 630.

some jurisdictions statutes prohibiting a carrier from exempting itself from liability for gross negligence have been applied.[27]

Carrier's and employees' negligence distinguished. On the theory that a principal may exempt himself from liability for the negligence of his agents or servants, it was held by some comparatively early authorities that a carrier might exempt itself from liability to a gratuitous passenger for the negligence of its employees, as distinguished from its own;[28] and, while this view was held to apply to any degree of negligence on the part of the employees,[29] it was also held limited in its application so as to include only negligence not constituting gross negligence.[30] Under early New York cases, a carrier might enter into a contract with a gratuitous passenger for exemption from liability for any degree of negligence on the part of its employees[31] other than its managing officers or directors, the latter being regarded as identical with the corporation itself,[32] while as to its own acts it could contract against liability only for negligence not constituting willful or wanton misconduct or gross recklessness.[33] The distinction between the negligence of the carrier and that of its employees, as affects the carrier's liability, is considered generally in § 631 supra.

Denying validity of exemption in toto. Some authorities, rejecting fine discriminations between de-

"By the great weight of authority . . . a contract of exemption from liability for negligence is upheld, at least so far as any except what is called in the opinions wanton, or willful, or gross negligence is concerned, in the case of a passenger who is carried solely as a matter of favor, and without any compensation or advantage whatever to the carrier."—Walther v Southern Pac. Co., 116 P 51, 159 Cal. 769, 773, 37 L.R.A.,N.S., 235 and note.

Willful intent to injure

To authorize a recovery against a carrier by a passenger injured "while being transported over the company's lines by virtue of a gratuitous pass, which exempted the company from liability for injuries caused by ordinary negligence . . . it must appear that the conduct of the . . . [carrier] was such as to evince a willful intention to inflict such an injury, or else was so reckless or so charged with indifference to the consequences . . . as to justify the jury in finding a wantonness equivalent in spirit to actual intent."—Devero v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 181 S.E. 421, 422, 51 Ga.App. 699. To same effect Forster v. Southern Ry. Co., 146 S.E. 516, 517, 39 Ga.App. 216.

Liable only as mandatary

A carrier, carrying one gratuitously, occupies, as to him, "the position of a mandatary, and not that of a common carrier so far as its liability for negligence is concerned," and, therefore, is liable to him, under their agreement that he shall ride at his own risk, only where injury to him is caused by its willful, reckless, wanton, or gross negligence.—Marshall v Nashville R., etc., Co., 101 S.W. 419, 421, 118 Tenn. 254, 9 L.R.A.,N.S., 1246, 12 Ann.Cas. 675.

In Kentucky

(1) It has been held, without determining the effect as to ordinary negligence of a stipulation in a free pass exempting the carrier from liability, that as to gross negligence such a stipulation is void under a constitutional provision in effect prohibiting a common carrier from limiting its common-law liability.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Brown, 217 S.W. 686, 186 Ky. 435.

(2) However, without considering the matter of degrees of negligence, it has also been held that the constitutional provision above referred to renders invalid a stipulation in a free pass exempting the carrier from liability for its negligence—Clark v. Southern Ry. Co., 119 N.E. 539, 69 Ind.App. 697, construing and applying Kentucky constitutional provision

27. In California a statute providing that a common carrier cannot be exonerated, by any agreement made in anticipation thereof, from liability for gross negligence, fraud, or willful wrong of itself or its servants, prevents a carrier from contracting against liability for the character of negligence referred to in the statute, as against one who is carried without any compensation whatever.—Walther v. Southern Pac. Co., 116 P. 51, 159 Cal. 769, 37 L.R.A.,N.S., 235.

In Oklahoma the same result as that stated in the preceding note, re California, has been reached under a statute containing the same language—Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. v. Zuber, 184 P. 452, 76 Okl. 146, 7 A.L.R. 840, appeal dismissed 41 S.Ct. 322, 255 U.S. 561, 65 L.Ed. 786, error dismissed 41 S.Ct. 449, 256 U.S. 681, 65 L.Ed. 1169.

28. N.J.—Kinney v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 32 N.J.Law 407, 90 Am.D. 675, affirmed 34 N.J.Law 513, 3 Am.R. 265.

10 C.J. p. 718 note 99.

"The present discussion does not . . . involve any consideration of the misconduct of the principal. . . . The transaction is virtually this: the carrier says to the passenger, I have employed careful and skillful men to manage my locomotive and cars; but they are human, and they may fail in their duty, to your danger. The passenger says, in consideration of a free passage, I will run that risk. The bargain is struck on these grounds, and I am clear that it would be a great refinement to impeach it as being prejudicial to public interests."—Kinney v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 32 N.J. Law 407, 412, 90 Am.D. 675, affirmed 34 N.J.Law 513, 3 Am.R. 265.

29. Conn.—Griswold v. New York, etc., R. Co., 4 A. 261, 53 Conn. 371, 55 Am.R. 115.

Degrees of negligence generally see supra § 630.

30. Wis.—Annas v. Milwaukee, etc., R. Co., 30 N.W. 282, 67 Wis. 46, 58 Am.R. 848.

31. N.Y.—Perkins v. New York Central R. Co., 24 N.Y. 196, 82 Am.D. 281—Wells v. New York Cent. R. Co., 24 N.Y. 181, affirming 26 Barb. 641.

32. N.Y.—Perkins v. New York Cent. R. Co., 24 N.Y. 196, 213, 82 Am.D. 281.

"A distinction is no doubt to be made, between the directors or managing officers of a corporation and its subordinate agents. As the former exercise all the powers of the corporation and are its only direct medium of communication with outside parties, they must, in respect to all its external relations, be considered as identical with the corporation itself. No contract, therefore, can exempt a railroad company from liability for the willful or wanton misconduct or gross recklessness of its directors; but the rule extends to no other officer or agent of the company."—Perkins v. New York Cent. R. Co., supra.

33. N.Y.—Perkins v. New York Cent. R. Co., supra.

grees of negligence[34] and between the negligence of the carrier itself and that of its employees,[35] hold all such stipulations exempting the carrier from liability to a gratuitous passenger for negligence to be contrary to public policy and void;[36] and in some jurisdictions this rule has been held to be, in effect, prescribed by constitution or statute.[37]

Illegal pass. Where a free pass is illegal under the provisions of an applicable state law or constitutional provision, a stipulation therein exempting the carrier from liability for injuries caused by its negligence is a nullity.[38]

§ 635. Drovers' Passes or Contracts

By the weight of authority, a carrier cannot by stipulation exempt itself from liability for negligence to one accompanying live stock on a drover's pass; and, even under the contrary rule, a drover without knowledge of such a stipulation entered into by his employer is not bound thereby. Particular stipulations in the pass or the contract of shipment have been held not to constitute provisions against the carrier's liability.

By the great weight of authority, where a caretaker of a shipment of livestock is carried under a drover's pass given to him by the carrier so that he may accompany the livestock to its destination, a stipulation in the pass or contract of shipment purporting to exempt the carrier from liability for its negligence to the drover is void as against public policy, since such drover is regarded as a passenger for hire, the pass and the contract being construed as a single contract, the consideration for which is the payment made for the transportation of the stock or the service rendered in caring for it;[39] and this rule has been held not to conflict with 34. U.S.—The New World v. King, Cal., 16 How. 469, 14 L.Ed. 1019.

35. N.H.—Wessman v. Boston & M. R. R., 152 A. 476, 84 N.H. 475.
10 C.J. p 721 note 23.

36. Mo.—McGrath v. Payne, 245 S. W. 1061.
N.H.—Wessman v. Boston & M. R. R., 152 A. 476, 84 N.H. 475.
Tex.—Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. Mullen, Civ.App., 198 S.W. 409, error refused.
10 C.J. p 721 note 24.

Reasons for rule

(1) "It is against the policy of the law to permit anyone, be he common carrier or not, to relieve himself by contract from the performance of his common-law duty to use ordinary care to avoid injurying those with whom he knew or should have known his business would bring him in contact."—Wessman v. Boston & M. R. R., 152 A. 476, 478, 84 N.H. 475.

(2) "The passenger cannot relinquish the rights which the law gives him in consideration of gratuitous passage. It is not a question of benevolence and hospitality on the part of the carrier in giving, nor the violation of moral obligation on the part of the passenger in receiving without being bound by the terms of the agreement upon which the gratuity was offered and accepted. The question is one of public duty which the State as parens patriae, having due regard for the lives and limbs of all her subjects, will not permit to be relegated to the domain of private contract. The interest which the commonwealth has in the comfort and safety of her citizens to see that they are protected from injuries resulting through the negligence of the public carrier or his servants is the same, whether such citizen be a gratuitous passenger or a passenger for hire."—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Pitcock, 101 S.W. 725, 82 Ark. 441, 446, 118 Am.S.R. 84, 12 Ann.Cas. 582.

Duty to exercise care not waived

A stipulation in a pass that the passenger assumes "all risk of personal injury . . . from whatever causes arising, and . . . [releases] the railroad from liability therefor," does not "purport to relieve the . . . [carrier] from its duty to exercise ordinary care with reference to the . . . [passenger]," but merely grants to it "a release from liability in case this duty . . . [is] violated."—Wessman v. Boston & M. R. R., 152 A. 476, 478, 84 N.H. 475.

Relieving carrier from statutory duty

A contract between a railroad company and a news agent engaged in business on defendant's train, exempting the company from liability to him for negligence, is against public policy, and is void as respects negligence consisting of a violation of a statute requiring trains to be stopped before arriving at the crossing of an intersecting railroad, even though the company may not bear to the news agent the relation of common carrier.—Starr v. Great Northern R. Co., 69 N.W. 632, 67 Minn. 18.

37. In Arkansas, under a statute making railroads responsible for damages to persons caused by the running of trains, a stipulation in a free pass that the passenger accepting it assumes the risk of accidents is void as contrary to public policy.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Pitcock, 101 S.W. 725, 82 Ark. 441, 118 Am.S.R. 84, 12 Ann.Cas. 582.

In Nebraska, under a statute making every railroad company liable for all damages inflicted on the person of a passenger except in certain instances relating to the contributory negligence of the passenger, a stipulation in a free pass exempting the carrier from liability is void; and this rule is not changed by a statute providing that no notice shall limit the liability of a carrier unless brought to the knowledge of the opposite party and assented to by him, since such statute has been construed to relate to matters other than the carrier's liability to passengers and therefore not impliedly to give the carrier a right to limit its liability to the latter.—Chicago, etc. R. Co. v. Hambel, 89 N.W. 643, 2 Neb., Unoff., 607—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Collier, 95 N.W. 472, 1 Neb.,Unoff., 278.

In Virginia under a statute providing that no agreement by a common carrier for exemption from liability for injury caused by its own negligence or misconduct shall be valid, an agreement with a passenger traveling on a free pass, relieving the carrier from the consequences of its negligence or that of its servants, is invalid.—Norfolk, etc., R. Co. v. Tanner, 41 S.E. 721, 100 Va. 379.

38. Mont.—John v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 111 P. 632, 42 Mont. 18, 32 L.R.A.,N.S., 85
N.C.—McNeill v. Durham, etc., R. Co., 47 S.E. 765, 135 N.C. 682, 67 L.R.A. 227, allowing rehearing 44 S.E. 34, 132 N.C. 510, 95 Am.S.R. 641, 67 L.R.A. 227.

39. U.S.—Norfolk Southern R. Co. v. Chatman, N.C., 37 S.Ct. 499, 244 U.S. 276, 61 L.Ed. 1131, L.R.A. 1917F 1128, affirming 222 F. 802, 138 C.C.A. 350—Gooch v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., C.C.A.Idaho, 264 F. 664, certiorari granted 41 S.Ct. 8, 254 U.S. 623, 65 L.Ed. 444, and affirmed 42 S.Ct. 192, 258 U.S. 22, 66 L.Ed. 443—Tripp v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., Mich., 238 F. 449, 151

amendments to the Interstate Commerce Act,[40] or with particular provisions of that act.[41] Under this rule a carrier can neither exempt itself from liability for all but gross negligence[42] nor impose on the drover the risk of transportation not incidental to his taking care of his stock.[43]

On the other hand, some authorities regard a caretaker of livestock accompanying it on a drover's pass as a gratuitous passenger and, therefore, bound by a stipulation in the pass or contract of shipment releasing the carrier from liability to him for its negligence;[44] and in at least one jurisdiction statutes have been construed expressly to authorize such a provision against liability to the drover except in cases of gross negligence, willful wrong, or fraud.[45] Within this view, however, such a limi-

C.C.A. 385, certiorari denied Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Tripp, 37 S. Ct. 475, 243 U.S. 648, 61 L.Ed. 945—Fitchburg R. Co. v. Nichols, Mass., 85 F. 945, 29 C.C.A. 500.

Ill.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Beebe, 50 N.E. 1019, 174 Ill. 13, 66 Am.S.R. 253, 43 L.R.A. 210, affirming 69 Ill.App. 363—Crane v. Railway Express Agency, 12 N.E.2d 672, 293 Ill.App. 328.

Iowa.—Adams v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co., 161 N.W. 295, 179 Iowa 1334.

Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Bell, 38 S.W. 3, 100 Ky. 203.

Neb.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Tietken, 68 N.W. 336, 49 Neb. 130, 59 Am.S.R. 526.

10 C.J. p. 724 note 49.

Dictum Miller v. Maine Cent. R. Co., 133 A. 907, 125 Me. 338, 47 A.L.R. 720.

"The agreement for . . . [the shipper's or caretaker's] carriage is a part of the agreement for the transportation of live stock. It is virtually all one contract. While the compensation paid is professedly for the transportation of the stock, it involves the condition that the shipper or a caretaker is to be allowed to ride along for the purpose of caring for it. And the consideration for the carriage of the shipper, or caretaker, is included in the charge made for transporting the stock. The transportation is not a matter of charity or gratuity, but one for a valuable consideration."—Buckley v. Bangor, etc., R. Co., 93 A. 65, 113 Me. 164, 169, L.R.A.1916A 617.

Status of persons riding on drover's passes as passengers generally see supra § 551.

Quoting Corpus Juris in Western Maryland Ry. Co. v. Shatzer, 120 A. 840, 844, 142 Md. 274.

Leading case

U.S.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Lockwood, N.Y., 17 Wall. 357, 21 L.Ed. 627.

"Settled rule of policy"

U.S.—Norfolk Southern R. Co. v. Chatman, N.C., 37 S.Ct. 499, 500, 244 U.S. 276, 61 L.Ed. 1131, L.R.A. 1917F 1128, affirming 222 F. 802, 138 C.C.A. 350.

Limitation of liability to specified amount is void under the rule stated in the text.—Gerin v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., 158 N.W. 630, 133 Minn. 395.

Effect of declaring drover carrier's employee

Where a contract is made by the shipper of stock with the carrier, providing for a hand to accompany the stock and containing a stipulation that the hand so employed shall be the employee of the carrier, assuming all the risks of an employee, the recital in the contract does not alter the real relations of the parties involved, and as a carrier's liability cannot be limited by contract so as to excuse the negligence of the carrier or its servants, so "it cannot be done on false or counterfeited relations."—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Ivy, 9 S.W. 346, 71 Tex. 409, 413, 10 Am.S.R. 758, 1 L.R.A. 500.

40. U.S.—Gooch v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., C.C.A.Idaho, 264 F. 664, certiorari granted 41 S.Ct. 8, 254 U.S. 623, 65 L.Ed. 444, and affirmed 42 S.Ct. 192, 258 U.S. 22, 66 L.Ed. 443.

10 C.J. p. 724 note 50.

Carmack Act

With reference to a caretaker accompanying a shipment of cattle it has been held as follows: "Under the Carmack Act those engaged in interstate commerce . . . may make certain rules limiting liability, but not such as to relieve them from the consequences of their negligence. They may limit the amount of damage that may be recovered for loss or negligent injury to freight; they may limit the time in which actions may be brought under contracts, but the authorities do not hold that they can contract against any liability for negligence. They cannot contract against liability for the consequences that follow a violation of their common-law duty in transporting passengers."—Adams v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co., 161 N.W. 295, 301, 179 Iowa 1334.

41. Prohibiting free passes

A provision in substance prohibiting carriers from issuing free passes or transportation except, among others, to necessary caretakers of livestock prohibits the carrier from issuing free transportation to a drover, since the phrase "free pass or free transportation," as used in the act with reference to caretakers, has the distinct legal meaning of transportation for hire; and as a consequence the statute does not change the rule stated in the text.

U.S.—Norfolk Southern R. Co. v. Chatman, N.C., 37 S.Ct. 499, 244 U.S. 276, 61 L.Ed. 1131, L.R.A.1917F 1128, affirming 222 F. 802, 138 C.C.A. 350.

Me.—Miller v. Maine Cent. R. Co., 133 A. 907, 125 Me. 338, 47 A.L.R. 720.

Prohibiting compensation other than scheduled rates

Under a provision in substance requiring the carrier to file schedules of rates and prohibiting it from receiving a different compensation, one riding on a drover's pass may recover for injuries caused by the carrier's negligence, although he was required to sign a release in accordance with the schedule filed by the carrier with the interstate commerce commission.—Willcox v. Erie R. Co., 147 N.Y.S. 360, 162 App.Div. 94.

42. Ill.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Anderson, 56 N.E. 331, 184 Ill. 294, affirming 81 Ill.App. 137—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Beebe, 50 N.E. 1019, 174 Ill. 13, 66 Am.S.R. 253, 43 L.R.A. 210, affirming 69 Ill.App. 363.

10 C.J. p. 724 note 51.

43. U.S.—Fitchburg R. Co. v. Nichols, Mass., 85 F. 945, 29 C.C.A. 500.

Mo.—Bolton v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 72 S.W. 530, 172 Mo. 92.

Neb.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Tietken, 68 N.W. 336, 49 Neb. 130, 59 Am.S.R. 526.

10 C.J. p. 725 note 52.

44. N.Y.—Willcox v. Erie R. Co., 147 N.Y.S. 360, 162 App.Div. 94.

10 C.J. p. 724 note 47.

Limitation of liability as to gratuitous passengers generally see supra § 634.

Drover compelled to pay fare

Such a stipulation in the contract of shipment is of no effect where the drover is refused transportation under the contract and compelled to purchase a general ticket, even though he is injured while in the car with the livestock.—Jepsen v. Gallatin Valley Ry. Co., 195 P. 550, 59 Mont. 125.

45. S.D.—Kearnes v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., 171 N.W. 86, 41 S.D. 409.

10 C.J. p. 724 note 48.

tation of liability, agreed to between the shipper of the livestock and the carrier, is not binding on one who accompanies the livestock as the shipper's employee unless he has knowledge thereof.[46]

A stipulation limiting the carrier's liability for negligence as to a drover does not limit the recovery of his administratrix for damages sustained by his widow and children through his death, for which a right of action is given by statute.[47]

A stipulation that the carrier shall not be required to start or stop its trains or caboose at the depot or platform or to furnish lights for the drover's accommodation or safety has been held not a contract against the carrier's negligence,[48] and not to absolve the carrier from liability for its negligence in selecting an unsafe or remote place of ingress to, or egress from, the train;[49] and a stipulation requiring the drover to ride in the caboose while the train is in motion and to assume the risk of injury when not observing such requirement has been held not a limitation of the carrier's liability but a regulation for the conduct of its business,[50] the violation of which is discussed generally in § 779 infra. Likewise, the purpose of a provision requiring the drover to give notice to the carrier within a specified time as to any claim asserted by him has been said to be not to escape liability, but to facilitate investigation;[51] such requirement is considered in § 758 infra, as are stipulations limiting the time within which action may be commenced.

§ 636. Express Messengers

Except as statutes or constitutions provide otherwise, an express company's contract with a carrier exempting the latter from liability to the former's employees, and a second contract between an express company and a messenger whereby the latter assents to the foregoing contract or assumes all risk of injury from the carrier's negligence, are valid; but authorities differ as to whether the first contract binds the messenger without his knowledge and assent.

Except where the effect of constitutional or statutory provisions is otherwise,[52] a contract between an express company and a railroad company, by which the former assumes all risk of injury to its employees and agrees to hold the latter harmless

Provision operative during unloading

The drover is, while unloading the stock under such contract, within the exemption clause, although the car has arrived at its destination and he has left the car for a short time, prior to the injury, to obtain assistance in unloading.—Meuer v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 59 N.W. 945, 5 S D 568, 49 Am.S.R. 898, 25 L.R.A. 81.

46. N.Y.—Coppock v. Long Island R. Co., 34 N.Y.S. 1039, 89 Hun 186 —Porter v. New York, etc., R. Co., 13 N.Y.S. 491, 59 Hun 177, affirmed 29 N.E. 1029, 129 N.Y. 624.

Employer's contract with carrier as binding employee generally see supra § 633.

Contract made by minor drover's father

"The stipulation in the contract that the person who receives free transportation under it agrees to assume all risk of personal injury from any cause whatever . . . is entitled to no consideration, because the . . . [drover] was a minor, and because this stipulation was not his contract, but the agreement of his [employer]."—Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Lee, Kan., 92 F. 318, 321, 34 C.C.A. 365.

47. Kan.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Martin, 53 P. 461, 59 Kan. 437, affirmed 20 S.Ct. 854, 178 U.S. 245, 44 L.Ed. 1055.

48. Tex.—Roberts v. Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co., Civ.App., 229 S.W. 954.

49. Mo.—Edmondson v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., App., 8 S.W.2d 103.

Tex.—Roberts v. Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co., Civ.App., 229 S.W. 954.

50. U.S.—Hulet v. Payne, C.C.A.N. D., 282 F. 401.

Release as to drover's negligence

"Such contracts do not stipulate against liability for the carrier's own negligence, but against liability for the passenger's reckless conduct."—Hulet v. Payne, C.C.A.N.D., 282 F. 401, 404.

51. Mo.—Edmondson v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., App., 264 S.W. 470.

52. Okl.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. West, 134 P. 655, 38 Okl. 581.

10 C.J. p. 725 note 60.

In Kansas under statutory provisions in substance making railroad companies liable for all damage to persons caused by their negligence, and for injuries to the employees through their negligence or that of other employees, which, as construed by the supreme court of the state, render void any contract limiting such liability, a contract between an express company and a railroad company that the former shall indemnify and save the latter harmless against any liability on account of the injury or death of any employee of the express company, and a second contract between the express company and an employee by which the employee assumes all risks of injuries while riding on the cars of any railroad, and expressly ratifies the contract between the express company and the railroad company, and agrees to save the express company harmless from any liability thereon, are not available as a defense to an action against the railroad company by the employee's widow to recover damages for his death occurring in Kansas through the alleged negligence of the railroad company.—Weir v. Rountree, Mo., 173 F. 776, 97 C.C.A. 500, 19 Ann.Cas. 1024, appeal dismissed 30 S.Ct. 418, 216 U.S. 607, 54 L.Ed. 635.

In Kentucky, under a constitutional provision prohibiting carriers from contracting away their common-law liability, a Virginia contract, whereby an express messenger at the time of his employment released all claims against the express company or against the carrier for injuries he might receive, whether through negligence or otherwise, was void, so as not to affect his right to recover for injuries received in Kentucky.—Davis v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 92 S.W. 339, 122 Ky. 528, 29 Ky.L. 53, 121 Am.S.R. 481, 5 L.R.A.,N.S., 458, 12 Ann.Cas. 723.

In New Jersey an employment contract in which an express company employee assumed the risks of accidents resulting from the negligence of any person operating a railroad or vehicle and agreed, in the event that he should recover from any carrier, to repay to the express company any sum which the latter would be compelled to pay to such carrier by reason of its contract of indemnity with such carrier, is void under a statute providing, in substance, that "no . . . release of damages made before the happening of any accident . . . shall be valid."—Delaware, L. & W. R. Co. v. Smyth, 115 A. 65, 66; 93 N.J.Eq. 80.

from all loss arising therefrom, and a contract between the express company and a messenger, whereby the latter assents to the foregoing contract or assumes all risk of injury from the negligence of the railroad company, are valid, and preclude the messenger from recovering for injuries caused by the negligence of the employees of the railroad company;[53] but the railroad company is not entitled to the benefit of a contract, of which it had no knowledge, between an express company and its messenger, by which the latter assumes all risk of injury while in the discharge of his duties.[54]

To exempt a carrier from liability or to limit its liability for injury to an express messenger, the contract for release must expressly and plainly so provide;[55] and, while it has been said that ordinary rules of construction apply to such a contract,[56] it has also been held that such a contract should be strictly construed, and that a waiver by the employee of his rights should not be extended by implication or surmise.[57]

Knowledge and assent. It has been held that in order that such a contract between the railroad company and the express company may be binding on the messenger it must be made with his knowledge and assent;[58] but other authorities hold that a messenger is bound to know that his rights rest on the private contract between the two companies and that he is bound thereby, and, therefore, is chargeable with knowledge of limitations therein of the carrier's liability for injuries.[59]

A pass issued to an express messenger for a consideration moving from the express company is not a gratuity, and the railroad company is not exempted from liability to him by a provision in the pass to the effect that the person using it assumes all risks of accident and injury;[60] but a pass given an

53. U.S.—Wells Fargo & Co. v. Taylor, Miss., 41 S.Ct. 93, 254 U.S. 175 65 L.Ed. 205.
10 C.J. p. 725 note 55.
Express messengers as passengers see supra § 548.

Reasons for rule

(1) Where the contract with the carrier was in consideration of the express messenger's being allowed to ride in the latter's baggage car, it was held: "It was not a contract for carriage over the road, but for the use of a particular car. The consideration of the plaintiff's [express messenger's] agreement was not the performance of anything by the . . . [carrier] which it was under any obligation to do, or which the plaintiff had any right to have done. It was a privilege granted to the plaintiff. The plaintiff was not compelled to enter into the contract in order to obtain the rights of a passenger. Having these rights, he sought something more. The contract by which he obtained what he sought did not impair his rights as a passenger, and he was under no compulsion to enter into it."—Bates v. Old Colony R. Co., 17 N.E. 633, 639, 147 Mass. 255.

(2) A railroad company which undertakes, as a matter of accommodation or by special engagement, to carry an express messenger whom it is not bound to carry becomes a private carrier and may protect itself by contract from the result of its negligence.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Keefer, 44 N.E. 796, 146 Ind. 21, 58 Am.S.R. 348, 38 L.R.A. 93.

(3) "A railroad is not a common carrier of common carriers . . . It is not required by usage, nor by common law, to transport the traffic of independent express companies over its lines in the manner in which the traffic is usually carried. . . . And, being under no duty, it may make special contracts limiting its liability. It contracts then as a private carrier. It may contract for nonliability to a messenger who is being carried for the purpose of handling and caring for the express company's goods, which are being carried under the terms of a special contract, and which it was not otherwise bound to carry at all."—Buckley v. Bangor & A. R. Co., 93 A. 65, 69, 113 Me. 164.

54. Ind.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Keefer, 44 N.E. 796, 146 Ind. 21, 58 Am.S.R. 348, 38 L.R.A. 93.

55. Mich.—Cottrell v. Michigan United Tract. Co., 150 N.W. 857, 184 Mich. 221.
10 C.J. p. 726 note 61 [a].

Promotion terminating exemption

Where an express company's employee, while holding the office of driver at eighty-five dollars per month, but at the time acting as train guard for an extra compensation, was injured by the negligence of a railroad company transporting him, it is no defense, in an action by him against the railroad company, that by his original contract of employment with the express company as a helper at fifteen dollars per month he agreed to indemnify that company from liability for such injury or negligence, and by a contract between the two companies the express company indemnified the railroad company against loss for any such injury to any employee of the express company, as, when such employee was advanced to the new position of driver, the old contract was terminated.—Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Duke, 38 App.D.C. 164, Ann.Cas.1913C 832.

56. U.S.—Long v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., N.Y., 130 F. 870, 65 C.C.A. 354.

Release "from any or all claims"

An employment contract by which an express messenger, assumes all risk of personal injury while riding on any transportation line, and agrees to release any transportation company with which his employer may contract "from any or all claims" which may be made on account of any such injury, must be construed to apply to an injury resulting from negligence of a railroad company in whose car he is riding in the course of his employment, even though the contract does not in express terms include injuries due to negligence, since, he not being a passenger while so riding, no claim could be made against the company except on the ground of negligence.—Long v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., N.Y., 130 F. 870, 65 C.C.A. 354.

57. D.C.—Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Duke, 38 App.D.C. 164, Ann.Cas. 1913C 832.

58. U.S.—Chamberlain v. Pierson, S.C., 87 F. 420, 31 C.C.A. 157.
10 C.J. p. 726 note 61.

59. Ill.—Blank v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 80 Ill.App. 475, affirmed 55 N.E. 332, 182 Ill. 332.
Ind.—Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Mahoney, 46 N.E. 917, 47 N.E. 464, 148 Ind. 196, 62 Am.S.R. 503, 40 L.R.A. 701.
Tenn.—McKay v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 182 S.W. 874, 133 Tenn. 590
10 C.J. p. 726 note 62

60. D.C.—Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Duke, 38 App.D.C. 164, Ann.Cas. 1913C 832.

express messenger for the use of his family is a "free pass," within the Hepburn Act, so that a clause thereof, whereby the passenger assumes all risks, is binding on the person using it.[61]

§ 637. Mail Agents

A stipulation relieving a railroad company from liability for injury to mail agents transported on trains is invalid.

As to mail agents transported on trains, it has been held that a stipulation relieving the railroad company from liability for injury to them is not valid.[62]

§ 638. Transportation over Connecting Lines

A valid limitation of liability in a contract for transportation over connecting lines inures to the benefit of the connecting carriers. An initial carrier may provide in a ticket against responsibility beyond its own line, and such a provision may bind even a passenger failing to read it.

A contract for transportation over connecting lines, in which there is a valid limitation of liability, inures to the benefit of the carriers transporting the passenger under the contract.[63]

Liability limited to initial carrier's lines. A provision in a ticket issued by an initial carrier for transportation over connecting lines, to the effect that the initial carrier "acts only as agent" with respect to passage over such lines and "is not responsible beyond its own line," is valid,[64] and such a provision binds the passenger, even though he fails to read it,[65] although in the case of a full-fare ticket it has been held that a passenger is not bound

Pass issued for consideration generally see supra § 632.

Gratuitous passengers generally see supra § 634.

61. N.J.—Morris v. West Jersey, etc., R. Co., 94 A. 593, 87 N.J.Law 579.

62. Miss.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Crudup, 63 Miss. 291.

N.Y.—Seybolt v. New York, etc., R. Co., 95 N.Y. 562, 47 Am.R. 75.

Postal clerks as passengers generally see supra § 548.

Reason for rule

Since federal statutes impose on every railroad company carrying the mail the duty of carrying the agent, the liabilities arising from this duty cannot be limited by contract.—Seybolt v. New York, etc., R. Co., 95 N.Y. 562, 47 Am.R. 75.

63. N.Y.—Wilder v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 156 N.E. 88, 89, 245 N.Y. 36, 52 A.L.R. 188, affirming 217 N.Y.S. 56, 217 App.Div. 661, and answering certified questions 217 N.Y.S. 937, 218 App.Div. 714.

10 C.J. p 726 note 66.

"The contract was a single contract to travel all the way, and afforded protection to all the lines contributing to that end"—Wilder v. Pennsylvania R. Co., supra.

Issuing carrier as agent of others

In making contract giving passenger free transportation, in consideration of which passenger assumed all risks of personal injury, railway company which issued pass was held agent of all other companies recognizing pass as to entire contract, including provision as to assumption of risk.—Wilder v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 156 N.E. 88, 245 N.Y. 36, 52 A.L.R. 188, affirming 217 N.Y.S. 56, 217 App.Div. 661, and answering certified questions 217 N.Y.S. 937, 218 App.Div. 714.

Rule applied to terminal company

A provision in a pass whereby the passenger assumed "all risks of . . . injuries" and released "the company from liability therefor" relieved the terminal company owning and operating the station used by the carrier from liability to the passenger for injuries sustained in falling on the slippery floor of the station.—Wilder v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 156 N.E. 88, 245 N.Y. 36, 52 A.L.R. 188, affirming 217 N.Y.S. 56, 217 App.Div. 661, and answering certified questions 217 N.Y.S. 937, 218 App.Div. 714

64. U.S.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Chatters, La., 49 S.Ct. 329, 279 U.S. 320, 73 L.Ed. 711, reversing, C.C.A., 26 F.2d 403, which affirmed, D.C., Chatters v. Louisville & N.R. Co., 17 F.2d 305, and certiorari granted 49 S.Ct. 26, 278 U.S. 590, 73 L.Ed. 523.

Reason for rule

Since the initial carrier is under no duty "as a common carrier . . . to transport or assume any responsibility for the transportation of . . . [a passenger] beyond its own line . . . [it] might, by stipulation on the through ticket, provide that it should not be so responsible."—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Chatters, La., 49 S.Ct. 329, 332, 279 U.S. 320, 73 L.Ed. 711, reversing, C.C.A., 26 F.2d 403, which affirmed, D.C., Chatters v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 17 F.2d 305, and certiorari granted 49 S.Ct. 26, 278 U.S. 590, 73 L.Ed. 523

Inter-depot transportation

(1) Where a carrier sold a through ticket containing a coupon for transfer from its depot to that of a connecting carrier, but such coupon did not name the bus line to make the transfer, the initial carrier was responsible for injury to the passenger resulting from the negligence of the bus line actually making the transfer, in spite of a provision in the ticket that the carrier in selling it "for passage over other lines" acted "only as agent," and was "not responsible beyond its own lines," since, under the rule that an agent makes himself liable if he contracts in his own name without disclosing his principal's name, such bus line was not an "other line" within the meaning of the provisions of the ticket.—Boyles v. McClure, Tex.Com.App., 243 S.W. 1080, 1081, modifying McAdoo v. McClure, Civ.App., 232 S.W. 348

(2) A provision in a railroad ticket consisting of a coupon for transportation over the lines of the original carrier and another for transportation over those of the connecting carrier, that the carrier in selling the same "for passage over other lines . . . acts only as agent and is not responsible beyond its own line" does not apply to interstation transportation for which a separate ticket is issued by the initial carrier, even though such transportation is beyond the lines of the initial carrier.—Harmon v. Barber, Ohio, 247 F. 1, 159 C.C.A. 219, certiorari denied 38 S.Ct. 335, 246 U.S. 666, 62 L.Ed. 929.

65. U.S.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Prude, 44 S.Ct. 450, 265 U.S. 99, 68 L.Ed. 919, reversing 247 S.W. 785, 156 Ark. 583.

Acceptance and use of ticket as assent

Acceptance and use of a ticket containing a provision limiting the carrier's liability for safe carriage to its own lines suffices to establish a valid prima facie agreement, and the mere failure of the passenger to read its provisions cannot overcome the presumption of assent.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Prude, 44 S.Ct. 450, 265 U.S. 99, 68 L.Ed. 919, reversing 247 S.W. 785, 156 Ark. 583.

by such a provision in his ticket unless it is called to his attention and assented to by him;[66] but even where the initial carrier has contracted for exemption from liability for the negligence of a connecting carrier, it is liable for injuries caused by its negligence in furnishing a defective car to run over connecting lines, whether the injuries occur on its own line or on the line of a connecting carrier.[67]

§ 639. What Law Governs

Generally, unless the parties, intended otherwise, the validity and interpretation of a contract limiting a carrier's liability, including one for interstate transportation, depend on the law of the place where it is made; but by some authorities a contract valid where made will not be recognized as such in a state under whose law it would be void, and by others, if the action is in tort, the law of the place of the accident governs.

As a general rule, unless the parties at the time of making the contract have some other law in view,[68] the validity[69] and interpretation[70] of a contract limiting the carrier's liability are determined by the law of the place where it is made; and, in the absence of a federal law on the subject,[71] this rule applies to the validity[72] and interpretation[73] of a contract for interstate transportation. Thus, although a contract exempting the carrier from liability is invalid where it is sought to be enforced, if it is valid where made it may be enforced on principles of comity,[74] and, if it is invalid where made, it may be recognized as invalid in any other state, even one by the law of which the contract would have been valid.[75]

According to some decisions, however, a contract exempting a carrier from liability for negligence, valid at the place of its making, will not avail as a defense when the injury occurs, and recovery is sought, in a state by whose laws such contracts are held void;[76] and, by other authority, where the

66. Mich.—Thurston v. Northern Nav. Co., 171 N.W. 423, 205 Mich 278

67. Tex.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Foster, 80 S.W 1197, 97 Tex. 618, reversing, Civ.App., 78 S.W. 1134—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Harrison, 80 S.W. 1139, 97 Tex 611, reversing, Civ.App., 77 S.W. 1036.
10 C.J. p 878 note 25.

Unsafe condition of car

Where an initial carrier contracted for through transportation over the lines of connecting carriers in a car furnished by such initial carrier, it was liable for injuries to passengers occasioned by its having furnished a car which was not capable of being made comfortably warm, even though the injuries occurred on the line of a connecting carrier, for the negligence of which the transportation contract exempted such initial carrier.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Harrison, 80 S.W. 1139, 97 Tex. 611, reversing, Civ.App., 77 S.W. 1036.

68. U.S.—Wiley v. Grand Trunk R. Co., D.C.N.Y., 227 F. 127.

69. U.S.—Sasinowski v. Boston & M. R. R., C.C.A.Mass., 74 F.2d 628—Eubanks v. Southern Ry. Co., D.C.Fla., 244 F. 891.
N.Y.—Conklin v. Canadian-Colonial Airways, 194 N.E. 692, 266 N.Y 244, affirming 271 N.Y.S. 1107, 242 App Div. 625.
Ohio.—Knowlton v. Erie R. Co., 19 Ohio St. 260, 2 Am.R. 395.
10 C.J. p 726 note 70.

"The weight of authority, including the United States Supreme Court and the Circuit Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit, is that the invalidity of a release like this is to be determined by the law of the jurisdiction where the carriage was commenced—locus celebrationis—whether the basis of the carrier's liability be regarded as contractual or tortious"—Wiley v. Grand Trunk R. Co., D.C.N.Y., 227 F. 127, 130.

70. Cal.—Justis v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 108 P. 328, 12 Cal.App. 639.
10 C.J. p 726 note 70.

71. Neb.—Maucher v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co., 159 N.W. 422, 100 Neb. 237, error dismissed Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Maucher, 39 S.Ct. 108, 248 U.S. 359, 63 L.Ed. 294.
10 C.J. p 727 note 71.

Carmack amendment inapplicable

"It is the contention of the appellant that the circus train constituted an interstate shipment, and therefore these contracts must be governed by the federal law. If governed by the federal statutes at all they must fall within what is commonly known as the Carmack Amendment to the Elkins Law (Act Feb. 19, 1903, c 708, 32 Stat. 847 [U.S.Comp St.1913, §§ 8597–8599]). Act June 29, 1906, 34 Stat. 3591, pp. 593–595 (U.S.Comp St. 1913, § 8592). . . . The act nowhere provides that a railway company may exempt itself from liability for negligently maiming or killing any person . . . If the contracts fell within the federal statute they are void because they undertake to exempt the carrier from all liability, but this was not a contract for the transportation of a mere piece of inanimate freight. It was a contract for the transportation of a person in whose life and safety the state has an interest, and a contract which would undertake to permit his wanton destruction would be against public policy and void. It does not appear . . . that the liability of the defendant is to be governed by the federal statute Congress has legislated on interstate shipments as applied to freight, but the act does not reach the questions herein involved, and in the absence of action by Congress the questions must be determined by the law of Nebraska. There is no federal legislation touching the liability of railroads growing out of interstate transportation of persons Such being the case, the law of Nebraska must be held to govern."—Maucher v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry Co., 159 N.W. 422, 425, 100 Neb. 237, error dismissed Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Maucher, 39 S.Ct. 108, 248 U.S. 359, 63 L.Ed. 294.

72. N.Y.—Conklin v. Canadian-Colonial Airways, 194 N.E. 692, 266 N.Y 244, affirming 271 N.Y.S. 1107, 242 App Div. 625.
10 C.J. p 727 note 72

73. N.Y.—Fish v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 105 N.E. 661, 211 N.Y. 374, reversing 143 N.Y.S 365, 158 App Div. 92, affirming 141 N.Y.S. 245, 79 Misc. 636.
10 C.J. p 727 note 72.

Presumption as to similarity of law

Although a special contract containing an exemption from liability, made in one state for transportation therein to a point in another state, is to be interpreted according to the law of the former state, in the absence of evidence as to what the law of such former state is it will be presumed to be the same as that of the latter state—Meuer v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 59 N.W. 945, 5 S.D. 568, 49 Am.S.R. 898, 25 L.R.A. 81.

74. Ohio.—Knowlton v. Erie R. Co., 19 Ohio St 260, 2 Am.R. 395.
10 C.J. p 727 note 73.

75. Ill.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Beebe, 50 N.E. 1019, 174 Ill. 13, 66 Am.S.R. 253, 43 L.R.A. 210.

76. Neb.—Maucher v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co., 159 N.W. 422, 100 Neb 237, error dismissed Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Maucher, 39 question arises in an action of tort, the law of the place where the accident happened governs.[77] It has also been held that such a contract, so far as the element of contract controls, must be construed by the laws of the place where it is principally to be performed, by whose laws it will be valid, rather than by the laws of another place where it would be invalid.[78]

G. PERFORMANCE OF CONTRACT OR DUTY TO TRANSPORT

§ 640. Duties as to Transportation in General

a. In general
b. Information to passengers
c. Rules or regulations as to stopping trains

a. In General

A carrier assumes the performance of all duties in accordance with its status, and likewise assumes the transportation of the passenger according to the terms of the contract of carriage. In its dealings with the public it must be honest and fair.

Where a person purchases a ticket for passage on a train or car, the carrier assumes the relation of common carrier toward him, and thereby assumes to perform all the duties of such carrier,[79] and, although it assumes the contract of safe carriage,[80] it is immaterial so far as its liability for injuries is concerned, whether these duties arise by express stipulation or by a contract which necessarily involves their observance.[81] Unless performance is waived, it is the duty of the carrier to transport a passenger according to the terms of his contract;[82] and if it fails so to transport him and is not prevented from so doing by an act of God, or of the public enemy, or by the passenger's own conduct, there is a breach of contract for which the carrier is liable in damages.[83] The act which breaks the contract may also constitute a tort.[84] The provisions of the contract by which a carrier undertakes a given service do not determine whether the service is one which as a common carrier it could be compelled to perform, but the character of the acts involved in its performance indicate the nature of the service, and in determining whether the service is part of the carrier's public duty, the test is whether the acts are such as the carrier must perform.[85]

S.Ct. 108, 248 U.S 359, 63 L.Ed 294.
10 C.J. p 727 notes 75, 77.

Reason for rule

"While it is the rule that any defense which is based upon the express terms of a contract is governed by the lex loci contractus, even though the action be ex delicto, yet the fact that the recognition of a provision for an exemption from liability for negligence would contravene the distinctive policy of the state in which the action arose and where the remedy is sought furnishes a sufficient reason for the refusal to recognize such provision. 2 Wharton, Conflict of Laws (3d ed.) § 471c. This State is concerned in the protection of the lives and limbs of all persons within its borders, whether interstate passengers or otherwise, and, as respects responsibility for torts committed within the jurisdiction of its laws, its courts will, where necessary, assume to determine the common law for themselves, and will not permit parties to contravene the domestic policy of the State by invidious contracts for exemptions from liability for negligence."—Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Teeters, 77 N.E. 599, 166 Ind. 335, 342, 5 L.R.A.,N.S., 425.

77. U.S.—Smith v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., Okl., 194 F. 79, 114 C.C.A. 157.
N.Y.—Willcox v. Erie R. Co., 147 N.Y.S. 360, 162 App.Div. 94.

Rule limited; public policy

Although, in an action brought in one jurisdiction to recover for personal injuries inflicted by a tortious act in another jurisdiction, the validity of a contract exempting the carrier from liability is governed by the law of the place where the injury occurred, nevertheless, such contract will not be recognized in the jurisdiction where the action is brought if it is against the public policy of that jurisdiction.—Clark v. Southern Ry. Co., 119 N.E. 539, 69 Ind.App. 697.

78. Okl.—Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 132 P. 494, 38 Okl. 157, Ann.Cas.1915C 620.

Round trip ticket

Where a ticket issued and delivered in Kansas to a railroad employee's wife for a round trip from a point in Kansas to a point in Oklahoma contains a provision releasing the carrier from liability, such provision must be construed according to the laws of Oklahoma, where it is valid, rather than by the laws of Kansas where it is invalid.—Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 132 P. 494, 38 Okl. 157, Ann.Cas.1915C 620.

79. Tex.—El Paso, etc., R. Co. v. Landon, 124 S.W. 744, 58 Tex.Civ.App. 397.

80. La.—Brisolara v. Caddo Transfer & Warehouse Co., 127 So. 57, 13 La.App. 27.
N.Y.—Barad v. New York Rapid Transit Corporation, 295 N.Y.S. 901, 162 Misc. 458.

81. Tex.—El Paso, etc., R. Co. v. Landon, 124 S.W. 744, 58 Tex.Civ.App. 397.

82. Pa.—Sweigart v. Shreiner, 14 Pa.Dist.&Co. 435.
S.C.—Payne v. Atlantic Greyhound Bus Lines, 188 S.E. 426, 182 S.C. 58.
10 C.J. p 798 note 89.

Performance held not waived

Where defendant contracted to carry plaintiff and his companions in an automobile from one place to another, and the automobile broke down, and defendant failed within a reasonable time after being informed of the accident to carry plaintiff and his companions, the act of plaintiff in leaving the automobile and walking back was not a waiver of performance.—Taxicab Co. v. Grant, 57 So. 141, 3 Ala.App. 393.

83. Ark.—Smith v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 176 S.W. 308, 118 Ark. 291.
Pa.—Sweigart v. Shreiner, 14 Pa.Dist.&Co. 435.
10 C.J. p 799 note 90.

Injury by blow-out of tire

Where bus passenger was injured when tire blew out, bus company breached its contract with passenger for safe passage.—Brisolara v. Caddo Transfer & Warehouse Co., 127 So. 57, 13 La.App. 27.

84. U.S.—Austro-American S.S. Co. v. Thomas, N.Y., 248 F. 231, 160 C.C.A. 309, L.R.A.1918D 873.

85. N.H.—Wessman v. Boston & M.R.R., 152 A. 476, 84 N.H. 475.

In its dealings with the public, a common carrier must be honest and fair.[86] A passenger is entitled on his journey to civil treatment from the carrier's servants as part of the contract of carriage,[87] and, as shown infra § 692, the carrier is liable for abusive and insulting language or conduct of its servants. An infant passenger is not entitled to any special attention in the absence of an express contract to that end, or in the absence of facts from which it may be inferred that such a duty exists.[88]

Where a passenger presents an irregular ticket, it is the carrier's duty to heed any reasonable explanation made by the passenger and institute such an investigation as under the circumstances is reasonably available.[89] The holder of a ticket has no cause of action against the carrier for failing to carry him on his ticket, where he does not demand so to be carried, but from some cause voluntarily pays cash fare to the conductor.[90]

Generally, however, an arrangement as to transportation which is not within the authority of the carrier's agent does not impose a duty on the carrier to conform to it.[91]

b. Information to Passengers

A carrier must furnish passengers and intending passengers with such information as to its system and course of conduct as may be reasonably necessary to enable them to pursue their journey; but, generally, in the absence of a request therefor, a carrier is not bound to volunteer information. Information given by the carrier must be correct.

It is the duty of a carrier to furnish passengers, and those who in good faith intend to become passengers, with such information as to its system and course of conduct as may be reasonably necessary to enable them to pursue their journey.[92] In the absence of a request for information, however, it has been held that a carrier is not bound voluntarily to give information to a passenger,[93] and, unless the schedule has been changed after the ticket was sold or such change has been made without giving the ordinary notice to the public, it need not volunteer information as to what train a passenger should take to arrive at his destination.[94] So, in the absence of a request for information, the carrier is not bound to inform a passenger as to the time of departure of its earliest train to his destination,[95] or as to the track on which his train will arrive.[96] However, where a person purchases a ticket with the intention of using a certain train, and the agent of the company knows of his purpose so to do, it is the agent's duty to inform the passenger of the fact that the train will not stop at his station.[97]

On request to its ticket agent or other proper agent, the carrier is bound to give the correct information,[98] and a passenger has the right to rely on information given by such agent acting within

86. Ill.—Princell v. Pickwick Greyhound Lines, 262 Ill.App. 298.

87. Tenn.—Sims v. Knoxville Ry. & Light Co., 208 S.W. 610, 141 Tenn. 238—Knoxville Traction Co. v. Lane, 53 S.W. 557, 103 Tenn. 376, 46 L.R.A. 549.

88. Ky.—Strong v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 43 S.W.2d 11, 240 Ky 781

89. S.C.—Matthews v. Southern Ry. Co., 120 S.E. 369, 126 S.C. 454.

90. S.C.—Bethea v. Northwestern R. Co., 1 S.E. 372, 26 S.C. 91.

91. Me.—Cuzzo v. Maine Cent. R. Co., 91 A. 1006, 112 Me. 560.

92. Ala.—Lamb v. Mitchell, 80 So. 151, 16 Ala.App. 577.
S.C.—Shepherd v. Southern Ry. Co., 133 S.E. 231, 135 S.C. 75.

93. Ky.—Hundley v. Louisville & I. R. Co., 245 S.W. 149, 196 Ky. 604.
10 C.J. p 799 note 92.

Signs on car giving notice of destination

Where plaintiff boarded defendant's interurban electric car intending to go to S at nearly the scheduled time for the regular car for S without noticing signs on the car stating that its destination was E, and after discovering her mistake was allowed to alight at the next station and proceeded to walk back, doing which she sprained her ankle, the fact that the regular car for S had been temporarily withdrawn from service did not make it incumbent on defendant to inform her of that fact before allowing her to board the car, notice of the destination of the car being given to her by the signs thereon.—Hundley v. Louisville & I. R. Co., 245 S.W. 149, 196 Ky. 604.

Notification on entering interurban electric car

Where plaintiff boarded defendant's interurban electric car erroneously supposing that it would take her to her destination, but was allowed to alight at the next station and proceeded to walk back to the station at which she boarded the car, spraining her ankle on the way, negligence of defendant could not be predicated on its failure to notify plaintiff of the car's destination before allowing her to enter it, notwithstanding that it is the universal custom of steam railroads to give such notice to passengers.—Hundley v. Louisville & I. R. Co., 245 S.W. 149, 196 Ky. 604.

94. Ala.—Lamb v. Mitchell, 80 So. 151, 16 Ala.App. 577.

95. Tex.—Latimer v. St. Louis Southwestern R. Co., 90 S.W. 665, 40 Tex.Civ.App. 614.

96. Ga.—Dawson v. Southern Ry. Co., 89 S.E. 1051, 18 Ga.App. 534.
10 C.J. p 801 note 19.

When two trains are on track

Ticket agent having in response to inquiry correctly informed passenger as to time train left and that it was then on track did not mislead passenger, although in fact he boarded another train which was also on track at that time.—Shepherd v. Southern Ry. Co., 133 S.E. 231, 135 S.C. 75.

97. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Adcock, 12 S.W. 874, 52 Ark. 406.

98. Ala.—Pollard v. Jarrett, 169 So. 697.
Ark.—Crown Coach Co. v. Meadors, 53 S.W.2d 442, 186 Ark. 236.
10 C.J. p 799 notes 93, 94 [a].

Refusal of incidental information

A carrier is not liable because the agent at a depot at an intermediate station at which a passenger was waiting for a train refused to tell her the name of the town or where she could find a hotel, and on her asking for water merely pointed to a tank some distance away, or because men and boys around the station the scope of his employment.[99] If such an agent wrongfully refuses information to a passenger on request, or negligently misinforms him, the carrier is liable for the damages caused thereby,[1] but where the misdirection of the agent does not cause a passenger to act differently than if the correct information was given, the passenger has no right of action.[2] Where the conductor and an ordinary employee make to a passenger conflicting statements as to the movement of the train, the passenger should act on the former's directions, and if he follows those of the other to his detriment he has no cause of action against the company.[3] A railroad is under no duty to furnish a clock in its waiting room for use of the passengers at the station, but where it undertakes to inform passengers of the time by means of a clock therein, it is required to exercise due care in the maintenance thereof so that passengers will not miss the train by reason of the clock being slow.[4]

c. Rules or Regulations as to Stopping Trains

In the absence of a statutory provision to the contrary, a carrier may make rules providing that particular trains shall stop only at certain stations if it furnishes reasonable means of reaching all stations on its route by some of its trains.

In accordance with the right of a carrier to make reasonable rules and regulations for the management and operation of its trains and cars, see supra § 570, it is a well established general rule that, in the absence of a statutory provision to the contrary, a carrier, where it furnishes reasonable means of reaching all stations on its route by some of its trains, may make rules providing that particular trains shall stop only at certain stations.[5] In following such reasonable regulations and train schedules the carrier need not stop its through or limited trains at all stations,[6] incurring no liability, in general, for failure to stop to receive a passenger, see infra § 644, or for failure to stop to discharge a passenger, see infra §§ 654–658.

§ 641. On Proper Train or Conveyance

Generally, the purchaser of a ticket may take passage on any train or car which will take him to his destination; but he has no right to take any particular train or one which does not stop at his destination or receive passengers at the station at which he desires to board it.

Unless there is a limitation as to the train or car which the purchaser of a ticket may take, see supra § 619, he may assume that he can take passage on any train or car which under the usual schedules of the road carries passengers and stops at his destination.[7] On the other hand, unless there is a jeered and laughed at her.—Missouri, etc, R Co. v. Kendrick, Tex.Civ.App., 32 S W. 42

99. Ala.—Pollard v. Jarrett, 169 So. 697—Lamb v. Mitchell, 80 So. 151, 16 Ala App. 577.
Ark.—Crown Coach Co. v. Meadors, 53 S.W.2d 442, 186 Ark. 236.
S.C.—Shepherd v. Southern Ry. Co., 133 S.E. 231, 135 S.C. 75.
10 C.J. p 690 note 56 [a], p 799 note 94.

As to stop at destination

A passenger purchasing a ticket for a specified destination has the right to rely on a statement by the carrier's agent that the train will stop at that point.
Ala.—Pollard v. Jarrett, 169 So. 697.
N.C.—White v. Norfolk-Southern Ry. Co., 89 S E. 788, 172 N C 31, rehearing denied 91 S.E. 697, 173 N.C. 703.

1. N.C.—Coleman v. Southern R Co., 50 S.E. 690, 138 N.C. 351.
10 C.J. p 799 note 95.

Time of departure of trains

Where a passenger sustains damages by reason of misinformation as to the time of the departure of trains, given by a carrier's employees, the carrier is liable for the actual damages sustained by the passenger, proximately caused by reason of the misinformation—Weeks v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 175 N.W. 726, 43 N.D. 426, 8 A.L.R. 1173—10 C J. p 799 note 93 [b]

2. S.C.—Hutchison v. Southern Ry Co., 95 S.E 181, 109 S.C. 90.

Following of original plan

Misinformation given by defendant railroad's agent that plaintiffs' train would stop at their destination, resulting in failure of relative to meet them at nearby station where they alighted pursuant to their original plan, and then advised relative they would proceed to ultimate destination without his company, establishes no cause of action.—Hutchison v. Southern Ry. Co., 95 S E 181, 109 S.C. 90.

3. Mo.—Dillon v. Lindell R. Co, 71 Mo App 631.

4. Ala.—Louisville & N. R Co. v Clark, 87 So. 676, 205 Ala. 152, 14 A.L R. 695.

5. N C.—Meeder v. Seaboard Air Line Ry., 91 S.E. 527, 173 N.C 57.
Tex.—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co v. Sanderson, Civ.App., 216 S.W 286
10 C J p 800 note 7.

6. Ala.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Pruett, 77 So. 49 200 Ala. 675.
S C.—Shepherd v. Southern Ry. Co., 133 S.E 231, 135 S.C. 75.
10 C J. p 800 note 8.

7. Tenn.—Louisville, etc, R. Co. v Turner, 47 S W. 223, 100 Tenn 213, 43 L.R.A. 140.
10 C.J. p 799 note 2.

Excursion ticket

Under a statute providing that no railroad company shall limit the right of a ticket holder to a particular train, but that such holder may travel on any train, whether regular or express, and may stop at any of the stations along the line at which such train stops, and providing also that railroad companies may sell excursion, return, or special tickets at less than the regular rates, to be used as provided by the ticket, where defendant sold plaintiff an excursion ticket to M and return for a reduced rate, which ticket was to be good only on continuous trains, the only limitation as to the use of the ticket, "provided on the ticket," was that it should be good on continuous trains, and not good to stop off, it was held that plaintiff could ride on any regular train, provided he made a continuous passage.—Crabtree v. Washington County R. Co., 64 A. 842, 101 Me. 485.

First train stopping at destination

Under a statute providing that railroads shall run their passenger trains at regular times, to be fixed by public notice, shall furnish sufficient accommodations for passengers, and shall be liable to the party aggrieved, in an action for damages, for any neglect or refusal in the premises, the schedule of trains is an offer which, when accepted by a perspecial contract as to the train on which the passenger is to be transported, he is not entitled to take any particular train or conveyance, but has the right to be transported only in accordance with the reasonable regulations of the carrier;[8] and he must take a train which, under the regulations of the carrier, will take him to, and stop at, his destination, and he has no right to transportation on a train which is not scheduled to stop there,[9] or which under the regulations of the company does not receive passengers at the station at which the passenger desires to board it.[10]

§ 642. Duty of Passenger to Inquire; Taking Wrong Train or Car

An intending passenger must inform himself as to the train or car he must take to arrive at his destination, and where he takes the wrong train or car through his own fault or mistake he has no remedy for damages against the carrier.

It is the duty of a person about to take a train or car to inform himself as to what train or car he should take to arrive at his destination and as to when, where, and how he can go, or stop, according to the regulations and time-tables of the carrier; and before boarding a train or car, he is bound to inform himself as to whether, under the regulations of the carrier, it will stop at his destination.[11] Without an agreement or special contract providing therefor, he has no right to insist on the carrier changing the course of its business for his accommodation as to serve his convenience,[12] unless he has been misled by the servants of the carrier,[13] or where the carrier, by habitually stopping the train at that place, has induced the passenger to believe that its rule that the train should not stop there except under exceptional circumstances has been abrogated.[14]

Where a passenger takes a wrong train or car through his own fault or mistake, he has no remedy against the carrier for damages;[15] nor is the carrier bound to return him to the point where the mistake was made.[16] Where, however, a passenger takes a wrong train or car through the misdirection of the carrier's agent, the carrier is liable for the resulting damages,[17] and this rule applies whether or not the agent's act was negligent, inadvertent, willful, or malicious,[18] but willfulness, malice, or other aggravating circumstances may be shown, as bearing on the amount of recovery.[19] In such a case, it is the conductor's duty to use due care in regard to the passenger's condition and existing circumstances,[20] and it is the duty of the carrier to return him to the place where the mistake occurred, or to leave him at some point where he will not be subjected to any serious annoyance and to return him, by the first returning train, to the place where he took the wrong train.[21] Where the carrier's employees discover the fact that a passenger has son by asking for a ticket, gives him a legal right to be transported by the first train stopping at his destination —Coleman v. Southern R. Co., 50 S E. 690, 138 N.C 351.

8. Ky.—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S.W 2d 356, 240 Ky. 1.
N.Y.—Paulitsch v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co, 6 N.E. 577, 102 N.Y. 280.
10 C.J. p 800 note 4.

9. Miss.—Illinois Cent. R Co. v. Harris, 32 So. 309, 81 Miss. 208, 95 Am S R. 466, 59 L.R.A. 742.
10 C.J. p 800 note 5.

10. U.S.—Ohage v. Northern Pac. R Co., Minn., 200 F. 128, 118 C.C.A. 302.
10 C.J. p 800 note 6.

11. Ala.—Pollard v. Jarrett, 169 So. 697—Southern Ry. Co. v Pruett, 77 So 49, 200 Ala. 675—Lamb v. Mitchell, 80 So. 151, 16 Ala.App. 577.
Ark.—Hines v. Smith, 224 S W. 612, 145 Ark. 218.
Ky.—Sturgill v. Chesapeake & O. R Co., 11 S W.2d 983, 227 Ky. 44.
Okl.—Hill v. New, 212 P. 422, 88 Okl. 208
S C—Shepherd v. Southern Ry. Co., 133 S.E. 231, 135 S.C. 75—May v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co, 96 S. E. 482, 110 S.C 84.
Tex.—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v Sanderson, Civ App., 216 S.W. 286.
10 C.J. p 801 notes 14, 15.

Regulations of connecting carrier
A purchaser of a through ticket is chargeable with knowledge of rules and regulations of the connecting carrier, promulgated under the authority of the interstate commerce commission—Louisville & N. R Co v. Bishop, 85 So 859, 17 Ala.App. 320

12. Okl.—Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co v. Sheets, 154 P. 550, 54 Okl. 586

13. Ark.—Hines v. Smith, 224 S.W. 612, 145 Ark. 218.

14. Cal.—Wieland v. Southern Pac. R Co, 82 P. 226, 1 Cal.App. 343.
Tex.—Albin v. Gulf, etc, R. Co, 95 S W 589, 43 Tex.Civ.App. 170.
10 C.J. p 801 note 17.

15. Ky.—Hundley v. Louisville & I. R. Co., 245 S.W. 149, 196 Ky. 604.
Okl.—Hill v. New, 212 P. 422, 88 Okl 208.
S.C—Shepherd v. Southern Ry. Co., 133 S E. 231, 135 S.C. 75
10 C.J. p 801 note 20.

16. Ga.—Johnson v. Seaboard Air Line R Co., 79 S.E. 91, 13 Ga App 298.
N.Y.—Brown v. Interborough Rapid Transit Co., 107 N.Y.S 629, 56 Misc. 637

17. Ala.—Pollard v. Jarrett, 169 So. 697.
Ga.—Atlanta Terminal Co. v. Alexander, 143 S.E. 905, 38 Ga App. 280.
10 C J. p 801 note 22.

Remedy of passenger
Where a passenger, making proper inquiry, is misled by acts or statements of the railroad or its agents into taking the wrong train, his remedy is to leave the train and seek other transportation and recover of the railroad damages sustained.
Ala.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Pruett, 77 So 49, 200 Ala. 675.
Pa.—Weathers v. Pennsylvania R Co, 94 Pa.Super. 50.

18. Ga.—Atlanta Terminal Co. v. Alexander, 143 S.E. 905, 38 Ga.App 280
10 C J. p 801 note 23.

19. Ala.—Robertson v. Louisville, etc, R. Co., 37 So. 831, 142 Ala 216.

20. Tex.—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Hitt, Civ.App., 60 S.W.2d 864.

21. Tex.—St. Louis Southwestern R Co. v. Pruitt, Civ App., 79 S.W 598, error denied 80 S.W. 72, 97 Tex. 487.

boarded the wrong train or car, they are bound to inform him of his mistake and to afford him a reasonable opportunity to get off in view of all the facts;[22] if the train is on its way, they should inform him of his mistake, so that he may get off at a regular stop, if any, before reaching his destination, and continue his journey on another train;[23] but they may simply tell him what to do and ordinarily leave him to follow their directions.[24] Where a person boards a street car which does not run all the way to his destination without inquiring as to that fact, there is no contract to carry him beyond the point to which the car does run.[25]

§ 643. Route to Be Pursued

A passenger may be required to go by the most direct route or to pay extra fare. The carrier is not obliged to inform the passenger of the route unless such information is sought by the passenger.

Where a carrier operates direct and indirect or circuitous lines of road between two points, through passengers traveling on a simple contract to carry from one point to another may be required to go by the most direct route and to pay extra fare for transportation if they go by the longer route,[26] and neither the failure of the carrier to notify a passenger of such regulation, nor of its conductor as to the necessity of changing cars at a certain point en route, will affect the contractual rights of the parties.[27] Where a stock contract provides for the free passage, both ways, of the shipper, but does not name the route to be taken in returning, a general usage known to the shipper, permitting persons holding such contracts to take either of two routes, becomes a part of the contract.[28] A passenger is not entitled to recover for a failure to transport him over a certain route, where his injuries are caused by his own negligence in attempting to ride on a ticket not entitling him to passage over such route;[29] but where, through the fault of the carrier's agent, a passenger is given a wrong ticket, and the latter, on discovering the mistake, uses due care in selecting a route to his desired destination, the carrier is liable for damages, although he selects a route which causes him more discomfort than another which he might have selected would have caused.[30] A passenger is not bound by his signature to an interstate ticket, calling for transportation over a shorter route, where he has paid the fare for the longer route.[31] A street car passenger is entitled to be carried to his destination by the most direct route.[32]

A carrier is not obliged to inform the passenger of the route unless such information is sought by the passenger,[33] but where information as to the route to be taken is given, the carrier is bound by the statements of its agent.[34] Likewise, the carrier is liable, where on inquiry by an intending passenger it negligently fails to inform him as to the best and quicker route of travel.[35]

22. Ala.—Southern R. Co. v. Farquhar, 68 So. 289, 192 Ala. 415.

23. Miss.—Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Walls, 70 So. 349, 110 Miss. 256.

24. Ky.—Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Raine, 113 S.W. 495, 130 Ky. 454, 132 Am.S.R. 400, 19 L.R.A.,N.S., 753.

Miss.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Harper, 35 So. 764, 83 Miss. 560, 102 Am.S.R. 469, 64 L.R.A. 283.

25. Wash.—Braymer v. Seattle, etc., R. Co., 77 P. 495, 35 Wash. 346.

10 C.J. p. 802 note 26.

26. N.Y.—Kelly v. New York City R. Co., 84 N.E. 569, 192 N.Y. 97, affirming 104 N.Y.S. 561, 119 App. Div. 223, reversing 102 N.Y.S. 742, 52 Misc. 585.

10 C.J. p. 802 note 31.

27. S.D.—Church v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 60 N.W. 854, 6 S.D. 235, 26 L.R.A. 616.

28. Iowa.—Milroy v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 67 N.W. 276, 98 Iowa 188.

29. S.C.—Saunders v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 85 S.E. 167, 101 S.C. 11.

30. Tex.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Armstrong, Civ.App., 41 S.W. 833.

31. S.C.—Jordan v. Southern R. Co., 84 S.E. 871, 100 S.C. 284.

32. N.Y.—Goodman v. New York R. Co., 150 N.Y.S. 702, 88 Misc. 95.

Ordinance prohibiting diverting from usual course

The Milwaukee ordinance, prohibiting a street car on which there were passengers from being diverted from the usual course on the line for which it was designated, unless it is disabled or an emergency renders it impossible to proceed in the usual course, was intended to prevent only arbitrary changes in the running of street cars, whereby passengers might be compelled to abandon them before reaching the scheduled destination thereof.—City of Milwaukee v. Becker, 180 N.W. 838, 173 Wis. 169.

33. Ga.—Williams v. East Coast Stages Co., 182 S.E. 415, 52 Ga. App. 77.

34. Miss.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Harper, 35 So. 764, 83 Miss. 560, 102 Am.S.R. 469, 64 L.R.A. 283.

10 C.J. p. 691 note 57.

Bus transportation over smooth road on specific schedule

(1) Bus carrier was held liable for breach of contract, entered into by its ticket agent, to transport passenger over smooth road on specific schedule, notwithstanding that carrier had no bus leaving over smooth road on schedule specified, and that ticket agent made mistake in making contract, since ticket agent was acting within apparent scope of his authority.—Southwestern Greyhound Lines v. Wisdom, 95 S.W.2d 904, 192 Ark. 903.

(2) Fact that bus carrier reserved right in itinerary furnished passenger to change its schedule without notice was held not to preclude recovery by passenger from carrier for breach of contract to transport passenger over smooth road on specific schedule, where breach was occasioned by fact that there was no bus scheduled to leave over smooth road at time specified, rather than by change of schedule.—Southwestern Greyhound Lines v. Wisdom, supra.

35. Ala.—Southern R. Co. v. Nowlin, 47 So. 180, 156 Ala. 222, 130 Am.S.R. 91.

N.C.—Mace v. Southern R. Co., 66 S.E. 342, 151 N.C. 404, 24 L.R.A.,N.S., 1178 and note.

10 C.J. p. 802 note 34.

§ 644. Receiving and Taking Up Passengers

A passenger has the right to be admitted to the proper train or conveyance, and the carrier has the duty to stop, when required by its regulations and schedules or under a special contract, to receive him. Opportunities for taking the train or conveyance at the proper place must be afforded and convenient facilities must be provided, but ordinarily a carrier is not required to receive passengers at places other than those which are provided for the purpose. The carrier must keep the train or conveyance standing for such time as is reasonably necessary to enable intending passengers to board it.

A passenger has the right to be admitted to the proper train or conveyance for transportation under his contract, and he may recover damages if wrongfully refused admission to, or transportation on, such train.[36] Among the duties owing from the carrier to intending passengers, is the duty to stop all trains or conveyances, scheduled to stop, at the designated stations or places,[37] but in following its reasonable regulations and schedules, it need not stop to receive a passenger at a place at which the train or conveyance is not scheduled to stop.[38] However, even though a train is not scheduled to stop if the carrier contracts to stop the train, it is liable in tort if the train fails to stop.[39] Where by regulation or custom a train is to be stopped on signal, such as at a flag station, for the taking on of passengers, the carrier will be liable in damages for not stopping a train and taking on a passenger when the proper signal is given,[40] but there is no duty to stop a train other than a passenger train on the signal of one desiring to take passage.[41] Likewise, a street car must stop where the duty is to stop in accordance with the usual regulations, on signal.[42] Where the carrier negligently fails to stop, the intending passenger must exercise ordinary care and prudence to prevent injury to himself as the result of the carrier's negligence.[43] A carrier owning a train which, by reason of a wreck, is detoured over the line of another carrier, is under no legal duty to stop to receive passengers along the detoured route.[44]

Opportunities for taking the proper train at the proper place must be afforded under reasonable regulations,[45] and the carrier is required to exercise ordinary care in providing convenient facilities in order that its passengers may reach and board the trains or conveyances.[46] Ordinarily, however, a carrier is not bound to receive passengers other 36. Md.—Northern Central R. Co. v. O'Conner, 24 A. 449, 76 Md. 207, 35 Am.S.R. 422, 16 L.R.A. 449.

10 C.J. p 802 note 40.

Contract by telephone

Carrier's failure to transport passenger, in accordance with arrangement pursuant to telephone conversation, renders it liable for damages. —Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S.W.2d 356, 240 Ky. 1.

Closing doors of bus against ticket holder

Bus company was held not exonerated from liability for preventing woman from boarding bus on ground that its ticket agent's acts in so doing were not in course or within scope of his authority, especially where bus driver closed doors against her and drove away with knowledge of her possession of ticket and desire to board bus.—Southland Greyhound Lines v. Ashby, Tex. Civ.App., 80 S.W.2d 445, error dismissed

Refusal by gateman

Gateman at railway station used also by other roads than defendant, who was employed and paid by defendant, and under its direction, is servant of defendant sued for rejection of passenger.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Frizzle, 108 So. 615, 21 Ala.App. 354, certiorari denied 108 So. 616, 214 Ala. 688.

Detention by ticket chopper

Where a passenger deposited a valid ticket, she was entitled to proceed on her journey without molestation from the carrier, or being charged with depositing a bogus ticket by the ticket chopper, and the carrier is liable where the ticket chopper seized her and detained her, whether willfully or through error of judgment or otherwise.—Hahn v. Interborough Rapid Transit Co., 172 N.Y.S. 633, 184 App.Div. 861

37. Or.—Palmer v. Willamette Valley Southern Ry. Co., 171 P. 1169, 88 Or. 322, L.R.A.1918D 1114.
10 C.J. p 803 note 42.

38. U.S.—Ohage v. Northern Pac. R. Co., Minn., 200 F. 128, 118 C.C.A. 302

39. Wash.—Fenlon v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., 169 P. 863, 99 Wash. 289.

40. Ga.—Southern R. Co. v. Wallis, 66 S.E. 370, 133 Ga. 553, 30 L.R.A.,N.S., 401, 18 Ann.Cas. 67.
10 C.J. p 803 note 49.

Special excursion train

Where it was the annual custom of a railroad company to run an excursion train which always stopped on flag at a certain station to take on passengers, no notice being given to the public that the custom would be changed, by the course of business and established custom plaintiff was invited and had a right to take passage on the train at the station, and when this right was denied had a cause of action.—Gulf & S.I.R. Co. v. Dixon, 71 So. 906, 111 Miss. 637, reversing 70 So. 898, 110 Miss. 800.

41. N.C.—Brown v. Linville River Ry. Co., 94 S.E. 431, 174 N.C. 694.

42. Ill.—See Welch v. Chicago City Ry. Co., 208 Ill.App. 161.
Mo.—Haley v. St. Louis Transit Co., 77 S.W. 731, 179 Mo. 30, 64 L.R.A. 295.
10 C.J. p 803 note 50.

Standing on left hand side of car.

Street car motorman owed duty to stop for intending passenger who was standing at car stop on left-hand side of street car, notwithstanding that rule of company prohibited passengers from entering at left-hand entrance in absence of showing of facts justifying motorman in assuming that passenger would not enter by proper door when given opportunity. — Birmingham Electric Co. v. Jones, 176 So. 203, 234 Ala. 590.

43. Tex.—Nevill v. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas, Civ. App., 211 S.W. 523, dismissed for want of jurisdiction.
W.Va.—Williams v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 128 S.E. 96, 99 W.Va. 154.

44. Ky.—Payne v. Simmons, 255 S.W. 863, 201 Ky. 33, 33 A.L.R. 814.

45. Ky.—Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Austin, 126 S.W. 144, 137 Ky. 611, 136 Am.S.R. 307.
N.C.—Phillips v. Southern R. Co., 32 S.E. 388, 124 N.C. 123, 45 L.R.A. 163.
10 C.J. p 802 note 41.

46. Ga.—Atlanta Terminal Co. v. Alexander, 143 S.E. 905, 38 Ga.App. 280.

than at the places provided for that purpose,[47] although it may by custom establish a policy of receiving passengers at other places.[48] A carrier may be liable for damages if its train leaves the station yards without coming to the depot where it is accustomed to receive passengers,[49] but as to freight trains carrying passengers, a custom to stop the car on which passengers are to be transported at some distance from the platform may be reasonable and proper, and the passenger cannot complain that, waiting on the regular passenger platform, he had no opportunity to enter the passenger car of the freight train.[50]

The carrier must keep the train or conveyance standing for such time as is reasonably necessary to enable intending passengers, in the exercise of reasonable diligence on their part, to board.[51] Where a carrier stops its train or car to receive passengers, it impliedly invites them to board the train, and the invitation continues as long as the train remains standing;[52] and where the train or car stops the usual length of time or long enough to allow passengers to get off or on, the carrier owes no duty to hold its train for a belated passenger,[53] although he is prevented from presenting himself at the train in time by reason of the crowd at the station.[54]

The duty to receive and transport without discrimination all proper persons who desire and properly offer to become passengers is treated in §§ 538–540 supra.

§ 645. Accommodations and Facilities during Transit

a. In general
b. Transportation facilities in general
c. Seats
d. Separate accommodation for races

a. In General

Generally, the carrier must provide reasonably fit, suitable, and sufficient accommodations and facilities for its passengers. A passenger with a ticket of a particular class is entitled to accommodations according to his ticket except in case of an unforeseen emergency.

It is, in general, the duty of a carrier of passengers to provide accommodations fit and suitable for their safe and comfortable transportation,[55] or, in other words, to furnish to passengers reasonably comfortable accommodations for their passage.[56] The carrier must use every reasonable means to care for the passenger's convenience, comfort, and safety while the relation of carrier and passenger continues,[57] but, although it has been broadly stat-

47. Or.—Palmer v. Willamette Valley Southern Ry. Co., 171 P. 1169, 88 Or. 322, L.R.A.1918D 1114.

Road crossing

The mere fact that the carrier had occassionally stopped its train at a road crossing one hundred thirty-five feet from the regular station did not make such crossing a stopping place.—Palmer v. Willamette Valley Southern Ry. Co., 171 P. 1169, 88 Or. 322, L.R.A.1918D 1114

48. Ky.—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S.W.2d 356, 240 Ky. 1.

49. Ga.—Payton v. Gulf Line R. Co., 62 S.E. 469, 4 Ga.App. 762.

Departure from depot at connecting junctions

"Junction," as used in Crawford & Moses' Dig. § 960, requiring that passenger trains depart only from the station house or depot "at all junctions where two or more trains connect," means place where two or more tracks meet or cross, regardless of whether the tracks are owned by the same or different railroad companies.—Missouri Pac R. Co. v. Henry, 269 S.W. 51, 168 Ark. 146.

50. N.C.—Browne v. Raleigh, etc., R. Co., 12 S.E. 958, 108 N.C. 34.

51. Ga.—Poole v. Georgia R., etc., Co., 15 S.E. 321, 89 Ga. 320.
Or.—Palmer v. Willamette Valley Southern Ry. Co., 171 P. 1169, 88 Or. 322, L.R.A.1918D 1114.

52. Or.—Palmer v. Willamette Valley Southern Ry. Co., supra.
10 C.J. p 803 note 46.

53. Or.—Palmer v. Willamette Valley Southern Ry. Co., supra.
Tex.—Davis v. Kirklen, Civ.App., 253 S.W. 330.
10 C.J. p 803 note 47.

Delay for passenger to procure doctor's certificate

Under Rev.St. §§ 6552, 6554, 6591, relating to carriage of passengers by railroads, the right of any person to demand passage on a particular train must be tested by the requirement that he present himself for passage "within a reasonable time previous" to the scheduled starting time, and where one who was ill and desired to ride in the baggage car, which arrangement necessitated a doctor's certificate and special arrangements, reached the train only as it was ready to leave, it was held that no cause of action accrued to him because the train departed without him, notwithstanding his physician was to accompany him and could have furnished the necessary certificate promptly, this fact being not disclosed to the conductor at the time he was requested to wait.—Davis v. Kirklen, Tex.Civ.App., 253 S.W. 330.

54. Ky.—Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Austin, 126 S.W. 144, 137 Ky. 611, 136 Am.S.R. 307.

55. S.C.—Payne v. Atlantic Greyhound Bus Lines, 188 S.E. 426, 182 S.C. 58.
10 C.J. p 803 note 53, p 804 notes 54–57.

Bus companies carrying passengers for reward must provide all usual and reasonable accommodations.—Missouri, Kansas & Oklahoma Coach Lines v. Burton, 72 P. 2d 385, 181 Okl. 45.

56. Ky.—Payne v. Combs, 249 S.W. 1031, 198 Ky. 749.

57. Utah.—Palmer v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., 98 P. 689, 34 Utah 466, 16 Ann.Cas. 229.
10 C.J. p 804 note 54.

Passengers from another line

Although the owner of a stage line made arrangements with the owner of a connecting stage line with reference to through transportation, he is bound, notwithstanding such arrangements, to give to passengers coming over another line not connecting, accommodations equal to those given to passengers transported on the connecting line.—Bennett v. Dutton, 10 N.H. 481.

ed that the carrier must exercise the highest degree of care in performing such duty,[58] as a rule, it is only required to use that high degree of care which a cautious and prudent person would use under similar circumstances,[59] and it is not required to use the utmost care, human skill, diligence, and foresight.[60] It is as much the duty of the common carrier to look after the comfort of its passengers as it is to protect them against assault or to provide for their safety while being transported,[61] and it must afford the same convenience, safety, and protection of health to all passengers without regard to race, creed, or color.[62]

The duties of a carrier require that it should furnish reasonable stational facilities for the accommodation of travellers on its lines,[63] and it is the duty of a railroad company to maintain a waiting room for the comfort of passengers at junctions or intermediate points, and to allow passengers the use of it for a reasonable length of time before and after the arrival and departure of trains.[64] An agreement to stop a train for a passenger to board it at a station where the train is not scheduled to stop has been held to include impliedly an agreement to keep open its waiting room for the accommodation of the passenger while waiting for the train.[65] The duty to keep stations heated in cold weather is considered in § 721 infra. The duty to heat cars is considered in § 744 infra.

Opportunity to procure food. The duty of a carrier when its train is on time to give opportunity to its passengers to procure food at regular eating stations is discharged when it exercises care to furnish an opportunity to those in ordinary physical condition to procure food for themselves, and it is not ordinarily its duty to convey food to infirm passengers.[66] Where, however, its train is delayed through its own fault, it must use due care to furnish an opportunity to passengers to procure food, and in doing this must take into consideration the sex, age, physical condition, and actual environments of each passenger, and in some cases it may be required to procure food for a passenger, although a passenger cannot recover for the carrier's failure to act where, by preferring a request either to the employees of the carrier or to fellow passengers, he could have procured the necessary food.[67]

Toilet facilities. It has been held that a toilet room should be provided in each passenger coach;[68] but the carrier's duties do not include the duty to provide dressing rooms for passengers.[69] A carrier need furnish only such toilet facilities as are sufficient if all passengers are in ordinary condition and state of health, in the absence of notice that some one of them is sick or suffering from an ailment which necessitates additional toilet facilities for his use.[70]

Water for drinking. A railroad company should also exercise a high degree of care to provide its passenger coaches with drinking water.[71]

Where there is delay in transit. Where a train is unavoidably delayed, the carrier performs its full duty when it provides suitable coaches, properly heated and open for the passengers' use pending the delay.[72]

58. S.C.—Payne v. Atlantic Greyhound Bus Lines, 188 S.E. 426, 182 S.C. 58.

59. Tex.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Wallace, Civ.App., 2 S.W.2d 874, error dismissed.

60. W.Va.—Williams v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 128 S.E. 96, 99 W.Va. 154.

61. Ky.—Louisville & I. Ry. Co. v. Jones, 250 S.W. 822, 199 Ky. 150, 33 A.L.R. 165.

62. Ky.—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S.W.2d 356, 240 Ky. 1.

63. Tex.—Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co of Texas v. Kendrick, Civ.App., 32 S.W. 42.

64. Tex.—St. Louis Southwestern R. Co. v. Foster, Civ.App., 112 S.W. 797.
10 C.J. p 804 note 55 [a].

65. Ind.—Draper v. Evansville & T. H. R. Co., 74 N.E. 889, 165 Ind. 117, 6 Ann.Cas 569.

66. Tex.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Harrington, 98 S.W. 653, 44 Tex.Civ. App. 386.

Duty to hold train

A passenger having made known to the conductor his desire to alight to get a lunch during the time the train stopped, and the conductor having informed him that he would have time to do so, and having consented to his alighting for that purpose, and the passenger having alighted, it was the duty of the conductor to hold the train in accordance with his answer, the passenger not having boarded the train sooner.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Price, 106 S.W. 700, 48 Tex.Civ.App. 210.

If one crippled or infirm undertakes a journey which he knows will be of such length as to extend beyond the meal hours he must provide himself with food for he also knows that he can not walk or safely get on and off a train unassisted. —Texas, etc., R. Co. v Harrington, 98 S.W. 653, 44 Tex.Civ App. 386, 393.

67. Tex.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Harrington, supra

68. Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co v. Grimes, 150 S.W. 346, 150 Ky. 219 10 C.J. p 962 note 90.

Corpus Juris is cited with approval in Hauser v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry Co., 219 N.W. 60, 61, 205 Iowa 940, 58 A.L.R. 687.

69. U.S.—Ozanne v Illinois Cent R Co., C.C.Ky., 151 F. 900, affirmed 157 F. 1004, 85 C.C.A. 678.

70. Tex.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Wallace, Civ.App., 2 S.W.2d 874, error dismissed.

One toilet sufficient

It is enough for carriers to furnish one toilet for thirteen passengers, in absence of notice of passenger's abnormal condition.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Wallace, Tex.Civ.App., 2 S.W.2d 874, error dismissed

71. Tex.—Arrington v. Texas, etc., R. Co., Civ.App., 70 S.W. 551.

72. Okl.—Lusk v. Wilkes, 172 P. 929, 70 Okl. 44, L.R.A.1918E 513.

b. Transportation Facilities in General

The carrier must use reasonable care to furnish transportation facilities, as far as practicable, to persons entitled to transportation. If a ticket is sold for a particular train the passenger must be accommodated thereon.

As the ordinary unlimited ticket is not a contract to transport on any particular train, see supra § 641, it does not constitute a breach of contract that the passenger having a ticket cannot be accommodated by reason of the limited capacity of the train.[73] The carrier's duty is to use reasonable care in furnishing accommodations, as far as practicable, to persons entitled to transportation,[74] and in the absence of a special contract, the passenger must content himself with such accommodations as the carrier can reasonably furnish.[75] However, if tickets are sold for a particular train, the contract is broken if accommodation is not furnished, even though the capacity of the train is already overtaxed,[76] as the carrier must provide its train with coaches reasonably sufficient to carry comfortably as many persons as in the exercise of ordinary care it should reasonably anticipate.[77] In determining what is reasonable diligence in affording adequate accommodations, it is proper to consider the notice given to the carrier of the probable requirement, the time in which it might act, and the means at hand, as well as other considerations involved.[78]

Riding in baggage car. A person voluntarily riding in a baggage car is not entitled to damages because of exposure to public gaze or because of failure of the carrier to furnish him a seat, or because a corpse is transported in the baggage car at the same time.[79] A refusal to permit a passenger to ride in a baggage car because he does not have an order of permission from the superintendent, as required by regulations of the railroad, does not render the carrier liable, although the passenger on previous trips has been permitted, as a matter of personal accommodation, to do so.[80]

Under particular-class tickets. One who has purchased a ticket of a particular class is entitled to accommodations according to his ticket,[81] although in case of an unforeseen emergency he may be compelled to accept other accommodations.[82] The holder of a second-class ticket is entitled to reasonable accommodations of the kind usually furnished to passengers of that class, and cannot be compelled to travel in a smoking car.[83]

Penalty. Under statutes expressly so providing, a failure or refusal to furnish a passenger with transportation facilities subjects the railroad company to a penalty to be collected by the party aggrieved.[84]

c. Seats

The carrier must furnish seats to passengers entitled to transportation, but it is released from this duty if it becomes impossible because of an unanticipated or unforeseeable influx of passengers. A passenger may not dictate where he shall sit, and the carrier may provide reasonable rules and regulations for the seating of passengers.

The carrier is bound to furnish seats to passengers entitled to transportation, if practicable,[85] and the passenger may refuse to give up his ticket or to pay fare unless a seat is furnished,[86] but this does not mean that he is entitled to ride free in such a case, as he cannot avail himself of the benefit of transportation without a seat and at the same

Car stalled in snowstorm

Where a suburban car becomes stalled in a snowstorm, there is no contract or legal obligation on the part of the conductor to find comfortable shelter, outside the car, for a female passenger, although there may be a moral obligation on him so to do—Prospert v. Rhode Island Suburban R. Co, 67 A. 522, 28 R.I. 367, 11 L.R.A.,N.S., 1142.

73. Ill.—Chicago, etc, R. Co. v. Fisher, 31 Ill App. 36.

74. Ala.—Birmingtón R. Light, etc., Co. v. Anderson, 57 So 103, 3 Ala. App. 424
Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Fisher, 31 Ill App. 36.
10 C.J. p 805 note 73.

75. Ky.—Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Austin, 126 S.W. 144, 137 Ky. 611, 136 Am.S.R. 307.
10 C.J. p 805 note 74.

76. Ind.—Lafayette, etc., R. Co. v. Sims, 27 Ind. 59.

77. Ky.—Chesapeake, etc, R. Co. v. Austin, 126 S.W. 144, 137 Ky. 611, 136 Am.S.R. 307.

78. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Fisher, 31 Ill.App. 36.

79. Tex.—Young v. Schaff, Civ.App., 283 S.W. 186.

Woman riding with sick husband

Railroad, being required by statute to accept corpse for transportation, was not liable for resulting illness and mental anguish of woman riding in baggage car with sick husband.—Young v. Schaff, Tex.Civ. App, 283 S.W. 186.

80. Tex.—Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Nelson, Civ.App., 195 S.W. 1176

81. Ky.—Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Austin, 126 S.W. 144, 137 Ky. 611, 136 Am.S.R. 307.
10 C.J. p 807 note 94.

82. U.S.—Louisville & N. R. Co v. Fisher, Tenn., 155 F. 68, 83 C.C.A. 584, 11 L.R.A.,N.S, 926.

Wreck

In case of a wreck a sleeping car passenger may be compelled to ride in a day coach—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Fisher, Tenn, 155 F. 68, 83 C.C.A. 584, 11 L.R.A.,N.S., 926.

83. Ga.—Southern R. Co. v. Wood, 39 S.E. 922, 114 Ga. 159.
10 C.J. p 807 note 97.

84. Mich.—Freeman v. Detroit, etc., R Co., 32 N.W. 833, 65 Mich. 577.
10 C.J. p 805 note 81 [a], [b].

85. Ky.—Hollon v. Louisville & N. R. Co, 272 S.W. 740, 209 Ky. 287, 42 A.L.R. 155.
Okl.—Chapman v. Red Ball Bus & Baggage Co., 49 P.2d 685, 173 Okl. 599.
10 C.J p 806 note 82.

86. Ky.—Hollon v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 272 S.W. 740, 209 Ky. 287, 42 A.L.R. 155.
10 C.J. p 806 note 83.
Exhibition and surrender of tickets generally see supra § 609.

time withhold from the carrier his fare or ticket, but he should leave the train or car at the first opportunity,[87] or be subject to ejection, as shown infra § 810. A carrier, however, is not bound under all circumstances to furnish a sufficient number of cars to accommodate all with seats who may apply for transportation, as unforeseen emergencies may often arise where the performance of such duty would involve an impossibility; it is required to furnish only suitable seating accommodations for the ordinary amount of travel, or for an extraordinary number on reasonable notice,[88] although it must furnish a sufficient number of coaches for an influx of passengers which it should anticipate.[89] Under the rule, it has been held that the carrier is not liable to a colored passenger who is unable to get a seat because of the white passengers crowding over into the colored coach.[90] If a passenger with notice of the circumstances takes passage on a crowded car and surrenders his ticket or pays fare, he waives strict performance of his contract rights to a seat,[91] unless the conductor promises him that sufficient accommodations will be provided.[92] If the carrier receives a passenger without condition or notice of its inability to provide for his safety, it assumes all the obligations usually incumbent on a carrier.[93]

A passenger may not dictate where he shall sit or in what car he shall ride,[94] except that, where his ticket entitles him to ride in a particular seat or car, the carrier must, unless a sudden or unusual influx of passengers makes it impracticable, furnish him with a seat in such car, and to do this must, if necessary, limit passengers to single seats.[95] It is not a breach of duty on the part of the carrier to assign a passenger to the smoking car, but the passenger should be permitted to ride in another coach if room is available and he communicates his wish to do so to the conductor.[96] A carrier may properly provide reasonable rules and regulations for the seating of passengers;[97] and a rule restricting passengers to the use of one seat each if cars are not crowded, and to one half of a seat if they are crowded, and prohibiting backs of seats from being turned so as to make the seats face each other, and not allowing passengers to place baggage on seats in front of them is a reasonable one,[98] as is also a rule requiring conductors to permit a passenger who has failed to get the ticket really desired, on complaint made of the true condition, to ride in the coach in which he would have been entitled to ride if no mistake had been made, on payment of the difference in price of tickets.[99]

d. Separate Accommodation for Races

Independently of, or in accordance with, statutes a carrier may prescribe reasonable regulations for the separation of white and colored passengers if equal and like accommodations are afforded to both races.

A common carrier, independently of statute, has the right to prescribe reasonable regulations for the separation of white and colored passengers, giving equal and like accommodations to both;[1] if equal accommodations are provided it is not guilty of discrimination and it does not violate the civil rights of a passenger, see C.J.S. title Civil Rights § 10, also 11 C.J. p 809 note 90. Under a statute specifically providing for the separate accommodation of races, the carrier may make reasonable rules

87. Ga.—Rossman v. Georgia Ry. & Power Co., 91 S.E. 90, 146 Ga. 264, L.R.A.1917C 483
Ky.—Hollon v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 272 S.W. 740, 209 Ky. 287, 42 A.L.R. 155.
10 C.J. p 734 note 44 [a].

88. S.C.—Case v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 77 S.E. 1017, 92 S.C. 282, Ann.Cas.1915A 1065, L.R.A.1915B 915.
10 C.J. p 807 note 90.

Corpus Juris is cited with approval in:
Ky.—Hatfield v. Payne, 242 S.W. 32, 195 Ky. 310.
Miss.—Anderson v. Gulf & S. I. R. Co., 113 So. 188, 147 Miss. 164.

89. Ky.—Hatfield v. Payne, 242 S.W. 32, 195 Ky. 310.

90. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Petties, 138 S.W. 961, 99 Ark. 415.
10 C.J. p 807 note 92.

91. Ky.—Hollon v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 272 S.W. 740, 209 Ky. 287, 42 A.L.R. 155.
10 C.J. p 807 note 91.

92. N.Y.—Davis v. New York Cent. R. Co., 298 N.Y.S. 44, 163 Misc. 710.

93. Ind.—Evansville, etc., R. Co. v. Duncan, 92 Am.D. 322, 28 Ind. 441.
N.C.—Purcell v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 12 S.E. 954, 956, 108 N.C. 414, 12 L.R.A. 113.

94. Ky.—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S.W.2d 356, 240 Ky. 1.
10 C.J. p 806 note 85.

95. Miss.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Patterson, 13 So. 697, 69 Miss. 421, 22 L.R.A. 259.

96. Ky.—Payne v. Combs, 249 S.W. 1031, 198 Ky. 749
10 C.J. p 806 note 85 [d], [e].

Female passenger
It is not, as a matter of law, a breach of duty to assign a female passenger to a seat in the smoking car. Such passenger should be permitted to enter a ladies' coach, if room is available therein, and should not be required to ride in the smoker, if smoking is offensive to her, and that fact is communicated to the agent in charge of the train; but if she voluntarily enters the smoker, and fails to request the agent to find her a seat elsewhere, she cannot complain of the smoke —Payne v. Combs, 249 S.W. 1031, 198 Ky. 749.

97. Mo.—McLain v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 111 S.W. 835, 131 Mo.App. 733.

98. Tex.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Moody, Civ.App., 30 S.W. 574.

99. Miss.—Alabama, etc., R. Co. v. Drummond, 20 So. 7, 73 Miss. 813.

1. Ky.—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S.W.2d 356, 240 Ky. 1.
N.C.—Huff v. Norfolk-Southern R. Co., 88 S.E. 344, 171 N.C. 203, L.R.A.1916E 278.
10 C.J. p 804 note 58—11 C.J. p 809 note 88.

or regulations as to the time and manner of designating the respective compartments of the races[2]

It is the duty of the conductor or other proper employee to exercise reasonable care in ascertaining the race to which the passenger belongs and in assigning passengers to the proper coaches;[3] if in arriving at his conclusion he makes an honest mistake as to the race to which the passenger belongs, the carrier is not responsible in damages,[4] but if he fails to exercise ordinary care, diligence, and judgment in this regard, whereby a passenger of one race is compelled to ride in a coach or compartment set apart for passengers of another race, the carrier may be held liable in damages.[5]

Where a white[6] or negro[7] passenger is compelled, in violation of the statute, to ride in a compartment with members of the other race he may recover damages, but the mere violation of the statute does not of itself confer a right of action in favor of a passenger if no damages are sustained.[8]

The carrier is not liable where a passenger of one race voluntarily rides in a coach intended for passengers of the other race,[9] and so it is not liable to a white passenger who, because of the unexpectedly large influx of passengers, can get a seat only in the compartment for colored passengers, where the passenger voluntarily takes a seat there.[10]

Such a statute does not require that separate dining cars shall be provided, and does not prohibit a railroad from adopting a rule by which it serves white persons at one hour and negroes at another, but the carrier may be liable for negligence in making a call to the dining car for white persons at a time when negroes are about to be served.[11] The carrier does not violate a duty to a white passenger by failing to provide separate accommodations in a caboose attached to a freight train, where the statute expressly contains an exception to that effect.[12]

Assignment of seats. Under a statute so providing, a conductor has the duty and is empowered not only to assign a seat at the time a passenger enters the car but to make such necessary reassignments as the exigencies of the traffic may require,[13] and he may use reasonably necessary force to compel the passenger to comply therewith.[14]

Furnishing step-boxes. In accordance with the necessity that the separate coaches or cars shall be equal in all points of comfort and convenience, the carrier must provide step-boxes at the entrance of coaches for negro passengers when such are provided at the entrances for white passengers.[15] Duty to furnish step-boxes generally see infra § 728.

Officer and prisoner. The carrier may require a white officer to keep his negro prisoner in the coach or compartment for colored passengers, and it is not liable for damages at the suit of the officer if the conductor or servant in charge does so without insult or undue violence, where the statute makes no provisions or exceptions in favor of officers having prisoners in their charge,[16] or even where the statute expressly excepts officers transporting prisoners from its provisions, the exception being created in favor of the officer only.[17]

2. Ark.—Bradford v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 124 S.W. 516, 93 Ark. 244.

3. Tenn.—Nashville, C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Cathey, 4 Tenn.Civ.A. 346.

4. Va.—Virginia Ry. & Power Co. v. Deaton, 137 S.E. 500, 147 Va. 576. 10 C.J. p 804 note 62.

5. Tenn.—Nashville, C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Cathey, 4 Tenn.Civ.A. 346. 10 C.J. p 804 note 63.

6. Ark.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Allison, 178 S.W. 401, 120 Ark. 54.
Ky.—Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Austin, 126 S.W. 144, 137 Ky. 611, 136 Am.S.R. 307.

Sign changed by outside agency
The rule in the text is true even though there were other coaches on the train for white persons and the sign designating the coach had been changed by some outside agency.—Payne v. Stevens, 88 So. 165, 125 Miss. 582, petition dismissed 43 S.Ct. 165, 260 U.S. 705, 67 L.Ed. 473.

7. Ky.—Conley v. Central Kentucky Tract. Co., 154 S.W. 41, 152 Ky. 764.

8. Ark.—Hines v. Meador, 224 S.W. 742, 145 Ark. 356.

9. Miss.—Anderson v. Gulf & S. I. R. Co., 113 So. 188, 147 Miss. 164. 10 C.J. p 805 note 64.

10. Miss.—Anderson v. Gulf & S. I. R. Co., supra.
10 C.J. p 805 note 64 [a].

11. Tenn.—Shelton v. Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co., 201 S.W. 521, 139 Tenn. 378, L.R.A.1918D 707.

12. Okl.—St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co. v. Freeland, 134 P. 47, 39 Okl. 60.

13. Ark.—Little Rock Ry. & Electric Co. v. Hampton, 165 S.W. 289, 112 Ark. 194.—Bradford v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 124 S.W. 516, 93 Ark. 244.
Ga.—Savannah Electric Co. v. Lowe, 108 S.E. 313, 27 Ga.App. 350.

14. Ark.—Little Rock Ry. & Electric Co. v. Hampton, 165 S.W. 289, 112 Ark. 194.

Calling officers
Where colored passenger refused to exchange seat with white passenger as requested by bus driver in accordance with state segregation law, and driver called officers who arrested colored passenger for disorderly conduct when she used profane language and refused to move on officers' request, but bus driver did not assist in ejecting passenger from bus, bus company was not liable to passenger for breach of contract.—Kinchlow v. Peoples Rapid Transit Co., D.C., 88 F.2d 764.

15. Okl.—St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co. v. Loftus, 234 P. 607, 109 Okl. 141.

16. Ala.—Spenny v. Mobile & O. R. Co., 68 So. 870, 192 Ala. 483, denying certiorari 67 So. 740, 12 Ala. App. 375.
Ill.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Cox, 96 So. 685, 132 Miss. 471.
Tex.—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Sharman, Civ.App., 158 S.W. 1045.

17. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v.

§ 646. Continuous Trip According to Terms of Contract

A passenger is entitled to transportation from the point indicated by his ticket as the beginning of his journey, but he may begin his journey at an intermediate point. He is not entitled to leave the train on personal business or pleasure; and the carrier, unless the conductor has announced the time the train will remain standing and the passenger relies thereon, is not liable for departing before the return of a passenger who has absented himself. The words "continuous passage" on a ticket do not import that a passenger shall be carried without any stop or change.

The passenger is entitled to transportation from the point indicated by his ticket as the beginning of his journey to his destination, and not in the opposite direction;[18] and the facts that the holder has been permitted on former occasions to make a reverse trip on a ticket calling for passage in one direction, and that a conductor on another train at another time gave his opinion to the holder that the ticket would be good for passage either way, do not alter the rule.[19] Where the conditions of the ticket require a continuous journey, the passenger may, nevertheless, commence his journey at an intermediate point.[20] A passenger has no legal right unnecessarily to leave the train on personal business or pleasure at an intermediate station where the train is detained for an unusual length of time, and if he does so the carrier is not liable if the train departs before his return.[21] However, the carrier is liable if the conductor announces or states as a fact the period of time the train will remain standing and the passenger by relying on the statement is left behind,[22] but this rule is not applicable where the conductor, not knowing of the passenger's intention to leave, merely gives his opinion as to the time the train will start.[23]

The words "continuous passage" have been held to mean the continuous passage of the person to whom the ticket was issued, and not that of the train;[24] they do not import that he shall be carried without any stop or change of cars[25]

Requirements as to change or transfer are discussed in § 648 infra.

§ 647. Stop-Over Privileges

In the absence of statute or of an agreement, a passenger is not entitled on the original ticket to stop-over at an intermediate point. Under an agreement or a statute so providing, a passenger may be entitled to stop over at intermediate points if the conditions of the stop-over privilege are complied with. Generally, a passenger holding a coupon ticket may stop over at any connecting point.

In the absence of a contract to the contrary arising from special provisions, or implied from usage or regulation, a ticket entitles a passenger only to continuous transportation from the initial point to the end of his journey; and if, after commencing the journey, he stops off or abandons it before reaching his destination, he is not entitled to complete it on another train or at another time, under the original ticket or payment of fare,[26] particularly where the ticket expressly provides that the trip shall be continuous, although this simply expresses the general rule of law.[27] Likewise the passenger cannot, instead of himself resuming his journey on a subsequent train, introduce some

Catron, 43 S.W. 443, 102 Ky. 323, 19 Ky.L. 1346

N.C.—Huff v. Norfolk-Southern R. Co., 88 S.E. 344, 171 N.C. 203, L.R.A.1916E 278.

18. Cal.—Squires v. Southern Pac. Co., 183 P. 695, 42 Cal.App. 459. 10 C.J. p. 807 note 98.

19. Me.—Keeley v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 67 Me. 163, 24 Am.R. 19.

20. Ga.—Georgia R., etc., Co. v. Clarke, 25 S.E. 368, 97 Ga. 706.

N.Y.—Auerbach v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 89 N.Y. 281, 42 Am.R. 290.

21. Ga.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Stephens, 98 S.E. 176, 23 Ga.App. 200.

Tex.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Price, 106 S.W. 700, 48 Tex.Civ.App. 210.

22. Ala.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. McCue, 114 So. 218, 216 Ala. 616, 61 A.L.R. 400

Tex.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Price, 106 S.W. 700, 48 Tex.Civ.App. 210.

Scope of conductor's authority

It is within the scope of the authority of the conductor to announce to a passenger, at his request, the name of the station at which the train is then stopped, to state to him the length of time the train will remain there, and to hold the train, in accordance with the answer, for the time so designated.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Price, 106 S.W. 700, 48 Tex.Civ.App. 210.

23. Ga.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Stephens, 98 S.E. 176, 23 Ga.App. 200.

Presumption that passenger will absent himself

Where train was detained at a station and passenger asked conductor how long he expected to remain, conductor could not be presumed to know that passenger intended to absent himself from station grounds, and his answer in good faith neither increased nor diminished carrier's duty or liability.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Stephens, 98 S.E. 176, 23 Ga.App. 200.

Departure to inspect mill

A passenger who, after being told by the conductor that the train would remain about an hour, relied thereon, and left to inspect a mill a quarter of a mile away, and on returning in about three-quarters of an hour found that train had left, could not recover against the carrier.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Stephens, 98 S.E. 176, 23 Ga.App. 200.

24. Mo.—Walker v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 15 Mo.App. 333.

Mont.—Brian v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., 105 P. 489, 40 Mont. 109, 25 L.R.A.,N.S., 459, 20 Ann.Cas. 311.

25. Ill.—Kirsch v. East St. Louis & Suburban Ry. Co., 210 Ill.App. 662. 10 C.J. p. 808 note 8.

26. N.J.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Parry, 27 A. 914, 55 N.J.Law 551, 39 Am.S.R. 654, 22 L.R.A. 251.

Tenn.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Klyman, 67 S.W. 472, 108 Tenn. 304, 91 Am.S.R. 755, 56 L.R.A. 769. 10 C.J. p. 807 notes 2, 3.

27. N.Y.—Barker v. Coflin, 31 Barb. 556.

one else in his stead, and compel the carrier to complete the contract by carrying such other person on a subsequent train.[28] Should a passenger attempt to resume his journey by virtue of the same ticket, the conductor may demand the regular fare; but before doing this, or before ejecting him for refusing to pay the same, he must return to such passenger the ticket which he has declined to honor.[29] A ticket marked "good for one seat," etc., has been construed to mean one seat in the same train on which the holder takes passage, and that he is to be carried by that train only, and not by train after train, and by broken stages, day after day.[30]

Stop-over; when permitted in general. The carrier may by special agreement bind itself by the grant of the privilege of stopping over at an intermediate station; but in order to have this effect, the agreement must have been made by competent authority.[31] Time in these contracts is usually an important element, because, in as much as the carrier is required to furnish accommodation for all persons who apply for passage on any day, it is important to know how many are to be carried, and this cannot be known if there are persons holding tickets who have a right to apply for passage along the route in numbers entirely unknown.[32] It has been held that where a passenger is informed by the conductor that he may stop off en route, and then continue his journey on the same ticket, and when, in pursuance of such advice, he leaves that train and boards another, the company is bound to carry him to the end of his route;[33] but the contrary has been held, where the ticket expressly restricted the passenger to a continuous trip and provided that no agent had authority to modify the contract.[34]

Under a regulation giving the privilege of stopping over, a passenger has the right to rely on the assurances of the conductor with reference thereto.[35] Where a usage is relied on as giving a right to stop over, the subsequent change of the usage by a rule has been held binding on the passenger, although he had no notice thereof,[36] and the mere fact that a passenger has been allowed on some occasions to stop over does not entitle him to do so on other occasions.[37]

When expressly so provided by statute, a passenger is entitled to stop over at an intermediate point;[38] and a company may be required to sell tickets with stop-over privileges or be subject to a penalty for violation of the provisions of the statute.[39] A statute requiring the sale of stop-over tickets has no extraterritorial operation,[40] although it applies to a foreign corporation while acting as a carrier in the state.[41] Such a statute does not apply to one who demands a ticket with a desire that it shall be refused and for the sole purpose of laying a foundation to recover the penalty.[42]

Where the continuity of the journey is interrupted by misfortune or accident, without fault on the part of the passenger, he is entitled to continue his journey by another train.[43]

Compliance with conditions. Where the passenger's ticket, or a regulation of the company, attaches certain conditions to the stop-over privilege, the passenger is entitled to that privilege only on complying with such conditions,[44] such as a condition requiring the passenger to obtain from the conductor, or other train officer, his indorsement of the ticket or check[45] or a stop-over check.[46] Where a conductor's check is given, it must contain a clause expressly authorizing the stop-over priv-

28. Mo.—Walker v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 15 Mo App. 333.

29. Pa.—Vankirk v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 76 Pa. 66, 18 Am R. 404.

30. Pa.—Dietrich v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 71 Pa. 432, 437, 10 Am R. 711.

31. U.S.—Scofield v. Pennsylvania Co., Ohio, 112 F. 855, 50 C.C.A. 553, 56 L.R.A. 224.
10 C.J. p 808 note 10.

32. N.Y.—Terry v. Flushing, etc., R. Co., 13 Hun 359.

33. N.Y.—Tarbell v. Northern Cent. R. Co., 24 Hun 51.
10 C.J. p 808 note 12.

34. Mont.—Sanden v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 115 P. 408, 43 Mont. 209, 34 L.R.A.,N.S., 711.
10 C.J. p 809 note 13.

35. U.S.—New York, etc., R. Co. v. Winter, 12 S.Ct. 356, 143 U.S. 60, 36 L.Ed. 71.
Ky.—Wilsey v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 83 Ky. 511, 7 Ky.L. 498.
Mo.—Cherry v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 52 Mo App. 499.

36. N.H.—Johnson v. Concord R. Corp., 46 N.H. 213, 88 Am.D. 199.

37. Iowa.—Stone v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 47 Iowa 82, 29 Am.R. 458.
N.Y.—Denny v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 5 Daly 50.

38. Cal.—Robinson v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 38 P. 94, 722, 105 Cal. 526, 28 L.R.A. 773.
Me.—Carpenter v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 72 Me. 388, 39 Am.R. 340.
10 C.J. p 809 note 18.

39. Cal.—Southern Pac. Co. v. Robinson, 64 P. 572, 132 Cal. 408, 12 L.R.A.,N.S., 497.

40. Me.—Carpenter v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 72 Me. 388, 39 Am.R. 340.
Mass.—Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Trafton, 33 N.E. 829, 151 Mass. 229.

41. Me.—Dryden v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 60 Me. 512.

42. Cal.—Southern Pac. Co. v. Robinson, 64 P. 572, 132 Cal. 408, 12 L.R.A.,N.S., 497.

43. Ky.—Wilsey v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 83 Ky. 511.
Pa.—Dietrich v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 71 Pa. 432, 10 Am.R. 711.
10 C.J. p 809 note 23.

44. Wis.—Yorton v. Milwaukee, etc., R. Co., 11 N.W. 482, 54 Wis. 234, 41 Am.R. 23.
10 C.J. p 809 note 14.

45. N.Y.—Beebe v. Ayres, 28 Barb. 275.

46. Mass.—Dixon v. New England R. Co., 60 N.E. 581, 179 Mass. 242.
10 C.J. p 810 note 30.

ilege, as such check in the ordinary form is a mere certificate of payment of fare or surrender of the regular ticket and will not entitle the passenger to a stop-over.[47]

The stop-over privilege is exhausted by the expiration of the time for which it was granted,[48] or by one exercise thereof.[49]

Ticket in coupon form. An ordinary coupon ticket which amounts in effect to separate contracts of transportation over distinct lines, and with no special stipulations as to the journey being continuous, permits the passenger to stop off at any connecting point and subsequently avail himself of the coupons entitling him to transportation for the remainder of his journey.[50] This is true with reference to the several divisions of a system owned or operated by one management,[51] but a passenger has no right, under this rule, to stop over at a station between such connecting points.[52] The ticket may provide that the passage must be continuous to the point of destination, but provisions on this subject must be clear, and when they are of doubtful import they will be construed against the company, and the passenger will be held to have the right to stop over at terminal points.[53]

§ 648. Transferring from One Car or Train to Another; Street Car Transfers

a. In general
b. Statutory regulations
c. Duty of employee to give transfer; acceptance
d. Transfer tickets or tokens in general
e. Time of demanding transfer
f. Point of transfer
g. Time limit for use of transfer
h. Inspection of transfer

a. In General

A carrier may by reasonable regulation require that passengers for a certain point shall go through without change on some trains and on others that they shall change at an intervening station. In case of an accident or delay a passenger may be required to transfer to another train or car. The carrier must notify passengers of a regulation requiring a change, but special or individual notice or information is not necessary in the absence of a request therefor.

A carrier may by a reasonable regulation require that passengers for a certain point shall go through without change on some trains and on others that they shall change at an intervening station,[54] and a passenger is not entitled to damages for being required to change cars before reaching the destination to which he holds a ticket,[55] unless the regulation is under the circumstances unreasonable,[56] unless under the rules and schedules of the carrier such station is a stopping place for the train on which he takes passage,[57] or unless he was assured by the agent of the company, from whom he purchased his ticket, that a change of cars would not be necessary.[58] In the latter case the carrier is not relieved from liability by a rule that a passenger may expect to be accorded by the conductor only such rights as his ticket on its face entitles him to, although it has been held that the passenger must conform to the reasonable requirements of such rule so as not to increase his damages.[59] A passenger may be required, under the rules of the company, to take a through car to his destination and may be refused a transfer if he takes a car which he knows is going only part of the way,[60] or if he takes a car which will carry him to his destination in the same time and by practically as short a route without transferring.[61] On the other hand, he may be required, under the rules of the carrier, to transfer from a short service car, at the end of its run, to a through car,[62] and he may be entitled by stat-

47. Minn.—Wyman v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 25 N.W. 349, 34 Minn. 210.
10 C.J. p 810 note 31.

48. Ill.—Churchill v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 67 Ill. 390.
Mo.—Cherry v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 90 S.W. 381, 191 Mo. 489, 109 Am. S.R. 830, 2 L.R.A.,N.S., 695.
10 C.J. p 810 note 32.

49. N.Y.—Denny v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 5 Daly 50.

50. Mo.—Cherry v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 90 S.W. 381, 191 Mo. 489, 109 Am.S.R. 830, 2 L.R.A.,N.S., 695.
Or.—Nichols v. Southern Pac. Co., 31 P. 296, 23 Or. 123, 37 Am.S.R. 664, 18 L.R.A. 55.
10 C.J. p 809 note 24.

51. Ga.—Spencer v. Lovejoy, 23 S.E. 836, 96 Ga. 657, 51 Am.S.R. 152.

52. Mont.—Brian v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., 105 P. 489, 40 Mont. 109, 25 L.R.A.,N.S., 459, 20 Ann.Cas. 311.
10 C.J. p 809 note 26.

53. N.Y.—Auerbach v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 89 N.Y. 281, 42 Am.R. 290.

54. Tex.—St. Louis Southwestern R. Co. v. McCullough, 45 S.W. 324, 18 Tex.Civ.App. 534.

55. Ill.—Kirsch v. East St. Louis & Suburban Ry. Co., 210 Ill.App. 662
S.C.—May v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 96 S.E. 482, 110 S.C. 84.
10 C.J. p 810 note 35

56. N.Y.—Goodman v. New York R. Co., 148 N.Y.S. 279, 86 Misc. 43.
10 C.J. p 810 note 36.

57. Ala.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Thomason, 60 So. 506, 6 Ala.App. 365.

58. Ala.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Thomason, supra.
D.C.—Dye v. Virginia Midland R. Co., 20 D.C. 63
Mo.—Dillon v. Lindell R. Co., 64 Mo. App. 418.

59. Ala.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Thomason, 60 So. 506, 6 Ala.App. 365.

60. Wash.—Mills v. Seattle, etc., R. Co., 96 P. 520, 50 Wash. 20, 19 L.R.A.,N.S., 704
10 C.J. p 810 note 41.

61. Mo.—Curran v. United Rys. Co. of St. Louis, 196 S.W. 56, 197 Mo. App. 397.

62. N.Y.—Goodman v. New York R. Co., 148 N.Y.S. 279, 86 Misc. 43—

ute to such a transfer.[63] Where a company is bound under its franchise to issue transfers, the court will not make an order in anticipation of a breach by the company.[64] The passenger must comply with the conditions of the transfer and regulations of the carrier with respect thereto to be entitled to a transfer and transportation in accordance therewith on connecting lines.[65]

Accident or delay. In case of an accident or delay to the car on which a passenger is riding, he may be required to transfer to another car,[66] and it has been held that a passenger is entitled to make such transfer without paying a second fare, where the car on which he is riding is, through accident or otherwise, unreasonably delayed.[67] However, the fact that the car on which a passenger is being carried becomes disabled, and the carrier refuses to transfer him to another car for the original fare, does not entitle him to transfer himself to another car and continue his journey without paying a second fare; by so doing he does not subject the carrier to further liability and if he is ejected therefor, he can recover only for breach of the contract to carry within a reasonable time.[68] A carrier is not bound by a conductor's agreement to forward a passenger where his train has been delayed by unavoidable accident.[69]

Notice of change of cars. A primary duty rests on the carrier to notify passengers of a regulation requiring a change of cars,[70] but, in the absence of a request therefor, special notice or information need not be given,[71] and a reasonable notice is sufficient.[72] Where a passenger learns that he must change cars to reach his destination, it is his duty to ascertain where he must make such change, and if by his failure so to do he misses connection or is carried over a wrong line the company is not liable,[73] unless he was misled by the carrier's authorized agents or servants.[74] The carrier is liable where, on request, its agents negligently fail or refuse to inform a passenger as to the point where he will have to change.[75]

b. Statutory Regulations

Under statutes, municipal regulations, or orders of the public service commission, a street railroad may be required to issue transfers to a connecting line, leased or operated by the same company within the city limits.

Statutory or municipal regulations are sometimes made and held reasonable which require that a transfer shall be given on the change of a passenger from one street railroad line to a connecting line, leased or operated by the same company within the city's limits,[76] and under some regulations a system of transfers may be ordered by the corporation or public service commission.[77] This duty of Goodman v. New York R. Co., 142 N.Y.S. 520, 81 Misc. 207.

63. N.Y.—Goodman v. New York R. Co., 150 N.Y.S. 702, 88 Misc. 95.

"Short service car" defined.—A car not running to the end of a street railway company's line, but only to a given street, is a "short service car."—Goodman v. New York R. Co., 150 N.Y.S. 702, 88 Misc. 95.

64. Wash.—McGilvra v. Seattle Electric Co., 111 P. 896, 61 Wash. 38, Ann.Cas 1912B 1020.

65. Mich.—Heffron v. Detroit City R. Co., 52 N.W. 802, 92 Mich. 406, 31 Am.S.R. 601, 16 L.R.A. 345.

66. Mo.—Dryden v. St. Louis Transit Co., 96 S.W. 1044, 120 Mo.App. 424. 10 C.J. p 810 note 44.

Cars following in close proximity

A passenger on an interurban car running over a river between two cities is not refused a continuous passage to the terminal city, where, owing to the "bunching" of three cars, because of an accident, in the city in which passage is taken, the conductor requests the passenger to take a transfer and get on the car following in close proximity, which he refuses to do, and remains on the car until it rounds a loop and starts on its return trip.—Kirsch v. East St. Louis & Suburban Ry. Co., 210 Ill.App. 662.

67. Ky.—Wilsey v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 12 S.W. 275, 83 Ky. 51, 11 Ky.L. 419, 5 L.R.A. 855.

68. Ga.—Hornesby v. Georgia R., etc., Co., 48 S.E. 339, 120 Ga. 913, 1 Ann.Cas. 1396.

N.Y.—Taylor v. Nassau Electric R. Co., 53 N.Y.S. 5, 32 App.Div. 486.

69. Tex.—Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Rogers, 40 S.W. 201, 16 Tex.Civ. App. 19.

70. Ala.—Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Ashley, 48 So. 981, 159 Ala. 145.

71. Ark.—St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co. v. Needham, 184 S.W. 47, 122 Ark. 584.

Ga.—Williams v. East Coast Stages Co., 182 S.E. 415, 52 Ga.App. 77.

72. N.Y.—Barker v. New York Cent. R. Co., 24 N.Y. 599.

"If the defendant gave such published notice of the running of its trains, and such special notice in the cars, of the necessity of changing cars at any particular station, that every traveler of ordinary intelligence, by the use of reasonable care and caution, would obtain all the requisite information as to the route to be traveled, and the cars to be taken at any intermediate point of the voyage, it discharges its whole duty in this respect."—Page v. New York Cent. R. Co., 13 N.Y.Super. 523, 529.

73. Ark.—St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co. v. Needham, 184 S.W. 47, 122 Ark. 584.

10 C.J. p 811 notes 49, 50.

74. Ark.—Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co. v. Floyd, 171 S.W. 913, 115 Ark. 607.

Tex.—St. Louis Southwestern R. Co. v. McCullough, 45 S.W. 324, 18 Tex. Civ.App. 534.

10 C.J. p 811 note 51.

75. Okl.—Lilly v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 122 P. 502, 31 Okl. 521, 39 L.R.A.,N.S., 663.

76. Ill.—Chicago Union Tract. Co. v. Chicago, 65 N.E. 451, 199 Ill. 484, 59 L.R.A. 631.

10 C.J. p 811 note 53.

Right, not privilege

Under a statute requiring the giving of transfers, a transfer to a passenger is not a privilege but a right. —City of Cincinnati v. Cincinnati St. Ry. Co., 3 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 489.

Urban and interburban passengers

Within city limits, urban and interurban passengers have precisely the same rights as to transportation on transfer.—City of Cincinnati v. Cincinnati St. Ry. Co., 3 Ohio N.P., N.S., 489.

77. N.Y.—Willcox v. Richmond Light, etc., Co., 128 N.Y.S. 266, 142 App.Div. 44, affirmed 95 N.E. 1141, 202 N.Y. 515.

giving transfers rests not only on the technical owner, but also on the real or beneficial owner, of the lines,[78] and not only on transportation companies existing at the time the statute is enacted, but also on those coming into existence thereafter;[79] and also, in the absence of a provision to the contrary, this duty has been held to apply to the limits of the city as subsequently extended.[80] Under some regulations transfers may be required even to the lines of other carriers,[81] although, in the absence of statute, transfers cannot be required from one line to another, owned and operated by an independent transportation company,[82] or from a line in one city to a line in an adjoining city, although owned by the same company.[83] In the absence of express statutory authority a municipality has no authority to require the giving of transfers,[84] but the power of a municipality to fix a maximum rate of fare has been held to carry as an incident thereto the power to require tickets transferring passengers from one line to another of the same transportation company.[85] A statute requiring a street railroad company to accept transfers from contiguous independent lines is not unconstitutional, although a provision in the company's charter fixes the maximum rate of fare, nor is it unconstitutional in that it compels the carriage of transferred passengers at a loss, where presumptively the loss will not be such as to render the company's business unremunerative as a whole;[86] such a statute does not take property without due process of law, in that it requires the gratuitous carriage of certain persons, where, reciprocally, the contiguous line is required to accept its transfers, and commissioners are, by the statute, given the power to adjust any inequalities between the two, and where the statute extends the transfer privileges to all persons in the same circumstances, it is not objectionable as creating a favored class.[87]

Under New York statutes so providing, every street railway company within the concept of the statute shall, on demand and without extra charge, give to each passenger paying one single fare a transfer entitling such passenger to one continuous trip[88] to any point or portion of any railroad embraced in such contract[89] within the limits of any one incorporated city or village.[90] The statute includes every street railroad company which enters into a contract with another company for the use or lease of its road,[91] and a company formed by the consolidation of several companies.[92] In order that a passenger may be entitled to a transfer from one line to another under these statutes, the two lines must be operated as intersecting lines in one railroad system.[93] Such a statute is a valid exercise of the police power of the legislature.[94]

c. Duty of Employee to Give Transfer; Acceptance

It is the duty of the conductor to issue a transfer in a proper case on demand by a passenger and the latter may recover damages from the carrier for an unlawful refusal to issue or the issuance of an improper transfer. Generally, a passenger who accepts a transfer must comply with the reasonable rules or conditions on which it is issued.

Okl.—Oklahoma R. Co. v. Powell, 127 P. 1080, 33 Okl. 737.
Or.—Portland R., etc., Co. v. State R. Commn., 105 P. 709, 109 P. 273, 56 Or. 468
10 C.J. p 811 note 54.

78. Ill.—Chicago Union Tract. Co v. Chicago, 65 N.E. 451, 199 Ill. 484, 59 L.R.A. 631.
10 C.J. p 811 note 55.

79. Ill.—Chicago Union Tract. Co. v. Chicago, supra.

80. Ind.—Indiana R. Co. v. Hoffman, 69 N.E. 399, 161 Ind. 593.
10 C.J. p 811 note 57.

81. Va.—Virginia Passenger, etc., Co. v. Com., 49 S.E. 995, 103 Va. 644.
10 C.J. p 811 note 58.

82. U.S.—Central Trust Co v. Third Ave. R. Co., C.C.N.Y., 165 F. 494.
Wash.—State v. Tacoma R., etc., Co., 112 P. 506, 61 Wash. 507, 32 L.R.A., N.S., 720.
10 C.J. p 812 note 59.

83. Vt.—Montpelier v. Barre, etc., Tract. etc., Co., 56 A. 278, 76 Vt. 66.
10 C.J. p 812 note 60.

84. U.S.—City of Atlanta v. Old Colony Trust Co., Ga., 88 F. 859, 32 C.C.A. 125, affirming, C.C., Old Colony Trust Co v. City of Atlanta, 83 F. 39
Pa.—Pittsburgh Ry. Co v. Alexander, 20 Pa.Dist. 413—City of Pittsburgh v. Pittsburgh Ry. Co., 20 Pa.Dist. 409

85. Ill.—Chicago Union Tract Co v. Chicago, 65 N.E. 451, 199 Ill. 484, 59 L.R.A. 631.
Pa.—City of Pittsburgh v. Pittsburgh Ry. Co., 20 Pa.Dist. 409.
10 C.J. p 812 note 61.

86. D.C.—District of Columbia v. Capital Tract. Co., 41 App.D.C. 115

87. D.C.—District of Columbia v. Capital Tract. Co., supra.

88. N.Y.—McLean v. Interurban St. R. Co., 92 N.Y.S. 77, 102 App.Div. 18, modifying 87 N.Y.S. 135.
10 C.J. p 812 note 69.

Statute pertaining to rate of fare

Under a New York statute providing that, subject to certain exceptions, not more than one fare shall be charged within the limits of any city or village for passage over the main line of road and any branch or extension thereof, Railroad Law § 181, a street railroad need not issue a transfer ticket to a passenger but is required only to transport the passenger to his destination without compelling payment of excess fare—King v Nassau Electric R. Co., 112 N.Y.S. 589, 128 App.Div. 130—10 C.J. p 812 note 66

89. N.Y.—Bull v New York City R. Co., 85 N.E. 385, 192 N.Y. 361, 19 L.R.A.,N.S., 778, affirming 106 N.Y.S. 378, 121 App.Div. 582.
10 C.J. p 813 note 70.

90. N.Y.—Blume v. Interurban St. R. Co., 83 N.Y.S. 989, 41 Misc. 171.
10 C.J. p 813 note 71.

91. N.Y.—Lux v. New York City R. Co., 92 N.Y.S. 109, 45 Misc. 222
10 C.J. p 812 note 67

92. N.Y.—Braffett v. Brooklyn, etc., R. Co., 97 N.E. 888, 204 N.Y. 440—Lowenstein v. International R. Co., 140 N.Y.S. 159

93. N.Y.—Oatman v. International Ry. Co., 163 N.Y.S. 495.
10 C.J. p 813 note 73.

94. N.Y.—Blume v. Interurban St. R. Co., 83 N.Y.S. 985, 41 Misc. 171.

On demand by a passenger, it is the duty of the conductor to give a proper transfer slip such as should be accepted by the conductor of the car to which the passenger is transferred.[95] If a street car passenger is unlawfully refused a transfer,[96] or if through fault of the agent or the conductor he is not furnished the proper transfer entitling him to ride on the connecting line, and is ejected therefrom,[97] he may recover damages therefor. It has been held that it is the duty of the passenger in such a case, on boarding a car on a connecting line, to pay the fare demanded by the conductor and to seek redress against the company for a violation of the passenger's right in refusing to transfer.[98]

Acceptance of transfer by passenger. Where a street railroad company holds out that it will issue a transfer when fare is paid, a request for a transfer is an acceptance of the offer, and the delivery of the transfer creates a contract to transport the passenger in both the original and the transfer car, the amount paid being a consideration for the right to ride on each car.[99] A passenger who accepts a transfer subject to reasonable rules or conditions must comply therewith,[1] except in case of an emergency,[2] provided reasonable notice of the existence of such rule is given to the public.[3]

d. Transfer Tickets or Tokens in General

A regulation requiring passengers to obtain and present transfer tickets is not unreasonable and passengers must comply therewith to be entitled to passage on succeeding cars. A custom to permit transfers without a token cannot be changed without notice.

Where street car lines are so operated that passengers are entitled to transfers from one line to another, a regulation of the carrier requiring passengers to obtain and present transfer tickets is not unreasonable, and passengers must comply therewith in order to be entitled to passage on succeeding cars.[4] Such a regulation cannot be waived either by the conductor of the car from which a passenger has come or by the conductor of the car to which he has changed.[5] Where it has been the custom of a street car company to permit passengers to transfer without a token of any kind, it cannot change such custom without giving notice of the change.[6] A street railroad company may, pursuant to its rules, refuse to take a transfer ticket which is mutilated after coming into the possession of the passenger, but cannot refuse to take one mutilated before it was given to him.[7]

e. Time of Demanding Transfer

A street railroad company may establish a rule that a passenger must demand a transfer at the time of payment of his fare or at a certain point on the line. The rule is to be reasonably construed in the light of surrounding circumstances.

The general rule which, as stated in Corpus Juris, has been quoted with approval,[8] is that in carrying out the system of transfers, it is a reasonable regulation for a street railroad company to establish a rule that a passenger must demand a transfer at the time of the payment of his fare,[9] or at a certain point on the line.[10] The rule must be reasonably construed, however, in the light of surrounding circumstances,[11] and the act of paying fare and the demand need not occur at the same second of time.[12] Such demand may be made by signs as well as orally.[13] A passenger may be excused from

95. Minn.—Morrill v. Minneapolis St R. Co., 115 N.W. 395, 103 Minn. 362, 123 Am.S.R. 341.
N.Y.—Rosenberg v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 86 N.Y.S. 871, 91 App.Div. 580.
10 C.J. p. 813 note 74.

96. Ky.—South Covington, etc., R. Co. v. Quinn, 110 S.W. 404, 33 Ky. L. 534.
N.Y.—Mannion v. International R. Co., 121 N.Y.S. 263, 66 Misc. 420.
10 C.J. p. 813 note 75.

97. Ala.—Birmingham R., etc., Co. v. Turner, 45 So. 671, 154 Ala. 542.
Ill.—Kiley v. Chicago City R. Co., 59 N.E. 794, 189 Ill. 384, 82 Am.S.R. 460, 52 L.R.A. 626.
Mo.—Green v. United Rys. of St. Louis, 206 S.W. 237, 200 Mo.App. 303.

98. Hawaii.—Rhodes v. Honolulu Rapid Transit, etc., Co., 16 Hawaii 319.

99. Ga.—Georgia R., etc., Co. v. Baker, 54 S.E. 639, 125 Ga. 562, 114 Am.S.R. 246, 7 L.R.A.,N.S., 103, 5 Ann.Cas. 484.

1. D.C.—Shortsleeves v. Capital Tract. Co., 28 App.D.C. 365, 8 L.R.A.,N.S., 287.
10 C.J. p. 813 note 79.

2. N.Y.—Bingemann v. International R. Co., 135 N.Y.S. 743, reversed on other grounds 138 N.Y.S. 1107, 153 App.Div. 935.

3. N.Y.—Goodman v. New York R. Co., 142 N.Y.S. 520, 81 Misc. 207—McGowan v. New York City R. Co., 99 N.Y.S. 835.

4. Ga.—Hornesby v. Georgia R., etc., Co., 48 S.E. 339, 120 Ga. 913, 1 Ann.Cas. 391.
10 C.J. p. 813 note 82.

5. Mass.—Crowley v. Fitchburg, etc., R. Co., 70 N.E. 56, 185 Mass. 279.

6. N.J.—Consolidated Tract. Co. v. Taborn, 32 A. 685, 58 N.J.Law 1, affirmed 36 A. 1128, 58 N.J.Law 408.

7. N.Y.—Koch v. New York City R. Co., 95 N.Y.S. 559.

8. Ala.—Birmingham Electric Co. v. Rylant, 174 So. 511, 234 Ala. 332, 590.

9. N.Y.—Crandall v. International R. Co., 117 N.Y.S. 1055, 133 App. Div. 857.
10 C.J. p. 814 note 90.

10. Ala.—Birmingham Electric Co. v. Rylant, 174 So. 511, 234 Ala. 332, 590.
10 C.J. p. 814 note 91.

11. Ala.—Birmingham Electric Co. v. Rylant, supra.

12. N.Y.—Wasserman v. New York City R. Co., 104 N.Y.S. 398.
10 C.J. p. 814 note 92.
Corpus Juris has been quoted in Birmingham Electric Co. v. Rylant, 174 So. 511, 512, 234 Ala. 332, 590.

13. N.Y.—Sullivan v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 106 N.Y.S. 378, 121 App.Div. 527.
10 C.J. p. 814 note 93.

demanding a transfer at the time of payment of his fare, where, under the circumstances existing at the time, he has reason to believe that the car which he has boarded will go to his destination, and has no notice either from the sign on the car or from the conductor that it will not do so.[14] Where a regulation requiring a passenger to demand a transfer at a particular time or place is posted conspicuously and advertised in such a manner as to bring it to the notice of the public generally, it is immaterial whether a particular passenger has knowledge thereof.[15]

f. Point of Transfer

A street railroad may require passengers having transfers to board cars at specified points, and it may refuse a transfer at a point which would enable a passenger to make a continuous round trip. The transfer must be made at the point where the roads intersect and in the same general direction as the initial trip.

A rule of a street railroad company requiring passengers having transfers to board cars at specified points is a reasonable regulation, and a transfer is not valid for passage when presented elsewhere.[16] Likewise, a rule of the company refusing a transfer at a point which would enable a passenger to make a continuous round trip is reasonable and within the company's right, but if the rule is not published or brought to the attention of the travelling public, it is not enforceable as against a passenger having no knowledge thereof.[17] A custom of giving transfers at a certain point cannot be discontinued without notice.[18] Where a transfer is to be made, and the transfer ticket indicates that it is to be presented at the intersection of the issuing line, a passenger is entitled to transfer at a point where a connecting line leaves the road on which he was first traveling and which affords him the nearest and most convenient route to his destination.[19] The transfer must, it has been held, be made at the point where the two roads intersect,[20] and in the same general direction as the initial trip,[21] but this does not mean that such route must be in the same longitudinal direction as that in which the passenger was first traveling.[22] It has been held that a street railroad company cannot be required to permit passengers to transfer at points other than the points of intersection, and that the right of passengers to transfer at other points cannot be upheld, under an ordinance, as an exercise of the rate-making power.[23] A passenger may rely on the representation of a conductor that a transfer is good at a particular point, where the transfer is punched in a blank space in the column of lines to which transfers are usually given, but contains nothing to indicate that it is not good as represented.[24] A street railway company may change transfer points although such changes may cause some inconvenience,[25] but it cannot alter a transfer point fixed by city ordinance in its discretion or even on solicitation of the police department.[26]

g. Time Limit for Use of Transfer

The use of a transfer may be subject to a time limit.

Where a street railroad company voluntarily permits passengers to transfer, where a statute requiring the company to give transfers contains no specific provision as to the length of time for which the transfers shall be good, or where a statute specifically so provides, the company may, by a reasonable regulation, require that a passenger shall use his transfer within the time limited thereon,[27] provided a car on which the passenger can be conveniently and comfortably transported passes the transfer point within the time so limited.[28] Such a

14. N.Y.—Goodman v. New York R. Co., 142 N.Y.S. 520, 81 Misc 207.

15. N.Y.—Ketchum v. New York City R. Co., 103 N.Y.S. 486, 118 App.Div. 248.

16. Cal.—Wasserman v. Los Angeles Ry. Corporation, 193 P. 130, 184 Cal 202.
10 C.J. p 814 note 96.

17. N.Y.—Hickman v. International Ry. Co., 160 N.Y.S. 994, 97 Misc. 53, reversed on other grounds 164 N.Y.S 1095, 177 App.Div 950.

18. Ala.—Birmingham R., etc., Co. v. Hatton, 65 So 934, 187 Ala 573.
N.Y.—Freeman v. New York City R. Co., 92 N.Y.S 47.
10 C.J. p 814 note 88

19. Mo.—Duke v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 148 S.W. 166, 166 Mo.App. 121
N.Y.—Charbonneau v. Nassau Electric R. Co., 108 N.Y.S. 105, 123 App Div. 531.
10 C.J. p 814 note 97.

20. Mo.—Percy v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 58 Mo.App. 75.
N.Y.—Hanley v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 96 N.Y.S. 249, 110 App.Div. 429.
10 C.J. p 814 note 98

21. N.Y.—Kelly v. New York City R Co., 84 N.E. 569, 192 N.Y 97, affirming 104 N.Y.S 561, 119 App. Div. 223, reversing 102 N.Y.S. 742, 52 Misc. 585
10 C.J. p 815 note 99
Reversing direction of trip
A transfer does not entitle a passenger to reverse the direction of his trip without paying another fare.—Kelly v. New York City R. Co., 84 N.E. 569, 192 N.Y. 97, affirming 104 N.Y.S 561, 119 N.Y App.Div. 223.

22. N.Y.—Wells v. New York City R Co., 107 N.Y.S. 430, 122 App.Div. 488.

23. Ill.—Chicago v. Chicago City R. Co., 111 N.E. 983, 272 Ill 245.

24. Hawaii.—Jeffs v. Honolulu Rapid Transit, etc., Co., 17 Hawaii 241.

25. Wash.—McGilvra v Seattle Electric Co., 111 P 896, 61 Wash. 38, Ann Cas 1912B 1020.

26. Va.—Virginia Electric & Power Co v Wynne, 141 S.E 829, 149 Va 882.

27. Ala.—Birmingham Electric Co v Putman, 109 So 890, 21 Ala.App. 431, petition dismissed 109 So. 891, 215 Ala. 107.
10 C.J p 815 note 6.

28. Ga.—Hornesby v. Georgia R., etc., Co., 48 S.E. 339, 120 Ga. 913, 1 Ann Cas. 391 and note.
10 C.J. p 815 note 7.

limitation on the use of a transfer may be prescribed by a statute or municipal ordinance.[29] A rule requiring a person holding a transfer to take the next succeeding car at the point designated on the transfer is a reasonable protection against fraud.[30] A rule of a street railroad company which puts an improper time limit on a transfer ticket does not relieve it from its obligation to carry for a single fare,[31] nor does the acceptance by a passenger of a transfer ticket so improperly limited modify the original contract of carriage or waive any rights acquired under it.[32]

h. Inspection of Transfer

No absolute duty rests on a passenger to examine his transfer ticket, and a condition on a transfer check that the passenger shall examine the check to see that it is correct is unreasonable where the time at the passenger's command is limited and the system complicated.

Ordinarily, no absolute duty rests on a passenger to examine his transfer ticket, but he may rely on the inference that the conductor has given him a proper one,[33] as the duty to see that a proper transfer ticket is given rests on the conductor, and not on the passenger.[34] A condition on a transfer check that the passenger shall "examine date, time, and direction," as indicated by the conductor's punch marks, and see "that the same are correct," is unreasonable where the time at his command is brief and the system complicated.[35] So, where the conductor of a street car delays complying with the request of a passenger for a transfer check until the latter is on the point of leaving the car, a stipulation on the check requiring the passenger to examine the latter and see that it is all right is, under the circumstances, unreasonable and not binding on him.[36]

§ 649. Penalty for Refusal to Issue or Accept Transfer

a. In general

b. Persons entitled
c. Defenses
d. Actions
e. Number of penalties recoverable

a. In General

When so provided by statute, a street railroad company may be subject to a penalty recoverable by the aggrieved passenger for refusal to issue a transfer. Refusal to accept a proper transfer subjects the carrier to the penalty, but a transfer incorrectly punched does not render it liable.

Under statutes so providing, a street railroad company operating its lines within the limits of a city under contract is subject to a penalty, which may be recovered by the aggrieved passenger, for its refusal to issue a transfer as required by the statute.[37] The object of such a statute is to promote public convenience by requiring the operation of the different lines as a single railroad with a single fare.[38] The purpose of the penalty clause is not to compensate passengers for any damage inflicted by a refusal to give a transfer, but rather to inflict a punishment for the violation of its terms and to break up the practice of so doing.[39] To authorize the recovery of a penalty under such statute, the passenger suing must bring his action strictly within its provisions,[40] and the penalty cannot be collected for failure to issue a transfer in violation of an agreement where the statute is not violated.[41] A proper demand for a transfer must be made, and if a demand is not made in compliance with a regulation of the carrier requiring the demand for transfers to be made at the time of paying the fare, a refusal to give a transfer will not render the carrier liable for the penalty.[42] Likewise, the demand for a transfer must show in which direction on the connecting line the passenger desires to go;[43] but if he asks for a transfer in a certain direction, and a transfer good only in the opposite direction is given him, by reason of which 29. Cal.—Ex parte Lorenzen, 61 P. 68, 128 Cal. 431, 79 Am.S.R. 47, 50 L.R.A. 55.

10 C.J. p 815 note 8.

30. S.C.—Taylor v. Spartanburg R., etc., Co., 82 S.E. 404, 98 S.C. 206, 52 L.R.A.,N.S., 908, Ann.Cas 1916D 585

31. N.Y.—Jenkins v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 51 N.Y.S. 216, 29 App.Div. 8, 5 N.Y.Ann.Cas. 315.
10 C.J. p 815 note 10.

32. N.Y.—Jenkins v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., supra.

33. Ohio.—Diehl v. Cincinnati Traction Co., 6 Ohio App. 151.
Va.—Virginia Ry. & Power Co. v. Dressler, 111 S.E. 243, 132 Va. 342, 22 A.L.R. 301.
10 C.J. p 815 note 12.

34. Minn.—Morrill v. Minneapolis St. R. Co., 115 N.W. 395, 103 Minn. 362, 123 Am.S.R. 341.

35. Tenn.—O'Rourke v. Citizens' St. R. Co., 52 S.W. 872, 103 Tenn. 124, 76 Am.S.R. 639, 46 L.R.A. 614.

36. Pa.—Laird v. Pittsburg Tract. Co., 31 A. 51, 166 Pa. 4.

37. N.Y.—Wells v. New York City R. Co., 107 N.Y.S. 430, 122 App. Div. 488.

38. N.Y.—Myers v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 41 N.Y.S. 798, 10 App.Div. 335.

39. N.Y.—Fitzmartin v. New York City R. Co., 99 N.Y.S. 765, 51 Misc. 36.

40. N.Y.—Hunt v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 101 N.Y.S. 209, 115 App.Div. 673.
10 C.J. p 816 note 20.

41. N.Y.—Oatman v. International Ry. Co., 163 N.Y.S. 495.

42. N.Y.—Ketchum v. New York City R. Co., 103 N.Y.S. 486, 118 App.Div. 248—Fischer v. New York City R. Co., 104 N.Y.S. 400, 54 Misc. 267.

43. N.Y.—Thistle v. New York City R. Co., 104 N.Y.S. 401, 54 Misc. 268—Gasper v. New York City R. Co., 99 N.Y.S. 904, 51 Misc. 43.
10 C.J. p 816 note 22.

it is not accepted on the car to which he transfers, it is tantamount to a refusal, and the penalty may be recovered.[44] Refusal to accept a valid transfer tendered by a passenger is equivalent to a refusal to give one and renders the carrier liable to the penalty,[45] and this is so, even though the transfer was not presented in accordance with a reasonable regulation, in the absence of any proof of a reasonable endeavor by notice to apprise the public of its institution.[46] Where a conductor accepts a transfer which he might rightfully reject, he is bound to provide the passenger with a transfer good to the point of destination, and if he fails so to do the carrier is liable to the penalty.[47] That a conductor gives a transfer punched late by mistake, does not constitute a refusal to comply with the statute subjecting the company to liability for the penalty,[48] and, in like manner, a statute providing a penalty for overcharge does not apply where a conductor by mistake incorrectly punches a transfer which is rejected for passage,[49] or where a conductor mistakenly rejects a valid transfer but subsequently tenders back the extra fare before the passenger's journey is completed;[50] the latter statute has no application to a refusal by a street railroad company to give a transfer.[51]

In accordance with specific provisions therein, particular statutes have been held not limited to traffic contracts but to embrace leases also, so as to render the lessee operating the leased line liable to a penalty for refusing to issue transfers.[52] Where two street railroad companies, although separate corporate entities, have the same offices, officers, and directors, and use and equip cars interchangeably, pay operating expenses from the gross receipts of both, and are for all practical purposes one line, a passenger on one road may require a transfer to the other without extra charge, and may recover the statutory penalty for a refusal to issue such transfer, notwithstanding there is no written contract between the corporations for the lease of one of the lines, and although the arrangement between the companies is purely informal.[53] The penalty cannot be collected where the lines are not operated as one system, although owned by the same company.[54]

b. Persons Entitled

The passenger to whom a transfer is refused is entitled to the penalty, but he must be one who became a passenger in good faith with the actual desire of getting to some place.

"The party aggrieved," within the provisions of a statute which provides for a forfeiture to "the party aggrieved," is the passenger to whom a transfer is refused in violation of the statute,[55] and it is immaterial whether he has paid the fare himself or some one has paid it for him.[56] Since the statute has in contemplation a person who enters on a continuous trip, with the actual desire of getting to some place, and whose purpose is interfered with by an unjust refusal to give him a transfer, and who therefore is defeated of his aim, it has been held that one who becomes a passenger for the purpose of laying a foundation for an action to recover a penalty is not an "aggrieved party" within the meaning of the statute, or a "passenger desiring to make one continuous trip between" any two points within the meaning of the statute, and that one who becomes a passenger merely to seek information as to the custom of the carrier to issue or not to issue transfers at a certain point over a certain route, which information he desires to utilize for the benefit of suits commenced in behalf of his clients for penalties, is not an "aggrieved party" within the meaning of the statute.[57]

c. Defenses

It is no defense that the conductor did not have the usual transfer tickets, that the company had provided the conductor with transfers, etc.; but it is a perfect defense that plaintiff became a passenger for the purpose of laying a foundation for an action to recover a penalty.

44. N.Y.—Gasper v. New York City R. Co., 99 N.Y.S. 902, 51 Misc. 39.

45. N.Y.—Harris v. Interurban St. R. Co, 92 N.Y.S. 42, 46 Misc. 242—Lowenstein v. International R Co, 140 N.Y.S. 159.

46. N.Y.—Gasper v. New York City R. Co, 99 N.Y.S. 902, 51 Misc. 39.
10 C.J. p 816 note 25.

47. N.Y.—Bingemann v. International R Co., 135 N.Y.S. 743, reversed on other grounds 138 N.Y.S. 1107, 153 App.Div 935

48. N.Y.—Osborne v. International Ry Co., 123 N.E. 849, 226 N.Y. 421, reversing 164 N.Y.S. 226, 177 App.Div. 709, which reversed Osborn v International Ry. Co., 161 N.Y.S. 1042, 98 Misc. 7.

49. N.Y.—McCarthy v. International R. Co., 110 N.Y.S. 936, 126 App.Div. 182.

50. N.Y.—Tullis v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 75 N.Y.S. 863, 71 App.Div 494.

51. N.Y.—King v. Nassau Electric R. Co., 112 N.Y.S. 589, 128 App Div 130—Bingemann v. International R. Co, 131 N.Y.S. 4, 73 Misc 458
10 C.J. p 816 note 16 [a].

52. N.Y.—O'Reilly v. Brooklyn Heights R Co., 72 N.E. 517, 179 N.Y. 450—Griffin v. Interurban Street R. Co., 72 N.E. 513, 179 N.Y. 438.
10 C.J. p 816 note 27.

53. N.Y.—Catalano v. International R. Co., 145 N.Y.S. 1005

54. N.Y.—Oatman v. International Ry. Co, 163 N.Y.S. 495.

55. N.Y.—Fox v. Interurban St. R. Co, 86 N.Y.S. 64, 42 Misc. 538.
10 C.J. p 816 note 29.

56. N.Y.—Van Zandt v. New York City R. Co., 94 N.Y.S. 660, 106 App Div. 614—McLaughlin v. New York City R. Co, 94 N.Y.S. 653, 106 App. Div. 1.

57. N.Y.—Bull v. New York City R Co, 85 N.E. 385, 192 N.Y. 361, 19 L.R.A.,N.S., 778
10 C.J. p 817 note 32.

It is no defense to an action for a penalty under these statutes that the conductor did not have the usual transfer tickets,[58] or that the company had provided the conductor with transfers to give to passengers, his refusal being that of the company,[59] or that boys riding on a street car indulged in "skylarking."[60] So it is no excuse for refusal to give a transfer at a particular point that it might cause undue crowding in the street and at the street crossings.[61] Want of good faith of a passenger in that he became a passenger for the purpose of laying a foundation for an action to recover a penalty presents a perfect defense to an action.[62]

d. Actions

General rules governing actions to enforce or recover penalties apply in actions of the kind under consideration. If no period of limitations is specifically prescribed in the statute, the period of limitations is governed by general statutes providing for actions for a penalty.

Actions for penalties of the character under consideration are governed by the general rules obtaining in actions for penalties generally, see C.J.S. title Penalties §§ 7–15, also 25 C.J. p 1181 note 45–p 1213 note 78. An action for the penalty imposed by a statute requiring carriers to give tranfers, which does not prescribe a period of limitations, is not barred by the period of time prescribed for the commencement of actions against carriers asking or receiving more than the lawful rate of fare, but the period of limitations is governed by a general statute providing for actions for a penalty.[63]

Pleading. The complaint should state all the facts necessary to bring the case within the terms of the statute,[64] and the proof should conform to the pleading.[65] An answer alleging a possible alternative route, without alleging that a transfer was issued on such alternative route, is insufficient.[66]

Evidence. Plaintiff must establish every fact necessary for a recovery,[67] and the burden is on him to prove his case by a preponderance of the evidence, but not beyond a reasonable doubt.[68] Where there are two lines of cars running along a street, one of which is operated by defendant, it will not be presumed, in the absence of proof, that the car boarded by plaintiff, and on which a transfer tendered by him was refused, ran over the line operated by defendant.[69] Evidence as to whether plaintiff was a bona fide passenger is material and admissible.[70] Where it appears that a transfer was given plaintiff, but not honored by the conductor of the car which he subsequently took, and there was no evidence that he took the proper car, or that if he had taken it the transfer would have been refused, he is not entitled to recover.[71]

Trial. Whether the rule of a street railroad company as to transfers is reasonable is a question of law for the court and not for the jury.[72]

e. Number of Penalties Recoverable

Only one penalty may be recovered in a single action.

Only one penalty for the refusal of the carrier to transfer a passenger can be recovered in a single action, and the institution of such action constitutes a waiver of all penalties previously incurred.[73] However, such action does not prevent an action for a subsequently accruing penalty.[74]

§ 650. Penalty for Unlawfully Selling or Buying Transfer

Under statutes or ordinances so providing, it is an offense for a street car passenger to sell or to give away to be used a transfer issued to him, or for a person to purchase a transfer from anyone not an agent of the company and to attempt to use it.

58. N.Y.—Rosenberg v. Brooklyn Heights R Co., 86 N.Y.S. 871, 91 App.Div 580.
10 C.J. p 817 note 34.

59. N.Y.—Snee v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co, 104 N.Y.S. 907, 120 App Div 570, affirmed 87 N.E. 1127, 193 N.Y 659.
However, in an earlier case it was held that a company is not liable for the penalty, where it has established a system of transfers for its intersecting lines and furnishes its conductors with tickets for that purpose, and some individual passenger has not received transfers through the misjudgment, neglect, or mistake of the conductor.—Schwartzman v. Brooklyn Heights R Co, 98 N.Y.S. 941, 50 Misc. 116.

60. N.Y.—Rosenberg v. Brooklyn Heights R Co., 86 N.Y.S. 871, 91 App Div. 580.

61. N.Y.—Moskowitz v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co, 93 N.Y.S. 385, 47 Misc. 119, disapproving Topham v. Interurban R. Co., 89 N.Y.S. 298, 96 App.Div. 323.

62. N.Y.—Bull v. New York City R. Co., 85 N.E. 385, 192 N.Y. 361, 19 L.R.A.,N.S., 778.
10 C.J. p 817 note 32.

63. N.Y.—Munro v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 88 N.E. 567, 195 N.Y 254, affirming 105 N.Y.S. 325, 120 App. Div. 516.

64. N.Y.—Mendoza v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 64 N.Y.S. 745, 51 App. Div. 430.
10 C.J. p 817 note 39.

65. N.Y.—Stevenson v. New York City R. Co, 104 N.Y.S. 866, 54 Misc. 641

66. N.Y.—Holmes v Interurban St. R Co., 92 N.Y.S. 57.

67. N.Y.—Oatman v. International Ry. Co., 163 N.Y.S. 495.

68. N.Y.—Kerin v. New York City R. Co., 103 N.Y.S. 769, 53 Misc 568.
10 C.J. p 818 note 41.

69. N.Y.—Harris v. Interurban St. R. Co., 92 N.Y.S. 42, 46 Misc. 242.

70. N.Y.—Carlin v. New York City R. Co., 108 N.Y.S 1020.

71. N.Y.—Weinstein v. Interurban St. R. Co., 86 N.Y.S. 731

72. N.Y.—Mannion v. International R. Co, 121 N.Y.S. 263, 66 Misc. 420.

73. N.Y.—Griffin v. Interurban St. R. Co., 72 N.E. 513, 179 N.Y. 438, reargument denied 72 N.E. 1142, 180 N.Y. 538.
10 C.J. p 818 note 46.

74. N.Y.—Transfer Penalty Cases, 92 N.Y.S. 322, 46 Misc. 579.

Under statutes or ordinances so providing, it is an offense, for which a penalty is prescribed, for a street car passenger to sell or to give away to be used a transfer issued to him,[75] or for a person to purchase a transfer from anyone not an agent of the street car company and to attempt to use the same.[76] The constitutionality of these ordinances has been assailed, but the courts have upheld their validity as against a contention that they constitute a deprivation of property without due process of law.[77] Unlawful use of a transfer as an offense is considered in § 543 supra.

§ 651. Transfers between Independent Lines

The nature, extent, and effect of transfers as between independent lines of passenger transportation are discussed in §§ 652 and 653, immediately following.

§ 652. Nature and Extent of Initial Carrier's Liability

a. In general
b. Special contract

a. In General

Although there is some authority to the contrary, it is the general rule that, in the absence of a special contract, the initial carrier is not liable for the failure of a connecting carrier to perform its contract or duty to transport unless a partnership arrangement exists between the carriers. Generally, a carrier is not liable if expressly exempted from liability.

There is some authority that a railroad company selling a passenger a ticket for through transportation to the point of destination over its own and connecting roads renders itself responsible for the entire journey,[78] this also being the English rule as stated in Corpus Juris,[79] but, by the weight of authority, in the absence of a special contract for through transportation, the sale by a carrier of an ordinary coupon ticket for transportation over its own and an independent connecting line does not give rise to a contract for through transportation,[80] and the initial carrier acts as principal merely with reference to its own line, and as agent of the connecting carrier in contracting for transportation over the connecting line;[81] the right of the purchaser and the responsibility of the different carriers are the same as though separate tickets had been purchased by him from each, and each is responsible only for the acts of its own agents and for injury suffered from its breach of duty on its own line.[82] In such a case the initial carrier discharges its duty when it delivers the passengers at the end of its own line ready to continue the transportation on the connecting line,[83] and it will not be liable for any failure of the connecting carrier to perform its independent contract.[84] It is not liable for a representation made by its agent, outside the scope of his authority, that a connecting carrier will wait for a certain train.[85]

Where, however, the arrangement existing between the associated lines of carriers amounts to a partnership, each will be liable to the passenger for losses or injuries occurring anywhere along the line of transportation; but the arrangement must be in reality a partnership, with the incident of community of profit and loss.[86] The mere fact that each

75. Cal.—Ex p. Lorenzen, 61 P. 68, 128 Cal. 431, 79 Am.S.R. 47, 50 L.R.A. 55.
10 C.J. p 818 note 49.

76. Ill.—Chicago v. Taub, 150 Ill. App. 611.

Purchase without attempt to use

A mere purchase of a transfer without an actual attempt to use it is not subject to a penalty under an ordinance rendering it unlawful to receive a transfer from one not an agent of the street car company with intent to use, or attempt to use, the same.—Chicago v. Taub, 150 Ill.App. 611.

77. Cal.—Ex p. Lorenzen, 61 P. 68, 128 Cal. 431, 79 Am.S.R. 47, 50 L.R.A. 55.
Ill.—Chicago v. Siegel, 82 N.E. 294, 229 Ill. 313.

78. Ark.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Prude, 247 N.W. 785, 156 Ark. 583, reversed on other grounds 44 S.Ct. 450, 265 U.S. 99, 68 L.Ed. 919.

79. Md.—Pugh v. Washington Ry. & Electric Co., 106 A. 522, 134 Md. 196.

80. Ky.—Guy v. Interstate Transit, 51 S.W.2d 455, 244 Ky. 479.
10 C.J. p 818 note 56.

Duty to transport passenger beyond line

The law does not compel a carrier to transport its passengers over any line other than its own.—McAdoo v. McClure, Tex.Civ.App., 232 S.W. 348, modified on other grounds, Boyles v. McClure, Com.App., 243 S.W. 1080.

81. Ill.—See Schoenfeld v. Lake Shore & M. S. Ry. Co., 197 Ill.App. 419.
Md.—Mills v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 73 A. 885, 111 Md. 260, 134 Am.S.R. 599.
10 C.J. p 819 note 57.

However, in an early case in Georgia it was held that the initial carrier was liable for the safe and secure carriage and transportation of the passenger to his destination.—Central R. Co. v. Combs, 70 Ga. 533, 48 Am.R. 582.

82. Mont.—Brian v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., 105 P. 489, 40 Mont. 109, 25 L.R.A.,N.S., 459, 20 Ann. Cas. 311.
10 C.J. p 819 note 58.

83. N.J.—McDonald v. New Jersey Cent. R. Co., 62 A. 405, 72 N.J.Law 280, 111 Am.S.R. 672, 2 L.R.A.,N.S., 505.
10 C.J. p 819 note 60.

84. Ill.—See Schoenfeld v. Lake Shore & M. S. Ry. Co., 197 Ill.App. 419.
Tex.—St. Louis Southwestern R. Co. v. White, 89 S.W. 746, 99 Tex. 359, 122 Am.S.R. 631, 2 L.R.A.,N.S., 110, 13 Ann.Cas. 965, reversing, Civ.App., 86 S.W. 71—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Looney, 19 S.W. 1039, 85 Tex. 158, 34 Am.S.R. 787, 16 L.R.A. 471—Harris v. Howe, 12 S.W. 224, 74 Tex. 534, 15 Am.S.R. 862, 5 L.R.A. 777.
10 C.J. p 819 note 61.

85. Tex.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Conway, Civ.App., 180 S.W. 666.

86. U.S.—Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. Dupont, N.Y., 128 F. 840, 64 C.C.A. 478.
10 C.J. p 820 note 75.

sells through tickets, deducting its own share of the price paid for the same, and accounting to the other companies for their shares, the price being fixed according to a tariff established by each company as to its own road, may resemble, but does not constitute, a partnership;[87] nor will the mere appointment of a common agent at each end of the route to receive fares and to issue through tickets have such an effect.[88]

Where the ticket contains a provision exempting the company from liability beyond its own line or expressly negatives the idea that the company contracts for the entire journey, its liability will be confined to its own line,[89] unless the act complained of was committed by one of its own officers or employees acting within the general scope or course of his employment at the time,[90] or unless there is a partnership between the two lines;[91] but under the majority rule stated above such a provision is unnecessary, as it is never necessary to insert in a contract that which the law implies.[92]

Liability of the initial carrier for personal injuries generally is treated in § 702 infra.

b. Special Contract

Under an agreement or contract with the passenger, the initial carrier may be liable for any fault or breach of duty by the connecting carrier or its employees. The agreement to effect liability must be clear and explicit.

It has been urged that a contract by a carrier for the transportation of passengers beyond its own line is ultra vires; but this view has not been favorably received, the established doctrine being that a carrier may, under an arrangement with the connecting carrier, lawfully make such a contract,[93] and the validity of the contract is not affected by the fact that it is to be in part performed beyond the territorial limits of the state within which the carrier is incorporated.[94] Where the contract of the carrier selling the ticket is for through transportation, it is the principal, and the connecting carrier continuing the transportation of the passenger under such ticket is the agent of the carrier selling the ticket for the purpose of carrying out the contract of transportation, and in such case the carrier selling the ticket will be liable for any fault or breach of duty by the connecting carrier or its employees.[95] It has been held, however, that even where the contract is for through transportation, the initial carrier may limit its liability under the contract to its own line,[96] although a contrary doctrine has been upheld,[97] particularly where the connecting companies have entered into an arrangement by which practically a continuous system is formed under one management.[98]

An agreement on the part of the initial carrier to extend its liability beyond its own line will not be

87. U.S.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Jones, D.C., 15 S.Ct. 136, 155 U.S. 333, 39 L.Ed. 176
Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Mulford, 44 N.E. 861, 162 Ill. 522, 35 L.R.A. 599.
10 C.J. p. 821 note 76.

88. Ind.—Scott v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 43 N.E. 133, 144 Ind. 135, 32 L.R.A. 154.
10 C.J. p. 821 note 77.

89. U.S.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Prude, 44 S.Ct. 450, 265 U.S. 99, 68 L.Ed. 919, reversing 247 S.W. 785, 156 Ark. 583.
Ky.—Guy v. Interstate Transit, 51 S.W.2d 455, 244 Ky. 479.
Tex.—McAdoo v. McClure, Civ.App., 232 S.W. 348, modified on other grounds Boyles v. McClure, Com.App., 243 S.W. 1080.
10 C.J. p. 819 note 62.
In an early case it was held that the initial carrier's liability was not limited by any statement written or printed on the check or ticket not signed by the passenger.—Central R. Co. v. Combs, 70 Ga. 533, 48 Am.R. 582

90. Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Spicker, 105 Pa. 142.
S.C.—Oliver v. Columbia, etc., R. Co., 43 S.E. 307, 65 S.C. 1.

91. Miss.—St. Clair v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 28 So. 957, 77 Miss. 789.

92. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Mulford, 44 N.E. 861, 162 Ill. 522, 35 L.R.A. 599, reversing 59 Ill. App. 479.

93. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Dumser, 43 N.E. 698, 161 Ill. 190.
10 C.J. p. 820 note 67.

94. N.Y.—Cary v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 29 Barb. 35
Tenn.—Nashville, etc. R. Co. v. Sprayberry, 9 Heisk. 852.
Wis.—Candee v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 21 Wis. 582, 94 Am.D. 566.

95. Ky.—Guy v. Interstate Transit, 51 S.W.2d 455, 244 Ky. 479.
Neb.—Omaha, etc., R. Co. v. Crow, 74 N.W. 1066, 54 Neb. 747, 69 Am.S.R. 741—Chollette v. Omaha, etc., R. Co., 41 N.W. 1106, 26 Neb. 159, 4 L.R.A. 135.
Ohio.—Pennsylvania Co. v. Loftis, 74 N.E. 179, 72 Ohio St. 288, 106 Am.S.R. 597, 3 Ann.Cas. 3.
10 C.J. p. 820 note 69.

Corpus Juris is quoted in Pugh v. Washington Ry. & Electric Co., 106 A. 522, 134 Md. 196.

Agreement to engage accommodations
Where a carrier sells tickets over another line connecting with its own, and agrees to engage accommodations for the passenger over the latter, it is liable in damages for its failure so to do.—Bussman v. Western Transit Co., D.C.N.Y., 71 F. 654.

96. Tex.—Moore v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 45 S.W. 609, 18 Tex.Civ.App. 561—International, etc., R. Co. v. Campbell, 20 S.W. 845, 1 Tex.Civ.App. 509.

97. Ga.—Central R. Co. v. Combs, 70 Ga. 533, 48 Am.R. 582.
Mo.—Jones v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 89 Mo.App. 653

98. D.C.—Howard v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 11 App.D.C. 300.

Condition limited to separate lines
Where two railroad companies enter into an arrangement by which practically a continuous system is formed under one management, and one of them sells a ticket under a condition limiting its liability to its own line, it is nevertheless responsible for the safe carriage of passengers over the other line, and such condition must be limited in its operation to such other lines as have their own separate and independent management. — Howard v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 11 App.D.C. 300.

implied from doubtful expressions or loose language, but only from clear and satisfactory evidence.[99]

Limitation of liability for negligence generally is discussed in § 638 supra.

§ 653. Nature and Extent of Connecting Carrier's Liability

Ordinarily the connecting carrier is liable only for the acts of its own employees or for injuries occurring on its own line of road.

Except in case of a partnership or a similar agreement,[1] the connecting carrier will ordinarily be liable only for the acts of its own employees or for injuries occurring on its own line of road,[2] and not for the acts of the initial carrier.[3] A connecting carrier will not be liable for refusing passage on a ticket which has expired, although the passenger was prevented from presenting his ticket within the time limit by the fault of the initial or an intermediate carrier.[4]

The duty imposed on railroad companies by the Interstate Commerce Act and by state legislation to receive passengers from connecting roads is one which the courts will enforce by mandatory injunction, where the injury resulting from its nonperformance is continuing; and it is no defense to such relief that a strike of locomotive engineers and firemen has been ordered on plaintiff's road, and that, if defendant's road should accept cars from the boycotted road, its own men would be called out.[5]

The liability of a connecting carrier for personal injuries is discussed in § 702 infra.

§ 654. Duty to Carry to, and to Stop at, Destination

a. In general
b. Duty to stop at destination

a. In General

Generally it is the duty of the carrier to exercise a high degree of care to carry a passenger safely to, and discharge him at, his destination.

Where a passenger has presented a proper ticket, or paid the proper fare, it is, as a general rule, the duty of the carrier to exercise a high degree of care to carry him safely to, and discharge him at, his destination; and a refusal or failure so to do will be a breach of contract for which the carrier will be liable in damages.[6] Generally, the carrier's duty is discharged by carrying the passenger safely to his destination and, after giving reasonable notice that it has reached such destination, by stopping at the fixed place for passengers to alight and remaining standing a sufficient length of time for them to alight safely.[7] In the absence of a sufficient excuse therefor, there is a breach of contract for which the carrier is liable, if it discharges a passenger from the train before his destination is reached,[8] or if it carries him to a place not called for by his ticket against his will.[9] Where the carrier wrongfully discharges a passenger at a place other than its destination and makes no effort to look after the safety and comfort of the passenger who cannot find safe and comfortable accommodations by the exercise of reasonable care it is liable in tort;[10] but where, although through mistake or inadvertence the passenger is discharged at the wrong station, there are safe and comfortable accommodations, there is no tortious breach of the carrier's contract.[11]

99. U.S.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Jones, D.C., 15 S.Ct. 136, 155 U.S. 333, 39 L.Ed. 176.
10 C.J. p 820 note 74.

1. N.Y.—Jacobs v. Third Ave. R. Co., 75 N.Y.S. 679, 71 App.Div. 199, 10 N.Y.Ann.Cas. 462, reversing 69 N.Y.S. 981, 34 Misc. 512, and affirming 68 N.Y.S. 623, 33 Misc. 802
10 C.J. p 821 note 78.

2. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Fahey, 52 Ill. 81, 4 Am.R. 587.
Mass.—Schopman v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 9 Cush. 24, 55 Am.D. 41.
10 C.J. p 821 note 79

3. Ark.—Bresewitz v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 87 S.W. 127, 75 Ark. 242, 70 L.R.A. 212.
10 C.J. p 821 note 80.

4. Mont.—Brian v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., 105 P. 489, 40 Mont. 109, 25 L.R.A.,N.S., 459, 20 Ann. Cas. 311.

5. U.S.—Chicago, B. & Q. Ry. Co. v. Burlington, C. R. & N. Ry. Co., C.C.Iowa, 34 F. 481.

6. N.H.—Ingerson v. Grand Trunk Ry., 106 A. 488, 79 N.H. 154
S.C.—Gilkerson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 89 S.E. 549, 105 S.C. 132.
10 C.J. p 821 note 84.
Corpus Juris is cited with approval in Faubion v. Minneapolis, St. P. & S. S. M. Ry. Co., 177 N.W. 371, 45 N.D. 269.

7. Ala.—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Smith, 117 So. 74, 217 Ala. 501, 58 A.L.R. 1058.
S.C.—Gilkerson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 89 S.E. 549, 105 S.C. 132.

8. Iowa.—Gustafson v. Cedar Rapids, etc., R. Co., 126 N.W. 145, 148 Iowa 388.
10 C.J. p 822 note 86.

9. S.C.—Latour v. Southern R. Co., 51 S.E. 265, 71 S.C. 532.

10. Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. McPherson, 78 S.W.2d 919, 257 Ky. 662
Duty to know character of place
A carrier, in the discharge of the high duty which it owes to its passengers, is bound to know the character of the place at which it wrongfully discharges them.—Hines v. Garrett, 108 S.E. 690, 131 Va. 125

11. Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Wells, 294 S.W. 143, 219 Ky. 718.
Depot in large city
Where the carrier through misinformation as to the proper station for meeting a connecting train caused a passenger to disembark at the

In the absence of an agreement therefor, the carrier is not bound to carry a passenger to a particular place, to which he has no ticket or has paid no fare,[12] and if the carrier does not know the passenger's destination except as stated in the ticket, it owes him no duty other than to carry him safely to the place called for by the ticket.[13]

Where by reason of a wreck a train is detoured over the line of another carrier, the carrier owning the train is under no legal duty to discharge at stations along the detoured route any passengers not destined therefor.[14]

b. Duty to Stop at Destination

A carrier must stop to discharge a passenger at his destination unless the train is not regularly scheduled to stop there and the carrier has entered into no agreement, or is guilty of no representation, that the train will stop.

It is the duty of the carrier to stop its train or car at the station to which the passenger has a ticket or has paid his fare,[15] if the station is one which the carrier has, by custom or regulations, noted as a place for the train to stop,[16] or is one at which the train is required to stop by a statutory regulation,[17] unless there is a sufficient excuse, under the particular circumstances, for its refusal or failure to stop at that point.[18] This rule, however, is subject to the reasonable customs and regulations of the carrier with regard to stopping particular trains only at particular stations,[19] and if, in the absence of a special contract or the assurance of an agent on which he has a right to rely, a passenger through his own fault or mistake boards a train which under the customs or regulations of the carrier does not regularly or ordinarily stop at his point of destination, he cannot require it to stop there or recover damages for its failure so to do,[20] particularly where it appears that there are other trains that do stop at the station and which give ample accommodations to that point.[21] However, it has been held that where a passenger is permitted without objection to board a train which does not stop at his destination and the passenger is unaware of that fact and the ticket contains no notice thereof, it is the carrier's duty to stop the train at that station and permit the passenger to alight,[22] at least where the agent of the carrier has been told the wrong station, its action was held not to be tortious where the depot was in a large city in which the passenger would be safe, comfortable, and well taken care of.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Wells, 294 S. W. 143, 219 Ky. 718.

Discharge of passenger near home

Railroad passenger carried past destination was held not entitled to damages on theory of tort, where conductor invited her to remain on train until it returned to passenger's destination in about one hour, but, when passenger refused, stopped train and let passenger off, without discourtesy, within two hundred feet of commissary, near home of neighbor, within quarter of mile of place where her husband was working, and within one mile of her own home, between 9 and 10 A. M.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. McPherson, 78 S.W.2d 919, 257 Ky. 662.

12. Mass.—Sullivan v. Old Colony St. R. Co., 86 N.E. 511, 200 Mass. 303.

Separate fare payable to each town

An interurban street railroad company is not absolutely bound to carry a passenger to a particular town where there is no agreement therefor, where he has procured no ticket and has paid no fare to that place, and a separate fare is payable in each town on the route, and he has been carried as far as he has paid or has offered to pay fare.—Sullivan v Old Colony St. R. Co., 86 N.E. 511, 200 Mass. 303.

13. Tex.—Walls v Kansas City, M. & O. Ry. Co. of Texas, Civ App., 195 S.W. 868.

14. Ky.—Payne v. Simmons, 255 S. W. 863, 201 Ky. 33, 33 A.L.R. 814.

15. La.—Cady v. New Orleans, T. & M. Ry. Co, 145 So. 680, 176 La. 341.
Va.—Hines v. Garrett, 108 S.E. 690, 131 Va. 125.
10 C.J. p 821 note 84.

Breach of duty per se

Generally a failure to stop train at point to which carrier has undertaken to carry and discharge passenger is per se a breach of duty for which an action technically lies.—Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry. v Campbell, 101 So. 615, 212 Ala 27.

16. S.C.—Martin v. Southern R. Co., 58 S.E. 3, 77 S C. 370, 122 Am.S.R 574.
10 C.J. p 822 note 90.

17. N.C.—Cable v. Southern R. Co., 29 S.E. 377, 122 N.C. 892.
10 C.J. p 822 note 91.

18. Ala.—Louisville, etc., R Co. v. Dancy, 11 So. 796, 97 Ala. 338.
Mich.—Reed v. Duluth, etc., R. Co., 59 N.W. 144, 100 Mich. 507.
10 C.J. p 822 note 92.

19. U.S.—Kyle v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co., Ark., 182 F. 613, 105 C C.A. 151.
Ala.—Southern Ry Co. v. Pruett, 77 So 49, 200 Ala. 675.
Kan.—Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Gants, 17 P. 54, 38 Kan. 608, 5 Am.S.R. 780.
S.C.—Shepherd v Southern Ry. Co., 133 S.E. 231, 135 S.C. 75.
10 C J. p 822 note 93.

20. N.C.—Meeder v. Seaboard Air Line Ry., 91 S E. 527, 173 N.C. 57
S.C.—Shepherd v. Southern Ry. Co., 133 S E. 231, 135 S.C. 75.
Tex.—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Sanderson, Civ App., 216 S.W. 286 —Texas & P. Ry Co. v. Lathrop, Civ.App., 192 S.W. 1080, error refused.
10 C.J p 822 note 94

Not specified in tariff

A passenger has no right to get off at a station not specified in the tariff, as a railroad is not allowed to extend to any person any privileges except such as are specified in its tariffs.—May v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co, 96 S.E. 482, 110 S.C. 84.

Permitting passenger to take through train

Conductor's conduct in permitting passenger to take through train cannot be regarded as willful, in absence of evidence showing that he willfully permitted passenger to take such train instead of local.—Shepherd v. Southern Ry. Co., 133 S.E. 231, 135 S.C. 75.

21. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Rosenberry, 45 Ark. 256.
Tex.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. White, 17 S W. 419, 4 Tex A.Civ.Cas. § 259.

22. N.C.—Hutchinson v. Southern Ry. Co, 52 S.E 263, 140 N.C. 123, approved in Blaylock v. Southern Ry. Co., 100 S E. 599, 178 N.C. 353.

passenger's destination as he was about to board the train.[23]

Ordinarily, the carrier's duty is fully satisfied by notifying the passenger in due time that the train will not stop, and giving him an opportunity to alight at some other station on the road, from which he may take passage on the first train of the company which regularly stops at the station named in his ticket.[24] It has been held that this rule applies notwithstanding the conductor punches and takes up the passenger's ticket after having told him that the train does not stop at his place of destination,[25] although there is also authority to the contrary.[26] Where the train is scheduled to stop at stations before a passenger's destination, the conductor has no duty to volunteer information that the train does not stop at the passenger's destination since he may assume that the passenger intends to alight at an intermediate station and complete the journey by local train or otherwise.[27]

Where a passenger having the right to stop at a particular station is carried by without his consent and without giving him reasonable opportunity to leave the train, he may recover whatever damages he may have suffered by reason thereof,[28] and it is no defense that the conductor did not know of the passenger's presence on the train,[29] or that he offered to let the passenger off at an intermediate station and give him a pass by which he could take a later train, where such offer was not accepted.[30] Generally, it is the duty of the carrier in such a case to return the passenger to his destination,[31] but this rule does not apply where the passenger is carried beyond his destination by reason of his neglect to alight when he is offered a reasonable opportunity so to do;[32] and where a passenger is carried beyond his destination through no wrong or neglect of the carrier, and is safely landed at some other station, there is no duty on the carrier to get him back to his destination,[33] nor is it responsible for the gratuitous acts of its employees in advising or directing him as to his return.[34]

In street car cases, there is a duty on the carrier to stop the car on the signal of a passenger desiring to alight at any regular stopping place.[35]

Agreement or representation. Where the passenger has made a special contract, express or implied, to be carried on a particular train to a particular station, the carrier may be bound to stop at that station regardless of its custom or regulations,[36] particularly where no other train is run between the points in question on which the passenger might be transported.[37] This rule applies where the ticket agent has made an agreement with, or a promise to, the passenger that the train will stop.[38] Likewise, a statement or representation of the ticket agent or other proper agent that a ticket may be used on a particular train, or that the train will stop at his destination, may be relied on by the passenger as constituting an agreement that the train will stop at his destination, and the carrier will be bound, in the absence of knowledge on the part of the passenger that the information is incorrect,[39] although there is also authority to the con-

23. Ark.—Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. Sims, 292 S.W. 94, 173 Ark. 256.

24. N.C.—Meeder v. Seaboard Air Line Ry., 91 S.E. 527, 173 N.C. 57.
S.C.—May v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 96 S.E. 482, 110 S.C. 84.
10 C.J. p 823 note 96.

Purchase of ticket after notice

Where, when plaintiff requested the conductor to stop the train at a station at which it was not scheduled to stop, the conductor informed him that he was riding on a stock pass, and that he would not stop the train, and plaintiff, while the train was stopped at an intermediate station, procured a ticket to the station at which he desired to alight, it was held that, as the ticket notified him the train in question did not stop there, the conductor was justified in refusing to stop the train, although plaintiff had procured such ticket.—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v Sanderson, Tex.Civ.App., 216 S.W. 286.

25. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Atchison, 14 S.W. 468, 47 Ark. 74.
10 C.J. p 823 note 97.

26. Ga.—Caldwell v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 15 S.E. 678, 89 Ga. 550

27. S.C.—Hutchison v. Southern Ry. Co., 95 S.E. 181, 109 S.C. 90.

28. W.Va.—White v. Ohio Valley Electric Ry. Co., 127 S.E. 65, 98 W.Va. 378.
10 C.J. p 824 note 14.

29. Mo.—Rawlings v. Wabash R. Co., 71 S.W. 535, 97 Mo.App. 511.

30. Ill.—Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. Peo., 29 Ill App 561.

31. Va.—Hines v. Garrett, 108 S.E. 690, 131 Va. 125.
10 C.J. p 825 note 17.

32. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Gaddie, 172 S.W. 514, 162 Ky. 205, L.R.A.1915D 705.
10 C.J. p 825 note 18.

33. Ala.—Birmingham, R., etc., Co v. Seaborn, 53 So. 241, 168 Ala. 658.

34. Ala.—Birmingham R., etc., Co. v Seaborn, supra.
10 C.J. p 825 note 20.

35. Ky.—Louisville & I. R. Co. v Bullock, 250 S.W. 846, 199 Ky 193
10 C.J. p 823 note 99.

Use of push buttons

Since push buttons in street cars are ordinarily used for the purpose of giving notice of a passenger's desire to alight, a company using cars equipped with such buttons invites a passenger to use them for that purpose, and will not be heard to say that the use of the buttons was insufficient, and the passenger should have otherwise notified the conductor of a desire to alight.—Louisville & I R. Co. v. Bullock, 250 S.W. 846, 199 Ky. 193.

36. Ark.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Coxwell, 30 S.W.2d 209, 182 Ark. 145.
10 C.J. p 823 note 4.

37. Ind.—Dillman v. Chicago, I. & L. Ry. Co., App., 88 N.E. 873.

38. Miss.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. McArthur, 102 So. 842, 137 Miss. 780.
10 C.J. p 824 note 6.

39. Ark.—Simmons v. Lusk, 194 S.W. 11, 128 Ark. 336.

trary;[40] but this rule does not apply to the representations of an agent without authority, or in excess of such authority, to determine whether the train shall stop at a particular station.[41] It has been held that the passenger's remedy in such a case is not for the refusal of the conductor to stop at his station, but for the misinformation or misdirection given him.[42] By selling a ticket to a particular station the carrier contracts to carry the passenger to that station and to stop there to allow him to alight,[43] but in the absence of a special contract or representation the mere sale of a ticket by a carrier to a particular station creates no implied obligation that a particular train will stop at that station.[44] After the train conductor tells a passenger that the train does not stop at his station and directs him to change cars at an intermediate station, the passenger is not entitled to rely upon an incorrect statement of a railroad employee before he boarded the train that the train would stop at his destination.[45] A direction by a carrier's employee to a passenger to take a train which would carry him toward his destination to a station from which a local train could be taken is not a wrongful act.[46]

Since every one is bound to know that a conductor has no general power to run his train except in conformity to the schedule,[47] an arrangement or agreement with the conductor of the train to let the passenger off at a station where the train is not scheduled to stop has been held not to bind the carrier to stop the train at such station, or to render it liable in damages for its failure so to do,[48] although there is authority to the contrary.[49] An acceptance of a cash fare by the conductor for a certain station has been held an agreement binding on the carrier to stop the train at that station.[50] A passenger on a street car may rely on the promise of the conductor to let him off at a place where passengers are regularly received and discharged.[51]

§ 655. Stopping at Flag Stations

A carrier is bound to carry a passenger, holding a ticket to a flag station, to the station, and must stop to permit him to alight if the carrier knows or should know of the passenger's destination.

Where a passenger purchases a ticket to a flag station at which trains do not stop unless signaled or unless there are passengers on board for such station, the carrier undertakes to carry him to such destination and let him off there, and is bound to fulfill its obligation, and a failure to perform such duty is not only a breach of contract but also a tort for which an action is maintainable.[52] Ordinarily, it is the duty of the conductor before reaching the station to ascertain the destination of a passenger holding such a ticket and to stop the train there for the purpose of allowing the passenger to leave.[53] The exhibiting of the ticket to the carrier's agents or servants in charge of the train or car,[54] or the taking up of such ticket by the conductor,[55] is sufficient notice to the conductor of the passenger's desire to get off at a flag station. The

Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Gaddie, 172 S.W. 514, 162 Ky. 205, L.R.A.1915D 705.

Miss.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. McArthur, 102 So. 842, 137 Miss. 780.

N.C.—Blaylock v. Southern Ry. Co., 100 S.E. 599, 178 N.C. 353.

10 C.J. p 690 note 56, p 691 note 59, p 738 note 68 [c], p 824 note 7.

Corpus Juris is cited with approval in Louisville & N. R. Co. v. McArthur, 102 So. 842, 137 Miss. 780.

40. Mo.—Sira v. Wabash R. Co., 21 S.W. 905, 115 Mo. 127, 37 Am.S.R. 386.

10 C.J. p 824 note 8.

41. Ala.—Alabama Great Southern R. Co. v. Carmichael, 8 So. 87, 90 Ala. 19, 9 L.R.A. 388.

10 C.J. p 824 note 9.

42. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Atchison, 14 S.W. 468, 47 Ark. 74.

Mo.—Marshall v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 78 Mo. 610.

43. Tex.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Cole, 1 S.W. 629, 66 Tex. 562—Renfro v. Texas Cent. R. Co., Civ.App., 141 S.W. 820—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Glass, 102 S.W. 447, 46 Tex. Civ.App. 126—San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. Dykes, Civ.App., 45 S.W. 758.

44. U.S.—Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co. v. Cameron, Ind.T., 66 F. 709, 14 C.C.A. 358.

45. Mich.—Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Pierce, 11 N.W. 157, 47 Mich. 277.

Tex.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Lathrop, Civ.App., 192 S.W. 1080, error refused.

46. Tex.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Lathrop, supra.

47. Mich.—Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Pierce, 11 N.W. 157, 47 Mich. 277.

48. Ala.—Alabama Great Southern R. Co. v. Carmichael, 8 So. 87, 90 Ala. 19, 9 L.R.A. 388.

10 C.J. p 691 note 67, p 824 note 11.

Refusal to stop for passenger with stock pass

The mere statement of the conductor in answer to a request by a passenger to stop the train at a station where it was not scheduled to stop, that the passenger was riding on a stock pass and had no ticket does not amount to a representation that if he purchased a ticket to that destination the train would stop there.—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Sanderson, Tex.Civ.App., 216 S.W. 286.

49. Tex.—Hull v. East Line, etc., R. Co., 2 S.W. 831, 66 Tex. 619.

10 C.J. p 824 note 12.

50. Ga.—Caldwell v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 15 S.E. 678, 89 Ga. 550.

Tenn.—Tennessee R. Co. v. Kingsley, 10 Tenn.App. 637.

51. Mo.—Moeller v. United R. Co., 112 S.W. 714, 133 Mo.App. 68.

10 C.J. p 824 note 13.

52. Okl.—Ft. Smith, etc., R. Co. v. Ford, 126 P. 745, 34 Okl. 575, 41 L.R.A.,N.S., 745.

10 C.J. p 825 notes 22–24.

53. Ind.—Pittsburgh, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Boys, 123 N.E. 482, 71 Ind.App. 102.

10 C.J. p 825 note 25.

54. Ark.—Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. Blundell, 191 S.W. 940, 127 Ark. 82.

55. Ind.—Pittsburgh, C. C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Boys, 123 N.E. 482, 71 Ind.App. 102.

10 C.J. p 825 note 26.

passenger has a right to act on the assumption that the conductor will call for his ticket before reaching the station specified and thus obtain such notice,[56] and failure of the conductor to do so will not excuse a failure to stop;[57] but where the carrier has no notice of the ticket and is not at fault for lack of notice, the carrier is not liable for its failure to stop.[58]

There is a divergence of judicial opinion as to the duty of a passenger to give notice and in some jurisdictions it has been held that the mere purchase of a ticket to a flag station is not sufficient notice to the carrier of the passenger's destination,[59] and it may become the duty of the passenger under the circumstances of the particular case to notify the conductor of his desire to get off at such a station,[60] as where the conditions, such as the train being crowded and the distance short, are such that the conductor cannot reasonably be expected to obtain notice by taking up the ticket or otherwise;[61] but there is other authority to the effect that the purchase of the ticket is conclusive notice,[62] and the fact that the train is so crowded that the conductor has no time to reach a passenger holding a ticket for a flag station before the station is passed does not excuse the carrier for failing to stop.[63]

A passenger cannot claim the right to be put off at a flag station short of the station named in his ticket.[64]

§ 656. Stopping at Places Other than Stations

In the absence of a special contract, a carrier owes no duty to discharge a passenger at a point where there is no regular station or stopping place.

In the absence of a special contract to that effect, a passenger on a railroad train has no right to demand that he be put off at a point where there is no regular station or stopping place,[65] and this rule applies even though such passenger has mistakenly embarked on the train and has paid his fare.[66] However, where a special contract to be put off at such a point is made with some agent of the company having the real or apparent power so to do, the company will be liable for failure to perform it.[67]

56. Ark.—Louisiana, etc., R. Co. v. Mason, 183 S.W. 977, 122 Ark. 477, distinguishing Rock Island, etc., R. Co. v. Stevens, 105 S.W. 1032, 108 S.W. 517, 84 Ark. 436, 16 L.R.A.,N.S., 1132.
10 C.J. p 825 note 27.

57. Ala.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Fuqua, 65 So. 396, 187 Ala. 464, 52 L.R.A.,N.S., 668.
Ark.—Louisiana & A. Ry. Co. v. Mason, 183 S.W. 977, 122 Ark. 477.

58. Ark.—Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. Blundell, 191 S.W. 940, 127 Ark. 82.
Ky.—Pence v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 64 S.W. 905, 23 Ky.L. 1207.

Duty to back train

Carrier, on being informed for the first time after passing a station that a passenger, although having ticket for another station, desired to get off at the station passed, was under no duty to back the train to the station.—New Orleans & N.E.R. Co. v. Martin, 105 So. 864, 140 Miss. 410.

Failure of passenger to proffer ticket

Where the passenger does not proffer his ticket or call it to the attention of the conductor when he collects the tickets of other passengers who boarded the train at the same station, the carrier is not liable for not stopping the train at the station for which such passenger holds a ticket.—Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. Blundell, 191 S.W. 940, 127 Ark. 82.

59. Ark.—Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. Blundell, 191 S.W. 940, 127 Ark. 82.—Rock Island, etc., R. Co. v. Stevens, 105 S.W. 1032, 108 S.W. 517, 84 Ark. 436, 16 L.R.A.,N.S., 1132.
10 C.J. p 826 note 31.

60. Ark.—Rock Island, etc., R. Co. v. Stevens, 105 S.W. 1032, 108 S.W. 517, 84 Ark. 436, 16 L.R.A.,N.S., 1132.
Ga.—Chattanooga, etc., R. Co. v. Lyon, 15 S.E. 24, 89 Ga. 16, 32 Am.S.R. 72, 15 L.R.A. 857.
10 C.J. p 825 note 28, p 826 note 30

61. Ark.—Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. Blundell, 191 S.W. 940, 127 Ark. 82.—Rock Island, etc., R. Co. v. Stevens, 105 S.W. 1032, 108 S.W. 517, 84 Ark. 436, 16 L.R.A.,N.S., 1132.

Need to collect only two tickets

Where a conductor had only two tickets to collect before reaching the flag station at which plaintiff desired to alight, he cannot excuse his failure to stop the train at that point on the ground that he supposed plaintiff was one of a party riding on a single ticket.—Louisiana & A. Ry. Co. v. Mason, 183 S.W. 977, 122 Ark. 477.

62. Ala.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Fuqua, 65 So. 396, 187 Ala. 464, 52 L.R.A.,N.S., 668.
Tex.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Glass, 102 S.W. 477, 46 Tex.Civ.App. 126.—San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. Dykes, Civ.App., 45 S.W. 758
However, it has also been held in Texas that it is the duty of a passenger holding a ticket to a flag station to inform the conductor of his destination.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Ryan, 18 S.W. 866, 4 Tex.A.Civ.Cas. § 305.

63. Tex.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Glass, 102 S.W. 477, 46 Tex.Civ. App. 126.

64. S.C.—Matthews v. Charleston, etc., R. Co., 17 S.E. 225, 38 S.C. 429, 37 Am.S.R. 773.

Custom

A passenger cannot complain of a railroad company's refusal to put her off at a flag station short of the destination named in her ticket, although she had previously been permitted to get on and off at such station, where there is no allegation that it was ever the custom of the company so to accommodate the passengers.—Matthews v. Charleston, etc., R. Co., 17 S.E. 225, 38 S.C. 429, 37 Am.S.R. 773.

65. Pa.—Jagger v. People's St. R. Co., 36 A. 867, 180 Pa. 436, 38 L.R.A. 786.
10 C.J. p 826 note 33

66. Miss.—Wells v. Alabama Great Southern R. Co., 6 So. 737, 67 Miss. 24.

67. Ga.—Western R. Co. v. Young, 51 Ga. 489
Tex.—Hull v. East Line, etc., R. Co., 2 S.W. 331, 66 Tex. 619.
10 C.J. p 826 note 35.

Custom

A carrier may by custom establish policy of discharging passengers at places other than its depots

§ 657. Stopping at Platform or Suitable Place

The carrier must stop at the platform or other suitable place to enable passengers conveniently to alight.

The carrier must afford the passenger a reasonable opportunity to leave the car at a place safe and convenient for alighting.[68] The carrier should stop the train at the usual platform for discharging passengers at the place of destination, and cannot require the passenger to alight at an unusual or unsuitable place,[69] and it has been held that it is immaterial who owns the track on which the contracting carrier runs its cars into the station.[70] The carriers may, however, determine what part of its train shall be nearest the station when it stops.[71] If passengers are required to alight at any other point the carrier is liable for any injury to them resulting thereby,[72] unless by reason of a storm or other unavoidable accident the carrier is unable to stop its trains at the station.[73] Stopping the train merely a short distance past the usual place of debarkation is not a breach of the carrier's duty to stop at the destination if the train stops in the immediate vicinity,[74] but where the train carries a passenger beyond the immediate vicinity before it stops the carrier is liable for the injuries caused thereby,[75] and it cannot relieve itself from liability for the actual damages sustained by offering to take the passenger to the next station,[76] or by backing the train to the station.[77]

A street car must stop on the near side of the intersection when such is required by ordinance.[78]

A freight train carrying passengers should stop its caboose reasonably near the platform, regard being had to the surrounding situation and location.[79] In such cases a usage of stopping the car carrying passengers at some distance from the station platform, provided a reasonable opportunity to alight is afforded, is not improper,[80] but in the absence of any rule, regulation, or custom to that effect, it is the duty of the carrier to transport such a passenger to the place where its passengers are usually received and discharged from regular passenger trains.[81]

Duty to back or forward trains. Where a train is stopped near a station, or is so stopped that the passenger cars are not alongside the platform, it is ordinarily the duty of the conductor, if requested by any passenger, to move the train backward or forward, as desired, to enable the passengers to alight on the platform,[82] but where a passenger is carried past the station the carrier is not required in all cases to back the train to the station, the question of its duty so to do depending on the circumstances, including the distance the train has traveled before the mistake is discovered.[83] If a pas-or stations.—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S.W.2d 356, 240 Ky. 1.

68. Mo.—Gott v. Kansas City Rys Co., 222 S.W. 827.
10 C.J. p 826 note 36.
Care required in providing safe place for getting on board or alighting see infra § 716.

69. Mo.—Payne v. Davis, 252 S.W. 57, 298 Mo. 645.
10 C.J. p 826 note 37.

70. Ky.—Southern R. Co. v. Miller, 110 S.W. 351, 33 Ky.L. 505

71. N.C. — Anderson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 77 S.E. 402, 161 N.C. 462

72. S.C.—Martin v. Southern R. Co., 58 S.E. 3, 77 S.C. 370, 122 Am.S.R. 574.
10 C.J. p 826 note 38.

73. N.Y.—Cormack v. New York, etc., R. Co., 90 N.E. 56, 196 N.Y. 442, 24 L.R.A.,N.S., 1209, 17 Ann. Cas. 949.
10 C.J. p 827 note 39.

74. Ala.—Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry. v. Campbell, 101 So. 615, 212 Ala. 27.

Stopping automobile a few yards beyond gate

Driver of automobile truck, by which employees for small consideration were being driven to their homes, did not breach contract of carriage by stopping a few yards beyond employee's gate, instead of directly opposite it, where there were no impediments or inconveniences in the way of employee in reaching his home from where truck stopped.—Dantzler Shipbuilding & Dry Docks Co. v. Hurley, 81 So. 163, 119 Miss. 473, 4 A.L.R. 1487, suggestion of error denied 81 So. 406

75. Ga.—Payne v. Meadows, 109 S.E. 169, 27 Ga.App. 412.

Carrying sick passenger several hundred yards beyond station

Where a very sick and feeble passenger was carried several hundred yards past her station, resulting in her missing her husband, who was waiting at the station with a closed car, and also resulting in a relapse of influenza, the carrier was held liable.—Payne v. Meadows, 109 S.E. 169, 27 Ga.App. 412.

76. Ark.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Coxwell, 30 S.W.2d 209, 182 Ark. 145

77. Miss.—New Orleans & N. E. R. Co. v. Myers, 106 So. 531, 140 Miss 789.

Missing conveyance at station

Where a passenger is negligently carried beyond and out of sight of the station, damages from missing a conveyance to meet the train at the station and having to walk home in a storm are recoverable.—New Orleans & N. E. R. Co. v. Myers, 106 So. 531, 140 Miss. 789.

78. Va.—Virginia Ry. & Power Co. v. Taylor, 132 S.E. 334, 144 Va. 496.

Authority to disregard ordinance

Director of public safety was held to exceed authority in authorizing street railroad to disregard ordinance requiring street cars to stop on near side of intersection.—Virginia Ry. & Power Co. v. Taylor, 132 S.E. 334, 144 Va. 496.

79. Ind.—New York, etc., R. Co. v. Doane, 17 N.E. 913, 115 Ind. 435, 7 Am.S.R. 451, 1 L.R.A. 157
10 C.J. p 827 note 42.

80. Wis.—Hemmingway v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 31 N.W. 268, 67 Wis. 668.
10 C.J. p 827 note 42.

81. Mo.—Adams v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 12 S.W. 637, 13 S.W. 509, 100 Mo. 555

82. Ind.—New York, etc., R. Co. v. Doane, 17 N.E. 913, 115 Ind. 435, 7 Am.S.R. 451, 1 L.R.A. 157.
10 C.J. p 827 note 44.

83. Miss.—Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Hardie, 55 So. 42, 967, 100 Miss.

senger who has been carried past his station has notice of the nature of the place where he is asked to get off, which, to his knowledge, is dangerous, his failure to object to alighting there will amount to a waiver of his right to be carried back,[84] but if he is not aware of the fact that he is carried beyond his station, his failure to demand that he be taken back is not a waiver of his right, and does not discharge the company's obligation to put him off at the proper place.[85] Where it is necessary to carry a passenger beyond his station, it is the duty of the carrier to notify him of its purpose as to returning to the station, and, if it fails so to do, it is negligent, and liable to the passenger for any damage caused thereby.[86]

§ 658. Penalty for Failure to Stop at Station

Under statutes so providing, railroad companies may be subject to penalties for failure to stop their trains at certain stations.

Statutes varying somewhat in phraseology which provide a penalty for the failure or refusal of railroad companies to stop their trains at certain stations have been held constitutional as a valid exercise of the police power of the state; and, where the federal government has not taken any affirmative action on the subject, under its power to regulate interstate commerce, such a statute applies to an interstate railroad.[87] These statutes are to be strictly construed, and, to warrant the imposition of the punishment provided, the proof must bring the company accused of its violation clearly within the provisions of the law; courts have no power to extend such enactments to cases not clearly within their terms,[88] nor can usage or custom be held to extend the terms of these statutes.[89] Hence it has been held that such a provision does not apply to flag stations, but only to regularly advertised stopping places.[90] Where the carrier has a just or legal excuse for refusing to stop, such as weather conditions making it dangerous so to do, it may constitute a good defense to an action for the penalty,[91] but this does not apply to causes for the refusal for which the carrier alone is responsible.[92] If the right to the penalty is given only to one who has paid the regular fare, one who has purchased a ticket at a reduced rate cannot recover the penalty for failure to discharge him at his destination.[93]

County seats. Statutes which provide that all regular passenger trains run by any common carrier operating a railroad shall stop a sufficient time at all county seats within the state to take on and discharge passengers from such trains with safety have been held to be a valid exercise of the police power of the state.[94]

Crossings or junctions. A statute which requires railroad companies to stop all trains carrying passengers at the junctions of other railroads to allow the transfer of passengers, personal baggage, etc., from the trains of the intersecting roads does not require such roads to stop all trains at each intersection, whether or not there are any persons, baggage, etc., from the intersecting road to be transferred; but, in order to establish a case under this statute, it is necessary to prove that, on a day specified, the railroad company failed to stop a train at a junction point when there was a passenger or baggage from the connecting railroad to be transferred and carried on the train not stopping.[95] Likewise, such a statute which requires passenger trains to be stopped when two trains are due at the crossing or junction at practically the same time, does not apply to a train not due at the junction near the same time as another where passengers arriving on one road have reasonable opportunity to take the next train at the depot.[96]

132, 34 L.R.A.,N.S., 740, 742, Ann. Cas.1914A 323

Va.—Hines v. Garrett, 108 S.E. 690, 131 Va. 125.

84. Tex.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Head, 15 S.W. 504, 4 Tex.A.Civ Cas. § 209.

85. Mo.—Winkler v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 21 Mo.App. 99.

86. Miss.—Natchez, etc., R. Co. v. Lambert, 54 So. 836, 99 Miss. 310, 37 L.R.A.,N.S., 264.

87. U.S.—Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Ohio, Ohio, 19 S.Ct. 465, 173 U.S 285, 43 L.Ed. 702.
10 C.J. p 827 note 49.

88. Ill.—Lake Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Peo., 42 Ill.App. 387.
S.C.—Rountree v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 53 S.E. 424, 73 S.C. 268.
10 C.J. p 828 note 52.

89. Ill.—Lake Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Peo., 42 Ill.App. 387.

90. S.C.—Rountree v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 53 S.E. 424, 73 S.C 268—Milhous v. Southern R. Co., 52 S.E 41, 72 S.C. 442, 110 Am S.R. 620
10 C.J. p 828 note 54.

91. Mich.—Reed v. Duluth, etc., R Co., 59 N.W. 144, 100 Mich. 507.

92. Mich.—Hoyt v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 71 N.W. 172, 112 Mich. 638
Crowded train and platform
It is no excuse that the train was so full, and that there were so many people at the station of plaintiff's destination waiting for the train, that the carrier determined it was unsafe to stop.—Hoyt v. Cleveland, etc., R. Co., 71 N.W. 172, 112 Mich. 638

93. Mont.—Miley v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 108 P. 5, 41 Mont. 51

94. U.S.—Gladson v. Minnesota, 17 S.Ct. 627, 166 U.S. 427, 41 L.Ed 1064, affirming 59 N.W. 487, 57 Minn. 385, 24 L.R.A. 502.
10 C.J. p 828 note 59.

95. Mo.—State v. St. Louis R. Co., 79 S.W. 714, 105 Mo.App. 207.
10 C.J. p 828 note 58.

96. Minn.—Brogger v. Chicago, St. P., M. & O. Ry. Co., 164 N.W. 368, 137 Minn 338, denying reargument 163 N.W. 662, 137 Minn. 338.

§ 659. Duty to Announce or Give Notice of Arrival at Station

a. In general
b. Sufficiency of notice

a. In General

The carrier must correctly announce or give notice of arrival of the train at the station.

A railroad company carrying passengers, in order to afford them opportunity to leave the train at their places of destination, is bound to give notice to such passengers by having the names of the different stations announced as the train approaches or arrives thereat,[97] particularly when so required by statute;[98] but a failure to comply with this duty is immaterial where the passenger is in no way misled thereby,[99] as where he knows that he has reached the station of his destination.[1] It has been held that, however, in the absence of a custom or statute requiring such announcement, the carrier is not negligent, as a matter of law, in failing to make it.[2]

A passenger, unless he knows that the station is some other than the one called, is warranted in relying on the announcement as being correct,[3] and misinformation, or failure to call the name of the station due to the fault of an employee within the scope of his authority, will render the carrier liable for injuries resulting therefrom,[4] as where the carrier negligently announces as the station to which the passenger is destined another and different station, and through no fault of the passenger he is thereby misled and induced to alight at a wrong station;[5] it is no excuse, in such a case, that the mistake in the announcement was made honestly.[6]

Flag station. A carrier has been held to be under no obligation to announce the arrival of the train at a flag station in the absence of notice that it has passengers for that station.[7]

Intermediate stations. As a general rule, where the conductor of a train knows the station at which a passenger intends to alight, it is not his duty as to such passenger to call out the names of intermediate stations.[8]

b. Sufficiency of Notice

A general announcement is usually sufficient, and personal notice to a passenger is unnecessary unless exceptional circumstances exist. Likewise there is no duty to awaken a passenger in the absence of special circumstances.

Generally, the duty to give the passenger notice of arrival at the station is discharged by announcing the arrival of the train in a distinct and audible manner in each car, so that it may be heard by all passengers of ordinary hearing and paying ordinary attention,[9] a reasonable time before the arrival of the train at the station.[10] A general announcement is all that is required, and personal notice to each passenger of the station where he is to alight is not necessary,[11] although extraordinary circumstances, such as the conditions of age, sex, or physical infirmity of the passenger, may bring it within the scope of the conductor's duty toward a passenger to give him personal notice that his particular station has been reached.[12] The carrier

97. Ark.—Edwards v. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co., 203 S.W. 588, 134 Ark. 265.
La.—Cady v. New Orleans, T. & M. Ry. Co., 145 So. 680, 176 La. 341.
Okl.—Hill v. New, 212 P. 422, 88 Okl. 208.
S.C.—Gilkerson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 89 S.E. 549, 105 S. C. 132.
10 C.J. p. 828 note 61.
Corpus Juris is cited with approval in Faubion v. Minneapolis, St. P. & S. S. M. Ry. Co., 177 N.W. 371, 372, 45 N.D. 269.

98. Ky.—Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Robinson, 123 S.W. 308, 135 Ky. 850.

99. Ga.—Seaboard Air-Line R. Co. v. Rainey, 50 S.E. 88, 122 Ga. 307, 106 Am.S.R. 134, 2 Ann.Cas. 675.
10 C.J. p. 829 note 64.

1. La.—Cady v. New Orleans, T. & M. Ry. Co., 145 So. 680, 176 La. 341.
10 C.J. p. 829 note 65.

2. Ga.—Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. Dickerson, 15 S.E. 534, 89 Ga. 455.
10 C.J. p. 829 note 66.

3. S.C.—Belcher v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 177 S.E. 890, 175 S. C. 9.
Statement that train is stopping for water
A passenger had the right to rely on a statement of a train porter that a train was taking water, and is not guilty of contributory negligence in being carried past the station, although the train was in fact at the station at the time.—Houston E. & W. T. Ry. Co. v. Thorn, Tex.Civ. App., 197 S.W. 778.

4. S.C.—Wilson v. Southern R. Co., 75 S.E. 1014, 93 S.C. 17.
10 C.J. p. 829 note 67.

5. Ind.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Cook, 38 N.E. 1104, 12 Ind.App. 109.
Okl.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Henry, 149 P. 132, 46 Okl. 526.
Tex.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Richardson, Civ.App., 143 S.W. 722.

6. Ky.—Tennessee Cent. R. Co. v. Brasher, 97 S.W. 349, 29 Ky.L. 1277.

7. Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Whitaker, 300 S.W. 912, 222 Ky. 302.

8. Ala.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Myers, 70 So. 186, 14 Ala.App. 310.
Ind.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Cook, 38 N.E. 1104, 12 Ind.App. 109.

9. Ala.—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Smith, 117 So. 74, 217 Ala. 501, 58 A.L.R. 1058.
Ark.—St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co. v. Needham, 184 S.W. 47, 122 Ark. 584.
10 C.J. p. 829 note 76.

10. Ala.—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Barnitz, 84 So. 474, 17 Ala. App. 201.
10 C.J. p. 829 note 73.

11. Ala.—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Smith, 117 So. 74, 217 Ala. 501, 58 A.L.R. 1058.
Ark.—Edwards v. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co., 203 S.W. 588, 134 Ark. 265.
Ky.—Strong v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 43 S.W.2d 11, 240 Ky. 781.
10 C.J. p. 829 note 73.

12. Ala.—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Smith, 117 So. 74, 217 Ala. 501, 58 A.L.R. 1058.
10 C.J. p. 829 note 72.

need not insure that a passenger will hear such an announcement,[13] and in the absence of knowledge of a passenger's infirmity the carrier is not responsible if the announcement is not properly heard by a passenger who is deaf.[14]

The announcement of the station need not be made by the conductor personally, and it is sufficient if it is made by any employee of the carrier,[15] but an announcement by a person not an employee of the company is not binding on the carrier.[16] Any promise to give special notice will be deemed beyond the authority of the conductor or other agent, and not binding on the carrier,[17] unless exceptional circumstances exist.[18]

Awakening passenger. Generally, there is no duty to awaken a passenger in order to advise him that his destination is reached and to enable him to get off the train,[19] and a failure to comply with a promise made by the conductor to that effect whereby the passenger is carried beyond his station will impose no liability on the company.[20] This rule has been limited in its application, however, and it has been held that if the conductor sees a passenger asleep at his destination or if he has cause to expect that a passenger will be asleep at his destination he has the duty to awaken him or to see that he is awake.[21] Likewise, the carrier may be held liable for breach of the conductor's promise to awaken a passenger who becomes exhausted because the train is late,[22] or for the conductor's failure to comply with his promise to awaken and to assist a disabled passenger.[23]

It has been held that it is the duty of the railroad company to awaken seasonably a passenger who has a sleeping car ticket to an intermediate point on its line, so that he may safely and comfortably prepare to make the change and to continue his journey to the point on the line called for by his passenger ticket,[24] although there is also a corresponding duty on the part of the sleeping car company, as shown infra § 909.

§ 660. Duty in Connection with Alighting of Passenger

In the absence of special circumstances, the carrier owes no duty to see that a passenger does in fact leave the train at his proper station, but the train or conveyance must remain stopped for a reasonable length of time.

In the absence of special circumstances the carrier performs its whole duty after conveying the passenger to his destination and giving him notice, by affording him a reasonable opportunity to leave the train,[25] and it is then the duty of the passenger to exercise reasonable care with regard to alighting

13. Ky.—Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Robinson, 123 S.W. 308, 135 Ky. 850.

14. Tex.—Texas Midland R. Co. v. Terry, 65 S.W. 697, 27 Tex.Civ. App. 341.

15. Ga.—Southern R. Co. v. O'Bryan, 42 S.E. 42, 115 Ga. 659.

16. Ind.—Columbus, etc., R. Co. v. Farrell, 31 Ind 408—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Cook, 38 N.E. 1104, 12 Ind.App. 109.
10 C.J. p 830 note 80.

17. Miss.—Gage v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 21 So. 657, 75 Miss. 17.
Tex.—St Louis Southwestern R. Co. v. McCullough, 45 S.W. 324, 18 Tex.Civ.App. 534.

18. Ala.—Central of Georgia Ry. Co v. Smith, 117 So 74, 217 Ala. 501, 58 A.L.R. 1058—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Quick, 28 So. 14, 125 Ala. 553.

Old and infirm lady passenger

Where the conductor promised an old and infirm lady passenger, unaccustomed to riding on trains, that he would notify her of the arrival at her destination, it was held that she was under no duty to listen to, or depend upon, the call of the brakeman.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Quick, 28 So. 14, 125 Ala. 553.

19. Okl.—Hill v. New, 212 P. 422, 88 Okl 208.
10 C.J. p 830 note 81.

Duty to arouse every passenger

There is no duty on the conductor to go through a day coach and arouse every passenger.—Gilkerson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 89 S.E. 549, 105 S.C. 132.

20. Ga.—Nunn v. Georgia R. Co., 71 Ga. 710, 51 Am.R. 284.
10 C.J. p 830 note 82.

21. S.C.—Gilkerson v Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 89 S.E. 549, 105 S.C. 132.

Incidental to duty to assist passengers

The question is not whether it is the duty, ordinarily, of a conductor to awake a sleeping passenger, but whether it is his duty to render assistance to a passenger, in order that he may alight from the train at the proper time, when his physical condition renders such assistance necessary, and the conductor has knowledge of such fact. Under such circumstances, a promise on the part of the conductor is merely incidental to his duty to render assistance to passengers, in getting off the train when he has notice of the fact, that his aid is needed.—Gilkerson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 83 S.E. 592, 99 S.C. 426, L.R.A.1915C 664, Ann. Cas 1914B 248.

Promise to awaken very tired passenger

The carrier has been held liable for breach of the conductor's promise to awaken a passenger who announced that he was very tired and probably would not be awake when he reached his destination at an early hour in the morning.—Gilkerson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 83 S.E 592, 99 S.C. 426, L.R.A.1915C 664, Ann.Cas.1916B 248

22. Ala.—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Smith, 117 So. 74, 217 Ala. 501, 58 A.L.R. 1058.

23. Miss.—Weightman v Louisville, etc., R Co., 12 So. 586, 70 Miss. 563, 35 Am.S.R 660, 19 L.R.A. 671.
Wis.—Nelson v Chicago, etc., R. Co., 109 N.W 933, 130 Wis. 214.
10 C.J. p 830 note 83.

24. Ala.—Pullman Co. v. Lutz, 45 So. 675, 154 Ala. 517, 129 Am.S.R 67, 14 L.R.A.,N.S., 907.
La.—Airey v. Pullman Palace Car Co., 23 So. 512, 50 La.Ann. 648

25. S.C.—Gilkerson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 89 S.E 549, 105 S.C. 132.
10 C.J. p 830 note 87.

Corpus Juris has been quoted with at the proper place or station,[26] and without unnecessary delay.[27] There is no obligation on the carrier in an ordinary case to see that the passenger does in fact leave the train at his proper station,[28] or to furnish him assistance in doing so see infra § 727, unless the passenger becomes ill or is suffering from a disability to the knowledge of the carrier, making assistance necessary, or requiring a longer delay,[29] in which case notice of such fact should be given to the conductor.[30] The carrier ordinarily need not assist or care for a passenger after it has properly delivered him at his destination, as while he makes preparation further to continue his journey,[31] but where the carrier negligently permits a passenger to leave the train at a station, knowing that such station is not the passenger's destination, and knowing or having reason to know that the passenger believes such station to be his destination, without warning him of the mistake he is making, it will be liable to such passenger for such actual damages as proximately result to him from such negligence, and in such a case it is the duty of the trainman, at the passenger's request, to signal the train to stop and to give him opportunity to reboard the same.[32] There is no breach of duty in failing to open the door at a station which is not the passenger's ticket destination where the passenger has given no notice of his change of destination.[33]

Length of time of stopping. It is the duty of the carrier to stop for a reasonable length of time to enable the passenger in the exercise of due diligence safely to leave its train or car,[34] and it is not sufficient that the speed of the train or car is merely slackened,[35] unless there is an agreement to that effect, in which case the speed should be so checked that the passenger may get off safely.[36]

§ 661. Time of Transportation; Delay

The carrier must exercise ordinary care and skill to carry a passenger to his destination within a reasonable time and if it does so it is not liable, in the absence of a special contract, for an unavoidable delay. It must exercise due care to make advertised connections with connecting trains and to conform to published timetables.

It is the duty of the carrier to exercise ordinary care and skill to carry a passenger to his destination within a reasonable time,[37] and the carrier is liable for damages arising from an unreasonable delay occasioned by the fault or negligence of the employees in charge of the carrier's business,[38] even though the fault of such employees is willful.[39] Such a delay is not excused by a statutory prohibition against the carrier's employees remaining on duty more than a specified number of consecutive hours.[40] The carrier, however, is not an insurer approval in McCarron v. Erie R. Co., 159 A. 807, 10 N.J Misc 498.

26. Tex.—St. Louis Southwestern R Co. v. Ricketts, 54 S.W. 1090, 22 Tex.Civ.App. 515

27. Tex.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Kendrick, Civ.App., 32 S.W. 42.
10 C.J. p 830 note 89.

28. La.—Cady v. New Orleans, T. & M. Ry. Co., 145 So. 680, 176 La. 341.
10 C.J p 830 note 90.

29. Ga.—Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Madden, 69 S.E. 165, 135 Ga. 205, 31 L.R.A.,N.S., 813, 21 Ann.Cas. 1077.
S.C.—Gilkerson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 83 S.E. 592, 99 S.C. 426, L.R.A.1915C 664, Ann.Cas 1916B 248.
10 C.J. p 830 note 92.

30. Miss.—New Orleans, etc., R. Co. v. Statham, 42 Miss. 607, 97 Am. D. 478.
10 C.J. p 831 note 93.

Liability for death of passenger

A railroad is not liable for the death of a sick passenger carried, helpless and unconscious past his destination, because of its failure to discharge or to assist the passenger from the train when it stopped, where it has had no knowledge of the passenger's condition and no circumstances existed from which it should have learned of it.—Bullington v. Texas & N. O. R. Co., Tex.Civ. App., 300 S.W. 948.

31. Ala.—Waldrop v. Nashville, etc., R. Co., 62 So. 769, 183 Ala. 226.
Tex.—International, etc., R. Co. v. Doolan, 120 S.W. 1118, 56 Tex.Civ. App. 503
10 C.J. p 831 note 94.

32. S.C.—Campbell v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 65 S.E. 628, 83 S.C. 448, 23 L.R.A.,N.S., 1056, 137 Am. S.R. 824
10 C.J. p 831 notes 96, 97.

33. Miss.—New Orleans & N. E. R. Co. v. Martin, 105 So. 864, 140 Miss. 410.

34. La.—Cady v. New Orleans, T. & M. Ry. Co., 145 So. 680, 176 La. 341.
Okl.—Hill v. New, 212 P. 422, 88 Okl. 208.
S.C.—Gilkerson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 89 S.E. 549, 105 S.C. 132.
10 C.J. p 823 note 1.

Stopping at flag station

The carrier must stop the train at a flag station for a reasonable length of time to allow a passenger to alight.—Ft. Smith, etc., R. Co. v. Ford, 126 P. 745, 34 Okl. 575, 41 L.R.A.,N.S., 745—10 C.J. p 825 note 23.

35. Ala.—Montgomery, etc., R. Co. v. Stewart, 8 So. 708, 91 Ala. 421.
10 C.J. p 823 note 2.

36. Ga.—Western R. Co. v. Young, 51 Ga. 489.

37. Ala.—Alabama Great Southern R. Co. v. Conner, 151 So. 355, 227 Ala. 562, certiorari denied Conner v. Alabama Great Southern R. Co., 54 S.Ct. 531, 291 U.S. 675, 78 L.Ed. 1063
Ky.—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S.W.2d 356, 240 Ky. 1.—Paducah Traction Co. v. Weitlauf, 195 S.W. 99, 176 Ky. 82, L.R.A.1917F 353.
10 C.J. p 831 note 98.

38. N.Y.—Cormack v. New York, etc., R. Co., 90 N.E. 56, 196 N.Y. 442, 25 L.R.A.,N.S., 1209, 17 Ann. Cas. 949.
S.C.—Woodward v. Southern R. Co., 83 S.E. 591, 99 S.C. 251, L.R.A. 1915C 477.
10 C.J. p 831 note 1.

39. N.Y.—Weed v. Panama R. Co., 17 N.Y. 362, 72 Am.D. 474.
Wis.—Milwaukee, etc., R. Co. v. Finney, 10 Wis. 388.

40. S.C.—Black v. Charleston, etc., R. Co., 69 S.E. 230, 87 S.C. 241, 31 L.R.A.,N.S., 1184.

as to the time when a passenger will reach his destination, unless it makes a special contract to that effect.[41] Neither the ticket agent selling a ticket nor the conductor taking it has authority to make such a contract,[42] although the passenger may rely on the statements of the ticket agent, made at the time of the purchase of his ticket, with regard to the time of arrival of the train at his destination, rendering the carrier liable for misinformation,[43] and where in case of a delay the passenger, on the conductor's advice, takes the train of another line, on which he is also delayed, the first carrier has been held liable for such second delay.[44] In the absence of a special contract the carrier is not liable for a delay which is not due to negligence on its part,[45] as where it is caused by an act of God or inevitable accident,[46] or where the train is delayed by the wreck of another train, caused without negligence;[47] and in such a case the carrier is not bound by the conductor's promise to furnish the passenger other transportation.[48]

It has been held that, where the carrier has notice of the special engagements or business of its passengers, requiring that they be transported promptly, it will be liable for a failure to transport them in time to meet their engagements, if it is reasonably within its power so to do, in compliance with its contract,[49] but that where no such notice is given it is not responsible for a delay which might have been avoided if the notice had been given in time.[50]

One who boards as passenger a mixed freight and passenger train takes passage subject to the delays incident to that mode of conveyance,[51] but for any unreasonable delay considering that mode of conveyance, the passenger has redress for the actual damages occasioned thereby.[52]

Delay in starting. The failure of the carrier to start its train on time does not render the company liable to a passenger who is injured thereby, unless such failure constitutes a breach either of an express contract or of a legal obligation created by its published time-tables and notices,[53] or is due to a willful neglect of duty.[54]

Duty to make connections. The carrier owes the duty of due care to make advertised connections with connecting trains,[55] and in the absence of statute may guarantee a through connection with another train,[56] but a special contract by a common carrier with a passenger for a guaranteed connection with a certain train in an interstate journey is an "undue or unreasonable preference or advantage" prohibited by the federal statute, Interstate Commerce Act, 49 U.S.C.A. § 3 (1), and therefore unenforceable.[57] An agent having authority to

41. N.Y.—Cormack v. New York, etc., R. Co., 90 N.E. 56, 196 N.Y. 442, 24 L.R.A.,N.S., 1209, 17 Ann. Cas. 949.

42. N.Y.—Gerardy v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 102 N.Y.S. 548, 52 Misc. 466.

Statement that late train will make up time

A statement by a ticket agent, on selling a ticket to a passenger, that the train was late, but that it would make up for lost time and arrive at its destination on time, and a similar statement by the conductor on taking up the ticket, do not establish a special contract binding the carrier to carry the passenger on schedule time.—Gerardy v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 102 N.Y.S. 548, 52 Misc. 466.

43. Wash.—Turner v. Great Northern R. Co., 46 P. 243, 15 Wash. 213, 55 Am.S.R. 883.

10 C.J. p. 691 note 58.

'It is generally the fact that there is no other person than the ticket agent at a railroad station who can give travelers the necessary information as to the arrival, departure and running time of trains, and the rule, as formulated by a learned text writer, is, that passengers have a right, until otherwise informed, to rely on information received by them from ticket agents, in answer to inquiries concerning those matters, provided they do not disregard other reasonable means of information."—Turner v. Great Northern R. Co., 46 P. 243, 15 Wash. 213, 218, 55 Am.S.R. 883.

44. Wash.—Turner v. Great Northern R. Co., supra.

45. S.C.—Mulligan v. Southern R. Co., 65 S.E. 1040, 84 S.C. 171.

10 C.J. p. 831 note 9.

46. Ky.—Paducah Traction Co. v. Weitlauf, 195 S.W. 99, 176 Ky. 82, L.R.A.1917F 353.

10 C.J. p. 832 note 10.

47. Ky.—Southern R. Co. v. Miller, 110 S.W. 351, 129 Ky. 98, 102, 33 Ky.L. 505.

N.Y.—Cormack v. New York, etc., R. Co., 90 N.E. 56, 196 N.Y. 442, 24 L.R.A.,N.S., 1209, 17 Ann.Cas. 949.

48. Tex.—Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Rogers, 40 S.W. 201, 16 Tex.Civ.App. 19.

49. Ga.—Chappell v. Alabama Western R. Co., 70 S.E. 208, 8 Ga.App. 787.

10 C.J. p. 832 note 20.

50. Ga.—Georgia R. Co. v. Hayden, 71 Ga. 518, 51 Am.R. 274.

51. S.C.—Fort v. Southern R. Co., 42 S.E. 196, 64 S.C. 423.

52. Mo.—Green v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 97 S.W. 646, 121 Mo.App. 720.
S.C.—Fort v. Southern R. Co., 42 S.E. 196, 64 S.C. 423.

53. N.Y.—Gerardy v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 102 N.Y.S. 548, 52 Misc. 446.

10 C.J. p. 832 note 13.

54. Miss.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Hawkins, 74 So. 775, 114 Miss. 110, L.R.A.1917D 977.

Delay to accommodate other intending passengers

Railroad company, which delays passenger train two and one-half hours to accommodate other persons intending to become passengers, in violation of rights of another passenger, is guilty of "willful neglect of duty."—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Hawkins, 74 So. 775, 114 Miss. 110, L.R.A.1917D 977.

55. Ala.—Alabama Great Southern R. Co. v. Conner, 151 So. 355, 227 Ala. 562, certiorari denied Connor v. Alabama Great Southern R. Co., 54 S.Ct. 531, 291 U.S. 675, 78 L.Ed. 1063.

10 C.J. p. 832 note 24.

56. U.S.—Harmon v. Barber, Ohio, 247 F. 1, 159 C.C.A. 219, certiorari denied 38 S.Ct. 335, 246 U.S. 666, 62 L.Ed. 929.

57. Ala.—Alabama Great Southern R. Co. v. Conner, 151 So. 355, 227 make all usual and ordinary contracts of carriage may guarantee connection at an intermediate station,[58] and failure to make a connection after the passenger was induced to buy his ticket by information that it would be made entitles the passenger to recover.[59] A statement by the agent that the train would make close connections at a certain point is not a guaranty that connection will be made.[60]

Obligation to conform to time tables. The publication of a time-table imposes on the railroad company the obligation to exercise all reasonable care and diligence to make the movements of its train correspond thereto,[61] but this obligation is not absolute and unconditional,[62] particularly where the time-table contains a condition that the carrier does not guarantee the punctuality of its trains, of which condition the passenger has, or is chargeable with, knowledge,[63] and therefore in the absence of a special contract the carrier will be liable for not running on schedule time only where the delay is caused by its negligence.[64] The fact that schedules of trains are still in circulation, although they have in fact been abrogated, does not bind the company to run its trains in accordance with such schedules,[65] nor is the company bound to run a train according to a working time-table which is issued only for the information of employees, and not for the information of the public.[66]

Penalty for failure to start the train from the point of origin on schedule time as required by the railroad commission is considered in § 569 supra.

§ 662. Actions

An action may be maintained for a breach in the performance of a carrier's contract or duty to transport.

An action may be maintained against the carrier for a breach in the performance of its contract or duty to transport.[67]

§ 663. Nature and Form

In case of a breach by the carrier of its duty or contract to transport a passenger, the latter, as stated and discussed in the C.J.S. title Actions § 49 e (5), ordinarily has a choice of remedies, and may sue either on the contract of transportation, or in tort for the breach of duty imposed by law, although under some circumstances the action must be in contract, and under others in tort.

§ 664. Jurisdiction and Venue

In the absence of a special statute, a passenger may bring suit in the county where the breach of the carrier's duty originated.

A passenger may bring suit in the county where the failure on the part of the carrier to discharge its duty originated, and use transactions occurring in other counties as mere matters of aggravation.[68] Under statutes so providing, an action for breach of contract of transportation should be brought in the county where the contract was made,[69] and an action for injuries to a passenger due to his being carried past his destination may be brought either in the county where the injury occurred, or where plaintiff resided at the time of the injury.[70]

§ 665. Pleading

a. Declaration, petition, or complaint
b. Plea, answer, or replication
c. Issues, proof, and variance

Ala. 562, certiorari denied Connor v. Alabama Great Southern R. Co., 54 S.Ct. 531, 291 U.S. 675, 78 L.Ed. 1063.

58. U.S.—Harmon v. Barber, Ohio, 247 F. 1, 159 C.C.A. 219, certiorari denied 38 S.Ct. 335, 246 U.S. 666, 62 L.Ed. 929.
10 C.J. p 691 note 60.

59. S.C.—Cleckley v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 90 S.E. 32, 105 S.C. 423.

Customary connection

In spite of a schedule misconnection of fifteen minutes, if it was customary to hold a train to make a connection, and a passenger, relying on the conductor's statement that he could make it, took his ticket by such route, and although the ticket agent told him he could not make it, the passenger could recover on failure to connect.—Cleckley v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 90 S.E. 32, 105 S.C. 423.

Willfulness negatived

Willfulness in failing to make connections is negatived where the schedule shows a misconnection, and when a passenger took his ticket by such connecting point, the carrier took him on a limited train to a nonstop station, to avoid delay.—Cleckley v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 90 S.E. 32, 105 S.C. 423.

60. S.C.—Latour v. Southern R. Co., 51 S.E. 265, 71 S.C. 532.

61. N.Y.—Cormack v. New York, etc., R. Co., 90 N.E. 56, 196 N.Y. 442, 24 L.R.A.,N.S., 1209, 17 Ann. Cas. 949.
10 C.J. p 832 note 23.

62. N.Y.—Cormack v. New York, etc., R. Co., supra—Slater v. Jewett, 85 N.Y. 61, 39 Am.R. 627
10 C.J. p 832 note 25.

63. S.C.—Mulligan v. Southern R. Co., 65 S.E. 1040, 84 S.C. 171.

64. Tex.—St Louis Southwestern R. Co. v. White, 89 S.W. 746, 99 Tex. 359, 122 Am.S.R. 631, 2 L.R.A.,N.S., 110, 13 Ann.Cas. 965.
10 C.J. p 832 note 27.

65. U.S.—Ohage v. Northern Pac. R. Co., Minn., 200 F. 128, 118 C.C.A. 302.
10 C.J. p 801 note 11.

66. Mich.—Geer v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 106 N.W. 72, 142 Mich. 511.

67. Ala.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Robinson, 105 So. 874, 213 Ala. 522—Birmingham Ry. Light & Power Co. v. Elmit, 60 So. 982, 6 Ala. App. 657.
Ky.—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S.W.2d 356, 240 Ky. 1.

68. Ga.—Southern Ry. Co. v. O'Bryan, 37 S.E. 161, 112 Ga. 127.

69. Ky.—Southern R. Co. v. Cassell, 92 S.W. 281, 28 Ky.L. 1230.
10 C.J. p 843 note 97.

70. Tex.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Ward, 124 S.W. 130, 58 Tex.Civ.App. 210.

a. Declaration, Petition, or Complaint

As in other civil actions, the declaration, petition, or complaint must allege all matters essential for recovery.

In accordance with the rules regulating pleadings in civil actions generally, in an action against a carrier arising out of a breach of contract to transport a passenger, the declaration, petition, or complaint must allege facts constituting plaintiff's cause of action, such as his right to transportation,[71] a breach of the contract or duty on the part of defendant,[72] and other particular facts which plaintiff relies on as constituting his cause of action.[73] A petition which discloses the relationship of carrier and passenger, the duty arising therefrom, and the breach thereof is sufficient.[74]

In an action for a failure to stop or refusal to transport, plaintiff must allege that he was ready and willing to pay the legal or reasonable fare for such transportation,[75] that defendant failed or refused to transport him,[76] and that it was the duty of the carrier to stop the train or car at that particular station or place.[77] Where by a special agree-

71. Ala.—Southern R. Co. v. Melton, 47 So 1008, 158 Ala. 404.
10 C.J. p 844 note 2.

Refusal of admission to limited train

In an action by plaintiff who held ticket from Reno to San Francisco, but who was denied admission to a limited train, the complaint, setting forth the rules of the carrier and the circumstances and seeking recovery on the ground of breach of contract, was held not to state cause of action, the rules of the company pleaded declaring a ticket for such transportation to be a local ticket, notwithstanding "local ticket" is ordinarily defined with relation to railroads as traffic confined to a single road, and such rules further requiring a local passenger to hold either a sleeping car ticket or a permit showing that a through passenger would share such accommodations, and the complaint not alleging plaintiff had the required ticket or such a permit.—Summerfield v. Hines, 197 P. 690, 45 Nev. 60.

Payment of fare

Passenger's allegation that common carrier subway railroad, in consideration of fare paid by passenger, agreed safely to carry passenger and to take appropriate precautions for his care and safety during course of his passage, was proper statement of contractual engagement arising by operation of law, and would be deemed a nontraversable allegation on proof that passenger in usual course paid fare prescribed by railroad for passage.—Barad v. New York Rapid Transit Corporation, 295 N.Y.S. 901, 162 Misc. 458.

72. Ala.—Southern R. Co. v. Melton, 47 So. 1008, 158 Ala. 404.
Ga.—Brown v. Georgia, etc., R. Co., 46 S.E. 71, 119 Ga. 88.

Construction with view to substantial justice

Construing the pleading with a view to substantial justice, as required by Civ.Prac.Act § 123, an allegation that a particular rule of a carrier was in force in April will not, in an action for breach of contract in July for transportation as a passenger, be disregarded, but will be accepted as an allegation that the rule was in force at the time the contract was made.—Summerfield v. Hines, 197 P. 690, 45 Nev. 60.

Allegation in alternative

A passenger being entitled to complain of the simple negligence of the carrier's conductor, the complaint was not insufficient because it alleged in the alternative that he recklessly, willfully, or wantonly failed to put plaintiff off at his destination.—Birmingham Ry., Light & Power Co. v. Elmit, 60 So. 982, 6 Ala.App. 657.

73. Ala.—Conner v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 128 So. 789, 221 Ala. 358.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Penny, 114 So 15, 22 Ala.App. 199.
Ga.—Southern R. Co v. Wallis, 66 S.E. 370, 133 Ga. 553, 30 L.R.A.,N.S., 401, 18 Ann.Cas. 67.
10 C.J. p 844 note 4.

Description of place where passenger alighted

Where passenger was carried beyond her station, it was permissible to describe the place in the petition where she was caused to alight and surroundings contributing to her fright.—Pullman Co v. Strang, 132 S.E. 399, 35 Ga.App. 59.

Items of damage

In an action against a carrier for refusing to transport a passenger, a petition alleging that she suffered actual damages in a specified sum, including among other items one for medicine and doctors, but not alleging that she paid the sum claimed, or assumed to pay it, or that it was a reasonable charge, did not support a recovery for such item.—Gulf, C. & S. F Ry. Co. v. Gordon, Tex. Civ.App., 218 S.W. 74.

Petitions held insufficient

Ala.—Conner v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 128 So. 789, 221 Ala. 358.
10 C.J. p 844 note 4 [b].

74. Ala.—Louisville & N. R. Co v. McCue, 114 So. 218, 216 Ala. 616, 61 A.L.R. 400
10 C.J. p 843 note 1 [a] [b], p 844 note 4 [a].

Complaint held sufficient

(1) A count alleging that plaintiff was a passenger for hire on a train which stopped at an intermediate station, that an announcement was made by the persons in charge that twenty minutes would be allowed for breakfast, that plaintiff left her infant child in charge of a porter, and that before the announced time elapsed the train departed without her, was held to disclose the relationship of carrier and passenger, the duty arising therefrom, and the negligent breach.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. McCue, 114 So. 218, 216 Ala. 616, 61 A.L.R. 400

(2) A complaint in an action for carrying woman passenger beyond destination, which was merely a flag station, in consequence of which person waiting for her there left before train brought her back.—Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry. v. Campbell, 101 So. 615, 212 Ala. 27.

(3) A complaint alleging that plaintiff was a passenger on a train, that defendant failed to announce her station, whereupon she was carried beyond the same, etc., to her injury.—Alabama Great Southern Ry. Co. v. Lawrence, 77 So. 432, 16 Ala.App. 382

(4) Petition alleging trainmen carried passenger and family beyond station, that passenger and family were put off in rain, and had to walk back to station, resulting in illness.—Cady v. New Orleans, T. & M. Ry. Co., 145 So. 680, 176 La. 341.

75. Ind.—Sage v. Evansville, etc., R. Co., 33 N.E. 771, 134 Ind. 100.
10 C.J. p 844 note 5.

76. Ga.—Brown v. Georgia, etc., R. Co., 46 S.E. 71, 119 Ga. 88.
10 C.J. p 844 note 6.

Negligence vel non

No question of negligence vel non need be averred if plaintiff was unlawfully rejected when relation of carrier and passenger existed.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Robinson, 105 So. 874, 213 Ala. 522.

77. Ga.—Battle v. Georgia R., etc., Co., 48 S.E. 338, 120 Ga. 994.

Failure of street car to stop

In an action against a street railroad company for its failure to stop a car in response to a signal by an intending passenger, plaintiff must ment a railroad company obligates itself to stop a train at a particular station on a certain day to take on a passenger, in an action for a failure to perform this duty it need not be alleged that the train was scheduled to stop at such station.[78] If the action is for a failure or refusal to let the passenger off at his destination, and for carrying him beyond, or putting him down short of, his destination, plaintiff must allege that the place at which he desired to stop was one at which by law, or by the carrier's regulations, it was the duty of the carrier to stop the train,[79] or that by a special contract he was entitled to be discharged at that station,[80] and that it negligently failed or refused to stop the train a reasonably sufficient time for him to alight;[81] but where the action is based on the misinformation of the station agent in directing a passenger to a through train which did not stop at his destination, it is not necessary for the petition to aver that the train was scheduled to stop there.[82] An allegation that the carrier failed to put a passenger off at his destination is insufficient in the absence of further allegations showing circumstances which imposed that duty on the carrier.[83]

In an action for the breach of a contract of carriage under a ticket to a point beyond the line of the road selling it, there should be an allegation that defendant and the road which sold the ticket were joint contractors, or that the latter had authority to bind defendant by the issuance of the ticket.[84]

b. Plea, Answer, or Replication

The plea or answer should set out all facts establishing a defense to the action. A replication that a rule claimed to have been violated by plaintiff is unreasonable is improperly addressed to the plea of general issue.

In accordance with the rules of pleading generally, the plea or answer should set out facts establishing a defense to the action, such as that the injury to plaintiff was caused by his own negligence and not by negligence on the part of defendant.[85] An affirmative defense must be specially pleaded.[86]

In a suit for refusal to issue a transfer, a replication that a rule which defendant claimed was violated by plaintiff is unreasonable is improperly addressed to the plea of general issue.[87]

c. Issues, Proof, and Variance

General rules governing issues, proof, and variance apply in actions of this character. Proof must be confined to the pleadings.

Such matters only as are properly put in issue by the pleadings and proof and are material need be considered.[88] Plaintiff can introduce evidence and recover only on such cause of action as is properly alleged by him[89] and on proof of all material matters alleged.[90] Likewise, defendant can introduce evidence and rely only on such matters of defense as are properly put in issue by its pleadings.[91] allege facts which show that it was the duty of the company to stop the particular car in question for the purpose of taking on plaintiff as a passenger.—Battle v. Georgia R., etc., Co., 48 S.E. 338, 120 Ga. 994—Battle v. Georgia R., etc., Co., 48 S.E. 337, 120 Ga. 992.

78. Ind.—Evansville, etc., R. Co. v. Wilson, 50 N.E. 90, 20 Ind.App. 5.

79. Ala.—Lamb v. Mitchell, 80 So. 151, 16 Ala.App. 577.
10 C.J. p. 845 note 7.

80. Ind.—Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. Hatton, 60 Ind. 12—Evansville, etc., R. Co. v. Wilson, 50 N.E. 90, 20 Ind.App. 5.

81. Ala.—Birmingham R., etc., Co. v. Elmit, 60 So. 982, 6 Ala.App. 657.
10 C.J. p. 845 note 9.

82. Ala.—Pollard v. Jarrett, 169 So. 697.

83. Ky.—Strong v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 43 S.W.2d 11, 240 Ky. 781.

Infant passenger

Petition alleging carrier, in violation of contract, failed to put infant passenger off train and negligently carried him beyond destination, was held insufficient, against demurrer.—Strong v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 43 S.W.2d 11, 240 Ky. 781.

84. S.C.—Matthews v. Charleston, etc., R. Co., 17 S.E. 225, 38 S.C. 429, 37 Am.S.R. 773

85. Ala.—Taxicab Co. v. Grant, 57 So. 141, 3 Ala.App. 393.

Automobile breaking down

A plea in an action for breach of contract to carry plaintiff and companions in an automobile from one place to another and return, which alleges that, after the breaking down of the automobile, plaintiff left the disabled car, and could not be found when defendant reached the car with another automobile, but which fails to aver that plaintiff was at fault in leaving the broken down car before another car came, or that defendant exercised proper care in sending relief after notice, or which fails to show that any negligence of plaintiff proximately contributed to the breaking down of the car, and which shows that the results were attributable to the act of defendant, is bad on demurrer.—Taxicab Co. v. Grant, 57 So. 141, 3 Ala.App. 393.

86. Miss.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Redmond, 81 So. 115, 119 Miss. 765.

Failure to furnish seat to plaintiff

In action for damages in that carrier did not furnish plaintiff a seat, a defense that carrier could not furnish a seat because of a sudden and unusual influx of passengers is an affirmative one, and must be specially pleaded.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Redmond, 81 So. 115, 119 Miss. 765.

87. Ala.—Birmingham Electric Co. v. Rylant, 174 So. 511, 234 Ala. 332.

88. Ala.—Anniston Electric, etc., Co. v. Anderson, 66 So. 924, 11 Ala.App. 554.
10 C.J. p. 845 note 15.

Negligence

Where a carrier admits a technical breach of a contractual duty and consequent liability for nominal damages, and no actual damages are alleged, there is no issue as to its negligence.—Western & A. R. Co. v. Carlock, 92 S.E. 1006, 20 Ga.App. 249.

89. Ga.—Southern R. Co. v. Hobbs, 45 S.E. 23, 118 Ga. 227, 63 L.R.A. 68.
10 C.J. p. 845 note 16.

90. S.C.—Martin v. Southern R. Co., 71 S.E. 236, 89 S.C. 32.
10 C.J. p. 846 note 17

91. S.C.—Cave v. Seaboard Air Line

Special damages, not the necessary result of a breach of a contract to carry, must be specially pleaded in order to be recoverable.[92]

Such competent evidence is admissible on behalf of plaintiff as tends to prove matters put in issue by his pleadings,[93] or which is in rebuttal of matters of defense set up by defendant.[94]

Any material variance between plaintiff's pleadings and proof is fatal to a recovery,[95] but an immaterial variance which in no wise prejudices defendant's case will not affect plaintiff's rights.[96]

§ 666. Evidence

a. Presumptions and burden of proof
b. Admissibility
c. Weight and sufficiency

a. Presumptions and Burden of Proof

The plaintiff has the burden of proving matters relied on for recovery, and the defendant must prove matters of affirmative defense or matters to rebut a prima facie case made by the plaintiff.

Plaintiff has the burden of proving matters and allegations of fact relied on for recovery,[97] and that his injuries were sustained by reason of the carrier's negligence or violation of its duty.[98] Matters of affirmative defense or matters to rebut a prima facie case made by plaintiff must be proved by defendant.[99] The burden is on the carrier to prove any rule or regulation which relieves it of its prima facie obligation to transport one who has purchased a ticket on a train going in the direction called for by the ticket, and which stopped at the station where the ticket holder was,[1] but if a rule is proved the burden is on plaintiff to prove that it is unreasonable.[2] Where there has been an unreasonable delay of the carrier's train, a presumption of negligence arises,[3] and the burden is on the carrier to show that the delay was not due to its negligence.[4] To raise a statutory presumption of the carrier's negligence when a person is injured by the running of its trains or cars, plaintiff must show that he sustained actual damage.[5] The destruction of a ticket by a conductor who refuses to honor it, instead of turning it in to the auditor of the road when such is his duty, raises the presumption that the ticket was good.[6]

R. Co., 77 S.E. 1017, 94 S.C. 282, L.R.A.1915B 915, Ann.Cas.1915A 1065.

92. Ala.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Sanders, 61 So. 482, 7 Ala.App. 543.

93. S.C.—Martin v. Southern R. Co., 71 S.E. 236, 89 S.C. 32—Milhous v. Southern R. Co., 57 S.E. 474, 76 S.C. 492—Ford v. Southern R. Co., 55 S.E. 448, 75 S.C. 286.
10 C.J. p 846 note 20.

Actions or utterances of flagman

What flagman did or said as train which failed to stop on signal at flag station passed plaintiff was held admissible, where complaint contained wanton count.—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v Purifoy, 145 So 323, 25 Ala. App. 252, certiorari denied 145 So. 321, 226 Ala. 58.

94. S.C.—Bussey v. Charleston, etc., R. Co., 55 S.E. 163, 75 S.C. 116.

95. W.Va.—Jenkins v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 57 S.E. 48, 61 W.Va. 597, 49 L.R.A.,N.S., 1166, 11 Ann. Cas. 967.
10 C.J. p 846 note 22.

96. Ala.—Southern R. Co. v. Melton, 47 So. 1008, 158 Ala. 404.
10 C.J. p 846 note 23.

97. Ga.—Georgia Ry & Electric Co. v. McAllister, 54 S.E. 957, 126 Ga. 447, 7 L.R.A.,N.S., 1177.
10 C.J. p 846 note 25 [a], [b], [d], [e].

98. Ark.—Edwards v. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co., 203 S.W. 588, 134 Ark. 265.

Injuries from walking back

In action against railroad for injuries sustained by passenger carried by destination and forced to walk back in nighttime, burden was on plaintiff to show that his injuries were sustained by reason of railroad's negligence.—Edwards v. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co., 203 S.W. 588, 134 Ark. 265.

Negative testimony

The burden to prove railroad's negligence in a suit for injuries caused by carrying plaintiff past his station, cannot be discharged by negative testimony that plaintiff took first chair in car to hear station called, and that the conductor did not take up his ticket until after the train passed his station.—Edwards v. St Louis Southwestern Ry. Co, 203 S.W. 588, 134 Ark. 265.

99. Ala.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v Clark, 87 So. 676, 205 Ala. 152, 14 A.L.R. 695.
Tex.—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Gentry, Civ.App., 197 S.W. 482.
10 C.J. p 846 note 25 [c].

Contributory negligence

Where passenger's destination was called before train reached that point and passenger alighted and suffered injuries in riding on horseback to her destination, burden of proving that she was guilty of contributory negligence was on the railroad company.—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Gentry, Tex.Civ.App., 197 S.W. 482.

Station clock slow

In action for damages by a passenger who missed train because of inaccurate clock in station waiting room, passenger's testimony that the clock was from seven to ten minutes slow at the time she missed her train was held to establish a prima facie case of negligence on the part of the railroad, shifting the burden of proof on railroad.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Clark, 87 So. 676, 205 Ala. 152, 14 A.L.R. 695.

1. Tex.—Trinity, etc., R. Co. v. Voss, Civ.App., 160 S.W. 663.

2. Wash.—Davenport v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., 175 P. 298, 103 Wash. 645.

Rule as to closing of station

Where there is no allegation or proof that the public service commission has adopted any rule under Remington Code 1915 § 8626—85, covering the time when a certain station should be kept open, it will be presumed that the carrier's rules and customary practice with reference thereto were reasonable, casting the burden upon a passenger to allege and prove that the closing of the station at the time in question was unreasonable.—Davenport v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry Co., 175 P. 298, 103 Wash 645.

3. S.C.—Taber v. Seaboard Air Line R Co., 66 S.E. 292, 84 S.C. 291, 19 Ann Cas 1132
10 C.J. p 847 note 26.

4. S.C.—Taber v. Seaboard Air Line R Co, supra.
10 C.J. p 847 note 27.

5. Ga.—Western & A. R. Co. v. Carlock, 92 S.E. 1006, 20 Ga.App. 249.

6. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co v. Donaldson, 43 S.W. 439, 19 Ky.L. 1384.

For rules of law pertaining to presumptions and burden of proof generally see the C.J.S. title Evidence §§ 103–157, also 22 C.J. pp 67–157.

b. Admissibility

General rules pertaining to the admissibility of evidence in civil cases apply in actions to recover damages for the carrier's breach of contract or duty to transport.

In accordance with the general rules pertaining to the admissibility of evidence in civil cases, in order that particular evidence in an action against a carrier for breach of its contract or duty of carriage may be admissible, it must be competent, relevant, and material, and evidence which is incompetent, irrelevant, or immaterial under the particular issues is not admissible.[7] Circumstances which show the duty of the carrier,[8] or facts which show that the carrier was not guilty of a breach of duty,[9] are admissible. Evidence as to the carrier's acts on other occasions is ordinarily inadmissible,[10] unless they were such as to amount to a custom or usage.[11] The purpose of plaintiff's journey cannot be shown in an action for putting him off at the wrong station where the carrier had no notice of the purpose.[12]

Declarations or statements of the carrier's agents, constituting a part of the res gestæ of the transaction, are admissible;[13] but declaration or statements made after the alleged transaction, and not a part of the res gestæ, are inadmissible,[14] and this rule has been held to apply to a time-table given by an agent after the transaction.[15]

Proper evidence as to the damages sustained is admissible,[16] but evidence as to damages not the proximate result of the carrier's negligence or breach of duty is not admissible.[17]

c. Weight and Sufficiency

General rules governing the weight and sufficiency of evidence in civil cases generally apply in actions to recover damages for the carrier's breach of contract or duty to transport.

7. Mich.—Johnson v. Michigan United R. Co., 116 N.W. 529, 153 Mich. 65.
Miss.—Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Hardie, 55 So. 42, 967, 100 Miss. 132, 34 L.R.A.,N.S., 740, Ann.Cas.1914A 323.
10 C.J. p 847 notes 30, 31.

Evidence held inadmissible

Ala.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Rowe, 73 So. 634, 198 Ala. 353.
10 C.J. p 848 note 31 [a].

8. Ala.—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Smith, 117 So. 74, 217 Ala. 501, 58 A.L.R. 1058.

Duty to notify passenger

In action by passenger for negligently carrying her beyond destination, court properly refused to exclude evidence that she told conductor she was exhausted and conductor said he would look after her.—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Smith, 117 So. 74, 217 Ala. 501, 58 A.L.R. 1058.

9. Wash.—Davenport v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., 175 P. 298, 103 Wash. 645.

Compliance with regulation

Where complaint charged that railroad was negligent in closing a station at a certain time, the railroad should have been permitted to prove that the closing of the waiting room at the time in question was in accordance with its regularly established rule, that the rule was reasonable, and that the public service commission had adopted no rule governing the subject under Remington Code 1915 § 8626—85.—Davenport v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., 175 P. 298, 103 Wash. 645.

10. Ga.—Southern R. Co. v. O'Bryan, 37 S.E. 161, 112 Ga. 127.
10 C.J. p 848 note 32.

Previous controversy

In a suit for damages for willful failure of a motorman of a street car to stop for intending passenger, it was error to admit testimony showing details of a previous controversy between the motorman and passenger, or the son of the passenger, about a different matter.—Meridian Light & Ry. Co. v. Williams, 91 So. 863, 129 Miss. 73.

11. N.J.—Runyan v. Central R. Co., 41 A. 367, 61 N.J.Law 537, 68 Am.S.R. 711, 43 L.R.A. 284.
10 C.J. p 848 note 33.

12. Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Wells, 294 S.W. 143, 219 Ky. 718.

13. S.C.—Holcomb v. Spartanburg R., etc., Co., 78 S.E. 231, 94 S.C. 435.
10 C.J. p 848 note 34.

14. Ala.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Thomason, 60 So. 506, 6 Ala.App. 365.

15. Ala.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Thomason, supra.

16. Condition of health

In a woman's action against a railroad for failure to transport her to the destination for which she bought tickets, and for having put her off at an intermediate point, plaintiff's evidence as to the condition of her health at the time of the injury complained of, and subsequently, was competent on the issue of damages.—Blaylock v. Southern Ry. Co., 100 S.E. 599, 178 N.C. 353.

Excitement and nervousness of plaintiff

In action based on negligence of defendant railroad's station agent in selling plaintiff ticket fixing her destination as Irondale and directing her to board through train that did not stop at Irondale, plaintiff's testimony that she was excited and made nervous by announcement of train conductor that train would not be stopped at Irondale was held competent and material.—Pollard v. Jarrett, Ala., 169 So. 697.

Heatstroke

Where passenger three months advanced in pregnancy was put down by bus driver near noon on a hot day in August nearly three miles beyond her station at which there had been a conveyance to meet her, and passenger, being without money to employ a conveyance, undertook to walk with three small children and baggage to parents' home about four miles away, in passenger's action for damages, permitting jury to consider testimony that passenger suffered a heatstroke, over objection that such eventuality was not reasonably foreseeable by carrier, was not error.—Tri-State Transit Co. v. Martin, Miss., 179 So. 349.

Arrangements to meet plaintiff

Passenger's testimony as to arrangements to meet her at train, which failed to stop, was held admissible.—Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. Sims, 292 S.W. 94, 173 Ark. 256.

17. Miss.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Blair, 123 So. 859, 154 Miss. 680.

Happenings after passenger reached destination

Evidence as to what occurred after passenger, who was carried beyond her destination, reached destination, was held incompetent.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Maness, 9 S.W.2d 1011, 225 Ky. 625.

Subject to the rules governing the weight and sufficiency of the evidence in civil cases generally, to warrant a recovery for a carrier's breach of contract of carriage, the evidence on plaintiff's behalf must be of such weight and sufficiency as will reasonably justify the jury in finding the existence of all facts necessary to constitute his cause of action.[18] Thus the evidence should be sufficient to establish plaintiff's right to transportation, defendant's duty in the matter and its breach thereof,[19] and the damages plaintiff has sustained as a proximate result of the breach.[20]

In accordance with these rules evidence has been held sufficient for particular purposes or to show specific facts,[21] such as sufficient to show that defendant owned and operated the car which carried plaintiff beyond his destination;[22] to sustain a finding that the carrier entered into a specific contract with a passenger;[23] to establish that plaintiff exchanged his ticket with another passenger with no intent to defraud the carrier;[24] to show that the carrier knew the imperative necessity for plaintiff, for whom the train did not stop, to board the train;[25] to sustain plaintiff's testimony as to injury received;[26] to sustain a recovery of actual[27] or punitive[28] damages; to show or to sustain a verdict of negligence;[29] or to show that the carrier's negligence caused plaintiff's injuries.[30]

Likewise, evidence has been held insufficient for particular purposes or to show specific facts,[31] such as insufficient to show that a passenger took the wrong train by reason of the ticket agent's misdirection;[32] to establish that a trainman did not announce the station of the passenger's destination;[33] to establish that the train's stop was not of sufficient duration to permit plaintiff to alight;[34] to show humiliation or injury to feelings;[35] to show contributory negligence;[36] to authorize recovery

18. Minn.—Lamson v. Great Northern R. Co., 130 N.W. 945, 114 Minn. 182, Ann.Cas.1914A 15.
10 C.J. p 849 note 38.

19. N.C.—Reeves v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 62 S.E. 1078, 149 N.C. 244.
S.C.—Christian v. Augusta, etc., R. Co., 69 S.E. 17, 87 S.C. 123, Ann.Cas. 1912B 995

20. Tex.—International, etc., R. Co. v. Addison, Civ.App., 93 S.W. 1081, reversed on the facts 97 S.W. 1037, 100 Tex. 241, 8 L.R.A.,N.S., 880.
10 C.J. p 849 note 40.

Mental suffering

Mental suffering need not be positively proved, but may be inferred from the circumstances, including the relation of the parties, as where there has been failure to promptly deliver a telegraphed railroad ticket to plaintiff's dying husband.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Rowe, 73 So. 634, 198 Ala. 353.

21. Mich.—Johnson v. Michigan United R. Co., 116 N.W. 529, 153 Mich. 65.
N.C.—Reeves v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 62 S.E. 1078, 149 N.C. 244.
Tex.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Ward, 124 S.W. 130, 58 Tex.Civ.App. 210.
10 C.J. p 849 note 38 [b].

22. Tex.—Texas Electric Ry. v. Shelton, Civ.App., 286 S.W. 526.

Slight evidence of ownership sufficient

Where action for injuries to passenger on interurban car carried beyond her station was tried on theory that defendant owned car, without objection by defendant, slight evidence of defendant's ownership was sufficient.—Texas Electric Ry. v. Shelton, Tex.Civ.App., 286 S.W. 526.

23. Ark.—Southwestern Greyhound Lines v. Wisdom, 95 S.W.2d 904, 192 Ark. 903

24. Minn.—Gruhl v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 168 N.W. 127, 140 Minn. 353.

25. Wash.—Fenlon v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., 169 P. 863, 99 Wash. 289.

26. Va.—Hines v. Garrett, 108 S.E. 690, 131 Va. 125.

27. Okl.—Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. Wells, 156 P. 314, 56 Okl. 599.
Tex.—Houston, E. & W. T. Ry. Co. v. Thorn, Civ.App., 197 S.W. 778.

Promise to assist plaintiff to alight

Evidence that the porter promised plaintiff to assist her to alight at the proper place is sufficient to sustain a verdict awarding actual damages against the carrier for carrying the passenger beyond her destination.—Murrell v. Charleston & W. C. R. Co., 105 S.E. 350, 115 S.C. 228.

Taking up child's health certificate

Evidence that conductor of defendant railroad knew an eleven year old plaintiff intended to go to a point on a connecting road, but told the station agent to give her a ticket to the junction, and took up her health certificate issued relative to quarantine measures to prevent infantile paralysis, and without which she was unable to purchase another ticket to her destination, etc., was held to sustain a verdict for actual damages.—Halford v. Southern Ry. Co., 99 S.E. 339, 112 S.C. 266.

28. Ga.—Southeastern Greyhound Lines v. Suits, 190 S.E. 417, 55 Ga.App. 371.

Intentionally malicious conduct

In suit based on refusal of bus driver to give passage to ticket holder, accompanied by statement in presence of others in public bus station that ticket holder was drunk, evidence that bus driver's conduct was intentionally oppressive or malicious was held sufficient to authorize recovery of punitive damages.—Southeastern Greyhound Lines v. Suits, 190 S.E. 417, 55 Ga.App. 371.

29. Ark.—Crown Coach Co. v. Meadors, 53 S.W.2d 442, 186 Ark. 236—Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. Sims, 292 S.W. 94, 173 Ark. 256.
Tex.—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Hitt, Civ.App., 60 S.W.2d 864—Houston E. & W. T. Ry. Co. v. Thorn, Civ.App., 197 S.W. 778.

30. Ark.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Coxwell, 30 S.W.2d 209, 182 Ark. 145
Tex.—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Hitt, Civ.App., 60 S.W.2d 864.

Proximate cause of death

Evidence was held to authorize finding that negligent carriage beyond his destination, with consequent exposure, of a passenger having pneumonia was proximate cause of his death.—Southern Traction Co. v. Glenn, Tex.Civ.App., 220 S.W. 798, dismissed for want of jurisdiction.

31. Mo.—Smith v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 106 S.W. 108, 127 Mo.App. 53.
10 C.J. p 849 note 38 [c].

32. Ga.—Dawson v. Southern Ry. Co., 89 S.E. 1051, 18 Ga.App. 534.

33. La.—Cady v. New Orleans, T. & M. Ry. Co., 145 So. 680, 176 La. 341

34. La.—Cady v. New Orleans, T. & M. Ry. Co., supra.

35. Mo.—Oller v. Dixie Greyhound Lines, App., 51 S.W.2d 557.

36. W.Va.—White v. Ohio Valley Electric Ry. Co., 127 S.E. 65, 98 W.Va. 378.

for doctor bills:[37] or to sustain recovery of exemplary damages.[38]

Evidence of custom. Custom, in derogation of a rule regulating train movements, requires proof of continued conduct, raising an inference that the acts were approved or assented to by railroad officers; evidence that a train occasionally stopped at a destination not on the schedule does not establish a custom of stopping at such station.[39] It has been held that the testimony of a witness who has traveled on a train about once a month for more than a year is not sufficient to prove a custom as to calling stations or announcing change of cars,[40] and that the testimony even of witnesses who have traveled considerably as to conductors and porters assisting ladies off and on trains is insufficient to establish such a custom as will bind the railroad company.[41]

§ 667. Trial

a. Questions of law and fact

b. Instructions

c. Verdict and findings

a. Questions of Law and Fact

In accordance with the general rule, questions of law are to be determined by the court and questions of fact are to be determined by the jury.

In accordance with the general rule in the trial of civil cases, in an action for breach of a carrier's contract or duty to transport, questions of law are ordinarily to be determined by the court, and it is error to submit them to the jury,[42] but questions of fact or of mixed law and fact are ordinarily to be determined by the jury under proper instructions from the court.[43] If there is any evidence from which the jury might justifiably find the existence or nonexistence of a fact in issue, but the evidence is conflicting, or is such that reasonable minds might arrive at different conclusions therefrom, the issue should be submitted to the jury,[44] and in such a case it is improper for the court to take the ques-

37. Tex.—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Gordon, Civ.App., 218 S.W. 74.

Doctor's denial that he attended plaintiff

In an action against a carrier for refusing to transport a passenger, the evidence did not warrant a recovery for doctor's bills where the doctor to whom plaintiff said she owed the bill denied attending her on account of any sickness contracted at the time in question, or any knowledge of such sickness, or any charge for such service.—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Gordon, Tex.Civ.App., 218 S.W. 74.

38. Okl.—Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. Wells, 156 P. 314, 56 Okl. 599.

Brusque manner of conductor

Testimony of the brusque manner of a conductor is not sufficient to make a case for punitive damages.—New Orleans & N. E. R. Co. v. Martin, 105 So. 864, 140 Miss. 410.

39. Ky.—Sturgill v. Chesapeake & O. R. Co., 11 S.W.2d 983, 227 Ky. 44.

40. Ala.—Southern R. Co. v. Wooley, 48 So. 369, 158 Ala. 447.

41. Tex.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. McCullough, 45 S.W. 324, 18 Tex. Civ.App. 534.

42. N.C.—Huff v. Norfolk-Southern R. Co., 88 S.E. 344, 171 N.C. 203, L.R.A. 1916E 278.
10 C.J. p. 849 note 44.

43. Ala.—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Smith, 117 So. 74, 217 Ala. 501, 58 A.L.R. 1058.
Ark.—Crown Coach Co. v. Meadors, 53 S.W.2d 442, 186 Ark. 236.
Ga.—Berry v. Seaboard Air Line Ry., 89 S.E. 591, 18 Ga.App. 492.
Ky.—Louisville & L. R. Co. v. Baker, 283 S.W. 1003, 214 Ky. 668.
N.C.—White v. Norfolk-Southern Ry. Co., 89 S.E. 788, 172 N.C. 31, rehearing denied 91 S.E. 697, 173 N.C. 705.—Huff v. Norfolk-Southern R. Co., 88 S.E. 344, 171 N.C. 203, L.R.A. 1916E 278.
Pa.—Fitzgerald v. Pennsylvania Co., 72 Pa.Super. 276.—Cleaver v. Pennsylvania Co., 72 Pa.Super. 271.
S.C.—Payne v. Atlantic Greyhound Bus Lines, 188 S.E. 426, 182 S.C. 58.—Spigener v. Seaboard Air Line Ry., 98 S.E. 330, 111 S.C. 405.
10 C.J. p. 850 note 45.

Questions held for jury

(1) Whether passenger on street railroad, in asking for transfer two or three minutes after paying her fare and after street car had gone about three blocks, reasonably complied with rule requiring that transfer be requested at time of payment of fare, so as to entitle her to recover damages for refusal to issue transfer.—Birmingham Electric Co. v. Rylant, 174 So. 511, 234 Ala. 332.

(2) Whether the train left before schedule time.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Clark, 87 So. 676, 205 Ala. 152, 14 A.L.R. 695.

(3) Whether passenger made inquiries as to whether the train she took was the right train to her destination, and was misinformed by railroad's agents.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Pruett, 77 So. 49, 200 Ala. 675.

(4) Whether a maid at the station assisting female passengers on and off trains was an agent of the railroad for directing passengers to trains.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Pruett, supra.

(5) Whether an attack of asthma, suffered by plaintiff after being carried past her destination, was caused by the nervous excitement incident to the failure of the car to stop when signaled and by the additional walk to her home.—Louisville & L. R. Co. v. Bullock, 250 S.W. 846, 199 Ky. 193.

(6) Whether passenger put off train at wrong station was not sufficiently sure of station to impose on her duty not to accept porter's statement.—Gulf, M. & N. R. Co. v. Jones, 125 So. 114, 155 Miss. 689.

(7) Whether passenger was furnished with as reasonable and adequate accommodation as was required under the circumstances.—Davis v. New York Cent. R. Co., 298 N.Y.S. 44, 163 Misc. 710.

(8) Whether passenger in enfeebled condition, carried past destination, was given sufficient opportunity to alight at station.—Brewer v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 147 S.E. 596, 149 S.C. 454.

(9) Whether sufficient notice was given the ticket agent of the sickness of plaintiff so as to require his assistance.—Spigener v. Seaboard Air Line Ry., 98 S.E. 330, 111 S.C. 405.

(10) Whether plaintiff voluntarily left the train and terminated the relationship of carrier and passenger.—Hines v. Garrett, 108 S.E. 690, 131 Va. 125.

44. Ala.—Wilkey v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 118 So. 922, 218 Ala. 708.—Purifoy v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 117 So. 466, 218 Ala. 11.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Robinson, 105 So. 874, 213 Ala. 522.

tion from the jury by nonsuit, dismissal, affirmative charge, or direction of a verdict.[45] It is ordinarily a question for the jury whether the carrier owed a specific duty,[46] whether the injury was proximately caused by the carrier's breach of duty,[47] whether the carrier was guilty of negligence,[48] whether the carrier's employees were guilty of such willfulness, wantonness, or gross negligence as to justify a recovery of exemplary damages,[49] and whether the passenger was guilty of contributory negligence.[50] Likewise, the amount of actual damages to which plaintiff is entitled is usually a question for the jury.[51]

If there is no evidence on an issue of fact, or if

Ark.—St Louis-San Francisco Ry Co v. Talley, 34 S.W.2d 463, 182 Ark. 1155—St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co. v Needham, 184 S.W. 47, 122 Ark. 584.

Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Maness, 9 S.W.2d 1011, 225 Ky. 625

10 C.J. p 850 note 46.

Whether button was pushed in interurban car

Testimony by plaintiff that she pushed the button in an interurban car before it reached her street and heard the bell ring, with testimony by another passenger that he heard the bell ring but did not know whether or not it was before she reached her street, was held sufficient to take to the jury the issue of whether the bell was rung before reaching the street, notwithstanding the conductor's denial.—Louisville & I. R. Co. v. Bullock, 250 S.W. 846, 199 Ky. 193

45. Ala.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. McCue, 114 So. 218, 216 Ala. 616, 61 A.L.R. 400.

Ark.—Davis v. Stone, 251 S.W. 371, 159 Ark. 156.

10 C.J. p 850 note 47.

Nonsuit on whole case

In a passenger's action against a railroad company for actual and punitive damages, where there is evidence of negligence in the routing of the ticket but none of the conductor's willfulness in refusing to carry the passenger, the court should so direct the jury, and a nonsuit on the whole case would be improper.—Penn v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 98 S.E. 793, 111 S.C. 499.

46. Duty to stop train shortly after starting

Whether railroad owed duty to stop train and allow passenger placed on wrong train to get off, where request was made when train was not more than three or four blocks from station and moving slowly, was held for jury.—Pullman Co. v. Dudley, Tex.Civ.App., 77 S.W.2d 592

Duty to back train

In action for being carried beyond destination, whether the train should have been backed to place of destination, on discovery of mistake less than a mile beyond the station, notwithstanding a railroad rule prohibiting movement against current of traffic without orders from superintendent of transportation, was held for the jury.—Hines v. Garrett, 108 S.E. 690, 131 Va. 125.

47. S.C.—Spaugh v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 155 S.E. 145, 158 S.C. 25.

Illness

In action for damages by female passenger compelled, by misdirection of railroad as to trains, to remain all night in a town not her home, whether her illness resulted from her sitting up all night in the depot after she refused railroad's offer to take her to a hotel or send her home in an automobile was for the jury.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Pruett, 77 So. 49, 200 Ala. 675.

Rape

In action against railroad by eighteen year old passenger wrongfully discharged beyond her station, requiring her to walk back a distance of one mile along unprotected route known to have been infested by tramps, hoboes, and other disreputable characters, whether rape committed on her while walking back was proximately caused by the wrongful ejection from train was held for the jury.—Hines v. Garrett, 108 S.E. 690, 131 Va. 125.

48. Miss.—Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. Hearn, 71 So. 561, 111 Miss. 294.

S.C.—Spaugh v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 155 S.E. 145, 158 S.C. 25—Mishoe v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 133 S.E. 704, 135 S.C. 316.

Tex.—Nevill v. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas, Civ.App., 211 S.W. 523, dismissed for want of jurisdiction.

49. Miss.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Ramsay, 127 So. 725, 157 Miss. 83.

S.C.—Belcher v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 177 S.E. 890, 175 S.C. 9—Matthews v. Southern Ry. Co., 120 S.E. 369, 126 S.C. 454—Edwards v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 113 S.E. 134, 120 S.C. 294.

10 C.J. p 850 note 48.

50. Pa.—Fitzgerald v. Pennsylvania Co., 72 Pa.Super. 276—Cleaver v. Pennsylvania Co., 72 Pa.Super. 271.

Tex.—Texas Electric Ry. v. Shelton, Civ.App., 286 S.W. 526—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Gentry, Civ.App., 197 S.W. 482.

10 C.J. p 851 note 49.

Failure to examine ticket

Whether a passenger was negligent in not examining commuter's ticket, and discovering the error in making it out to some other name than hers, or if she knew or should have known that the ticket showed on its face it was not made out in her name by the ticket seller, were held jury questions.—Delaney v. Erie R. Co., 117 A. 395, 97 N.J.Law 434, affirmed 119 A. 924, 98 N.J.Law 558.

Passenger held not negligent as matter of law

Passenger who missed train while seated in station waiting room relying on the time as shown by the clock therein was held not contributorily negligent as a matter of law—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Clark, 87 So. 676, 205 Ala. 152, 14 A.L.R. 695

Riding horseback to destination

In action by passenger whom railroad company wrongfully put off at station some miles from her destination, question whether passenger who suffered injuries in riding horseback to her destination was guilty of contributory negligence which was proximate cause of injury was held for the jury.—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Gentry, Tex. Civ.App., 197 S.W. 482.

Walking through snow

Where train failed to stop, whether illness of husband was sufficiently imperative necessity to render it prudent for wife to reach another town by walking through a mountain pass through six feet of snow to get money to take him to hospital, was question for jury.—Fenlon v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., 169 P. 863, 99 Wash. 289.

Walking to next town

Whether passenger, who had been deprived of passage upon train by negligence of train employees in failing to stop train upon signal, was negligent in not securing lodging in town and in walking to next station along the railroad tracks, instead of traveling the dirt or wagon road, was held for the jury.—Nevill v. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas, Tex.Civ.App., 211 S.W. 523, dismissed for want of jurisdiction.

51. Ark.—Missouri Pacific Transp. Co. v. Williams, 109 S.W.2d 924, 194 Ark. 852.

N.J.—Delaney v. Erie R. Co., 117 A. 395, 97 N.J.Law 434, affirmed 119 A. 924, 98 N.J.Law 558.

N.Y.—Davis v. New York Cent. R. Co., 298 N.Y.S. 44, 163 Misc. 710.

the evidence is so slight that a finding of its existence or nonexistence would not be sustained, or if the evidence is conclusive of its existence or nonexistence, the question becomes one of law for the court and should not be submitted to the jury,[52] and the court may dispose of the case by a dismissal or nonsuit.[53]

b. Instructions

General rules applicable to instructions in civil cases apply in an action for damages based on the carrier's breach of contract or duty to transport.

In accordance with general rules applicable to instructions in civil cases, in an action against a carrier for a breach of a contract of carriage the court, in charging the jury, should correctly state the law[54] applicable to the facts which the evidence tends to prove.[55] The instructions must be pertinent and must conform and be confined to the issues made by the pleadings and evidence,[56] and must charge on all material matters in issue.[57] They should not be confusing or misleading,[58] or

S.C.—Belcher v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 177 S.E. 890, 175 S.C. 9.

52. Miss.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Blair, 123 So. 859, 154 Miss. 680
S.C.—Laird v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 134 S.E. 220, 136 S.C. 34.
10 C.J. p 851 note 50.

Punitive damages

Where there is no evidence of willfulness, wantonness, or gross negligence, it is improper to submit the question of punitive damages to the jury.
Miss.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Blair, 123 So. 859, 154 Miss. 680
S.C.—Laird v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 134 S.E. 220, 136 S.C. 34.
10 C.J. p 851 note 50 [a].

53. S.C.—Ussery v. Augusta-Aiken R. Co., 60 S.E. 527, 79 S.C. 209.
10 C.J. p 851 note 51.

Proof of contract

Where a tortious breach of contract is the gravamen of the action, a failure to prove the contract will justify a nonsuit.—Magee v. Oregon R., etc., Co., C.C.Wash., 46 F. 734.

54. Ala.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Penny, 114 So. 15, 22 Ala.App. 199.
Miss.—Jackson Light & Traction Co. v. Taylor, 72 So. 856, 112 Miss. 60.
Mo.—Oller v. Dixie Greyhound Lines, App., 51 S.W.2d 557.
10 C.J. p 851 note 53.

Instructions properly refused

(1) Instructions that conductor's promise to awaken passenger at destination was not binding on carrier, that carrier was not under duty to awaken passenger when train arrived at destination if proper notice of station was given, that if passenger's destination was called in customary manner and passengers had reasonable opportunity to alight, passenger carried beyond destination could not recover, and that under evidence conductor had no authority to bind carrier by promise to awaken passenger at destination were held properly refused.—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Smith, 117 So. 74, 217 Ala. 501, 58 A.L.R. 1058.

(2) In action for damages against railroad company for refusing to transport passenger, requested charge that plaintiff could not recover for mental suffering and humiliation, and that plaintiff was not entitled to recover if he did not suffer in person, reputation, or estate, and was entitled to recover nominal damages only, if any, was held properly refused where it was a question for the jury whether the act of the carrier was willful.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Robinson, 105 So. 874, 213 Ala. 522.

55. Ga.—Pullman Co. v. Strang, 132 S.E. 399, 35 Ga.App. 59.—Western & A. R. Co. v. Carlock, 92 S.E. 1006, 20 Ga.App. 249.
Miss.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Cox, 96 So. 685, 132 Miss. 471.
Mo.—Oller v. Dixie Greyhound Lines, App., 51 S.W.2d 557.
10 C.J. p 851 note 54.

Instructions held warranted by evidence

(1) Instructions on duty to notify passenger that train did not stop at her station.—Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. Sims, 292 S.W. 94, 173 Ark. 256.

(2) In suit based on refusal of defendant's bus driver to give passage to ticket holder, accompanied by statement in presence of others that ticket holder was drunk, charge authorizing recovery of additional damages if jury found there were aggravating circumstances either in act of bus driver or in his intention.—Southeastern Greyhound Lines v. Suits, 190 S.E. 417, 55 Ga.App. 371.

(3) Charge requiring railroad agent to exercise extraordinary care in conducting plaintiff's wife to right train.—Atlanta Terminal Co. v. Alexander, 143 S.E. 905, 38 Ga.App. 280.

(4) In a suit for failure to put a child off at its destination under a special contract by a carrier's agent, an instruction that, if the jury believe the ticket agent agreed that the conductor would put the child off at its destination, and that the conductor promised to do so, and if it was within the scope of the authority of these employees to bind the company, defendant would be liable for failure of the conductor to put the child off.—Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. O'Keefe, 88 So. 1, 125 Miss. 536.

(5) Instruction that carrier, knowing of passenger's enfeebled condition, was bound to render reasonable assistance.—Brewer v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 147 S.E. 596, 149 S.C. 451.

(6) Instruction on presumption of negligence where passenger injured on train.—Brewer v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., supra.

(7) Where railroad servants called passenger's station before she reached it and induced her to alight, charge that railroad company must have its stations properly announced which required a finding that miscalling of station was negligence before verdict for plaintiff could be authorized.—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Gentry, Tex.Civ.App., 197 S.W. 482.

(8) In action against carrier for agent's mistake in selling ticket whereby passenger was carried to wrong station, submission of theory of contributory negligence.—Walls v. Kansas City, M. & O. Ry. Co. of Texas, Tex.Civ.App., 195 S.W. 868.

56. S.C.—Milhous v. Southern R. Co., 52 S.E. 41, 72 S.C. 442, 110 Am.S.R. 620.
10 C.J. p 853 notes 64, 65.

57. W.Va.—Jenkins v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 57 S.E. 48, 61 W.Va. 597, 49 L.R.A.,N.S., 1166, 11 Ann. Cas. 967.
10 C.J. p 853 note 66.

58. Ala.—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Barnitz, 84 So. 474, 17 Ala. App. 201.
Miss.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Blair, 123 So. 859, 154 Miss. 680.
Tex.—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Gentry, Civ.App., 197 S.W. 482.
10 C.J. p 852 note 55.

Instructions slightly misleading

Instructions which tend only in a slight degree to confuse or mislead have been held not to constitute fatal error.—Birmingham Ry., Light & Power Co. v. Cohill, 72 So. 126, 196 Ala. 278.

too general.[59] An instruction should be complete in itself, but instructions are to be considered as a whole, and the fact that one portion considered separately may be open to objection does not constitute error if the charge is correct in its entirety.[60] It is error for the court to refuse a proper request not sufficiently covered by other charges as given,[61] but such request need not be given in its exact language and the court may modify the requested instruction to conform to the law applicable to the case.[62] It is not error to refuse a requested instruction on matters already sufficiently covered by the charge as given,[63] or on immaterial or unessential matters.[64] An instruction is erroneous which invades the province of the jury,[65] as where it withdraws or excludes an issue of fact on which there is disputed evidence from the determination of the jury.[66]

c. Verdict and Findings

Findings should be construed in the light of the evidence and issues presented to the jury.

Findings should be construed in the light of the evidence[67] and issues presented to the jury.[68]

§ 668. Costs

Attorney's fees may be recovered as an incident to costs when authorized by statute.

Under a statute authorizing plaintiff to recover reasonable attorney's fees as an incident to costs in a recovery against a carrier for violation of any law regulating the transportation of passengers, a passenger entitled to recover in an action for failure to carry him to his station may recover attorney's fees.[69] However, attorney's fees cannot be recovered under such a statute if no statute regulating railroads has been violated.[70]

§ 669. Damages

Damages for breach of contract or for tort may be recovered in actions of this nature.

It has been held that an action for being refused transportation in accordance with contract, or for refusal to put the passenger off at his destination, is for breach of contract, and the damages recoverable are those recoverable in such an action.[71] Nevertheless, the breach of the contract may also involve a tort, that is, a breach of the carrier's common-law duty, and in such case other damages than those incident to breach of contract may be recovered.[72] The technical form of the action is, in general, immaterial, recovery being allowed in accordance with the wrong indicated by the facts as alleged.[73]

§ 670. Elements and Measure in General

As a general rule, the passenger's measure of damages is compensation for the actual damages he has

Instruction held not misleading
In passengers' action for failure of train to stop at destination, instruction was held not misleading as against contention that it required conductor to give passengers special notice of arrival of train at their destination—Laird v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 126 S.E. 135, 130 S.C. 368.

59. N.Y.—Miller v. King, 59 N.E. 1114, 166 N.Y. 394.

60. Ark.—Davis v. Stone, 251 S.W. 371, 159 Ark. 156.
10 C.J. p 852 note 57.

61. Ala.—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Lanier, 73 So. 821, 198 Ala. 497.
Miss.—New Orleans & N. E. R. Co. v. Myers, 106 So. 531, 140 Miss. 789—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Cox, 96 So. 685, 132 Miss. 471.
Mo.—Evans v. Wabash Ry. Co., 12 S.W.2d 767, 223 Mo.App. 439.
10 C.J. p 852 note 58.

62. Ark.—Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. Sims, 292 S.W. 94, 173 Ark. 256.
S.C.—Gilkerson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 89 S.E. 549, 105 S.C. 162.

Improper modification
In an action against a carrier for requiring a white passenger to ride in a coach set apart for negroes, it was improper to modify instructions which precluded recovery if the conductor honestly believed that the passenger was a negro, by the clause unless plaintiff "made known to the said conductor that she was a white woman"—Norfolk, etc., R. Co. v. Stone, 69 S.E. 927, 111 Va. 730.

63. Ga.—Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Almand, 43 S.E. 67, 116 Ga. 780

64. Ala.—North Alabama Tract Co. v. Daniel, 57 So. 120, 3 Ala.App. 428.

65. Tex.—Davis v. Houston, etc., R. Co., 59 S.W. 814, 25 Tex.Civ.App. 8.

66. N.C.—Story v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 45 S.E. 349, 133 N.C. 59.
10 C.J. p 852 note 63.

67. Tex.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Lathrop, Civ.App., 192 S.W. 1080, error refused.

68. Tex.—Houston E. & W. T. Ry. Co. v. Thorn, Civ.App., 197 S.W. 778.

69. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Neal, 51 S.W. 1060, 66 Ark. 543

70. Ark.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Coxwell, 30 S.W.2d 209, 182 Ark. 145.
10 C.J. p 853 note 68.

Violation of agreement
Passenger with appendicitis suing railroad for carrying him beyond destination, not regular stop but a place where the carrier had agreed to stop, cannot recover attorney's fee—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Coxwell, 30 S.W.2d 209, 182 Ark. 145.

71. Mass.—Murdock v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 133 Mass. 15, 43 Am.R. 480
10 C.J. p 835 note 44.

72. N.C.—Purcell v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 12 S.E. 954, 108 N.C. 414, 12 L.R.A. 113
10 C.J. p 835 note 45.

73. N.C.—Williams v. Carolina, etc., R. Co., 57 S.E. 216, 144 N.C. 498, 12 L.R.A.,N.S., 191, 12 Ann.Cas. 1000
10 C.J. p 835 note 46.

Act considered tort or breach of contract
Where, under the facts of the case, punitive damages would not be allowed, it is immaterial whether the failure of a carrier to stop and take on a passenger be considered a tort or breach of contract, because the damages are the same—Fenlon v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., 169 P. 863, 99 Wash. 289.

sustained as a natural and proximate result of the breach or which the carrier could reasonably have anticipated might result from the breach.

Where a carrier breaks its contract by failing or refusing to transport the passenger in accordance with the terms thereof, such as by negligently failing to take him up, or by putting him down at a point other than his destination, or by unreasonably delaying his transportation, or otherwise, the passenger's measure of damages is, as a general rule, compensation for the actual damages he has sustained as a natural and proximate result of the breach,[74] or, as otherwise expressed, such damages as the carrier should reasonably have anticipated might result from the breach.[75] A carrier is not liable for remote or contingent damages or such as are not the proximate result of its breach of duty,[76] which could not reasonably have been anticipated or foreseen,[77] or which are due to the passenger's own want of ordinary care.[78] If there has been no tortious breach of contract, it has been held that the damages are to be measured by the passenger's loss of time and money expended by reason of the delay,[79] but if the contract is tortiously broken damages are to be assessed not only for lost time and money but for such damages as follow directly from its acts.[80]

Under the circumstances of the particular case a passenger may be entitled to recover the expenses reasonably incurred by him in getting to his destination,[81] including his living expenses at an intermediate point,[82] and compensation for time lost beyond the reasonable length of time it would have taken the carrier to transport him to his destination,[83] the value of which is to be computed by the reasonable value of the passenger's services in his usual occupation at the place of destination.[84] A

74. U.S.—Lee Line Steamers v Page, Tenn., 237 F. 57, 150 C.C.A. 259.
Ala.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Clark, 87 So. 676, 205 Ala. 152, 14 A.L.R. 695—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Frizzle, 108 So. 615, 21 Ala.App. 354, certiorari denied 108 So. 616, 214 Ala. 688.
Ark.—Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. Blundell, 191 S.W. 940, 127 Ark. 82.
N.C.—Causey v. Davis, 116 S.E. 401, 185 N.C. 155.
Tex.—Nevill v. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas, Civ.App., 211 S.W. 523, dismissed for want of jurisdiction—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Nichols, Civ.App., 198 S.W. 338, error refused.
10 C.J. p. 833 note 29, p. 834 note 34.

Damages not merely nominal

Damage suffered by interstate passenger placed on wrong train other than mental suffering by being compelled to take circuitous route was not merely nominal, so as to preclude judgment against railroad, where substantial right of passenger was violated.—Pullman Co. v. Dudley, Tex.Civ.App., 77 S.W.2d 592.

75. Ky.—Paducah Traction Co. v. Weitlauf, 195 S.W. 99, 176 Ky. 82, L.R.A.1917F.353.
N.C.—Causey v. Davis, 116 S.E. 401, 185 N.C. 155.
10 C.J. p. 833 note 30.

Consequences reasonably anticipated by prudent man

Passenger who missed train by reason of railroad's negligence in permitting waiting room clock to be slow could recover damages for all the consequences which a prudent and experienced man, fully acquainted with all the circumstances which in fact existed, whether they could have been ascertained by reasonable diligence or not, would at the time of the negligence have thought reasonably possible to follow if they had occurred to his mind.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Clark, 87 So. 676, 205 Ala. 152, 14 A.L.R. 695.

76. N.C.—Causey v. Davis, 116 S.E. 401, 185 N.C. 155—Brown v. Linville River Ry. Co., 94 S.E. 431, 174 N.C. 694—Garland v. Carolina, C. & O. Ry., 90 S.E. 779, 172 N.C. 638, L.R.A.1917B 706.
Tex.—Schaff v. Boatright, Civ.App., 243 S.W. 1116—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Nichols, Civ.App., 198 S.W. 338, error refused.
10 C.J. p. 833 note 31.

Fall while sleeping in waiting room

Passenger's injuries from fall while sleeping in waiting room waiting for train back were held not proximate result of being carried beyond destination.—Strong v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 43 S.W.2d 11, 240 Ky. 781.

77. Tex.—Eastern Texas Electric Co. v. Reagan, Civ.App., 228 S.W. 366—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Nichols, Civ.App., 198 S.W. 338, error refused.
10 C.J. p. 833 note 32.

78. Tex.—Eastern Texas Electric Co. v. Reagan, Civ.App., 228 S.W. 366.
10 C.J. p. 834 note 33.

Waiting in cold room although another is heated

Female passenger discharged at wrong station could not recover damages resulting from waiting in cold room in station, where main room was heated.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Wells, 294 S.W. 143, 219 Ky. 718.

79. Ky.—Brumfield v. Consolidated Coach Corporation, 40 S.W.2d 356, 240 Ky. 1—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Wells, 294 S.W. 143, 219 Ky. 718—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Pigg, 267 S.W. 549, 206 Ky. 470—Paducah Traction Co. v. Weitlauf, 195 S.W. 99, 176 Ky. 82, L.R.A. 1917F 353.

80. Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Maness, 9 S.W.2d 1011, 225 Ky. 625—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Pigg, 267 S.W. 549, 206 Ky. 470.

81. Ala.—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Barnitz, 73 So. 471, 198 Ala. 156, reversing on other grounds 70 So. 945, 14 Ala.App. 354.
10 C.J. p. 834 notes 34, 36.

Excess over ticket price

In action for failure to deliver promptly ticket telegraphed to plaintiff's dying husband, an element of damages was the excess over the ticket price of the expenses of the transportation of such husband's remains.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Rowe, 73 So. 634, 198 Ala. 353.

82. Tex.—International, etc., R. Co. v. Doolan, 120 S.W. 1118, 56 Tex. Civ.App. 503.
Wash.—Bullock v. White Star S.S. Co., 70 P. 1106, 30 Wash. 448.

83. Mo.—Oller v. Dixie Greyhound Lines, App., 51 S.W.2d 557.
10 C.J. p. 834 note 34, p. 835 note 39.

Necessity for pecuniary damage

Where a train is delayed a passenger is not entitled to actual damages for loss of time unless he has suffered pecuniary damages or personal loss.—Miller v. Southern R. Co., 48 S.E. 99, 69 S.C. 116.

84. N.Y.—Cooley v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 81 N.Y.S. 692, 40 Misc. 239.
10 C.J. p. 835 note 40.

Delay in starting ginneries

Where plaintiff was delayed four days in starting two ginneries because railroad employee barred him from train, the measure of damages, if ginneries were established plants was rental value, but, if ginneries were not going concerns, was the in-passenger cannot recover what he would have earned but for the delay, where no definite occupation or employment was within his contemplation at the time,[85] although the question whether the passenger would have procured employment had he been at his destination during the time he was delayed may be considered in estimating his damages.[86] A passenger may be entitled to recover, inter alia, the price of his ticket,[87] but not if the journey is actually completed on the ticket.[88] Where a passenger, who is wrongfully excluded from a train, voluntarily keeps his ticket as evidence and purchases another, he is not entitled to recover the price of the first ticket.[89]

§ 671. Physical and Mental Suffering; Inconvenience

a. In general
b. Walking or taking another conveyance
c. Injuries after reaching destination

a. In General

Generally, damages for physical or mental suffering and inconvenience which are the proximate result of the carrier's breach of duty may be recovered; but, as a rule, in the absence of aggravating circumstances, mental suffering or inconvenience, to be compensable, must be accompanied by physical injury.

Damages for physical or mental suffering may generally be recovered where they are incident to, or consequent on, the passenger being wrongfully carried to or put down at a point away from his destination,[90] or on his not being given a proper opportunity to board the train,[91] but not where such physical or mental suffering is a remote result of the carrier's breach of duty.[92] Such damages may also be recovered for an unreasonable delay in transportation,[93] unless they are merely a remote result of the delay.[94] Damages for mental pain and humiliation may also be recovered where the passenger is transported in an improper manner, or under aggravated circumstances,[95] as where a white passenger is wrongfully compelled to ride in a coach intended for colored persons,[96] or they may terest on the money invested, and the wages of the laborers employed, reduced by earnings which plaintiff either received, or by reasonable diligence could have received, from employment of laborers in other work, and not the gross earnings or profits per day after start of operations.—Currie v. Davis, 126 S E 119, 130 S.C. 408, petition dismissed Davis v. Currie, 45 S.Ct. 88, 266 U.S. 182, 69 L.Ed. 234.

85. U.S.—North American Transp. & Trading Co. v Morrison, Wash., 20 S Ct. 869, 178 U.S. 262, 44 L Ed. 1061, reversing, C C., Morrison v. North American Transp. & Trading Co., 85 F. 802.

86. Wash—Ransberry v. North American Transp., etc., Co., 61 P. 154, 22 Wash. 476.

87. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Spurling, 170 S.W 192, 160 Ky. 819, Ann Cas.1916A 487.
10 C.J p 834 note 35.

Limited to price of ticket

In the absence of proof of humiliation in taking up commutation ticket by the agents of defendant company, the measure of damages is the value of the unexpired portion of the ticket—Delaney v. Erie R. Co., 117 A. 395, 97 N J.Law 434, affirmed 119 A. 924, 98 N.J Law 558—Gerety v. New York & N. J. R Co, 98 A 400, 89 N J Law 175, reversing 95 A. 733, 88 N J Law 16

Cash fare

In a suit against a railroad for damages for negligence of its agent informing plaintiff that his ticket entitled him to transportation over a certain route, which was wrong, thereby causing plaintiff to spend the sum of two dollars and eight cents, the actual damages recoverable is the amount of the cash fare.—Gulf & S. I. R. Co. v. Beard, 93 So. 357, 129 Miss. 827.

88. Ala.—Nashville C. & St. L. Ry. v. Campbell, 101 So. 615, 212 Ala. 27.

89. Kan.—Williams v. Chicago, etc., R. Co, 135 P 67, 90 Kan 478

90. Wis.—Stutz v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 40 N W. 653, 73 Wis. 147, 9 Am S.R. 769—Brown v. Chicago, etc., R. Co, 11 N.W. 356, 911, 54 Wis 342, 41 Am R 41.
10 C J. p 835 note 47.

Injuries sustained by waiting

Injuries from dampness or exposure sustained by being compelled to wait after a breach of duty by the carrier are compensable.—Weed v. Panama R. Co, 17 N.Y. 362, 72 Am. D. 474—10 C J. p 838 note 65.

Insults

Railroad, furnishing half-fare ticket to minor paying full fare, is liable for insults offered passenger, using ticket, by conductor of connecting carrier.—Southern Ry Co. v. Penny, 114 So 15, 22 Ala App 199.

91. Ga.—Brown v. Georgia, etc., R. Co., 46 S E 71, 119 Ga 88.
10 C.J. p 836 note 48.

92. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co v. Spurling, 170 S W. 192, 160 Ky 819, Ann Cas 1916A 487—Cincinnati, etc., R Co. v. Raine, 113 S W. 495, 130 Ky. 454, 132 Am.S R. 400, 19 L R A.,N S., 753.
10 C.J. p 836 note 49.

Improper proposals to female passenger

Injury to feelings of female passenger by improper proposals by driver engaged by conductor and telegraph operator to take her home was held not a proximate result of carrier's breach of contract of carriage by carrying her past her station.—Western & A. R. Co. v. Jackson, 93 S.E. 547, 21 Ga App. 50

93. Ky.—Southern R Co v Miller, 110 S W. 351, 129 Ky. 98, 33 Ky.L 505.
10 C.J. p 836 note 50.

94. Ark.—Hot Springs R. Co. v. Deloney, 45 S.W. 351, 65 Ark 177, 67 Am S.R. 913
10 C J. p 836 note 51.

95. Ky.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v Fleming, 146 S.W. 1110, 148 Ky. 473
10 C.J. p 836 note 52.

Wrongfully taking up commutation ticket

Where railroad ticket seller made out a commuter's ticket in the name of Mr L L. instead of Miss L. M. D., and the ticket was taken up by conductor when presented for passage by Miss D. on the 29th ride, it was held that damages could be recovered for the indignity and humiliation, if any.—Delaney v. Erie R. Co., 117 A. 395, 97 N.J.Law 434, affirmed 119 A. 924, 98 N.J Law 558.

96. Ky—Louisville, etc, R. Co v. Ritchel, 147 S.W. 411, 148 Ky 701, 41 L R.A.,N S, 958, Ann.Cas.1913E 517
10 C J p 836 note 53.

be recovered where the carrier improperly fails or refuses to transport him as a passenger,[97] or by misdirection causes him to take the wrong train.[98] A passenger may likewise, in a proper case, recover for trouble, inconvenience, and annoyance caused by the carrier's breach of duty.[99]

It is generally held, however, that for mere negligent omission of duty, not accompanied with, or resulting in, physical injury, or without circumstances of aggravation, the carrier is not liable for damages by way of compensation for mental suffering,[1] or for inconvenience and annoyance,[2] unless special circumstances known to the carrier exist, as shown infra § 672. If the carrier's act or conduct is wanton or where the infliction of punitive damages is proper, damages for mental pain and suffering may be recovered.[3]

Special damages from illness or mental suffering dependent on knowledge by the carrier of the peculiar circumstances is considered in § 672 infra.

b. Walking or Taking Another Conveyance

Injuries caused by plaintiff's walking or going to his destination by another conveyance are compensable if proximate or foreseeable and not caused by the passenger's own negligence or imprudence.

It is the duty of a passenger refused transportation or discharged at the wrong station to use ordi-

97. Ind.—Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Kinsley, 60 N.E. 169, 27 Ind.App 135, 87 Am.S.R. 245.
10 C.J. p 837 note 55.

98. Ark.—Hines v. Witherspoon, 219 S.W. 1014, 143 Ark. 131.
Tex.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Armstrong, 51 S.W. 835, 93 Tex. 31.

99. Ala.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Clark, 87 So. 676, 205 Ala. 152, 14 A.L.R. 695.
10 C.J. p 834 note 34, p 837 notes 58–60.

1. Ark.—St. Louis, I. M. & S. R. Co. v. Bragg, 64 S.W. 226, 69 Ark. 402, 86 Am.S.R. 206.
Miss.—Gulf & S. I. R. Co. v. Beard, 93 So. 357, 129 Miss. 827.
Mo.—Oller v. Dixie Greyhound Lines, App., 51 S.W.2d 557.
Tex.—Texas Electric Railway Co. v. Price, Civ.App., 218 S.W. 1092—Jones v. Texas & N. O. R. Co., 55 S.W. 371, 23 Tex.Civ.App. 65—Texas & P. R. Co. v. Armstrong, Civ.App., 41 S.W. 833.
Wash.—Davenport v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., 175 P. 298, 103 Wash. 645.
10 C.J. p 837 note 56.

Delay in reaching sick relative

(1) In an action against a railroad company for breach of contract for special train, damages cannot be recovered merely for disappointment and mental suffering resulting from delay in departing to reach the bedside of a sick parent.—Wilcox v. Richmond & D. R. Co., S.C., 52 F. 264, 3 C.C.A. 73, 17 L.R.A. 804.

(2) Where plaintiff was delayed eight or ten hours in his journey which he was making to see a sick brother, it was held that mental suffering caused by delay in seeing his brother was too remote to be considered as an element of damage.—Hot Springs R. Co. v. Deloney, 45 S.W. 351, 65 Ark. 177, 67 Am.S.R. 913.

Discomfort in being aroused from sleep

Where a passenger on a railroad train was told that he would have to pay a bridge toll some time during the night, and the conductor offered to receive it and pay it for him, and on a previous occasion he had been told the same thing, had refused to pay, and was not disturbed on passing over the bridge, or compelled to pay such toll, in an action for damages in collecting such toll, it was not error to refuse to instruct that he could not recover for discomfort or injury to his feelings by being aroused in the night by an employee of the bridge company and compelled to pay the toll.—Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Patterson, Tex.Civ.App., 46 S.W. 848.

Inconvenience or fatigue

It has been held that, where a train is delayed, a passenger is not entitled to actual damages for inconvenience or fatigue, unless he has suffered pecuniary damages or personal loss, or unless the carrier's conduct was willful.—Miller v. Southern R. Co., 48 S.E. 99, 69 S.C. 116.

Misinformation

Carrier was held not liable to prospective passenger for mental anguish caused by misinformation given by carrier's agent, regarding quickest means of transportation to prospective passenger's dying mother.—Bowers v. Colonial Stages Interstate Transit, 43 S.W.2d 497, 163 Tenn. 502.

Under federal rule

In a Texas case, it has been held that damages recoverable from railroad under federal decisions for mental anguish and suffering of passenger caused by delay as result of being placed on wrong train must have grown out of bodily injury sustained by passenger, and recovery cannot be had for physical injury which follows as mere sequel to mental anguish. There must be some causal connection, and recovery may be had against railroad under federal rule for that mental suffering of passenger only which is caused by, or which flows from, physical injury. Thus, a widow, accompanying husband's body to funeral, who was placed on wrong train during interstate passage, was held not entitled to damages from railroad for mental suffering caused by consequential delay, nor for physical suffering growing out of such mental suffering. Whether interstate passenger's action against railroad and Pullman Company for delay caused by being placed on wrong train was on contract or for tort was immaterial, as regards applicability of federal rule disallowing damages for mental suffering or for physical suffering growing out of mental suffering.—Pullman Co. v. Dudley, Tex.Civ.App., 77 S.W.2d 592.

2. N.Y.—Miller v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 85 N.Y.S. 883, 89 App.Div. 457.

3. Miss.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Hawkins, 74 So. 775, 114 Miss. 110, L.R.A.1917D 977.
Mo.—Oller v. Dixie Greyhound Lines, App., 51 S.W.2d 557.
S.C.—Currie v. Davis, 126 S.E. 119, 130 S.C. 408, petition dismissed Davis v. Currie, 45 S.Ct. 88, 266 U.S. 182, 69 L.Ed. 234.

Violence and insulting language by gatekeeper

Passenger suing agent appointed by president under Transportation Act 1920 § 206, U.S.Comp.St. Suppl. Annot.1923 § 10071¼cc, for refusal of gatekeeper to permit him to pass through gate to train, accompanied by violence and insulting and threatening language, could recover compensatory damages for injuries to feelings, humiliation, and mental sufferings.—Currie v. Davis, 126 S.E. 119, 130 S.C. 408, petition dismissed Davis v. Currie, 45 S.Ct. 88, 266 U.S. 182, 69 L.Ed. 234.

Aggravating circumstances not shown

A statement by a railroad station agent, when closing a station: "You fellows will have to get out of here.

nary care in going to his destination.[4] Injuries which are caused by plaintiff's going to his destination by another conveyance are recoverable if proximate or foreseeable,[5] but they are not recoverable if not proximate or reasonably to be anticipated,[6] or if the injuries are caused by the passenger's own negligence or imprudence.[7] Where a passenger in the exercise of a deliberate judgment needlessly walks to his destination, the carrier is not liable for the injuries sustained thereby,[8] nor, it has been held, is it liable in the absence of a tortious breach of its duty;[9] but if the passenger, because of the carrier's negligence, apparently had good cause or reason to walk, the carrier may be liable,[10] even though the carrier had no notice of the passenger's physical condition,[11] and unless the injuries were not proximate or foreseeable.[12] Where a passenger is wrongfully put down at a place other than his destination, and he uses ordinary care to avoid walking, without success, he is entitled to compensation for the trouble, inconvenience, and annoyance of having to walk,[13] or in getting to his destination through other means of transportation.[14]

I am going to lock up"—did not show any violence, or insulting or abusive language such as would warrant damages for mental anguish.—Davenport v Chicago M. & St. P. Ry. Co., 175 P. 298, 103 Wash. 645

4. Ark—Crown Coach Co. v. Meadors, 53 S.W.2d 442, 186 Ark. 236.

5. Ark—Crown Coach Co. v. Meadors, supra
Ga.—Georgia R, etc, Co. v McAllister, 54 S.E. 957, 126 Ga. 447, 7 L.R.R.N.S., 1177
10 C.J. p 838 note 64.

Exposure in riding horseback

Where a passenger alighted before reaching her destination, wrong station being called, and suffered injuries from exposure in riding horseback to her destination, fact that the railroad company did not foresee particular injury suffered is no defense on the theory that its negligence was not the proximate cause. However, recovery for injury sustained from exposure in riding horseback to destination can be sustained only where it was reasonable under circumstances for passenger to voluntarily undergo exposure—Gulf, C & S. F. Ry Co v. Gentry, Tex Civ.App, 197 S W. 482.

Ride in inclement weather

If a carrier was negligent in permitting a clock in its station to run slow, so that plaintiff missed her train and was compelled to ride a long distance in inclement weather, as a result of which she suffered injury to her health, it was chargeable with knowledge of what might result, and it must respond in damages for the natural and probable proximate result of such negligence.—Davis v. Clark, 98 So. 37, 19 Ala.App. 468.

Sickness from drive across country

Damages for sickness resulting from plaintiff's leaving train to drive across country, on being informed that he would be unable to make connections, was held not too remote to afford basis of recovery—Mishoe v Atlantic Coast Line R. Co, 133 S E. 704, 135 S.C 316.

6. Tex—Gulf, C. & S. F Ry Co. v Gentry, Civ App, 197 S.W. 482.

Continuing journey by automobile or street car

(1) Where conductor of railroad train wrongfully causes passenger to disembark before reaching destination, at a station from which he can shortly thereafter continue journey on another train, but instead of waiting therefor passenger continues journey by automobile, railroad company is not responsible for damage sustained because of automobile trip.—Louisville & N R Co. v. McArthur, 102 So. 842, 137 Miss. 780.

(2) Where a passenger, who missed his train as a result of incorrect information, procured an automobile and made a trip across country in the cold, he cannot recover damages for inconvenience and discomfort suffered, etc., the misinformation, althought the carrier was responsible therefor, not being the proximate cause—Weeks v. Great Northern Ry Co., 175 N.W. 726, 43 N D 426, 8 A L R 1178.

(3) A woman who purchased a railroad ticket and boarded a train which would not stop at her destination, so that she was compelled to get off at an intermediate station, where she might have changed trains and have been carried to destination, although having a cause of action for the railroad's failure to transport her, could not recover for injuries she received by reason of going to destination on a street car from the intermediate point—Blaylock v Southern Ry. Co., 100 S E 599, 178 N.C 353.

7. Tex.—International, etc., R. Co v. Addison, 97 S.W. 1037, 100 Tex 241, 8 L.R A,N.S., 880, reversing, Civ.App, 93 S W. 1081.
10 C.J. p 838 note 68.

8. Va—Hines v. Garrett, 108 S E. 690, 131 Va. 125.
Wis—Le Beau v. Minneapolis, St P. & S S M. Ry. Co, 159 N W 577, 164 Wis. 30, L R.A 1917A 1017
10 C.J. p 838 note 67.

Injury from fall into cattle guard

Failure to stop train at flag station on signal of a woman wishing to take passage is not proximate cause of her injury from falling into cattle guard, she needlessly attempting to walk to her destination on the track—Brown v. Linville River Ry. Co, 94 S E 431, 174 N.C 694.

9. Ga—Louisville, etc., R Co v Spinks, 30 S.E. 968, 104 Ga 692.
Ky—Louisville & N R. Co. v. Pigg, 267 S W. 549, 206 Ky 470.

10. Ark—Missouri Pac R. Co. v. Coxwell, 30 S W.2d 209, 182 Ark. 145.
Wash—Fenlon v. Chicago, M & St. P. Ry. Co., 169 P. 863, 99 Wash 289.
W Va—White v. Ohio Valley Electric Ry Co, 127 S.E. 65, 98 W. Va 378
10 C J p 837 note 62.

Required to act hastily

Eighteen year old girl carried beyond her station, who was, in effect, ejected from train, having been required to act hastily and without reasonable opportunity for deliberation, and who was raped while walking back to station, did not assume the risk of walking back—Hines v. Garrett, 108 S E. 690, 131 Va 125

11. Ky—Louisville, etc, R Co. v. Roney, 127 S W. 158.
Tex—Pecos, etc, R. Co. v Williams, 78 S W 5, 34 Tex.Civ App 100.

12. Tex—Eastern Texas Electric Co v. Reagan, Civ App, 228 S W. 366.

Sudden storm

Where plaintiff was carried beyond her station to another and compelled to walk back, a sudden storm that caused her to get wet, was held an independent cause which negligence of defendant did not set in motion, and for which it was not liable.—Garland v. Carolina, C. & O Ry, 90 S E. 779, 172 N.C. 638, L R A.1917B 706.

13. Ala—Alabama Great Southern R Co v. Sellers, 9 So. 375, 93 Ala. 9, 30 Am S R 17.
10 C.J p 837 note 58

14. Ark—St Louis, etc, R. Co v. Evans, 126 S W. 1058, 94 Ark. 324.
10 C.J p 837 note 59.

c. Injuries after Reaching Destination

Injuries sustained by a passenger after reaching his destination are not ordinarily compensable.

A passenger who is discharged at a place other than his destination cannot ordinarily recover for injuries sustained after reaching his destination,[15] in the absence of the carrier's notice of the peculiar circumstances, as shown infra § 672.

§ 672. Special Damages Dependent on Knowledge of Circumstances

Special damages dependent on certain peculiar circumstances of which the carrier had no knowledge or notice are not recoverable.

Special damages sustained because of peculiar circumstances not within the contemplation of the parties when the contract was made, and of which circumstances the carrier had no knowledge, cannot be recovered.[16] This rule applies to increased illness for failure of the train to stop to receive a passenger, where the carrier had no notice of the illness,[17] mental anguish where the carrier has no notice of the reason therefor,[18] injuries sustained by the passenger after reaching his destination in the absence of the carrier's notice of the peculiar circumstances,[19] loss of profits in an enterprise which is interfered with by delay of the passenger in reaching his destination, the danger of such loss not having been known to the carrier,[20] and a loss sustained by a passenger in being prevented from procuring employment by failure of the train to stop at his destination, in the absence of knowledge by the carrier that the purpose of the trip was to procure employment.[21]

Where the carrier has knowledge or is notified of the peculiar circumstances, special damages sustained may be recovered,[22] such as those resulting from a failure to keep a professional or business engagement,[23] or from illness;[24] and, under this rule,

15. Ala.—Central of Georgia Ry. Co v. Barnitz, 73 So. 471, 198 Ala 156, reversing 70 So. 945, 14 Ala App. 354

Going from depot to home

A passenger wrongfully carried past her destination to which she returned cannot recover for injuries received while going from the depot at destination to her mother's home, although she paid her own passage back to destination—Central of Georgia Ry. Co v. Barnitz, 73 So. 471, 198 Ala. 156, reversing 70 So. 945, 14 Ala App. 354.

Premature departure of person to meet plaintiff

Where defendant carrier's train passed plaintiff passenger's destination, which was a flag station, and then shortly returned thereto to let her off, but in meantime her kinsman who was at station to meet her, left the station on seeing the train go by, inconvenience, discomfort, and hardship resulting from the premature departure of plaintiff's kinsman was held not compensable—Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry. v. Campbell, 101 So. 615, 212 Ala. 27.

Cold contracted after reaching home

A cold, contracted by a passenger a few days after reaching home, cannot be held attributable to the inconvenience of being carried a short distance past his destination and back again, after an all-night ride and other conditions over which the carrier had no control—Schaff v. Boatright, Tex Civ.App., 243 S.W 1116.

16. Ala.—Nashville, C. & St. L Ry. v. Campbell, 101 So. 615, 212 Ala. 27—Louisville & N. R. Co v. Clark, 87 So. 676, 205 Ala. 152, 14 A.L.R. 695.

N.C.—Causey v. Davis, 116 S.E. 401, 185 N.C. 155.

10 C.J. p 838 note 69.

Disembarkment at wrong station

Railroad having no knowledge that passenger's destination was not the station at which she left train, and that she was required to drive twenty-five miles from such station to reach her home, was not liable for damages sustained by her from exposure and from cold and rain during such ride, which she would not have sustained if railroad had not negligently caused her to miss another train for which she had a ticket—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Clark, 87 So. 676, 205 Ala. 152, 14 A.L.R. 695

17. S.C.—Berley v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 65 S.E. 456, 83 S.C. 411.

18. N.C.—Causey v. Davis, 116 S.E. 401, 185 N.C. 155.

10 C.J. p 838 note 69 [b].

Failure to arrive in time for funeral

In an action for breach of a contract to transport plaintiff, where it was shown that because of delay plaintiff failed to make proper connections, and was obliged to spend two dollars and thirty cents for automobile hire, and then failed to arrive in time to attend her stepmother's funeral, it was held that, in the absence of any showing of knowledge of the special circumstances on the part of the railroad, recovery was properly restricted to the amount of actual damages.—Causey v. Davis, 116 S.E. 401, 185 N.C. 155.

Fright

Where a female passenger on a railroad was carried beyond her station, and the train stopped near the next station, and the passenger walked at night and without escort through the town to the house of a friend, she could not show that she was frightened by hearing loud voices of negro men who were walking behind her, unless it also appeared that the locality was one in which such occasion for fright was likely to occur, and that the railroad company had notice of this—Central of Georgia R Co. v. Dorsey, 42 S.E. 1024, 116 Ga. 719.

Humiliation

Damages for the humiliation caused by profane language used by negroes in the presence of plaintiff's wife cannot be recovered, where it is not shown that the misconduct of the negroes was known to the carrier's conductor.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Ball, 61 S.W. 327, 25 Tex.Civ. App. 500.

19. Ala.—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Barnitz, 73 So. 471, 198 Ala. 156, reversing 70 So. 945, 14 Ala.App. 354.

20. Ga.—Georgia R. Co. v Hayden, 71 Ga. 518, 51 Am.R. 274.

10 C.J. p 839 note 70.

21. S.C.—Laird v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co, 126 S.E 135, 130 S.C. 368.

22. Tex.—International, etc., R. Co. v. Anchonda, Civ.App, 68 S.W. 743—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Hennesey, 49 S.W. 917, 20 Tex.Civ.App. 316.

10 C.J. p 839 note 74.

23. Ga.—Chappell v. Alabama Western R Co., 70 S.E. 208, 8 Ga.App. 787.

10 C.J. p 839 note 73.

24. Ark.—Southwestern Greyhound Lines v. Wisdom, 95 S.W.2d 904, 192 Ark. 903.

S.C.—Spigener v. Seaboard Air Line Ry., 98 S.E. 330, 111 S.C. 405.

damages from mental suffering or anguish may be allowed although no physical injury is sustained.[25]

§ 673. Nominal Damages

In an action for breach of the carrier's contract or duty to transport, at least nominal damages ordinarily may be recovered; but a passenger cannot recover even nominal damages for violation of the separate coach law unless he has suffered actual injury.

Where there has been a breach of the contract or duty to transport on the part of the carrier, but no actual damages have been sustained by the passenger, at least nominal damages may be recovered by him.[26] However, it has been held that a passenger cannot recover even nominal damages against a carrier for an infraction of the separate coach law unless he has suffered actual injury.[27]

§ 674. Exemplary Damages

Exemplary or punitive damages may be recovered where the carrier's breach of duty is attended with willfulness, gross negligence, insult, indignity, or other aggravating circumstances.

Where the breach of duty as to transporting the passenger, or delivering him at his destination within a reasonable time, is attended with circumstances of willfulness, gross negligence, insult, or indignity, exemplary or punitive damages may be recovered,[28] as where the carrier willfully delays the train,[29] or willfully leaves a passenger at the station,[30] or where the passenger is recklessly, wantonly, or willfully carried beyond his destination,[31] or wantonly set down and left at a wrong station.[32] In general, where there is a breach of contract only, or negligence not accompanied with circumstances of aggravation, no exemplary damages will be allowed,[33]

Contract to transport over smooth road

Bus passenger's recovery for carrier's breach of contract to transport passenger over smooth road on specific schedule effected by rerouting over rough road on different schedule, was held not limited to price of ticket for distance over which passenger was rerouted, where passenger had insufficient funds to purchase another ticket and ticket agent had been informed of passenger's illness when he sold ticket, since notice given carrier's agent entitled passenger to any special damages to which breach subjected passenger—Southwestern Greyhound Lines v. Wisdom, 95 S.W.2d 904, 192 Ark. 903.

Notification while train could have returned

In an action against a carrier for leaving an intending passenger at the station, a verdict for plaintiff was not improper because no notice that the passenger was ill was given the carrier before the train left the station, when it appeared that it had sufficient notice after the train left and while the train might still have gone back.—Spigener v. Seaboard Air Line Ry., 98 S.E. 330, 111 S.C. 405.

25. Ala.—Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry. v. Campbell, 101 So. 615, 212 Ala. 27.
Tex.—Jones v. Texas & N. O. R. Co., 55 S.W. 37, 23 Tex.Civ.App. 65—Pullman Palace-Car Co. v. McDonald, 21 S.W. 945, 2 Tex.Civ.App. 322.
10 C.J. p. 839 note 74 [b].

Knowledge of husband seriously ill

Damages for mental anguish are recoverable for failure promptly to deliver telegraphed ticket, where the railway agent knew it was sent to husband seriously ill that wife might have him with her when he died.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Rowe, 73 So. 634, 198 Ala. 353.

26. Ala.—Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry. v. Campbell, 101 So. 615, 212 Ala. 27.
N.C.—Blaylock v. Southern Ry. Co., 100 S.E. 599, 178 N.C. 353.
10 C.J. p. 839 note 76.

Inconvenience in walking short distance

Where the act of the carrier is a mere negligent omission of duty, and the passenger's injury consists wholly of the inconvenience occasioned by having to walk a short distance back to the station, the carrier is liable for nominal damages only.
Ga.—Southern R. Co. v. Cartledge, 73 S.E. 703, 10 Ga.App. 523.
Miss.—Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Fite, 7 So. 223, 67 Miss. 373.

Carrying beyond flag station

Passenger, carried two miles beyond flag station, may recover nominal damages—Western & A. R. Co. v. Jackson, 93 S.E. 547, 21 Ga.App. 50.

Colored passenger seated beside white passenger

White passenger was held entitled to only nominal damages from motorbus company, where he made no objection and did not move to another available seat when driver directed colored person to sit beside such passenger in white compartment—City Bus Co. v. Thomas, 160 So. 582, 172 Miss. 424.

27. Tex.—Connally v. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co., Civ.App., 187 S.W. 376—Weller v. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co., Civ.App., 187 S.W. 374—Norwood v. Galveston, etc., R. Co., 34 S.W. 180, 12 Tex.Civ.App. 560.

28. Ala.—Wilkey v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 118 So. 922, 218 Ala. 708—Purifoy v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 117 So. 466, 218 Ala. 11.
Ga.—Southeastern Greyhound Lines v. Suits, 190 S.E. 417, 55 Ga.App. 871.
Miss.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Hawkins, 74 So. 775, 114 Miss. 110, L.R.A.1917D 977.
10 C.J. p. 840 note 79.

29. S.C.—Fort v. Southern R. Co., 42 S.E. 196, 64 S.C. 423.

Delay of two and a half hours

Where a carrier delays train for two and one-half hours to accommodate fifty schoolgirls, attending concert, passenger, who because of such delay fails to make connections with train for her destination, being forced to spend night in depot hotel, is entitled to punitive damages.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Hawkins, 74 So. 775, 114 Miss. 110, L.R.A.1917D 977.

30. Ga.—Southeastern Greyhound Lines v. Suits, 190 S.E. 417, 55 Ga.App. 871.
S.C.—Spigener v. Seaboard Air Line Ry., 98 S.E. 330, 111 S.C. 405.

31. Miss.—Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. Moreland, 61 So. 424, 104 Miss. 312, 46 L.R.A.,N.S., 52.
10 C.J. p. 840 note 80.

32. S.C.—Campbell v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 65 S.E. 628, 83 S.C. 448, 23 L.R.A.,N.S., 1056, 137 Am.St.R. 824.
10 C.J. p. 840 note 81.

33. Ark.—Missouri Pacific Transp. Co. v. Williams, 109 S.W.2d 924, 194 Ark. 852.
N.C.—Picklesimer v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 138 S.E. 340, 194 N.C. 40, 52 A.L.R. 1330—White v. Norfolk-Southern Ry. Co., 89 S.E. 788, 172 N.C. 31, rehearing denied 91 S.E. 697, 173 N.C. 705.
S.C.—Penn v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 98 S.E. 793, 111 S.C. 499—Schirmer v. Charleston & W. C. Ry. Co., 98 S.E. 134, 111 S.C. 389.
10 C.J. p. 840 note 82.

as where the wrongful act is the result of a mistake made in good faith by an employee of the company,[34] such as in calling out a wrong station.[35]

Failure to stop at flag station. A willful failure to stop a train at a flag station, on a proper signal so to do, is ground for exemplary damages,[36] provided the signal is seen;[37] but such damages cannot be recovered, even though the signal is seen, if the failure to stop is not accompanied with willfulness or malice.[38]

§ 675. Inadequate or Excessive Damages

Ordinarily, the amount of damages is within the discretion of the jury or the court trying the case; but where the amount allowed is excessive the verdict may be set aside or the amount of damages may be reduced.

As a general rule the amount of damages to which a passenger is entitled for a wrongful breach of a contract of transportation is within the discretion of the jury, or the court trying the case, and the decision of the jury in this regard is generally conclusive, if the damages allowed are not of such an amount as to induce the belief that the jury were influenced by passion, partiality, corruption, or prejudice, or were misled by a mistaken view of the case.[39] If the amount allowed is so excessive as to

Adding acts of simple negligence

In an action against a street railroad, it was held that simple negligence in carrying plaintiff by her destination could not be added to simple negligence in depositing plaintiff in an unsafe place, so as to constitute refusal to back the car gross negligence, justifying punitive damages.—Jackson Light & Traction Co. v. Taylor, 72 So. 856, 112 Miss. 60

Brusque remarks of conductor

In an action against a street railroad for negligence in carrying plaintiff beyond her destination, remarks of defendant's conductor were held to amount at most to brusqueness, and not sufficient to constitute an insult justifying punitive damages—Jackson Light & Traction Co v. Taylor, 72 So. 856, 112 Miss. 60.

34. S.C.—Penn v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 98 S.E. 793, 111 S.C. 499.
10 C.J. p 841 note 83

Refusal to accept mileage book coupon

Where conductor refused to accept mileage book coupon and required passenger to pay cash fare, but thereafter discovered mistake and on following day tendered passenger difference between cash fare and coupon, passenger, refusing such difference and suing railroad for refusal to accept coupon, was not entitled to punitive damages.—Schirmer v. Charleston & W C. Ry. Co., 98 S E 134, 111 S C. 389.

Abandonment after passenger alighted temporarily

In passenger's action against bus company for injuries sustained when he was compelled to walk part of way to his destination when bus drove off without him after passenger had alighted temporarily, punitive damages were not recoverable where evidence did not show any intentional act by bus driver to abandon passenger nor that driver's conduct was malicious or wrongful.—Missouri Pacific Transp. Co. v. Williams, 109 S.W.2d 924, 194 Ark. 852.

35. Okl—St. Louis, etc., R Co. v. Freeland, 134 P. 47, 39 Okl. 60.
10 C J. p 841 note 84.

36. Ala—Wilkey v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co, 118 So. 922, 218 Ala. 708—Purifoy v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 117 So. 466, 218 Ala. 11.
N C—Williams v. Carolina, etc, R. Co, 57 S.E. 216, 144 N.C. 498, 12 L.R.A.,N.S, 191, 12 Ann.Cas 1000.
10 C J. p 841 note 85.

37. N C—Brown v. Linville River Ry. Co., 94 S.E. 431, 174 N C. 694.
10 C J. p 841 note 86.

38. Miss.—Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Mitchell, 35 So. 339, 83 Miss. 179—Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Faust, 32 So. 9.

Carrying beyond flag station

In the absence of malice, insult, or willful wrong, where a passenger train has failed to stop at a flag station where passengers get on and off, and a passenger for such station jumps off and walks back without sustaining actual damage or injury, exemplary damages are not recoverable.—Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Fite, 7 So 223, 67 Miss. 373—Dorrah v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 3 So. 36, 65 Miss. 14, 7 Am S.R. 629—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Scurr, 59 Miss. 456, 42 Am.R. 373.

39. Ga—Southern R. Co. v. Wallis, 66 S.E. 370, 133 Ga 553, 30 L.R.A., N S., 401, 18 Ann.Cas. 67.
10 C J p 841 note 90.

Damages held not excessive

(1) $8,660, as compensatory damages for injuries to feelings, humiliation, and mental suffering of passenger who was denied passage through gate to train, and was thrown down, cursed, and threatened, in presence of crowd, as clearly to indicate a punitive purpose, or primarily to entail a penal consequence.—Currie v. Davis, 126 S.E. 119, 130 S.C. 408, petition dismissed Davis v. Currie, 45 S. Ct. 88, 266 U.S. 182, 69 L.Ed. 234.

(2) $7,500, to enfeebled passenger put off train three-fourths mile from town, suffering from exposure and overexertion—Brewer v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 147 S E 596, 149 S C. 454.

(3) $2,000, for damages passenger sustained from breach of bus carrier's contract, entered into after carrier's ticket agent was informed that passenger was ill and that rough road would bring about recurrence of her trouble, to transport passenger over smooth road on specific schedule, where passenger was rerouted on more trying schedule over rough road, causing recurrence of hemorrhage and displacement of uterus, and passenger's physician testified that condition would remain and perhaps grow worse—Southwestern Greyhound Lines v Wisdom, 95 S.W. 2d 904, 192 Ark. 903.

(4) $1,925, to passenger who suffered heatstroke after being put down by bus carrier near noon on hot day in August nearly three miles beyond her station, where passenger was three months advanced in pregnancy and was required to remain in bed three or four weeks—Tri-State Transit Co. v. Martin, Miss, 179 So. 349.

(5) $1,000, for railroad's furnishing half-fare ticket to one applying and paying for full-fare ticket.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Penny, 114 So. 15, 22 Ala.App. 199.

(6) $1,000, for increased suffering from walking three-fourths mile back, after train carried passenger with appendicitis beyond destination.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Coxwell, 30 S W.2d 209, 182 Ark. 145.

(7) $450, where a female passenger was negligently carried beyond her station, being forced to walk back in the cold and mud so that her sore eyes were aggravated.—Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. Hearn, 71 So. 561, 111 Miss. 294.

(8) $200, in an action for damages for carrying a passenger beyond the point where she should have changed cars, where plaintiff was shown to have been highly annoyed and sufinduce such a belief, it may be set aside,[40] or the amount of damages may be reduced.[41] The above rules apply where the verdict includes exemplary damages.[42] fered mental distress, and to have been incumbered with a suitcase and the care of two small children, one of whom she was forced to carry along the railroad track for a quarter of a mile or more—Davis v. Stone, 251 S.W. 371, 159 Ark 156.

(9) $150, where a conductor failed, as requested, to notify a passenger when she reached her destination, Elizabeth, Ga., and refused to stop the train after it had passed through the station, and she paid fare to Marietta, Ga., where she left the train and secured conveyance back on a truck—Payne v. Prince, 108 S E 825, 27 Ga.App. 523.

(10) $79, in an action against a carrier for being carried past a station about a mile.—Houston E & W. T. Ry. Co. v. Thorn, Tex.Civ.App., 197 S W. 778.

Damages held adequate

$100, for inconvenience in being detained twenty-four hours in making connections on return railroad trip, caused by round trip ticket being deficiently made out.—Southern Ry Co v. Alspaugh, 140 So. 771, 25 Ala App. 72.

40. Ga.—Chattanooga, etc, R. Co. v Lyon, 15 S E. 24, 89 Ga. 16, 32 Am S.R. 72, 15 L R.A.,N.S, 857.
Wash.—Bartolini v. Grays Harbor R., etc., Co, 153 P. 4, 88 Wash. 341.
10 C.J. p 842 note 91.

Damages held excessive

(1) $750, where female passenger was set down at wrong place and forced to walk quarter to half mile to station in rain.—Case v. Yazoo & M. V R. Co, 74 So. 773, 114 Miss. 21.

(2) $400 for interruption of his journey, where, after plaintiff, a traveling salesman, missed his train because, as alleged, it failed to stop at the station, he drove to another town for his own pleasure and on the next day went to his originally intended destination on the same ticket he had purchased the day before, and he could have remained in comfort in a hotel in the place where he was left.—St. Louis, I. M & S. Ry. Co. v. Hix, 141 S.W. 492, 101 Ark. 90.

(3) $100 actual and punitive damages to a passenger who failed to protest when compelled to ride, together with her friends, in a baggage coach for a distance of eight miles.—Illinois Cent. R. Co., v. Shackleford, 71 So. 298, 111 Miss 121.

Excessive nominal damages

$1000, awarded to a passenger carried two miles beyond his station, cannot be sustained as nominal damages.—Western & A. R Co v. Jackson, 93 S E 547, 21 Ga App. 50.

41. Nev.—Burrus v. Nevada-California-Oregon R. Co, 145 P. 926, 38 Nev 156.
10 C.J p 843 note 92.

Excessive damages reduced

(1) $1,500 reduced to $1200, to girl put off at wrong station, with result that she contracted cold—Gulf, M & N. R. Co v. Jones, 125 So 114, 155 Miss 689.

(2) $1,500, reduced to $750, for train's departing ahead of announced schedule—Louisville & N. R Co v McCue, 114 So 218, 216 Ala. 616, 61 A.L.R. 400.

(3) $1500 reduced to $300, in an action against a carrier for carrying a child of tender years beyond its destination in violation of a special contract, where the child merely was frightened and caught a cold.—Yazoo & M V. R Co v. O'Keefe, 88 So. 1, 125 Miss 536.

(4) $1,250 reduced to $500, for carrying train passenger beyond her destination.—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Smith, 117 So. 74, 217 Ala. 501, 58 A.L.R. 1058.

(5) $800 reduced to $550, in an action by a person negligently directed to the wrong train, necessitating a debarkation, a walk of a mile and a half and a cold night ride on a hand car, resulting in a cold and exposure, but no permanent impairment of health.—Hines v. Witherspoon, 219 S W. 1014, 143 Ark. 131.

(6) $750 reduced to $250, where a railroad permitted negroes to be served while white passengers were in the dining car, on perceiving which plaintiff arose and left the car, and the steward insisted in the hearing of others that she pay for the meal ordered—Shelton v. Chicago, R. I & P R Co, 201 S W. 521, 139 Tenn 378, L R A 1918D 707.

(7) $500 reduced to $400, in favor of a female passenger, who was carried beyond her station, it appearing she suffered no ill effects save fatigue and the loss of a meal—Yazoo & M V. R. Co. v. Smithart, 71 So. 562, 111 Miss. 299.

(8) $500 reduced to $200, to passenger set down at wrong station, who spent night with station agent's family and proceeded on the next day.—Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. Duke, 74 So. 693, 113 Miss 881.

(9) $500 reduced to $200, to passenger by reason of conductor waking him and ordering him to vacate berth unless he paid additional fare, conductor intimating that plaintiff had altered his tourist sleeper ticket to standard sleeping car ticket.—Galveston, H & S. A. Ry. Co. v Wurzbach, Tex Civ.App, 219 S W 252

(10) $400 reduced to $200, for injuries to passenger, walking over wet road at night because of earlier train's failure to stop.—Chicago, R. I. & P Ry Co. v. Sims, 292 S W 94, 173 Ark. 256.

(11) $250 reduced to $100, to negro passenger carried beyond destination by train, for ill effects occasioned by walking in wet and cold and for loss of time—St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co. v. Talley, 34 S.W.2d 463, 182 Ark. 1155.

(12) $250 reduced to $50, to passenger for street railroad's refusal to issue transfer, where passenger was not ejected but left street car at the transfer point and borrowed money sufficient to pay extra fare, and passenger was not afraid to go about streets at night.—Birmingham Electric Co v. Rylant, 174 So 511, 234 Ala. 332.

(13) $250 to each of two women for requiring them to ride in negro coach reduced to $50 each, where they rode only three or four miles, their escorts were near by, conductor's wife was in seat across aisle from them, and they were invited into negro compartment because other compartment of car was crowded with men, many of whom were smoking—Chicago, R. I. & P Ry Co v. Allison, 191 S W. 15, 126 Ark. 495.

(14) $200 for wife reduced to $100, where husband and wife were carried beyond their station and walked several miles, but were not subjected to indignities and suffered no mental anguish.—Chicago, R. I. & P Ry Co v Blundell, 191 S.W. 940, 127 Ark 82.

(15) $50 reduced to $10, in favor of plaintiff who was negligently carried beyond her station, but who was only delayed about an hour and three-quarters.—Louisiana & A. Ry Co. v. Mason, 183 S.W. 977, 122 Ark 477.

42. Ky.—Louisville, etc, R Co. v. Ritchel, 147 S W 411, 148 Ky. 701, 41 L R A.,N.S, 958, Ann.Cas.1913E 517.
10 C.J. p 843 note 93.

Punitive damages not excessive

In an action against a carrier for leaving a passenger at the station knowing that she was sick and intended to board the train, a verdict of $5,000 punitive damages was not excessive.—Spigener v. Seaboard Air Line Ry., 98 S.E 330, 111 S.C. 405.

H. PERSONAL INJURIES IN GENERAL

1. CARE REQUIRED AND LIABILITY OF CARRIER GENERALLY

§ 676. Carrier as Insurer

A carrier of passengers is liable only for injuries to them caused by its negligence, and is not an insurer of the safety of passengers.

The general rule, as stated in Corpus Juris, which has been approved,[43] is that a carrier of passengers is not as absolutely liable for the safety of the passengers as a carrier of goods is for the safety of the goods; but it is liable only for injuries to passengers which are caused by its negligence[44] in failing to exercise the proper degree of care, skill, and diligence for such passengers' safety, as explained infra §§ 677, 678, and, therefore, although it has been said that the line of demarcation between the highest degree of care, as explained infra § 678, and insurance is not easy of description,[45] the carrier is not an insurer of the safety of passengers,[46] in the sense in which a carrier of goods

43. La.—Martin v. Interurban Transp Co., 131 So. 514, 518, 15 La. App. 256
N.Y.—McKinney v. New York, W. & B. Ry. Co., 179 N.Y.S. 535, 537.

44. U.S.—Austro-American S. S. Co. v. Thomas, N.Y., 248 F. 231, 160 C.C.A. 309, L.R.A.1918D 873.
Ala.—Alabama Great Southern R. Co. v. Johnson, 71 So. 620, 14 Ala.App. 558.
Ark.—Arkansas Power & Light Co. v. Boyd, 65 S.W.2d 919, 188 Ark. 254
Ky.—McDermott v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 206 S.W. 6, 182 Ky. 22.
La.—Matteson v. Teche Greyhound Lines, App., 178 So. 272—Peterson v. Louisiana Power & Light Co., App., 174 So. 644.
Me.—Chaput v. Lussier, 165 A. 573, 132 Me. 48.
Md.—Steinberg v. Pullman Co., 144 A. 363, 156 Md. 329.
Mass.—Intriligator v. Goldberg, 12 N.E.2d 730.
Mich.—Selman v. City of Detroit, 278 N.W. 112, 283 Mich. 413.
Miss.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Compiretto, 102 So. 837, 137 Miss. 766.
Mo.—Bond v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., 288 S.W. 777, 315 Mo. 987—Stofer v. Kansas City Public Service Co., 41 S.W.2d 614, 226 Mo. App. 376—Bennett v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., 7 S.W.2d 1028, 223 Mo.App. 28
Tenn.—Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry. v. Hopper, 217 S.W. 661, 142 Tenn. 200—Wishone v. Yellow Cab Co., App., 97 S.W.2d 452.
Va.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. Baker, 143 S.E. 299, 150 Va. 647, addendum to opinion denying rehearing 141 S.E. 753, 149 Va. 549, denying rehearing 140 S.E. 648, 149 Va. 549—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. Hobbs, 128 S.E. 538, 142 Va. 96, 41 A.L.R. 1083.
10 C.J. p. 863 note 19.

Death of passenger

A common carrier of passengers, other than a railroad, street railway, or electric railroad, is liable for the death of a passenger only when the death is caused by the negligence of the carrier itself, or the unfitness or gross negligence of its agents or servants.—Finnegan v. Checker Taxi Co., Mass., 14 N.E.2d 127.

Rule regarding liability of carrier of goods is inapplicable to carrier of passengers.—Martin v. Interurban Transp. Co., 131 So. 514, 15 La.App. 256.

45. Iowa.—Hauser v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co., 219 N.W. 60, 61, 205 Iowa 940, 58 A.L.R. 687.

"Carrier's duty stops just short of insuring the safety of the passenger."—Kliebenstein v. Iowa Ry. & Light Co., 188 N.W. 129, 130, 193 Iowa 892.

46. U.S.—Kitsap County Transp. Co. v. Harvey, C.C.A.Wash., 15 F.2d 166, 48 A.L.R. 1420—Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. Ciechowski, C.C.A.N.Y., 10 F.2d 82, certiorari denied 46 S.Ct. 352, 270 U.S. 654, 70 L.Ed. 783—The Korea Maru, Hawaii, 254 F. 397, 165 C.C.A. 617—Austro-American S. S. Co. v. Thomas, N.Y., 248 F. 231, 160 C.C.A. 309, L.R.A.1918D 873
Ala.—Mosley v. Teche Lines, 166 So. 800, 232 Ala. 110—Alabama Great Southern R. Co. v. Johnson, 71 So. 620, 14 Ala.App. 558.
Ark.—Arkansas Power & Light Co. v. Boyd, 65 S.W.2d 919, 188 Ark. 254—Arkansas Power & Light Co. v. Mart, 65 S.W.2d 39, 188 Ark. 202.
Cal.—Nicholson v. Porter, 5 P.2d 659, 118 Cal.App. 555—Sinan v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., 284 P. 1041, 103 Cal.App. 703.
Ill.—Lundquist v. Chicago Rys. Co., 137 N.E. 92, 305 Ill. 106, affirming 221 Ill.App. 654—Letush v. New York Cent. R. Co., 267 Ill.App. 526.
Iowa.—Crozier v. Hawkeye Stages, 228 N.W. 320, 209 Iowa 313—Hauser v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co., 219 N.W. 60, 205 Iowa 940, 58 A.L.R. 687.
Kan.—Cloud v. Kansas-Oklahoma Traction Co., 173 P. 338, 103 Kan. 249.
Ky.—Schooler v. Louisville & I. R. Co., 82 S.W.2d 221, 259 Ky. 80—Peak v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 297 S.W. 1107, 221 Ky. 97—Payne v. Moore, 244 S.W. 869, 196 Ky. 454—McDermott v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 206 S.W. 6, 182 Ky. 22.
La.—Peyerson v. Louisiana Power & Light Co., App., 174 So. 644—Baptiste v. New Orleans Public Service, App., 161 So. 783—Martin v. Interurban Transp Co., 131 So. 514, 15 La.App. 256—Nee v. New Orleans Public Service, 123 So. 135, 11 La.App. 1.
Me.—Chaput v. Lussier, 165 A. 573, 132 Me. 48.
Md.—Cumberland & Westernport Transit Co. v. Metz, 149 A. 4, 158 Md. 424, reargument denied 149 A. 565, 158 Md. 424, appeal dismissed American Oil Co. v. Metz, 51 S.Ct. 40, 282 U.S. 801, 75 L.Ed. 720—Steinberg v. Pullman Co., 144 A. 363, 156 Md. 329—Pugh v. Washington Ry. & Electric Co., 113 A. 732, 138 Md. 226—Hagerstown & F. Ry. Co. v. State, 99 A. 376, 129 Md. 318.
Mass.—Carlson v. Boston & M. R. R., 168 N.E. 171, 269 Mass. 60—Fitzmaurice v. Boston, R. B. & L. R. Co., 152 N.E. 239, 256 Mass. 217.
Miss.—Teche Lines v. Britt, 170 So. 294
Mo.—Sakowski v. Baird, 69 S.W.2d 649, 334 Mo. 951—Lacks v. Wells, 44 S.W.2d 154, 329 Mo. 327—Bond v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., 288 S.W. 777, 315 Mo. 987—Stofer v. Kansas City Public Service Co., 41 S.W.2d 614, 226 Mo.App. 376.
N.J.—Spalt v. Eaton, 192 A. 576, 118 N.J.Law 327.
N.Y.—Scott v. New York Cent. R. Co., 216 N.Y.S. 163, 216 App.Div. 623—O'Brien v. New York Rys. Co., 174 N.Y.S. 116, 185 App.Div. 867—Morgan v. Oceanic Steam Nav. Co., 224 N.Y.S. 420, 130 Misc. 570—McKinney v. New York, W. & B. Ry. Co., 179 N.Y.S. 535.
N.C.—Mills v. Atlantic Coast Line R. R., 90 S.E. 221, 172 N.C. 266.
Pa.—Burns v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 144 A. 103, 294 Pa. 277—Petrie v. Kaufmann & Baer Co., 139 A. 878, 291 Pa. 211—Swink v. Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co., 120 A. 827, 277 Pa. 220.
Tenn.—Wishone v. Yellow Cab Co., App., 97 S.W.2d 452—Nashville Ry. & Light Co. v. Owen, 11 Tenn.App.

is said to be an insurer of the safety of the goods, as stated supra § 71, and hence is not liable for injuries caused by an accident which an exercise of the proper degree of care, skill, and diligence could not anticipate or prevent, as stated infra §§ 678, 697.

The carrier, however, is said to be an insurer against all risks caused or increased by its negligence, without any fault on the part of the passenger;[47] and under some statutes, a railroad company is liable for injuries sustained by a passenger while being transported, unless they arise from the passenger's own criminal negligence or from his violation of some express regulation of the company brought to the passenger's notice,[48] but such a statute has been held not to apply to street railroads, as announced infra § 686, to a drover riding on a freight train in charge of stock,[49] or to an intending passenger.[50]

§ 677. General Rule as to Care Required

A carrier must exercise as high a degree of care, skill, and diligence in receiving a passenger, conveying him to his destination, and setting him down safely as the means of conveyance and the circumstances will permit.

Although there is much conflict in the statements by the various courts and authorities as to the care required of a carrier in transporting passengers and its consequent liability, as explained infra § 678, and although the carrier does not insure that the passenger will be carried safely, as stated supra § 676, the general rule, as stated in Corpus Juris, which has received approval,[51] when reduced to its simplest form may be stated to be that the carrier is bound to exercise as high a degree of care, skill, and diligence in receiving a passenger, conveying him to his destination, and setting him down safely as the means of conveyance employed and the circumstances of the case will permit;[52] and that

19—Cecil v. Jernigan, 4 Tenn App 80—Price-Bass Co. v. Dawson, 7 Tenn.Civ.App. 192

Tex.—Fort Worth & D. C. Ry Co. v. Kidwell, 245 S.W. 667, 112 Tex. 89, answering certified questions, Civ. App., 249 S.W. 303—Trinity & B. V. Ry Co. v. McDonald, Com App., 208 S.W. 912, reversing, Civ.App., 160 S.W. 984—Schaff v. Gordon, Civ.App., 214 S.W. 638.

Utah.—Taylor v Bamberger Electric R Co., 220 P. 695, 62 Utah 552.

Va.—City of Portsmouth v. Madrey, 191 S.E. 595—Virginia Electric & Power Co. v. Lenz, 164 S.E 572, 158 Va. 732—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. Baker, 143 S.E. 299, 150 Va. 647, addendum to opinion denying rehearing 141 S.E. 753, 149 Va. 549, denying rehearing 140 S.E. 648, 149 Va. 549—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. Hibbs, 138 S.E 538, 142 Va 96, 41 A.L.R. 1083—Derring's Adm'r v. Virginia Ry: & Power Co., 95 S.E. 405, 122 Va. 517.

Wis.—Ormond v. Wisconsin Power & Light Co., 216 N.W. 489, 194 Wis 305.

10 C.J. p 863 note 21.

Corpus Juris statement has received judicial approval in Payne v. Cohlmeyer, C.C.A.Ill., 275 F. 803, 805.

Rule well recognized

"The rule that a carrier of passengers is not an insurer of the safety of its passengers is so universally recognized that it does not require the citation of authorities to support it."—Louisville & N R Co. v. Compiretto, 102 So. 837, 137 Miss. 766.

Statute imposing highest degree of care on the carrier for a passenger for hire does not constitute the carrier an insurer of the passenger's safety—Heck v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 196 P. 521, 59 Mont 106.

Owner or operator of elevator as not insurer of safety of passengers see infra § 687.

47. Ind.—Grand Rapids, etc., R. Co. v Boyd, 65 Ind. 526.

As insurer against injury by negligent or willful acts of employees see infra § 689.

48. U.S.—Clark v. Zarniko, Neb., 106 F. 607, 45 C.C.A. 494.

10 C.J. p 864 note 25.

Merely presumption of negligence

Such a statutory provision merely establishes a presumption that damages inflicted on a passenger are entirely attributable to the negligence of the railroad company, and does not make it an insurer of the safety of passengers—Clark v. Zarniko, Neb., 106 F. 607, 45 C.C.A. 494.

"Railroad company"

Corporation organized under general railroad statute with authority to construct and operate a railway between two cities for carrying passengers is a "railroad company," within such a statute.—Webb v. Omaha & S. I. Ry. Co., 164 N.W. 564, 101 Neb. 596.

49. Neb.—Omaha, etc., R. Co. v. Crow, 74 N.W. 1066, 54 Neb. 747, 69 Am.S.R. 741.

50. Neb.—Scott v. Union Pac. R. Co., 155 N.W. 217, 99 Neb. 97—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v Mann, 111 N.W. 379, 78 Neb. 541.

51. U.S.—The Korea Maru, Hawaii, 254 F 397, 399, 165 C.C.A. 617

La.—Shally v. New Orleans Public Service, Sewerage & Water Board, 1 La.App. 770, 773, affirmed 105 So 606, 159 La. 519.

N.Y.—Anderson v. Fidelity & Casualty Co of New York, 166 N.Y.S. 640, 100 Misc 411, modified on other grounds 170 N.Y.S. 431, 183 App.Div. 170, which is affirmed 127 N.E. 584, 228 N.Y. 475.

52. U.S.—Trapnell v. Hines, C.C.A. N.J., 268 F 504, 505, 506—Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co. v. Alcorn, C.C.A.Pa., 266 F 50.

N.Y.—Morgan v Oceanic Steam Nav. Co., 224 N.Y.S. 420, 130 Misc 570.

N.D.—Faubion v Minneapolis, St. P. & S. S Ry. Co., 177 N.W. 371, 45 N.D. 269.

Ohio—Canton Motor Coach v. Hall, 189 N.E 505, 46 Ohio App. 516.

10 C.J. p 854 note 72

All reasonable means and measures to secure the safety and comfort of passengers must be employed.

Cal.—Little v. Los Angeles Ry. Corporation, 271 P. 134, 94 Cal.App. 303

N.Y.—Hershey v New York, O. & W. Ry Co., 179 N.Y.S. 396, 398, 189 App.Div. 270.

Implied condition

There is an implied condition on part of the carrier with each passenger that the latter shall not be put in jeopardy of life or limb by any fault, even the slightest, of the servants of the carriers, and defendant owed to a minor child of plaintiff, a passenger, the duty to conduct him in safety to his destination—Scarborough v. Louisiana Ry. & Nav. Co., 82 So 286, 145 La. 323.

Incidental duty

The duty to safely transport passengers is a duty incident to the business for which the carrier was incorporated.—Abbott v Johnstown, G. & K. Horse R. Co., 80 N.Y. 27, 36 Am.R. 572.

should any injury happen to the passenger not contributed to by his own negligence, but due to negligence on the part of the carrier or its servants, damages may be recovered;[53] and in some jurisdictions the carrier is made liable for such negligence, by statute,[54] even though the acts complained of were not within the scope of the agent's or servant's employment, as stated infra § 689.

This duty of care is the same whether the liability of the carrier is claimed as a breach of contract or as a failure to perform the duty of a carrier.[55] A statute regulating the carrier's duty as to care, in force at the time of an accident, is a part of a passenger's contract of carriage, so that a subsequent repeal of the statute cannot operate retrospectively to relieve the carrier.[56]

Applicability of rule of common carrier, as to degree of care required as to passengers, to patrons of theaters and other places of public amusement see C.J.S. title Theaters and Shows § 41, also 62 C.J. p 867 notes 26-32.

Alternative duties. It may be that the duties of are carrier, in regard to the safety of a passenger, are in the alternative, so that, while no one duty is specific they may not all be neglected.[57]

Private carrier compared. A higher degree of care is imposed on a common carrier of passengers than may be imposed on a private carrier.[58]

§ 678. Statements of Degree of Care Required

a. In general
b. Limitations of rules
c. Continuance of care; varying according to time and place
d. Private carrier

a. In General

A common carrier of passengers should exercise such a degree of care, skill, and diligence for the safety of its passengers as is required by the nature and risk of the undertaking, in view of the mode of conveyance and other circumstances involved. This has been held to require "a high degree of care," "the highest degree of care, skill, and diligence," "the highest practicable care," or "extraordinary care and caution."

Although the classification of negligence by degrees has been condemned,[59] various forms of expression have been used to indicate the degree of care, skill, and diligence which a carrier of passengers must exercise in transporting a passenger, such as that it must exercise "a high degree of care,"[60] "the highest degree of care, prudence and fore-

Care required as to:
Licensees and trespassers on trains see Railroads § 925.
Passengers in palace or sleeping cars see infra §§ 909-912.
Passengers on vessels see Shipping §§ 192-195.
Premises, machinery, and appliances see infra §§ 713-722, 735-742.

53. N.J.—Spalt v. Eaton, 192 A. 576, 118 N.J Law 327.
N.Y.—Morgan v. Oceanic Steam Nav. Co., 224 N Y S. 420, 130 Misc. 570.
10 C.J. p 854 note 73.

54. Mont.—Taillon v. Mears, 74 P. 421, 29 Mont. 161, 1 Ann.Cas. 613.
10 C.J. p 854 note 74.
Proximate cause of injury generally see infra §§ 755, 756.

55. U.S.—The Korea Maru, Hawaii, 254 F. 397, 165 C.C.A. 617.

56. Wash.—Singer v. Martin, 164 P. 1105, 96 Wash. 231.

57. N.J.—Kinder v. Erie R. Co, 162 A. 387, 109 N.J.Law 469, reversing 146 A. 923, 7 N.J.Misc 637, followed in 137 A. 88, 103 N J Law 316—Gore v. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co., 98 A. 389, 89 N.J.Law 224.

58. Wash.—Garrow v. Seattle Taxicab Co., 238 P 623, 135 Wash. 630, 45 A.L.R 293.
See also infra § 678 d.

59. Minn.—Campbell v. Duluth, etc., R. Co., 120 N W. 375, 107 Minn 378, 22 L.R.A.,N.S., 190.
10 C.J. p 854 note 76.

60. U S—Bellocchio v. Italia Flotte Riunite Cosulich Line Lloyd Sabaudo Navigazione Generale, C.C.A.N.Y., 84 F.2d 975—Kitsap County Transp. Co. v. Harvey, C.C.A. Wash., 15 F.2d 166, 48 A.L.R 1420.
Ala.—Capital Motor Lines v. Gillette, 177 So. 881, 235 Ala 157
Fla.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v Norton, 78 So. 982, 75 Fla. 597.
Ky.—Dix v. Gross, 111 S.W.2d 673, 271 Ky. 231—Adams v. Hilton, 110 S.W.2d 1088, 270 Ky. 818—Trout's Adm'r v. Ohio Valley Electric Ry. Co., 43 S.W.2d 507, 241 Ky. 144.
Md.—Owners' Realty Co. of Baltimore City v. Richardson, 148 A. 543, 158 Md. 367.
Minn.—Lentz v. Minneapolis & St. Paul Suburban R. Co, 160 N.W 794, 135 Minn. 310.
N J.—Wall v. G. R. Wood, Inc., 197 A. 41, 119 N J.Law 442—Buckalew v Eaton, 191 A. 773, 118 N.J.Law 188—Seckler v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 174 A. 501, 113 N.J.Law 299—Jackson v. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co., 170 A. 22, 111 N.J.Law 487—Rogers v. New York Cent. R. Co., 150 A. 357, 106 N.J.Law 394—Barney v Hudson & M. R. Co., 145 A. 5, 105 N J.Law 274, affirmed 148 A. 917, 106 N.J.Law 230, 231—Sheridan v. New Jersey & N. Y R. Co., 141 A. 811, 104 N.J.Law 622—McBride v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 123 A. 765, 99 N J.Law 464—Maldonato v. Ironbound Transp. Co., 156 A. 275, 9 N.J.Misc. 985.
N.Y.—Hoffman v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 177 N.Y.S. 140, 183 App.Div. 414.
N.C.—Lindsey v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co, 92 S E. 166, 173 N C. 390—Mills v. Atlantic Coast Line R. R., 90 S E. 221, 172 N C. 266.
Tex.—St. Louis, S. F & T. Ry. Co. v. Gore, Civ.App., 69 S.W.2d 186, error dismissed.
Utah—Taylor v. Bamberger Electric R. Co., 220 P. 695, 62 Utah 552.
"This term does not lend itself to precise legal definition, absolutely resolving every case. It is relative in the sense that the thing to be done to avert injury depends upon the special circumstances; and this ordinarily involves a factual inquiry. It is such degree of care as is commensurate with the risk of harm—such as one exercising a high degree of care, skill, and diligence, directed to the passengers' safety, and consistent with the nature of the carrier's undertaking and the practical operation of the vehicle or mode of conveyance, would under all the circumstances deem prudent to obviate the danger, known or reasonably to be anticipated."—Spalt v. Eaton, 192 A. 576, 578, 118 N.J.Law 327
Synonymous terms
"'A high degree of care' is pracsight," as explained infra in this section, "the greatest possible care and diligence,"[61] and as explained infra in this section, "the utmost care and diligence," or "extraordinary care and caution."

In the proper use of the term, however, "negligence" is simply the failure to use the amount of care, skill, and diligence required by the nature of the undertaking and the circumstances of the case, and speaking in this sense of the degree of care required of the carrier of passengers who has intrusted to it the personal safety of the passenger, it is evident that, whatever form of expression is used, the skill, care, and diligence should be proportioned to the nature and risk of the undertaking, in view of the nature of the means of conveyance employed,[62] and sometimes involves custom and knowledge actual or attributable to one or the other of the parties,[63] although it has been held that the degree of care required under particular circumstances and conditions cannot be lessened by the carrier's custom in regard to particular acts.[64]

The highest degree of care means only reasonable care in the superlative degree,[65] and ordinary care imports all the care which the peculiar circumstances of the place or occasion reasonably require, and this will be increased or diminished as danger of accident or injury is increased or diminished.[66] Therefore, while it might be proper in one sense to say that the care required is that which an ordinarily careful and prudent person would exercise in such business, yet, on the other hand, the nature of the business requires the use of a very high degree of care, prudence, and foresight, and it would be inaccurate and misleading to say that ordinary and reasonable care is sufficient to relieve the carrier from the charge of negligence,[67] although it has been held that, in view of the modern tendency to refuse to recognize degrees of negligence, the care required of the carrier may be expressed by the terms "due care," "reasonable care," or "ordinary care,"[68] particularly in regard to dangers which are not usually incident to the mode of conveyance used.[69] tically synonymous to 'highest care.'"—Taddeo v. Tilton, 289 N.Y.S. 427, 431, 248 App.Div. 490.

61. U.S.—Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Derby, Pa., 14 How. 468, 14 L.Ed. 502.
10 C.J. p 855 note 78.

62. Md.—Pugh v. Washington Ry. & Electric Co. 113 A. 732, 735, 138 Md. 226—Tall v. Baltimore Steam Packet Co., 44 A. 1007, 1008, 90 Md. 253, 47 L.R.A. 120
N.H.—Wright v. Boston & M. R. R., 139 A. 370, 83 N.H. 136, 56 A.L.R. 975
N.J.—Jones v. People's Rapid Transit Co., 153 A. 373, 9 N.J.Misc. 315
N.Y.—Taddeo v. Tilton, 289 N.Y.S. 427, 248 App.Div. 290—Allessi v. New York Rapid Transit Corporation, 297 N.Y.S. 1011, 163 Misc. 815—Morgan v. Oceanic Steam Nav. Co., 224 N.Y.S. 420, 130 Misc. 570
Tex.—St. John v. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co., 80 S.W. 235, 236—International & G. N. Ry. Co. v. Williams, Civ.App., 183 S.W. 1185.
10 C.J. p 855 note 81.

Corpus Juris statement has received judicial approval in De Jager v. Andringa, 217 N.W. 332, 333, 241 Mich. 474.

63. Ill.—Sorenson v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 155 Ill.App. 606.

64. Tex.—International, etc., R. Co. v. Cruseturner, 98 S.W. 423, 44 Tex.Civ.App. 181.
10 C.J. p 855 note 83.

65. D.C.—Pistorio v. Washington R. & E. Co., 46 App.D.C. 479, 484.

66. U.S.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Rogers, N.J., 244 F. 76, 156 C.C.A. 504.
Ill.—Bartz v. Chicago City Ry. Co., 116 Ill.App. 554
10 C.J. p 855 note 84

"Protection required is obviously greater with respect to matters wherein the passenger is helpless or of which he may be expected to be ignorant."—Wright v. Boston & M. R. R., 139 A. 370, 372, 83 N.H. 136, 56 A.L.R. 975.

More dangerous the character of machine used by a common carrier of passengers, the greater the degree of care and caution required in its use and occupation.—Cates v. Hall, 88 S.E. 524, 171 N.C. 360.

Where passenger has full knowledge of danger and can avoid it, carrier need not exercise high standard of care for protection.—Wright v. Boston & M. R. R., 139 A. 370, 83 N.H. 136, 56 A.L.R. 975.

67. U.S.—Giger v. New York, N. H. & H. R. Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 60 F.2d 63.
Iowa.—Kliebenstein v. Iowa Ry. & Light Co., 188 N.W. 129, 193 Iowa 892.
Ohio.—Cleveland Elec. Ry. Co. v. Pifer, 20 Ohio Cir.Ct.,N.S., 435.
10 C.J. p 855 note 85

68. Ind.—Terre Haute Indianapolis & Eastern Traction Co. v. Scott, 150 N.E. 777, 197 Ind. 587, 43 A.L.R. 1029—Terre Haute, etc., Traction Co. v. Phillips, 132 N.E. 740, 191 Ind. 374—Pittsburgh, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Stephens, 157 N.E. 58, 86 Ind.App. 251
Md.—Pugh v. Washington Ry. & Electric Co., 113 A. 732, 138 Md. 226.
N.J.—Sandler v. Hudson & M. R. Co., 151 A. 99, 8 N.J.Misc. 537, affirmed 156 A. 459, 108 N.J.Law 203.
Wis.—Ormond v. Wisconsin Power & Light Co., 216 N.W. 489, 194 Wis. 305
10 C.J. p 856 note 86.

"It cannot be said that the duty to use care which arises out of the relation of carrier and passenger differs in kind, character, or degree from the duty which arises out of the relation of master and servant, or out of any other relation which imposes the legal duty to use care."—Union Traction Co. of Indiana v. Berry, 121 N.E. 655, 657, 188 Ind. 514, rehearing denied 124 N.E. 737, 188 Ind. 514.

Exposure of passenger to danger, which the exercise of reasonable foresight would have anticipated and due care avoided, is negligence on the part of a carrier.—Allessi v. New York Rapid Transit Corporation, 297 N.Y.S. 1011, 163 Misc. 815

Under law of Costa Rica, it is railroad's duty to passenger to exercise care of good father or of reasonably prudent man, breach of which is not barred by limitation.—Page v. United Fruit Co., C.C.A. Mass., 3 F.2d 747, certiorari granted Northern Ry. Co. v. Page, 46 S.Ct. 19, 269 U.S. 542, 70 L.Ed. 402, and reversed on other grounds Northern Ry. Co. v. Page, 47 S.Ct. 491, 274 U.S. 65, 71 L.Ed. 929

69. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Pillsbury, 14 N.E. 22, 123 Ill. 9, 5 Am.S.R. 483.
10 C.J. p 856 note 87.

A carrier, such as a railroad company, owes to a passenger a different and a higher degree of care than to mere trespassers or strangers,[70] or to travelers at highway crossings,[71] or using the streets or highways as crossings,[72] or to one of its servants,[73] or than when complying with requirements of the public service commission.[74]

Highest degree of care, skill, and diligence. In a great majority of the cases it is stated that the carrier, particularly in case of a railroad company, must exercise the utmost care, skill, and diligence, or the highest degree of care, prudence, and foresight for the passenger's safety,[75] and is responsi-

70. Fla.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Webb, 150 So. 741.
10 C.J. p 856 note 88.

71. Va.—Washington, etc., R. Co. v. Vaughan, 69 S.E. 1035, 111 Va. 785.

72. Wash.—Switzer v. City of Seattle, 294 P. 225, 159 Wash. 540, opinion modified on rehearing on other grounds 298 P. 347.

73. Mass.—Silva v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 90 N.E. 547, 204 Mass. 63.

74. U.S.—Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. Ciechowski, C.C.A.N.Y., 10 F.2d 82, certiorari denied 46 S.Ct. 352, 270 U.S. 654, 70 L.Ed. 783.

75. U.S.—Oceanic Steam Nav. Co. v. Corcoran, C.C.A.N.Y., 9 F.2d 724, 57 A.L.R. 163.
Ala.—Mosley v. Teche Lines, 166 So. 800, 232 Ala. 110—Franklin v. Southern Ry. Co., 72 So. 11, 196 Ala. 118—Alabama Great Southern R. Co. v. Johnson, 71 So. 620, 14 Ala. App. 558.
Cal.—Smith v. O'Donnell, 12 P.2d 933, 215 Cal. 714—Leonard v. Pickwick Stage System, 7 P.2d 1059, 120 Cal.App. 512—Jianou v. Pickwick Stages System, 296 P. 108, 111 Cal.App. 754—Simmons v. Pacific Electric Ry. Co., 212 P. 637, 60 Cal.App. 129—Jones v. United Railroads of San Francisco, 202 P. 919, 54 Cal.App. 744—Fitzgerald v. Southern Pac. Co., 173 P. 91, 36 Cal.App. 660.
Fla.—Hall v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 93 So. 151, 84 Fla. 9.
Ill.—Lundquist v. Chicago Rys. Co., 137 N.E. 92, 305 Ill. 106, affirming 221 Ill.App. 654.
Ind.—Chicago, L. S. & S. B. Ry. Co. v. Brown, 115 N.E. 368, 66 Ind.App. 126.
Ky.—Schooler v. Louisville & L. R. Co., 82 S.W.2d 221, 259 Ky. 80—Consolidated Coach Corporation v. Hopkins, 14 S.W.2d 768, 228 Ky. 184—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Scarbrough, 270 S.W. 494, 208 Ky. 79—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Bennett, 209 S.W. 358, 183 Ky. 445—McDermott v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 206 S.W. 6, 182 Ky. 22—Louisville & N. Ry. Co. v. Copley, 197 S.W. 648, 177 Ky. 171.
La.—Hopkins v. New Orleans Ry. & Light Co., 90 So. 512, 150 La. 61, 19 A.L.R. 1362—Matteson v. Teche Greyhound Lines, App., 178 So. 272—Wallace v. Shreveport Rys. Co., App., 175 So. 86—Hart v. Gulf, M. & N. R. Co., App., 167 So. 166—Baptiste v. New Orleans Public Service, App., 161 So. 783—Shally v. New Orleans Public Service, Sewerage & Water Board, 1 La.App. 770, affirmed 105 So. 606, 159 La. 519.
Md.—Cumberland & Westernport Transit Co. v. Metz, 149 A. 4, 158 Md. 424, reargument denied 149 A. 565, 158 Md. 424, appeal dismissed American Oil Co. v. Metz, 51 S.Ct. 40, 282 U.S. 801, 75 L.Ed. 720—Damico v. Washington, B. & A. Electric R. Co., 148 A. 821, 158 Md. 470—Hagerstown & F. Ry. Co. v. State, 99 A. 376, 129 Md. 318—United Rys. & Electric Co. of Baltimore v. Phillips, 99 A. 355, 129 Md. 328, L.R.A.1917C 384.
Minn.—Mardorf v. Duluth-Superior Transit Co., 271 N.W. 588.
Miss.—Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. Hawkins, 140 So. 873, 163 Miss. 505—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Compiretto, 102 So. 837, 137 Miss. 766.
Mo.—Brindley v. Wells, 271 S.W. 48, 308 Mo. 1—May v. Chicago B. & Q. R. Co., 225 S.W. 660, 284 Mo. 508—Hurley v. Missouri Pac. Transp. Co., App., 56 S.W.2d 620, certiorari quashed State ex rel. and to Use of Hurley v. Becker, 66 S.W.2d 524, 334 Mo. 537—Cecil v. Wells, 259 S.W. 844, 214 Mo.App. 193—Burkett v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., App., 208 S.W. 104.
Mont.—Garvin v. Butte Electric Ry. Co., 169 P. 40, 54 Mont. 196.
Neb.—Fielding v. Publix Cars, 277 N.W. 331.
N.Y.—Palsgraf v. Long Island R. Co., 225 N.Y.S. 412, 222 App.Div. 166, reversed on other grounds 162 N.E. 99, 248 N.Y. 339, 59 A.L.R. 1253, reargument denied 164 N.E. 564, 249 N.Y. 511—McKinney v. New York, W. & B. Ry. Co., 179 N.Y.S. 535.
Ohio.—Jones v. Youngstown Municipal Ry. Co., 12 N.E.2d 279, 133 Ohio St. 118—Cleveland Elec. Ry. Co. v. Pifer, 20 Ohio Cir.Ct.,N.S., 435—Dowd v. Cleveland Ry., 22 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 236.
Okl.—Missouri, Kansas & Oklahoma Coach Lines v. Burton, 72 P.2d 385—Muskogee Electric Traction Co. v. Bolin, 232 P. 105, 105 Okl. 142—Baker v. Hines, 213 P. 313, 88 Okl. 266.
Pa.—O'Malley v. Laurel Line Bus Co., 166 A. 868, 311 Pa. 251—Johnston v. Director General of Railroads, 133 A. 158, 286 Pa. 166—Cody v. Venzie, 107 A. 383, 263 Pa. 541—Wood v. Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co., 104 A. 69, 260 Pa. 481, L.R.A.1918F 317—Bickley v. Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co., 101 A. 654, 257 Pa. 369—Lazor v. Banas, 174 A. 817, 114 Pa.Super. 425—Wood v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 170 A. 367, 111 Pa.Super. 430—Deady v. Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co., 100 Pa.Super. 208—Snow v. Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co., 84 Pa.Super. 236.
S.C.—Belcher v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 177 S.E. 890, 175 S.C. 9—Gladden v. Southern Ry. Co., 141 S.E. 90, 142 S.C. 492—Hewitt v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 127 S.E. 718, 131 S.C. 426.
Tenn.—Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry. v. Hopper, 217 S.W. 661, 142 Tenn. 200—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Marlin, 186 S.W. 595, 135 Tenn. 435, L.R.A.1917A 417—Louisville & N. Ry. Co. v. Powell, 11 Tenn.App. 253—Price-Bass Co. v. Dawson, 7 Tenn.Civ.App. 192—Memphis St. Ry. v. Felts, 6 Tenn.Civ.App. 303.
Tex.—St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. v. Varnell, Civ.App., 97 S.W.2d 320—San Antonio & A. P. Ry. Co. v. Wiuvar, Civ.App., 257 S.W. 667.
Va.—Virginia Ry. & Power Co. v. Cherry, 105 S.E. 657, 129 Va. 262—Derring's Adm'r v. Virginia Ry. & Power Co., 95 S.E. 405, 122 Va. 517.
10 C.J. p 856 note 91.

Corpus Juris statement has received judicial approval in Zoccolillo v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., 177 P. 201, 213, 53 Utah 39.

Reason for rule

"The rule whereby carriers are onerated with the duty of exerting the highest degree of care had and has its foundation in the fact that the carrier assumes almost absolute control of the body and the movements of the passenger, and in the further fact that the passenger commits himself to the watchfulness of the carrier's servants."—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Hensley, 7 Tenn.Civ.App. 610, 614.

Carrier owes passenger nondelegable duty of exercising the highest degree of care.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Hussey, C.C.A.Mo., 42 F.2d 70, 74 A.L.R. 1172, certiorari granted 282 U.S. 826, 75 L.Ed. 736, affirmed 51 S.Ct. 367, 283 U.S. 136, 75 L.Ed. 908.

"Utmost care, skill, and diligence

ble for even slight negligence;[76] and this duty of care applies to all things affecting the safe transportation of passengers.[77] In some states this rule of care, at least in effect, is prescribed by statute, which has been held merely declaratory of the common law.[78]

By another form of expression, the carrier is required to exercise the highest degree of care and skill which would be used by a person of great prudence in view of the nature and the risks of the business under the same or similar circumstances;[79] and again the rule has been stated that the carrier is required to do all that human sagacity and foresight can do under the circumstances, in view of the character and mode of conveyance adopted, to prevent injury to passengers, the carrier being held liable for the slightest negligence with reference to the exercise of such care,[80] although the precautions to be taken are to be measured by those in general use.[81]

Highest practicable care. As stated in Corpus Juris, quoted as being the proper rule,[82] in view of the limitations stated hereafter in subdivision b of this section, the rule is probably more accurately stated as the highest degree of care, prudence, and foresight that a prudent man engaged in the busi-is what a cautious man in similar employment would use"—Link v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., Mo.App., 233 S.W. 834.

76. Ala.—Mosley v. Teche Lines, 166 So. 800, 232 Ala. 110.
Cal.—Leonard v. Pickwick Stage System, 7 P.2d 1059, 120 Cal.App. 512—Fitzgerald v. Southern Pac. Co., 173 P. 91, 36 Cal.App. 660.
Ill.—Crane v. Railway Express Agency, 12 N.E.2d 672, 293 Ill.App. 328—Chicago Union Tract. Co. v. Mee, 136 Ill.App. 98.
Iowa—Kliebenstein v. Iowa Ry. & Light Co., 188 N.W. 129, 193 Iowa 892.
La.—Wallace v. Shreveport Rys. Co., App., 175 So. 86.
Mo.—Stofer v. Kansas City Public Service Co., 41 S.W.2d 614, 226 Mo.App. 376.

Injuries avoidable by ordinary care

A carrier of passengers is responsible for injuries received by them while in the course of transportation which might have been avoided by ordinary care.—Jones v. United Railroads of San Francisco, 202 P. 919, 54 Cal.App. 744.

77. U.S.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Hussey, C.C.A.Mo., 42 F.2d 970, 74 A.L.R. 1172, certiorari granted 51 S.Ct. 75, 282 U.S. 826, 75 L.Ed. 736, affirmed 51 S.Ct. 367, 283 U.S. 136, 75 L.Ed. 908.
Tex.—Bragg v. Houston Electric Co., Civ.App., 264 S.W. 245, affirmed Houston Electric Co. v. Bragg, Com.App., 276 S.W. 641, motion overruled 280 S.W. 188.
10 C.J. p. 861 note 5 [b].

78. Statutory expression of rule

When provided by statute, a carrier of persons for reward must use the utmost care and diligence for their safe carriage, must provide everything necessary for that purpose, and must exercise to that end a reasonable degree of skill.
Mont.—Taillon v. Mears, 74 P. 421, 29 Mont. 161, 1 Ann.Cas. 613.
Okl.—Missouri, Kansas & Oklahoma Coach Lines v. Benton, 10 P.2d 451, 157 Okl. 10—Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. Shelton, 273 P. 988, 135 Okl. 53—Lusk v. Wilkes, 172 P. 929, 70 Okl. 44, L.R.A.1918E 513—Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. Dizney, 160 P. 880, 61 Okl. 176.
10 C.J. p. 854 note 74 [a].

79. U.S.—Henson v. Fidelity & Columbia Trust Co., C.C.A.Ky., 68 F.2d 144, affirming, D.C., 3 F.Supp. 950, and rehearing denied, C.C.A., 69 F.2d 778.
Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Campbell, 35 S.W.2d 26, 28, 237 Ky. 182.
Mo.—Gott v. Kansas City Rys. Co., 222 S.W. 827.
Tex.—Fort Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Kidwell, 245 S.W. 667, 112 Tex. 89, answering certified questions, Civ.App., 249 S.W. 303—Trinity & B. V. Ry. Co. v. McDonald, Com.App., 208 S.W. 912, reversing, Civ.App., 160 S.W. 984—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Baldwin, Civ.App., 2 S.W.2d 520—Waters v. Texas Electric Ry., Civ.App., 267 S.W. 1005.
10 C.J. p. 857 note 92.

Similar expressions of the degree of care

(1) "The highest degree of care and prudence in the management and operation of its cars and the instrumentalities employed by it that prudent men in like circumstances employ, and commensurate with the hazards ordinarily to be encountered." — Rickabaugh v. Toungstown Municipal Ry. Co., 9 N.E.2d 900, 907, 55 Ohio App. 431.

(2) "That degree of care, caution, and foresight which a person of great prudence, and average intelligence, experienced in the business of common carrier and appreciating responsibilities arising from nature of risk, would exercise to secure safety of passengers."—Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. Ciechowski, C.C.A.N.Y., 10 F.2d 82, 85, certiorari denied 46 S.Ct. 352, 270 U.S. 654, 70 L.Ed. 783.

(3) "The highest degree of care and diligence which is known to careful, diligent, and skillful persons engaged in such business."—Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Robertson, 83 So. 102, 103, 203 Ala. 358.

(4) "The highest degree of care which ordinarily careful and skillful persons would use under like circumstances."—Cincinnati Traction Co. v. Burkhardt, 4 Ohio App. 103, 106.

"Very high degree"

Carrier must exercise "very high degree of care" for safety of passengers—such care as persons of very high prudence would use under similar circumstances—Louisiana Ry. & Nav. Co. of Texas v. Smith, Tex.Civ.App., 285 S.W. 1104.

80. Cal.—Scarborough v. Urgo, 216 P. 584, 191 Cal. 341.
Iowa—Kliebenstein v. Iowa Ry. & Light Co., 188 N.W. 129, 193 Iowa 892.
La.—Scarborough v. Louisiana Ry. & Nav. Co., 82 So. 286, 145 La. 323.
Va.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. Hibbs, 128 S.E. 538, 142 Va. 96, 41 A.L.R. 1083.
W.Va.—Bartley v. Western Maryland Ry. Co., 95 S.E. 443, 81 W.Va. 795—Perkins v. Monongahela Valley Traction Co., 95 S.E. 797, 81 W.Va. 781.
10 C.J. p. 858 note 93.

81. Wis.—Ormond v. Wisconsin Power & Light Co., 216 N.W. 489, 490, 194 Wis. 305.
10 C.J. p. 858 note 94.
"Whether the conduct of the common carrier in a given particular accords with its legal duty in the premises is to be tested by comparing its conduct with that generally exercised by those engaged in the same business under similar circumstances." — Ormond v. Wisconsin Power & Light Co., supra.

"Best precautions in known practical use" should be used by a carrier to secure the safety of its passengers—Little v. Los Angeles Ry. Corporation, 271 P. 134, 94 Cal.App. 303.

82. Ariz.—Wilkinson v. Phoenix Ry. Co., 236 P. 704, 705, 706.

ness, as usually conducted, would employ, that is, such care as is reasonably practicable; or in other words, such care, prudence, and foresight as can reasonably be exercised consistent with the practical operation of the road or mode of conveyance used, and the exercise of its business as a carrier, taking into consideration the circumstances and conditions existing at the time and place in question;[83] and in some cases this degree of care has been expressed as the highest practicable care, caution, and diligence which capable and faithful railroad men would exercise under similar circumstances.[84]

Extraordinary care and caution. In some cases it is said that extraordinary care, caution, and diligence are required,[85] and that slight negligence will 83. U.S.—S. S. Kresge Co. v. McCallion, C.C.A.Mo., 58 F.2d 931—Memphis St. Ry. Co. v. Bobo, Tenn., 232 F. 708, 146 C.C.A. 634, affirmed Memphis St. Ry. Co. v. Moore, 37 S.Ct. 273, 243 U.S. 299, 61 L.Ed. 733.

Ala.—Mosley v. Teche Lines, 166 So. 800, 232 Ala. 110—Continental Life Ins. Co. v. Newman, 123 So. 92, 23 Ala.App. 203, reversed 123 So. 93, 219 Ala. 311.
Ark.—Wade v. Brocato, 95 S.W.2d 94—Arkansas Power & Light Co. v. Mart, 65 S.W.2d 39, 188 Ark. 202—Pittman v. Hines, 221 S.W. 474, 144 Ark. 133.
Conn.—Robinson v. Connecticut Co., 189 A. 452, 122 Conn. 300—Di Rossi v. Connecticut Co., 188 A. 926, 122 Conn. 372—Briganti v. Connecticut Co., 175 A. 679, 119 Conn. 316.
D.C.—Pistorio v. Washington R. & E. Co., 46 App.D.C. 479.
Ill.—Thomason v. Chicago Motor Coach Co., 10 N.E.2d 714, 292 Ill. App. 104—Arndt v. Riverview Park Co., 259 Ill.App. 210—Sczuck v. Chicago Rys. Co., 229 Ill.App. 325—Kanter v. St. Louis, S. & P. R. R., 218 Ill.App. 565—Gilberts v. Rockford & I. Ry. Co., 215 Ill. App. 324. See Appel v. Alton, G. & St. L. Traction Co., 207 Ill.App. 562—Bourland v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 199 Ill.App. 126—Aur v. East St. Louis Ry. Co., 194 Ill.App. 193.
Ind.—Ft. Wayne & Northern Indiana Traction Co. v. Parish, 119 N.E. 488, 67 Ind.App. 597.
Kan.—Cloud v. Kansas-Oklahoma Traction Co., 173 P. 338, 103 Kan. 249.
Ky.—Peak v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 297 S.W. 1107, 221 Ky. 57—Payne v. Moore, 244 S.W. 869, 196 Ky. 454.
La.—Martin v. Interurban Transp. Co., 131 So. 514, 15 La.App. 256—Brisolara v. Caddo Transfer & Warehouse Co., 127 So. 57, 13 La. App. 27.
Md.—Smith v. Blue Ridge Transp. Co., 191 A. 66.
Minn.—Fewings v. Mendenhall, 93 N.W. 127, 88 Minn. 336, 97 Am.S.R. 519, 60 L.R.A. 601.
Mo.—Lige v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 204 S.W. 508, 275 Mo. 249, L.R.A. 1918F 548—Whitlow v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., App., 282 S.W. 525, certiorari quashed State ex rel. St. Louis & San Francisco Ry. Co. v. Danes, 290 S.W. 425, 316 Mo. 474—Liljegren v. United Rys. of St. Louis, App., 227 S.W. 925.
Neb.—Daly v. Publix Cars, 259 N.W. 163, 128 Neb. 403—Griffen v. Lincoln Traction Co., 225 N.W. 232, 234, 118 Neb. 459.
N.J.—Spalt v. Eaton, 192 A. 576, 118 N.J.Law 327.
Ohio.—Cincinnati Traction Co. v. Keil, 26 Ohio Cir.Ct.N.S., 445—Sentker v. Martin, 19 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 445
Pa.—Burns v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 144 A. 103, 294 Pa. 277—Petrie v. Kaufmann & Baer Co., 139 A. 878, 291 Pa. 211—Furby v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 132 A. 796, 286 Pa. 85.
R.I.—Roy v. United Electric Rys. Co., 164 A. 513, 53 R.I. 122—Adams v. United Electric Rys. Co., 128 A. 197, 46 R.I. 312.
Tenn.—Nashville Ry. & Light Co. v. Owen, 11 Tenn.App. 19—Cecil v. Jernigan, 4 Tenn.App. 80.
Tex.—St. John v. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co., 80 S.W. 235, 236—Waters v. Texas Electric Ry., Civ.App., 267 S.W. 1005—Bragg v. Houston Electric Co., Civ.App., 264 S.W. 245, affirmed Houston Electric Co. v. Bragg, Com.App., 276 S.W. 641.
Va.—City of Portsmouth v. Madrey, 191 S.E. 595.
Wash.—Washington v. City of Seattle, 16 P.2d 597, 170 Wash. 371, 86 A.L.R. 113.
W.Va.—Venable v. Gulf Taxi Line, 141 S.E. 622, 105 W.Va. 156.
10 C.J. p. 858 note 96.

Similar expressions of rule

(1) "Every precaution for the safety of its passengers that is reasonable and practicable, at all times and under all circumstances"—Whitlow v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., Mo.App., 282 S.W. 525, 533, certiorari quashed State ex rel. St. Louis & San Francisco Ry. Co. v. Danes, 290 S.W. 425, 316 Mo. 474.

(2) "The highest degree of care required by the law in any case where human safety is at stake, and the highest degree of care and prudence known to the usage and practice of very careful, skillful, and diligent persons engaged in the business of carrying passengers by similar means and agencies."—Mosley v. Teche Lines, 166 So. 800, 801, 232 Ala. 110—Alabama Power Co. v. Maddox, 151 So. 575, 576, 227 Ala. 628—Continental Life Ins. Co. v. Newman, 123 So. 92, 23 Ala.App. 203, reversed on other grounds 123 So. 93, 219 Ala. 311.

(3) "The highest degree of care reasonably to be expected from human vigilance and foresight, in view of the mode and character of the conveyance adopted and consistent with the practical prosecution of their business."
N.D.—Finlayson v. Yellow Cab Co., 217 N.W. 662, 664, 56 N.D. 407.
Wis.—Dauplaise v. Yellow Taxicab Co., 235 N.W. 771, 204 Wis. 419—Ormond v. Wisconsin Power & Light Co., 216 N.W. 489, 194 Wis. 305—Carson v. Green Cab Co., 203 N.W. 394, 395, 186 Wis. 566—Ferguson v. Truax, 118 N.W. 251, 253, 136 Wis. 637.

Character of conveyance, etc.

"This so-called highest degree of care imposed upon the carrier is said to be affected by the character of the conveyance, its mode of propulsion, the usual course of its business, and the hazards of the particular situation."—Matteson v. Teche Greyhound Lines, La.App., 178 So. 272, 273.

"Utmost care" required of carrier for protection of passenger "means no more than every care which is practicable by carriers engaged in the transportation of their passengers."—Richmond-Ashland Ry. Co. v. Jackson, 162 S.E. 18, 22, 157 Va. 628.

84. Mo.—Kirkpatrick v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 109 S.W. 682, 211 Mo. 68, reversing 107 S.W. 1025, 129 Mo.App. 524.
10 C.J. p. 860 note 97.

85. Cal.—Anderson v. San Francisco-Oakland Terminal Rys., 214 P. 289, 61 Cal.App. 21.
D.C.—Capital Traction Co. v. Copland, 47 App.D.C. 152.
Ga.—Locke v. Ford, App., 187 S.E. 715—Atlanta Terminal Co. v. Alexander, 143 S.E. 905, 38 Ga.App. 280—Rome Ry. & Light Co. v. Gaddis, 111 S.E. 67, 28 Ga.App. 213—Seaboard Air Line Ry. v. Brewton, 99 S.E. 226, 23 Ga.App. 621, reversed on other grounds 102 S.E. 439, and vacated 102 S.E. 920, 25 Ga.App. 168.
10 C.J. p. 860 note 98.

render the carrier liable in such cases;[86] and in some jurisdictions this rule is prescribed by statute.[87] What may amount to extraordinary diligence with respect to one class of trains may not amount to it with respect to another class.[88]

b. Limitations of Rules

The rules requiring the highest degree of care, etc., do not require the exercise of every possible care or precaution, and apply only in regard to dangers which, reasonably and naturally, may be anticipated or apprehended.

The rules requiring the highest or utmost care, etc., do not mean that the carrier must take every possible or conceivable care or precaution which might increase or even insure safety,[89] for that would prevent the practical performance of the duty to transport with expedition, in accordance with the usual requirements of the business, and would prevent the use of means of locomotion which, while necessary to speed and the carrying capacity of the vehicles used, are well known to be to some extent hazardous,[90] nor do the rules go to the extent of requiring the carrier to exercise a guardianship over passengers who are adults and mentally competent, or to undertake to coerce them into the exercise of ordinary care for their own safety.[91]

Moreover, the rule requiring the highest degree of care, etc., applies only with respect to dangers which may reasonably and naturally be anticipated or apprehended from unsafe roadbeds, defective machinery, imperfect cars, and other conditions endangering the success of the undertaking,[92] and as to dangers which are not usually incident to the operation of the mode of conveyance used, and which are not naturally to be apprehended, a less strict rule applies, and the carrier is required to exercise only ordinary care;[93] and it is not responsible for injury occasioned by inevitable casualty or some other cause which human foresight could not reasonably anticipate or prevent.[94] It is not essen-

Application to coach on siding for night

A common carrier's duty to exercise extraordinary diligence in receiving, carrying, and discharging passengers is applicable where coach in which a passenger is riding is detached from train and placed for night on railway siding.—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Deas, 96 S.E. 267, 22 Ga.App. 425.

86. Ga.—Central R. Co. v. Thompson, 76 Ga. 770.
10 C.J. p. 860 note 99.

87. Ga.—Douthitt v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 71 S.E. 470, 136 Ga. 351.
10 C.J. p. 860 note 1.

88. Ga.—Ball v. Mabry, 18 S.E. 64, 91 Ga. 781.

89. Ala.—Mosley v. Teche Lines, 166 So. 800, 232 Ala. 110.
Ill.—Letush v. New York Cent. R. Co., 267 Ill.App. 526.
Iowa.—Hauser v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co., 219 N.W. 60, 205 Iowa 940, 58 A.L.R. 687.
Md.—Smith v. Blue Ridge Transp. Co., 191 A. 66—Damico v. Washington, B. & A. Electric R. Co., 148 A. 821, 158 Md. 470—Philadelphia, W. & B. R. Co. v. Anderson, 20 A. 2, 72 Md. 519, 20 Am.S.R. 483, 8 L.R.A. 673.
Mo.—Liljegren v. United Rys. of St. Louis, App., 227 S.W. 925.
Tex.—St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Woodall, Com.App., 207 S.W. 84.
10 C.J. p. 860 note 3.

Absolute guaranty that the passenger will be transported safely to his destination, is not effected by the duty to exercise the utmost care.—Liljegren v. United Rys. of St. Louis, Mo.App., 227 S.W. 925.

"Every possible preventive which the highest scientific skill might suggest" need not be used.—Little v. Los Angeles Ry. Corporation, 271 P. 134, 94 Cal.App. 303.

90. Iowa.—Pershing v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 32 N.W. 488, 71 Iowa 561.
10 C.J. p. 861 note 4.

91. Va.—Davidson v. Washington & O. D. Ry., 105 S.E. 669, 129 Va. 99.
W.Va.—Trippett v. Monongahela West Penn Public Service Co., 130 S.E. 483, 100 W.Va. 319.

92. Cal.—Sanchez v. Pacific Auto Stages, 2 P.2d 845, 116 Cal.App. 392.
Conn.—Robinson v. Connecticut Co., 189 A. 453, 122 Conn. 300—Briganti v. Connecticut Co., 175 A. 679, 119 Conn. 316.
Fla.—Hall v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 93 So. 151, 84 Fla. 9.
Iowa.—Hauser v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co., 219 N.W. 60, 205 Iowa 940, 58 A.L.R. 687.
Ky.—Riley v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 21 S.W.2d 990, 231 Ky. 564—Payne v. Moore, 244 S.W. 869, 196 Ky. 454.
N.J.—Spalt v. Eaton, 192 A. 576, 118 N.J.Law 327—Rogers v. New York Cent. R. Co., 150 A. 357, 106 N.J. Law 394.
N.Y.—Taddeo v. Tilton, 289 N.Y.S. 427, 248 App.Div. 290—Hershey v. New York, O. & W. Ry. Co., 179 N.Y.S. 396, 189 App.Div. 270—O'Brien v. New York Rys. Co., 174 N.Y.S. 116, 119, 185 App.Div. 867.
Tex.—Bragg v. Houston Electric Co., Civ.App., 264 S.W. 245, affirmed Houston Electric Co. v. Bragg, Com.App., 276 S.W. 641, motion overruled 280 S.W. 188.
10 C.J. p. 861 note 5.

"Foresight," as used in rule that common carrier must exercise highest degree of care to protect its passengers from danger that foresight could anticipate, means, not foreknowledge absolute, but rather that characteristics of accident are such that it can be classified among events that without due care are likely to occur, and that due care would prevent.—Davis v. Public Service Co-ordinated Transport, 174 A. 540, 113 N.J.Law 427—Barney v. Hudson & M. R. Co., 145 A. 5, 105 N.J.Law 274, affirmed 148 A. 917, 106 N.J.Law 230, 231—McBride v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 123 A. 765, 99 N.J. Law 464—Rivers v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 83 A. 883, 83 N.J.Law 513.

Impossibility of injury

The carrier is not required to render it impossible for a passenger to injure himself.—Doss v. Southwestern Transp. Co., Tex.Civ.App., 89 S.W.2d 1092.

That passengers will act with reasonable regard for their own safety is to be assumed in determining the degree of care which a carrier must use in protecting them from danger.—Wright v. Boston & M. R. R., 139 A. 370, 83 N.H. 136, 56 A.L.R. 975.

93. Fla.—Hall v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 93 So. 151, 84 Fla. 9.
N.J.—McBride v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 123 A. 765, 99 N.J.Law 464.
10 C.J. p. 861 note 6.

Passenger outside of undertaking

Carrier is not bound to exercise highest degree of care with respect to passengers putting themselves outside carrier's undertaking.—Damico v. Washington, B. & A. Electric R. Co., 148 A. 821, 158 Md. 470.

94. Del.—Clayton v. Philadelphia, B. & W. R. Co., 106 A. 577, 7 Boyce 343.

tial, however, to the carrier's liability that it must have anticipated the precise injury or precise person injured; it is sufficient that it should have anticipated a similar injury to some one similarly situated.[95]

Furthermore, in exercising care for the safety of passengers the carrier must not violate its duty to other people to use ordinary care not to injure them.[96]

c. Continuance of Care; Varying According to Time and Place

The duty to exercise care for a passenger's safety continues during the existence of the relation, and the degree of care required may vary according to the time and place and circumstances.

The duty of the carrier to protect its passengers is not confined to the carrier's vehicle, but extends during the entire continuance of the relation.[97]

The degree of care required, however, may vary according to the time and place and circumstances;[98] and, according to some decisions, the highest degree of care is required while the passenger is in the course of transportation on the carrier's vehicle, or boarding or alighting therefrom, and only reasonable or ordinary care is required while he is waiting in the carrier's station or on its platforms, or leaving its premises,[99] or where he has temporarily left the train at a stop,[1] or in regard to comparatively trifling dangers which a passenger meets on a car, only in the same way and to the same extent as he meets them daily in other places and from which he habitually and easily protects himself.[2] According to other decisions, however, the carrier is bound to exercise the highest degree of care to protect a passenger during the entire continuance of the relation, from the time he becomes a passenger until he ceases to be such by the completion of his journey and has left the carrier's premises.[3]

La.—Nee v. New Orleans Public Service, 123 So. 135, 11 La.App. 1.
Mass.—Carlson v. Boston & M. R. R., 168 N.E. 171, 269 Mass. 60.
Mo.—Bennett v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., 7 S.W.2d 1028, 223 Mo.App. 28—Liljegren v. United Rys. Co. of St. Louis, App., 227 S.W. 925.
N.C.—Mills v. Atlantic Coast Line R. R., 90 S.E. 221, 172 N.C. 266.
Tenn.—Price-Bass Co. v. Dawson, 7 Tenn.Civ.App. 192.
Tex.—Doss v. Southwestern Transp. Co., Civ.App., 89 S.W.2d 1092, error refused.
Va.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. Hibbs, 128 S.E. 538, 142 Va. 96, 41 A.L.R. 1083.
W.Va.—Trippett v. Monongahela West Penn Public Service Co., 130 S.E. 483, 100 W.Va. 319—Thompson v. Monongahela Ry. Co., 128 S.E. 110, 99 W.Va. 207, 42 A.L.R. 159.
10 C.J. p 861 note 7.
"Passengers on railroad trains necessarily incur the risks and perils incident to travel over which the carrier has absolutely no control, and which are wholly without its agency, such as unforeseen accidents against which human care and foresight could not guard, and acts of strangers which could not reasonably be expected"—Riley v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 21 S.W.2d 990, 992, 231 Ky. 564.

Carrier is not responsible for

(1) Accident occasioned by instrumentality outside conveyance.—Orms v. Traction Bus Co., 150 A. 897, 300 Pa. 474.

(2) Accident which had never before occurred, and which could not be said to be within reasonable contemplation.—McKinney v. New York, W. & B. Ry. Co., 179 N.Y.S. 535.

(3) Injuries caused by independent agency over which it has no control.—Burns v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 144 A. 103, 294 Pa. 277.

95. Tex.—Trinity & B. V. Ry. Co. v. McCune, Civ.App., 154 S.W. 237.
10 C.J. p 861 note 8.
"The carrier is required to guard against only those things which in the exercise of the highest degree of care it should anticipate would probably be dangerous to some passengers"—Doss v. Southwestern Transp. Co., Tex.Civ.App., 89 S.W.2d 1092, 1093.

96. Ohio.—Canton Motor Coach v. Hall, 189 N.E. 505, 46 Ohio App. 516.

97. Ky.—Trout's Adm'r v. Ohio Valley Electric Ry. Co., 43 S.W.2d 507, 241 Ky. 144.
N.H.—Wright v. Boston & M. R. R., 139 A. 370, 83 N.H. 136, 56 A.L.R. 975.
10 C.J. p 861 note 9.
Care as to receiving, conveying, and setting down safely in general see supra § 677.

98. Ark.—Arkansas Power & Light Co. v. Mart, 65 S.W.2d 39, 188 Ark. 202.
Cal.—Wilkinson v. United Railroads of San Francisco, 232 P. 131, 195 Cal. 185.

Safety and convenience

A ticket holder, presenting himself at the usual point of departure of trains, is entitled to extraordinary care for safety and ordinary diligence in matters involving convenience.—Atlanta Terminal Co. v. Alexander, 143 S.E. 905, 38 Ga.App. 280.

99. Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Scarbrough, 270 S.W. 494, 208 Ky. 79
N.Y.—Hoffman v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 177 N.Y.S. 140, 188 App.Div. 414.
Tex.—Baker v. Williams, Civ.App., 198 S.W. 808.
10 C.J. p 862 notes 10, 11.
Corpus Juris statement has received judicial approval in Payne v. Simmons, 255 S.W. 863, 867, 201 Ky. 33.

Railroad owes no greater duty to one intending to become passenger than it owes to one with whom relation has been established.—Bales v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 200 S.W. 471, 179 Ky. 207.
Care required as to:
Condition and use of premises generally see infra §§ 713–722.
Passengers boarding or alighting generally see infra §§ 723–734.
Limitations of rules as to care generally see supra subdivision b of this section.

1. Cal.—Sellars v. Southern Pac. Co., 166 P. 599, 33 Cal.App. 701.

Reason for rule

There is a difference in the danger involved and the opportunity and capacity to protect himself between the situation of the passenger while traveling on the train and where he has temporarily left it at a stop, and the authorities generally recognize the rule in cases like this to be that the carrier is held to ordinary care and ordinary prudence.—Sellars v. Southern Pac. Co., 166 P. 599, 33 Cal.App. 701.

2. U.S.—Bassell v. Hines, C.C.A.Ohio, 269 F. 231, 12 A.L.R. 1361

3. Okl.—Muskogee Electric Traction Co. v. Bolin, 232 P. 105, 105 Okl.

d. Private Carrier

A private carrier of passengers for hire, such as by private motor vehicle, generally is required to exercise only ordinary care and diligence for his passenger's safety, although some authorities require the same degree of care as is required of a common carrier.

A private carrier of passengers for hire, such as by a private motor vehicle, generally is not bound to exercise the highest degree of care for the safety of his passengers, as in the case of a common carrier, but is bound to exercise only ordinary care and diligence to carry his passengers safely,[4] except as specially provided by the contract of carriage, as where the carrier undertakes to insure the safe delivery of his passengers; but such an extended liability is not readily to be presumed, and a mere undertaking to carry safely imposes no higher duty than is imposed as a matter of law on the carrier.[5] A passenger for hire in such a vehicle may recover for the carrier's negligence in failing to exercise ordinary care and diligence,[6] and is not within a statute barring a nonpaying guest, in a motor vehicle, from maintaining an action against the motorist for injuries suffered by ordinary negligence.[7]

According to some authorities, however, a private carrier of passengers by motor vehicle is under the same duty with respect to passengers as a common carrier, and owes to a passenger for hire the duty of exercising the highest degree of care and skill for his safety,[8] or at least is bound to use reasonable and ordinary care for the protection of his passengers;[9] and in driving through the streets of a city he is required to anticipate that he may meet 142—Baker v. Hines, 213 P. 313, 88 Okl. 266.

10 C.J. p 862 note 12.

Carrier's duty to passenger crossing tracks on way to station is that of care in a high degree.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Rogers, N.J., 244 F. 76, 156 C.C.A. 504.

4. Ariz.—McClure v. Johnson, 69 P. 2d 573.
Ark.—Forbes v. Reinman, 166 S.W. 563, 112 Ark. 417, 51 L.R.A.,N.S., 1164.
Cal.—Lerma v. Flores, 60 P.2d 546, 16 Cal.App.2d 128—Gornstein v. Priver, 221 P. 396, 64 Cal.App. 249.
Mass.—Woods v. Woods, 3 N.E.2d 837—Foley v. McDonald, 185 N.E. 926, 283 Mass. 96.
Pa.—Lazor v. Banas, 174 A. 817, 114 Pa.Super. 425, overruling Cody v. Venzie, 107 A. 383, 263 Pa. 541.
Care due permissive guests in motor vehicle see Motor Vehicles § 399.
Care required of common carrier by motor vehicle see infra § 685.
Private carrier defined see supra § 531.

"There is a vast difference as to some duties and liabilities, when the relation of common carrier and passenger exists, and when that of private carrier and passenger exists, whether the carriage is for hire or is gratuitous"—Galloway v. Perkins, 73 So. 956, 198 Ala. 658.

Transportation to school
Where mother contracted for transportation of her son to school in neighbor's truck at rate of ten cents per day, neighbor owed son duty of operating truck at such rate of speed and in such manner as under ordinary circumstances no injury could befall son—Lazor v. Banas, 174 A. 817, 114 Pa.Super. 425

5. Ariz.—McClure v. Johnson, 69 P. 2d 573.

6. Kan.—Rogers v. Price, 230 P. 1047, 117 Kan. 181.
Va.—Garrett v. Hammack, 173 S.E. 535, 162 Va. 42

7. Cal.—Lerma v. Flores, 60 P.2d 546, 16 Cal.App.2d 128
Conn.—Latham v. Hankey, 166 A. 400, 117 Conn. 5.
Mass.—Walker v. Lloyd, 4 N.E.2d 306.
N.H.—Blanchette v. Sargent, 173 A. 383, 87 N.H. 15.

Consideration sufficient to support contract for carriage and to exclude operation of statute barring guest action against motorist in case of ordinary negligence is any benefit conferred, or detriment suffered, into the adequacy of which the law will not inquire.
Cal.—Lerma v. Flores, 60 P.2d 546, 16 Cal.App.2d 128.
Conn.—Latham v. Hankey, 166 A. 400, 117 Conn. 5.

Broker's hope of commission is not "payment" by a client for transportation in the broker's automobile, within the meaning of such a statute.—Smith v. Taylor, 2 P.2d 18, 137 Or. 230.

Waiver of inadequacy of consideration
Where agreed consideration for carriage has been accepted, although consideration was valueless service, acceptance by motorist constitutes waiver of any claim of inadequacy and prevents motorist setting up statute as bar to action.—Lerma v. Flores, 60 P.2d 546, 16 Cal.App.2d 128.

8. Mo.—Mahany v. Kansas City R. Co., Mo., 254 S.W. 16, 286 Mo. 601, 228 S.W. 821.
Care required of common carrier by motor vehicle see infra § 685.

Undertaker who contracts to transport persons to and from a funeral in an automobile, although a private carrier, is under the same duty as a common carrier to exercise the highest degree of care with respect to passengers—Mahany v. Kansas City R. Co., 254 S.W. 16, 286 Mo. 601, 228 S.W. 821.

Sight-seeing automobile
(1) This business much more resembles a public than a private carriage of passengers, and, whether or not, in a strictly technical sense it can be regarded as a common carrier of passengers, such a carrier is bound to use reasonable care according to the nature of the contract, and in view of the nature of the business and the peril to life and limb of the passengers likely to arise from an accident, this reasonable care should be defined as the highest degree of care consistent with the proper transaction of the business—Hinds v. Steere, 95 N.E. 844, 209 Mass. 442, 35 L.R.A.,N.S., 658.

(2) Chauffeur of a sight-seeing automobile which carries passengers owes them the highest degree of care—McFadden v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 143 S.W. 884, 161 Mo.App. 652.

9. Ala.—Perkins v. Galloway, 69 So. 875.
"The driver of the automobile was bound to use at least reasonable and ordinary care. He was bound to anticipate care that he might meet persons or vehicles and to keep a proper lookout for them and use care to have his machine under such control as to enable him to avoid collisions."—Johnson v. Coey, 86 N.E. 678, 237 Ill. 88, 91, 21 L.R.A.,N.S., 81.

Compared with liveryman
Private carriers for hire by automobile owe duty to use due care toward passengers equal to those defined for a liveryman.—Duffy v. J. W. Bishop Co., 122 A. 121, 99 Conn. 573.

persons or vehicles, to keep a proper lookout for them, and to use care to have his machine under such control as to enable him to avoid collisions.[10]

§ 679. What Law Governs

The law of the place where the injury occurred generally governs as to the liability of a carrier for negligence in causing injury to a passenger, but the law of the forum as to matters of procedure. The common law governs where no statute is involved.

Where an action against a carrier for personal injuries is regarded as an action in tort, the law which governs the degree of care required and the liability of a carrier for its negligence in injuring a passenger is the law of the place where the injury occurred, and not that of the place where the contract of carriage was made.[11] Under this rule, rights given by the lex loci delicti can be defeated only by defenses permitted by that law;[12] and, where no special law of the lex loci delicti jurisdiction is pleaded and proved, the presumption is that it is the same as the law of the forum.[13] Where, however, the action is regarded as based on the contract of carriage, the lex loci contractus governs.[14] The remedy, pleading, and procedure are governed by the law of the forum.[15]

Common or statute law. The right of a caretaker accompanying an interstate shipment of live stock, to recover for a personal injury and his duty to give written notice of such injury must be determined under the common law, and not under a federal statute, 49 U.S.C.A. § 20, relating to claims arising from interstate shipments of property.[16] An action for injuries to a circus employee, whether on an interstate or intra-state journey, is a common-law action for tort and is governed by the law of the state where no federal statute is involved.[17]

§ 680. Care as to Passengers Who Do Not Pay Fare

One accepted as a passenger, without the payment of fare, is generally entitled to the same care, skill, and diligence for his safety as is a paying passenger.

One who is accepted for transportation as a passenger without compensation to be rendered is, nevertheless, entitled to the same degree of care, skill, and diligence for his safety and protection as the carrier owes to paying passengers,[18] unless there is a statutory provision to the contrary,[19] or unless he is riding under a special agreement by which he assumes the risk of injury from negligence of the carrier or its employees.[20] This rule applies to a

10. Ill.—Johnson v. Coey, 86 N.E. 678, 237 Ill. 88, 21 L.R.A.,N.S., 81
Mo.—McFadden v. Metropolitan St R. Co., 143 S.W. 884, 161 Mo.App 652.

11. U.S.—Wells v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., C.C.A.Ark., 87 F.2d 579.
Ark.—Yazoo & M. V. R. Co v. Littleton, 5 S.W.2d 930, 177 Ark. 199, 59 A.L.R. 936—Kansas City Southern Ry. Co. v. Phillips, 298 S.W. 325, 174 Ark. 1019—Hines v. Rice, 218 S.W. 851, 142 Ark. 159.
Miss.—Turner v. Southern Ry. Co., 73 So. 62, 112 Miss. 359
N.C.—Hipps v. Southern Ry., 99 S.E. 335, 177 N.C. 472.
10 C.J. p 863 note 14.

Failure to provide heat in station
Cause of action for injuries sustained by plaintiff, who had purchased a ticket at a station in South Carolina for transportation to a station in North Carolina, because of defendant's negligence in failing to provide heat in its South Carolina station where plaintiff had to wait for the train on which she was to take passage, arose in South Carolina and must be tried under the laws prevailing in that jurisdiction. —Hipps v. Southern Ry., 99 S.E. 335, 177 N.C. 472.

12. Ky.—Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Grom, 133 S.W. 977, 142 Ky. 51.

13. Ga.—Seaboard Air Line R. Co. v. Andrews, 78 S.E. 925, 140 Ga. 254, Ann.Cas 1914D 165.
10 C.J. p 863 note 16.
Presumption as to law of sister state being same as law of forum generally see C.J.S. title Evidence § 133, also 22 C.J. p 152 note 97.

14. Tex.—El Paso, etc., R. Co. v. Landon, 124 S.W. 744, 58 Tex.Civ. App. 397.

15. Ark.—St Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Coy, 168 S.W. 1106, 113 Ark. 265.
10 C.J. p 863 note 18.

Negligent speed
Where statutory law of place of accident different from statutory law of forum as to prima facie unreasonable speed, law of forum controlled. —Davis Cabs v. Evans, 182 N.E. 327, 42 Ohio App. 493.

16. Mo.—Edmondson v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., App., 8 S.W.2d 103—Edmondson v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., App., 264 S.W. 470.

17. Ind.—Dierickx v. Davis, 137 N.E. 685, 80 Ind.App. 71, certiorari denied 44 S.Ct. 36, 263 U.S. 709, 68 L.Ed. 518.

18. Tenn.—Baskin & Cole v. Whitson, 8 Tenn.App 578.
Utah.—Hansen v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., 138 P. 852, 55 Utah 577.
W.Va.—Bailey v. Bartlett, 162 S.E. 615, 112 W.Va. 27.
10 C.J. p 873 note 82.
"Liability of a common carrier does not depend on the fact that compensation for the passage is paid to the carrier, nor does its duty to carry safely result alone from the consideration paid."—Wessman v. Boston & M. R. R., 152 A. 476, 483, 84 N.H. 475.

Doctrine of respondeat superior applies to the performance of the duties of care, skill, and diligence for the safety of such a passenger.—Wessman v. Boston & M. R. R., 152 A. 476, 84 N.H. 475.
Care required as to:
Passengers generally see supra §§ 677, 678.
Persons accompanying live stock on freight or mixed trains see infra § 683.
Persons riding gratuitously as passengers see supra § 549.

19. Ga.—Carter v. Seaboard Air Line Ry., 94 S.E. 280, 21 Ga.App. 251.
Mont.—John v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 111 P. 632, 42 Mont. 18, 32 L.R.A., N.S., 85.
10 C.J. p 874 note 83.

Reciprocal obligations
Under a statute making the passenger's duty to pay fare and the carrier's liability reciprocal obligations, a passenger, paying no fare, injured by a sudden jerk of shuttle train operated by railway company to carry its employees to and from work, is not entitled to recover because persons were occasionally carried on train without payment of fare and none was demanded.—Carter v. Seaboard Air Line Ry., 94 S.E. 280, 21 Ga.App. 251.

20. Ind.—Clark v. Southern Ry. Co., 119 N.E. 539, 69 Ind.App. 697.
Me.—Miller v. Maine Cent. R. Co.,

person riding on a free pass,[21] although the pass, without his fault, is issued in violation of law,[22] or his use of the pass is a violation of law;[23] and even though the pass contains a release from liability for injuries, the carrier is liable for injuries caused by willful or wanton negligence.[24] This rule also applies to one who in good faith rides without the payment of fare on the invitation of the conductor or other agent of the carrier, within the apparent scope of his employment, notwithstanding his presence on the train or car is illegal under the act to regulate commerce.[25]

§ 681. Care as to Passengers Riding in Places Not Designed for Them

A passenger riding, with the carrier's knowledge, in a place not designed for passengers to ride, is entitled to the exercise, by the carrier, of care, skill, and diligence for his safety.

The degree of care, skill, and diligence required for the safety of passengers generally, as explained supra §§ 677, 678, must be exercised for the safety of a passenger who, with the knowledge of the carrier, is riding in a place not designed for passengers to ride,[26] such as in regard to the management and operation of the train or car when the passenger is riding in a dangerous place, as explained infra § 752.

§ 682. Duty to Warn Passenger as to Danger

It is the duty of the carrier to warn a passenger of any danger to him, which, in the exercise of a proper degree of care, it may apprehend or foresee, and which is not observable by the passenger and of which he is unaware.

The carrier owes to the passenger the duty of protection during transportation in order that, while on the carrier's premises and in its vehicles, he 133 A. 907, 125 Me 338, 47 A.L.R 720.

10 C.J. p 874 note 84.

One riding on pass providing that rider assumes all risk is not entitled as of legal right to any degree of diligence at hands of carrier, and carrier is not liable for mere negligence, although gross, and such rule applies to employee riding on such pass where travel is in no way connected with his employment.—Lanier v. Bugg, 123 S.E. 145, 32 Ga.App. 294

Exemption from liability to gratuitous passenger for negligence generally see supra § 634.

21. Ga.—Lanier v. Bugg, 123 S.E. 145, 32 Ga.App. 294.
Me.—Miller v. Maine Cent. R. Co., 133 A. 907, 125 Me 338, 47 A.L.R 720.
N.C.—Campbell v. American Fidelity & Casualty Co., 192 S.E. 906, 212 N.C. 65.
Utah.—Hansen v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., 188 P. 852, 55 Utah 577.
10 C.J. p 874 note 85.

Corpus Juris has received judicial approval in Wessman v. Boston & M. R. R., 152 A. 476, 478, 84 N.H. 475.

Due care

Carrier, carrying passenger on free pass, owes duty of exercising due care, although, in absence of prohibitive statute, it may contract to relieve itself from liability.—Clark v. Southern Ry. Co., 119 N.E. 539, 69 Ind.App. 697.

Employee's wife

That railroad employee's wife traveled on free pass did not affect character of carrier's service, nor legal duty of railroad as common carrier to transport passenger safely.—Wessman v. Boston & M. R. R., 152 A. 476, 84 N.H. 475.—10 C.J. p 874 note 85 [a].

Person riding on pass as passenger see supra § 550.

22. W.Va.—Bailey v. Bartlett, 163 S.E. 615, 112 W.Va. 27.
10 C.J. p 874 note 86.

Intra-state bus line which honors pass, void because issued to person not included within statutory classification, owes same degree of care as it owes to regular passenger.—Bailey v. Bartlett, 163 S.E. 615, 112 W.Va 27.

23. Mo.—McGrath v. Payne, 245 S.W. 1061.

Not authorized to receive or use pass

That a passenger, while riding on defendant's railroad, was not an employee and not authorized to receive or use the free pass on which he was riding, did not relieve the carrier who had accepted him as a passenger from using the same degree of care toward him as toward other passengers.—McGrath v. Payne, Mo., 245 S.W. 1061.

24. U.S.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Mohney, Ohio, 40 S.Ct 287, 252 U.S. 152, 64 L.Ed 502, 9 A.L.R 496—Virginia Beach Bus Line v. Campbell, C.C.A.N.C., 73 F.2d 97, certiorari denied 55 S.Ct. 637, 294 U.S. 727, 79 L.Ed. 1258.

25. Miss.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Messina, 72 So. 779, 111 Miss 884, certiorari denied 37 S.Ct. 246, 242 U.S. 653, 61 L.Ed 546.
10 C.J. p 874 note 87.

Discharged employee being transported home

Where assistant supervisor having charge of movements of work train directed discharged railroad employee to ride on such train after railroad had promised employee passage home, the railroad owed the employee the duty of operating the work train with reasonable care.—Mitchell v. Southern Ry. Co., 97 S.E. 628, 176 N.C 645

26. Ill.—Wennmacher v. Choate, 224 Ill.App. 42.
Mo.—Cooley v. Dunham, 195 S.W. 1058, 196 Mo.App 399.

On platform

If a street car conductor knew that plaintiff was riding outside of the railing on the back platform of the car, and accepted plaintiff's transfer with such knowledge, plaintiff was a passenger, and the company owed the duty of exercising the highest degree of care to transport him safely.—Louisville Ry. Co. v. Rice, 250 S.W 863, 199 Ky. 196.

On running board

As to passengers riding on the running board of a street car, with the knowledge and consent of its employees, the carrier and its servants owed to them the highest degree of care consistent with the mode of conveyance adopted and with the practical operation of the road.—Wennmacher v. Choate, 224 Ill.App. 42.

On steps

(1) Where a man standing on the step outside the line of street car is accepted as a passenger, carrier has the duty of exercising the high degree of care required by their relations, and commensurate with the circumstances.—Smith v. Kansas City Rys. Co., Mo.App., 204 S.W. 575

(2) Where the conductor of a street car sees a child less than seven years old riding on the step, he must endeavor reasonably to protect him against his own indiscretion.—Smorawski v. Chicago City Ry. Co., 211 Ill.App. 557

Person riding in improper place as passenger see supra § 552.

may enjoy comfort, peace, and safety. This duty of care involves warning of danger so far as such warning may enable the passenger to protect himself against an injury which might be anticipated in the exercise of a high degree of care and foresight, and the carrier will be liable for an injury which might have been avoided if due warning had been given.[27] The employees in charge of the train or car should notify passengers of any danger which may be apprehended or foreseen with reference to the place of riding, or of any other peril to which they are subjected.[28] There is no duty, however, to warn a passenger of his danger where the conditions which constitute the danger are as observable by him and apparently as obvious to him as to the employees of the carrier,[29] and where a passenger remains on the running board without any necessity for doing so, there is no duty to warn him of the danger from jolts or lurches incident to the ordinary motion of the car when passing over switches or around curves.[30]

It may also be negligence unduly to alarm a passenger by unnecessary signals or warnings as to danger, whereby he is induced to act in such a way as to be injured;[31] but the usual signals or warnings required in the operation of the train or car with reference to those not passengers will not render the carrier liable for injury resulting to a passenger who is alarmed thereby.[32] The statutory signals required where a train approaches a station have no reference to the safety of the passenger in connection with the operation of the train.[33]

§ 683. Liability as Affected by Means of Conveyance

The means of conveyance used by a common carrier of passengers generally does not affect the degree of care required of it for the safety of passengers; but the means used should be considered in determining whether the proper degree of care has been exercised.

The law with reference to the duty of care of common carriers to passengers is the same as to all common carriers,[34] and as a general rule the degree of care required of a carrier of passengers is not affected by the means of conveyance or motive power used,[35] but the mode of conveyance used is an important element in determining whether

27. N.Y.—Morgan v. Oceanic Steam Nav. Co, 224 N.Y.S. 420, 130 Misc. 570.
10 C.J. p 910 note 1.

This duty rests on the theory "that the danger may not be apparent by reason of circumstances which lie wholly within the knowledge of the carrier."—Morgan v. Oceanic Steam Nav. Co, 224 N.Y.S. 420, 425, 130 Misc. 570.
Duty to warn boarding or alighting passengers see infra § 724.

28. Conn.—Rosenthal v. New York, etc., R. Co, 89 A. 888, 88 Conn. 65, 51 L.R.A.,N.S., 775.
10 C.J. p 910 note 2.

Danger from car on adjacent track
Where a passenger is in a position rendering him liable to be injured by a car on an adjacent track, it is the duty of the conductor or other employee who has knowledge of the passenger's dangerous position, and that he is oblivious of such danger, to warn him thereof.—Gage v. St. Louis Transit Co, 109 S.W. 13, 211 Mo. 139.

29. Ind.—Pere Marquette R. Co. v. Strange, 84 N.E. 819, 85 N.E. 1026, 171 Ind. 160, 20 L.R.A.,N.S., 1041
10 C.J. p 910 note 4.

Going on platform
Where a passenger, in violation of the rules of defendant company, was smoking in a coach, and, upon being asked to stop, asked where he could go, and was told by the porter that if he wanted to smoke, he could go out on the platform, and, on doing so, slipped and fell off train and was injured, the porter was not negligent in failing to warn passenger of the dangers of going on the platform.—Rhodes v. Houston E. & W. T. R. Co., Tex.Civ.App., 242 S.W. 263.

30. Mass.—Olund v. Worcester Cons. St. R. Co., 92 N.E. 720, 206 Mass. 544

31. Mo.—Ephland v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 37 S.W. 820, 38 S.W. 926, 137 Mo. 137, 59 Am.S.R. 498, 35 L.R.A. 107.
10 C.J. p 910 note 6.

32. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Felton, 17 N.E. 765, 125 Ill. 458, reversing 24 Ill.App. 376
Mo.—Kleiber v. People's R. Co, 17 S.W. 946, 107 Mo. 240, 14 L.R.A. 613.

33. Ala.—Alabama Great Southern R. Co v. Hawk, 72 Ala. 112.
Tenn.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. McKenna, 7 Lea 313.

34. Ark.—Missouri Pac. Transp. Co v. Robinson, 86 S.W.2d 913, 191 Ark. 428.

35. Ark.—Missouri Pac. Transp. Co. v. Robinson, supra—Arkansas Cent. R. Co v. Janson, 119 S.W. 648, 90 Ark. 494.
Mo.—Burkett v. Missouri Pac. R. Co, App., 208 S.W. 104
Tex.—Paris & G. N. Ry. Co. v. Atkins, Civ.App., 185 S.W. 306, affirmed 234 S.W. 66, 111 Tex. 306.
10 C.J. p 865 note 26.

Bus company is not insurer of its passengers.—Mahfouz v. Interurban Transp. Co., 135 So. 740, 17 La.App. 241.

Chauffeur of a sight-seeing automobile which carries passengers owes them the highest degree of care.—McFadden v. Metropolitan St. R. Co, 143 S.W. 884, 161 Mo.App. 652.

Owner and operator of scenic railway is bound to exercise the highest degree of care for the safety of its passengers, and to do all that human foresight and vigilance can do consistent with the mode of conveyance and the practical operation of the business to prevent accidents to such passengers.—Sentker v. Martin, 19 Ohio N.P., N.S., 445.

Taxicab drivers
(1) A taxicab driver is bound to exercise in the management of his taxicab the highest degree of care required by the circumstances to protect a passenger from injury during transportation, but is not bound to anticipate every possible peril, and is not an insurer nor obliged to foresee the impossible or highly improbable.—Intriligator v. Goldberg, Mass., 12 N.E.2d 730.

(2) A jitney driver as a common carrier owed to his passenger the duty of exercising the highest degree of care compatible with the practical operation of the car. That duty would not be met as a matter of law by a mere observance of the law of the road. His negligence, if any, as between him and his passenger is to be measured by his duty as a common carrier, not by his duty to other users of the highway.—Singer the proper degree of care has been exercised,[36] and as compared with other modes of conveyance the more dangerous the character of the machine used by the carrier the greater the care and caution required in its use.[37]

§ 684. Freight or Mixed Trains

A carrier must generally exercise the highest degree of practicable care, skill, and diligence for the safety of a passenger received for transportation on a freight or mixed train.

In the operation of freight or mixed trains, somewhat greater peril is involved to passengers riding thereon than is involved in the operation of passenger trains,[38] and, as explained infra §§ 750, 774, 794, a passenger on such a train assumes the inconveniences and additional risks that are usually and reasonably incident to transportation on such trains. However, as in the case of passengers generally, as stated supra § 677, it is the duty of the carrier to carry a passenger on such a train safely to his destination,[39] and in doing so to exercise the same high degree of care that it owes to passengers on ordinary passenger trains, and this generally means the highest practical degree of care consistent with the operation of a freight or mixed train,[40] taking into consideration the different facts and circumstances that attend transportation on such a train,[41] such as the fact that, in the absence of statute, a carrier is not required to equip its cabooses like passenger cars, and that inconvenience and danger necessarily attend such mode of conveyance;[42] and in some states this rule of liability is expressly enforced by statute.[43] Such a passenger does not as-v Martin, 164 P. 1105, 1107, 96 Wash. 231.

(3) A taxicab operator owes to passenger for hire the duty to exercise the utmost care and diligence to provide safe transportation.—Larson v. Blue & White Cab Co., Cal. App., 75 P.2d 612.

(4) A taxicab owner, engaged in business of transporting passengers for hire, was under duty of exercising highest degree of care to transport passenger in safety.—Dix v. Gross, 111 S.W.2d 673, 271 Ky. 231—Adams v. Hilton, 110 S.W.2d 1028, 270 Ky. 818

(5) Operators of taxicabs are required to use utmost skill, diligence, and foresight consistent with their business for safety of passengers, and are liable for slightest negligence.—Fielding v. Publix Cars, Neb., 277 N.W. 331.

Care required of carrier operating vessel see C.J.S. title Shipping § 193, also 58 C.J. p 548 note 32—p 551 note 74.

36. Ga.—Southern R. Co. v. Cunningham, 50 S.E. 979, 123 Ga. 90.
10 C.J. p 865 note 27.

37. N.C.—Cates v. Hall, 88 S.E. 524, 171 N.C. 360.

38. La.—Johnson v. Missouri Pac. Ry. Co., 2 La. App. 244.
10 C.J. p 865 note 31.

Injury resulting from jerks and jars of freight train see infra § 750.

Who are passengers on freight or mixed trains see supra § 552.

39. N.D.—Faubion v. Minneapolis, St. P. & S. S. M. Ry. Co., 177 N.W. 371, 45 N.D. 269.

40. Ark.—Meeks v. Graysonia, N. & A. R. Co., 272 S.W. 360, 168 Ark. 966

Ky.—Millers Creek R. Co. v. Blevins, 205 S.W. 911, 181 Ky. 800—Kentucky & T. Ry. Co. v. Ball, 194 S.W. 785, 175 Ky. 630.

La.—Johnson v. Missouri Pac. Ry. Co., 2 La. App. 244

Mo.—Rissmiller v. St. Louis & H. Ry. Co., App., 187 S.W. 573.

Tex.—Fort Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Hawley, Civ. App., 235 S.W. 659—Yoes v. Texas & P. Ry. Co., Civ. App., 211 S.W. 311.
10 C.J. p 865 note 33.

Reason for rule

"Conditions of operation and management, of course, are different from those of a passenger train, but the human element is the same, and the same rule is justly applicable to both. As to the matter of application, it is to be administered in each case according to the circumstances of that case."—Paris & G. N. R. Co. v. Atkins, 234 S.W. 66, 67, 111 Tex. 306, affirming, Civ. App., 185 S.W. 306.

Irrespective of ownership of car

A railroad company's liability for injury to persons properly in freight car during course of transportation, for injuries sustained because of defects therein which might have been discovered by reasonable inspection, does not depend on such company's ownership of car which it adopts as part of its own equipment, irrespective of source from which received.—Dominices v. Monongahela Connecting R. Co., 195 A. 747, 328 Pa. 203.

Lack of accommodations

A carpenter at work under government contractors at an army camp site who knew that a cattle car was the only accommodation furnished by a railroad to transport workers to and from a city to the camp site, and chose to avail himself of it, cannot recover for injuries received when he slipped and fell as he was disembarking at the usual stopping place, on the ground that the railroad failed to furnish proper accommodations.—Gilliam v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 103 S.E. 10, 179 N.C. 508

41. Tex.—Paris & G. N. R. Co. v. Atkins, 234 S.W. 66, 111 Tex. 306, affirming, Civ. App., 185 S.W. 306.

"As to what facts will raise an inference of negligence is quite different in the case of passenger trains and freight trains."—Burkett v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., Mo. App., 208 S.W. 104, 105

Distinction between degree of care on passenger and freight trains

It has been held that the degree of care required of carriers and their servants on passenger trains is greater than that required on freight trains, where certain accommodations have been provided for passengers.

U.S.—Reber v. Bond, C.C. Miss., 38 F. 822.

Ky.—Kentucky & T. Ry. Co. v. Ball, 194 S.W. 785, 175 Ky. 630.

Every reasonable care and precaution

It is no less the duty of the carrier to exercise every reasonable care and take every reasonable precaution against injury to passengers which appliances for that mode of transportation will admit of.—Riggs v. Norfolk-Southern R. Co., 124 S.E. 749, 188 N.C. 366

42. Kan.—Jones v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 157 P. 399, 98 Kan. 133.
10 C.J. p 866 note 34.

The test of due care toward a passenger riding in caboose of freight train is what prudent and cautious men would do under the same or similar circumstances, and not what railway employees usually or ordinarily do.—Paris & G. N. Ry. Co. v. Atkins, Civ. App., 185 S.W. 306, affirmed 234 S.W. 66, 111 Tex. 306.

43. Cal.—Roberts v. Sierra R. Co., 111 P. 519, 14 Cal. App. 180.
10 C.J. p 866 note 35.

sume any risks from the lack of proper care on the part of the carrier, as stated infra §§ 774, 794, and if such care is not exercised by the carrier, and a passenger is injured thereby, the carrier is negligent and liable.[44] A person riding on a pass in a camp car attached to a freight train has been held not entitled to the same degree of care for his safety as is a passenger on a regular passenger train.[45]

Persons accompanying stock. Under these rules drovers or persons accompanying stock on freight trains under a contract for transporting such stock, are entitled, as passengers, to the highest degree of care, diligence, and skill for their safety, consistent with the operation of the train.[46]

§ 685. Stagecoaches

A common carrier of passengers by stagecoach or motor vehicle is generally bound to exercise the highest degree of care, skill, and diligence for the safety of its passengers.

The principles governing the liability of passenger carriers seem first to have been laid down in stagecoach cases, and it was early settled that the owner of a stagecoach is not an insurer of the safety of his passengers, and is liable only in case of negligence.[47] However, a carrier by stagecoach or cab is bound to exercise the greatest care and diligence, and is liable for the slightest negligence of himself or his servants.[48] Such a carrier is required to exercise great care with reference to the vehicle used, the horses and harness, and the prudence, skill, and sobriety of the driver, and is liable if, through the slightest negligence in these respects, or in the conduct of the driver, a passenger is injured.[49]

Motor vehicle carriers. The rules considered heretofore, in §§ 677 and 678, as to the degree of care required of common carriers of passengers apply to common carriers operating by motor vehicle,[50] and, in accordance with those rules, it is generally held that the highest degree of care, skill, and diligence, or, as otherwise expressed, the highest degree of care consistent with the mode of conveyance and the nature of the business, must be exercised for the safety of its passengers by a common carrier operating by motor vehicle,[51] such as

Liability for gross negligence

(1) Under a statutory provision that a railroad company shall be liable to a passenger on a freight train only for gross negligence, the company is not required to take the same precautions for the safety and comfort of such a passenger as it must for a passenger on a passenger train—Binder v. Union Pac. R. Co., 194 P. 314, 108 Kan. 47—10 C.J. p 866 note 35 [b].

(2) This rule, under some statutes, applies only to a freight train not intended for both passengers and freight—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. White, 52 So. 449, 55 So. 593, 97 Miss 91—10 C.J. p 866 note 35 [c].

44. Fla.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Hamlett, 89 So. 337, 81 Fla. 872. 10 C J p 866 note 37.

45. Md.—Western Maryland Ry. Co v. Shatzer, 120 A. 840, 142 Md. 274.

46. Okl.—Lusk v. McBride, 175 P. 747, 73 Okl. 283—Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. v. Lynn, 161 P. 1058, 62 Okl. 17.
Tex.—Yoes v. Texas & P. Ry. Co., Civ App., 211 S.W. 311, error refused—Texas & N. O R. Co. v. Tillman, Civ.App., 197 S.W. 1128.
10 C.J p. 867 note 38.

Need not take caboose to unloading chute

A statute requiring the carrier to furnish a caboose for the transportation of an attendant of live stock "to the actual place of unloading such shipment," does not require the carrier to take the caboose along with the live stock car to the unloading chute—Vulgamott v. Hines, Mo.App., 229 S.W. 394.

Riding in car with stock

A live stock shipper who is permitted by the carrier to ride with the stock in a stock car is entitled to the degree of care due a passenger, but not to the protection which could and should have been afforded him if a passenger on a passenger train, or if he had traveled in the caboose, as he had a right to do.—Beasley v. Hines, 219 S.W. 757, 143 Ark. 54, 15 A.L.R. 864.

Safe place to alight

A carrier must exercise the high degree of care which it owes to a passenger not to set a person riding on a drover's pass down at an unsafe place, or a place so remote from the depot platform used for passengers as would expose him to manifest danger.—Roberts v. Ft Worth & D C. Ry. Co., Tex.Civ.App., 229 S.W. 954.

47. Mont.—Taillon v. Mears, 74 P. 421, 29 Mont. 161, 1 Ann.Cas. 613
10 C.J. p 867 note 39.
Carrier not insurer generally see supra § 676.

48. Cal.—Wright v. Yosemite Transp. Co., 175 P. 906, 38 Cal.App. 782—Wright v. Yosemite Transp. Co., 175 P 905, 38 Cal.App. 277.
Iowa.—Bonce v. Dubuque St. R. Co., 5 N.W. 177, 53 Iowa 278, 36 Am.R. 221
Wash.—Nicktovich v. Olympic Motor Transit Co., 272 P. 736, 150 Wash. 278.
10 C.J. p 867 note 40.

49. Kan.—Lewark v Parkinson, 85 P. 601, 73 Kan. 553, 5 L.R.A.,N.S., 1069
10 C.J. p 867 note 41.
Care required in hiring employees generally see infra § 688.

50. Ark.—Missouri Pac Transp. Co. v. Robinson, 86 S.W.2d 913, 191 Ark. 428.

51. Cal.—McKinley v. Dalton, 17 P. 2d 160, 128 Cal.App 298.
Ky.—Jesse v. Dunn, 51 S.W.2d 918, 244 Ky. 613.

Ambulance

An organization operating an ambulance gratuitously for members of the public, but expecting contributions to the ambulance fund, is liable as a "public carrier" to an occupant for ordinary negligence by the ambulance driver.—Leete v. American Post No. 79, American Legion, 158 A. 919, 114 Conn. 400.

Passenger having intoxicating liquor no excuse

Where plaintiff at time of injury was passenger in automobile of defendant common carrier driven by its employee, defendants were legally bound to exercise high degree of care, and fact that another passenger had intoxicating liquor in his possession does not absolve defendants, on theory that automobile was hired for purpose of transporting intoxicating liquor, in violation of law.—Bower Auto Rent Co. v. Young, Tex.Civ.App., 274 S.W. 295.
Care required of private carrier by motor vehicle see supra § 678 d.

by auto stage or motor bus,[52] or jitney bus.[53] If the operator of such a vehicle, by his negligence, creates or helps to create an emergency the exercise of ordinary care thereafter will not relieve him from liability to an injured passenger;[54] but the carrier is not liable for injury to a passenger if it has been entirely free from negligence.[55]

Taxicab. The owner or operator of a taxicab, as has generally been held, must exercise the highest degree of care, skill, and diligence, compatible with the practical operation of the cab, for the safety of its passengers.[56] The exercise of such care is 52. Ark.—Wade v. Brocato, 95 S.W.2d 94—Missouri Pac. Transp Co. v. Robinson, 86 S.W.2d 913, 191 Ark. 428.

Cal.—Simmons v. Pacific Electric Ry. Co., 212 P. 637, 60 Cal.App. 129.
Conn.—Robinson v. Connecticut Co., 189 A. 453, 122 Conn. 300.
Ill.—Rowan v. Bartonville Bus Line, 242 Ill.App. 451.
Ky.—McGraw v. Ayers, 58 S.W.2d 378, 248 Ky. 166.
La.—Baptiste v. New Orleans Public Service, App., 161 So. 783.
Mass.—Turner v. Berkshire St. Ry. Co., 193 N.E. 178.
Miss.—Oliver Bus Lines v. Skaggs, 164 So. 9, 174 Miss. 201.
Neb.—Giffen v. Lincoln Traction Co., 225 N.W. 232, 118 Neb. 459.
Okl.—Missouri, Kansas & Oklahoma Coach Lines v. Burton, 72 P.2d 385.
Or.—Richardson v. Portland Trackless Car Co., 233 P. 540, 113 Or. 544.
Tenn.—Tennessee Coach Co. v. Young, 80 S.W.2d 107, 18 Tenn. App. 592—Greyhound Lines, Inc. v. Patterson, 14 Tenn.App. 652—Blount County v. Perry, 7 Tenn. App. 340.
Wash.—Washington v. City of Seattle, 16 P.2d 597, 170 Wash. 371, 86 A.L.R. 113—Duggins v. International Motor Transit Co., 280 P. 50, 153 Wash. 549—Nicktovich v. Olympic Motor Transit Co., 272 P. 736, 150 Wash. 278.
W.Va.—Bennett v. Bartlett, 158 S.E. 712, 110 W.Va. 478.

A driver in sole charge of a bus is obligated to give highest degree of care for safety of his passengers compatible with reasonable movements of bus in performing his duties of assisting passengers in disposing of their baggage and removing it when passengers reach their destination.—Interurban Transp. Co. v. Reeves, Ark., 108 S.W.2d 594.

As distinguished from carriers by railroad "it must be borne in mind that a railroad company is generally responsible for the condition of the tracks over which it runs its trains, while automobile carriers have no control of the public highways over which they transport their passengers"—Karp v. Powers, 124 So. 781, 782, 12 La.App. 518.

City carrying passenger in its bus for hire owes utmost precaution to passenger to see that passenger is safely carried to her destination, and city, to escape liability for passenger's injuries while in bus, has to be free from any negligence contributing to the injury.—Johnson v. City of Monroe, La.App., 164 So. 456.

Defects in highway

Carrier of passengers by motor bus is not liable for accident caused by unknown defects in road which appears safe and solid, where defects could not be detected by exercise of highest degree of care consistent with practical conduct of its business.—Oliver v. Union Transfer Co., 71 S.W.2d 478, 17 Tenn.App. 694.

High degree of care

(1) A motor bus company must use a high degree of care to transport its passengers safely.—Schreiber v. Public Service Co-ordinated Transport, 169 A. 629, 112 N.J.Law 199—Holda v. Public Service Co-ordinated Transport, 168 A. 753, 11 N.J.Misc. 879.

(2) The distinction has been made that the owner of the utility owes a high degree of care, but that the operator owes a duty of reasonable care only.—Maldonato v. Ironbound Transp. Co., 156 A. 275, 9 N.J.Misc. 985.

Proper car in the inspection, maintenance, and operation of the bus must be exercised by a motor bus owner, and his failure to do so is the only negligence for which he is liable to a passenger.—Sakowski v. Baird, 69 S.W.2d 649, 334 Mo. 951.

Safe transportation to the end of his journey is a duty owed by a motor bus company to a passenger.—Martin v. Interurban Transp. Co., 131 So. 514, 15 La.App. 256.

53. N.J.—Schott v. Weiss, 105 A. 192, 92 N.J.Law 494.
Wash.—Singer v. Martin, 164 P. 1105, 96 Wash. 231.
Wis.—McCaffrey v. Automobile Liability Co., Limited, Mutual, 186 N.W. 585, 176 Wis. 230.

Statement of rule

Jitney driver, as common carrier, owes passenger utmost care, diligence, and foresight in operation and management of his vehicle and is liable if guilty of negligence in slightest degree, whereby passenger, not himself negligent, is injured.—Riggsby v. Tritton, 129 S.E. 493, 143 Va. 903, 45 A.L.R. 280, motion denied 133 S.E. 580, 45 A.L.R. 280.

As to a passenger riding on the running board, with the driver's permission, the driver is bound to use ordinary care not to increase the hazard.—Cecil v. Jernigan, 4 Tenn. App. 80.

Mere observance of the law of the road by a jitney bus driver is not a sufficient discharge of his duty to a passenger to exercise the highest degree of care compatible with the practical operation of the car, his negligence, if any, as between him and his passenger, being measurable only by his duty as a common carrier, and not by his duty to other users of the highway.—Singer v. Martin, 164 P. 1105, 96 Wash. 231.

54. Ky.—McGraw v. Ayers, 58 S.W.2d 378, 248 Ky. 166.

55. La.—Baptiste v. New Orleans Public Service, App., 161 So. 783.
Mo.—Sakowski v. Baird, 69 S.W.2d 649, 334 Mo. 951.

56. Cal.—Bezera v. Associated Oil Co., 3 P.2d 622, 117 Cal.App. 139.
Ill.—Reitz v. Yellow Cab Co., 248 Ill. App. 287.
Ky.—Hensley v. Braden, 91 S.W.2d 34, 262 Ky. 672—Shelton Taxi Co. v. Bowling, 51 S.W.2d 468, 244 Ky. 817.
La.—Upton v. Bell Cabs, App., 154 So. 359—Thibodeaux v. Star Checker Cab Co., App., 143 So. 101.
Me.—Chaput v. Lussier, 165 A. 573, 132 Me. 48.
Mass.—Guinevan v. Checker Taxi Co., 194 N.E. 100, 289 Mass. 295.
Minn.—McKellar v. Yellow Cab Co., 181 N.W. 348, 148 Minn. 247.
Or.—Ramsdell v. Frederick, 285 P. 219, 132 Or. 161.
Pa.—Hughes v. Pittsburgh Transp. Co., 150 A. 153, 300 Pa. 55.
Tenn.—Wishone v. Yellow Cab Co., App., 97 S.W.2d 452.
Va.—Hogan v. Miller, 157 S.E. 540, 156 Va. 166.
Wash.—Rich v. Campbell, 2 P.2d 886, 164 Wash. 393—Fleming v. Red Top Cab Co., 233 P. 639, 133 Wash. 338.
Wis.—Scales v. Boynton Cab Co., 223 N.W. 836, 198 Wis. 293, 69 A.L.R. 978—Anderson v. Yellow Cab Co., 191 N.W. 748, 179 Wis. 300, 31 A.L.R. 1197.

Extraordinary diligence

Operators of taxicab business of transporting general public for hire are carriers and must exercise extraordinary diligence for protection of passengers.—Locke v. Ford, Ga.App., 187 S.E. 715.

a primary duty of the driver of the taxicab,[57] and he must exercise a higher degree of care for the safety of his passenger than for the safety of a pedestrian,[58] and a higher degree of care than is imposed on an automobile owner who carries a person as his guest or as an accommodation.[59]

§ 686. Street Cars of Various Kinds

A street railroad company, as a common carrier of passengers, generally is required to exercise the highest degree of care, prudence, and foresight for the safety of its passengers.

A carrier by street car is not an insurer of the safety of its passengers, but is liable only for negligence, in failing to exercise a proper degree of care,[60] and hence is not liable for an injury to a passenger which the exercise of reasonable foresight would not have anticipated or due care have avoided.[61] In some cases language has been used with reference to transportation of passengers in this manner, indicating that reasonable care and diligence is all that is necessary to relieve the carrier from liability for injuries happening to the passenger in the course of transportation;[62] but in most of the cases the general rule of liability is laid down, as in other cases discussed in §§ 677 and 678, to the effect that a street railroad company is required to exercise the same degree of care and diligence for the safety of its passengers as is any other common carrier of passengers, such as an ordinary railroad company,[63] that is, the highest degree of care, prudence, and foresight, or, as it is otherwise expressed, the highest degree of care and skill which prudent men would use and exercise in like business and under like circumstances, or the highest degree of care, skill, and diligence, consistent with the practical operation of the road;[64] and particularly is a street railroad governed by the rules

High degree of care required

Mich.—Durfey v. Milligan, 251 N.W. 356, 265 Mich. 97.

N.J.—King v. Steglitz, 166 A. 146, 111 N.J. Law 11.

Ordinary or reasonable care required

Ind.—Hudnut v. Indiana De Luxe Cab Co., 182 N.E. 711, 98 Ind.App. 44.

Mass.—Dion v. Drapeau, 150 N.E. 14, 254 Mass. 186

Taxicab constitutes "hackney coach" as regards taxi owner's liability for passengers' injuries.—Chaput v. Lussier, 165 A. 573, 132 Me. 48.

The driver must be alert and watchful at all times, and exercise the necessary care to carry his passengers safely.—McKellar v. Yellow Cab Co., 181 N.W. 348, 148 Minn. 247.

57. Cal.—Bezera v. Associated Oil Co., 3 P.2d 622, 117 Cal.App. 139.

Wash.—Garrow v. Seattle Taxicab Co., 238 P. 623, 135 Wash. 630, 45 A.L.R. 293.

58. Md.—Sun Cab Co. v. Reustle, 192 A. 292.

59. Wash.—Garrow v. Seattle Taxicab Co., 238 P. 623, 135 Wash. 630, 45 A.L.R. 293.

60. Ala.—O'Brien v. Birmingham Ry., Light & Power Co., 72 So. 343, 197 Ala. 97.

Ark.—Arkansas Power & Light Co. v. Boyd, 65 S.W.2d 919, 188 Ark. 254—Arkansas Power & Light Co. v. Mart, 65 S.W.2d 39, 188 Ark. 202

Ill.—Grubczak v. Chicago Rys. Co., 242 Ill.App. 384.

La.—Bynum v. City of Monroe, App., 171 So. 116—Mahfouz v. Interurban Transp. Co., 135 So. 740, 17 La.App. 241—Martin v. Interurban Transp. Co., 131 So. 514, 15 La.App. 256—Schuh v. N.O. Public Service, Inc., 5 La.App. 57.

Mo.—Jordan v. St. Louis Public Service Co., App., 103 S.W.2d 552

R.I.—Bines v. United Electric Rys. Co., 148 A. 417, 50 R.I. 438.

Tex.—Dallas Ry. & Terminal Co. v. Travis, Civ.App., 46 S.W.2d 743, affirmed 78 S.W.2d 941, 125 Tex. 11.

10 C.J. p. 867 note 44.

Slight negligence of street railroad proximately causing passenger's injury may render railroad liable, providing passenger could not himself have avoided injury by exercising ordinary care.—Leslie v. Georgia Power Co., 171 S.E. 395, 47 Ga.App. 723.

Carrier as not insurer generally see supra § 676

61. Ill.—See Holler v. Chicago City Ry. Co., 209 Ill.App. 140.

D.C.—Kight v. Metropolitan R. Co., 21 App.D.C. 494.

Minn.—Winchell v. St. Paul City R. Co., 90 N.W. 1050, 86 Minn. 445.

Wash.—Tobin v. City of Seattle, 221 P. 583, 127 Wash. 664.

Injury by wire accidentally attached to car

If the wire which caught deceased was accidentally attached to the street car while in operation, and operators had no knowledge of it, and were not negligent in failing to discover it, verdict could not be for plaintiff on account of the operators' negligently allowing the wire to become attached to the car.—O'Brien v. Birmingham Ry., Light & Power Co., 72 So. 343, 197 Ala. 97

Injuries by accident generally see infra § 697.

62. Mass.—Fiske v. Boston Elevated Ry. Co., 194 N.E. 835, 289 Mass. 598—Fitzgerald v. Boston Elevated Ry. Co., 174 N.E. 490, 274 Mass. 287.

10 C.J. p. 868 note 46.

"The rule of the highest degree of care is usually applied in cases where the accident results from defective roadbeds, machinery, or cars, and rarely in cases where the result follows negligent operation by the motorman."—Taddeo v. Tilton, 289 N.Y.S. 427, 433, 248 App.Div. 290

If carrier has selected an efficient motorman, prescribed proper rules for operation, etc., it should be held liable for the exercise of that care by its motorman in any situation that may arise that would be exercised by the average individual of ordinary prudence under like circumstances.—O'Brien v. New York Rys. Co., 174 N.Y.S. 116, 185 App.Div. 867—10 C.J. p. 868 note 46 [b].

63. S.C.—Derrick v. Columbia Ry., Gas & Electric Co., 137 S.E. 682, 139 S.C. 200.

Tex.—Dallas Ry. & Terminal Co. v. Travis, Civ.App., 46 S.W.2d 743, affirmed 78 S.W.2d 941, 125 Tex. 11.

10 C.J. p. 868 note 48.

64. Ala.—Birmingham Electric Co. v. Shelton, 163 So. 633, 231 Ala. 110—Birmingham Electric Co. v. Shephard, 110 So. 604, 215 Ala. 316—Birmingham Ry., Light & Power Co. v. Gray, 71 So. 689, 196 Ala. 42.

Ark.—Arkansas Power & Light Co. v. Boyd, 65 S.W.2d 919, 188 Ark. 254

Cal.—Drury v. Los Angeles Ry. Corporation, 282 P. 525, 102 Cal.App. 58

Colo.—Colorado Springs & Interurban Ry. Co. v. Reese, 169 P. 572, 69 Colo. 1.

Conn.—Cavanaugh v. Connecticut Co., 149 A. 131, 110 Conn. 698—Belle-regulating steam railroads, where it operates its cars beyond the limits of the city through open country.[65] These rules of liability are applicable to carriers operating horse cars,[66] cable cars,[67] electric cars,[68] and elevated railways.[69]

A statute providing that a railroad company shall be liable for damages inflicted on passengers while being transported over its road has no application to street railroads;[70] and an ordinance as to the degree of care required of a street railroad for the safety of pedestrians and vehicles does not affect the degree of care required of it for the safety of passengers.[71]

§ 687. Elevators

The owner or operator of a passenger elevator is generally required to exercise the highest degree of care and diligence for the safety of passengers using the elevator.

deau v. Connecticut Co., 149 A. 127, 110 Conn. 625.

Ill.—Walsh v. Chicago Rys Co., 128 N.E. 647, 649, 294 Ill. 586, reversing 216 Ill.App. 409—Kaldunski v. Chicago City Ry. Co., 250 Ill.App. 475—Grubczak v. Chicago Rys. Co., 242 Ill.App. 384.

Ind.—Ft Wayne & Northern Indiana Traction Co. v. Parish, 119 N.E. 488, 67 Ind.App. 597.

Iowa—Kliebenstein v. Iowa Ry. & Light Co., 183 N.W. 129, 193 Iowa 892.

La.—Bacon v. New Orleans Public Service, 137 So. 213, 18 La.App. 96, rehearing denied 137 So. 866, 18 La.App. 96—Thomas v. Shreveport Rys. Co., 127 So. 119, 13 La. App. 212.

Mass.—Bilodeau v. Fitchburg & L. St. Ry. Co., 128 N.E. 872, 236 Mass. 526—MacGilvray v. Boston Elevated Ry. Co., 118 N.E. 166, 229 Mass. 65, 4 A.L.R. 283.

Mich.—Selman v. City of Detroit, 278 N.W. 112, 283 Mich. 413—Larskowski v. Detroit United Ry., 159 N.W. 530, 193 Mich. 409.

Mo.—Toomey v. Wells, 276 S.W. 64, 310 Mo 696—Walquist v. Kansas City Rys Co., 237 S.W. 493, 292 Mo. 34—Jordan v. St. Louis Public Service Co., App., 103 S.W.2d 552—Cooley v. Dunham, 195 S.W. 1058, 196 Mo.App. 399.

Ohio—Cincinnati Street Ry. Co. v. Mueller, 200 N.E. 770, 51 Ohio App. 314—Cincinnati Street Ry. Co. v. Henkel, 176 N.E. 101, 38 Ohio App. 243—Morris v. Cincinnati Traction Co., 20 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 607.

Or.—Stamos v. Portland Electric Power Co., 274 P. 915, 128 Or. 310.

Pa.—Zaltouski v. Scranton Ry. Co., 165 A. 847, 310 Pa. 531—Riff v. Pittsburgh Rys. Co., 148 A. 102, 298 Pa. 256—Appenzeller v. Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co., 163 A. 387, 107 Pa.Super. 319—Deady v. Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co., 100 Pa. Super. 208.

S.C.—Derrick v. Columbia Ry., Gas & Electric Co., 137 S.E. 682, 139 S.C. 200.

Tenn.—Memphis St. Ry. Co. v. Cavell, 187 S.W. 179, 135 Tenn. 462—Memphis St. Ry. v. Felts, 6 Tenn.Civ.App. 303

Wash.—Tobin v. City of Seattle, 221 P. 583, 127 Wash. 664.

W.Va.—Cain v. Kanawha Traction & Electric Co., 95 S.E. 88, 81 W.Va. 631.

10 C.J. p. 868 note 49.

Basis of duty

A street railroad company must exercise the highest degree of care consistent with the practical operation of its business for the safety of passengers, because it is a common carrier, and not because it has the right to take property by eminent domain.—London v. Bay State St. Ry. Co., 121 N.E. 394, 231 Mass. 480.

Care required of motorman

(1) A motorman must use "the highest reasonable degree of care, vigilance, and forethought consistent with the mode of conveyance and the practical operation of the road"—Maher v. Connecticut Co., 155 A. 854, 855, 113 Conn. 556, 77 A.L.R. 426

(2) A motorman operating a one-man car is bound to exercise the utmost care for the safety of his passengers.—McNeil v. East Bay St. Rys., 32 P.2d 598, 220 Cal. 591.

(3) Whether street car motorman negligently operated car, as regards passenger's injuries, depends upon whether he acted with care required of a man under similar circumstances.—Cavanaugh v. Connecticut Co., 149 A. 131, 110 Conn. 698—Belledeau v. Connecticut Co., 149 A. 127, 110 Conn. 625.

City, as a carrier of passengers on municipally owned street railway, is bound by the same degree of care as other such carriers.—Bradley v. City of Seattle, 294 P. 554, 160 Wash. 100—Tobin v. City of Seattle, 221 P. 583, 127 Wash. 664.

Extraordinary diligence

It is the duty of a street railway company to use extraordinary care and diligence to protect passengers from any injury which might reasonably be anticipated as arising from outside sources.—Leslie v. Georgia Power Co., 171 S.E. 395, 47 Ga.App. 723—Georgia Ry. & Power Co. v. Murphy, 110 S.E. 680, 28 Ga. App. 173.

High degree of care

N.Y.—Rosenbaum v. Union Ry. Co., 169 N.Y.S. 456.

Tex.—Dallas Ry & Terminal Co. v. Travis, Com.App., 78 S.W.2d 941, 125 Tex. 11, affirming, Civ.App., 46 S.W.2d 743—Dallas Ry & Terminal Co. v. Garner, Civ.App., 42 S.W.2d 665, reversed on other grounds, Com.App., 63 S.W.2d 542.

Passengers of different sexes, ages, health, and physical ability require exercise of appropriate care by street railway employees, and what would be proper exercise of appropriate degree of care in one case may be gross negligence in another.—Cincinnati Street Ry. Co. v. Mueller, 200 N.E. 770, 51 Ohio App. 314

65. D.C.—Dixon v. Great Falls, etc., R. Co., 38 App.D.C. 591, 598, Ann. Cas.1913C 571

10 C.J. p. 869 note 50.

An interurban electric railway is bound to exercise the highest degree of care and diligence for the convenience and safety of its passengers.—Lewis v. Cedar Rapids & I. C. R. & Light Co., 167 N.W. 588, 183 Iowa 725, L.R.A.1918E 826

66. Kan.—Topeka City R. Co. v. Higgs, 16 P. 667, 38 Kan. 375, 5 Am.S.R. 754.

10 C.J. p. 869 note 51.

67. Mo.—Sweeney v. Kansas City Cable R. Co., 51 S.W. 682, 150 Mo. 385.

10 C.J. p. 869 note 52.

68. Del.—McAllister v. Peoples' R. Co., 54 A. 743, 20 Del. 272.

10 C.J. p. 869 note 53.

Railroad operating electric tube train owes high degree of care to passengers.—Benedetto v. Hudson & M. R. Co., 156 A. 37, 9 N.J.Misc. 758

69. Mass.—Fiske v. Boston Elevated Ry. Co., 194 N.E. 835, 289 Mass. 598

An elevated railway, as a common carrier of passengers, owes to passengers the duty of exercising reasonable care under the circumstances, and this means a high degree of care—the utmost caution compatible with the conduct of its business.—Fitzgerald v. Boston Elevated Ry. Co., 174 N.E. 490, 274 Mass. 287—Mucci v. Boston Elevated Ry. Co., 159 N.E. 513, 262 Mass. 308.

70. Neb.—Lincoln St. R. Co. v. McClellan, 74 N.W. 1074, 54 Neb. 672, 69 Am.S.R. 736.

10 C.J. p. 869 note 54.

71. Mo.—Toomey v. Wells, 276 S.W. 64, 310 Mo. 696.

While, as stated supra § 533, the owner of a passenger elevator operated in a building for carrying persons up and down may not be a carrier of passengers in the sense that he is bound to serve the public, yet his duty as to protecting the passengers in his elevator from danger is the same as that applicable to common carriers of passengers by other means, and he is bound to do all that human care, vigilance, and foresight can reasonably suggest under the circumstances, and, in view of the character of the mode of conveyance adopted, to guard against accidents and injuries resulting therefrom, and a failure in this respect will constitute negligence rendering him liable,[72] although he is not an insurer of the safety of the passenger,[73] and therefore cannot be held responsible for an accident which he could not reasonably have anticipated or provided against;[74] nor can he be held responsible, except for willful or wanton injury, to a person who goes on an elevator without right, or contrary to reasonable regulations.[75]

The owner or operator of a passenger elevator or escalator, on the grounds of public policy,[76] is generally required to exercise, for the safety of passengers as variously expressed, extraordinary care,[77] the highest degree of care and diligence usually exercised by prudent and cautious persons under the same or similar circumstances,[78] or the highest degree of care and diligence which is practically consistent with the efficient use and operation of such mode of transportation.[79] These rules have also been held to apply to the owner of a freight elevator who permits persons to ride thereon.[80] According to some authorities, however, the rule requiring the highest degree of care of a carrier of passengers does not apply in case of an elevator, or escalator, but the owner or operator is required to exercise only ordinary or reasonable care for the safety of passengers using the same.[81]

72. Ala.—Ensley Holding Co. v. Kelley, 158 So. 896, 229 Ala. 650.
La.—Ross v. Sisters of Charity of Incarnate Word, 75 So. 425, 141 La. 601, L.R.A.1917F 260.
Md.—O'Neill & Co. v. Crummitt, 190 A. 763.
Mo.—McDermed v. Baker, App., 20 S.W.2d 597.
Neb.—Dailey v. Sovereign Camp, W. O. W., 184 N.W. 920, 106 Neb. 767.
Nev.—Smith v. Odd Fellows Bldg. Ass'n, 205 P. 796, 46 Nev. 48, 23 A.L.R. 38.
Ohio.—McDowell v. Rockey, 167 N.E. 589, 32 Ohio App. 26.
Pa.—Strobel v. Park, 140 A. 877, 292 Pa. 200, 57 A.L.R. 253—McKnight v. S. S. Kresge Co., 132 A. 575, 285 Pa. 489.
Tex.—City Nat. Bank v. Pigott, Civ. App., 270 S.W. 234.
Wash.—Kranzusch v. Trustee Co., 161 P. 492, 494, 93 Wash. 629.
10 C.J. p. 869 note 56.

Corpus Juris statement has received judicial approval in Jenkins v. Missouri State Life Ins. Co., 69 S.W. 2d 666, 670, 334 Mo. 941.

Acts of omission and of commission

"One who is charged with negligence in failing to remedy some existing condition of his premises is not under the same duty of watchfulness to discover and prevent danger as one who is actively engaged in transporting persons from one level to another by means of an elevator operating in a shaft, every movement of which creates a new situation."—Jenkins v. Missouri State Life Ins. Co., 69 S.W.2d 666, 670, 334 Mo. 941.

Duty to tenant as measuring duty to customer

The duty owed by the owner of an office building to a tenant of the building, with regard to elevators, measures the duty which the owner owes to a customer of the tenant.—Draper v. Cotting, 120 N.E. 365, 231 Mass. 51.

Care as to:
- Competency and efficiency of operatives see infra § 688
- Machinery and appliances see infra § 742.
- Passengers boarding or alighting from elevator see infra § 734.

73. Ala.—Ensley Holding Co. v. Kelley, 158 So. 896, 229 Ala. 650.
Ohio.—Ohio Traction Co. v. Flynn, 26 Ohio Cir.Ct.,N.S., 250.
Pa.—Petrie v. Kaufmann & Baer Co., 139 A. 878, 291 Pa. 211—McKnight v. S. S. Kresge Co., 132 A. 575, 285 Pa. 489.
Va.—Murphy's Hotel v. Cuddy's Adm'r, 97 S.E. 794, 124 Va. 207.
10 C.J. p. 870 note 57.
Carrier as not insurer generally see supra § 676

74. Mass.—Shattuck v. Rand, 7 N.E. 43, 142 Mass. 83
10 C.J. p. 871 note 65.

75. Ind.—Springer v. Byram, 36 N.E. 361, 137 Ind. 15, 45 Am.S.R. 159, 23 L.R.A. 244.

Using freight elevator when passenger elevator available

Mass.—Billows v. Moors, 37 N.E. 750, 162 Mass. 42.
Mich.—Amerine v. Porteous, 63 N.W. 300, 105 Mich. 347.

76. Ill.—Winheim v. Field, 107 Ill. App. 145.

77. Ga.—Grant v. Allen, 80 S.E. 279, 141 Ga. 106.
10 C.J. p. 870 note 59.

78. U.S.—S. S. Kresge Co. v. McCallion, C.C.A.Mo., 58 F.2d 931, 933.
D.C.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Taylor, 16 F.2d 517, 57 App.D.C. 21, certiorari denied Taylor v. Southern Ry. Co., 47 S.Ct. 571, 273 U.S. 767, 71 L.Ed. 882.
Ala.—Ensley Holding Co. v. Kelley, 158 So. 896, 229 Ala. 650.
Mo.—Roberts v. Schaper Stores Co., 3 S.W.2d 241, 318 Mo. 1190—McCardle v. George B. Peck Dry Goods Co., 195 S.W. 1034, 271 Mo. 111—Williams v. Short, 268 S.W. 706, 219 Mo.App. 99, transferred, Sup., 263 S.W. 200.
Okl.—Lander v. Hornbeck, 179 P. 21, 74 Okl. 239
10 C.J. p. 870 note 60.

79. La.—Ross v. Sisters of Charity of Incarnate Word, 75 So. 425, 141 La. 601, L.R.A.1917F 260.
Mont.—Gohn v. Butte Hotel Co., 295 P. 262, 88 Mont. 599.
Ohio.—May Department Stores Co. v. McBride, 178 N.E. 12, 124 Ohio St. 264, affirming McBride v. May Department Stores Co., 177 N.E. 773, 39 Ohio App. 420—Ohio Traction Co. v. Flynn, 26 Ohio Cir.Ct.,N.S., 250.
Pa.—Petrie v. Kaufmann & Baer Co., 139 A. 878, 291 Pa. 211.
Va.—Murphy's Hotel v. Cuddy's Adm'r, 97 S.E. 794, 124 Va. 207.
Wash.—Getty v. Hutton, 188 P. 10, 110 Wash. 124—Engstrand v. Hartnett, 180 P. 132, 106 Wash. 404.
Wis.—Dehmel v. Smith, 227 N.W. 274, 200 Wis. 292—Dibbert v. Metropolitan Inv. Co., 147 N.W. 3, 158 Wis. 69, L.R.A.1915D 305, Ann.Cas. 1916E 924.
10 C.J. p. 870 note 61.

80. Mo.—McDermed v. Baker, App., 20 S.W.2d 597.
10 C.J. p. 871 note 62.

81. Conn.—Stratton v. J. J. New-

The degree of care required of the owner and operator is not affected by a statute forbidding the operation of elevators without a license, and providing for the inspection and approval thereof.[82]

§ 688. Care Required in Employment of Employees

The carrier must exercise reasonable diligence in selecting and employing a sufficient number of competent and careful employees.

The carrier is bound to use reasonable diligence in selecting and employing competent and careful employees, and for injuries resulting from incompetence and inefficiency which was known, or might by the exercise of reasonable diligence have been known, to the carrier, the latter is liable;[83] and this rule applies with reference to the selection of drivers for stagecoaches, motor vehicles, hacks, and similar vehicles,[84] to the employment of motormen and conductors for electric cars,[85] or drivers for street cars,[86] and to the employment of competent and skillful operatives for passenger elevators.[87]

A carrier of passengers should employ only sober men as its employees.[88]

Degree of competency. A carrier is not expected or required to employ only persons of extraordinary skill and prudence,[89] but its duty in this respect is discharged if it engages employees who are possessed of such a degree of skill and competency as will fit them to meet the exigencies ordinarily arising in the line of their employment, or such as might reasonably be anticipated.[90]

Number of employees. It must employ a sufficient number of employees to insure the proper management of its trains or other vehicles used in the transportation of passengers,[91] that is, it must employ enough employees to meet the ordinary and usual exigencies of its business, or such as might reasonably be anticipated,[92] and especially must it employ the number of employees required by statute or ordinance to be on a train or car.[93] However, unless required by statute, a railroad company is required to provide a sufficient number of men to act as a police force in protecting its passengers only where disturbance or violence may reasonably be expected.[94] berry Co., 169 A. 56, 117 Conn. 522.

10 C.J. p 871 note 63.

82. Cal.—McKeon v. Lissner, 223 P. 965, 193 Cal. 297—McKeon v. Lissner, 262 P. 459, 87 Cal.App. 371.

83. Conn.—Briganti v. Connecticut Co., 175 A. 679, 119 Conn. 316.
10 C.J. p 871 note 67.

Corpus Juris has been cited with approval in Wishone v. Yellow Cab Co., Tenn.App., 97 S.W.2d 452, 453.

A private carrier of passengers for hire must exercise the usual skill, care, and diligence ordinarily engaged in the same pursuit to furnish a proper driver.—Duffy v. J. W. Bishop Co., 122 A. 121, 99 Conn. 573.

84. Tenn.—Wishone v. Yellow Cab Co., App., 97 S.W.2d 452.
10 C.J. p 872 note 68
Care required of carrier by stagecoach or like vehicle generally see supra § 685.

85. N.Y.—Bergman v. Brooklyn & Queens Transit Corporation, 297 N.Y.S. 727, 163 Misc. 762.
Tex.—Bragg v. Houston Electric Co., Civ.App., 264 S.W. 245, affirmed Houston Electric Co. v. Bragg, Com.App., 276 S.W. 641, motion overruled 280 S.W. 188.
10 C.J. p 872 note 69.

Common carriers assume a definite responsibility to man their cars with skilled and trained motormen, the measure of their competency being their ability to properly operate and control the car.—Bergman v. Brooklyn & Queens Transit Corporation, 297 N.Y.S. 727, 163 Misc. 762.

86. Mont.—Wall v. Helena St. R. Co., 29 P. 721, 12 Mont. 44.
10 C.J. p 872 note 70.

A single act of carelessness on the part of the driver of a car at a time other than that when the accident happened does not establish the unfitness of the driver, although uncontradicted.—Dallas City R. Co. v. Beeman, 11 S.W. 1102, 74 Tex. 291.

87. Me.—Jones v. Co-operative Assoc. of America, 84 A. 985, 109 Me. 448, L.R.A.1915E 745.
10 C.J. p 872 note 71.

Unskilled and inexperienced operator
Where personal injuries are inflicted on another without his fault by reason of elevator operator's inexperience and lack of skill, the owner will be held liable.—Dailey v. Sovereign Camp, W. O. W., 184 N.W. 920, 106 Neb. 767.

88. U.S.—Gallena v. Hot Springs R. Co., C.C.Ark., 13 F. 116, 4 McCrary 371.
10 C.J. p 872 note 72.

89. Ala.—Gadsden, etc., R. Co. v. Causler, 12 So. 439, 97 Ala. 235
Ohio.—Cincinnati Traction Co. v. Burkhardt, 4 Ohio App. 103.

90. N.Y.—Bergman v. Brooklyn & Queens Transit Corporation, 297 N.Y.S. 727, 163 Misc. 762.
10 C.J. p 872 note 74.

Careful and prudent servants
A carrier of passengers must employ careful and prudent servants, who are required to exercise that degree of diligence which very careful and prudent persons exercise in their own affairs.—Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Robertson, 83 So. 102, 203 Ala. 358.

91. Minn.—Koeller v. Wisconsin, R. etc., Co., 153 N.W. 519, 130 Minn. 265.
10 C.J. p 873 note 76.

92. Tex.—Bragg v. Houston Electric Co., Civ.App., 264 S.W. 245, affirmed Houston Electric Co. v. Bragg, Com.App., 276 S.W. 641, motion overruled 280 S.W. 188.
10 C.J. p 873 note 77.

Removal of obstructions in car
Carrier cannot relieve itself of duty to keep aisles of car free from obstructions by failing to employ conductor or other capable servant to discover and remove them, it being necessary that motorman or some other servant discharge conductor's duties in such case.—Bragg v. Houston Electric Co., Tex.Civ.App., 264 S.W. 245, affirmed Houston Electric Co. v. Bragg, Com.App., 276 S.W. 641, motion overruled 280 S.W. 188.

93. Neb.—Lincoln Traction Co. v. Heller, 100 N.W. 197, 102 N.W. 262, 72 Neb. 127.
10 C.J. p 873 note 78.

94. N.C.—Britton v. Atlanta, etc., Air Line R. Co., 88 N.C. 536, 43 Am.R. 749.
10 C.J. p 873 notes 79, 80.

Physicians and surgeons. If, either by requirement of law or through choice, a carrier provides a physician or surgeon to care for its passengers, the carrier is liable for injuries to passengers resulting from his negligence or incompetence only where it knew or should have known of his unfitness.[95]

§ 689. Negligence and Wrongs of Carrier's Employees or Agents

A carrier is under a duty to protect a passenger from injury by the carrier's employees; in general, a carrier is liable for an injury to a passenger caused by the negligence or wrongful act of an employee of the carrier occurring when the employee is acting within the scope of his employment or duties, and, under the rule recognized in some jurisdictions at least, may be liable, under some circumstances, for acts of an employee not strictly within the scope of his employment.

The rule stated in Corpus Juris, which has been quoted with approval,[96] is that the duty of the carrier to protect the passenger must usually be discharged by means of its employees engaged in carrying out the transportation contracted for,[97] who are, in general, required to exercise the high degree of care toward passengers that is imposed on the carrier,[98] and the duty or obligation of the carrier to a passenger includes the protection of the passenger from injury by the carrier's employees.[99]

While in some cases it has been stated broadly that a carrier is not liable for the willful and malicious acts of its employees,[1] generally speaking, since such a carrier usually must act through employees for whose acts the carrier is responsible,[2] as a general rule a carrier, like any other master or principal carrying on a business by means of the employment of servants or agents, is liable for injuries resulting from the incompetency, supra § 688, negligence,[3] of such servants or agents, or wrong-

95. Colo.—Denver & R. G. R. Co. v. Ptolemy, 169 P. 541, 69 Colo. 69.
10 C.J. p 872 note 75.

96. S.D.—Blankenbaker v Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry Co., 168 N.W. 744, 745, 40 S.D. 588, 10 A.L.R. 720.

97. Pa.—Mittleman v. Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co., 70 A. 828, 221 Pa. 485, 18 L.R.A.,N.S., 503.
10 C.J. p 884 note 17.

98. Ark.—Interurban Transp. Co. v. Reeves, 108 S.W. 2d 594.
Md.—Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Leapley, 4 A. 891, 65 Md. 571.
10 C.J. p 886 note 32, p 888 note 48.

99. U.S.—Austro-American S. S. Co. v. Thomas, N.Y., 248 F. 231, 160 C.C.A. 309, L.R.A.1918D 873.
Ky.—Payne v. Moore, 244 S.W. 869, 196 Ky. 454—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Bennett, 209 S.W. 358, 183 Ky. 445.
Mass.—Langley v. Boston Elevated Ry. Co., 112 N.E. 79, 223 Mass. 492.
N.C.—Harrison v. Norfolk-Southern R. Co., 113 S.E. 678, 184 N.C. 86.
Tex.—Wright v. Schaff, Civ.App., 228 S.W. 333.
10 C.J. p 886 note 32, p 888 notes 47, 48.

Statutory obligation

The obligation of a carrier, under Civ.Code 1910 § 2714, to exercise extraordinary diligence on the part of himself and his agents to protect the lives and persons of his passengers includes an obligation of diligence to protect passengers from injury by the carrier's employees.—Georgia Ry. & Power Co. v. Turner, 125 S.E. 598, 33 Ga.App. 101.

1. Mo.—McKeon v. Citizens' R. Co., 42 Mo. 79, 43 Mo. 405.
10 C.J. p 886 note 29.

2. La.—Schmidt v New Orleans R. Co., 40 So. 714, 116 La. 311, 7 L.R.A.,N.S., 162.
10 C.J. p 884 note 17, p 885 note 18 [b].

Conductor

With respect to the care and control of passengers on a railroad passenger train, the conductor, acting within the real or apparent scope of his authority, has been regarded as the alter ego of the carrier, and the company is responsible for his acts.
Ga.—Davis v. Jones, 129 S.E. 892, 34 Ga.App. 7.
Ohio.—Toledo Rys. & Light Co. v. Duggan, 7 Ohio App. 1.

Driver of bus

Acts of driver in sole charge of bus in discharging his duties of assisting passengers in disposing of their baggage and removing it when the passengers reached their destination were acts of bus company, since driver was clothed with all bus company's authority with respect to such duties.—Interurban Transp. Co. v. Reeves, Ark., 108 S.W. 2d 594.

Taxicab driver selecting substitute driver

Taxicab driver selecting substitute driver and riding in rear seat was cab owner's servant in performing transportation contract, and neither driver nor his substitute was the servant of passengers.—Chaput v. Lussier, 165 A. 573, 132 Me. 48.

3. Ala.—St. Louis & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Trice, 80 So. 434, 202 Ala. 352.
Cal.—Little v. Los Angeles Ry. Corporation, 271 P. 134, 94 Cal.App. 303.
La.—Gaines v. Teche Lines, App., 176 So. 134.
Mich.—Sabol v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 238 N.W. 281, 255 Mich. 548, certiorari denied Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. v. Sabol, 52 S.Ct. 265, 284 U.S. 688, 76 L.Ed. 581.
Neb.—Daly v. Publix Cars, 259 N.W. 163.
10 C.J. p 886 note 32, p 888 note 48 [b] (2).

Bus driver, who was in charge of bus in a capacity analogous to that of a train conductor when bus broke down, had such authority as position of train conductor implied, as respects whether bus driver was acting within his authority by having passenger continue journey on truck of a third person not employed by bus company.—South Plains Coaches v. Box, Tex.Civ.App., 111 S.W.2d 1151, error dismissed.

Conductor boarding street car

In respect of the liability of a street car company for an injury to a person waiting to board a car as a passenger caused by the negligence of a conductor while boarding the car, it was held that, if the conductor was boarding the car for the purpose of taking immediate charge of it, he was acting within the scope of his employment.—Cromwell v. Los Angeles Ry. Corporation, 283 P. 375, 102 Cal.App. 499.

Direction to leave car

The conductor of a street car, in warning passengers that they should leave the car in a case where an emergency had arisen, was acting within the sphere or scope of his duties.—Little v. Los Angeles Ry. Corporation, 271 P. 134, 94 Cal.App. 303.

Negligent act in handling suitcase

The negligent act of bus porter in letting a suitcase fall on passenger's head and neck was act of driver for which bus company was liaful acts,[4] even though willful and malicious,[5] or willful and wanton,[6] of its agents or servants within the scope or course of their employment or duties, in the absence of any limitation in the contract of carriage,[7] or by implication from the situation of the parties,[8] even though such acts are in violation of rules of the carrier,[9] or contrary to its orders,[10] nor can the carrier escape this liability by failing to give its employees full instructions or by restricting their authority so as to disable them from properly performing their duties.[11] In view of a statutory provision requiring a common carrier to exercise extraordinary diligence to prevent insult, injury, or harm to a passenger, such carrier is in general liable to a passenger who suffers insult, mortification, or embarrassment resulting directly from the failure of the carrier's servants to perform their legal duty to such passenger or from such servants' negligent and wrongful acts; but, in general, there is no liability where such servants had no knowledge of the conditions subsequently complained of and the passenger took no measures to avoid or remedy such conditions,[12]

In respect of certain acts or torts of employees or servants of a carrier which are outside the scope or course of the employment[13] or the duties[14] of the employees or servants, it has been held or recognized that the carrier is not liable, even though the act in question is performed while the employee or servant is engaged in performing his duties. There has been a distinct tendency, however, to impose a broad liability on carriers in respect of the acts of their employees; and according to some cases, the general rule that a principal or master is not liable for injuries resulting from the willful and malicious acts of his agent or servant, not done within the ble, where porter acted as such in driver's presence and with driver's apparent consent. — Interurban Transp Co. v. Reeves, Ark., 108 S W.2d 594.

Passenger assisting in placing trunk on vehicle

Bus company was liable for injuries to passenger through negligence of driver while helping such driver lift onto bus trunk being transported by virtue of tickets of passenger and his daughter, whether or not help was volunteered or requested by driver, since the driver accepted the passenger's aid in discharging bus company's duty.—Gaines v. Teche Lines, La.App., 176 So. 134.

Private carrier for hire

A private carrier for hire was liable for an injury to a passenger in an automobile of such carrier caused by the negligence of the driver.—Dunne v. Boland, 199 Ill.App. 308.

4. N.Y.—Palmeri v. Manhattan R. Co., 30 N.E. 1001, 133 N.Y. 261, 28 Am.S.R. 632, 16 L.R.A. 136, affirming 14 N.Y.S. 468, 60 Hun 579.
10 C.J. p 886 note 32.

Taxicab driver.

The owner of a taxicab is responsible for the acts of the driver when acting as a servant of the owner in the course of the employment.—Solomone v. Yellow Taxi Corporation, 151 N.E. 442, 242 N.Y. 251, reversing 213 N.Y.S. 899, 215 App.Div. 790, and reargument denied 152 N.E. 445, 242 N.Y. 602.

Tort committed in performance of duties

Carrier of passengers is liable for torts of agents selected, when committed in performance of their duty, and a tort of conductor need not be authorized or ratified by railroad to render it liable.—Lipman v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 93 S.E. 714, 108 S.C. 151, L.R.A.1918A 596.

5. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Bryan, 90 Ill. 126.
10 C.J. p 886 note 32.

6. S.C.—Medlin v. Southern Ry. Co., 141 S.E. 185, 143 S.C. 91, 56 A.L.R. 767.
10 C.J. p 886 note 32.

7. Ala.—Orr v. Boockholdt, 65 So. 430, 10 Ala.App. 331.

8. Ala.—Orr v. Boockholdt, supra.

9. Mass.—Foley v. Boston, etc., St. R. Co., 84 N.E. 846, 198 Mass. 532.
10 C.J. p 886 note 32, p 887 note 35.

Opening vestibule door in violation of instructions and rules

If it was railroad porter's duty to open doors of car vestibule at station, it was not outside scope of employment as to passenger to open door on particular side, notwithstanding that in opening it he may have violated railroad's instructions and rules. That railroad passenger induced porter to violate instructions in regard to opening car vestibule doors, did not relieve porter of duty as such to use care to avoid injuring passenger, as by pushing against him box carried by the porter for the passenger.—St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Preston, Tex.Civ.App., 194 S.W. 1128, affirmed, Com.App., 228 S.W. 928.

10. La.—Schmidt v. New Orleans R. Co., 40 So. 714, 116 La. 311, 7 L.R.A.,N.S., 162.
10 C.J. p 887 note 36.

11. La.—Schmidt v. New Orleans R. Co., supra.

12. Ga.—Hames v. Old South Lines, 183 S.E. 503, 52 Ga.App. 420.

13. Wash.—Cunningham v. Seattle R., etc., Co., 28 P. 745, 3 Wash. 471.
Wis.—Youngquist v. L. J. Droese Co., 167 N.W. 736, 167 Wis. 458
10 C.J. p 887 note 38, p 885 note 19 [a]

Deviating from bus route

Where jitney bus company, licensed to run on certain avenue, directed driver to follow that route only, and did not know or have reason to believe he departed therefrom, it was not liable for injuries suffered by passenger whom the driver was taking to his home outside the route.—Youngquist v. L. J. Droese Co., 167 N.W. 736, 167 Wis. 458

14. Cal.—Little v. Los Angeles Ry. Corporation, 271 P. 134, 94 Cal.App. 303.
10 C.J. p 887 note 38

Respondeat superior

In respect of an injury sustained by a passenger while attempting to alight from a street car in an emergency, it was stated that the street car company could be held liable only under the doctrine of respondeat superior.—Little v. Los Angeles Ry. Corporation, 271 P. 134, 94 Cal.App. 303

Employee not intrusted with any duty to passenger

Neither a carrier nor one who furnishes to a carrier terminal facilities for taking on passengers, owing a duty to one who is a passenger, violates that duty where the servant committing the act complained of has not been intrusted with the performance of any duty owing by the employer to the passenger and where the master is not negligent in failing to anticipate or to prevent the tortious act of the servant.—Massengale v. Atlanta, B. & C. R. Co., 168 S.E. 111, 46 Ga.App. 484.

course of the employment, considered in C.J.S. titles Agency § 258, and Master and Servant § 572, also 39 C.J. page 1293 note 80, and page 1294 note 81, is not applicable to the fullest extent, at least where the injury is inflicted on a passenger by a carrier's agent or servant.[15] Many cases recognize a distinct doctrine as applicable to carriers of passengers, holding or recognizing that carriers are liable for the wrongful acts of their agents or servants which result in injuries to passengers, whether or not willful and malicious[16] or willful and wanton,[17] and whether or not done in the line of their employment or service, or within the scope of their employment or authority,[18] if done during the course of the discharge of the duty which their employers owe to passengers, or in the course of carrying out the contract of carriage, unless, according to some cases, the act of the carrier's employee is caused by the wrongful act of the injured passenger.[19] This rule or principle of liability applies, according to some cases, to the wrongful acts of any agent or servant employed in the general business of transportation, even though the offending servant is not at the time of the commission of the wrongful act directly employed in the carriage of the injured passenger.[20] The ground on which most cases which recognize this doctrine proceed is that the carrier as a part of its contract of carriage is bound to protect the passenger from all tortious acts of its employees, and that for a breach of this contract, however occasioned, a passenger may recover.[21] According to some cases, however, the rule or doctrine of respondeat superior is the rule which determines the liability of the carrier for acts of an employee or servant intrusted with the performance of the contract of carriage, which the carrier has in no way authorized.[22] Notwithstanding this broad rule of liability, in order to hold a carrier liable for acts or defaults of an employee or a servant, as employee or servant, it must appear that the person acting or failing to act was, in a legal, as distinguished from a popular, sense, in the employment of the carrier at the time of the acts or defaults complained of.[23]

15. N.Y.—Barad v New York Rapid Transit Corporation, 295 N.Y.S. 901, 162 Misc 458.
10 C.J. p 888 notes 47, 48.

16. Ala.—Ex parte Alabama Great Southern R Co., 86 So. 100, 204 Ala. 504, granting certiorari on other grounds Alabama Great Southern R. Co. v. Hunt, 86 So. 97, 17 Ala.App. 566.
Mass.—Langley v. Boston Elevated Ry. Co., 112 N.E. 79, 223 Mass. 492
N.Y.—Barad v. New York Rapid Transit Corporation, 295 N.Y.S. 901, 162 Misc. 458.
10 C.J. p 888 note 48.

17. Ga.—Yellow Cab Co. of Atlanta v. Carmichael, 126 S.E. 269, 33 Ga App 364
10 C J. p 888 note 48.

Want of purpose to serve carrier
Carrier is liable in damages for injuries to passenger caused by willful and wanton acts of its employees, even though purpose of employees was not to serve carrier by such acts.—Yellow Cab Co of Atlanta v. Carmichael, 126 S E. 269, 33 Ga App. 364.

Willful exposure to danger
In view of Civ Code 1910 § 4395, petition alleging that plaintiff made express contract with taxi driver to transport him safely to railroad shops by turning in at designated entrance, that driver was warned if he did not turn in at entrance but drove past, probability was that passenger would be injured by strikers, that driver knowingly and willfully refused to turn in at entrance and drove on past it until he came in contact with strikers who inflicted injuries on plaintiff set out a cause of action.—Yellow Cab Co. of Atlanta v. Carmichael, 126 S.E. 269, 33 Ga. App. 364.

18. Ala.—Birmingham R., etc., Co. v. Baird, 30 So. 456, 130 Ala. 334, 89 Am.S.R. 43, 54 L.R.A. 752
Mass.—Langley v. Boston Elevated Ry. Co., 112 N E 79, 223 Mass. 492.
10 C.J. p 888 note 48.

Want of authority and ratification
Passenger may recover actual damages resulting from wrongful act of servant of carrier, although such act was outside scope of employment and was neither authorized nor ratified by the carrier.—Pullman Co. v. Hall, C.C.A.W.Va., 46 F.2d 399.

Want of authority for specific act
A carrier is responsible for any conduct of its servants intrusted with the carriage of a passenger resulting either in wanton or negligent injury at their hands, regardless of the authority for the special act or of the fact that the infliction of the wrong was by the servant while acting in his own interest and in violation of his own duty as the carrier's representative.—Texas Midland R. R v. Monroe, 216 S.W. 388, 110 Tex. 97, reversing, Civ App., 155 S.W. 973.—St Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Preston, Tex Com App., 228 S.W. 928, affirming, Civ.App., 194 S.W. 1128.—Fort Worth & D. C Ry. Co. v. Lovett, Tex.Civ.App., 243 S.W. 519.

Explosion of bottle of coffee owned by employee
Where a passenger on a street car was injured by the explosion of a bottle of coffee placed by the motorman on a radiator under a seat occupied by such passenger, the street car company could not avoid liability on the ground that the motorman's act was not done within the scope of his agency and authority on the company's business.—Snow v. Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co., 84 Pa Super. 236.

19. N.Y.—Barad v. New York Rapid Transit Corporation, 295 N.Y.S. 901, 162 Misc. 458.

20. Mass.—Hayne v. Union St. R. Co, 76 N.E 219, 189 Mass. 551, 109 Am S.R. 655, 3 L.R.A.,N S, 605.
10 C.J. p 888 note 49.

21. N.Y.—Barad v. New York Rapid Transit Corporation, 295 N.Y.S. 901, 162 Misc 458
10 C.J. p 889 note 50.

22. Tex.—Texas Midland R. R v. Monroe, 216 S.W. 388, 110 Tex. 97, reversing, Civ.App., 155 S.W. 973.

23. Mass.—Langley v. Boston Elevated Ry. Co., 112 N.E. 79, 223 Mass. 492

Truck driver
A bus company would not be liable for injuries to passenger, who was mistreated by truck driver, not employed by bus company, with whom passenger had continued journey on request of bus driver when bus broke down, on theory that truck driver was a subagent, unless bus driver had express or implied

The carrier is not liable under any of the rules herein considered where the injuries sustained are not caused by any negligent or wrongful act on the part of its employees,[24] and the carrier is not liable for an act of its employee which does not invade a legally protected interest of, nor constitute the violation of a right of, the injured passenger,[25] even though the act of the employee may constitute a wrong toward another passenger.[26]

Wantonness of an act of an employee of a carrier which is relied on as a ground for recovery must be based on actual knowledge.[27]

It has been stated broadly that the same rule and measure of responsibility apply to the owner and operator of a public taxicab for the acts of agents and servants as apply to other common carriers.[28] Under some statutes, however, it has been held that a taxicab company is liable for the death of a passenger only when the death is caused by its negligence, or the unfitness or gross negligence of its agents or servants.[29]

Extent or degree of care; liability as insurer. While the carrier cannot be regarded as an insurer of the safety of the passenger in all events, as shown above in § 676, and the duty of the carrier to protect a passenger from injury by the carrier's employees has been characterized or described as a duty or obligation to exercise the highest degree of care,[30] the highest degree of care and diligence,[31] or the utmost care and diligence consistent with the management of the business of the carrier,[32] it has been held or recognized that the carrier may be regarded as an insurer that a passenger will not be injured by the negligent[33] or willful[34] acts of its employees while engaged in performing a duty which the carrier owes to the passenger. It has been held, however, that the liability of the carrier as insurer is confined to liability for torts committed by employees engaged in the general business of transportation,[35] and that it is not liable for a tort against a passenger committed by an employee who is not connected with the operation of the train or with the care and safety of passengers, where such employee is riding on the train in connection with other business of the employee and the carrier has not failed to exercise due care to protect the passenger.[36]

Employee not on duty, or acting exclusively for himself. The carrier is not liable for acts of its servant occurring while the latter is at liberty from service and is pursuing his own ends exclusively,[37] authority to engage truck driver to carry passenger forward—South Plains Coaches v. Box, Tex.Civ.App., 111 S.W.2d 1151, error dismissed

24. Mich.—Goodfellow v. Detroit United R. Co., 119 N.W. 900, 155 Mich. 578, 20 L.R.A.,N.S., 1123.
Mo.—Jones v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 116 S.W. 4, 135 Mo.App. 468.
10 C.J. p. 887 note 39.

Failure to discover presence of passenger

Where woman boarded train after it had left station and was waiting on siding for another to pass, conductor already having collected tickets and being in coach ahead, employees of carrier were not negligent in failing to discover her before reaching next station.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. Mollett, 270 S.W. 26, 207 Ky. 745.

Failure to forbid passenger to assist trainman

Where passenger on platform was requested by brakeman to help in unloading a barrel from train, conductor was not required to forbid passenger to give such help where there was no inherent danger in the work and no reason to anticipate danger, as affecting the liability of the carrier.—Shaffer v. St. Louis & S. F. Ry. Co., 208 S.W. 145, 201 Mo.App. 107.

Illness of driver

Owner of taxicab in which passenger was injured when epileptic attack of driver, coming without warning, caused accident, was liable only for negligent selection or retention of driver, since there was no negligence immediately connected with accident.—Wishone v. Yellow Cab Co., Tenn.App., 97 S.W.2d 452.

25. N.Y.—Palsgraf v. Long Island R. Co., 162 N.E. 99, 248 N.Y. 339, 59 L.R.A. 1253, reversing 225 N.Y.S. 412, 222 App.Div. 166, and reargument denied 164 N.E. 564, 249 N.Y. 511.

26. N.Y.—Palsgraf v. Long Island R. Co., supra.

Negligence or wrong toward injured passenger not shown

Where railway company's guard pushed passenger in assisting the latter to board car, and package covered by newspaper and containing fireworks fell on rails and exploded, and shock of explosion threw down scales at the other end of platform many feet away, and scale struck plaintiff, plaintiff could not recover for injury sustained, since no negligence was shown in relation to plaintiff, and to recover plaintiff was required to show wrong to herself and not merely a wrong to some one else.—Palsgraf v. Long Island R. Co., 162 N.E. 99, 248 N.Y. 339, 59 A.L.R. 1253, reversing 225 N.Y.S. 412, 222 App.Div. 166, and reargument denied 164 N.E. 564, 249 N.Y. 511.

27. Ala.—Birmingham Electric Co. v. Guess, 131 So. 883, 222 Ala. 280.

28. Ohio.—Korner v. Cosgrove, 141 N.E. 267, 108 Ohio St. 484, 31 A.L.R. 1193

29. Mass.—Finnegan v. Checker Taxi Co., 14 N.E.2d 127.

30. W.Va.—Thompson v. Monongahela Ry. Co., 128 S.E. 110, 99 W.Va. 207, 42 A.L.R. 159.

31. Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Bennett, 209 S.W. 358, 183 Ky. 445.

32. Mass.—Langley v. Boston Elevated Ry. Co., 112 N.E. 79, 223 Mass. 492.

33. U.S.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. McCaffrey, N.J., 149 F. 404, 79 C.C.A. 224
10 C.J. p. 889 note 52.

34. Fla.—Hall v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 93 So. 151, 84 Fla. 9.
10 C.J. p. 889 note 52.

35. Fla.—Hall v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., supra.

36. Fla.—Hall v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., supra.

37. Mass.—Langley v. Boston Elevated Ry. Co., 112 N.E. 79, 223 Mass. 492.

Independent contract between driver of taxicab and passenger

Owners of taxicab were not liable to passenger for driver's negligence, at least in the absence of any showing that the injured person relied on, or had knowledge of, the fact that the vehicle of carriage in which such person was injured was owned by the carrier.[38] Where, however, in accordance with a custom of the carrier's employees, known and assented to by the carrier, employees on duty call for, and receive assistance from, an employee not at the time on duty, the carrier may be liable for an injury to a passenger caused by the negligence of the employee so assisting.[39]

It has been held that the owner of a taxicab is not liable for an injury to a person other than a passenger for hire whom the driver has invited or permitted to ride as an accommodation to such person.[40] The driver of a taxicab is, however, in the service of the owner, notwithstanding he drives the cab at a time other than during the regular hours of service without being specially requested to do so, where he collects the usual and customary fee for the service and turns it over to the owner,[41] and the same measure of responsibility attaches to the owner for the acts of the driver as would attach if the service were rendered during the regular hours of service.[42]

After termination of relation of master and servant. If the relation of carrier and passenger has terminated, there can be no recovery for the acts of an employee thereafter,[43] including willful or malicious acts.[44]

Passenger elevator. The owner of a passenger elevator is liable for injuries to a passenger which result from the negligent or wrongful act of an employee while acting as such and within the scope of his employment;[45] but not in general where the employee is acting outside the scope of his employment,[46] or where the negligent or wrongful act is done by one who has no duty to perform in operating the elevator.[47]

Contagious disease. It has been held that a passenger who contracts a contagious disease from a ticket agent of a carrier while purchasing his ticket cannot recover damages if the carrier did not know or have any reason to know that the agent had such disease;[48] but the contrary has been held where the agent knew that he was infected with such a disease.[49]

§ 690. Who Are Employees

a. In general
b. Employees of others

a. In General

A carrier may be liable for the acts of a person who is not regularly employed where such person is acting as its employee by the authority or request of a regular employee and such regular employee is acting within the scope of his authority in engaging such person.

The duty of a carrier to protect passengers must whether driver was their servant or not, where driver accepted credit on board bill as part of fare, since driver as servant would have had no authority to carry passengers for other than a cash fare—Johnson v. Brewer, 98 S.W.2d 889, 266 Ky. 314.

38. Cal.—Slater v. Friedman, 217 P. 795, 62 Cal.App. 668.

Taxicab

In an action by a passenger against a taxicab owner for personal injuries, sustained while defendant's agent was driving his machine, where the driver was shown to have been employed to work from 10 A. M. to 10 P. M., and unauthorized to work after that hour, and where the accident occurred after 10 P. M., while the driver was engaged on his own enterprise, defendant was not liable, at least where there was no showing that plaintiff relied on, or had knowledge of, the fact that defendant owned the taxicab—Slater v. Friedman, 217 P. 795, 62 Cal.App. 668.

39. Kan.—Leavenworth Electric R. Co. v. Cusick, 57 P. 519, 60 Kan. 590, 72 Am.S.R. 374.
10 C.J. p 885 note 18 [a].

40. N.Y.—Salomone v. Yellow Taxi Corporation, 151 N.E. 442, 242 N.Y. 251, reversing 213 N.Y.S. 899, 215 App.Div. 790, and reargument denied 152 N.E. 445, 242 N.Y. 602.

41. Ohio.—Korner v. Cosgrove, 141 N.E. 267, 108 Ohio St. 484, 31 A.L.R. 1193.

42. Ohio.—Korner v. Cosgrove, supra.

43. Del.—Cooke v. Elk Coach Line, Super., 180 A. 782.

44. N.C.—Palmer v. Winston-Salem R., etc., Co., 42 S.E. 604, 131 N.C. 250.
Tex.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Pope, Civ.App., 149 S.W. 1185.

45. Ark.—Sweeden v. Atkinson Impr. Co., 125 S.W. 439, 93 Ark. 397, 27 L.R.A.,N.S., 124.
Ky.—H. B. Phillips Co. v. Pruitt, 82 S.W. 628, 25 Ky.L. 831, 83 S.W. 114, 26 Ky.L. 1105.
Wis.—Zieman v. Kieckhefer El. Mfg. Co., 63 N.W. 1021, 90 Wis. 497.
10 C.J. p 887 note 42.

46. Ark.—Sweeden v. Atkinson Impr. Co., 125 S.W. 439, 93 Ark. 397, 27 L.R.A.,N.S., 124.
Tex.—Mills v. Robinson, Civ.App., 208 S.W. 351.
10 C.J. p 887 note 43.

Idle talk as to danger of falling of elevator

The master, owner of an elevator, could not have contemplated that employees engaged in operating and repairing an elevator would go outside of their prescribed duties and unnecessarily frighten and injure a passenger therein by idle talk of the danger that the elevator might fall, and the owner was not liable for such talk on the part of the employee engaged in repairing the elevator where there was no evidence that the operator of the car heard such talk which was not within the scope of the authority of the employee engaged in making the repairs.—Mills v. Robinson, Tex.Civ.App., 208 S.W. 351, error refused.

47. Mass.—Gibson v. International Trust Co., 58 N.E. 278, 177 Mass. 100, 52 L.R.A. 928.
Va.—Norfolk Bd. of Trade Bldg. Corp. v. Cralle, 63 S.E. 995, 109 Va. 246, 132 Am.S.R. 917, 22 L.R.A., N.S., 297
10 C.J. p 887 note 44.

48. Kan.—Long v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 28 P. 977, 48 Kan. 28, 30 Am.S.R. 271, 15 L.R.A. 319.

49. Tex.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Raney, 99 S.W. 589, 44 Tex.Civ.App. 517 usually be discharged by means of its employees engaged in carrying out the transportation contracted for, and, in determining whether or not a carrier is liable for an injury to a passenger under the general rule that the carrier is liable for the acts or defaults of its agents or servants, the question which has usually arisen is whether or not the act or default of a person who is admitted to be an agent or servant, or to be in the employ generally, of the carrier which causes the injury, is one for which the carrier may be held liable, as considered above in § 689 and below in §§ 691–694, but it sometimes becomes necessary to determine also whether or not the person whose act or default causes the injury is the agent or servant of the carrier.[50] It has been held that a carrier is liable if a passenger is injured in an accident occasioned by the want of skill of a person who, although not regularly employed by the carrier, is at the time acting as its employee by the authority or request of one of its regular employees;[51] but the carrier is not liable for the negligent acts of a volunteer or intermeddler who attempts to render services without authority,[52] unless the carrier or some employee charged with such a duty could reasonably have anticipated that a passenger would be subject to an injury from such a person, or was at fault in some respect in failing to prevent it.[53] In order to render the carrier liable for the acts of a person who is not regularly employed by the carrier, on the theory that an agent or employee of the carrier employed such person to perform the service in connection with which the acts complained of occurred, it must appear that such agent or employee was specially authorized to employ, or was acting within the scope of his authority in employing, a subagent.[54] A carrier may be estopped to deny the employment and authority of a person for whose act it is sought to hold the carrier liable, where the latter, without objection, permits such person to occupy a place of responsibility in its service.[55]

Independent contractor. In general, an independent contractor who enters into an agreement with a carrier to transport passengers of such carrier from a point on the latter's line to a specified place for a fare to be fixed by such contractor is not a servant of the carrier so as to render the carrier liable for the negligence of the independent contractor.[56] A person who rents a taxicab from the owner and who, in operating it, prosecutes his own business uncontrolled by the owner is not an employee of the owner, and the latter is not, in general, liable for the acts of such person which cause an injury to a passenger in the taxicab; and, where in such case the passenger has knowledge of the relationship between the driver and the owner or makes an independent contract of carriage with the driver with knowledge that such contract is not authorized by the owner, the owner is not prevented from denying that the driver is the employee of the owner.[57]

b. Employees of Others

The employee of one other than the carrier may be regarded as the employee of the carrier in respect of the performance of a duty which the carrier owes to its passengers where the carrier has delegated the performance of such duty to such other.

The rule stated in Corpus Juris, which has been

50. Trainmaster assigned to duty with circus train

In a case in which a trainmaster in the employ of a railroad company was sent with a circus train, which was being hauled over the line of such company under a special contract, it was said that the railroad company was not liable for the trainmaster's negligence unless he was, at the time of the accident, its servant acting within the scope of his employment. It was held, however, that, in view of the terms of the special contract, the trainmaster was actually the servant of the railroad company, and that the latter was liable for the trainmaster's negligence.—Sabol v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 238 N.W. 281, 255 Mich. 548, certiorari denied Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. v. Sabol, 52 S.Ct. 265, 284 U.S. 688, 76 L.Ed. 581.

51. Kan.—Leavenworth Electric R. Co. v. Cusick, 57 P. 519, 60 Kan. 590, 72 Am.S.R. 374.
10 C.J. p. 885 note 18.

52. Va.—Norfolk Bd. of Trade Bldg. Corp. v. Cralle, 63 S.E. 995, 109 Va. 246, 132 Am.S.R. 917, 22 L.R.A., N.S., 297.
10 C.J. p. 885 note 19.

53. Tex.—Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Bush, 133 S.W. 245, 104 Tex. 26, 32 L.R.A.,N.S., 1201, reversing, Civ.App., 123 S.W. 201.
10 C.J. p. 885 note 20.

54. Ga.—Western & A. R. Co. v. Jackson, 93 S.E. 547, 21 Ga.App. 50.

Driver procured to take home passenger carried past station

Where female passenger was carried past her station, driver engaged to take her home, and who made improper proposals, could not be held to be carrier's agent, without a showing that its conductor or telegraph operator who procured such driver was specially authorized to employ him or acted within scope of their authority.—Western & A. R. Co. v. Jackson, 93 S.E. 547, 21 Ga.App. 50.

55. Ill.—Harris v. Atlantic-Pacific Stages, Inc., 260 Ill.App. 308.

56. Okl.—City of Muskogee v. McMurry, 8 P.2d 670, 155 Okl. 203.

Jitney service

The rule stated in the text was applied in holding that the operator of a jitney or bus service who had entered into a contract with a street car company to transport passengers who should leave such company's cars at a certain point was not, under the contract and evidence, a servant of the street car company, and that the latter was not liable for injuries to a person who had been a passenger on a street car but who sustained an injury while on a bus of the independent contractor as a result of the negligence of the latter.—City of Muskogee v. McMurry, 8 P.2d 670, 155 Okl. 203.

57. Ky.—Johnson v. Brewer, 98 S.W.2d 889, 266 Ky. 314.

quoted with approval,[58] is that, where a duty which the carrier owes to its passengers is involved, it cannot shift the obligation by delegating the performance of such duty to another, and, as respects the liability of the carrier for the proper performance of such duty, the employees of such other may be regarded as the employees of the carrier;[59] and the carrier, therefore, may be held liable as regards such duties for the negligent or wrongful acts of the employees of an independent contractor.[60] So, where railroad companies are in the joint use and occupation of stations or tracks, a passenger of one company may recover against that company for injuries due to the negligence or fault of the employees of another company using the same station or tracks.[61]

It has been held that, where a street railroad company has the sole right and duty to operate street cars within the limits of a municipality, the employees of another company are, while operating a car of such other company within such limits pursuant to a valid agreement between the two companies, the employees of the company which has the sole right and duty to operate within such limits.[62]

The driver of a bus may in law be regarded as the agent of the owner of the bus and of the franchise for its operation, and such owner may be held liable for the acts of the driver, even though another than the owner pays the driver his wages and is his immediate employer.[63] The driver of a taxicab may be regarded as the ostensible agent of a person who permits such driver to hold himself out to passengers as the agent of such person, notwithstanding such person is in fact the employee of another and is acting for such other in operating the cab.[64]

Employees of connecting carrier. With reference to the liability of a carrier who contracts for through transportation over connecting lines, it is held that the contracting carrier is liable for the negligence or wrongful acts of the employees of the connecting carrier in carrying out the transportation contracted for.[65]

Employees of owner of sleeping cars and the like. The question as to whether the person whose wrong caused the injury was the employee of the carrier has arisen in determining the liability of railroad companies for the negligence or wrongful acts of porters on sleeping cars owned and controlled by an independent company, but used by the railroad company as a part of its train, and it has been held that, in as much as the employees of the railroad company have entire control of the trains and are engaged in the transportation of the passenger under contract with him, although he may be availing himself of the conveniences and additional accommodations of the sleeping car, such porters are to be deemed for certain purposes at least employees of the railroad company so far as the passenger is concerned.[66]

58. S.D.—Blankenbaker v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., 168 N.W. 744, 745, 40 S.D. 588, 10 A.L.R. 720.

59. U.S.—Barrow SS. Co. v. Kane, N.Y., 88 F. 197, 31 C.C.A. 452.
Ind.—Louisville, etc., Ferry Co. v. Nolan, 34 N.E. 710, 135 Ind. 60.
10 C.J. p 885 note 21.

Flagman at crossing

Where a flagman at a place where a street railroad crossed railroad tracks was hired by the railroad company which owned such tracks, but was maintained at the equal charge of the street railroad company and the railroad companies which used such tracks, the flagman was the agent of the street railroad company in signaling a motorman on a street car to cross, in respect of the liability of the street car company for a resultant injury to a passenger on the street car.—Augustus v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 134 S.W. 22, 153 Mo.App. 572.

60. U.S.—Barrow SS. Co. v. Kane, N.Y., 88 F. 197, 31 C.C.A. 452.
S.D.—Blankenbaker v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., 168 N.W. 744, 40 S.D. 588, 10 A.L.R. 720.

News agent

A news boy or news agent who was in the immediate employment of a company which had a contract with a railroad company giving the former company the right to place news agents on trains to make sales of newspapers and merchandise was also the agent of the railroad company so far as concerned the transportation of passengers on its trains and its liability to passengers for the acts of the news agent.—Blankenbaker v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., 168 N.W. 744, 40 S.D. 588, 10 A.L.R. 720.

61. Ark.—Kansas City Southern R. Co. v. Watson, 144 S.W. 922, 102 Ark. 499.
10 C.J. p 885 note 23.

62. Mo.—Wilcox v. Kansas City Western R. Co., 213 S.W. 156, 201 Mo.App. 510

63. Cal.—Irwin v. Pickwick Stages System, 25 P.2d 998, 134 Cal.App. 443.

Constitutional provision as to leasing or alienating franchise

In support of the conclusion set forth in the text, the court cited the provision of Const. art 12, § 10, that the legislature shall not pass any laws permitting the leasing or alienation of any franchise so as to relieve the franchise or property held thereunder from the liabilities of the lessor or grantor, lessee or grantee, contracted or incurred in the operation, use, or enjoyment of such franchise or any of its privileges—Irwin v. Pickwick Stages System, 25 P.2d 998, 134 Cal.App. 443.

64. Ky.—Middleton v. Frances, 77 S.W.2d 425, 257 Ky. 42.

65. Minn.—McLean v. Burbank, 11 Minn. 277, 12 Minn. 530.
Pa.—Ryland v. Peters, 1 Phila. 264

66. N.Y.—Dwinelle v. New York Central R. Co., 24 N.E. 319, 120 N.Y. 117, 17 Am.S.R. 611, 8 L.R.A. 224.
S.D.—Blankenbaker v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., 168 N.W. 744, 40 S.D. 588, 10 A.L.R. 720.
10 C.J. p 886 note 25.

Assisting passenger to alight from car

(1) Pullman porter is servant of railroad when assisting alighting passengers with hand baggage.—

Postal or mail clerks. Postal clerks engaged in the mail service on railroads are not to be deemed employees of the railroad company so as to render the company liable for their negligence, which caused injury to a passenger,[67] but it may be held liable for the conduct of such clerks in rendering the passenger platforms dangerous at stations, as shown below in § 717.

§ 691. Assaults or Personal Violence

a. In general
b. Justification and provocation

a. In General

A carrier owes a duty to its passengers to protect them from the violence and assaults of its servants or employees, and subject to certain limitations is liable for assaults on passengers committed by such servants or employees.

Under the rule stated in Corpus Juris, which has been quoted and cited with approval,[68] the duty of a carrier to a passenger includes the protection of the passenger from assaults of the carrier's employees, and it is generally held that where any servant or agent of the carrier while engaged in carrying out the carrier's duty or business of transportation assaults a passenger, or otherwise infringes the right of protection to which he is entitled, the carrier is liable,[69] irrespective, according to some cases, of whether the servant, in performing the act complained of, was acting for the carrier or for his own purposes,[70] or of whether the act of the employee pertained to the service for which he was employed or was within the scope of his employment,[71] unless the assault was justified by some act of the passenger, as considered in subdivision b immediately following. The liability of carriers for assaults on passengers by servants of carriers has been recognized under a general statute impos-

White v. New York Cent. R. Co., 239 N.Y.S. 90, 228 App.Div. 50.

(2) A carrier is liable for injury from negligence of a Pullman porter in not placing a step for passenger to alight on platform, although porter was not in its employ in absence of passenger's knowledge that Pullman car was not under carrier's management, it being immaterial that it was managed by Pullman Company under independent contract with carrier, as passenger might assume that whole train was under carrier's management.—Rogers v Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co., 103 A 873, 260 Pa. 430, 106 A. 734, 263 Pa. 429.

Obstruction on station platform

If the exercise of care in the use of a movable step in connection with a Pullman car was left by the railroad company to the servants of the Pullman Company, then the railroad company is responsible to its passenger for the negligence of such servants resulting in injury to such passenger through the negligence of such servants in leaving such step unguarded on a station platform.—Regan v. Boston & M. R. Co., 113 N.E. 200, 224 Mass. 418.

Liability of railroad company to passenger riding in palace or sleeping cars see infra § 918.

67. N.Y.—Carpenter v. Boston, etc., R Co., 97 N.Y. 494, 49 Am.R. 540. 10 C.J. p 886 note 26

68. Kan.—Higgins v. Southern Kansas Stage Lines Co., 42 P.2d 599, 602—Middleton v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 212 P. 909, 112 Kan. 793.
N.Y.—Barad v. New York Rapid Transit Corporation, 295 N.Y.S. 901, 908, 162 Misc. 458.

69. Ala.—Tomme v. Pullman Co., 93 So. 462, 207 Ala 511.
Fla.—Hall v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 93 So. 151, 84 Fla. 9.
Iowa.—Fagg v. Minneapolis & St. L. R. Co., 157 N.W. 148, 175 Iowa 459.
Ky.—Payne v. Moore, 244 S.W. 869, 196 Ky. 454—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Bennett, 209 S.W. 358, 183 Ky. 445.
Mass.—Langley v. Boston Elevated Ry. Co., 112 N.E. 79, 223 Mass 492—Spade v. Lynn & B. R. Co., 52 N.E. 747, 172 Mass. 488, 70 Am.S.R. 298, 43 L.R.A. 832.
N.C.—Harrison v. Norfolk-Southern R. Co., 113 S.E. 678, 184 N.C. 86
Ohio.—Korner v. Cosgrove, 141 N.E. 267, 108 Ohio St. 484, 31 A.L.R. 1193.
S.D.—Blankenbaker v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., 168 N.W. 744, 40 S.D. 588, 10 A.L.R. 720.
Tex.—Wright v. Schaff, Civ.App., 228 S.W. 333.
W.Va.—Clark v. Norfolk & W. Ry. Co., 100 S.E. 480, 84 W.Va. 526, 7 A.L.R. 117.
10 C.J. p 889 note 56, p 890 note 58.

Carrier as perpetrator of assault

A street car company was in law the perpetrator and was responsible for an unauthorized and willful, aggravated assault on a passenger by its employee.—Eastern Texas Electric Co. v. Baker, Tex.Civ.App., 238 S.W. 335, reversed on other grounds, Com.App., 254 S.W. 933.

Negligent shooting

A carrier is liable for damages sustained by an intending passenger, who went to the station at an appropriate time to take a train, and was negligently shot by the station agent, who about two hours before had been assaulted and shot at by persons attempting to rob the station, and who at the time he shot the intending passenger thought the latter was one of those who had attempted to rob the station, and was intending to shoot again at the agent.—Middleton v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 212 P. 909, 112 Kan 793.

70. Fla.—Hall v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 93 So. 151, 84 Fla. 9
Iowa.—Fagg v. Minneapolis & S.L. R. Co., 157 N.W. 148, 175 Iowa 459
N.Y.—Barad v. New York Rapid Transit Corporation, 295 N.Y.S. 901, 162 Misc. 458
N.C.—Clark v. Bland, 106 S.E. 491, 181 N.C. 110
Ohio.—Korner v. Cosgrove, 141 N.E. 267, 108 Ohio St. 484, 31 A.L.R. 1193.
10 C.J. p 889 note 56.
Indecent assaults on female passengers see infra § 692.

Shooting

The rule stated in the text was recognized as applicable where a passenger was accidentally shot when an employee of the carrier was demonstrating the method of using such employee's automatic pistol.—Texas Midland R. R. v. Monroe, 216 S.W. 388, 110 Tex. 97, reversing, Civ.App., 155 S.W. 973.

71. Mo.—Shelby v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 125 S.W. 1189, 141 Mo.App. 514
10 C.J. p 889 note 56.

Basis of liability

According to some cases the liability of the carrier for an assault on a passenger by an employee rests on the duty which the carrier owes through its servants to the passenger and not on the fact that the act is incident to a duty within the scope of the servant's employment.—Hall v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 93 So. 151, 84 Fla. 9.

ing liability on a master, under certain circumstances, for both the negligent and voluntary torts of his servant.[72] It is not necessary, in order to render the carrier liable, that the passenger should remain continuously in a vehicle of the carrier or on its premises.[73]

The duty or obligation of a carrier to protect passengers from assaults by the carrier's employee has been characterized or described generally as a duty or obligation to exercise the highest degree of care and diligence,[74] or the utmost care and diligence consistent with the management of its business.[75] It has been held that a carrier is not liable for a willful assault committed by an employee who is acting for his own purposes and not within the scope or course of his employment, where the assault could not have been anticipated and prevented by the exercise of due care,[76] where such employee has no duties in connection with the contract of carriage.[77] As to an assault committed on a passenger waiting at a station for a train, by an employee of the carrier who is not in charge of the station, the view has been taken that the carrier is under a duty to exercise only ordinary care to protect the passenger.[78]

According to some cases, a carrier is absolutely liable as an insurer for failure to protect a passenger from assaults by its servants unless the passenger has himself caused the difficulty.[79] It has been held that liability as an insurer includes, and is confined to, liability for assaults committed by employees engaged in the general business of transportation, and that the carrier is not liable as an insurer for an assault by an employee who is not connected with the operation of the train or with the care and safety of passengers, where such employee is riding on the train as a passenger in connection with other business of the employee, and in such case the carrier is liable only if it fails to exercise due care to protect the passenger.[80]

Particular employees. Under and subject to the rules above considered, the carrier is in general liable for assault on a passenger by the conductor in charge of the train or car in which the passenger is riding,[81] whether the assault is in the supposed interest and discharge of a supposed duty to the carrier, or is made as the result of personal malice or desire for revenge for an affront,[82] or in general for a purpose of the conductor while engaged in an act outside his regular duties.[83] It has been held, however, that, in an action in trespass vi et armis against a carrier, a passenger is not entitled to recover for an assault and battery committed by a conductor on the theory that the conductor was the alter ego of the carrier and that the latter was, therefore, corporately present and was participating in the assault and battery.[84] A brakeman on a train, in connection with his employment, is bound to discharge the duty of protecting the passenger, and if he makes an assault on the passenger, the carrier will in general be liable, even though the assault is not connected with the discharge of any particular duty as brakeman, but 72. Ga.—East Tennessee, etc., R Co v. Fleetwood, 15 S.E. 778, 90 Ga 23.

10 C.J. p 890 note 58.

73. N.C.—Clark v Bland, 106 S.E 491, 181 N.C 110.

Passenger called off premises by employee

If one is waiting for a train and is called off of the carrier's premises by an employee of the railroad to a point a short distance away and for the purpose of a personal difficulty, and is there assaulted and beaten, the same rules apply as would apply if the assault takes place on the premises of the railroad, the passenger having no knowledge or warning of the employee's wrongful purpose —Clark v. Bland, 106 S.E. 491, 181 N. C. 110.

74. Ky.—Louisville & N. R Co. v. Bennett, 209 S W. 358, 183 Ky. 445.

75. Mass.—Langley v. Boston Elevated Ry Co., 112 N.E. 79, 223 Mass 492
N J.—Haver v. Central R Co, 41 A 916, 62 N.J.Law 282, 72 Am S.R 647, 43 L.R A. 84.

76. Pa.—Rohrback v Pennsylvania R Co, 90 A. 557, 244 Pa. 132.
10 C J. p 892 note 73.

77. Tex.—Houston, etc., R Co. v. Bush, 133 S W. 245, 104 Tex 26, 32 L R A,N.S, 1201, reversing, Civ. App, 123 S.W. 201.

78. Ky.—Tate v Illinois Cent. R. Co, 81 S W. 256, 26 Ky.L. 309.

79. U S.—Rohrback v. Pullman's Palace Car Co, C.C.Pa, 166 F 797.
N.Y.—Barad v. New York Rapid Transit Corporation, 295 N.Y S 901, 162 Misc. 458
N C.—Harrison v. Norfolk-Southern R. Co, 113 S.E. 678, 184 N C. 86.
10 C J. p 889 note 56 [b]

80. Fla.—Hall v. Seaboard Air Line Ry Co., 93 So. 151, 84 Fla. 9.

Stenographer

The rule stated in the text was applied where the employee who committed the assault was a stenographer who was employed in the office of a division superintendent, had no duties other than clerical, and had no power to exercise authority as to, or to provide any arrangement for, the comfort, protection, and assistance of passengers.—Hall v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co, 93 So 151, 84 Fla. 9.

81. Mo.—Briggs v. Lusk, App, 190 S W. 380.
N C.—Harrison v. Norfolk-Southern R. Co., 113 S.E 678 184 N.C. 86.
Ohio.—Toledo Rys. & Light Co. v. Duggan, 7 Ohio App. 1.
Tex.—Eastern Texas Electric Co. v. Baker, Civ.App, 238 S.W 335, reversed on other grounds, Com App., 254 S.W. 933.
10 C J. p 891 note 59, 10 C J 889 note 56 [h].

82. Ala.—Birmingham R, etc., Co. v. Baird, 30 So. 456, 130 Ala. 334, 54 L.R.A. 752.
10 C J. p 891 note 59.

83. Tex.—Texas Midland R. R v. Monroe, 216 S.W. 388, 110 Tex. 97, reversing, Civ App., 155 S W. 937.
10 C J. p 891 note 59.

84. Ala.—Ex parte Louisville & N. R. Co., 83 So. 52, 203 Ala. 328, granting certiorari Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Lacey, 82 So. 636, 17 Ala. App. 146.

is made for his own purposes.[85] The liability of the carrier for a willful and malicious assault by a brakeman has been denied, however, where there was no showing that it had been committed in the line or discharge of any duty of the brakeman to the carrier.[86]

Further, it has been held or recognized that this rule of a carrier's liability extends to the conduct of other employees who have, in the discharge of their duties, any connection with the passenger, such as a porter,[87] any member of the train crew,[88] a flagman,[89] a gateman,[90] a railroad telegraph operator,[91] a railroad watchman or guard,[92] a guard on a subway train,[93] the motorman or driver of a street car,[94] or the operator of a taxicab.[95]

A railroad company may also be liable for an assault or personal violence on a passenger by a station agent[96] or by a baggage-master.[97] According to some cases a carrier may be liable even where an assault by a station agent is committed in connection with a matter which is personal to such agent.[98] It has been held, however, that the carrier is not liable for an assault by an employee charged with the duty of checking the baggage of passengers where the assault is not calculated or intended to promote or facilitate the business of the carrier and is not within the scope of the employee's authority.[99]

It has been held that a railroad company is liable to a passenger on its train for an assault committed by a news agent in connection with a sale made by such agent to the passenger.[1]

Relationship of carrier and passenger and period of liability. While it has been broadly stated that, if a person was assaulted and wantonly injured, while on the carrier's car by the conductor, it is immaterial whether or not such person was a passenger,[2] it is generally held that whether or not a carrier is liable, under the rules above considered, usually depends on whether or not the relationship of carrier and passenger exists between it and the injured person when the assault occurs.[3] The carrier's liability for such assaults exists or continues as long as the passenger is being transported,[4] or is

85. Iowa—Fagg v. Minneapolis & S. L. Co, 157 N.W. 148, 175 Iowa 459
10 C.J. p 891 note 60

86. Pa.—Win v. Atlantic City R. Co., 93 A. 876, 248 Pa. 134.

87. Ark.—St Louis, etc., R. Co. v Jackson, 177 S.W. 33, 118 Ark. 391, L.R.A.1915E 668.
10 C.J. p 891 note 61

88. Ky.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Gunterman, 122 S.W. 514, 135 Ky. 438.
N.C.—White v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 20 S.E. 191, 115 N.C. 631, 44 Am. S.R. 489.
10 C.J. p 891 note 62

89. Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Bennett, 209 S.W. 358, 183 Ky. 445.
La.—Vinot v Louisville & N. R. Co, 134 So. 761, 17 La.App. 197.
10 C.J. p 891 note 62 [a].

90. D.C.—Watkins v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 21 D.C. 1.
Ind.—Indianapolis Union R. Co. v. Cooper, 33 N.E. 219, 6 Ind.App. 202.

91. Mo.—Roberts v. Wabash R. Co., 134 S.W. 89, 153 Mo.App. 638.

Incidental employment by another

The rule stated in the text may apply even though the operator incidentally works as operator for an independent company.—Roberts v. Wabash R. Co., 134 S.W. 89, 153 Mo. App. 638.

92. Mo.—Hedge v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co, 145 S.W. 115, 164 Mo.App. 291
Tex.—Texas, etc, R. Co. v. Bowlin, Civ.App., 32 S.W. 918.

93. N.Y.—Barad v. New York Rapid Transit Corporation, 295 N.Y.S. 901, 162 Misc. 458.

94. Mo.—Shelby v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 125 S.W. 1189, 141 Mo.App. 514.
N.Y.—Supple v. International Ry. Co, 203 N.Y.S. 749, 208 App.Div. 547.
10 C.J. p 891 note 67.

95. Mo.—Van Hoeffen v. Columbia Taxicab Co, 162 S.W. 694 179 Mo App. 591
Ohio.—Korner v. Cosgrove, 141 N.E. 267, 108 Ohio St. 434, 31 A.L.R 1193.
10 C.J. p 891 note 68

96. Tenn.—Neville v. Southern R Co, 146 S.W. 846, 126 Tenn. 96, 40 L.R.A.,N.S., 995.
10 C.J. p 892 note 69

97. Ga.—Savannah, etc, R. Co. v Quo, 29 S.E. 607, 103 Ga. 125, 68 Am.S.R. 85, 40 L.R.A. 483.
10 C.J. p 892 note 70

98. N.C.—Clark v. Bland, 106 S.E 491, 181 N.C. 110

Alleged defamation of station agent by passenger

A railroad company was liable for an assault by a station agent on a passenger at a railroad station, notwithstanding the assault was made because such agent believed that the passenger had told certain persons that the agent had been peddling whisky on the streets—Clark v. Bland, 106 S.E. 491, 181 N.C. 110

99. Ohio.—Little Miami R. Co v. Wetmore, 19 Ohio St. 110, 2 Am. R. 373.

Assault growing out of earlier controversy

If a person who had had a controversy with a station agent as to the checking of baggage returned to the station, not for the purpose of transacting any legitimate business with the agent but merely to upbraid or reproach the latter because of the earlier, real or supposed grievance, and a difficulty arose between them, the railroad company was not liable for an assault committed by the agent in connection with such difficulty.—Georgia R., etc, Co. v. Richmond, 25 S.E. 565, 98 Ga. 495

1. S.D.—Blankenbaker v. Chicago, M & St P Ry Co, 168 N.W 744, 40 S.D 588, 10 A.L.R 720

2. Mo.—State ex rel. United Rys. Co of St. Louis v. Allen, 240 S.W 117.

3. Ky.—Manatis v Cumberland & M R Co., 300 S.W. 593, 222 Ky. 190.
N.Y.—Supple v. International Ry Co, 203 N.Y.S. 749, 208 App.Div 547.
10 C.J. p 892 notes 72, 73.

Leaving car at front and passing to rear

Where a passenger on a street railroad car felt that he had been mistreated by the conductor and, after alighting from the front of the car according to a rule of the company, necessarily passed to the rear to get the number of the conductor to make his complaint, and while doing so, was assaulted by the conductor and injured, the company was liable—Sims v. Knoxville Railway & Light Co, 208 S.W. 610, 141 Tenn. 238.

4. Ala.—Alabama City, etc., R. Co. v. Sampley, 53 So. 142, 169 Ala. 372.
10 C.J. p 892 note 72.

on the carrier's premises legitimately in connection with such transportation.[5] On the other hand, where the passenger has ceased to be a passenger by the termination of his journey and his departure from the train or car,[6] or where the employee has ceased to be an employee for the time being by reason of having no further duty to discharge to his employer in the premises,[7] so that the duty of the carrier to the injured person as a passenger has been terminated, or that, according to some cases, the assault may be regarded as a matter outside the scope or course of the employment, the carrier is not in general liable; but, where an assault commenced in the carrier's vehicle is kept up after the passenger has alighted therefrom, the carrier is liable, not only for the initial assault, but also for the consequences following therefrom in natural sequence and as a part of one continuous transaction.[8]

There is authority for the view that the rules governing the liability of railroad companies for assaults by employees do not in their entirety apply to street railroad companies, in view of the general rule that a person leaving a street car ceases to be a passenger as soon as he safely steps from the car into a public street and has had a reasonable time to leave the place where he alights, provided he is set down at a place which is reasonably safe and proper for that purpose.[9]

Violation of law by employee. The fact that the employee was violating the law does not necessarily constitute a defense to the carrier for such employee's assault on a passenger.[10]

b. Justification and Provocation

A carrier is not liable for an alleged assault on a passenger by an employee of the carrier where the circumstances are such as to justify the use of force by the employee and he does not use more force than is necessary.

It is not every assault by an employee that gives to the passenger a right of action against the carrier.[11] The passenger has in general no cause of action when he has rendered the assault justifiable, as where by his own wrongful acts or misconduct he has broken the contract of carriage and has cast on the employee both the right and duty of using force,[12] as, for example, in protecting other passengers,[13] or in rightfully ejecting a passenger who has forfeited his right to carriage, as considered infra § 824. The fact that the employee honestly, but mistakenly, supposed that he was justified in making the assault will not, however, exempt the

5. Ga.—Casway v. Atlantic, etc., R Co., 58 Ga. 216.
10 C J p 892 note 72.

6. Ala.—Willingham v. Birmingham Ry., Light & Power Co., 83 So. 95, 203 Ala. 351.
Ill.—See Abt v Chicago Rys Co., 207 Ill App. 314—Hedger v. Chicago City Ry. Co., 207 Ill.App. 26
Pa.—Berryman v. Pennsylvania R Co., 77 A. 1011, 228 Pa. 621, 30 L. R A.,N.S., 1049
Wis.—Will v. Milwaukee Electric Ry. & Light Co., 171 N.W. 658, 169 Wis. 38.
10 C J. p 892 note 73.

Person leaving street car

(1) Where passenger, who had been rebuked by motorman for smoking on car, on alighting applied insulting epithet to motorman, the carrier was not liable for death of passenger from blow during altercation after motorman had left car and followed passenger to place near the sidewalk, such altercation being independent from rebuke for smoking, and the relation of carrier and passenger having terminated.—Will v Milwaukee Electric Ry. & Light Co., 171 N.W 658, 169 Wis 38.

(2) One who was assaulted by a motorman after he had voluntarily left a street car in a public thoroughfare and had taken several steps was not a passenger when assaulted, even though the motorman had started using offensive language toward him while he was yet a passenger.—Willingham v. Birmingham Ry, Light & Power Co, 83 So. 95, 203 Ala. 351.

7. Ark.—St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Wyatt, 105 S.W. 72, 84 Ark. 193.
10 C J. p 892 note 73.

Assault on person not passenger by employee not on duty

Where a person had gone to a railroad station for the purpose of putting his wife and child on board a train of defendant company, had had an altercation with a gateman in respect of the necessity of purchasing a ticket for the child, and subsequently was assaulted by such gateman in the station waiting room after the train had left and while the gateman was off duty during his luncheon period, the railroad company was not liable.—Horecker v Pere Marquette R. Co, 233 Ill.App 278

8. Mo.—O'Brien v. St. Louis Transit Co., 84 S.W. 939, 185 Mo. 263, 105 Am.S R. 592.
10 C.J. p 893 note 74.

Corpus Juris has been cited with approval in Birmingham Electric Co v. Driver, 166 So. 701, 704, 232 Ala. 36.

9. Wis.—Will v Milwaukee Electric Ry. & Light Co., 171 N.W. 658, 169 Wis. 38.

10. Ind.—Southern R Co. v. Crone, 99 N.E. 762, 51 Ind.App 300.

Failure to comply with statutory provision as to identification as employee

In an action by a passenger for personal injuries resulting from being assaulted by defendant's agent, defendant could not escape liability because the agent failed to comply with Burns St.Annot.1908 § 5177, requiring trainmen to wear on their hats or caps a badge of their office, etc.—Southern R. Co v. Crone, 99 N.E. 762, 51 Ind App. 300.

11. U.S.—New Orleans, etc., R. Co. v. Jopes, Miss., 12 S.Ct. 109, 142 U.S. 18, 35 L.Ed. 919.

12. N.Y.—Monnier v New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 67 N.E 569, 175 N.Y. 281, 96 Am.S R 619, 62 L R A. 357, reversing 75 N.Y.S. 521, 70 App Div. 405
10 C.J. p 893 note 77.

13. U.S.—New Orleans, etc., R Co. v. Jopes, Miss., 12 S.Ct. 109, 142 U. S. 18, 35 L.Ed. 919.
10 C.J. p 893 note 78.

Assault by one passenger on another

In protecting a passenger from assault and injury by another passenger, it is the right and duty of the carrier's employees to use such force as is necessary to protect the assaulted passenger.—Parris v. Deering Southwestern Ry. Co., 208 S.W. 97, 203 Mo.App. 182.

carrier from liability, where such was not the case.[14]

The employees in charge may use such force and compulsion as is necessary to secure compliance with a reasonable regulation or direction of the carrier.[15] The fact that the passenger is refusing to comply with a regulation or direction of the carrier will not, however, justify the carrier's employee in using violence not proper nor necessary for the enforcement of the regulation or direction;[16] nor will the fact that the passenger is negligent justify such force.[17] Furthermore, it has been held that, where the disorder occasioned by a passenger consists merely of loud and boisterous language and conduct, the carrier's employees do not have the right to use force merely to quiet such passenger and prevent him from being disorderly and boisterous, and to allow him to continue his journey.[18]

The fault of a passenger short of producing the necessity to act in self-defense will not justify an assault on the part of a passenger.[19] A servant of a carrier may not assault a passenger merely in retaliation for an assault committed on himself or on another passenger[20] or in revenge or punishment under any circumstances.[21]

Previous illicit relations between a railroad employee and a passenger does not relieve the railroad company of liability for the employee's malicious act in assaulting her.[22]

Self-defense. Where, in the course of a difficulty with a passenger who is the aggressor, an employee of the carrier, in self-defense or to protect himself from bodily harm, injures the passenger, in general no liability will thereby be incurred by the carrier, since the fact that the employee is engaged in the service of another does not deprive him of his right of self-defense;[23] and the rule applies where the employee acts under the honest and reasonable be-

14. Ala.—Birmingham R., etc., Co. v. Mullen, 35 So. 701, 138 Ala. 614.
10 C.J. p. 893 note 80

15. N.Y.—Garricott v. New York State Rys., 119 N.E. 94, 223 N.Y. 9, L.R.A.1918D 929, reversing 151 N.Y.S. 1117, 167 App.Div. 953.

Entering car

Inspector ordering men to stand back so that women could board car first could exercise force necessary to compel compliance.—Garricott v. New York State Rys., 119 N.E. 94, 223 N.Y. 9, L.R.A.1918D 929, reversing 151 N.Y.S. 1117, 167 App.Div. 953.

16. Mo.—Parris v. Deering Southwestern Ry. Co., 208 S.W. 97, 203 Mo.App. 182.
N.C.—Harrison v. Norfolk-Southern R. Co., 113 S.E. 678, 184 N.C. 86
10 C.J. p. 893 note 81

Enforcement of law as to separation of white and colored races

Where the law authorizes or requires a carrier to provide separate but equal accommodations for the white and colored races, and a servant of the carrier uses undue violence in enforcing the regulation, the carrier is liable in damages to the injured passenger.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Cox, 96 So. 685, 132 Miss. 471.

Entering car

If, in enforcing a regulation or direction as to passengers entering a car that women shall be allowed to enter first, the employee of the carrier uses more force and compulsion than is necessary, without willfulness, malice, or a purpose of the employee, such employee does not act beyond the scope of his employment, and the carrier may be liable.—Garricott v. New York State Rys., 119 N.E. 94, 223 N.Y. 9, L.R.A.1918D 929, reversing 151 N.Y.S. 1117, 167 App.Div. 953.

Persistent violation of regulation

A passenger who displays a persistent determination to disregard a regulation forbidding passengers from going to sleep in the waiting rooms or lying down on the benches, and by his unlawful conduct exasperates an employee of the company, so as to unfit him from properly performing the duty which he owes his master with respect to his treatment of its patrons, cannot complain that such employee lost his temper and resorted to unnecessary force in compelling observance of the regulations of the company.—Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Motes, 43 S.E. 990, 117 Ga. 923, 9 Am.S.R. 223, 62 L.R.A. 507.

Unlimited corrective methods

While it is the duty of a passenger to observe reasonable regulations and to deport himself in a decent and orderly manner, if he fails to do so, the carrier may not apply unlimited corrective methods.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Bennett, 209 S.W. 358, 183 Ky. 445

17. Ill.—Wabash, etc., R. Co. v. Rector, 104 Ill. 296.

18. Mo.—Parris v. Deering Southwestern Ry. Co., 208 S.W. 97, 203 Mo.App. 182.

Want of violence or assault by disorderly passenger

In view of the right, under Rev. St.1909 § 3093, and Mo. St. Annot. § 4708, of servants of a carrier to eject passengers, such servants were not justified in assaulting and whipping into submission a drunken and boisterous passenger merely for the purpose of quieting him and preventing him from being disorderly and boisterous, and to continue to carry him, where there was no showing that such passenger was assaulting and injuring other passengers.—Parris v. Deering Southwestern Ry. Co., 208 S.W. 97, 203 Mo.App. 182.

19. Ala.—Southern R. Co. v. Hanby, 62 So. 871, 183 Ala. 255

20. Ala.—Birmingham R., etc., Co. v. Baird, 30 So. 456, 130 Ala. 334, 89 Am.S.R. 43, 54 L.R.A. 752.

21. Ala.—Birmingham R., etc., Co. v. Baird, supra.

Punishment for actions affecting another passenger

Where boy, train passenger, was teasing girl passenger, and flagman inflicted on boy a severe beating, railroad company was liable.—Vinot v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 134 So. 761, 17 La.App. 197.

22. Ark.—Pine Bluff, etc., R. Co. v. Washington, 172 S.W. 872, 116 Ark. 179
10 C.J. p. 891 note 60 [c].

23. Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Bennett, 209 S.W. 358, 183 Ky. 445
La.—Smith v. New Orleans Public Service, 127 So. 16, 12 La.App. 692
Mo.—Wiard v. Dunham, 210 S.W. 873.—Hunter v. Kansas City Rys. Co., 248 S.W. 998, 213 Mo.App. 233.—Parris v. Deering Southwestern R. Co., App., 227 S.W. 1071.
N.C.—Harrison v. Norfolk-Southern R. Co., 113 S.E. 678, 184 N.C. 86.
10 C.J. p. 893 note 84, p. 894 note 85.

Passenger is not justified in assaulting conductor, although the passenger was provoked by the conductor's insulting language.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Bennett, 209 S.W. 358, 183 Ky. 445.—Louisville Co. v. Frick, 165 S.W. 649, 158 Ky. 450

Prior altercation

The rule stated in the text ap-lief that he is in imminent danger,[24] and further, there is some authority to the effect that the stringent rule generally applicable as to the liability of carriers with respect to the high degree of care required of them does not apply in self-defense situations.[25] The carrier may be liable, however, where its employee uses more force than is necessary for his defense and protection and the orderly conduct of the carrier's business,[26] or, as sometimes stated, where the employee uses more force than is necessary or, in the exercise of a sound discretion, appears to be necessary.[27]

A prior assault on the employee by the passenger, which has terminated, will not justify a subsequent assault on the passenger by such employee;[28] and it has been held that, even though the passenger struck the first blow, the carrier cannot avail itself of the right of self-defense, where the passenger's assault was provoked by the carrier's employee, without any provocation on the part of the passenger.[29] Furthermore, the carrier may not relieve itself of liability on the theory that its employee acted in self-defense where the employee neither had any reasonable ground to apprehend danger from the passenger who was assaulted nor actually believed that such danger existed.[30]

Provocation. In general an assault on a passenger by an employee of the carrier is excused entirely only when the provocative conduct is such as in law amounts to a justification of the assault on the ground of self-defense.[31] Mere abusive language or conduct, or opprobrious epithets alone, are not sufficient to justify the commission of an assault by an employee on a passenger,[32] particularly where such language or conduct was provoked by the employee;[37] and this rule applies even though the passenger's language or conduct is in violation of the law.[34] Insulting or opprobrious language used by a passenger after he has unjustifiably been assaulted by an employee of the carrier does not cure nor excuse such prior breach of the contract of carriage.[35] The fact that a passenger threatens to report an employee to the carrier for some supposed or actual improper action on the part of the employee does not justify an assault by the latter.[36]

Where the language or conduct of the passenger is exasperating to the employee and provocative of an assault, it may be shown in mitigation of damages;[37] and, according to some cases, the carrier is not liable where the passenger by his provoking language or conduct intended to bring about a difficulty with the employee who committed the assault,[38] or where such language or conduct is such as to exasperate the employee and unfit him to act toward the passenger in the manner usually required of such employee.[39]

Intoxicated passenger. A carrier is liable if one of its employees assaults and beats a passenger, alplied regardless of who may have been the aggressor in a prior, unimportant altercation which had been terminated before the passenger indicated his intention to assault the carrier's employee—Smith v. New Orleans Public Service, 127 So. 16, 12 La.App. 692.

24. U.S.—New Orleans, etc., R. Co. v. Jopes, Miss., 12 S.Ct. 109, 142 U.S. 18, 35 L.Ed. 919
10 C.J. p 893 note 84.

25. U.S.—New Orleans, etc., R. Co. v. Jopes, supra.
Tex.—International, etc., R. Co. v. Washington, 117 S.W. 992, 54 Tex. Civ.App. 166.
10 C.J. p 894 note 86

26. Mo.—Parris v. Deering Southwestern R. Co., App., 227 S.W. 1071.
10 C.J. p 893 note 84, p 894 note 89 [a].

27. Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Bennett, 209 S.W. 358, 183 Ky. 445.
10 C.J. p 893 note 84.

28. Mo.—O'Brien v. St. Louis Transit Co., 110 S.W. 705, 212 Mo. 59, 15 Ann.Cas. 86, 84 S.W. 939, 185 Mo. 263, 105 Am.S.R. 592.
Tex.—Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. La Prelle, 65 S.W. 488, 27 Tex.Civ.App. 496

29. Tex.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Huddleston, Civ.App., 178 S.W. 704.
10 C.J. p 894 note 88.

30. U.S.—Memphis St. R. Co. v. Townes, C.C.A.Tenn., 281 F. 127.
10 C.J. p 894 note 89 [c] (2).

31. Mo.—Hunter v. Kansas City Rys. Co., 248 S.W. 998, 213 Mo.App. 233.

32. Iowa.—Fagg v. Minneapolis & St. L. R. Co., 157 N.W. 148, 175 Iowa 459
Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Bennett, 209 S.W. 358, 183 Ky. 445
Mo.—Hunter v. Kansas City Rys. Co., 248 S.W. 998, 213 Mo.App. 233
N.C.—Harrison v. Norfolk-Southern R. Co., 113 S.E. 673, 184 N.C. 86.
10 C.J. p 894 note 89.

Language with intent to insult, or to provoke an assault

The refusal of an instruction, to the effect that the use by the passenger of abusive or insulting language to an employee of the carrier with intent to insult such employee or to provoke an assault by him would estop the passenger from asserting a claim for damages for an assault, was proper.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Bennett, 209 S.W. 358, 183 Ky. 445.

33. U.S.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Williams, Tex., 62 F. 440, 10 C.C.A. 463.
10 C.J. p 895 note 90.

34. Iowa.—Heggen v. Ft. Dodge etc., R. Co., 130 N.W. 148, 150 Iowa 313.
10 C.J. p 895 note 91.

35. Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Bennett, 209 S.W. 358, 183 Ky. 445.

36. Mo.—Sterneman v. Spring Tract. Co., 163 S.W. 358, 178 Mo.App. 64.

37. Iowa.—Fagg v. Minneapolis & St. L. R. Co., 157 N.W. 148, 175 Iowa 459.
Mo.—Hunter v. Kansas City Rys. Co., 248 S.W. 998, 213 Mo.App. 233.
10 C.J. p 895 note 92

38. N.Y.—Baker v. Brooklyn, etc., R. Co., 130 N.Y.S. 690, 146 App.Div. 304.
Tex.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Gerren, 121 S.W. 905, 57 Tex.Civ.App. 34.
10 C.J. p 895 note 93.

39. Ga.—Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Motes, 43 S.E. 990, 117 Ga. 923, 97 Am.S.R. 223, 62 L.R.A. 507.
10 C.J. p 895 note 93.

though the passenger is intoxicated and has treated the employee rudely.[40]

§ 692. Abusive and Insulting Language or Conduct

A carrier is under a duty to protect a passenger from insults and indignities on the part of its employees and in general is liable for indecent, abusive, and insulting language or conduct of its employees toward passengers.

A carrier is under a duty to protect passengers from insults and indignities on the part of the carrier's employees or servants, and indecent, abusive, and insulting language, or rude and insulting conduct,[41] on the part of the employee of a carrier, tending to cause a breach of the peace, or to humiliate or mortify a passenger, will entitle the passenger to recover damages, whether the insult is offered from malice or as the result of negligence by the employee;[42] and, even though the carrier did not authorize or ratify the objectionable language or conduct,[43] or was not negligent in selecting the employee,[44] the passenger is not deprived of the transportation for which he has contracted,[45] or, according to some cases, the passenger does not suffer physical injury,[46] unless, according to some 40. Tex.—Friar v. Orange, etc., R. Co., 101 S.W. 274, 45 Tex.Civ.App. 564.

10 C.J. p 895 note 94.

41. U.S.—Austro-American S. S. Co v. Thomas, N.Y., 248 F. 231, 160 C.C.A. 309, L.R.A.1918D 873.
Ala.—Tomme v. Pullman Co., 93 So. 462, 207 Ala. 511.
Ky.—Payne v. Moore, 244 S.W. 869, 196 Ky. 454—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Bennett, 209 S.W. 358, 183 Ky. 445.
Mass.—Langley v. Boston Elevated Ry. Co., 112 N.E. 79, 223 Mass. 492.
Mo.—Hendrix v. United Rys. Co. of St. Louis, 193 S.W. 812.
N.D.—Barbknecht v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 212 N.W. 776, 55 N.D. 104.
Ohio—Korner v. Cosgrove, 141 N.E. 267, 108 Ohio St. 484, 31 A.L.R. 1193.
Tex.—Wright v. Schaff, Civ.App., 228 S.W. 333—Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Tillman, Civ.App., 197 S.W. 1128.
10 C.J. p 895 note 97.

Statutory obligation

The obligation of a carrier under Civ.Code 1910 § 2714 to exercise extraordinary diligence on the part of himself and his agents to protect the lives and persons of his passengers includes an obligation of diligence to protect passengers from insult by the carrier's employees.—Georgia Ry. & Power Co. v. Turner, 125 S.E. 598, 33 Ga.App. 101.

Rights of passengers stated

Passengers on railway trains have by virtue of their contract for transportation the right to be treated by the servants and employees of the carrier with kindness, respect, courtesy, and due consideration, and to be protected against insult, indignity, and abuse from such servants and agents.—Hall v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 93 So. 151, 84 Fla. 9.

Accusation of attempt to defraud

A railroad company was liable to a passenger where its conductor, after the passenger had given him a ticket, continued to demand a ticked and, in a loud voice and in the presence of other passengers, accused the passenger of attempting to defraud the railroad company.—Stewart v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 6 Pa.Dist. & Co. 125.

Enforcement of law as to separation of white and colored races

Where the law authorizes or requires a carrier to provide separate but equal accommodations for the white and colored races, and a servant of the carrier, in enforcing such regulation, uses insulting and offensive language to a passenger, the carrier is liable in damages to the passenger.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Cox, 96 So. 685, 132 Miss. 471.

Male passenger

The rule stated in the text is not limited to female passengers, but applies to male passengers as well.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Carroll, 70 So. 984, 14 Ala.App. 374.

Honest mistake of employee

Conceding that ticket agent made honest mistake, it would not relieve railroad company if agent was rude and insulting in insinuating that plaintiff was attempting to obtain ticket without paying therefor.—Knoell v. Kansas City, C., C. & St. J. Ry. Co., Mo.App., 198 S.W. 79.

Justification or provocation

Conduct of passenger on train in tendering conductor cash value to point where train did not stop did not justify conductor in using insulting language to him, as by calling him a lunatic. If railroad passenger tendered conductor cash fare to point where train did not stop merely to provoke altercation in order to make case against road, it was matter of defense in mitigation of damages, even if passenger's technical rights as passenger were violated by conductor.—Lipman v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 93 S.E. 714, 108 S.C. 151, L.R.A.1918A 596.

42. Ga.—Wolfe v. Georgia R., etc., Co., 58 S.E. 899, 2 Ga.App. 499.
Tex.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Luther, 90 S.W. 44, 40 Tex.Civ.App. 517.
10 C.J. p 896 note 99.

43. Colo.—Bleecker v. Colorado, etc., R. Co., 114 P. 481, 50 Colo. 140, 33 L.R.A.,N.S., 386.
N.C.—Harrison v. Norfolk-Southern R. Co., 113 S.E. 678, 184 N.C. 86.
S.C.—Lipman v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 93 S.E. 714, 108 S.C. 151, L.R.A.1918A 596.
Tenn.—Knoxville Tract. Co. v. Lane, 53 S.W. 557, 103 Tenn. 376, 46 L.R.A. 549.
10 C.J. p 895 note 97.

44. N.C.—Harrison v. Norfolk-Southern R. Co., 113 S.E. 678, 184 N.C. 86.
10 C.J. p 896 note 99 [a] (1).

45. W.Va.—John v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 95 S.E. 589, 82 W.Va. 149.

46. Ala.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Robinson, 105 So. 874, 213 Ala. 522.
Pa.—Stewart v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 6 Pa.Dist. & Co. 125.
S.C.—Medlin v. Southern Ry. Co., 141 S.E. 185, 143 S.C. 91, 56 A.L.R. 767—Lipman v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 93 S.E. 714, 108 S.C. 151, L.R.A.1918A 596.
10 C.J. p 895 note 97.

Breach of duty growing out of contract

The fact that the cause of action stated in the complaint is for breach of duty growing out of the contract of carriage does not prevent the application of the rule stated in the text.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Carroll, 70 So. 984, 14 Ala.App. 374.

Reason for rule

A breach of the obligation of a common carrier to its passenger, working injury to him, is a cause of action standing on a higher plane than that of one arising from an injury by mere negligence, because the relation subsisting between them is founded on a direct, special, and personal obligation, peculiar in its nature, and not on general law constituting the basis of the relation subsisting between many other persons, such as neighbors or strangers, who stand on an equal footing and deal with each other at arm's length, wherefore conduct on the part of a carrier working grievous injury only to the feelings and sensibilities of a cases, the employee's language is provoked or justified by the passenger's conduct or language.[47]

According to some cases, the carrier is absolutely liable as insurer for the protection of a passenger from insults by its employees unless the passenger alone is the cause of the trouble.[48] It has been held, however, that the liability of a carrier as insurer against indignities offered to a passenger by its employees rests on the relation which such employees bear to the carrier as persons whom the carrier has employed in the general transportation of passengers.[49] In some cases the duty or obligation to protect a passenger from insults and indignities on the part of the carrier's employees has been characterized or described generally as a duty or obligation to exercise the highest degree of care and diligence,[50] or the utmost diligence and care consistent with the proper management of its business.[51] According to some cases, the carrier owes only the duty to exercise ordinary care to protect a passenger waiting at a station from insults, abuse, and threats of its employee who is not acting in discharge of any duty owing to the carrier and who is not in charge of the station,[52] particularly where the offending employee has no connection with the passenger service,[53] and there is no liability in such case where responsible employees of the carrier have no notice of the misconduct of the offending employee nor opportunity to prevent such misconduct.[54]

In order that a passenger may recover for an alleged insult, it must appear not only that the facts and circumstances were such that the passenger was insulted and humiliated, but also that they were such as would reasonably tend to humiliate any person in similar circumstances.[55]

Female passenger. To a female passenger a carrier owes an especial duty to protect her from insulting remarks,[56] gross carelessness amounting to rudeness,[57] indecent assaults, or improper liberties[58] on the part of its employees, and the carrier is in general liable for language or conduct of an employee which constitutes a breach of the carrier's duties in this regard. It has been said that such duty should not be frittered away by nice questions as to whether the employee was acting within the scope of his employment.[59]

The carrier is not liable as an insurer, however, for an assault on a female passenger made by an passenger is actionable.—John v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 95 S.E. 589, 82 W.Va. 149.

Damages for mental suffering in the absence of physical injury see infra § 771.

47. Ga.—Binder v. Georgia R., etc., Co., 79 S.E. 216, 13 Ga.App. 381.
10 C.J. p. 895 note 96.

48. N.C. — Harrison v. Norfolk-Southern R. Co., 113 S.E. 678, 184 N.C. 86.
10 C.J. p. 889 note 56 [b].

49. Fla.—Hall v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 93 So. 151, 84 Fla. 9.

50. Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Bennett, 209 S.W. 358, 183 Ky. 445.

51. Mass.—Langley v. Boston Elevated Ry. Co., 112 N.E. 79, 223 Mass. 492.

52. Ky.—Tate v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 81 S.W. 256, 26 Ky.L. 309.

53. Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Lindsay, 279 S.W. 965, 212 Ky. 516.

54. Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Lindsay, supra.

Freight yard clerk

Carrier was not liable for conduct of freight yard clerk having no connection with passenger service, who, acting wholly on his own personal responsibility and in relation to a personal matter, used abusive and insulting language and threats against prospective passenger standing on depot platform at a time when no employee in authority was present to restrain him or had notice of his purpose.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Lindsay, 279 S.W. 965, 212 Ky. 516.

Porter employed to handle mail

Carrier and terminal operator were not liable for insulting language directed to passenger through train window, while train was standing in station, by porter whose duties were connected with mail, in absence of evidence that either carrier or terminal company knew of occurrence in time to prevent it or had reason to anticipate it.—Massengale v. Atlanta, B. & C. R. Co., 168 S.E. 111, 46 Ga.App. 484.

55. Ga.—Georgia R., etc., Co. v. Baker, 58 S.E. 88, 1 Ga.App. 832.

56. N.D.—Barbknecht v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 212 N.W. 776, 55 N.D. 104.
10 C.J. p. 896 note 1.

Insulting, indecent, or opprobrious language

(1) Where the porter on a train, while on duty as porter, used opprobrious epithets and insulting language to a female passenger, the carrier was liable in damages for such misconduct — Barbknecht v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 212 N.W. 776, 55 N.D. 104.

(2) The fact that a passenger's immodest remarks encourage the conductor to make an improper proposal does not relieve the carrier of liability for the insult, but it may be considered in mitigation of damages.—Strother v. Aberdeen, etc., R. Co., 31 S.E. 386, 123 N.C. 197.

57. La.—Spearman v. Toye Bros. Auto & Taxi-Cab Co., 114 So. 591, 164 La. 677.
10 C.J. p. 896 note 1.

58. Fla.—Hall v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 93 So. 151, 84 Fla. 9.
10 C.J. p. 896 note 1.

Assault or ravishment

(1) A railroad company was liable for an assault on a passenger with intent to commit rape by one employed as a baggage-master on the train.—Savannah, etc., R. Co. v. Quo, 29 S.E. 607, 103 Ga. 125, 68 Am.S.R. 85, 40 L.R.A. 433.

(2) A railroad company has been held liable where a rape on a passenger was committed by a brakeman.—Garvik v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 108 N.W. 327, 131 Iowa 415, 117 Am.S.R. 432.

(3) The carrier was liable where the driver of his taxicab committed rape on a female passenger.—Korner v. Cosgrove, 141 N.E. 267, 108 Ohio St. 484, 31 A.L.R. 1193.

(4) If plaintiff consented to a carrier's employee ravishing her because of fear, there was not only an actionable wrong, but an actual rape.—Dickinson v. Scruggs, Tenn., 242 F. 900, 155 C.C.A. 488.

59. Ala.—Birmingham R., etc., Co. v. Parker, 50 So. 55, 161 Ala. 248.

employee who is not connected with the operation of the train or with the care and safety of passengers, where such employee is riding on a train as a passenger in connection with other business of the carrier; in such case the carrier is liable only if it fails to exercise due care to protect the passenger.[60] A carrier is not ordinarily liable where the relationship of carrier and passenger does not exist between it and the female on whom an indecent assault is committed by employees of such carrier.[61]

Lascivious proposals of an employee if later voluntarily accepted do not create liability on the part of the carrier.[62]

Mere rudeness of language or brusqueness of behavior on the part of the employee may not be such an injury to the passenger as to entitle him to recover damages.[63]

§ 693. Acts of Employee as Police Officer; Special Officer

The fact that employees of a carrier are clothed with powers of police officers does not necessarily relieve the carrier of liability to passengers for acts of such officers. The carrier is not in general liable for the acts of police officers, as such, where such officers are appointed or commissioned by the public authorities, notwithstanding the appointment of such officers is procured, and their compensation is paid, by the carrier.

The conductor of a train, in looking after and protecting his passengers, is to some extent clothed with the powers of a police officer.[64] The fact, however, that a conductor or other employee is clothed by law with police authority affords no immunity to the carrier for damages resulting from his wrongful discharge of his duty, either as employee of the carrier or under color of his police authority;[65] hence the carrier is liable for such employee's wrongful acts in carrying out the law requiring the separation of white and colored passengers,[66] or in committing an assault or other wrong on a passenger.[67] It has been held, however, that, where such employee is not liable to one for assault and battery, the carrier is not liable.[68]

The carrier may be held responsible for the act of its employee in voluntarily assisting a police officer in making an illegal search of a passenger,[69] and it cannot be excused on the theory that an officer may require assistance even in making an illegal search where it does not appear that the officer requested assistance.[70] On the other hand, where a special agent acting in the scope of his employment causes the arrest of a person, the carrier is not liable if such agent exercised ordinary care, and there was probable cause for having such person arrested.[71]

Officer appointed by public authorities; special officer. An officer duly appointed by public authorities for police duty in connection with a railroad, whose compensation is paid by the railroad company, is prima facie at least a public officer for whose acts, as such officer, the company which procures the appointment is not liable.[72] Nevertheless, if such officer is engaged in some sort of service for the company and does a wrongful act in the course of such service, and within the scope of his employment, or by express direction of the company, the latter is liable therefor;[73] hence, if such an offi-

60. Fla.—Hall v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 93 So. 151, 84 Fla. 9.

61. Ky.—Manatis v. Cumberland & M. R. Co, 300 S.W. 593, 222 Ky. 190.

Assault in station

Railroad company was not liable for indecent assault by its employees on plaintiff waiting in depot for train of different railroad, since such conduct was an independent wrong committed by the employees as individuals and out of the line of their duty, for which the doctrine of respondeat superior could not be invoked—Manatis v. Cumberland & M. R. Co, 300 S.W. 593, 222 Ky. 190.

62. U.S. — Dickinson v. Scruggs, Tenn, 242 F. 900, 155 C.C.A. 488.

63. Mass.—McCumber v. Boston El R Co, 93 N.E. 698, 207 Mass 559, 32 L.R.A.,N.S., 475.
10 C.J. p 896 note 3.

64. N.C.—Brown v Atlantic Coast Line R Co, 71 S.E. 777, 161 N.C. 573.
Right to arrest or detain passenger generally see infra § 827.

65. Va.—Southern R. Co. v. Grubbs, 80 S.E. 749, 115 Va. 876
10 C.J. p 896 note 6.

66. Ga.—Wolfe v. Georgia, etc., Co, 58 S.E. 899, 2 Ga.App. 499—Georgia R, etc, Co. v. Baker, 58 S.E. 88, 1 Ga.App. 832.

67. Mont.—Rand v. Butte Electric R Co., 107 P. 87, 40 Mont. 398.
10 C.J. p 896 note 8.

68. Mass.—Horgan v. Boston El R. Co, 94 N.E. 386, 208 Mass. 287.

69. Ala.—Nashville, etc, R. Co. v. Crosby, 62 So. 889, 183 Ala. 237.

70. Ala.—Nashville, etc, R. Co. v. Crosby, supra.

71. Ark.—St. Louis & S.F. Ry. Co v. Wyatt, 105 S.W. 72, 84 Ark. 193.

72. N.J.—Goldberg v. Central R. Co of New Jersey, 117 A. 479, 97 N.J.Law 374.
10 C.J. p 897 note 10.

Officer appointed by governor under statute

The duty of a railway policeman appointed by the governor, under Comp.St.Suppl 1911–1915 p 113, to preserve peace is superior to his duty as an employee of a railway company performing its duty as a carrier to preserve a passenger's personal safety. As such statute enacts that such police officers shall have all the powers of policemen and constables in criminal cases, they have the paramount duty of preserving the public peace free from interference by a railway company in its effort to exercise the care required for its passengers. A railway policeman commissioned by the governor under such statute, being a state officer charged with public duties and responsible to the state, not the railway company by whom he was employed, unless his action was instigated by the company or its officers or employees, the railway company was not liable as for an assault for his act done in pursuance of his duty to preserve order.—Goldberg v. Central R. Co of New Jersey, 117 A. 479, 97 N.J. Law 374.

73. W.Va.—McKain v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 64 S.E. 18, 65 W.Va

cer in the performance of such services wrongfully inflicts injury on a passenger, the carrier may be liable therefor, even though the injurious act so done was willful and malicious, and prompted by motives and purposes personal to the employee.[74] Under some statutes which authorize railroad companies to appoint and employ policeman at the expense of such companies, a railroad company is liable for the wrongful acts toward a passenger of an officer so appointed and employed, as, for example, for an assault.[75]

A railroad company responsible for the appointment of a special police officer cannot regard him as a de facto officer after his office is vacated by failure to qualify, since it is bound to know that he is an officer de jure before he is given employment on its trains.[76]

§ 694. Passengers under Disability

a. In general
b. Becoming ill or incapacitated during transit

a. In General

The circumstances may be such as to impose on a carrier the duty to give, through its employees, special care and attention to passengers who are under physical or mental disability.

The general rule as to the duty to care for the safety of a passenger is applicable in case of passengers who are suffering from some infirmity or disability,[77] particularly where the employees of the carrier have no knowledge or reason to believe that the passenger is laboring under a disability.[78] A carrier is presumed to know, however, that feeble or infirm persons may be passengers;[79] such a contingency should be taken into consideration, and, if such persons are injured by negligence in operating the train, they are entitled to recover even though the injury would not have happened to a person in sound health.[80]

The care which should be exercised may vary with the age, sex, or bodily infirmity of the passenger,[81] and, if a passenger's sickness or disability is known to some employee in charge of the train or premises, it is knowledge of the carrier,[82] and there is a duty to assist such passenger;[83] the care given to him should be commensurate with his infirmities or condition,[84] or, as sometimes stated.

233, 131 Am.S.R. 964, 23 L.R.A., N.S., 289, 17 Ann.Cas. 634.
10 C.J. p. 897 note 11, p. 896 note 6 [a].

74. W.Va.—Moss v. Campbells Creek R. Co., 83 S.E. 721, 75 W.Va. 62, L.R.A.1915C 1183.
10 C.J. p. 897 note 12.

75. Okl.—Baker v. Hines, 213 P. 313, 88 Okl. 266.

76. Ky.—Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Cundiff, 179 S.W. 615, 166 Ky. 594, Ann.Cas.1916C 513.

77. Ark.—Price v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 88 S.W. 575, 75 Ark. 479, 492, 112 Am.S.R. 79.
10 C.J. p. 897 note 19.

78. Del.—Clayton v. Philadelphia, B. & W. R. Co., 106 A. 577, 7 Boyce 343.
Tex.—Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Sears, Com.App., 210 S.W. 684, reversing, Civ.App., 155 S.W. 1003.
10 C.J. p. 897 note 20.

Notice not brought home to carrier

Negligence predicated on the extraordinary duty owing by carriers and their employees to sick, aged, or infirm passengers is not established where notice of the condition of the passenger is not brought home to the carrier.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Turner, 292 S.W. 758, 219 Ky. 92.

Passenger apparently able to care for himself

The contract of a common carrier of passengers has reference in general to passengers in normal health, and, in the absence of special agreement, it is under no duty to proffer special care or treatment to a passenger in ill health, who appears to be able to look after himself and to procure any extra care or service required.—Churchill v. United Fruit Co., D.C.Mass., 294 F. 400.

79. Tex.—East Line, etc., R. Co. v. Rushing, 6 S.W. 334, 69 Tex. 306.
10 C.J. p. 897 note 21.

Pregnant women

Knowledge that pregnant women may be passengers on busses is chargeable to operators thereof.—Consolidated Coach Corporation v. Garmon, 26 S.W.2d 20, 233 Ky. 464.

80. Mass.—Yancey v. Boston El. R. Co., 91 N.E. 202, 205 Mass. 162, 137 Am.S.R. 431, 26 L.R.A.,N.S., 1217—Spade v. Lynn, etc., R. Co., 52 N.E. 747, 172 Mass. 488, 70 Am.S.R. 298, 43 L.R.A. 832.
10 C.J. p. 897 note 21.

Corpus Juris has been cited with approval in Carroll v. St. Paul Union Depot Co., 204 N.W. 470, 164 Minn. 28.

81. N.J.—Staines v. Central R. Co., 61 A. 385, 72 N.J.Law 268.
10 C.J. p. 898 note 22.

Degree and sufficiency of care

It has been said that the degree of care required is the same as to all passengers, that is to say, the greatest care, but that the care sufficient to insure the safety of one person may not be sufficient for others, physically less able to take care of themselves; therefore, it is not true that a carrier owes to every passenger precisely the same care, without regard to age, sex, or bodily infirmity.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Finley, 15 S.W. 266, 79 Tex. 266.

82. N.H.—Foss v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 21 A. 222, 66 N.H. 256, 49 Am.S.R. 607, 11 L.R.A. 367.
10 C.J. p. 898 note 24.

Termination of relation of carrier and passenger

After a person who was mentally deranged had ceased to be a passenger by leaving a train voluntarily, negligence of the railroad company for failure to care for such person could not be predicated on failure of station agent, telegraph operator, and section hands, who had knowledge of such condition, to protect passenger from injury or report his condition to the company, the knowledge of such employees not being imputable to company, inasmuch as it was not their duty to make such report to the company.—Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Sears, Tex.Com.App., 210 S.W. 684, reversing, Civ.App., 155 S.W. 1003.

83. Ala.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Hayne, 95 So. 879, 209 Ala. 186.

84. U.S.—Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Schrimpf, Minn., 236 F. 200, 149 C.C.A. 390.

with the responsibility assumed by the carrier,[85] and may be greater than that required as to ordinary passengers.[86]

While, under certain circumstances, it may be the duty of the carrier's employees to observe a passenger's condition,[87] according to some cases, there is no obligation to anticipate disabilities nor to be on the lookout for them,[88] as, for example, in determining the necessity for assisting a passenger to board or alight from the vehicle of carriage, considered below in § 727. Notwithstanding the employees of the carrier have no knowledge or reason to believe that a passenger is incapacitated at the time he is received as a passenger, the carrier owes such passenger a duty to exercise such care as may reasonably be necessary for the passenger's safety where knowledge of his condition is acquired after he becomes a passenger.[89]

While a railroad company is not bound to accept for transportation without an attendant one who because of physical or mental disability is unable to take care of himself, as shown above in § 538, yet, if its employees voluntarily accept such a person, unattended, they should render to him such special care and assistance as his condition requires in order that he may safely be transported,[90] especially where the employee in charge of the train agrees to take care of such person,[91] or, at least, where a duly authorized employee of the carrier contracts specially to carry such a person.[92] Notwithstanding the employees of the carrier have no knowledge or reason to believe that a passenger is under mental disability when he is received as a passenger without an attendant, the carrier owes to such passenger a duty to exercise due care for his safety after his condition is discovered.[93] The carrier must bestow on a passenger who is mentally deranged and who has no attendant any special care and attention, in addition to that given to an ordinary passenger, which reasonable prudence and foresight demand for such passenger's safety, considering the conduct and disposition of mind manifested by the passenger or any conduct or disposition which might reasonably be anticipated from one in his mental condition; the additional care in such case is, however, measured by the knowledge of the passenger's condition which the carrier has or should obtain by observation, and no added duty is imposed where the carrier has no notice of such condition and it is not observable.[94]

Del.—Clayton v. Philadelphia, B. & W. R. Co, 106 A. 577, 7 Boyce 343.
Pa.—Schmuck v. Heilman, 14 Pa. Dist & Co. 449.
Tex.—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Hitt, Civ.App., 60 S.W.2d 864.
10 C.J. p 898 note 24.

Reasonable care in view of condition
Duty of carrier to disabled passenger, who has to be assisted upon train, and of whose disability carrier has knowledge, is that of care reasonably necessary for passenger's safety, in view of his condition.—Carroll v. St. Paul Union Depot Co., 204 N.W. 470, 164 Minn. 28.

85. Mich.—Tozer v. Michigan Cent. R. Co, 162 N.W. 280, 195 Mich. 662

Condition of passenger
Care commensurate with the responsibility assumed as to a sick, aged, or otherwise infirm passenger is such care as is reasonably necessary to protect him in view of his condition.—Steketee v. Waters, 159 N.W. 368, 193 Mich. 177.

86. Del.—Clayton v. Philadelphia, B. & W. R. Co, 106 A. 577, 7 Boyce 343.
Ky.—Casteel v. American Airways, 88 S.W.2d 976, 261 Ky. 818.
N.C.—Harrison v. Norfolk-Southern R. Co, 113 S.E. 678, 181 N.C. 86.
Okl.—Dickinson v. Bryant, 172 P. 432, 69 Okl. 297, L.R.A.1918E 978—St. Louis & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Dobyns, 157 P. 735, 57 Okl. 643.
Pa.—Jameitis v. Wilkes-Barre Ry. Co., 121 A. 317, 277 Pa. 437—Kradel v. Pittsburgh, H. B. & N. C. Ry. Co., 100 A. 128, 255 Pa. 427.
10 C.J. p 898 notes 24, 27 [a] (2).

87. S.C.—Brackett v. Southern R. Co., 70 S.E. 1026, 88 S.C. 447, Ann. Cas.1912C 1212.
10 C.J. p 898 notes 25, 22 [a].

88. Ala.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Hayne, 95 So. 879, 209 Ala. 186.
10 C.J. p 898 note 24 [a] (2).

89. Tex.—Stewart v. Houston & T. C. Ry. Co., Civ.App., 229 S.W. 577

Mental incapacity
The rule stated in the text has been applied or recognized in respect of a passenger whose mind was deranged.—Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Sears, Tex.Com.App., 210 S.W. 684, reversing, Civ.App., 155 S.W. 1003—Stewart v. Houston & T. C. R. Co., Tex.Civ.App., 229 S.W. 577.

90. Tex.—Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Sears, Com.App., 210 S.W. 684, reversing, Civ.App., 155 S.W. 1003.
10 C.J. p 898 note 27.

91. Ark.—Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. Littleton, 5 S.W.2d 930, 177 Ark. 199, 59 A.L.R. 936.

92. Miss.—Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. O'Keefe, 88 So. 1, 125 Miss. 536.

Care required under circumstances
A railroad company has power to contract specially to carry sick or incompetent persons who are unattended, and, if it makes such contract through a duly authorized employee and carries such persons, it owes them such reasonable care and attention as the circumstances call for.—Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. O'Keefe, 88 So. 1, 125 Miss. 536.

93. Tex.—Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Sears, Com.App., 210 S.W. 684, reversing, Civ.App., 155 S.W. 1003—Stewart v. Houston & T. C. R. Co, Civ.App., 229 S.W. 577.

94. Tex.—Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Sears, Com.App., 210 S.W. 684, reversing, Civ.App., 155 S.W. 1003.

Leaving train while in motion and subsequent injury
Where the only information possessed by trainmen of passenger's abnormal mental condition was that he was laboring under a delusion that some one wanted to kill or rob him, and passenger was otherwise apparently sane, there being nothing in his manner to indicate that he was dangerous to other passengers or that he was likely to injure himself, trainmen could not anticipate that he would leave train while it was in motion or that he would thereafter voluntarily injure himself.—Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co v. Sears, Tex.Com.App., 210 S.W. 684, reversing, Civ.App., 155 S.W. 1003.

According to some cases, where a passenger who is physically or mentally disabled is attended by another person who is apparently capable of rendering the necessary assistance, the carrier is not under the duty to pay special attention to such passenger,[95] and, where an insane person has his own attendant and the carrier does not contract to carry such person unattended, the carrier is not liable for an injury to such person resulting from his acts which are not anticipated by the carrier's employees.[96] It has been held, however, that, even where an insane passenger is accompanied by an attendant, the carrier, through its employees, is not entitled to rely entirely on such attendant to protect such passenger from injury where such employees have notice of the passenger's condition and have promised to render assistance;[97] in such case it is the duty of such employees to use the highest degree of diligence which a reasonably prudent man would use, consistent with the proper operation of the train, to prevent such passenger from jumping from the train.[98]

Children. In respect of a passenger who is a minor, the carrier is bound to exercise a high degree of care,[99] and, as to a young child, it has been asserted that the carrier owes the highest practical degree of care on the part of its employees in carrying out the contract of carriage,[1] and that the age of such child is a factor which must be considered in the measurement of such care.[2] A high degree of care in view of the circumstances is required in respect of a child of tender years,[3] and it has been held or recognized that greater care is required as to such a child than is necessary as to adults.[4]

The care to be exercised toward a young child who is traveling alone must be proportioned to the degree of danger inherent in his youth and inexperience.[5] and a carrier that specially contracts, through a duly authorized employee, to carry a child of tender years who is unattended owes the duty to such child of such reasonable care and attention as the circumstances call for, and is liable for its neglect of such duty.[6]

In respect of a child of tender years, it has been held or recognized that the primary duty of caring for such child is on the parents or their representative who has the immediate custody of such child,[7] and that, where such child is in the care of his parent, the carrier, through its employees, has the right to rely on the presumption that the parent will take such care of the child as the natural love of the parent would prompt him or her to exercise under the circumstances.[8] Where, however, the carrier's employees who are engaged in the operation of its train know, or, in the exercise of reasonable care and diligence, should know, that such child is or will be exposed to danger or injuries by acts or negligence of the carrier's employees, the carrier is not entitled to act on such presumption and is under the duty to use all reasonable and practicable care and diligence to avoid the danger and avert the injury.[9]

While a carrier is not required to construct or operate its cars for the purpose of carrying unruly children, where it elects to take such a child as a passenger on its car, it is bound to use reasonably adequate care for his protection or else to eject him, notwithstanding such child is in charge of a nurse or attendant.[10]

95. La.—Gates v. Bisso Ferry Co., App., 172 So. 829.

96. Miss.—Boyd v. Alabama & V. Ry. Co., 71 So. 164, 111 Miss. 12, suggestion of error denied 71 So. 655.
10 C.J. p. 898 note 27 [e] (2).

97. Ark.—Pittman v. Hines, 221 S.W. 474, 144 Ark. 133.

98. Ark.—Pittman v. Hines, supra.

99. N.J.—Heinige v. Little Ferry Bus Line, 171 A. 135, 12 N.J.Misc. 213.

1. U.S.—Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co. v. Harrelson, C.C.A.Mo., 14 F.2d 893.

2. U.S.—Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co. v. Harrelson, supra.

3. Ohio.—Morris v. Cincinnati Traction Co., 20 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 607.

Infant in arms

High decree of care due passengers inures to baby carried by woman passenger.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Lawson, 114 So. 290, 217 Ala. 1, 55 A.L.R. 385, reversing 114 So. 288, 22 Ala.App. 180.

4. Neb.—Kruger v. Omaha St. R. Co., 114 N.W. 571, 80 Neb. 490, 127 Am.S.R. 786, 17 L.R.A.,N.S., 101.
10 C.J. p. 898 note 23.

Corpus Juris has been cited with approval in Brizzolari v. Market St. Ry. Co., 46 P.2d 783, 784, 7 Cal.App.2d 246.

5. Conn.—Roden v. Connecticut Co., 155 A. 721, 113 Conn. 408.

6. Miss.—Yazoo & M.V.R. Co. v. O'Keefe, 88 So. 1, 125 Miss. 536.

7. N.Y.—Longacre v. Yonkers R. Co., 182 N.Y.S. 373, 191 App.Div. 770.

8. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Rexroad, 26 S.W. 1037, 59 Ark. 180.

9. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Rexroad, supra.
10 C.J. p. 898 note 23 [b].

10. N.Y.—Longacre v. Yonkers R. Co., 140 N.E. 215, 236 N.Y. 119, 38 A.L.R. 1030, modifying 194 N.Y.S. 952, 202 App.Div. 345.

Methods of protection

(1) It has been held that, in view of the fact that the primary duty of care for children is on parents or nurse, motorman and conductor were not under absolute obligation to close and latch doors of car to prevent children who were accompanied by a nurse from running onto platform.—Longacre v. Yonkers R. Co., 182 N.Y.S. 373, 191 App.Div. 770.

(2) On a subsequent appeal in the same case it was held that, in view of the mischievous disposition which the children had displayed in running onto the platform, it might have been foreseen that they would fall or jump from the platform, and that, while the carrier, through its employees, was not bound to take

Intoxicated passenger. The mere fact that a passenger is drinking, or is under the influence of liquor, is not necessarily enough to require the carrier's employees to give him any more care than they give to other passengers.[11] The test in determining liability in such case is whether or not the carrier's employees were wanting in prudence, and liability depends on the facts of the particular case.[12] The fact that the passenger is intoxicated does not relieve the carrier of the performance of its duties to the passenger as such,[13] and, where a carrier receives as a passenger a person who is known to its employees to be partially or entirely helpless on account of intoxication, it is bound to exercise such care and assistance as his condition reasonably requires for his safety[14] and to bestow on him such special care and attention beyond that given to an ordinary passenger as are reasonably required,[15] even though the passenger's intoxication is in violation of a statute.[16] In general the care which must be exercised depends on the known condition of the passenger and the situation as a whole,[17] and the rule requiring special care as to an intoxicated passenger applies only where the passenger's intoxicated condition is known, or by proper diligence could have been known, to the carrier's employees,[18] if the fact of such a state of intoxication is unknown to the employees, or they are not chargeable with knowledge thereof, it will not cast any burden of care on them additional to that due to ordinary, sober passengers.[19] According to some cases, in order to impose on the carrier the duty to exercise greater care than that required as to an ordinary passenger, it must appear that the carrier had knowledge of the condition of an intoxicated passenger, not merely that the carrier should have known, or could by care have learned, of such condition.[20] In any event the employees of the carrier need not exercise more than ordinary care to discover whether or not a passenger is in-the particular step of closing the vestibule doors, nor the doors leading to platform, nor of forcing the children back into the car, nor of ejecting them, the carrier failed to exercise due care in not taking any of such steps—Longacre v. Yonkers R. Co., 140 N.E. 215, 236 N.Y. 119, 28 A.L.R. 1030, modifying 194 N.Y.S. 952, 202 App.Div. 845

11. Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Mudd's Adm'x, 191 S.W. 102, 173 Ky. 330.
La.—Gates v. Bisso Ferry Co., App., 172 So. 829.
Tenn.—Bowers v. Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry., 7 Tenn.Civ.A. 473.
10 C.J. p. 899 note 28

12. La.—Gates v. Bisso Ferry Co., App., 172 So. 829.

13. Ill.—Burke v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 108 Ill.App. 565.
Ky.—Cincinnati, N. O. & T. P. Ry. Co. v. Francis, 220 S.W. 739, 187 Ky. 703
N.Y.—Fagan v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 115 N.E. 704, 220 N.Y. 301, L.R.A.1917E 663, reversing 155 N.Y.S. 609, 170 App.Div. 47.
10 C.J. p. 899 note 29.

14. Ill.—Burke v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 108 Ill.App. 565.
Md.—Veenstra v. United Rys. & Electric Co. of Baltimore, 129 A. 678, 148 Md. 512
N.Y.—Fardette v. New York & S. Ry. Co., 180 N.Y.S. 179, 190 App.Div. 543.
Pa.—Schmuck v. Heilman, 14 Pa.Dist. & Co. 449.
10 C.J. p. 899 note 29.

Position of danger

The carrier may be liable where, after a passenger is received with knowledge on the part of an employee of the carrier that the passenger is intoxicated, the latter is permitted to remain in a position where it may be foreseen that he may be injured.—Gates v. Bisso Ferry Co., La.App., 172 So. 829

Removal from one coach to another

Where an intoxicated passenger is disorderly, insulting, and offensive to other passengers, the conductor, instead of stopping the train and ejecting the offending passenger, may, in the exercise of ordinary care for the latter's safety, require him to remove to another coach where his conduct may not be offensive or objectionable to the passengers riding therein.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Phelps' Adm'r, 205 S.W. 793, 181 Ky. 689.

15. N.Y.—Fagan v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 115 N.E. 704, 220 N.Y. 301, L.R.A.1917E 663, reversing 155 N.Y.S. 609, 170 App.Div. 47
Pa.—Kradel v. Pittsburgh, H., B. & N. C. Ry. Co., 100 A. 128, 255 Pa. 427.
10 C.J. p. 899 note 29.

Riding on platform

The conductor of a street railroad company may fail in the exercise of due care where he permits an intoxicated passenger to ride on the platform and the conductor has knowledge of, or should have, observed, the condition of the passenger.—Jameitis v. Wilkes-Barre Ry. Co., 121 A. 317, 277 Pa. 437.

16. N.H.—Wheeler v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 50 A. 103, 70 N.H. 607, 54 L.R.A. 955.

17. Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Phelps' Adm'r, 205 S.W. 793, 181 Ky. 689.
N.Y.—Fagan v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 115 N.E. 704, 220 N.Y. 301, L.R.A.1917E 663, reversing 155 N.Y.S. 609, 170 App.Div. 47—Fardette v. New York & S. R. Co., 180 N.Y.S. 179, 190 App.Div. 543.

Care commensurate with condition

A carrier owes to an intoxicated passenger a duty commensurate with the passenger's condition.—Fagerdahl v. North Coast Transp. Co., 35 P.2d 46, 178 Wash. 482, modifying 28 P.2d 107, 175 Wash. 690.

Incapacity as element in determining care required

Where an intoxicated person is accepted as a passenger with knowledge that he is incapable of taking care of himself, that fact is an element in determining the care which is required.—Ingerson v. Grand Trunk Ry., 106 A. 488, 79 N.H. 154

18. Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Mudd's Adm'x, 191 S.W. 102, 173 Ky. 330.
10 C.J. p. 899 note 29, p. 900 note 31

Imputed knowledge

That an employee of a railroad company, who was not a member of the crew of the passenger train from which decedent got off, and was not then on duty, and did not know that decedent got off the train, saw him walking on the company's tracks in a drunken condition would not make the company liable for running over decedent.—Pinson v. Southern R. Co., 67 S.E. 464, 85 S.C. 355.

19. Wash.—Welsh v. Spokane, etc., R. Co., 157 P. 679, 91 Wash. 260.
10 C.J. p. 900 note 32.

20. N.H.—Ingerson v. Grand Trunk Ry., 106 A. 488, 79 N.H. 154.

toxicated [21]

It has been held that the employees of a carrier are not chargeable with negligence merely because they permit a helplessly intoxicated passenger to depart on reaching his destination by train, in the absence of knowledge on their part of his ultimate destination and means of reaching it,[22] but, according to some cases, a carrier may be liable where its employees permit an intoxicated passenger to leave its vehicle of carriage, or put him off, at a place which is dangerous in view of his condition, without taking due care for his safety;[23] and it has been held that in such case a carrier owes to its passenger the highest degree of care consistent with the practical operation of its railroad [24]

b. Becoming Ill or Incapacitated during Transit

A carrier, through its employees, owes to a passenger who becomes ill or incapacitated during transit the duty to give him such care and attention as are reasonably practicable under the circumstances and consistent with other duties of the carrier, where it has knowledge of the passenger's condition or is chargeable with such knowledge.

Where a passenger becomes ill or incapacitated during transit, and such fact is known to the employees of the carrier, or it is so apparent that they are charged with knowledge of it, it is their duty to give him such care and protection, beyond that demanded under ordinary circumstances, as are reasonably practicable with the facilities at hand and consistent with the safe and proper conduct of the business and the carrier's duties to other passengers,[25] or, as sometimes stated, it is the carrier's duty to exercise a high degree of care to protect the passenger from the dangers incident to the surroundings and mode of travel.[26] Where an unat-

21. Ky.—Louisville & N R Co v Mudd's Adm'x, 191 S.W. 102 173 Ky. 330—Louisville, etc., R Co. v Gregory, 133 S.W. 805, 141 Ky. 747, 35 L.R.A.,N.S., 317

22. N H—Ingerson v Grand Trunk Ry., 106 A. 488, 79 N H 154.

Authority to place passenger in custody of officer

The fact that trainmen were authorized, but not required, by statute to place an intoxicated passenger in the custody of an officer did not prevent the application of the rule stated in the text.—Ingerson v Grand Trunk Ry., 106 A. 488, 79 N H. 154.

Injury after leaving train

Where an intoxicated passenger so demeaned himself as to justify his ejection, and on reaching his destination in the nighttime left the train, and his body was found on the track under such circumstances as to show injury by another train which passed during the night, the railroad company, being under no obligation to guard the passenger through the night, was not liable.—Nash v. Southern Ry. Co., 33 So. 932, 136 Ala. 177, 96 Am.S.R. 19.

23. Ill—Panor v. Northwestern Elevated R. Co., 228 Ill.App. 162
Wash—Sullivan v Seattle Electric Co., 86 P. 786, 44 Wash 53
10 C.J. p 898 note 27 [c].

Abandonment in known place of danger

Where a passenger is, through intoxication, so bereft of reason that he is incapable of caring for himself, and, while in that condition, the carrier, through its employees, permits him to leave its train and abandons him in a known place of danger where injury is likely to result, there is negligence for which the carrier may be liable.—O'Rourke v. Louisville & N. R Co, 197 Ill.App 45, 183 Ill.App 593

Protection in departing from train and leaving premises

Where a railroad company did not exercise its right to eject, but accepted and undertook to transport to the destination shown by his ticket an intoxicated passenger who had a ticket to a station at which the train was not scheduled to stop, it was under a general duty to stop at such station for a time reasonably sufficient to enable such passenger to alight at a place where he could, using reasonable care, alight safely and pass by a way reasonably apparent, accessible, and safe to the depot, or at a designated and proper place, and thence from the property of the company, or, in the absence of such a way, to take reasonable and proper precautions to protect him and make safe his passing from the place of alighting to the depot or an appointed exit from its property—Fagan v Atlantic Coast Line R. Co, 115 N.E. 704, 220 N.Y. 301, L.R.A.1917E 663, reversing 155 N.Y.S. 609, 170 App.Div. 47.

24. Ill—Panor v. Northwestern Elevated R. Co, 228 Ill.App 162.

25. Ga.—Central of Georgia R. Co., 69 S.E. 165, 135 Ga. 205, 31 L.R.A., N.S., 813, 21 Ann.Cas. 1077.
Ky—Casteel v. American Airways, 88 S.W.2d 976, 261 Ky. 818
La—Searcy v Interurban Transp. Co., 179 So. 75, 189 La. 183, reversing, App., 179 So 93, reversing 171 So. 468.
10 C.J. p 900 note 34.

Consideration and care

Where a passenger becomes ill while en route, no matter how free the carrier may be of any fault, the carrier owes the passenger the consideration and care suggested by the dictates of common humanity—Hughes v Gregory Bus Lines, 128 So 96, 157 Miss 374.

Mistake as to cause of passenger's condition

(1) Where the death of a person who had been a passenger on a street car followed a cerebral hemorrhage which he had suffered while he was a passenger, and it was shown that the employees of the street railroad company had permitted such person to continue to ride for several hours without obtaining medical assistance, it was held that the company's duty to such person was not excused nor lessened because its servants assumed honestly, but without investigation, that such person was drunk, and that the case turned, not on what the employees assumed or thought, but on what they should, in the exercise of reasonable prudence, have done in the light of the facts brought to their notice.—Middleton v. Whitridge, 108 N.E. 192, 213 N.Y. 499, Ann.Cas 1916C 856, reversing 141 N.Y.S 104, 156 App.Div. 154—Middleton v. Third Ave. Ry Co., 182 N.Y.S. 598, 192 App.Div. 172.

(2) A bus company, whose employees carried a passenger who had suffered an apoplectic stroke while riding on bus into station without summoning medical aid, was liable for passenger's pain and suffering, notwithstanding employees' good faith but erroneous assumption that passenger was intoxicated.—Searcy v. Interurban Transp Co., 179 So. 75, 189 La. 183, reversing, App., 179 So. 93, reversing 171 So. 468.

26. Tex.—Stewart v. Houston & T. C. Ry. Co., Civ.App., 229 S.W. 577, error refused.

Mental incapacity

Where a passenger, after being tended passenger, after starting on a journey, becomes sick, and unconscious or insane, it may become the duty of the carrier to remove him and leave him in competent hands so that he may receive proper care and attention[27] until he is in a fit condition to resume his journey, or until he shall obtain the assistance necessary to take care of him to the end of his journey.[28]

§ 695. Protection against Injuries from Fellow Passengers

a. In general
b. Particular acts, and acts of particular types, of fellow passengers

a. In General

A carrier is under the duty to use due care to protect its passengers from the torts or misconduct of fellow passengers and is liable for failure to comply with such duty.

The rule stated in Corpus Juris, quoted and cited with approval,[29] is that while a carrier is perhaps not bound to protect its passengers from injuries by third persons to the same extent and degree as from like injuries by its own, or its agents' or employees', acts or omissions,[30] yet it is the duty of a carrier, through its employees, to exercise great care and vigilance in preserving order and in guarding passengers from annoyance, violence, insult, or other misconduct threatened by fellow passengers,[31] at least where the passenger is on a vehicle of carriage and the misconduct of a fellow passenger is actually foreseen;[32] and where the carrier, through its agents or employees, knows, or has opportunity to know, of a threatened injury by a fellow passenger, or might reasonably anticipate the happening of such an injury, and fails or neglects to take the proper precautions or to use proper means to prevent or mitigate such injury, it is liable therefor.[33] received as such, to the knowledge of the carrier becomes unable to care for himself by reason of mental incapacity, it is the carrier's duty to exercise a high degree of care to protect the passenger from dangers incident to his surroundings and mode of travel.—Stewart v. Houston & T. C. Ry. Co., Tex.Civ.App., 229 S.W. 577, error refused.

27. N.Y.—Middleton v. Whitridge, 108 N.E. 192, 213 N.Y. 499, Ann.Cas.1916C 856, reversing 141 N.Y.S. 104, 156 App.Div. 154—Middleton v. Third Ave. Ry. Co., 182 N.Y.S. 598, 192 App.Div. 172.
10 C.J. p. 900 note 35.

28. Ky.—Casteel v. American Airways, 88 S.W.2d 976, 261 Ky. 818
10 C.J. p. 900 note 35.

29. Cal.—Schwerin v. H. C. Capwell Co., 34 P.2d 1050, 1051, 140 Cal.App. 1.
D.C.—Washington Ry. & Electric Co. v. Perry, 47 App.D.C. 90, 97
Ky.—Louisville & I. R. Co. v. Garr, 273 S.W. 540, 542, 209 Ky. 841—Hatfield v. Payne, 242 S.W. 32, 34, 195 Ky. 310.
N.J.—Frazier v. Public Service Ry. Co., 116 A. 769, 770, 97 N.J.Law 37.
N.Y.—King v. Interborough Rapid Transit Co., 188 N.Y.S. 700, 708, 197 App.Div. 15, dissenting opinion, modified 135 N.E. 519, 233 N.Y. 330.
N.C.—Pride v. Piedmont & N. Ry. Co., 97 S.E. 418, 176 N.C. 694.
Pa.—Wood v. Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co., 104 A. 69, 71, 260 Pa. 481, L.R.A.1918F 817.
W.Va.—Thompson v. Monongahela Ry. Co., 128 S.E. 110, 113, 99 W.Va. 207, 42 A.L.R. 159.

30. Mich.—Takacs v. Detroit United Ry., 207 N.W. 907, 234 Mich. 42.
10 C.J. p. 900 note 37.

31. Ark.—Arkansas Power & Light Co. v. Steinheil, 80 S.W.2d 921, 190 Ark. 470.
Mass.—Savickas v. Boston Elevated Ry. Co. 132 N.E. 29, 239 Mass. 226—Langley v. Boston Elevated Ry. Co., 112 N.E. 79, 223 Mass. 492.
Mo.—Abernathy v. Missouri Pac. Ry. Co., App., 217 S.W. 568.
N.J.—Spalt v. Eaton, 192 A. 576, 118 N.J.Law 327.
Tex.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Baker, Com.App., 215 S.W. 556, reversing, Civ.App., 184 S.W. 664.
Va.—Virginia Ry. & Power Co. v. Hubbard, 91 S.E. 618, 120 Va. 664
10 C.J. p. 900 note 38.

Violation of rules by passenger

An inference of a carrier's negligence may be drawn from disobedience to rules of conduct by a passenger resulting in an injury to another passenger if the carrier is negligent in enforcing such rules. The mere fact that a carrier had promulgated rules as to carrying newspapers on its trains did not show the exercise of sufficient care as to a passenger on a station platform who was injured by being struck by a bundle of newspapers thrown from a train by another passenger, even in the absence of evidence showing habitual disregard of the rules. The carrier was bound to exercise reasonable care to prevent the violation of such rules.—King v. Interborough Rapid Transit Co., 135 N.E. 519, 233 N.Y. 330, modifying 188 N.Y.S. 700, 197 App.Div. 15

Duty to exercise authority

The employees in charge of a train have authority to exercise a reasonable control over passengers and should properly exercise such authority in order to protect passengers.—Gerlach v. Pittsburgh Rys. Co., 94 Pa.Super. 121

32. Ala.—Tomme v. Pullman Co., 93 So. 462, 207 Ala. 511.

33. Ala.—Ex parte Alabama Great Southern R. Co., 86 So. 100, 204 Ala. 504, granting certiorari on other grounds Alabama Great Southern R. Co. v. Hunt, 86 So. 97, 17 Ala.App. 566.
Ark.—Arkansas Power & Light Co. v. Steinheil, 80 S.W.2d 921, 190 Ark. 470
D.C.—Washington Ry. & Electric Co. v. Perry, 47 App.D.C. 90.
Ga.—Yellow Cab Co. of Atlanta v. Carmichael, 126 S.E. 269, 33 Ga.App. 364
Ky.—Louisville & I. R. Co. v. Garr, 273 S.W. 540, 209 Ky. 84—Payne v. Combs, 249 S.W. 1031, 198 Ky. 749—Payne v. Moore, 244 S.W. 869, 196 Ky. 454—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Bennett, 209 S.W. 358, 183 Ky. 445
Mo.—Lige v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 204 S.W. 508, 275 Mo. 249, L.R.A. 1918F 548.
N.J.—Falzarano v. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co., 194 A. 75, 19 N.J.Law 76—Frazier v. Public Service Ry. Co., 116 A. 769, 97 N.J.Law 37—Skillen v. West Jersey & S. R. Co., 115 A. 372, 96 N.J.Law 492.
N.C.—Pride v. Piedmont & N. Ry. Co., 97 S.E. 418, 176 N.C. 594—Mills v. Atlantic Coast Line R. R., 90 S.E. 221, 172 N.C. 266.
10 C.J. p. 901 note 39.

Want of formal request for protection

The mere fact that the injured passenger did not make a formal request for protection did not relieve the carrier of liability where its conductor participated in the oc-

This duty may involve the coöperation of the employees of the carrier and the invoking of the assistance of other passengers in removing a disorderly passenger from the train.[34]

The liability of a carrier for injury to a passenger by the tort or misconduct of a fellow passenger is based on the failure of the carrier, through its employees, to prevent such tort or misconduct, and not imposed on the ground that the carrier is liable for the tort of the fellow passenger under the principle of respondeat superior.[35] It follows that the liability of the carrier arises not alone from the fact that the passenger has been injured, but from the failure of its agents or servants to afford him proper protection, and hence unless such agents or servants know or ought to know that danger from fellow passengers exists or is reasonably to be apprehended, and can, by the use of proper care, prevent the injury, the carrier is not liable.[36] Thus the carrier is not liable where the injury is caused by acts of a fellow passenger, which its agents or employees had no reason to apprehend, and which they could not, by the exercise of proper care, prevent.[37] It has been stated broadly that a carrier is required to interfere with the voluntary acts of passengers only where such acts constitute a breach of the peace or are such as to suggest a reasonable probability that injury will result to others.[38]

In accordance with the general rule as to a carrier's obligation, stated above in § 676, a carrier is currence in which the injury was sustained, and assumed a hostile attitude toward such passenger—Alabama Great Southern R. Co. v. Hunt, 86 So. 97, 17 Ala.App. 566, certiorari granted on other grounds Ex parte Alabama Great Southern R. Co., 86 So. 100, 204 Ala. 504.

34. N.J.—Spalt v. Eaton, 192 A. 576, 118 N.J.Law 327—Frazier v. Public Service Ry. Co., 116 A. 769, 97 N.J.Law 37.
Pa.—Gerlach v. Pittsburgh Rys. Co., 94 Pa.Super. 121.
10 C.J. p. 901 note 40.

35. Ark.—Arkansas Power & Light Co. v. Steinheil, 80 S.W.2d 921, 190 Ark. 470.
Ky.—Hatfield v. Payne, 242 S.W. 32, 195 Ky. 310.
Me.—Chaput v. Lussier, 165 A. 573, 132 Me. 48.
Md.—Pugh v. Washington Ry. & Electric Co., 113 A. 732, 138 Md. 226.
Mich.—Takacs v. Detroit United Ry. Co., 207 N.W. 907, 234 Mich. 42.
N.J.—Hoff v. Public Service Ry. Co., 101 A. 404, 90 N.J.Law 336, reversed on others grounds 103 A. 209, 91 N.J.Law 641, 15 A.L.R. 860.
Pa.—Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Hinds, 53 Pa. 512, 91 Am.D. 224.
W.Va.—Thompson v. Monongahela Ry. Co., 128 S.E. 110, 99 W.Va. 207, 42 A.L.R. 159.
10 C.J. p. 901 note 41.

36. Ala.—Tomme v. Pullman Co., 93 So. 462, 207 Ala. 511.
Ark.—Arkansas Power & Light Co. v. Steinheil, 80 S.W.2d 921, 190 Ark. 470.
Cal.—Schwerin v. H. C. Capwell Co., 34 P.2d 1050, 140 Cal.App. 1.
Fla.—Hall v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 93 So. 151, 84 Fla. 9.
Ky.—Hatfield v. Payne, 242 S.W. 32, 195 Ky. 310.
Md.—Pugh v. Washington Ry. & Electric Co., 113 A. 732, 138 Md. 226.
Mass.—Pearson v. Payne, 139 N.E. 488, 245 Mass. 158.
Mich.—Takacs v. Detroit United Ry., 207 N.W. 907, 234 Mich. 42.
N.J.—Hoff v. Public Service Ry. Co., 101 A. 404, 90 N.J.Law 336, reversed on other grounds 103 A. 209, 91 N.J.Law 641, 15 A.L.R. 860.
Pa.—Wood v. Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co., 104 A. 69, 260 Pa. 481, L.R.A.1918F 817.
Tex.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Baker, Com.App., 215 S.W. 556, reversing, Civ.App., 184 S.W. 664.
W.Va.—Thompson v. Monongahela Ry. Co., 128 S.E. 110, 99 W.Va. 207, 42 A.L.R. 159.
10 C.J. p. 901 note 41, p. 902 note 42.

Opportunity to prevent injury

Knowledge or opportunity for knowledge must have been acquired or have existed for a period of time sufficient to permit the taking of steps for the protection of passengers.—River Excursion Co. v. Kuntz, 51 S.W.2d 911, 244 Ky. 587.

37. Ark.—Arkansas Power & Light Co. v. Steinheil, 80 S.W.2d 921, 190 Ark. 470.
Fla.—Hall v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 93 So. 151, 84 Fla. 9.
Ky.—River Excursion Co. v. Kuntz, 51 S.W.2d 911, 244 Ky. 587.
Mass.—Eaton v. New York, N. H. & H. R. R., 116 N.E. 815, 227 Mass. 113.
Mich.—Takacs v. Detroit United Ry., 207 N.W. 907, 234 Mich. 42.
Mo.—Lige v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 204 S.W. 508, 275 Mo. 249, L.R.A. 1918F 548—Liljegren v. United Rys. Co. of St. Louis, App., 227 S.W. 925.
N.C.—Pride v. Piedmont & N. Ry. Co., 97 S.E. 418, 176 N.C. 594—Mills v. Atlantic Coast Line R. R. Co., 90 S.E. 221, 172 N.C. 266.
W.Va.—Slaven v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 171 S.E. 818, 114 W.Va. 315.
10 C.J. p. 902 note 43.

Careless or wanton act in railroad station

Carrier is not in general liable for passenger's injuries sustained in railroad station through careless or wanton act of fellow passenger, unless such act should have been reasonably anticipated—Seckler v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 174 A. 501, 113 N.J.Law 299.

Slamming door of taxicab

(1) A taxicab passenger who had put her hand on metal upright post between front and rear doors in alighting could not recover from taxicab owner in negligence action for injuries to her fingers sustained when another passenger who had alighted before her slammed door, since the law imposes no duty on driver to anticipate such an unusual happening.—Vogel v. Laiso, 300 N.Y.S. 180.

(2) Where a passenger, who put her hand in the door jamb of a taxicab to assist herself in rising to alight, sustained injuries when passenger who alighted ahead of her slammed the door, taxicab driver was not liable for injuries where passenger who had slammed door was not driver's agent and accident was an event which driver could not anticipate.—Intriligator v. Goldberg, Mass., 12 N.E.2d 730.

38. Pa.—Wood v. Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co., 104 A. 69, 260 Pa. 481, L.R.A.1918F 817.

Passenger carrying bulky objects

(1) Street cars being for the use of people with or without their luggage, negligence cannot be inferred because a workman is permitted to enter or leave carrying tools, or implements of his trade, such as an iron pipe.—Wood v. Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co., 104 A. 69, 260 Pa. 481, L.R.A.1918F 817.

(2) In action for personal injury to passenger while entering trolley car from being struck by an iron pipe which a passenger leaving the car was carrying, it was held that there was no negligence on the part of the carrier.—Wood v. Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co., supra.

not an insurer or guarantor of the entire immunity of a passenger from injury resulting from the acts or misconduct of fellow passengers.[39] The extent or degree of the obligation or duty in this regard imposed on the carrier has variously been characterized or described as the obligation or duty to use or exercise the utmost care,[40] the utmost vigilance,[41] the utmost vigilance and care,[42] the utmost vigilance and foresight,[43] the highest degree of care,[44] the highest practical degree of care,[45] the utmost practicable care,[46] the highest degree of care and diligence,[47] the highest practicable degree of care and diligence,[48] the highest degree of care consistent with the business,[49] and the utmost care and diligence consistent with the proper management of the carrier's business.[50] According to some cases, however, the degree of care required varies with time and place, a high degree of care being required while the passenger is on the vehicle of carriage and only ordinary care while the passenger is waiting at the carrier's station.[51] While the view has been expressed that the responsible employees of the carrier must use the highest degree of care, consistent with the business, to ascertain the danger,[52] it has been held or recognized that only ordinary care and prudence are in general required in foreseeing or anticipating the torts or misconduct of fellow passengers,[53] and that the rule that it is the duty of a carrier to use the highest degree of care to protect a passenger from wrong or injury by a fellow passenger applies only when the carrier has knowledge of the existence of the danger or of facts or circumstances from which the danger may reasonably be anticipated.[54] It has been held that the general rule that a carrier must exercise the highest degree of care for the personal safety of passengers consistent with the nature of the contract of carriage, with relation to the carrier's or its servants' acts or omissions, does not necessarily measure the duty and liability of the carrier in respect of torts or misconduct of fellow passengers.[55]

b. Particular Acts, and Acts of Particular Types, of Fellow Passengers

As a general rule a carrier is not liable to a passenger resulting from the wrongful and unauthorized interference by a fellow passenger with the appliances on the vehicle of carriage. Whether or not a carrier is liable for injuries to a passenger resulting from assaults, improper language, and the like, on the part of a fellow passenger, or from the acts or conduct of an intoxicated or insane passenger depends in general on whether or not the employees of the carrier had knowledge of, or could reasonably have anticipated, the acts or conduct of the fellow passenger, and could, with the exercise of due care, have prevented the resultant injury.

In general a carrier is not liable for injuries caused by a fellow passenger's unanticipated act in set-

39. Ky.—Peak v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 297 S.W. 1107, 221 Ky. 97—Payne v. Moore, 244 S.W. 869, 196 Ky 454
Md—Pugh v. Washington Ry & Electric Co., 113 A. 732, 138 Md. 226.
Mich—Takacs v. Detroit United Ry., 207 N.W. 907, 234 Mich. 42.
Mo.—Lige v. Chicago, B. & Q R. Co., 204 S.W. 508, 275 Mo. 249, L. R.A.1918F 548—Liljegren v. United Rys. Co of St. Louis, App., 227 S. W 295.
N J.—Hoff v. Public Ry. Co, 103 A. 209, 91 N J.Law 641, 15 A.L R 860, reversing 101 A. 404, 90 N J Law 386
N C.—Mills v. Atlantic Coast Line R. R, 90 S.E 221, 172 N C. 266.
W Va—Thompson v Monongahela Ry Co., 128 S E. 110, 99 W.Va. 207, 42 A.L.R 159.

Use of every reasonable means
The duty of the carrier is discharged by using every reasonable means to conserve the passenger's convenience. comfort, and safety—Ex parte Alabama Great Southern R. Co, 86 So 100, 204 Ala. 504, granting certiorari Alabama Great Southern R. Co. v. Hunt, 86 So. 97, 17 Ala. App. 566.

40. Mo.—Liljegren v. United Rys. Co. of St Louis, App., 227 S W. 925.
N J—Falzarano v. Delaware, L & W. R Co, 194 A 75, 19 N J Law 76.

41. Mo—Williams v. East St Louis & S Ry Co, 232 S W. 759, 207 Mo App. 233.

42. U S.—Flint v. Norwich, etc, Transp Co, 9 F Cas.No.4,873, 34 Conn 554, 557.

43. N C.—Mills v. Atlantic Coast Line R. R, 90 S.E 221, 172 N. C 266.

44. Tex—Nevill v. Gulf, C & S. F. Ry Co., Civ App, 187 S.W. 388, reversed on other grounds, Com. App. 244 S.W 980, which is reversed on rehearing 252 S W. 483.
W.Va.—Thompson v. Monongahela Ry. Co, 128 S E. 110, 99 W Va. 207, 42 A L R 159.

45. Mo—Grubb v Kansas City Ry Co, 230 S W. 675, 207 Mo App 16—Abernathy v. Missouri Pac. Ry Co., App, 217 S W 568.

Ordinary care is not sufficient.—Grubb v. Kansas City Rys Co, 230 S.W 675, 207 Mo.App. 16.

46. Mo.—Lige v Chicago, B. & Q R Co., 204 S.W. 508, 275 Mo. 249, L.R.A.1918F 548—Spohn v. Missouri Pac R Co, 14 S W 880, 101 Mo. 417, 87 Mo 74

47. Ky—Louisville & N. R Co v Bennett, 209 S W. 358, 183 Ky 445

48. Ky—Peak v Louisville & N R Co, 297 S W 1107, 221 Ky 97—Payne v. Moore, 244 S W. 869, 196 Ky 454

49. Mo.—Lige v Chicago, B. & Q R Co, 204 S W 508, 275 Mo. 249 L.R.A 1918F 548—Liljegren v United Rys Co. of St. Louis, App, 227 S W 925

50. Mass—Langley v. Boston Elevated Ry Co, 112 N E 79, 223 Mass. 492

51. Ala.—Tomme v. Pullman Co, 93 So. 462, 207 Ala 511

52. Mo.—Lige v. Chicago, B & Q R Co, 204 S W. 508, 275 Mo 249, L.R A 1918F 548—Liljegren v. United Rys Co. of St Louis, App, 227 S W 925

53. Ala.—Tomme v Pullman Co., 93 So 462, 207 Ala. 511.
Ky—River Excursion Co. v. Kuntz, 51 S W 2d 911, 244 Ky. 587.

54. S C.—Norris v. Southern R Co Carolina Div, 65 S E. 956, 84 S.C 15.

55. Mich—Takacs v. Detroit United Ry, 207 N.W. 907, 234 Mich. 42.

ting[56] or releasing[57] brakes, or in improperly giving a signal for the car or train to start,[58] unless the employee in charge ratifies or adopts the unauthorized signal by allowing the car or train to proceed without seeing that passengers have alighted from or boarded the car in safety,[59] or unless such employee by the exercise of due care and diligence could have prevented the moving of the car or train.[60]

Injury to a passenger from the negligent handling of a firearm by a fellow passenger has been held not to impose a liability where the carrier's employees had no reason to anticipate the accident,[61] or used all available means to prevent it;[62] but the carrier is liable where its employees are careless or negligent in allowing the passenger so to handle a firearm.[63] The carrier is not liable for injuries to a passenger resulting from the ignition or explosion of inflammable or explosive material carried by a passenger, if, in the exercise of a high degree of prudence and foresight, such as would be exercised by a very cautious, prudent, and competent person under similar circumstances, the danger could not have been avoided.[64]

Assaults generally. Ordinarily it is the duty of the carrier, acting through its employees, to protect a passenger from an assault by a fellow passenger,[65] and, according to some cases, the carrier is under the duty to exercise the highest practicable degree of care and diligence in this regard,[66] the highest degree of care,[67] the utmost care,[68] or the utmost vigilance and foresight.[69] In general the carrier is liable where a passenger is assaulted by a fellow passenger and such assault could have been prevented by the carrier or its employees by the exercise of due care.[70] The carrier is not, however,

56. N.Y.—McDonnell v New York Cent., etc., R Co., 54 N.Y.S 747, 35 App Div. 147, appeal dismissed 53 N E 1127, 159 N.Y. 524.
Wash.—Anderson v. Northern Pac R Co., 152 P. 1001, 88 Wash. 139

57. Wis.—Sure v Milwaukee Electric R., etc., Co., 133 N.W. 1098, 148 Wis 1, 37 L.R.A.,N.S., 724, Ann. Cas 1913A 1074.
10 C J p 902 note 47.

58. N.C.—Pride v. Piedmont & N. Ry. Co., 97 S.E. 418, 176 N C. 594
10 C J p 903 note 48.

59. Kan.—Leavenworth Electric R. Co v. Cusick 57 P. 519, 60 Kan. 590, 72 Am S.R. 374

60. Ill.—North Chicago St. R Co. v. Cook, 33 N E. 958, 145 Ill 551
10 C.J p 903 note 50.

61. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R Co. v. McEwan, 31 S.W. 465, 17 Ky L. 406.
Tex.—Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Long, 36 S W. 485, 13 Tex.Civ.App. 664

62. Md.—Tall v. Baltimore Steam Packet Co., 44 A. 1007, 30 Md. 248, 47 L.R.A. 120
10 C.J p 903 note 52.

63. Tenn.—Nashville, etc., R. Co. v Flake, 88 S.W. 326, 114 Tenn. 671, 108 Am S R. 925.
10 C J. p 903 note 53.

64. Ky.—Clarke v Louisville, etc., R Co., 39 S W. 840, 101 Ky. 34, 49 S.W. 1120, 18 Ky.L 1082, 36 L R A 123.
10 C J. p 903 note 54.

65. Ky.—Chesapeake & O. R. Co. v. Pack, 232 S.W. 36, 192 Ky. 74.
Md.—Washington Ry. & Electric Co., 106 A. 522, 134 Md. 196
Mo.—Parris v. Deering Southwestern Ry. Co., 208 S.W. 97, 203 Mo.App. 182.
N.J.—Spalt v. Eaton, 192 A 576, 118 N.J.Law 327—Hoff v. Public Service Ry Co., 103 A. 209, 91 N J Law 641, 15 A L R. 860, reversing 101 A. 404, 90 N J Law 386
W Va.—Clark v Norfolk & W. Ry Co., 100 S E. 480, 84 W.Va 526, 7 A L.R. 117.
10 C J p 900 note 38, p 904 note 58

Ordinary care

The employees of the carrier must use at least ordinary care to protect a passenger from an assault by another passenger which could reasonably have been anticipated.—El Paso Electric Co. v. Cannon, Tex Civ. App., 69 S.W.2d 532, reversed on other grounds, Com.App., 99 S W 2d 907

66. Ky.—Peak v. Louisville & N R Co., 297 S.W. 1107, 221 Ky 97—Payne v. Moore, 244 S W. 869, 196 Ky. 454

67. Ky.—Louisville R. Co v. Dott, 171 S.W. 438, 161 Ky. 759, L.R.A. 1915C 681.
Tex.—Nevill v. Gulf C & S F. Ry Co., Civ App., 187 S W. 388, reversed on other grounds, Com.App., 244 S.W. 980, which is reversed 252 S.W 483.
Wash.—Kelly v Navy Yard Route, 137 P. 444, 77 Wash 148.

68. N.J.—Falzarano v. Delaware, L & W. R Co., 194 A. 75, 119 N.J. Law 76

69. N C.—Mills v. Atlantic Coast Line R. R., 90 S E. 221, 172 N C 266

70. Ala.—Birmingham Electric Co v Driver, 166 So. 701, 232 Ala. 36.
Ark.—Hines v. Rice, 218 S W. 851, 142 Ark 159.
Ky.—Payne v Moore, 244 S W. 869, 196 Ky. 454.
Mo.—Lige v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 204 S.W. 508, 275 Mo. 249, L. R.A.1918F 548—Koenig v. St. Louis Public Service Co., App., 45 S W.2d 896—Liljegren v United Rys Co of St Louis, App., 227 S.W 925
N.J.—Falzarano v Delaware, L. & W R Co., 194 A. 75, 119 N J Law 76.
N.Y.—Crawford v Brooklyn & Queens Transit Corporation, 3 N Y S.2d 105
Ohio.—Paal v. Cleveland Ry. Co., 11 Ohio App. 462
Pa.—Gerlach v. Pittsburgh Rys Co., 94 Pa.Super. 121
Tex.—El Paso Electric Co v. Cannon Civ App., 69 S.W.2d 532, reversed on other grounds, Com.App., 99 S.W.2d 907.
10 C.J. p 904 note 58.

Desertion of passenger by carrier's employees

A passenger, responding to the lawful call of carrier's servants to aid in ejecting an offensive or disorderly fellow passenger, does not cease thereby to be entitled to the protection against violence owing to all passengers, and if, after he has responded to the call of carrier's servants, he is injured because the latter desert him, or fail to give him all assistance reasonably in their power, the carrier is liable.—Frazier v. Public Service Ry. Co., 116 A. 769, 97 N.J Law 37.

Failure of employee in charge of train to protect passenger

A conductor or person in charge of a railway train is invested with the powers of a peace officer to protect passengers from assault by fellow passengers, and he must exercise such powers faithfully, or the carrier will be deemed guilty of negligence, and must answer for any injury inflicted by such passengers.—Hall v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 93 So. 151, 84 Fla. 9.

er, an insurer of the entire immunity of a passenger from assaults by fellow passengers.[71] The theory or basis of liability is not that the carrier is liable for the assault of the fellow passenger under the principle of respondeat superior, but that the carrier is liable for its employees' failure to prevent the assault.[72] So the carrier is not liable where its employees have exercised due care to protect the passengers from such assault,[73] or where the assault is one which could not reasonably have been anticipated by them[74] in time to prevent it;[75] in other words, the carrier is not liable unless it or its employees knew in advance of the intended assault, or should have apprehended from the surrounding circumstances and known facts, that an assault was threatened or imminent,[76] in time to prevent it.[77] A carrier is not bound under ordinary circumstances to anticipate that one passenger will

Application of statute

A statute which makes a railroad company liable for any damages done by the running of cars, or by any person in its employment or service, unless the company shows due care on the part of its agents, does not apply where a passenger injured in an affray with a fellow passenger on a train sues the railroad company for damages—Davis v. Georgia R., etc., Co., 34 S.E. 1001, 110 Ga. 305.

71. Ky.—Peak v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 297 S.W. 1107, 221 Ky. 97—Payne v. Moore, 244 S.W. 869, 196 Ky. 454—Louisville R. Co. v. Dott, 171 S.W. 438, 161 Ky. 759, L.R.A. 1915C 681.
Md.—Pugh v. Washington Ry. & Electric Co., 113 A. 732, 138 Md. 226.
N.J.—Hoff v. Public Service Ry. Co., 103 A. 209, 91 N.J.Law 641, 15 A.L.R. 860, reversing 101 A. 404, 90 N.J.Law 386.
N.C.—Mills v. Atlantic Coast Line R. R., 90 S.E. 221, 172 N.C. 266.
W.Va.—Thompson v. Monongahela Ry. Co., 128 S.E. 110, 99 W.Va. 207, 42 A.L.R. 159.

72. Ark.—Arkansas Power & Light Co. v. Steinheil, 80 S.W.2d 921, 190 Ark. 470.
Fla.—Hall v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 93 So. 151, 84 Fla. 9.
Md.—Pugh v. Washington Ry. & Electric Co., 113 A. 732, 138 Md. 226.
N.J.—Hoff v. Public Service Ry. Co., 101 A. 404, 90 N.J.Law 386, reversed on other grounds 103 A. 209, 91 N.J.Law 641, 15 A.L.R. 860.
W.Va.—Thompson v. Monongahela Ry. Co., 128 S.E. 110, 99 W.Va. 207, 42 A.L.R. 159.

73. Ky.—Kinney v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 34 S.W. 1066, 99 Ky. 59.

74. Ky.—Peak v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 297 S.W. 1107, 221 Ky. 97.
Mo.—Lige v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 204 S.W. 508, 275 Mo. 249, L.R.A. 1918F 548.
Ohio—Paal v. Cleveland Ry. Co., 11 Ohio App. 462.
10 C.J. p. 904 note 60.

Circumstances not warranting anticipation of assault

(1) Defendant carrier was not responsible to passenger assaulted on train by another passenger in absence of conductor, where there was nothing in the conduct of the other passenger when in the presence of the conductor before the assault sufficient to indicate that passenger was quarrelsome or unruly—Mills v. Atlantic Coast Line R. R., 90 S.E. 221, 172 N.C. 266.

(2) That a passenger who subsequently assaulted another was laughing, talking, and having a good time was not such misconduct as would justify the inference of probable danger to other passengers so as to require the trainmen to anticipate such assault—Payne v. Moore, 244 S.W. 869, 196 Ky. 454.

(3) Fact that passengers have been observed by trainmen throwing paper wads at one another, and warned to abstain therefrom, does not render carrier liable for injury inflicted by one passenger on another by tin cup unintentionally and accidentally thrown, which trainmen had no knowledge or reason to believe would be so used.—Thompson v. Monongahela Ry. Co., 128 S.E. 110, 99 W.Va. 207, 42 A.L.R. 159.

(4) It may not be assumed that the mere presence of a woman and a man in a sleeping car in which there are no other passengers is a situation fraught with danger to her, in the absence of any external indication of the man's character, and the carrier may not be held liable where the man committed an assault on the woman and there is no showing that the employees knew, nor could, by the exercise of reasonable diligence, have known, that the man intended to commit the assault.—Hall v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 93 So. 151, 84 Fla. 9.

Sudden and unexpected assault

Where a passenger was the victim of a sudden and unexpected assault by another passenger, which could not have been foreseen and prevented by the utmost care, the carrier was not liable.—Payne v. Moore, 244 S.W. 869, 196 Ky. 454.

Ordinance requiring conductor on car

Where the assault was not one which could reasonably have been anticipated by the conductor who was on the car when such assault occurred, so that there was no liability under the rule stated in the text, the situation was not affected by the existence of a city ordinance requiring that there shall be a conductor on each car for the purpose of collecting fares and for the better accommodation of passengers and the public and by a rule of law that the violation of a city traffic ordinance is negligence per se.—Paal v. Cleveland Ry. Co., 11 Ohio App. 462.

Ordinary care in anticipating assault

It has been held that the employees of the carrier are required to exercise only ordinary care and prudence in foreseeing, or anticipating, violence against a passenger, on a vehicle of carriage, on the part of a fellow passenger.—Tomme v. Pullman Co., 93 So. 462, 207 Ala. 511.

75. Ark.—Arkansas Power & Light Co. v. Steinheil, 80 S.W.2d 921, 190 Ark. 470.
Ky.—Payne v. Moore, 244 S.W. 869, 196 Ky. 454.
10 C.J. p. 904 note 60.

Want of knowledge or notice

Street railroad company was not liable for injuries sustained by passenger who was assaulted by fellow passenger on crowded street car where motorman, who also performed duties of conductor, was not informed of disturbance until passenger came forward, and evidence failed to show that motorman could have prevented assault even if he had observed disturbance by means of a mirror—Arkansas Power & Light Co. v. Steinheil, 80 S.W.2d 921, 190 Ark. 470.

76. Ky.—Hatfield v. Payne, 242 S.W. 32, 195 Ky. 310.
Ohio—Paal v. Cleveland Ry. Co., 11 Ohio App. 462.
Tex.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Baker, Com. App., 215 S.W. 556, reversing, Civ. App., 184 S.W. 664.
W.Va.—Thompson v. Monongahela Ry. Co., 128 S.E. 110, 99 W.Va. 207, 42 A.L.R. 159.
10 C.J. p. 904 note 58 [b].

77. Md.—Pugh v. Washington Ry. & Electric Co., 113 A. 732, 138 Md. 226.
N.J.—Hoff v. Public Service Ry. Co., 101 A. 404, 90 N.J.Law 386, reversed on other grounds 103 A. 209, 91 N.J.Law 641, 15 A.L.R. 860.

assault another,[78] or that, because one passenger is engaged in frolic or sport with another, such conduct will result in injury to one of them.[79] Liability is not, however, confined to a case in which the peril of the particular passenger who is assaulted is known to, or discoverable by, the carrier's employees; the carrier is under a duty to protect all its passengers from an assault from a fellow passenger when its employees have knowledge or the means of knowledge that an assault on some one is imminent.[80]

Crowding, jostling or colliding. As a general rule a carrier is not liable for an injury to a passenger caused by crowding and jostling by another passenger.[81] Thus it is not liable as a general rule for injury to a passenger caused by his being pushed or jostled by other passengers when getting on or off its vehicles,[82] unless the conduct of such other passenger is unusual and disorderly and could be prevented by the employees in charge,[83] or unless the carrier has reason to expect a large number of passengers, and fails to use due care to provide sufficient guards or otherwise to protect passengers from injury by crowding.[84] A carrier is not in general liable for an injury to a passenger resulting from jostling or collision in connection with the proper and lawful ejectment of an obnoxious passenger by the employees of the carrier.[85] The carrier may be liable, however, where its employees are negligent in ejecting the offending passenger.[86]

A carrier is not liable for an injury to a passenger caused by a collision with another passenger in the carrier's station where the conduct of such other could not reasonably have been anticipated and guarded against.[87]

A carrier is under the duty to use due care to avoid overcrowding at its stations and in its trains

Reprehensible conduct of conductor

Where a passenger in the seat in front of plaintiff attempted to caress her, but was forced to desist by a deputy sheriff on the car to keep order, the act of the conductor in laughing, while reprehensible, did not render the carrier liable, where the conductor was some distance away and it did not appear that he knew of the impending assault, or could have prevented the assault and did not do so.—Pugh v. Washington Ry. & Electric Co., 113 A. 732, 138 Md. 226.

78. Mass.—Isenberg v. New York, etc., R. Co., 108 N.E. 1046, 221 Mass. 182.

79. Mass.—Isenberg v. New York, etc., R. Co., supra.

80. Ky.—Hatfield v. Payne, 242 S.W. 32, 195 Ky. 310.

81. Pa.—Spagnol v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 123 A. 781, 279 Pa. 205, 32 A.L.R. 1313—Moore v. Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co., 87 Pa.Super. 393.

On station platform

Railway company was not guilty of negligence proximately causing injuries to woman passenger waiting to board train by fall from station platform onto track as result of unknown passenger's pushing another passenger against her in passing between him and news stand six feet from edge of platform; company could not fairly and reasonably anticipate unknown person's awkwardness.—Williams v. New York Rapid Transit Corporation, 6 N.E.2d 58, 272 N.Y. 366, reversing 288 N.Y.S. 778, 248 App.Div. 765.

82. Pa.—Wood v. Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co., 104 A. 69, 260 Pa. 481, L.R.A.1918F 817.

10 C.J. p. 903 note 55.

Street car

A street railroad company was not negligent in failing to restrain a crowd waiting for a car at a stopping place in a public street, over which such company had neither control nor authority, where there was no station or platform, and was not liable for injury to a child who was pushed under a car by the crowd, even assuming that such child was a passenger.—Savickas v. Boston Elevated Ry. Co., 132 N.E. 29, 239 Mass. 226.

Injury on platform of car

Carrier was not liable for injuries to passenger thrown against brake wheel while entering car by man emerging from car, not being responsible for misconduct of another passenger which it could not have foreseen and guarded against.—Eaton v. New York, N.H. & H.R.R., 116 N.E. 815, 227 Mass. 113.

Reasonable care

The view has been expressed that the carrier is bound to use only reasonable care to prevent injury to a passenger seeking to leave the vehicle of carriage, by being pushed by passengers seeking to enter.—Buck v. Manhattan R. Co., 15 Daly 550, affirmed 31 N.E. 628, 134 N.Y. 589.

83. Mass.—Kelley v. Boston El. R. Co., 96 N.E. 1031, 210 Mass. 454.

10 C.J. p. 903 note 56.

84. Mich.—Cousineau v. Muskegon Tract., etc., Co., 115 N.W. 987, 152 Mich. 48.

10 C.J. p. 904 note 57.

Street car

Where overcrowding and pushing by persons seeking to board street cars was reasonably to be anticipated by a street car company, failure of the company to adopt reasonable expedients to obviate the danger to a passenger resulting from such conditions rendered it liable for an injury to a passenger proximately caused by such conditions. The company's claim that the method of protecting passengers observed on the occasion in question had been followed for a long time with no untoward results, and hence that there was no negligence, could not be upheld, since a mere negligent method for a long period of time, free from injuries, does not establish a correct standard of care and safety.—Grubb v. Kansas City Rys. Co., 230 S.W. 675, 207 Mo.App. 16.

85. Mass.—Cobb v. Boston El. R. Co., 60 N.E. 476, 179 Mass. 212.—Spade v. Lynn & B.R. Co., 52 N.E. 747, 172 Mass. 488, 70 Am.S.R. 298, 43 L.R.A. 832.

Pa.—Moore v. Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co., 87 Pa.Super. 393.

10 C.J. p. 903 note 55 [b].

Carrier liable only for negligence of employee

By his contract of carriage a passenger invokes protection of rule that carrier may enforce order on conveyance and, if necessary, expel offender, and carrier is liable to another passenger injured while offender was being expelled only for servant's negligence while so acting.—Spalt v. Eaton, 192 A. 576, 118 N.J.Law 327.

86. Mass.—Thayer v. Old Colony St. R. Co., 101 N.E. 368, 214 Mass. 234, 44 L.R.A.,N.S., 1125, Ann.Cas.1914B 865.

N.J.—Spalt v. Eaton, 192 A. 576, 118 N.J.Law 327.

87. Mass.—Pearson v. Payne, 135 N.E. 488, 245 Mass. 158.

or cars, which will endanger passengers, as shown below in §§ 720 and 745.

Indecency, rudeness, and the like. It is the duty of the carrier, through its employees, to prevent, as far as is reasonably possible, indecent, profane, insulting, or abusive language[88] and conduct[89] on the part of passengers in the presence of others, particularly female passengers,[90] where it has notice of, or reason to anticipate, the same, and a passenger who is obliged to hear such language[91] or to witness, or be subjected to, such conduct,[92] may in general recover damages, even though, according to some cases, suffering no actual bodily injury.[93] The rule is otherwise, however, where the employees of the carrier have no knowledge of, and have no reason to have knowledge of nor to anticipate, such improper language or conduct[94] in time to prevent it,[95] or where there is no opportunity to prevent it.[96] According to some cases a carrier is not bound to protect its passengers from rudeness or bad manners on the part of other passengers, unless such conduct amounts to a breach of the peace.[97]

Insane passenger. A carrier is under the duty to exercise a high degree of care and to take every reasonable precaution to prevent annoyance or injury to passengers by a fellow passenger who is insane,[98] dependent on the circumstances of the particular case,[99] and this duty may include the duty to provide another place on the train for the insane person if such other place is reasonably available,[1] the duty, under certain circumstances to exercise proper restraint even though, at the time, the insane passenger is quiet and apparently harmless,[2] or even the duty to remove the insane passenger from the train at a place where he can be cared for if that course appears to be necessary.[3] This duty of the carrier arises not merely from the probability but from the reasonable possibility known to the carrier's employees that such injury will result, and the carrier is liable for an injury to a passenger resulting from a failure to comply with its duty in this regard.[4] The carrier has neither the right nor duty, however, to remove the insane passenger from one place in the train in order to protect passengers there, to another place and thereby impose the burden of annoyance and prospective danger on other passengers equally entitled to protection.[5]

88. Ark.—Arkansas Power & Light Co v. Steinheil, 80 S.W 2d 921, 190 Ark 470.
Ky.—Payne v. Moore, 244 S W. 869, 196 Ky. 454—Chesapeake & O R Co. v. Pack, 232 S.W 36, 192 Ky. 74—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Bennett, 209 S.W. 358, 183 Ky. 445.
Md.—Pugh v. Washington Ry. & Electric Co., 106 A. 522, 134 Md. 196
Mo.—Abernathy v. Missouri Pac. Ry. Co, App, 217 S.W 568
N J.—Falzarano v. Delaware, L & W. R. Co., 194 A 75, 119 N.J Law 76—Spalt v Eaton, 192 A. 576, 118 N.J Law 327—Frazier v. Public Service Ry. Co, 116 A. 769, 97 N. J Law 37—Hoff v. Public Service Ry. Co, 103 A. 209, 91 N.J Law 641, 15 A L.R. 860, reversing on other grounds 101 A. 404, 90 N J. Law 386.
10 C J. p 904 note 63.

89. Ky.—Payne v. Combs, 249 S.W. 1031, 198 Ky. 749.
Mo.—Abernathy v. Missouri Pac R. Co, App., 217 S W. 568
Tex.—St. Louis, etc, R Co. v. Mackie, 9 S.W. 451, 71 Tex. 491, 10 Am S.R 766, 1 L R A. 667.
10 C J p 904 notes 63, 58 [c].

90. Ala.—Seaboard Air Line R Co. v Mobley, 69 So. 614, 194 Ala. 211.
10 C J p 904 note 63

91. Ky.—Payne v. Combs, 249 S W 1031, 198 Ky 749
Tex.—St Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Mackie, 9 S.W. 451, 71 Tex. 491, 499, 10 Am S R. 766, 1 L R A. 667.
10 C J. p 904 note 63, p 905 note 65

92. Ky.—Payne v. Combs, 249 S W. 1031, 198 Ky. 749
Tex.—St. Louis, etc., R Co v Mackie, 9 S W. 451, 71 Tex. 491, 10 Am.S R 766, 1 L.R A. 667.
10 C J p 904 note 63, p 905 note 65.

93. Ala.—Seaboard Air Line R Co v Mobley, 69 So. 914, 194 Ala 211
10 C J p 905 note 65.
Damages for mental suffering in absence of physical injury see infra § 771.

94. Tex.—International, etc, R Co v. Duncan, 121 S W. 362, 55 Tex. Civ App 440.

Rudeness of fellow passenger
Carriers of passengers are not liable for rude acts of a passenger, which they could not fairly anticipate—Hershey v New York, O. & W. Ry Co., 179 N.Y S. 396, 189 App Div 270.

Ordinary care in anticipating insults
It has been held that the employees of the carrier are required to exercise only ordinary care and prudence in foreseeing or anticipating insults to a passenger on a vehicle of carriage by a fellow passenger—Tomme v Pullman Co., 93 So 462, 207 Ala. 511.

95. Ark.—Arkansas Power & Light Co. v. Steinheil, 80 S W.2d 921, 190 Ark. 470.

96. Pa.—Wood v. Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co, 104 A 69, 260 Pa 481, L R A 1918F 817—Moore v Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co, 87 Pa Super. 393

97. Pa.—Graeff v. Philadelphia, etc, R Co, 28 A. 1107, 161 Pa 230, 41 Am S.R. 885, 23 L R A. 606.
10 C J p 905 note 66.

98. Ala.—Hines v Miniard, 86 So 23, 204 Ala. 514, 12 A L R. 238
10 C J. p 906 note 73

99. U S.—Meyer v St. Louis, I M & S Ry Co, Ark, 54 F. 116, 4 C C A 221, affirmed, C C A, St Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co. v. Greenthal, 77 F 150.

1. Ala.—Hines v Miniard, 86 So. 23, 204 Ala 514, 12 A L.R 238

2. U S.—Meyer v. St Louis, I M & S Ry. Co, Ark, 54 F. 116, 4 C C A 221, affirmed, C C.A, St Louis, I M & S Ry Co. v. Greenthal, 77 F 150

3. U S.—Meyer v. St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co, supra.
Ala.—Hines v Miniard, 86 So. 23, 204 Ala 514, 12 A L R 238

4. U S.—Meyer v. St. Louis, I. M. & S Ry Co., Ark, 54 F. 116, 4 C C A 221, affirmed, C C A, St. Louis, I M & S Ry Co. v. Greenthal, 77 F 150
10 C J. p 906 note 73.

5. Ala.—Hines v Miniard, 86 So 23, 204 Ala. 514, 12 A.L R 238.

The carrier is not liable, for injuries due to the unnatural appearance and conduct of a lunatic, where its employees did not know, or with proper care could not have known, that such injuries were likely to be caused,[6] and, where a passenger seeks to charge the carrier with liability on the theory that the carrier's employee wantonly failed to protect such passenger from the acts or conduct of an insane fellow passenger, there can be no recovery if such employee, acting in good faith, did his best to give such protection as was within his power to give.[7]

Intoxicated passenger. As stated in Corpus Juris quoted with approval,[8] it is the duty of the carrier's employees to protect passengers from the acts or conduct of an intoxicated fellow passenger, and, where there is reason to apprehend injury or annoyance from him to other passengers, the employees should take action, commensurate with the probable danger, to protect such other passengers,[9] as, for example, by ejecting him from the train or other vehicle, as shown infra § 808, or require him to remain seated and conduct himself properly,[10] or at least to take a position in the car where danger to other passengers would be lessened;[11] and, where by reason of the employees' negligent failure to afford due protection a passenger is injured by an intoxicated fellow passenger, the carrier is liable.[12] According to some cases, where a fellow passenger is intoxicated, the duty of a carrier to protect its passengers from misconduct of fellow passengers is greater in degree than that imposed under ordinary circumstances, in view of the well-known tendency of intoxicated persons to misconduct themselves.[13] The carrier is not, however, an insurer of the immunity of passengers from the misconduct of an intoxicated fellow passenger; it is under a duty, according to some cases, only to guard against that which a very careful person would anticipate as likely to happen, or to use the highest practicable degree of care and diligence to protect other passengers, and is not liable merely because a passenger is injured by an intoxicated fellow passenger.[14] Thus the carrier is not liable where there has been no reasonable opportunity to discover such passenger's condition and intent,[15] or where the employees of the carrier could not reasonably foresee and prevent the wrongful acts or misconduct of such passenger;[16] and failure to

6. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Brewer, 143 S.W. 1014, 147 Ky. 166, 39 L.R.A.,N.S., 647, Ann.Cas.1913D 151.

7. Ala.—Hines v. Minard, 86 So. 23, 204 Ala. 514, 12 A.L.R. 238.

8. Ark.—Hines v. Rice, 218 S.W. 851, 853, 142 Ark. 159
Mo.—Lige v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 204 S.W. 508, 512, 275 Mo. 249, L.R.A.1918F 548.

9. Va.—Virginia Ry. & Power Co. v. Hubbard, 91 S.E. 618, 120 Va. 664

Duty to act before disturbance occurs

A conductor in charge of a street car should not wait until a drunken passenger has committed some disturbing act before taking action, but should take proper precautions as soon as such passenger gives reasonable cause to believe that he may injure others.—Virginia Ry. & Power Co. v. Hubbard, 91 S.E. 618, 120 Va. 664.

Excluding from train or arresting

(1) In view of the power to arrest drunken persons given to conductors by statute, it was the duty of a conductor to arrest passengers who were intoxicated, in order to protect fellow passengers.—Butler County R. Co. v. Exum, 187 S.W. 329, 124 Ark. 229

(2) In order to protect other passengers, the circumstances may be such as to require the carrier, through its employees, to prevent intoxicated persons from boarding trains, or, in view of a statutory provision constituting conductors peace officers for the purpose of arresting any person found to be drunk, the duty of arresting an intoxicated passenger on a train may arise in affording due protection to other passengers.—Memphis, D. & G. R. Co. v. Trussell, 183 S.W. 981, 122 Ark. 516

10. Ark.—Hines v. Rice, 218 S.W. 851, 853, 142 Ark. 159
Mo.—Lige v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 204 S.W. 508, 512, 275 Mo. 249, L.R.A.1918F 548
10 C.J. p. 905 note 69.

11. Va.—Virginia Ry. & Power Co. v. Hubbard, 91 S.E. 618, 120 Va. 664.

12. Ala.—Tomme v. Pullman Co., 93 So. 462, 207 Ala. 511.
Ark.—Butler County R. Co. v. Exum, 187 S.W. 329, 124 Ark. 229—Memphis, D. & G. R. Co. v. Trussell, 183 S.W. 981, 122 Ark. 516
Mo.—Koenig v. St. Louis Public Service Co., App., 45 S.W.2d 896—Liljegren v. United Rys. Co. of St. Louis, App., 227 S.W. 925
Pa.—Gerlach v. Pittsburgh Rys. Co., 94 Pa.Super. 121.
Va.—Virginia Ry. & Power Co. v. Hubbard, 91 S.E. 618, 120 Va. 664.
10 C.J. p. 905 notes 67–70.

13. Mo.—Abernathy v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., App., 217 S.W. 568.

Reason for rule

The degree of care increases with the degree of danger.—Abernathy v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., Mo.App., 217 S.W. 568.

14. Ky.—Peak v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 297 S.W. 1107, 221 Ky. 97
Mo.—Lige v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 204 S.W. 508, 275 Mo. 249, L.R.A. 1918F 548—Abernathy v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., App., 217 S.W. 568.

15. Mo.—Lige v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 204 S.W. 508, 275 Mo. 249 L.R.A.1915F 548.
10 C.J. p. 905 note 71.

16. Ala.—Tomme v. Pullman Co., 93 So. 462, 207 Ala. 511.
Ky.—Peak v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 297 S.W. 1107, 221 Ky. 97
Mo.—Lige v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 204 S.W. 508, 275 Mo. 249, L.R.A. 1918F 548
N.C.—Pride v. Piedmont & N. Ry. Co., 97 S.E. 418, 176 N.C. 594—Mills v. Atlantic Coast Line R. R., 90 S.E. 221, 172 N.C. 266.
10 C.J. p. 905 note 72.

Mere intoxication not sufficient warning

Where there is nothing in the conduct or known disposition of the passenger, other than mere intoxication, to warn the trainmen that he is likely to become violent or insulting towards another passenger, then the carrier is not liable for sudden acts of such character.—Abernathy v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., Mo.App., 217 S.W. 568.

eject a passenger merely because he is drunk, if otherwise well behaved, will not alone subject a carrier to liability for an injury caused by his acts or conduct.[17] In order to render the carrier liable, however, it is not necessary that its employees have knowledge of, or anticipate, danger to the particular passenger who is injured, where such employees know, or, in the exercise of due care, should know, that injury to some passenger is likely to occur if due steps to restrain the intoxicated passenger are not taken.[18]

The facts that the employee in charge of a car saw or should have seen an intoxicated person board the car and that injury to another passenger subsequently resulted do not of themselves show negligent failure of the carrier to prevent such injury.[19]

Separation of white and colored passengers. A carrier may be liable for injuries to passengers by fellow passengers, through the negligence of its agents or servants in failing to remove passengers whose conduct, by reason of race antipathy, indicated danger,[20] or for injuries resulting from the failure of the carrier's agents or servants to comply with, or enforce, a statute as to the separation of the white and colored races.[21] It has been held that in such case it is not an essential element of liability that the servants of the carrier must have had reason to believe that injury would result from contact in the same car between passengers of different races,[22] and that a violation of the statute is itself tantamount to a warning that injury may result.[23] According to some cases, the duty of the carrier's employee, on whom the duty of enforcement is imposed by such a statute, to require separation, or to make a reasonable effort to that end, arises when such employee knows, or has such opportunity for knowledge as should advise a reasonably prudent person, that a passenger is in the wrong place in the vehicle of carriage, and the carrier is liable for the resultant injury where such employee fails to comply with his duty in this regard.[24] Furthermore there is authority for the view that, even though the duty of enforcement is imposed by the statute on the employee who is in charge of the train, other and subordinate employees may have the duty to communicate to the employee in charge their knowledge that a passenger is in a part of the train from which he should be excluded, and that the carrier may be liable for an injury resulting from such subordinate employees' failure to comply with their duty in this regard.[25] It has been held under some statutes, however, that the carrier is not liable unless the employee on whom the duty of enforcement is imposed has actual knowledge of the presence of a passenger in the wrong place.[26] In any event, the carrier is not liable where there is no breach of duty on the part of the employees of the carrier.[27] So, in order to render the carrier liable, knowledge of the responsible employee that a passenger is in a place from which he should be excluded,[28] or opportunity of other employees to communicate

17. Mo.—Lige v. Chicago, B. & Q. R Co., 204 S W. 508, 275 Mo. 249, L R.A.1918F 548.
10 C.J. p 905 note 72.

18. Mo.—Abernathy v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., App., 217 S.W. 568

19. Mass—Topping v. Eastern Massachusetts St. Ry. Co., 147 N.E. 382, 252 Mass. 270.

20. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. McEwan, 51 S.W. 619, 21 Ky.L. 487.
10 C.J. p 902 note 44.

21. Ky.—Louisville & I. R. Co. v. Garr, 273 S.W. 540, 209 Ky. 841—Quinn v. Louisville & N. R Co, 32 S.W. 742, 98 Ky. 231, 17 Ky.L.R. 811.

Basis of liability

The carrier is liable for an injury to a passenger by another passenger, not on the theory that there is a cause of action based on the provisions of Kirby Dig. § 6622 et seq., requiring the separation of white and colored passengers, but because of the duty of the carrier to protect its passengers from harm and inconvenience—Hines v. Meador, 224 S.W. 742, 145 Ark. 356.

22. Ky—Quinn v. Louisville & W R. Co, 32 S.W. 742, 98 Ky. 231, 17 Ky L R 811.

23. Ark.—Hines v. Meador, 224 S W 742, 145 Ark 356.

24. Ky—Louisville & I. R. Co. v Garr, 273 S.W 540, 209 Ky. 841.

Assault on white passenger while in place set apart for colored passengers

If conductor of interurban railway knew, or had opportunity for knowledge, that white passenger was in car set apart for colored passengers, it was his duty to require white passenger to go into white coach, or make reasonable effort to that end, and, if he failed to do so, railway company is liable for assault on white passenger by colored passenger—Louisville & I. R Co. v. Garr, 273 S W. 540, 209 Ky. 841.

25. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R Co. v. Renfro, 135 S W. 266, 142 Ky. 590, 33 L.R A.,N.S., 133
10 C.J p 902 note 45 [b].

26. Tex.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Baker, Com App, 215 S W 556, reversing, Civ App, 184 S.W. 664.
10 C.J. p 902 note 45

Knowledge of conductor necessary

There can be no violation of the Separate Coach L § 9, as amended by Acts 30th Leg. c 36 § 9, in the absence of actual knowledge that a white or colored person was in the wrong compartment, and the knowledge must be that of the conductor of the train, and not of the porter, brakeman, or any other employee.—Texas & P. Ry. Co v. Baker, Tex. Com App., 215 S.W. 556, reversing, Civ.App, 184 S.W 664.

27. Ky.—Hale v Chesapeake & O. R Co, 135 S W. 398, 142 Ky 835—Bailey v. Louisville & N. R Co, 44 S W. 105, 19 Ky.L. 1617.

28. Tex—Texas & P. Ry Co. v Baker, Com.App., 215 S W. 556, reversing, Civ.App, 184 S W. 664

Assault by white passenger on colored passenger

Under Separate Coach L. § 9, as amended by Acts 30th Leg. c 36 § 9, a negro cannot recover damages from a carrier by reason of an assault by a white person riding in the coach set aside for negroes, unless it is shown that the conductor of the train had actual knowledge of the such knowledge to the responsible employee,[29] must have been acquired or existed in time to have prevented the injury complained of, and it seems that the carrier is not liable where a passenger, while riding in a part of a train from which he should have been excluded, acts in self-defense in inflicting an injury on another passenger.[30]

§ 696. Protection against Injuries from Other Third Persons

The carrier owes a duty to protect passengers from wrongs inflicted by strangers or intruders, if the danger is, or in the exercise of due care may be, known to the carrier's employees and can be prevented by them, and the carrier may be liable for injuries due to a neglect of such duty.

As stated in Corpus Juris, which has been quoted with approval,[31] the carrier owes to a passenger the duty of exercising a high degree of care to protect him from insult and injury or violence[32] by strangers or intruders on its cars or premises, if the danger is, or in the exercise of due care can be, known to the employees of the carrier and prevented by them, and if it fails in its duty in this respect it is liable for the resulting injury; thus, the carrier may be liable for the robbery of a passenger by strangers, if by due diligence it could have been prevented by those in charge of the conveyance.[33] and the carrier's agent owes a duty to exercise a high degree of care to protect a passenger waiting at a station for a train from assault and robbery.[34] This general duty, however, arises only when the danger is actually foreseen in time to prevent it, or is of such a nature and under such circumstances that it might be anticipated,[35] and ordinarily the carrier is not liable for the independent wrongs of third persons which it could not reasonably anticipate or apprehend,[36] including the acts of third persons intruding into the waiting rooms or on the depot grounds, or within the cars, and causing injury to passengers, where the disorderly conduct which caused the injury could not have been anticipated against casualties, caused by strangers, which cannot reasonably be anticipated, even if charged with highest degree of care as common carrier. Whether or not such company was chargeable with negligence, rendering it liable for injuries to customer struck by children who were ascending escalator which was moving downward, depends on what reasonable person in its position would have been done under circumstances. —Schwerin v. H. C. Capwell Co., 34 P.2d 1050, 140 Cal.App. 1.

presence of the white passenger in the negro coach in time to have avoided the assault resulting in the injury.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Baker, Tex.Com.App., 215 S.W. 556, reversing, Civ.App., 184 S.W. 664.

29. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Renfro, 135 S.W. 266, 142 Ky. 590, 33 L.R.A.,N.S., 133.

30. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Renfro, supra.
10 C.J. p 902 note 45 [a].

31. La.—Miles v. New Orleans Public Service, Inc., 3 La.App. 496, 498

32. Ark.—Arkansas Power & Light Co. v. Steinheil, 80 S.W.2d 921, 190 Ark. 470.
Fla.—Hall v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 93 So. 151, 84 Fla. 9.
Ga.—Yellow Cab Co. of Atlanta v. Carmichael, 126 S.E. 269, 33 Ga. App. 364.
Ky.—Payne v. Moore, 244 S.W. 869, 186 Ky. 454—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Bennett, 209 S.W. 358, 183 Ky. 445.
Mass.—Langley v. Boston Elevated Ry. Co., 112 N.E. 79, 223 Mass. 492.
N.J.—Falzarano v. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co., 194 A. 75, 119 N.J.Law 76—Spalt v. Eaton, 192 A. 576, 118 N.J. Law 327—Hoff v. Public Service Ry. Co., 103 A. 209, 91 N.J.Law 641, 15 A.L.R. 860, reversing on other grounds 101 A. 404, 90 N.J. Law 386.
N.C.—Mills v. Atlantic Coast Line R. R., 90 S.E. 221, 172 N.C. 266.
Tex.—South Plains Coaches v. Box, Civ.App., 111 S.W.2d 1151, error dismissed—Gulf, C. & S. F. R. Co. v. Baldwin, Civ.App., 2 S.W.2d 520—Wichita Falls Traction Co. v. Berry, Civ.App., 187 S.W. 415, error dismissed—Nevill v. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co., Civ.App., 187 S.W. 388, affirmed, Com.App., 252 S.W. 483, setting aside on rehearing 244 S.W. 980.
Va.—Hines v. Garrett, 108 S.E. 690, 131 Va. 125.
W.Va.—Clark v. Norfolk & W. Ry. Co., 100 S.E. 480, 84 W.Va. 526, 7 A.L.R. 117.
10 C.J. p 906 note 75.

Concurrent negligence
Common carrier of passengers is liable for personal injuries to passenger caused by concurrent negligence of carrier's servant and third persons.—Daly v. Publix Cars, 259 N.W. 163, 128 Neb. 403—Giffen v. Lincoln Traction Co., 225 N.W. 232, 118 Neb. 459.

Aggressor in altercation
Where the facts are otherwise sufficient to require the carrier's servants or agents to interfere in an altercation in order to protect a passenger, the duty exists regardless of who was the aggressor.—Birmingham Ry., Light & Power Co. v. Lipscomb, 73 So. 962, 198 Ala. 653.

33. La.—Miles v. New Orleans Public Service, Inc., 3 La.App. 496.
Va.—Connell v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 24 S.E. 467, 93 Va. 44, 57 Am. S.R. 786, 32 L.R.A. 792.
10 C.J. p 907 note 76.

34. Tex.—Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Silber, Civ.App., 209 S.W. 188

35. La.—Miles v. New Orleans Public Service, Inc., 3 La.App. 496.
10 C.J. p 907 note 77.

Escalator in department store
Department store company in operating escalator need not provide

36. U.S.—Northern Ry. Co. v. Page, Mass., 47 S.Ct. 491, 274 U.S. 65, 71 L.Ed. 929, reversing, C.C.A., Page v. United Fruit Co., 3 F.2d 747, certiorari granted Northern Ry. Co. v. Page, 46 S.Ct. 19, 269 U.S. 542, 70 L.Ed. 402.
Iowa.—Wheeler v. Des Moines City Ry. Co., 215 N.W. 950, 205 Iowa 439, 55 A.L.R. 473.
Ky.—Riley v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 21 S.W.2d 990, 231 Ky. 564.
Pa.—Orms v. Traction Bus Co., 150 A. 397, 300 Pa. 474.
Tenn.—Price-Bass Co. v. Dawson, 7 Tenn.Civ.App. 192.
Tex.—Threatt v. Houston, etc., R. Co., 71 S.W. 976, 31 Tex.Civ.App. 227.
10 C.J. p 907 note 78.

Care of female passenger
Carrier taking female passenger past her station, whose conductor and telegraph operator engaged driver to take her home, was not liable for his improper proposals, where neither conductor nor operator had reason to suspect his unfitness for such employment.—Western & A. R. Co. v. Jackson, 93 S.E. 547, 21 Ga. App. 50.

pated,[37] or where the carrier's employees, although knowing of the threatened danger, could not in the exercise of due care prevent it.[38] As otherwise stated, in order to charge the carrier with liability, its servants must have knowledge, or in the exercise of due care could have acquired knowledge, of the danger in time to have prevented the injury.[39]

The carrier is not liable for the tort of the third person under the principle of respondeat superior; the theory or basis of liability is the negligent failure of the carrier and its employees to afford the passenger that protection which, in the exercise of such care as the law requires them to use and by the means available, they could and should have given to the passenger.[40]

The carrier is not an insurer of the safety of a passenger against the consequences of the wrongful acts of third persons.[41] According to some cases, the care required of the carrier is reasonable and ordinary care, such as a person of ordinary prudence would regard as reasonably necessary and proper under the circumstances;[42] and it has been held or recognized that the general rule that the carrier is under the duty not to expose its passengers to any danger which human foresight and care can apprehend or provide against,[43] or the general rule that the carrier must exercise the highest degree of care for the personal safety of passengers consistent with the nature of the contract of carriage, in relation to the carrier's or its servants' acts or omissions,[44] does not necessarily measure the carrier's duty and liability in respect of independent torts of strangers, and that the carrier is not held to the highest degree of care to provide against malicious or criminal interference with its apparatus by strangers.[45] According to other cases, however, on the theory that the carrier is bound to exercise the same care to discover and guard against danger to the safety of its passengers from acts committed by a third person as it must exercise in reference to avoiding such acts on its own part, the care required as to acts of a third person is such a high degree of prudence in guarding against such acts as would be used by a very cautious, prudent, and competent person under similar circumstances.[46] So, the view has been expressed that a common carrier for hire is bound to use extraordinary care and diligence to protect its passengers in transit from the violence or injury of third persons.[47] In some cases the duty of the carrier has been characterized as one to exercise the highest degree of care,[48] the highest degree of care and diligence,[49] the utmost vigilance and foresight,[50] or

37. La.—Miles v. New Orleans Public Service, Inc., 3 La.App. 496
10 C.J. p. 907 note 78.

Careless or wanton act in railroad station

Carrier is not in general liable for an injury to a passenger sustained in a railroad station through the careless or wanton act of a stranger, unless such act should have reasonably been anticipated.—Seckler v Pennsylvania R. Co., 174 A. 501, 113 N.J.Law 299.

38. Ind.—Lake Erie, etc., R. Co. v Arnold, 59 N.E. 394, 26 Ind.App. 190
La.—Miles v. New Orleans Public Service, Inc., 3 La.App. 496.

39. Ark.—Arkansas Power & Light Co. v. Steinheil, 80 S.W.2d 921, 190 Ark. 470.

40. Ark.—Arkansas Power & Light Co. v. Steinheil, supra.
Fla.—Hall v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 93 So. 151, 84 Fla. 9.
Ind.—Terre Haute, Indianapolis & Eastern Traction Co. v. Scott, 150 N.E. 777, 197 Ind. 587, 43 A.L.R. 1029
Ky.—Riley v Louisville & N. R. Co., 21 S.W.2d 990, 231 Ky. 564.

41. Ky.—Riley v Louisville & N. R. Co., supra—Louisville R. Co. v Dott, 171 S.W. 438, 161 Ky. 759, L.R.A.1915C 681 and note.

42. Ind.—Terre Haute, Indianapolis & Eastern Traction Co. v Scott, 150 N.E. 777, 197 Ind. 587, 43 A.L.R. 1029

Persons beyond control of carrier

As to third persons beyond the control of the carrier, the latter is required to exercise only ordinary care and vigilance to discover danger of, and prevent, injury to passengers—Williams v. East St. Louis & S. Ry. Co., 232 S.W. 759, 207 Mo.App. 233—10 C.J. p. 906 note 75 [a].

Conductor

Railroad conductor has duty to use reasonable care to protect passengers from injuries by third persons, where there is reason for suspecting danger.—Terre Haute, Indianapolis & Eastern Traction Co. v Scott, 170 N.E. 341, 91 Ind.App. 690, rehearing denied 172 N.E. 659, 91 Ind.App. 690

43. Iowa.—Wheeler v Des Moines City Ry. Co., 215 N.W. 950, 205 Iowa 439, 55 A.L.R. 473

44. Mich.—Takacs v. Detroit United Ry., 207 N.W. 907, 234 Mich. 42

45. U.S.—Delaware, L. & W. R. Co. v. Donahue, N.Y., 238 F. 770, 151 C.C.A. 620

46. Tex.—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Baldwin, Civ.App., 2 S.W.2d 520.

Misplaced switch

The rule stated in the text was applied in respect of a misplaced switch.—Gulf, C. & S. F. R. Co. v Baldwin, Tex.Civ.App., 2 S.W.2d 520

Stoning train

It was the duty of a railroad company as a carrier of passengers to use the high degree of care that would be exercised by a very cautious and prudent person under the same circumstances to protect its passengers on a train from stoning—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Besser, Tex.Civ.App., 200 S.W. 263, dismissed for want of jurisdiction.

Strangers under control of carrier

A carrier of passengers is charged with the highest degree of care and foresight consistent with the orderly conduct of its business in respect of the protection of its passengers from injuries resulting from the act of strangers under its control or direction—Fewings v Mendenhall, 93 N.W. 127, 88 Minn. 336, 97 Am.S.R. 519, 60 L.R.A. 601.

47. Ga.—Yellow Cab Co. of Atlanta v. Carmichael, 126 S.E. 269, 33 Ga.App. 364.

48. Ky.—Louisville R. Co. v. Dott, 171 S.W. 438, 161 Ky. 759, L.R.A. 1915C 681 and note.

49. Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v Bennett, 209 S.W. 358, 183 Ky. 445

50. N.C.—Mills v. Atlantic Coast Line R. R., 90 S.E. 221, 172 N.C. 266.

the utmost care and diligence consistent with the proper management of its business.[51]

A street railroad company is not necessarily liable for the conduct of a third person who negligently injures an intending passenger standing on a highway.[52] Where a passenger leaves a street car of his own volition for the purpose of inspecting the damage resulting from a collision between such car and a motor car, the carrier is not liable for an injury sustained by the passenger, while in the street, through the negligence of a third person.[53] The rule is otherwise, however, where the passenger leaves the car at the invitation of the conductor in order to assist the conductor in connection with the collision and the injury results from the conductor's neglect of his duty to warn the passenger of danger.[54] Where a street car passenger's peril from outside is seen, or notice thereof is given, carmen must avert it if possible, but any suggestions from passengers as to what the conductor shall or shall not do merely carries knowledge to the conductor of the danger, and does not affect the company's liability.[55]

Operation of taxicab by third person. The owner of a taxicab may be liable to a passenger where the regular driver permits a third person to drive, the regular driver remains in the cab, and the passenger sustains injury through the negligent driving of the substitute driver, even though the regular driver exceeds his authority as an employee in selecting a substitute driver.[56] Where the substitute driver is selected by the regular driver, without authority, there is no such privity between the owner and the substitute driver as to base liability on the principle of respondeat superior; in such case the only ground of liability is a negligent violation of the contract of carriage.[57] The owner is not relieved of liability in such case on the theory of common enterprise where the injured persons were merely passengers without the right to control the substitute driver.[58]

Protection from mob; strikers. A carrier may be liable for injuries to a passenger by a mob allowed to go on its train, car, or premises with the purpose of injuring passengers, the intention of the mob being reasonably apparent, and it being within the power of its employees to prevent it.[59] The carrier is not liable, however, where it is not within the power of its employees to prevent the injury;[60] nor, it seems, merely because the employees fail to leave the vehicle of carriage in order to summon assistance to prevent an occurrence that may not reasonably be anticipated;[61] and it is not the duty of a railroad company to carry on its trains a police force sufficient to quell or oppose the entrance of unexpected mobs seeking to injure persons on the train, as shown above in § 688

A street railroad is not negligent as to its passengers in attempting to operate its cars during a strike of its employees, unless the conditions are such that it ought to know, or ought reasonably to anticipate, that it cannot do so and at the same time guard its passengers from violence.[62]

Protection from police officers. A carrier is not ordinarily liable to a passenger for injuries caused by an unforeseeable unlawful act of a police officer.[63] Where a known officer of the law in the apparent exercise of his official authority disturbs

51. Mass.—Langley v. Boston Elevated R Co., 112 N.E. 79, 223 Mass 492.

52. Pa.—Klingensmith v. West Penn. Rys. Co., 123 A. 787, 279 Pa. 336.

53. Mich.—Moffit v. Grand Rapids Ry. Co, 200 N.W. 274, 228 Mich. 349

54. Mich.—Moffit v. Grand Rapids Ry Co., supra

55. Ky.—Louisville R. Co. v. Dott, 171 S.W. 438, 161 Ky. 759, L.R.A. 1915C 681.
10 C.J. p 908 note 84.

56. Me.—Chaput v. Lussier, 165 A. 573, 132 Me. 48.

Passenger not guest

In reaching the conclusion that the owner of the taxicab was liable, it was pointed out that plaintiffs were passengers and not guests.—Chaput v. Lussier, 165 A. 573, 132 Me 48.

Instruction not to permit anyone else to drive

Taxicab owner's instructions to driver not to permit anyone else to drive cab did not affect owner's liability for passenger's injuries when driver permitted another to drive cab —Chaput v. Lussier, 165 A. 573, 132 Me 48.

57. Me.—Chaput v. Lussier, supra.

58. Me.—Chaput v. Lussier, supra.

59. Mo.—Williams v. East St. Louis & S. Ry. Co., 232 S.W. 759, 207 Mo. App. 233.
10 C.J. p 907 note 80.

Attacks on colored persons

Where a reasonably prudent person would have anticipated that a colored passenger would have been attacked by a mob if brought into a certain place, such passenger had no knowledge of the actual conditions, the carrier did have such knowledge and failed to warn the passenger of the danger, and the passenger was attacked by a mob, the carrier was liable if all other elements of liability existed.—Williams v. East St. Louis & S. Ry. Co., 232 S.W. 759, 207 Mo. App 233—10 C.J. p 907 note 80 [a].

60. Pa.—Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co v. Hinds, 53 Pa. 512, 91 Am.D. 224.

61. La.—Miles v. New Orleans Public Service, Inc., 3 La.App. 496.

62. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Pillsbury, 14 N.E. 22, 123 Ill. 9, 5 Am.S.R 483.
Minn.—Fewings v. Mendenhall, 93 N.W. 127, 88 Minn. 336, 97 Am.S.R 519 and note 60 L.R.A. 601.
R.I.—Bosworth v. Union R. Co., 58 A. 982, 26 R.I. 309, 3 Ann.Cas. 1080
10 C.J. p 907 note 83.

63. Shooting into cab

Where taxicab driver, who knew that officers were searching automobiles for a murderer, continued on his way notwithstanding an officer had stepped into road with flashlight and ordered driver to stop, and officer shot into cab wounding passenger, driver was not liable to passenger for negligence in failing to stop, since it was not reasonably foresee-the peace and personal security of a passenger, the carrier's employees are not bound to inquire whether he is acting officially and with lawful authority;[64] and it is not their duty to intervene unless the officer's conduct is known to be unlawful.[65] The servants or employees of the carrier are under no duty to resist or interfere with such an officer in arresting a passenger unless they know or, by reasonable diligence, should know that the arrest is unlawful,[66] or, as sometimes stated, to justify interference by the carrier's employees, the case must be a plain and unmistakable case of unlawful arrest.[67] It is not the duty of an employee of the carrier to assume from the fact that the officer has no warrant that the arrest of a passenger is unlawful so as to require such employee to prevent, or protest against, the arrest or detention.[68] According to some cases, however, the rule is otherwise where the carrier's employees know, or, by the exercise of due diligence, should know, that the arrest is unlawful,[69] and where it is plain to the agent or employee of the carrier that the officer is not acting in the exercise of his authority, it is the duty of such agent or servant to interfere for the protection of the passenger.[70]

While the view has been expressed that the duty to interfere for the protection of the passenger exists where it is plain that the officer is abusing his official authority, that is, is exceeding the limits of his customary functions in disturbing the peace and personal security of the passenger,[71] according to other cases, where a passenger is arrested while on a train, the carrier is under no duty to see that the officer uses only such force as is necessary to make the arrest.[72]

The carrier may be liable to a passenger for the acts of an officer whom its agents have requested to assist in ejecting undesirable persons, as shown below in § 824.

§ 697. Act of God, Vis Major or Inevitable Accident

In the absence of negligence on the part of the carrier, it is not liable to a passenger where the injury is due to a natural cause, overwhelming force, or other cause beyond the control of the carrier.

Since carriers of passengers are liable only for negligence, as shown above in § 676, it matters not whether the injury is due to a natural cause or overwhelming force, or to the wrongs or faults of third persons, unless the carrier is in some way guilty of negligence with respect thereto. If the accident resulting in injuries is due to such causes, and is inevitable, that is, could not have been avoided in the exercise of that high degree of care which the carrier is bound to exercise for the safety of the passenger, the carrier will not be liable;[73] nor will it be liable if there is no negligence on its part, but the accident is caused by the interference of a third person with its appliances,[74] nor if the inable that the officer would, without right, shoot on a mere suspicion that some one in the taxicab had committed a felony—England v. Kinney, 113 S.W.2d 838, 272 Ky. 32

64. Ark.—Mayfield v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 133 S.W. 168, 97 Ark. 24, 32 L.R.A.,N.S., 525.
10 C.J. p 908 note 85.

Corpus Juris is cited with approval in Clark v. Norfolk & N. Ry. Co., 100 S.E. 480, 481, 84 W.Va. 526, 7 A.L.R. 117.

65. Ala.—Birmingham Ry., Light & Power Co. v. Lipscomb, 73 So. 962, 198 Ala. 653
Kan.—Fennell v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., 158 P. 14, 98 Kan. 210, L.R.A.1916E 1107.
Ky.—Chesapeake & O. R. Co. v. Pack, 232 S.W. 36, 192 Ky. 74.
10 C.J. p 908 note 86.

Entry into colored compartment

White Pen Code Annot. 1911 arts. 1010—5 and 1010—9, punishing any person riding in a coach not designated for his race, and punishing any conductor omitting to remove from a coach any person not entitled to ride therein, do not prohibit a white peace officer from entering a negro coach in the performance of his duties, so as to make the carrier liable therefor. Accordingly, under White's Code Cr.Proc.Annot. arts. 3, 44, requiring peace officers to interfere without warrant to suppress crime, a white city marshal may enter a negro coach within the limits of the city to investigate a prior disturbance therein and to ascertain whether it is necessary to take any steps to prevent its recurrence.—Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. v. Brown, Tex.Civ.App., 158 S.W. 259.

66. W.Va.—Clark v. Norfolk & W. Ry. Co., 100 S.E. 480, 84 W.Va. 526, 7 A.L.R. 117.
10 C.J. p 908 note 86.
Liability of carrier for illegal arrest made by police officer see C.J.S. title False Imprisonment § 40, also 25 C.J. page 508 note 60-page 509 note 62.

67. Ky.—Chesapeake & O. R. Co. v. Pack, 232 S.W. 36, 192 Ky. 74.

68. Ky.—Chesapeake & O. R. Co. v. Pack, supra.

69. W.Va.—Clark v. Norfolk & W. Ry. Co., 100 S.E. 480, 84 W.Va. 526, 7 A.L.R. 117.

70. Ala.—Birmingham Ry., Light & Power Co. v. Lipscomb, 73 So. 962, 198 Ala. 653.

71. Ala.—Birmingham Ry., Light & Power Co. v. Lipscomb, supra.

72. Ark.—Mayfield v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 133 S.W. 168, 97 Ark. 24, 32 L.R.A.,N.S., 525.
Ga.—Brunswick, etc., R. Co. v. Ponder, 43 S.E. 430, 117 Ga. 63, 97 Am.S.R. 152, 60 L.R.A. 713.
N.C.—Carver v. Carolina, etc., R. Co., 85 S.E. 293, 169 N.C. 204.

73. Ala.—Irwin v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 50 So. 62, 161 Ala. 489, 135 Am.S.R. 153, 18 Ann.Cas. 772
La.—Holden v. Toye Bros. Auto & Taxicab Co., 1 La.App. 521
Mass.—Davis v. Boston Elevated Ry. Co., 126 N.E. 841, 235 Mass. 482
10 C.J. p 908 note 90.

Dog jumping from coach

Passenger lawfully approaching train and injured by dog jumping from coach cannot recover where human foresight could not have prevented accident.—Burns v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 144 A. 103, 294 Pa. 277.

74. N.C.—Pruett v. Southern R. Co., 80 S.E. 65, 164 N.C. 3, 49 L.R.A., jury is the result of a pure accident.[75] On the other hand, if, in the exercise of the high degree of care and foresight required of carriers of passengers, the cause of the accident could have been foreseen and the result thereof avoided, the carrier will be liable.[76] The negligence of the carrier in such case, however, must be proximate and not remote as connected with the accident,[77] but it has been held that the carrier is liable, although the immediate cause of the accident is an act of God, if the negligence of the carrier concurs in any degree in causing the injuries.[78]

Extreme weather conditions. A carrier is not guilty of such culpable negligence as will make it liable in damages, if it fails to provide against extraordinary and unprecedented storms, floods, or other extreme weather conditions which cannot be reasonably anticipated by that degree of skill and experience required in the prudent construction or operation of the road; in such cases, the injury cannot be held to be attributable to any fault or negligence of the company; it results from inevitable accident—vis major—the act of God.[79] A railroad company is bound, however, so to construct its road that it will be capable of resisting all extremes of weather which, in the territory through which the line runs, might reasonably be expected, although perhaps rarely, to occur, and is liable for an accident caused by its failure so to do;[80] and it will also be liable if its negligence in operating its road concurs with the weather conditions in causing the accident.[81]

§ 698. To Whom Liable

The duty of a carrier which it owes to a passenger does not extend to a person between whom and the passenger no relations have been established. The carrier owes the duty of reasonable care to an invitee on a vehicle or the premises of the carrier.

It may be stated, as a general rule, that the carrier owes the requisite care to every passenger, without regard to age, sex, or bodily infirmity.[82]

The carrier's duty to exercise the care, skill, and diligence which it must exercise toward a passenger does not extend to one who has no relation with the carrier,[83] as where one who was a passenger has ceased to be such;[84] hence, the carrier is not

N.S., 810 and note, Ann.Cas.1915D 54 and note.
10 C.J. p. 908 note 91.

75. Mass.—Nichols v. Boston Elevated Ry. Co., 120 N.E. 847, 231 Mass. 299.

76. S.C.—Black v. Charleston, etc., R. Co., 69 S.E. 230, 87 S.C. 241, 31 L.R.A.,N.S., 1184
10 C.J. p. 909 note 92.

Alleged insanity of locomotive engineer

A railroad company may not avoid liability for the death of a passenger on one of its trains caused by a collision due to the disregard of orders by the engineer of the locomotive attached to such train, on the alleged ground that such engineer was temporarily insane, where the only evidence of insanity is that the engineer jumped to save his life—Powe v. Morgan's L. & T. R. R. & S. S. Co., 7 La.App. 51.

Overturning of automobile stage, which was driven on a gravel road by one who had not slept for thirty-six hours, was held not to be an unavoidable accident or ordinary risk of the road assumed by the passenger, where the stage would not have left the road except for the driver's negligence.—Seney v. Pickwick Stages Northern Division, 255 P. 279, 82 Cal.App. 226.

77. Tenn.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Kuhn, 64 S.W. 202, 107 Tenn. 106.
10 C.J. p. 909 note 93

78. Wash.—Topping v. Great Northern R. Co., 142 P. 425, 81 Wash. 166, L.R.A.1915F 1174.
10 C.J. p. 909 note 94

79. Me.—Libby v. Maine Cent. R. Co., 26 A. 943, 85 Me. 34, 20 L.R.A. 812.
10 C.J. p. 909 notes 95, 96.

80. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Peck, 153 S.W. 39, 152 Ky. 6, 49 L.R.A.,N.S., 198.
10 C.J. p. 909 note 97.

81. Tenn.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Kuhn, 64 S.W. 202, 107 Tenn. 106.
10 C.J. p. 910 note 98.

82. Tex.—International & G. N. Ry. Co. v. Williams, Civ.App., 183 S.W. 1185, error refused.

83. Mo.—Frye v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 98 S.W. 566, 200 Mo. 377, 8 L.R.A.,N.S., 1069.
10 C.J. p. 875 note 97.

Person unloaded at station

A bus company which operated a station at which a passenger who was suffering from an apoplectic stroke was unloaded by another bus company without the knowledge of the first company was not liable for breach of duty as carrier for treatment or mistreatment of passenger as a drunk, in absence of a contractual relationship with first company.—Searcy v. Interurban Transp. Co., 179 So. 75, 189 La. 183, reversing, App., 179 So. 93, reversing 171 So. 468

84. Ill.—See Horst v. St. Louis Electric Terminal Ry. Co., 199 Ill.App. 169.

Iowa.—Morris v. Omaha & C. B. St. Ry. Co., 187 N.W. 510, 193 Iowa 615.
Mich.—Sink v. Grand Trunk Western Ry. Co., 198 N.W. 238, 227 Mich. 21.
Mo.—Neuer v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 127 S.W. 669, 143 Mo.App. 402
N.J.—Higgins v. Del Monte, 194 A. 256, 119 N.J.Law 3.
Who are passengers generally, continuance and termination of relation see supra §§ 563–566.

After safely alighting

Elderly woman who was struck by passing motorist while attempting to cross street immediately after safely alighting from bus could not maintain action against bus company on theory of relation of carrier and passenger, since on alighting she assumed status of pedestrian.—Cooke v. Elk Coach Line, 180 A. 782, 7 Harr., Del., 120.

Assisting brakeman in unloading freight

Where passenger, after leaving train and while on platform, was requested by brakeman to help in unloading of heavy barrel from car, railroad was not liable, by reason of the relation of carrier and passenger, for injuries sustained while giving such assistance.—Shaffer v. St. Louis & S. F. Ry. Co., 208 S.W. 145, 201 Mo.App. 107.

Bailee of person

Carrier's duty to passengers applies only to period in which carrier in a certain sense, is bailee of passenger's person.—El Paso Electric liable for the acts of its employees toward one who has no such relation, unless they acted by its authority or direction.[85]

A person who has purchased a ticket and is crossing the tracks of the carrier in order to enter a vehicle of carriage is entitled to the same high degree of care that is required of a carrier in respect of a passenger actually riding in such a vehicle.[86]

Where a person, although not a passenger, is on a car or the carrier's premises by its express or implied invitation, it is bound to exercise ordinary care for his protection.[87] Notwithstanding a carrier has ground for refusing to receive a particular person as a passenger, if such person is received and his fare is paid or duly tendered, he is entitled to the same rights as other passengers.[88]

The carrier is liable for injuries sustained by a person on its car as the result of a sudden, unprovoked, willful, and malicious assault by the conductor, regardless of the capacity in which such person was on the car.[89]

Where a railroad company permits the use of its tracks by another company, and an employee of such other company actually engaged at the time in the operation of a train of such other company is injured while the train is moving over the track of the railroad company, the latter company, being under no legal obligation to him except to furnish him a track on which the train might safely be run, is not liable for his death unless he is killed by reason of a defect in its tracks.[90]

A carrier owes at least the duty of reasonable care to one who is being transported in a private car.[91]

§ 699. Persons Riding under Special Contracts

In general a carrier owes to all persons, other than its own employees, whom it has received and agreed to transport the duty to exercise the same or similar care, skill, and diligence which it is required to exercise as to passengers, and, for a breach of such duty which is the cause of injury to a person so received and transported, the carrier is liable.

Co. v. Ludlow, Tex Civ App., 291 S W. 619.

Only while relation exists

The duty of a carrier to exercise due care for the safety of its passengers continues only while the relation of passenger and carrier exists. —Kelson v. Public Service R. Co., 110 A. 919, 94 N J.Law 527.

Leaving train temporarily

Passenger may leave train temporarily at station not her destination without losing status as passenger and is entitled to same high degree of care as at destination.—Texas & N. O R Co. v Rooks, Tex.Civ App, 283 S W. 632, affirmed, Com App, 292 S W. 536, and rehearing denied 293 S. W. 554.

Transfers

Where passenger making continuous journey alights from carrier for purpose of making transfer, relation of carrier and passenger continues while he is in necessary act of making transfer, during which time carrier owes him same high degree of care which it owes to all passengers Accordingly, where bus company operating bus on public highway temporarily closed to public use deposited passenger on closed highway on dark night with instructions to walk ahead and transfer to another bus, duty of carrier to passenger continued while passenger was walking on road to effect transfer—Damm v. East Penn Transp Co, 182 A. 720, 120 Pa Super. 381.

85. Ala—Birmingham R., etc, Co. v. Mason, 34 So. 207, 137 Ala 342.

86. Pa—Lynn v. Pittsburgh & L. E R. Co., 110 A. 271, 267 Pa 41.

87. Mich—Sink v. Grand Trunk Western Ry. Co, 198 N W. 238, 227 Mich. 21.

Okl.—St Louis & S F R Co v. Stacy, 171 P. 870, 77 Okl 165 10 C J. p 876 note 5.

Persons properly on cars

A railroad company owes persons properly in its freight cars during course of transportation, duty to inspect such cars with sufficient thoroughness to ascertain any fairly obvious defect constituting likely source of danger in their construction or state of repair before hauling them over its lines—Dominices v Monongahela Connecting R. Co., 195 A 747, 328 Pa. 203.

Person transporting passengers and baggage between stations

One engaged in transporting passengers and their baggage between two depots situated on two different lines of railway in the same village, and who had been so engaged for some time with the carrier's knowledge and acquiescence, was an invitee on the station premises, and the carrier owed him reasonable care for his safety. In such case, the implied invitation extended not only to the particular premises where the invitee's bus was generally placed near the depot platform, but also to the waiting rooms and station platform.—Dougherty v. Davis, 187 N. W 616, 48 N.D. 883

Police officer boarding train to make arrest

Where railroad employee, assisting passengers to board and alight from trains, permitted constable to go into train to make an arrest, carrier was bound to hold train a reasonable time to permit him to make such arrest and alight, and was liable for injury to him due to its failure to exercise ordinary care for his safety—St. Louis, I M & S Ry Co v. Cantrell, 164 P. 110, 63 Okl. 187, L R.A.1917D 980.

88. U S.—Pearson v. Duane, Cal., 4 Wall. 605, 18 L Ed 447.

89. Mo—Lampe v United Rys Co. of St Louis, 232 S W 249, 209 Mo App. 357.

90. Ga—Killian v. Augusta, etc, R. Co, 4 S E 165, 79 Ga. 234, 11 Am. S R. 410

Train of lumber company

In a case in which the rule stated in the text was applied and in which the question as to liability of a railroad company for the death of an employee of a lumber company while a train of the latter company was being operated over the tracks of the railroad company was involved, the view was expressed that the rule as to the liability of the railroad company for injury to an employee of the lumber company temporarily occupying with its own cars and engine the track of the railroad company, by permission of the latter, is quite different from that as to the liability of railroad companies to passengers or to the public generally—Central of Georgia Ry Co v. Bessinger, 87 S E 920, 17 Ga App. 617.

91. Ind.—Cleveland, C., C & St. L. R Co. v. Henry, App, 80 N E 636, rehearing denied 81 N E 593, superseded 83 N E. 710, 170 Ind. 94.

The carrier's duty to exercise the care, skill, and diligence which it must exercise toward a passenger extends in general to every case in which a carrier receives and agrees to transport a person not in its employment, whether by contract with the person to be carried, or with some other person,[92] as where the contract is made with another person by whom the person to be carried is employed, for the purpose of transacting the employer's business on the cars or other conveyances of the carrier,[93] and the carrier may be liable for injuries resulting from a failure to comply with such duty.[94]

Employee of carrier. The liability of a railroad company for personal injury to its employee who travels to and from his work on a free pass has been recognized where at the time of the accident he was not acting in the capacity of an employee.[95]

Express messenger. An express messenger whom a railroad company is carrying under a contract with an express company does not, it has been held, assume the risks resulting from the negligence of the railroad company in the management of its trains.[96] It has been held that a railroad company owes an express messenger at least as high degree of care for his protection as it owes to its own employees.[97]

Mail clerk. The foregoing rules apply in the case of a postal or mail clerk[98] Regardless of whether or not the relation between a railroad mail clerk and a railroad company is that of passenger and carrier, it has been held that it is the duty of the railroad company to exercise such care as a person of ordinary prudence would exercise under like conditions and like circumstances for the safety of such clerk.[99]

While a postal or mail clerk or agent may not rely on the contract between the railroad carrier and the government as a basis of recovery, he may rely on the breach of duty which the law imposes on every person who undertakes to perform even a gratuitous service for another to exercise the care and skill which the nature of the undertaking requires.[1] The railroad company in carrying the mails is not an agent or public officer engaged in a governmental function, so as to be exempt from liability for the negligence of its employees which results in injury to a mail clerk.[2]

Persons accompanying live stock. Subject to certain limitations and qualifications due to the mode of travel, the contract of carriage, and the duties of the person who is traveling, the carrier's duty to a person traveling on a drover's pass or under a similar contract, to accompany live stock is substantially the same as that which the carrier owes to an ordinary passenger, and a breach of such duty may constitute negligence for which the carrier is liable.[3] The carrier must exercise reasonable care for the safety of a caretaker while engaged in car-

92. Ill.—Barker v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 90 N.E. 1057, 243 Ill. 482, 134 Am.S.R. 382, 26 L.R.A.,N.S., 1058.
10 C.J. p. 874 note 90, p. 875 note 92.
Who are passengers see supra §§ 544–566.

93. Me.—Miller v. Maine Cent. R. Co., 133 A. 907, 125 Me. 338, 47 A.L.R. 720.
10 C.J. p. 875 note 93.

Pass issued pursuant to contract
Where plaintiff was not a trespasser, but rode with the consent of the carrier under an agreement between her employer and the carrier, plaintiff was entitled to due care unless she was precluded from recovering by reason of her knowledge of the pass limiting the carrier's liability.—Western Maryland Ry. Co. v. Shaizer, 120 A. 840, 142 Md. 274.
Employees of other as passengers in general see supra § 547.

94. Me.—Miller v. Maine Cent. R. Co., 133 A. 907, 125 Me. 338, 47 A.L.R. 720.
10 C.J. p. 874 note 90, p. 875 notes 91–93.

95. Mass.—Palmer v. Boston & M. R. R., 116 N.E. 899, 227 Mass. 493.
Employee of carrier as passenger in general see supra § 546.

96. Ohio. — Pennsylvania Co. v. Woodworth, 26 Ohio St. 585
Express messenger as passenger in general see supra § 547.

97. Va.—Shannon v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 52 S.E. 376, 104 Va. 645.

98. Ala.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Bowen, 103 So. 872, 212 Ala. 690
Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Dougherty, 185 S.W. 114, 170 Ky. 10, L.R.A.1916E 464.
Ohio.—Pittsburg, C., C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Pool, 17 Ohio Cir.Ct.,N.S., 404.
Mo.—Scheipers v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 298 S.W. 51.
10 C.J. p. 875 note 94.

Written contract unnecessary
To establish a liability of a railroad company for injuries to a United States mail clerk, it is not necessary to show a written contract between the company and the United States to carry mail.—International, etc., R. Co. v. Davis, 43 S.W. 540, 17 Tex.Civ.App. 340

Highest degree of care
A railway mail clerk is entitled to the highest degree of care.—Carter v. Washington & O. D. Ry., 95 S.E. 464, 122 Va. 458.
Postal or mail clerk as passenger in general see supra § 548.

99. Ind.—Pittsburgh, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Arnott, 126 N.E. 13, 189 Ind. 350.

1. Ala.—Southern R. Co. v. Harrington, 52 So. 57, 166 Ala. 630, 139 Am.S.R. 59

2. Ill.—Barker v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 90 N.E. 1057, 243 Ill. 482, 134 Am.S.R. 382, 26 L.R.A.,N.S., 1058
10 C.J. p. 875 note 94 [c] (2).

3. Ark.—Beasley v. Hines, 219 S.W. 757, 143 Ark. 54, 15 A.L.R. 864.
Tex.—Yoes v. Texas & R. Ry. Co. Civ.App., 211 S.W. 311, error refused.
10 C.J. p. 875 note 96.
Person riding on drover's pass or under like arrangement as passenger in general see supra § 551.

High degree of care
Aside from stipulations in drover's pass which relieve the carrier of certain specified obligations, the carrier owes a person riding on such pass that high degree of care which a very cautious and prudent person would exercise, under the same or similar circumstances, to protect such person from injuries, and a failure to use such care is

ing for stock in the yards of the carrier,[4] and whether the person accompanying stock pursuant to contract is regarded as a passenger or as a licensee, it is the duty of the carrier to exercise reasonable care to provide and keep in a reasonably safe condition instrumentalities provided for use in transportation and handling of stock.[5] The duty of a carrier to a caretaker accompanying live stock is modified by the fact that the duties of a caretaker expose him to certain perils not incident to ordinary travel.[6]

In respect of the return passage of a caretaker on the carrier's passenger train pursuant to a contract for the shipment of livestock, the caretaker is entitled to the high degree of care required of a carrier in respect of a passenger, and the carrier is liable for a breach of duty in this regard.[7]

§ 700. Licensees and Trespassers

With respect to trespassers and licensees on its cars or premises, a carrier must avoid wanton or willful injury to such persons, and must also exercise ordinary care to avoid injury to them after their presence has been discovered.

A mere licensee[8] or trespasser,[9] or other person negligence for which the carrier may be liable.—Roberts v. Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co., Tex.Civ.App., 229 S.W. 954—Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Tillman, Tex.Civ.App., 197 S.W. 1128, error refused.

Degree of care as affected by carriage on freight or mixed train see supra § 684.

4. Okl.—Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. Steinberger, 171 P. 716, 68 Okl. 57.

10 C.J. p. 875 note 96 [a].

Crossing tracks

Owner accompanying shipment of live stock under contract with carrier had carrier's implied consent to cross tracks in its yard to look after stock, and in such case carrier must exercise reasonable care for his safety.—Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. Steinberger, 171 P. 716, 68 Okl. 57.

5. N.D.—Wall v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 175 N.W. 705, 43 N.D. 422.

6. Tenn.—Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry. v. Hopper, 217 S.W. 661, 142 Tenn. 200.

Person riding in stock car

In measuring the degree of care to which a passenger is entitled, the circumstances of the particular case should be considered, a passenger riding in a stock car not being entitled to the same protection as one riding in a passenger train or in a caboose.—Beasley v. Hines, 219 S.W. 757, 143 Ark. 54, 15 A.L.R. 864.

7. Minn.—Gruhl v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 168 N.W. 127, 140 Minn. 353.

8. Ark.—St. Louis-San Francisco R. Co. v. Bley, 271 S.W. 455, 168 Ark. 814.

La.—Bonner v. Louisiana Central Lumber Co., App., 160 So. 325.

Okl.—St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Stacy, 171 P. 870, 77 Okl. 165.

10 C.J. p. 875 note 1

To whom carrier liable for unsafe premises see infra § 722

Intention to become passenger

As respects railroad's liability to purchaser of passenger train ticket, who was allegedly struck by swinging timber on box car of passing freight train, purchaser who was approaching place where he would embark on train, two or three hours later, was at most a mere "licensee."—Reed v. Baldwin, 92 S.W.2d 392, 192 Ark. 491

General public visiting waiting room

Carrier owes no duty to general public visiting depot waiting rooms except to abstain from willful, wanton injury.—Manatis v. Cumberland & M. R. Co., 300 S.W. 593, 222 Ky. 190.

No contract

Where plaintiff contracted with defendant, a carrier, to carry goods for him in a baggage truck, and defendant sent his servant with such truck, and plaintiff without defendant's authority rode in truck and was thrown out, as defendant had not contracted to carry plaintiff, carrier is not liable for his injury.—Gruber v. Cater Transfer Co., 165 P. 491, 96 Wash. 544, L.R.A.1917F 422.

Tenant riding elevator

Tenant attempting to move furniture into building closed to reception of freight was "licensee," precluding recovery for injuries sustained while riding elevator.—Barton v. Republican Co., 178 N.E. 605, 277 Mass. 299.

Person using car as passageway

Elevated railroad's passenger, passing through car to get on other side of platform, was at most a licensee, to whom carrier owed no duty except to refrain from wanton misconduct.—Rhoades v. Boston Elevated Ry. Co., 122 N.E. 194, 232 Mass. 361.

Entering car on private business

A person has no right as a matter of law to enter a public conveyance operated by a common carrier of passengers, for his private purposes alone. Demurrer to complaint was properly sustained in an action for the death of a person who had entered a passenger coach for the purpose of procuring one already therein to transact an errand for him, but did not intend to become a passenger himself, and was killed when attempting to alight.—Rowell v. Hines, 103 S.E. 545, 114 S.C. 339.

9. U.S.—Trapnell v. Hines, C.C.A.N.J., 268 F. 504.

Ga.—Madden v. S. L. Mitchell Automobile Co., 94 S.E. 92, 21 Ga.App. 108

Ill.—See Abt v. Chicago Rys. Co., 207 Ill.App. 314.

Ky.—See Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Moss, 13 Ky.L. 684

Tenn.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Martin, 186 S.W. 595, 135 Tenn. 435, L.R.A.1917A 417.

Utah.—Bergman v. Denver & R. G. R. Co., 178 P. 68, 53 Utah 213.

10 C.J. p. 876 note 2.

Extraordinary diligence not required

Railroad company does not owe trespasser duty of extraordinary diligence, owing to passengers under Civ.Code 1910 § 2714, but trespasser is entitled to protection against willful, wanton, and unnecessary violence by employees.—Payne v. Allen, 116 S.E. 640, 155 Ga. 54, reversing 116 S.E. 345, 28 Ga.App. 8, conformed to 116 S.E. 642, 30 Ga.App. 80

Duty to discover trespasser

Railroad is under no duty to discover presence of trespassers on train.—Bergman v. Denver & R. G. R. Co., 178 P. 68, 53 Utah 213

Elevator

Hotel owner was not negligent as to injuries sustained by trespassing child riding on elevator, from contact with wall of elevator shaft.—Crawford v. Rice, C.C.A.Tex., 36 F.2d 199.

Person assisting passenger

Where a person enters the carrier's car for the purpose of assisting a passenger, the carrier is not required to exercise toward him the degree of care required of it toward passengers, but it owes him the duty of ordinary care after it is aware of his presence within the car.—Mahoning Valley Ry. Co. v. Gorz, 6 Ohio App. 474.

Person accompanying live stock not trespasser

Where the contract between a car-

not occupying the status of a passenger,[10] on the carrier's cars or premises is entitled to no protection from the carrier except that it should not wantonly or willfully injure him, or in other words, that it should exercise ordinary care to avoid injuring him after discovering his presence; and this rule applies to one who enters a train or car for the purpose of stealing a ride,[11] or without any intention of paying fare under a collusive agreement with the conductor or some other agent,[12] in violation of the rules of the carrier; and it applies also to one who, although a passenger, puts himself in the position of a trespasser by violating some rule or regulation of the carrier.[13] According to some cases, however, although there is authority to the contrary,[14] a child of tender years who is invited to ride by the motorman of a street car is lawfully on such car and the carrier owes the same duty to such child that it owes to a passenger, notwithstanding such child has not paid any fare.[15]

Whether a person riding on a conveyance belonging to a carrier is a licensee or trespasser, the carrier has the duty not to injure such person wantonly or willfully,[16] and, according to some cases, must protect him from willful and wanton misconduct of the agents of the carrier;[17] and for a breach by a servant of the carrier of the duty to use ordinary care to avoid injuring a licensee[18] or trespasser[19] after discovering his peril, the carrier may be liable, as, for example, where an injury is caused by the wanton or willful act of such servant.[20] Also, where an employee of a carrier, rier and an owner of live stock permitted the owner to accompany the car containing the stock but contemplated that he should ride in the caboose, he was not a trespasser, within the meaning of the rule here under consideration, at a time when he was caring for the stock as authorized by the contract, notwithstanding he was traveling in the car containing the stock, accompanied by his sons who were not entitled to free transportation.—Lincoln v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., 7 S.W.2d 460, 223 Mo.App. 46.

10. Mass.—Nuttall v. Worcester Consol. St. Ry. Co., 114 N.E. 291, 225 Mass. 167.
Who are passengers see supra §§ 544–566.

Improper boarding place

A person boarding train on side opposite platform, platform being proper and usual boarding place, without knowledge of train operators, was not "passenger" to whom railroad owed high degree of care, and could not recover for injuries sustained when train allegedly started with unusual jerk.—Bernardine v. Erie R. Co., 164 A. 265, 110 N.J. Law 338.

11. Utah.—Bergman v. Denver & R. G. R. Co., 178 P. 68, 53 Utah 213.
10 C.J. p 876 note 3.

Care as to equipment of train

Railroad owed trespasser stealing ride no duty to equip its train in such a way that the rear engine would have control over the automatic air brakes, nor so to equip train that stop signals given by train air whistles could be passed directly to lead engine.—Bergman v. Denver & R. G. R. Co., 178 P. 68, 53 Utah 213.

Carrier liable

The rule stated in the text was apparently recognized in a case in which the right of a person who was injured while riding on a street car to recover was upheld.—Union Traction Co. of Indiana v. Alstadt, 143 N.E. 879, 195 Ind. 389.

12. U.S.—Purple v. Union Pac. R. Co., Kan., 114 F. 123, 51 C.C.A. 564, 57 L.R.A. 700.
10 C.J. p 876 note 3.

Trainmen's permission to ride

Although young men beating their way on a freight train paid the trainmen a trifling sum for permission to ride, the railway was not liable for injuries to them when their legs, hanging out the door of an extra wide car, struck an obstacle, they having been mere trespassers, to warn whom the trainmen were under no legal duty, but only to refrain from negligently injuring them after discovery of peril.—Williams v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co., 215 S.W. 605, 139 Ark. 562.

13. Mass.—Renaud v. New York, etc., R. Co., 97 N.E. 98, 210 Mass. 553, 38 L.R.A.,N.S., 689—Yancey v. Boston El. R. Co., 91 N.E. 202, 205 Mass. 162, 137 Am.S.R. 431, 26 L.R.A.,N.S., 1217.
10 C.J. p 876 note 4.

Carrier's failure to object

Mere fact that, when prospective passenger on freight train trespassed on part of right of way not intended for his use, he was not ejected, did not make him invitee to go into same place second time, especially where dangerous condition was obvious.—Hamilton v. Pryor, Mo., 201 S.W. 550, L.R.A.1918D 212.

14. Child a trespasser

If a motorman in the state of Maine did not have apparent or implied authority to invite an eleven year old child to become a passenger without the payment of a fare, then such child was a trespasser, to whom the carrier only owed the negative duty of not injuring by willful or wanton conduct, in view of Me. Rev.St. c 55 § 34.—Meloon v. Davis, C.C.A.N.H., 292 F. 82.

15. Ill.—Hayes v. Sampsell, 113 N.E. 611, 274 Ill. 258, affirming 195 Ill.App. 365.
N.J.—Solomon v. Public Service Ry. Co., 92 A. 942, 87 N.J.Law 284.

Motorman's violation of orders

The fact that the motorman violated orders in receiving a child of tender years on the car did not affect the status of such child.—Hayes v. Sampsell, 195 Ill.App. 365, affirmed 113 N.E. 611, 274 Ill. 258.

16. Tenn.—Hoover Motor Express Co. v. Thomas, 65 S.W.2d 621, 16 Tenn.App. 664.

17. Tenn.—Louisville & N. Ry. Co. v. Hadley, 11 Tenn.App. 642.

18. Md.—Carr v. United Rys. & Electric Co. of Baltimore, 108 A. 872, 135 Md. 307.

19. Ga.—Madden v. S. L. Mitchell Automobile Co., 94 S.E. 92, 21 Ga.App. 108.

Passenger failing to leave train in time

A railroad's negro porter, running along beside a train, after it left a station, endeavoring to board, owed the duty to a person thereon, who had neglected to leave the train at the stop, to use care not to injure such person while the latter was trying to alight, even assuming that such person was a trespasser because of his failure to leave the train sooner, and the carrier was liable where there was a failure to comply with such duty.—Paris & G. N. R. Co. v. Campbell, Tex.Civ.App., 185 S.W. 346.

20. Ga.—Madden v. S. L. Mitchell Automobile Co., 94 S.E. 92, 21 Ga.App. 108.
Tenn.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Marlin, 186 S.W. 595, 135 Tenn. 435, L.R.A.1917A 417.

knowing that a child of tender years is trespassing on a vehicle under his care, negligently acts in such a manner as to injure the trespasser, his conduct is viewed in law as intentional, or willful and wanton.[21]

§ 701. Companies or Persons Liable

The fact that a carrier does not own the vehicle or track used for the transportation of passengers does not relieve the carrier of liability where it is in control of operation.

A carrier operating a car or train is liable for negligent or wrongful injuries to passengers thereon, whether or not it owns the car or train or track.[22] So, where a carrier of passengers by railroad uses cars which belong to another company, it will, by reason of its obligation to provide adequate and sufficient vehicles for safe conveyance, be liable for accidents arising from such defects in the cars as are discoverable on a careful and thorough examination.[23] So, also, a bus company is liable for an injury to one of a group of people whom it has agreed to transport notwithstanding the injured person, at the time of the accident, is riding in a bus which such company has obtained from another company by independent contract, in order to perform the contract to transport.[24] A carrier operating its trains over a bridge and having charge of a platform thereon is not absolved from liability for injuries to passengers from the dangerous condition thereof, by reason of the fact that the city is in general possession of the bridge and attends to necessary repairs.[25] A person or corporation that holds himself or itself out as the operator of a vehicle of carriage may not, under certain circumstances at least, be entitled to deny liability for an injury to a passenger by showing that the driver is an independent contractor[26] or that he is not the agent of such person or corporation.[27] So the fact that another corporation actually manages a railroad station does not relieve the carrier, whom it is sought to charge, of responsibility to passengers who are using the station facilities at such carrier's invitation.[28]

A carrier using a platform or station constructed or controlled by another owes the duty to its passengers of keeping and maintaining it in a reasonably safe condition, and becomes liable for failure to perform this duty.[29]

A carrier is not liable for injuries to a passenger from a cause which is not under its control and in respect to which it owes no duty to the passenger;[30] hence in general it is not liable where it does not own or control the track or car at the time a passenger thereon is injured,[31] although the passenger is not bound by a secret arrangement between the carrier with which he contracts and another carrier, under which the other carrier has exclusive control of the car in which the passenger is riding, and of which arrangement he has no notice.[32]

One railroad company does not become liable for the negligence of another merely by reason of being a stockholder in the corporation guilty of the negligent act.[33] Where, however, one company actually controls another, and operates its line of road

21. Pa—Petrowski v. Philadelphia, etc, R. Co., 107 A. 381, 263 Pa. 531.

22. Ind—Winona Interurban R. Co. v. Williard, 101 N.E 1022, 54 Ind. App. 472
Mass—Fletcher v. Boston, etc., R. Co, 1 Allen 9, 79 Am.D. 695.
10 C.J. p 876 note 8.

Where one railroad company depends on another for motive power, negligence of the second in the operation of the train will be chargeable to the first.—Keep v. Indianapolis & St. L. R. Co., C.C Mo., 10 F. 454, 3 McCrary 302.

23. U.S—Pennsylvania Co v. Roy, Ill, 102 U.S 451, 26 L Ed. 141.

24. Ala—Dixie Stage Lines v. Anderson, 134 So. 23, 222 Ala. 673.

25. N Y—Waldman v. Brooklyn Union El R Co, 120 N.Y S. 1017, 136 App.Div 376

26. D C—Rhone v Try Me Cab Co, 65 F.2d 834 62 App D.C. 201.

Taxicab
Taxicab corporation and registered owner of taxicab could not avoid liability to a passenger by showing that the driver was an independent contractor—Rhone v. Try Me Cab Co, 65 F 2d 834, 62 App.D C 201.

27. Tex.—McCarthy v. Valdez, Civ. App., 10 S.W.2d 1051, error dismissed.

Driver's own car
Defendant motorbus firm employing driver to operate his own car along defendants' route under defendants' permit and to solicit business in defendants' name, was estopped to deny his agency as to injured passenger.—McCarthy v Valdez, Tex Civ App., 10 S W.2d 1051, error dismissed

28. Md—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Hoover, 120 A. 526, 142 Md. 251.

29. La—Leveret v. Shreveport Belt R. Co., 34 So 579, 110 La 399
Tex—Houston, etc., R Co. v. McCarty, 89 S W. 805, 40 Tex Civ. App. 364
10 C J. p 878 note 29

30. Mo.—Reynolds v. St. Louis Southwestern R. Co, 142 S.W 1097, 162 Mo App 618.
10 C J. p 877 note 10.

31. Ill—Pell v. Joliet, etc., R Co., 87 N E 542, 238 Ill. 510, affirming 142 Ill App. 362.
10 C J. p 877 note 11.

32. This Corpus Juris statement has been quoted with approval in Pugh v. Washington Ry & Electric Co, 106 A. 522, 134 Md. 196

33. Kan.—Mathews v. Atchison, etc, R. Co, 55 P. 282, 60 Kan. 11

Majority stockholder
The mere fact that a railroad company owned seventy per cent of the common stock of another railroad company which was responsible for the operation of a train when a railway mail clerk was exposed to cold and sustained an alleged impairment of health did not make the former company liable for the latter company's acts on the theory of agency.—Casey v Northern Pac Ry. Co, 213 N.W. 57, 171 Minn. 34.

as a single system, and sells tickets at the stations of the subordinate line over its system, the dominant company will be liable for injuries suffered by a passenger due to the negligence of the subordinate, although the subordinate company keeps up its corporate organization.[34] So it has been held that a street railroad company which actually controls the operations of a bus company is liable for an injury to a passenger of the bus company caused by the negligence of an employee of the latter company.[35]

A corporation which purchases the property, assets, and franchises of another corporation which is a carrier of passengers does not, merely by reason of such purchase, become liable for an injury to a passenger sustained prior to the purchase while riding in a vehicle of the seller, even though such assets in the hands of the transferee remain subject to the debts of the transferor;[36] in such case no agreement on the part of the transferee to assume liability may be implied from the mere fact of the transfer.[37]

A street railroad company may not evade its duty to passengers, nor avoid liability for negligence resulting in personal injuries to them, by its operating contracts with other corporations.[38]

The receivers of a railroad or street railroad who are vested with the power to manage and operate it are liable as receivers for injuries to a passenger from negligence in its operation, as shown below in § 711, and the company is not in general liable for such negligence.[39] Liability for injuries sustained while the receivers were operating the road is sometimes imposed on the purchaser at foreclosure by the decree of sale.[40]

A railroad company which constructs a line into a military reservation with knowledge that it is to be used to transport soldiers may be liable for injuries to soldiers sustained while they are being transported over such line where such injuries are caused by the dangerous condition of such road due to faulty construction by such company and the railroad company, before turning over the line to the military authorities had knowledge of such condition and of the use which was to be made of the line, and the fact that the military authorities have accepted the line and are operating the train when the accident occurred does not relieve the railroad company of liability.[41] The railroad company that constructed the line is not liable, however, where the accident which caused the injuries is not due to defects in the original construction but to changes made by the military authorities after the line had been turned over to them and while they were in absolute control.[42] For injuries to soldiers due solely to the negligence of the military authorities in respect of the speed or make up of the train, neither the railroad company that constructed the line nor the director general of railroads was liable where the military authorities had absolute control in respect of operation.[43]

Liability of company selling ticket or permitting others to sell tickets; recovery over. A company selling a ticket to a passenger is liable for an injury resulting to him through the negligence of those operating the train, although such train is owned and operated by a different company, the ticket being receivable for passage thereon through

34. Okl.—St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Sanford, 153 P. 650, 54 Okl. 185.

35. Md.—Baltimore Transit Co. v. Swindell, 103 A. 566, 132 Md. 274.

36. Cal.—Duran v. Pickwick Stages System, 35 P.2d 148, 140 Cal.App. 103.

N.C.—Begnell v. Safety Coach Line, 153 S.E. 264, 198 N.C. 688.

Statutory provisions

Even though the provisions of Comp.St. § 1138 applied to the sale of the assets, franchises, etc., of one bus corporation to another, at most such provisions would render the conveyance void, with the result that the property conveyed would be subject to levy and sale in an action by the passenger against the transferor notwithstanding the transferee was in possession, but would not render the transferee liable. Comp.St. § 1013 which applies only to a sale in bulk of a large part or the whole of a stock of merchandise did not apply to the above sale by the bus company, and did not render the transferee liable. —Begnell v. Safety Coach Line, 153 S.E. 264, 198 N.C. 688.

37. Cal.—Duran v. Pickwick Stages System, 35 P.2d 148, 140 Cal.App. 103.

38. Neb.—Tankersley v. Lincoln Traction Co., 175 N.W. 602, 104 Neb. 24, 10 A.L.R. 1510.

39. Ill.—Glover v. Insull, 213 Ill.App. 268.

Mo.—Moore v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 176 S.W. 1120, 189 Mo.App. 555.

After discharge of receiver

Railroad company to which its property was returned after discharge of receiver was not liable to passenger, injured by trainmen when road was in hands of receiver, where receiver made no earnings while operating road's properties, and there was no showing that there were any betterments during the period of the receiver's control, that the railroad corporation had assumed liability, or that the court which had jurisdiction of the receivership had imposed liability on such company.—Beaumont, S. L. & W. Ry. Co. v. Daniel, Tex.Civ.App., 195 S.W. 625.

40. Ill.—White v. Chicago, P. & St. L. R. Co., 196 Ill.App. 459.

41. U.S.—Bryson v. Hines, C.C.A.N.C., 268 F. 290, 11 A.L.R. 1438.

Exemption of government

The fact that the government was exempt from suit in respect of the injuries referred to in the text does not affect the liability of the railroad company.—Bryson v. Hines, C.C.A.N.C., 268 F. 290, 11 A.L.R. 1438.

42. U.S.—Heise v. Davis, C.C.A.S.C., 275 F. 326.

43. U.S.—Heise v. Davis, supra—Bryson v. Hines, C.C.A.N.C., 268 F. 290, 11 A.L.R. 1438.

an arrangement between the two companies,[44] and this has also been held to be true as to a carrier issuing tickets in its own name and supplying them to another carrier which sells them.[45]

The fact that a carrier whose employee has negligently caused an injury to a passenger holding a ticket of such carrier has an agreement with another carrier under which the latter transports passengers holding tickets of the former does not affect the liability of the carrier whose employee caused the injury.[46]

A carrier whose negligence causes an injury to a passenger who was transported under an agreement between such carrier and the carrier who sold the ticket to the passenger is liable over to the carrier who sold the ticket where the latter has been compelled to pay damages to the passenger.[47]

Ownership and control of taxicab. According to some cases a corporation which furnishes a taxicab on request may not avoid liability for injuries to a passenger on the ground that the taxicab, notwithstanding it bears the name of the corporation, is owned and operated by another;[48] it must actually appear, however, that the corporation which it is sought to charge actually undertook to provide the taxicab.[49] Where the theory on which liability of a corporation which is not the owner of a cab, and of the owner of the cab is asserted is that they are engaged in a joint venture and that the driver is the agent and employee of the corporation and under its control, a passenger who is injured while in the cab may not recover from such corporation if the owner is an independent contractor since the corporation would not be liable for the negligence of the owner or of his employee;[50] on the other hand the corporation is liable if the owner turned over the cab and the driver to the corporation and made them subject to its control.[51]

Elevators. The owner of a building at the time an elevator therein breaks, and injures a passenger, because of the negligence of the manufacturer in not making a proper test, is liable for the injuries, although the building was owned by another at the time the elevator was installed.[52] The determination of the question as to who is liable for an injury to a passenger depends in general on who has actual possession and control of the premises in which the elevator is located, and the person who is in actual possession and control is liable notwithstanding another is legally entitled to possession and control of the building.[53] The mere fact that a trespasser who has attempted to operate an elevator is still on the elevator when a passenger is injured does not permit the owner and the owner's servant to avoid liability for their negligence in connection with the operation of the elevator.[54]

44. U.S.—Barkman v. Pennsylvania R. Co., C.C.N.J., 89 F. 453.
10 C.J. p 877 note 16.

Commutation ticket

Plaintiff, having commutation ticket of defendant railroad company, riding on train of another company furnished for plaintiff's transportation, was passenger of defendant company, making latter liable for plaintiff's injuries.—McCarron v Erie R. Co., 159 A. 807, 10 N.J.Misc. 498.

45. Pa.—Mullen v. Chester Tract. Co., 84 A. 429, 235 Pa. 516, 42 L.R.A.,N.S., 76 and note.
10 C.J. p 877 note 17.

46. Cal.—Sanchez v. Pacific Auto Stages, 2 P.2d 845, 116 Cal.App. 392.

47. Ill.—Purple Swan Safety Coach Lines v. Egyptian Transp. Co., 256 Ill.App. 442.

48. D.C.—Rhone v. Try Me Cab Co., 65 F.2d 834, 62 App.D.C. 201
Fla.—Economy Cabs v. Kirkland, 174 So. 222, 127 Fla. 867, affirmed 176 So. 151, 129 Fla. 309.

Corporations having same office and telephone number

Where two corporations have the same office and telephone number and one of the corporations owns and operates taxicabs and the other furnished limousines and touring cars but is not engaged in the cab business, it seems that, if the latter corporation, in answer to a telephone request, undertakes to provide a taxicab, it is its duty to provide a safe taxicab and a careful driver.—Bergenthal v. State Garage & Trucking Co., 190 N.W. 901, 179 Wis. 42.

49. Wis.—Bergenthal v. State Garage & Trucking Co., supra.

Corporations having same office and telephone number

Where an automobile livery company and a cab company were made up of the same stockholders and officers, and occupied the same offices, with joint office employees and used a common telephone, and a telephone call for a cab was received from an unknown person, who did not ask which company he was talking to, but merely ordered a cab, which was furnished by the cab company, the auto livery company could not be held liable for injuries resulting from the negligence of the cab driver.—Bergenthal v. State Garage & Trucking Co., 190 N.W. 901, 179 Wis. 42.

50. Ind.—United Transp. Co. v. Jeffries, App., 200 N.E. 424, superseded 5 N.E.2d 524, 211 Ind. 226.

51. United Transp. Co. v. Jeffries, supra.

52. Wis.—Dibbert v. Metropolitan Inv. Co., 147 N.W. 3, 148 N.W. 1095, 158 Wis. 69, L.R.A.1915D 305, 312, Ann.Cas.1916E 924.

53. Cal.—Benussi v. Hannah, 199 P. 1063, 53 Cal.App. 243.

Purchaser on foreclosure

In an action for negligent death of tenant of apartment in elevator, facts warranted a finding that the actual possession and actual control of the apartment building had been taken over by defendant before the accident, and that a receiver in mortgage foreclosure proceedings was not in possession and control thereof, although the receiver's account was not settled and he was not discharged until after the accident occurred, defendant being the purchaser at the sale under the mortgage.—Benussi v. Hannah, 199 P. 1063, 53 Cal.App. 243.

54. Mo.—Williams v. Short, 268 S.

§ 702. Connecting Carriers

A carrier who sells a ticket for transportation of a passenger over its own and connecting lines is in general liable only for injuries due to the torts of its own employees. A carrier other than the initial carrier is in general liable only for injuries occurring on its own line through the torts of its own employees.

While there have been some decisions to the effect that a ticket for transportation over connecting lines is presumed to be the through contract of the carrier who sells the ticket, as shown above in § 652, in accordance with the rule usually recognized that the sale by a carrier of an ordinary coupon ticket for transportation over its own and an independent connecting line does not of itself create a contract for through transportation, as shown above in § 652, a carrier selling a ticket to a passenger over its own and connecting lines is ordinarily liable only for injuries to such passenger caused by the negligence of its own employees.[55] Its liability extends to their negligence while operating its car on the connecting line,[56] but not for injuries occurring on the line of the connecting carrier through the negligence of the latter's employees,[57] and the fact that the initial carrier is a stockholder in the connecting line does not render it liable for the negligence of the latter's employees.[58] The initial carrier may, however, by a contract for through transportation render itself liable for injuries caused by the negligence or other torts of the connecting carrier.[59] So, where the relation between the initial and the connecting carriers is in the nature of a partnership and they are in a sense joint operators of cars over the through route, the initial carrier may be liable for an injury sustained by a passenger as a result of the failure of the employee in charge of the car properly to protect the passenger.[60] It has been held that, even though the initial carrier purports to act only as agent in contracting for transportation beyond its line, it may be liable for an injury sustained by the passenger beyond its line if it contracts in its own name without disclosing the name of the principal, notwithstanding the passenger knew at the time of the contract that the agent was acting as principal.[61] Even though the ticket creates separate

W. 706, 219 Mo.App. 99, transferred, Sup., 263 S.W. 200.

Duty to carry

Where one offered himself as elevator passenger on first floor of a public building and was carried to fourth floor by regular operator, there was an implied obligation to take him down, and hence, in action for death of such passenger, based on bad condition of elevator and negligence of regular operator in operating elevator from outside, fact that alleged trespasser who had attempted to operate elevator was on elevator at time of passenger's death did not relieve defendant from liability.—Williams v. Short, 268 S.W. 706, 219 Mo App. 99, transferred, Sup., 263 S.W. 200.

55. U.S.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Jones, D.C., 15 S.Ct. 136, 155 U.S. 333, 39 L.Ed. 176.
N.Y.—Brook v. Brooklyn Union El. R. Co., 133 N.Y.S. 253, 148 App. Div. 668.
But the view has been expressed that the initial carrier was liable for an injury sustained at an intermediate point in the journey after the passenger had left the line of the initial carrier.—Gray v. Colorado Southern Ry. Co., Tex.Civ.App., 204 S.W. 347.
Nature and extent of connecting carrier's liability see supra § 653.

56. Pa.—Moss v. Lancaster, etc., R. Co., 33 Pa.Super. 1, affirmed 67 A. 869, 218 Pa. 601.
S.C.—Oliver v. Columbia, etc., R. Co., 43 S.E. 307, 65 S.C. 1.
10 C.J. p 877 note 20.

Collection of fare by zones

Where plaintiffs took passage on defendant suburban electric railway's car for continuous passage on the same car to a point in another state, knowing no other carrier than defendant, defendant was liable for collision damages, although fare was collected in six installments of nickel each, and collision occurred in fifth fare zone, over state line, on tracks belonging to another company on which defendant operated under operating agreement, and although defendant had no charter to operate outside state.—Simpson v. Southern Pennsylvania Traction Co., 103 A. 884, 260 Pa. 526.

57. U.S.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Jones, D.C., 15 S.Ct. 136, 155 U.S. 333, 39 L.Ed. 176.
S.C.—Seibels v. Northern Cent. R. Co., 61 S.E. 435, 80 S.C. 133, 16 L.R.A.,N.S., 1026.
10 C.J. p 877 note 21.

58. Kan.—Mathews v. Atchison etc., R. Co., 55 P. 282, 60 Kan 11.

59. Md.—Pugh v. Washington Ry. & Electric Co., 106 A. 522, 134 Md 196.
Pa.—Beamer v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 50 Pa.Super. 211.
Tex.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Ryon, Civ.App., 177 S.W. 525.

60. Md.—Pugh v. Washington Ry. & Electric Co., 106 A. 522, 134 Md. 196.

Protection from acts of third person

Where street car was operated to certain point by one company and beyond such point and to end of trip by another company, with same car employees, without charge of additional fare and without notice to passenger that when car reached such point latter company acquired control, and where both companies had same officers, directors, and employees and were parts of one street car system referred to as "the company," the initial carrier was equally liable with the connecting carrier for conductor's failure to protect passenger during that part of trip when car was operated over lines of the connecting carrier.—Pugh v. Washington Ry. & Electric Co., 106 A. 522, 134 Md 196.

61. Tex.—Boyles v. McClure, Com. App., 243 S.W. 1080, modifying McAdoo v. McClure, Civ.App., 232 S.W. 348.

Sufficiency of disclosure

It seems that the fact that the conductor of the train of the initial carrier pointed out to the passenger, when the latter left such train, the bus which the latter was to take for transfer to the station of another railroad would not be such a disclosure of the carrier by bus as would relieve the initial carrier of liability for an injury sustained by the passenger while on the bus, on the theory that disclosure of the carrier by bus should have been made when the contract was made. In any event the disclosure was not sufficient where neither the conductor nor anyone else informed the passenger of the name of the carrier by bus and of the alleged fact contracts for carriage over two railroads, the initial carrier is obligated to some extent to furnish accommodations in connection with an opportunity for the passenger to make the transfer, and where, by its contract, the initial carrier assumes the obligation of providing transportation between its station and the station of the other railroad on which the passenger's journey is to continue, the initial carrier is liable for any injury sustained through the negligence of the driver of the vehicle furnished for the interstation transfer.[62]

Where the initial carrier furnishes the car in which the passenger is transported over the connecting line, it is liable for injuries caused by its negligently furnishing a defective car, irrespective of whether the injuries occur on its own line or on the line of the connecting carrier,[63] and notwithstanding its contract with the passenger purports to exempt it from liability for the connecting carrier's negligence, as shown above in § 638. A carrier, by lending its car and the service of an employee to a connecting carrier, is not, however, rendered liable for injuries to a passenger carried over the connecting line, caused by the connecting carrier's negligence, because the compensation for such loan is reckoned on the number of fares collected by the connecting carrier on that car.[64]

A connecting carrier ordinarily is liable only for injuries occurring over its own road through the negligence of its own employees,[65] and this rule applies where the contract is for transportation of a passenger in interstate commerce.[66] Notwithstanding a contract for through transportation is made by the initial carrier, a connecting or intermediate carrier is usually liable for a tort occurring on its line,[67] at least for the tort of its own servant or employee.[68] It has been held that, where a carrier selling a through ticket over several roads which are being operated under the name of a designated system acts as agent for the others, all of them are liable for injuries caused by the negligence of any one of them.[69]

§ 703. Carrier or Contractor

Whether or not a carrier is liable for the negligence or misconduct of a contractor whom the carrier has engaged for the construction of its road depends largely on whether or not the carrier has the right to control the activities of the contractor.

Where a carrier such as a railroad company contracts for the construction of its road by another person, in case of injuries occurring from the negligence or misconduct of the contractor or his employees the liability of the carrier depends primarily on whether or not it had the right to control the manner of doing the work.[70] If the contractor is an independent contractor, the carrier will not be liable for his negligence or wrongful acts,[71] unless the act is one concerning which the carrier owes a duty to its passengers to see properly done.[72] The railroad company is not liable for injuries to passengers caused by the negligence of the employees of a contractor, acting under the direction of an independent board appointed by the state over whom the railroad company has no control, unless its own employees fail to exercise proper care to that such carrier though not named in the ticket was a party to the contract of transportation.—Boyles v McClure, Tex.Com.App., 243 S.W. 1080, modifying McAdoo v. McClure, Civ.App., 232 S.W. 348.

62. U.S.—Harmon v. Barber, Ohio, 247 F. 1, 159 C.C.A. 219, certiorari denied 38 S.Ct. 335, 246 U.S. 666, 62 L.Ed. 929.

63. D.C.—Blatcher v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 31 App.D.C. 385, 16 L.R.A.,N.S., 991.
10 C.J. p 878 note 24.

64. Conn.—Wheeler v. Hartford, etc., R. Tramway Co., 69 A. 535, 80 Conn. 561.
10 C.J. p 878 note 26.

65. Tex.—International, etc., R. Co. v. Duncan, 121 S.W. 362, 55 Tex. Civ.App. 440.

66. Tex.—Gray v. Colorado Southern Ry. Co., Civ.App., 204 S.W. 347.

The Carmack amendment did not affect the rule stated in the text.—Gray v. Colorado Southern Ry. Co., Tex.Civ.App., 204 S.W. 347.

67. Ill.—Purple Swan Safety Coach Lines v. Egyptian Transp. Co., 256 Ill.App. 442.

68. Tex.—Gray v. Colorado Southern Ry. Co., Civ.App., 204 S.W. 347.

Bus connection

Where an intermediate carrier employed the owner of a bus to transfer the passenger from the railroad station of such intermediate carrier to the railroad station of the next carrier and the bus owner was the employee and servant of the intermediate carrier which so employed him, such intermediate carrier was liable for an injury to the passenger caused by the negligence of such bus owner.—Gray v. Colorado Southern Ry. Co., Tex.Civ.App., 204 S.W. 347.

69. Tex.—El Paso, etc., R. Co. v. Landon, 124 S.W. 744, 58 Tex.Civ.App. 397.

70. Tex.—Cunningham v. International R. Co., 51 Tex. 503, 32 Am. R. 632.

71. Pa.—Beckman v. Meadville, etc., St. R. Co., 67 A. 983, 219 Pa. 26.
10 C.J. p 878 note 33.

72. Ala.—Western Ry. of Alabama v. Turrentine, 73 So. 40, 197 Ala. 603.
W.Va.—Carrico v. West Virginia Central, etc., R. Co., 19 S.E. 571, 33 W.Va. 86, 24 L.R.A. 50.
10 C.J. p 878 note 34.

Condition of station platform

In a case in which the alleged injury resulted from the condition of the platform at a station, the view was expressed that the carrier could not avoid its duty of caring for the safety of its passengers by delegating such duty to a contractor.—Western Ry. of Alabama v. Turrentine, 73 So. 40, 197 Ala. 603.

anticipate and avoid the danger.[73]

It has been held that a principal contractor may be held liable for negligent injury to an employee of a subcontractor while such employee is being transported, in connection with the work involved, in a vehicle of the principal contractor, notwithstanding the contract between the principal contractor and the subcontractor places on the latter liability for injury to his employees.[74]

Operation of trains or cars. In case of injuries to passengers due to the negligence or improper operation of a train on a road, or parts thereof, which is being built by construction contractors, the railroad company will not be liable if the train is exclusively controlled and operated by the contractor and his employees, without the company's knowledge and against its prohibition, although the train belongs to the railroad company and was furnished to the contractor as a part of the consideration for the work done, and although the employees in charge of it were employed primarily by the railroad company.[75] The carrier's obligation to transport its passengers safely cannot, however, be shifted from itself by delegation to an independent contractor;[76] and, if it permits a contractor to exercise its franchises by running trains for general traffic on the road which he is constructing or repairing, it will be liable for injuries to passengers caused by the negligence of the contractor's employees in operating such trains.[77]

Elevators. Under certain circumstances a contractor who installs or repairs an elevator may be liable directly to a passenger who sustains injury as the result of negligence of such contractor in connection with such installation or repairs,[78] or may be liable by way of indemnity to the owner or operator of the building in which the elevator is installed.[79] Such contractor is not liable, however, in the absence of some actionable wrong or violation of duty on his part.[80]

§ 704. Carrier or Charterer

A carrier that charters its vehicles of carriage to private persons is liable for injuries to passengers due to the negligence of its employees in operating such vehicles if operation is under the control of such employees.

Where a carrier charters its train, cars, or other vehicles to private persons, it is liable for injuries to passengers caused by the negligence of its employees in operating the same if under their control;[81] and it is also liable for the negligence of such private persons if it permits them to operate the train or car.[82] The charterer may also be liable to its passengers for the negligence of the carrier.[83]

§ 705. Carrier Permitting Use of Road or Train by Another

The owner of a railroad or street railroad which permits another carrier to use the road may be liable for injuries to passengers which occur in connection with such use.

The company to which the franchises for the operation of a railroad or street railroad are granted by the state or municipality cannot, without legislative or municipal authority, farm out its franchises, or permit by lease, license, or otherwise, another company or person to use them, so as to avoid liability to passengers for injuries sustained through the negligent exercise of such franchises.[84]

73. U.S.—New York, etc., R. Co. v. Baker, N.Y., 98 F. 694, 39 C.C.A. 237, 50 L.R.A. 201.
10 C.J. p. 878 note 35.

74. Conn.—Duffy v. J. W. Bishop Co., 122 A. 121, 99 Conn. 573.

75. Tex.—Cunningham v. International R. Co., 51 Tex. 503, 32 Am. R. 632.

76. U.S.—Barrow SS. Co. v. Kane, N.Y., 88 F. 197, 31 C.C.A. 452

77. Ga.—Chattanooga, etc., R. Co. v. Liddell, 11 S.E. 853, 85 Ga. 482, 21 Am.S.R. 169.
10 C.J. p. 879 note 40.

Furnishing motorcar

Where railroad furnished rail-laying contractor with motorcar for transporting materials and crews, and furnished contractor with information regarding movements of other cars and trains, railroad was liable for contractor's negligent operation resulting in collision with another motorcar.—International-Great Northern R. Co. v. Lucas, Civ.App., 70 S.W.2d 226, reversed on other grounds 99 S.W.2d 297, 128 Tex. 480, opinion corrected 100 S.W.2d 97, 128 Tex. 480.

78. Iowa.—Hoskins v. Hotel Randolph Co., 211 N.W. 423, 203 Iowa 1152, 65 A.L.R. 1125, certiorari denied Otis Elevator Co. v. Hoskins, 48 S.Ct. 122, 275 U.S. 566, 72 L.Ed. 429.
Utah.—Berg v. Otis Elevator Co., 231 P. 832, 64 Utah 518.

79. Iowa.—Hoskins v. Hotel Randolph Co., 211 N.W. 423, 203 Iowa 1152, 65 A.L.R. 1125, certiorari denied Otis Elevator Co. v. Hoskins, 48 S.Ct. 122, 275 U.S. 566, 72 L.Ed. 429

80. U.S.—Hoskins v. Otis Elevator Co., C.C.A.Iowa, 16 F.2d 220.

81. N.C.—White v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 20 S.E. 191, 115 N.C. 631, 44 Am.S.R. 489.
10 C.J. p. 879 note 41.

82. S.C.—Kirkland v. Charleston, etc., R. Co., 60 S.E. 668, 79 S.C. 273, 128 Am.S.R. 848, 15 L.R.A.,N.S., 425.
10 C.J. p. 879 note 42

83. Tex.—American Express Co. v. Ogles, 81 S.W. 1023, 36 Tex.Civ. App. 407
10 C.J. p. 879 note 43.

84. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Johnson, 182 S.W. 214, 168 Ky. 351, L.R.A. 1916D 514.
La.—Muntz v. Algiers, etc., R. Co., 35 So. 624, 111 La. 423, 100 Am.S.R. 495, 64 L.R.A. 222.
10 C.J. p. 879 note 45.

Existence of license or right to use railroad

Long continued silence by the owner of a railroad as to its use by another carrier and acquiescence which lead the public to believe, and to act on the belief, that such other carrier has the consent of the owner may be a sufficient basis of liability. As bearing on the ques-

Where such a company owning a road permits another carrier to use the same, the latter must be deemed to do so as the agent of the owner,[85] hence the owner will be liable for injuries to passengers due to the actionable negligence of such other carrier while using the road,[86] regardless of the contract arrangement between the two carriers.[87] Thus, where a railroad company allows the trains of another company to run over its tracks, the former is responsible to the passengers on its own trains in the same manner as if all the trains belonged to itself,[88] and it is liable for injuries to such passengers, even though they result wholly from the negligence of the other company.[89] It has been held that a passenger on a car of a street car company which is using the tracks of another company as part of a through route, with due consent of such other company, is also a passenger of such other and entitled to receive from each the same degree of care and the company which owns the track is liable for a breach of its duty in this regard which causes injury to such passenger.[90]

According to some cases the owner of the road may be liable to a passenger on a car or train operated over such road by another carrier where the injury is due to negligent operation by such other carrier;[91] but it has been held that the owner is not so liable for injuries to passengers on the trains of the other carrier,[92] unless such injuries result from negligence in not properly maintaining the tracks.[93]

§ 706. Carrier Using Other Road

A carrier which uses the railroad of another carrier may, under certain circumstances, be liable for injuries to passengers of either company.

A railroad or a street railroad company using the road of another company is held to the same degree of care in its use as if it owned the road[94] and is liable for any negligence or misconduct on the part of its own employees while under its control and in the conduct of its business,[95] even though such company does not own the train which its employees are operating,[96] and even though the agreement or arrangement under which it uses the other road is illegal.[97] So a company using tion as to whether a license existed, with resultant liability of the owner of the railroad to a passenger on a vehicle of the alleged licensee driving of a spike in switch connected with track used by implied licensee in operation of motor car carrying passengers, preventing use of track for a few days without notice to licensee or public, where the motor car was operated over the track continuously thereafter, did not of itself revoke license.—Midland Valley R Co. v. Toomer, 162 P. 1127, 62 Okl. 272, L.R.A.1917D 344.

85. U.S.—Chicago Rys. Co. v Kramer, Ill., 234 F. 245, 148 C.C.A. 147.
Conn.—Murray v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 34 A. 506, 66 Conn. 512, 32 L.R.A. 539.
10 C.J. p 880 note 46

86. Okl.—Midland Valley R. Co. v. Toomer, 162 P. 1127, 62 Okl. 272, L.R.A.1917D 344.
10 C.J. p 880 note 47.

Acquiescence in use of road

Long continued silence and acquiescence on the part of the company which owns the road, in respect of the operation of vehicles over such road by another carrier, go to the question of negligence as well as of agency—Midland Valley R. Co. v. Toomer R Co., 162 P. 1127, 62 Okl. 272, L.R.A.1917D 344.

87. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co v Newell, 113 Ill.App. 263, affirmed 72 N.E. 416, 212 Ill. 332.

88. Ark.—Biddle v. Riley, 176 S.W. 134, 118 Ark. 206, L.R.A.1915F 992.
10 C.J. p 880 note 49.

Misplacement of switch

Railroad which retained control of section of track used by connecting carrier owed duty of care to passengers, as regards misplacement of switch due to defective signal, although men immediately in contact with switch were employed by other road. Under such circumstances, a statute requiring intersected railroad line to "unite" with new railroad does not require contract for use of another railroad's tracks for connections.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Hussey, Mo., 51 S.Ct. 367, 283 U.S. 136, 75 L.Ed. 908, affirming, C.C.A., 42 F. 2d 70, 74 A.L.R. 1172, certiorari granted 51 S.Ct. 75, 282 U.S. 826, 75 L.Ed. 736.

89. Ohio—Maumee Valley R., etc., Co. v. Montgomery, 91 N.E. 181, 81 Ohio St. 426, 135 Am.S.R. 802, 26 L.R.A.,N.S., 987.
10 C.J. p 880 note 50.

90. U.S.—Chicago Rys. Co. v. Kramer, Ill., 234 F. 245, 148 C.C.A. 147.

91. Okl.—Midland Valley R Co v. Toomer, 162 P. 1127, 62 Okl. 272, L.R.A.1917D 344.
10 C.J. p 880 note 47.

Measure of passenger's rights

The rights of a passenger on a railroad company by license are not measured by the same rules that would measure the rights between the licensee and the railroad company. Railroad company cannot stand by and receive benefits of operation of motor car over its tracks, and in case of negligent injury to passenger in such car charge the negligence of the operator to the passenger—Midland Valley R Co v Toomer, 162 P. 1127, 62 Okl. 272, L.R.A.1917D 344.

92. N.Y.—Sias v. Rochester R Co., 62 N.E. 132, 169 N.Y. 118, 56 L.R.A. 850.
10 C.J. p 880 note 51.

93. Ga.—Gregory v. Georgia Granite R Co., 64 S.E. 686, 132 Ga. 587
10 C.J. p 880 note 52

94. Conn.—Murray v. Lehigh Valley R Co., 34 A. 506, 66 Conn. 512, 519, 32 L.R.A. 539
10 C.J. p 880 note 53.

Corpus Juris statement of this rule was cited with approval in Scott v Cincinnati, N. O. & T. P. Ry. Co., 203 S.W. 1064, 181 Ky. 128, reversing 200 S.W. 6, 178 Ky. 800.

95. Ind.—Louisville, etc., R. Co v Linton, 88 N.E. 532, 43 Ind.App. 709.
10 C.J. p 880 note 54.

96. Mass.—Eaton v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 11 Allen 500, 87 Am.D. 730.

97. U.S.—Chesapeake, etc., R Co v. Howard, 20 S.Ct. 880, 178 U.S. 153, 44 L.Ed. 1015, affirming 14 App.D.C. 262
N.Y.—Berkey v. Third Ave Ry. Co., 155 N.E. 58, 244 N.Y. 84, 50 A.L.R.

the road of another company is liable for the negligence of its own employees in the operation of its trains over the road, thereby injuring passengers on the trains of such other company, notwithstanding its trains are operated under, and subject to, the rules and orders of such other company, if its employees are guilty of acts of negligence independent of, and not attributable to, the orders under which the trains are run;[98] but a company using the tracks of another company will not be liable if its employees and trains, and all their movements, are at the time under the absolute and exclusive control of the company owning the road.[99] It has been held or recognized that a railroad company operating its trains over the road of another company is liable to its own passengers for the negligence of the other company or its employees;[1] and is also liable for damages to its passengers by reason of defects in the road of such other company so used by it which might have been discovered by the exercise of due care.[2] It has been held, however, that a company using the road of another company is not liable to its own passengers for injuries due solely to the negligence of the servants of such other company in the operation of a train of the latter,[3] and that, where a street railroad company has the sole right and duty to operate street cars within the limits of a municipality, another company whose car is being operated within such limits, pursuant to a valid agreement between the two companies, is not liable to a passenger on such car for an injury caused by the fault of persons in the general service of such other company in operating the car.[4]

A railroad company which, in an emergency, routes one of its trains over the line of another company is not liable for injuries to a passenger caused by improper facilities at a station on such line where such passenger voluntarily left the train at such station which was not his destination.[5]

A provision of a contract for the use of a railroad by a carrier other than the owner that such other carrier shall assume, without indemnity, full responsibility for damages on account of carrying passengers as though the road was owned and exclusively maintained and operated by it has been construed to refer to damages caused by the defective condition of the track or by the negligence of its own servants in operating the trains of such other carriers, in so far as liability between the two carriers is concerned.[6]

§ 707. Lessor or Lessee

a. Lessor
b. Lessee

a. Lessor

In general a railroad company or a street railroad company may not without due authorization divest itself of liability to passengers incident to maintenance and operation of its road by leasing it to another.

The question whether a railroad or a street railroad company leasing its road to another company is liable for injuries to passengers resulting from the negligence of the lessee is one on which there is some diversity of judicial opinion. As a general rule a railroad company or a street railroad company cannot, without legislative or municipal authority, divest itself of any of its duties or liabilities to passengers incident to the maintenance and operation of its road, by leasing the road to another;[7] hence if the lease is not given under such authority, the lessor usually remains liable to passengers for the negligence or misconduct of the lessee in the operation of the road.[8]

599, reversing 217 N.Y.S. 156, 217 App.Div. 504, motion denied 155 N.E. 914, 244 N.Y. 602, 50 A.L.R 599.

98. Kan.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Posten, 53 P. 465, 59 Kan. 449.

99. Mo.—Smith v. St. Louis, etc., R Co., 85 Mo. 418, 55 Am.R. 380.

1. U.S.—Brady v. Chicago & G. W. R. Co, Iowa, 114 F. 100, 52 C.C.A. 48, 57 L.R.A. 712.
Mass.—Chaffe v. Consolidated R. Co., 82 N.E. 497, 196 Mass. 484.
10 C.J. p 880 note 60.

2. Mass.—Littlejohn v. Fitchburg R. Co, 20 N.E. 103, 148 Mass 478, 2 L.R.A. 502.

Dangerous condition

Where a street railroad knowingly permitted a dangerous condition to exist, such as wires stretched over a cinder path onto which it discharged passengers, it cannot avoid liability by the fact that the wires and path were maintained by a railroad, as it cannot evade its duty to passengers by its operating contracts with other corporations, or thus avoid liability for negligence resulting in personal injury to passengers.—Tankersley v. Lincoln Traction Co., 175 N.W. 602, 104 Neb. 24.

3. Vt.—Sprague v. Smith, 29 Vt. 421, 70 Am.D. 424.

4. Mo.—Wilson v. Kansas City Western R. Co., 213 S.W 156, 201 Mo.App. 510.

5. Ky.—Payne v. Simmons, 255 S.W. 863, 201 Ky. 33, 33 A.L.R. 814.

Extent of duty

Conceding that a passenger may have been justified in leaving the train before starting on a detoured route over the line of another carrier, due to a wreck, and resuming a subsequent train over the carrier's line on the same ticket, he could not abandon the train at any point he saw proper on the detour, and be entitled to all the duties owing a disembarking passenger at his destination.—Payne v Simmons, 255 S.W. 863, 201 Ky. 33, 33 A.L.R. 814.

6. Ark.—Kansas City Southern Ry. Co. v. Wade, 201 S.W. 787, 132 Ark. 551.

7. Ky.—Payne v. Simmons, 255 S.W. 863, 201 Ky 33, 33 A.L.R. 814.
10 C.J p. 881 note 64.

8. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v.

In a few cases it has been held or recognized, without express reference to whether or not the lease was authorized, that the lessor is liable for injuries caused by negligence of the lessee.[9] In any event, if the lessor carrier owes a clear legal duty to the person injured, that duty cannot be avoided or lessened by any arrangement which such carrier may make with any other person; if any part of the duty is delegated to another, such other becomes the agent of the lessor carrier in that regard and the carrier is responsible for the acts of such other.[10]

The lessor is liable for injuries occurring in the operation of its road by the lessee, where the road is being operated in the name of the lessor;[11] and, regardless of the effect of a lease in ordinary cases, if the lessor retains control over the operation of the road it will be liable for injuries resulting through such operation.[12]

Where the lease is authorized by statute, the lessor of course remains liable for the acts of the lessee, if the statute provides that it shall.[13] According to some cases, where the lease is authorized, it implies an exemption from liability on the part of the lessor for the torts of the lessee, to some extent at least,[14] unless such liability is expressly reserved in the statute or ordinance, unless the lease is to an irresponsible company, or unless the control of the road is reserved by the lessor in the lease.[15] Other cases, however, hold that, although there is legislative or municipal authority for the lease, the lessor is not absolved from such liability, unless in addition to such authority there is a provision expressly exempting the lessor from liability,[16] notwithstanding the lessee agrees to assume all liability.[17] Some of the cases make a distinction between injuries growing out of negligence in the operation of trains or the general management of the road over which the lessor company exercises no control and injuries due to the omission of duties owing to the public which are imposed primarily upon the lessor, holding that an authorized lease relieves the lessor from liability as to the negligence of the lessee in the operation of its trains,[18] but not for injuries due to defects in the tracks, the roadbed, or other real property.[19]

A statute which authorizes the lease and provides that the lessor shall remain liable as if it operated the road itself does not impose liability on the lessor for the torts of a stranger who seizes and operates the road without the consent either of the lessor or of the lessee.[20]

Authorization by interstate commerce commission. Where the lease of the railroad of a corporation chartered by the state, which is being operated in interstate commerce, is duly authorized by the interstate commerce commission, the lessor is not in general liable for injuries to passengers of the lessee, even though neither the order granting authority to make the lease nor the lease contains an express provision exempting the lessor from liability.[21]

b. Lessee

A lessee of a railroad is in general liable for injuries to passengers resulting from its negligence.

A lessee is not relieved of its legal duties as a carrier of passengers because it is not the owner of the track and the facilities, and is liable for its own negligence or that of its employees in the

Johnson, 182 S.W. 214, 168 Ky. 351, L.R.A.1916D 514—Big Sandy, etc., R. Co. v. Blankenship, 118 S.W. 316, 133 Ky. 438, 23 L.R.A.,N.S., 345, 19 Ann.Cas. 264.
10 C.J. p 881 note 65.

9. S.C.—Bouknight v. Charlotte, C. & A. R. Co., 19 S.E. 915, 41 S.C. 415.
10 C.J. p 881 note 66.
Failure to stop at a station and afford a passenger an opportunity to alight is a breach of a public duty which renders the lessor liable where the road is being operated by a lessee—Pickens v. Georgia R. & Banking Co., 55 S.E. 171, 126 Ga. 517.

10. U.S.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Hussey, C.C.A.Mo., 42 F.2d 70, 74 A.L.R. 1172, certiorari granted 51 S.Ct. 75, 282 U.S. 826, 75 L.Ed. 736, affirmed 51 S.Ct. 367, 283 U.S. 136, 75 L.Ed. 908.

11. Ga.—Singleton v. Southwestern R. Co., 70 Ga. 464, 48 Am.R. 574.

12. U.S.—Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Howard, 20 S.Ct. 880, 178 U.S. 153, 44 L.Ed. 1015, affirming 14 App. D.C. 262.

13. Mass.—Quested v. Newburyport, etc., R. Co., 127 Mass. 204.
10 C.J. p 882 note 70.

14. Mo.—Graefe v. St. Louis Transit Co., 123 S.W. 835, 224 Mo. 232.
10 C.J. p 882 note 71.

15. Mo.—Moorshead v. United R. Co., 96 S.W. 261, 100 S.W. 611, 203 Mo. 121, affirming 96 S.W. 261, 119 Mo. App. 541.

16. Ga.—Singleton v. Southwestern R. Co., 70 Ga. 464, 48 Am.R. 574.
10 C.J. p 882 note 75

17. Mass.—Braslin v. Somerville Horse R. Co., 13 N.E. 65, 145 Mass. 64.

18. U.S.—Arrowsmith v. Nashville & D. R. Co., C.C.Tenn., 57 F. 165.
10 C.J. p 882 note 77

19. Mo.—Moorshead v. United R. Co., 96 S.W. 261, 119 Mo.App. 541, affirmed 96 S.W. 261, 100 S.W. 611, 203 Mo. 121.

20. Mo.—Hulen v. Wheelock, 300 S.W. 479, 318 Mo. 502
Receiver of lessee
The lessor was not liable for injuries to a passenger on a train operated by the receivers of the lessee in the absence of any showing of an express or implied consent by the lessor to continued possession by such receivers—Hulen v. Wheelock, 300 S.W. 479, 318 Mo. 502.

21. Tex.—Houston, E. & W. T. Ry. Co. v. Anderson, 36 S.W.2d 983, 120 Tex. 200, reversing, Civ.App., 10 S.W.2d 767.

operation of the leased road,[22] even though the lease executed is in excess of its powers,[23] nor will this liability be affected by a subsequent confirmatory statute.[24] The lessee is also liable for any injury to its passengers in the operation of its trains, although the specific act of negligence is committed by the company over whose tracks it operates its trains,[25] and also for injuries due to the defective conditions of the track or the roadbed, although such defects were in the original construction, or existed at the time of the lease;[26] and this has been held to be true, although the road is owned by the state which also furnishes the motive power and controls the road through its agents, and the accident happens through the negligence of the state's agents.[27]

The operating lessee of a railroad must exercise care to protect passengers and others having the right on its depot premises in keeping such premises and the approaches thereto in a reasonably safe condition, and some statutes have imposed this duty.[28]

Where a transit system is leased from a public transit commission, the negligence, if any, in adopting equipment installed and controlled by the commission, by which a passenger is injured, is not the negligence of the lessee,[29] and a like rule applies to matters of design and construction.[30]

A person who makes a contract for the carriage of another may not avoid liability for injury to such other merely because such person leased from a third person the vehicle and operator used to perform the contract of carriage.[31]

§ 708. Carriers Using Same Station Facilities; Union Depot Company

In general each of several companies which use the same station facilities is under the duty of keeping the premises in a safe condition. A union depot company that undertakes to provide common station facilities for several carriers has the duty of keeping the station and its facilities in proper condition for the safety of passengers and their attendants.

The Corpus Juris statement of the rule, which has been quoted and cited with approval,[32] is that where two or more companies are using the same station facilities all are under the duty of keeping the premises in a safe condition and free from obstructions or dangerous instrumentalities.[33] One of such companies is under the same duty as to passengers using the premises in connection with the other roads that it owes to its own passengers, and is bound to operate its trains with the same due regard for their safety;[34] and such a company is liable to its own passengers for injuries caused by the negligence of the other company.[35]

22. Ky.—Payne v. Simmons, 255 S.W. 863, 201 Ky. 33, 33 A.L.R. 814
Mass.—Kuhlen v. Boston, etc., St. R. Co., 79 N.E. 815, 193 Mass. 341, 118 Am.S.R. 516, 7 L.R.A.,N.S., 729.
10 C.J. p. 882 note 79, p. 881 note 65 [c].

23. D.C.—Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Howard, 14 App.D.C. 262, affirmed 20 S.Ct. 880, 178 U.S. 153, 44 L.Ed. 1015

24. D.C.—Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Howard, supra.

25. Ill.—Smith v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 163 Ill.App. 476.
10 C.J. p. 882 note 82.

26. Mass.—Littlejohn v. Fitchburg R. Co., 20 N.E. 103, 148 Mass. 478, 2 L.R.A. 502.
10 C.J. p. 882 note 83.

27. Mass.—Littlejohn v. Fitchburg R. Co., 20 N.E. 103, 148 Mass. 478, 2 L.R.A. 502.
Pa.—Peters v. Rylands, 20 Pa. 497, 59 Am.D. 746.
10 C.J. p. 882 note 84.

28. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., Co. v. Caldwell, 124 S.W. 1034, 93 Ark. 286.

29. Mass.—Du Bois v. Boston Elevated Ry. Co., 176 N.E. 920, 276 Mass. 98—Theall v. Boston El. R. Co., 100 N.E. 543, 213 Mass. 327
10 C.J. p. 882 note 87.

30. Mass.—Bartol v. Boston, 156 N.E. 844, 259 Mass. 323.

31. Mo.—Mahany v. Kansas City Rys. Co., 254 S.W. 16, 29 A.L.R. 817.

Automobile owned, and chauffeur paid, by third person

Undertaker who leased an automobile and a chauffeur was liable for injuries to passenger caused by negligence of chauffeur in driving passengers from funeral under a contract of carriage, even though the undertaker did not own the automobile and did not pay the chauffeur's salary.—Mahany v. Kansas City Rys. Co., Mo., 254 S.W. 16, 29 A.L.R. 817

32. Ala.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Clark, 87 So. 676, 205 Ala. 152, 14 A.L.R. 695.
Ky.—Scott v. Cincinnati, N. O. & T. P. Ry. Co., 203 S.W. 1064, 181 Ky. 128, reversing 200 S.W. 6, 178 Ky. 800

33. Kan.—Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co. v. Cochran, 23 P. 151, 43 Kan. 225, 19 Am.S.R. 129, 7 L.R.A. 414.
10 C.J. p. 883 note 89.
Safety of stations, etc., generally see infra §§ 717–721.

34. Mass.—Kuhlen v. Boston, etc., St. R. Co., 79 N.E. 815, 193 Mass. 341, 118 Am.S.R. 516, 7 L.R.A.,N.S., 729.
10 C.J. p. 883 note 90.

Control of train

The fact that the train of a carrier which was using the tracks and station premises of other carriers was being run under the direction of the train dispatchers of one of such other carriers when such train struck a passenger of the carrier whose dispatchers were controlling such train did not relieve of liability the carrier that owned and operated the train.—Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. Stepp, Mo., 164 F. 735, 90 C.C.A. 431, 22 L.R.A.,N.S., 350, affirming, C.C., 151 F. 908

35. Mass.—Frazier v. New York, etc., R. Co., 62 N.E. 731, 180 Mass. 427.

Moving train of another company

The facts that the dangerous instrumentality which caused an injury was the moving train of another company and that defendant company did not control the movements of such train did not relieve defendant company of its duty to its own passengers.—Scott v. Cincinnati, N. O. & T. P. Ry. Co., 203 S.W. 1064,

A carrier using a union depot may be liable for a negligent failure to keep it or the approaches thereto in a safe condition,[36] although the premises are under the control of a receiver of the depot company.[37] It has been held, however, that a railroad company which uses a union station is not liable to persons who are injured while waiting for a train of such company at such station as a result of the negligent handling of a crowd by the employees of the company which has control of such station where such railroad company has no rights or duty in respect of such control.[38] It has also been held that a passenger of a bus line which uses a station together with other lines is a permissive licensee of other lines which are the lessees of such station and that such lessees are not liable for an injury to such passenger in the absence of willfulness or wantonness on the part of the lessees, and that other lines which are neither the carrier of the injured passenger nor the lessee of the station are not liable.[39]

A union depot company which undertakes to provide common terminal facilities for passenger carriers owes to passengers and their attendants the duty of keeping the station and its facilities in a proper condition for their safety;[40] and, where it undertakes to direct passengers to their proper trains, it is bound to see that this duty is performed in a proper manner, and, if it relies on train employees so to direct passengers, it is liable for injury caused to a passenger or his attendant in following the directions of such employee.[41] It has been held, however, that a railroad company which owns a union station owes no active duty, in respect of the premises, to a passenger of another company which has acquired the right to use such station, the reason being that, as to the owner, such passenger was a mere stranger or intruder.[42]

A contract between a depot company and the railroad company using the depot which in terms imposes on the depot company liability for damages or losses caused by the negligence or other fault of itself or its officers or employees in the management, maintenance, repair, betterment, extension, and renewal of the depot facilities has been so construed as not to charge the depot company with liability for the negligence of a telegraph operator at the union depot in failing to transmit to a conductor a message covering train movements wholly beyond the yard limits of the depot.[43]

§ 709. Joint and Several Liability

In general a carrier and a third person, including another carrier, whose joint or concurrent negligence causes injury to a passenger may be held jointly or severally liable.

Where the injury sustained by a passenger is caused by the joint or concurrent negligence of the carrier and a third person,[44] or two or more car-

181 Ky. 128, reversing 200 S.W. 6, 178 Ky. 800.

36. Ky.—Scott v. Cincinnati, N. O. & T. P. Ry. Co., supra
10 C.J. p. 883 note 92.

37. Wash.—Herrman v. Great Northern R. Co., 68 P. 82, 27 Wash. 472, 57 L.R.A. 390.

Neglect of receiver

Where the receiver of a union depot company neglects to maintain safe premises, his negligence is that of the carrier whose duty it is to maintain them.—Herrman v. Great Northern R. Co., 68 P. 82, 27 Wash. 472, 57 L.R.A. 390.

38. Pa.—Bright v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 69 Pa. Super. 188, 195

Crowd waiting for train

The rule stated in the text was applied where the alleged injuries resulted from failure of the employees of the Washington Terminal Company properly to advise persons who were waiting for an excursion train at the union station in Washington, D. C., as to the track on which the train would be. When it was apparent that defendant railroad company had no control or right of control over an unruly crowd that was not on its property, or any property over which it had a contract right of control, such company was not liable since it could not reasonably have anticipated or guarded against an unexpected movement of an unruly assemblance of excursionists on the property of another company.—Bright v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 69 Pa. Super. 188, 195.

39. N.C.—Goodman v. Queen City Lines, 180 S.E. 661, 208 N.C. 323.

40. Minn.—Dean v. St. Paul Union Depot Co., 43 N.W. 54, 41 Minn. 360, 16 Am.S.R. 703, 5 L.R.A. 442
10 C.J. p. 883 note 94

41. Colo.—Union Depot, etc., Co. v. Londoner, 114 P. 316, 50 Colo. 22, 33 L.R.A.,N.S., 433.

42. Ala.—Montgomery & E. R. Co. v. Thompson, 77 Ala. 448, 54 Am. R. 72

43. Ark.—Kansas City Southern Ry. Co. v. Wade, 201 S.W. 787, 132 Ark. 551

Liability confined to performance of duties within yard limits

The view was taken that, under the contract referred to in the text, the depot company was liable only for the acts of its servants in the performance of the duties required of it within the yard limits.—Kansas City Southern Ry. Co. v. Wade, 201 S.W. 787, 132 Ark. 551.

44. Ky.—Dix v. Gross, 111 S.W.2d 673, 271 Ky. 231.—Denker v. Lowe, 234 S.W. 294, 192 Ky. 660.
La.—Marcus v. Checker Cab Co., 120 So. 408, 10 La. App. 297
N.J.—O'Neill v. Allied Freight Distributors, 172 A. 543, 12 N.J. Misc. 464.
Pa.—Moraski v. Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co., 142 A. 276, 293 Pa. 224.—Klingensmith v. West Penn Rys. Co., 123 A. 787, 279 Pa. 336
Tex.—Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. Packard, Civ. App., 193 S.W. 397, error refused
10 C.J. p. 982 note 11

Where water board negligently placed pipes in dangerous proximity to car track, as a result of which passenger preparing to alight was injured, such negligence, concurring with that of street car company, was proximate cause of injury, since but for presence of pipe passage of street car would have been clear and safe; hence there was no reason for finding that negligence of street car company was sole and proximate riers or companies,[45] they may be held jointly or severally liable. It has been held, however, that there can be no joint liability where the alleged negligence consists of separate and independent acts of both companies or defendants, over which neither has entire control.[46] An initial carrier that sells a ticket for travel over its line and the lines of other railroad carriers cannot be held jointly liable with one of such other carriers for an injury which occurred on the line of such other without any fault on the part of the initial carrier where the ticket and the through tariff filed with the interstate commerce commission contain a provision that the initial carrier is not responsible beyond its own line.[47]

Where two carriers jointly operate a road or particular train, they are jointly and severally liable for injuries caused by the negligence of either.[48] Where two carriers use the same station, they may, under certain circumstances, be jointly and severally liable for injuries to a passenger of one of the carriers, by reason of the negligence of either in respect of the safe condition of the premises.[49] Where two carriers maintain a crosswalk between their stations for convenience in the transfer of passengers, the duty rests on both to see that the way is properly lighted and both are liable to a passenger who is injured as a result of a breach of such duty.[50] A like rule has been applied in respect of the duty and liability of a street railroad company and a county which operates a ferry boat as to defects in an approach or connecting way between the street car line and the ferry boats, which causes an injury to a passenger in transferring from one to the other.[51]

The view has been taken that, where one carrier controls the operations of another carrier, each may be held liable in the same action for the negligence of such other carrier which is the cause of injury to one of its passengers.[52]

The right of a passenger to hold the carrier and the carrier's employee whose negligence caused the injury liable in the same action has been upheld.[53]

Where several persons, each of whom owns a bus, obtain a certificate from the public authorities to operate a line over certain streets, the receipts being pooled and distributed under an agreed plan, such persons other than the owner of the bus on which a passenger sustained an injury as a result of the negligence of the driver are liable on the theory that the relation of agency exists among such owners and each is liable for the negligent acts of another in carrying out the undertaking.[54]

Carrier and municipality or public body Where a passenger is injured by the concurrent negligence of the carrier, a street railroad company, and the city, they are jointly liable,[55] and a like rule applies where the injury is caused by the negligence of the carrier and of a public board.[56] It has been held, however, that a city and a street railroad company are not joint tort-feasors in respect of a hole in a street which causes injury to a passenger alighting from a street car,[57] and that the torts are concurrent and related but not joint.[58] cause of injury or vice versa.—Shalley v. New Orleans Public Service, 105 So. 606, 159 La. 519, affirming 1 La App. 770.

45. Ga.—Riley v. Wrightsville, etc., R. Co, 65 S.E. 890, 133 Ga 413, 24 L.R.A.,N.S, 379, 18 Ann Cas. 208.
Iowa—Parker v. Des Moines City R. Co., 133 N.W. 373, 153 Iowa 254, Ann Cas 1913E 174.
10 C J. p 883 note 97.
Liability for collisions caused by concurrent negligence of two carriers see infra § 747.

46. R.I.—Besharian v. Rhode Island Co, 102 A. 807, 41 R.I. 94.
10 C J p 883 note 98

Misrouting by certain carriers and rude treatment by another

Railroad company and Pullman company, which negligently permitted passenger to remain in Pullman coach when diverted from route to her destination to the line of another carrier, and such other carrier who did not know and should not have known that plaintiff was being misrouted, but whose conductor treated her in a rude and ugly manner in connection with her leaving the train, could not be sued jointly—Armstrong v. Southern Ry. Co., 116 S.E 31, 29 Ga.App. 418.

47. U.S.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Chatters, La., 49 S.Ct. 329, 279 U. S. 320, 73 L.Ed. 711, reversing, C C A, 26 F.2d 403, affirming, D.C., Chatters v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 17 F.2d 305, and certiorari granted 49 S.Ct 26, 278 U.S. 590, 73 L Ed. 523.

48. U.S.—Jenkins v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., C.C.S C., 179 F 535.
10 C J. p 883 note 99.

49. Miss.—Williams v. Southern R. Co., 59 So. 850, 102 Miss. 617.
10 C.J. p 883 note 1.

50. Mich.—Boyle v. Waters, 166 N. W. 114, 199 Mich. 478

51. Wash.—Hart v. King County, 177 P. 344, 104 Wash. 485.

52. Md.—Baltimore Transit Co. v. Swindell, 103 A. 566, 132 Md. 274.

53. La.—Johnson v City of Monroe, App., 164 So 456
N.J.—Dickson v. Ackerman, 168 A. 269, 111 N.J.Law 583

54. Ohio.—Beierla v. Hockenedel, 157 N.E. 573, 25 Ohio App. 186.

Partnership or joint enterprise

It was immaterial whether the arrangement described in the text was a partnership or merely a joint enterprise, as affecting the question as to liability.—Beierla v. Hockenedel, 157 N.E. 573, 25 Ohio App. 186.

55. Mo.—Reynolds v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 168 S.W. 221, 180 Mo. App. 138.

56. La.—Shally v. New Orleans Public Service Sewerage & Water Board, 1 La.App. 770, affirmed 105 So. 606, 159 La. 519.

57. Ohio.—Poehl v. Cincinnati Traction Co, 151 N.E. 806, 20 Ohio App. 148.

58. Ohio.—Poehl v. Cincinnati Traction Co., supra.

Contract as to liability. The determination as to who are joint employees within the meaning of the provision of a contract between railroad companies using the same tracks and terminal facilities that loss from injuries caused by the negligence of a joint employee shall be borne equally depends on the terms of the contract.[59]

§ 710. Liability of Agents and Servants

According to some cases the employees of a carrier who are in charge of the vehicle of carriage are personally liable to a passenger on such vehicle only where the injury is due to the misfeasance or positive wrongs of such employees. In some cases the liability of employees whose negligent operation causes the injury has been recognized.

The view has been taken that the employees of a carrier in charge of a train or other vehicle on which the passenger is injured are not personally liable to such passenger for the injury, unless it results from the misfeasance and positive wrongs of such employees.[60] In so far as the personal liability of an employee in charge of a train is concerned, it has been held that he has the duty to exercise ordinary care to avoid injury to a passenger and is not under the duty to exercise the high degree of care that is required of the carrier, and that, if nonfeasance or negligence of the employee is in respect of a precaution required of him only by his contract of employment, such breach of the contract of employment is not necessarily a breach of the employee's duty to the passenger which would impose liability on the employee.[61] So it has been held that a railroad station agent who is under no duty to notify those in charge of a train that another train is ahead on the same track is not liable for injuries to a passenger in a rear-end collision.[62] On the other hand, the right to recover from an employee of the carrier, whose negligent operation of the vehicle of carriage caused an injury to a passenger, has been recognized.[63]

§ 711. Liability of Trustees and Receivers

A trustee or receiver who is exercising the franchise of the carrier or is in control of the operation of the line or road may be liable for injuries to passengers.

A trustee in possession and control, and exercising for the time being the franchises of the carrier, is responsible to passengers for the negligence of the employees of the carrier, even though he has agreed to manage it according to the order of the beneficiary.[64]

The receivers of a railroad or street railroad who are vested with the power to manage and operate it are liable as receivers for injuries to a passenger resulting from negligence in its operation,[65] and the company may not in general be held liable for such negligence, as shown above in § 701. So it is proper to render judgment against a receiver who was operating the road when the injury complained of occurred and the action therefor was instituted notwithstanding the receivership was discharged before the trial, where the discharge was conditional and recognized the existence of causes of action which accrued during the receivership.[66]

§ 712. Defenses in General

The fact that the injured person had not paid his fare or that a person other than the carrier was also 59. Ark.—Kansas City Southern Ry. Co. v. Wade, 201 S.W. 787, 132 Ark. 551.

Telegraph operator

Under a contract with plaintiff for joint use of defendant's track, providing that each railway company shall be liable for one half of the injury to persons caused by negligence of a joint employee, and who shall be considered such, it was held that a telegraph operator of a union depot company, receiving and transmitting train orders, for both, was such a joint employee.—Kansas City Southern Ry. Co. v. Wade, 201 S.W. 787, 132 Ark. 551.

60. U.S.—Bryce v. Southern R. Co., C.C.S.C., 125 F. 958, denying rehearing 122 F. 709.

Liability of servant to third person in general see C.J.S. title Master and Servant § 576, also 39 C.J. p. 1311 note 48-p. 1312 note 57.

61. Mo.—May v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 225 S.W. 660, 284 Mo. 508.

Effect of liability to employer

The rule stated in the text applies to the conductor of a train notwithstanding he would be answerable over to the employer company for failure to use a high degree of care.—May v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 225 S.W. 660, 284 Mo. 508.

62. S.C.—Sutton v. Southern R. Co., 64 S.E. 401, 82 S.C. 345.

63. La.—Johnson v. City of Monroe, App., 164 So. 456.

N.J.—Dickson v. Ackerman, 168 A. 269, 111 N.J.Law 583.

Concurrent negligence

(1) The fact that another's negligence concurred with that of an employee who was the driver of a bus in causing the injury did not permit the latter to avoid liability.—Johnson v. City of Monroe, La.App., 164 So. 456.

(2) A like rule applies where the negligence of the driver of a taxicab concurred with that of another person in causing injury to a passenger.—Dickson v. Ackerman, 168 A. 269, 111 N.J.Law 583.

64. Wash.—O'Toole v. Faulkner, 70 P. 58, 29 Wash. 544.

65. Mo.—Moore v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 176 S.W. 1120, 189 Mo. App. 555.

Operating train over line of different railroad company

Receiver carrying live stock in own train was not relieved from liability for death of caretaker from injuries received in wreck by fact that another company owned roadbed or by fact that he was bound by contract with such owner to account for earnings of its part of road.—Heed v. Gummere, 136 N.E. 5, 192 Ind. 227.

66. Ark.—St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. v. Owings, 204 S.W. 1146, 135 Ark. 56.

negligent does not necessarily prevent a recovery. Facts showing that the carrier had not failed to perform any duty owing to the injured person or that such person was himself responsible for the injury may constitute a defense.

It has been held or recognized that it is no defense to a carrier, such as a railroad or street railroad, in an action for injuries to a passenger, that the passenger had not paid his fare at the time of the injury, where the fare had not yet been demanded,[67] that he was guilty of forgery in using the ticket of another,[68] that the carrier did as other carriers have customarily done,[69] or that another carrier or person was also negligent in connection with the accident.[70]

In an action to recover damages for an injury to a passenger sustained in alighting from a street car, the carrier may interpose the defense that its agents have exercised due care and diligence to avoid the injury, that the damage was caused by the negligence of the passenger, that the passenger consented, or that the passenger could have avoided the injury notwithstanding the carrier's negligence.[71] Contributory negligence of passenger as a defense is considered infra § 774 et seq.

A carrier is not entitled to the defense of assumption of risk in an action in tort to recover for an injury sustained by plaintiff while entering defendant's street car, because of the defective condition of the car platform.[72]

Where the cause of the accident in which a passenger in an automobile stage of defendant is admitted by the pleadings to have been a defective or broken rim of a wheel, the matter of due inspection is one of defense.[73]

Where a person seeks to recover for a personal injury on the theory of the relation of passenger and carrier between the parties, defendant may plead and prove that the relation of master and servant existed.[74]

Traveling illegally; free pass. Where a passenger on a train is traveling for an illegal purpose, and the railroad is a participator in such purpose, the rule in pari delicto, etc., will apply in a suit against the company for negligence and consequent injury to the passenger.[75]

It has been held that a passenger traveling on a pass forbidden by law is not in pari delicto with the railroad company in violating the law, so as to prohibit him from recovering for injuries, although the pass contains a provision exempting it from liability for injuries caused by the negligence of itself or its employees.[76] So it has been held that a person riding on an interstate train without paying fare, in violation of the provisions of the Hepburn Act against free transportation, is not necessarily prevented from recovering for an injury sustained while so riding.[77] It has also been held that a person who in good faith and with the consent of the carrier accepts a free passage in interstate commerce does not forfeit his right to the benefit of a rule of the local law which charges the carrier with the duty to exercise care for the safety of a gratuitous passenger merely because of such provision of the Hepburn Act.[78] However, it has been held,

67. U.S.—Chicago, R. I. & P. R Co. v Lee, Kan., 92 F. 318, 34 C. C.A. 365.

68. Mo.—Mirrielees v. Wabash R Co., 63 S.W. 718, 163 Mo. 470.
10 C.J. p 884 note 9.

69. Wash.—Williams v. Spokane Falls, etc., R. Co., 80 P. 1100, 39 Wash. 77, 84 P. 1129, 42 Wash. 597

70. La.—Johnson v. City of Monroe, App., 164 So. 456.
Neb.—Daly v. Publix Cars, 259 N.W. 163, 128 Neb. 403.
N.J.—Dickson v. Ackerman, 168 A. 269, 111 N.J. Law 583.
10 C.J. p 884 note 11.

Injury to prospective passenger

If a motorman of street car was guilty of negligence or willful wrong, concurring with negligence of driver of automobile knocked against prospective passenger waiting for car, proximately causing injury, such passenger was entitled to recover from street car company —Alabama Power Co. v. Bass, 119 So. 625, 218 Ala. 586, 63 A.L.R. 1.

71. Ga.—Georgia Ry. & Power Co. v. Gilbert, 146 S.E. 34, 39 Ga.App. 58—Georgia Ry. & Power Co. v. Gilbert, 146 S.E. 33, 39 Ga.App. 56.

72. Ark.—Arkansas Power & Light Co. v. Hughes, 76 S.W.2d 53, 189 Ark. 1015.

Contractual relation

In reaching the conclusion set forth in the text in a case in which plaintiff had slipped on a steel plate which had been placed across the platform of the car near the door for the purpose of having passengers step on it as they entered the car, it was said that no contractual relation existed between plaintiff and defendant company.—Arkansas Power & Light Co. v. Hughes, 76 S.W.2d 53, 189 Ark. 1015.

73. Cal.—Jianou v. Pickwick Stages System, 296 P. 108, 111 Cal.App. 754.

74. Or.—Susznik v. Alger Logging Co., 147 P. 922, 76 Or. 189

75. Ga.—Redd v. Muscogee R. Co., 48 Ga. 102.
N.C.—Turner v. North Carolina R. Co., 63 N.C. 522.
10 C.J. p 884 note 13.

76. Mont.—John v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 111 P. 632, 42 Mont. 18, 32 L.R.A.,N.S., 85
N.C.—McNeill v. Durham, etc., R. Co., 47 S.E. 765, 135 N.C. 682, 67 L.R.A. 227.

77. Miss.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Cole, 74 So. 766, 113 Miss. 896.

Trespasser or licensee

The rule stated in the text was applied where the injured person was a trespasser or licensee riding on the tender of the engine with the consent of the engineer when the injury was sustained.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Cole, 74 So. 766, 113 Miss. 896—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Messina, 72 So. 779, 111 Miss. 884.

78. U.S.—Southern Pac. Co. v. Schuyler, Utah, 33 S.Ct. 277, 227 U.S. 601, 57 L.Ed. 662.

that a person who rides on an interstate train, without paying fare and in violation of state and federal statutes, is not in general entitled to recover for damages sustained while so riding, even though he is on the train with the consent of the carrier's employees who are in charge of the train.[79]

The fact that the right of an employee of a railroad company to travel between certain points within a state, as part of the contract of service, is represented by a so-called free pass reciting that it is a gratuity and that the employee releases the company from any injury he may sustain while using the pass is not a defense to an action for an injury sustained by the employee while riding to his work between points within the state.[80]

2. Care Required and Liability as to Condition and Use of Premises

§ 713. In General

The care required of a carrier in keeping its premises safe for passengers is commonly held to be only reasonable or ordinary care. Its duty to keep premises safe extends only to those parts thereof to which the public and passengers naturally resort or have been invited, and to which they necessarily or ordinarily go in boarding or leaving trains, and not to places to which they have no occasion to go, or beyond the station grounds.

It has been said that the carrier's liability to passengers, with respect to the condition of its premises, is the same as that of any owner or occupant of premises to persons who by invitation or inducement come there to transact business.[81]

While a carrier of passengers is chargeable with a high or the highest degree of care with respect to passengers in the course of transportation, see § 678, this degree of care is not, except under a few authorities,[82] required as to passengers on the premises of the carrier, the care required for the protection of such passengers being, as regards the safe condition of the premises, only reasonable or ordinary care.[83] In other words, the carrier is

Railway mail clerk off duty

The rule stated in the text was applied where a railway mail clerk was killed by the derailment of a mail train on which he was riding for his own purposes, having taken the train in question with the knowledge of the train agent and conductor in charge, using his commission from the post office department as evidence of his right to transportation.—Southern Pac. Co. v. Schuyler, Utah, 33 S.Ct. 277, 227 U.S. 601, 57 L.Ed. 662.

79. S.C.—Hinnant v. Southern Ry. Co., 100 S.E. 709, 113 S.C. 19.

Riding in cab of engine

One riding in the cab of an interstate freight train by permission of the conductor and engineer, without payment of fare, violated state and federal statutes and could not recover for personal injury.—Hinnant v. Southern Ry. Co., 100 S.E. 709, 113 S.C. 19.

Applicability of provision of Hepburn Act

In reversing a judgment of the state court which had allowed a recovery by a trespasser or licensee on an interstate train for an injury sustained while riding on the tender of the engine with the consent of the engineer, it was held that the provision of the Hepburn Act against free transportation applied to the case of a person so riding.—Illinois Central R. Co. v. Messina, 36 S.Ct. 368, 70 L.Ed. 709, 240 U.S. 395, reversing Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. Messina, 67 So. 963, 108 Miss. 143.

80. Ga.—Tharp v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 121 S.E. 592, 31 Ga. App. 598.

81. Colo.—Union Depot, etc., Co. v. Londoner, 114 P. 316, 50 Colo. 22, 33 L.R.A.,N.S., 433.

Ill.—Davis v. Southside Elevated R. Co., 127 N.E. 66, 292 Ill. 378, 10 A.L.R. 254.

Ky.—Bales v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 200 S.W. 471, 179 Ky. 207.

Mo.—Thomas v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., App., 293 S.W. 1051, 1054.—Williams v. Kansas City Terminal Ry. Co., 231 S.W. 954, 956, 288 Mo. 11, transferred, App., 223 S.W. 132.

10 C.J. p. 917 note 57.

"The carrier should not be held to a higher degree of care in maintaining its premises than that to which the owner of buildings used for ordinary business purposes is held."—Thomas v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., supra.—Williams v. Kansas City Terminal Ry. Co., supra.

82. S.C.—Johns v. Charlotte, etc., R. Co., 17 S.E. 698, 39 S.C. 162, 39 Am.S.R. 709, 20 L.R.A. 520.

10 C.J. p. 911 note 12.

In Texas

(1) "It seems to be settled by the decisions of this state that the rule of high degree of care is applicable alike in both situations stated" as to a passenger in transit and a passenger on the premises.—Fort Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Brown, Tex.Civ.App., 205 S.W. 378, 379.

(2) That a passenger was on the platform, and not in the cars, did not alter the degree of care due him by the carrier, which was the highest degree of care.—Fort Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Kidwell, 245 S.W. 667, 112 Tex. 89, answering certified questions, Civ.App., 249 S.W. 303.

(3) Ordinarily, railroad must keep grounds in reasonably safe condition, and use more than ordinary care in maintaining depot grounds designated for passengers' use.—Fort Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Armitage, Tex.Civ.App., 39 S.W.2d 108, error refused.

(4) However, it has also been stated that the carrier owes the duty "to exercise ordinary care to keep its passenger station buildings and other depot premises set apart for use of its passengers in a reasonably safe condition for such use."—Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Taylor, Tex.Civ.App., 225 S.W. 822, 825.

Alighting passenger as in transit

(1) It has been held that a passenger while alighting from the train is still a passenger in transit, with respect to whom it is the carrier's duty to use the highest degree of care to keep the premises safe.—South Covington & C. St. Ry. v. Vanice, 278 S.W. 116, 211 Ky. 774.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Scarbrough, 270 S.W. 494, 208 Ky. 79.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Baker, 164 S.W. 799, 158 Ky. 224.

(2) Highest care to protect passenger during continuance of relation see supra § 678.

83. U.S.—Young v. Baldwin, C.C.A. Ark., 84 F.2d 841.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. Burton, C.C.A.W. Va., 50 F.2d 730.

Ark.—Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co.

required to use such care as would be used by persons of ordinary prudence under like circumstances to see that the construction adopted will render the premises as safe as the exigencies of its business will permit,[84] and is required to use ordinary care to maintain its premises in such a reasonable and suitable condition that passengers and others authorized to use them may, in the exercise of ordinary care, use them in safety.[85] It is not required to furnish absolutely safe premises,[86] or premises as safe as possible.[87] The degree of care required of the carrier with respect to particular portions of the premises or particular duties therein is considered in §§ 714–721 infra.

v. Amedon, 256 S.W. 52, 161 Ark. 310

Ill.—Dean v. Yelloway Pioneer System, 259 Ill.App. 180.

Ky.—Cincinnati, N. & C. Ry. Co. v. Trenkamp, 295 S.W. 866, 220 Ky. 552—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Scarbrough, 270 S.W. 494, 208 Ky. 79—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Minnix, 260 S.W. 15, 202 Ky. 472—Payne v. Simmons, 255 S.W. 863, 201 Ky. 33, 33 A.L.R. 814—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Dixon, 195 S.W. 1099, 176 Ky. 569—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Baker, 164 S.W. 799, 158 Ky. 224.

Md.—Jackson v. Hines, 113 A. 129, 137 Md. 621.

Mich.—Anda v. Chicago, D. & G. B. Transit Co., 204 N.W. 761, 231 Mich. 567.

Minn.—McDonnell v. St. Paul Union Depot Co., 195 N.W. 538, 157 Minn. 66.

Mo.—Thomas v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., App., 293 S.W. 1051—Martin v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., App., 253 S.W. 1083—Williams v. Kansas City Terminal Ry. Co., 231 S.W. 954, 288 Mo. 11, transferred, App., 223 S.W. 132.

N.J.—Seckler v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 174 A. 501, 113 N.J.Law 299—Bradley v. Erie R. Co., 143 A. 743, 105 N.J.Law 1, reversed on other grounds 147 A. 572, 106 N.J.Law 51—Holtzman v. Hudson & M. R. Co., 138 A. 623, 101 N.J.Law 255.

N.Y.—White v. New York Cent. R. Co., 239 N.Y.S. 90, 228 App.Div. 50—Hoffman v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 177 N.Y.S. 140, 188 App.Div. 414—Allessi v. New York Rapid Transit Corporation, 297 N.Y.S. 1011, 163 Misc. 815.

Utah.—Stonebreaker v. Bamberger, 54 P.2d 418, 88 Utah 310.

10 C.J. p. 862 note 11—p. 911 notes 11, 13.

Care varying according to time and place generally see supra § 678.

The Corpus Juris statement is cited with approval in Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. Burton, C.C.A.W.Va., 50 F.2d 730, 731.

"The authorities are well nigh unanimous that as to stairways, floors, and conveniences in and about a railway depot, or station, provided by a common carrier, its duty towards passengers and other invitees or licensees thereon is discharged when reasonable or ordinary care to make them safe for the purposes intended has been exercised in their construction and maintenance" — McDonnell v. St. Paul Union Depot Co., 195 N.W. 538, 539, 157 Minn. 66.

"The great weight of authority, and, indeed every case, except perhaps a few sporadic ones, require of carriers only the exercise of reasonable or ordinary care" to keep their premises in reasonably safe condition.—Payne v. Simmons, 255 S.W. 863, 867, 201 Ky. 33, 33 A.L.R. 814.

Reasons for distinction as to care

(1) That the carrier's duty in handling passengers on platforms and ways to incoming trains "does not require generally even the highest degree of practicable care, as in the actual transportation of passengers, is evident, as the passenger is not deprived in such case of his power of self-protection, which to a large degree is preserved to him."—Allessi v. New York Rapid Transit Corporation, 297 N.Y.S. 1011, 1015, 163 Misc. 815.

(2) "This [rule] is upon the theory that station buildings in themselves neither require the employment of dangerous agencies nor do they possess unusual elements of danger."—Thomas v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., Mo.App., 293 S.W. 1051, 1054—10 C.J. p. 862 note 11 [a] (1).

Dependent on surrounding circumstances

"While ordinary care is the test, the content of ordinary care is dictated by the circumstances. Some circumstances might require very little inspection or watchfulness or circumspection, as the case may be, in order to satisfy that degree of care; others might require great diligence and watchfulness or, in comparison to the first situation, great and extraordinary care."—Stonebreaker v. Bamberger, 54 P.2d 418, 422, 88 Utah 310.

Necessity of successful care

In determining whether a carrier was negligent, the degree of care exercised, rather than the degree of success resulting therefrom, is controlling.—Seckler v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 174 A. 501, 113 N.J.Law 299.

84. N.J.—Bradley v. Erie R. Co., 143 A. 743, 105 N.J.Law 1, reversed on other grounds 147 A. 572, 106 N.J.Law 51.

10 C.J. p. 911 note 15.

"Good and diligent businessman"

"The . . . [carrier] is bound to use the skill and care such as would be exercised by a good and diligent businessman in his particular vocation."—Allessi v. New York Rapid Transit Corporation, 297 N.Y.S. 1011, 1015, 163 Misc. 815.

Standard method of construction

(1) If a method of construction of a standard character is adopted, such as is generally adopted by other well regulated carriers, the carrier cannot be charged with negligence in the construction.

La.—Mills v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 86 So. 750, 148 La. 217.

N.J.—Seckler v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 174 A. 501, 113 N.J.Law 299—Bradley v. Erie R. Co., 143 A. 743, 105 N.J.Law 1, reversed on other grounds 147 A. 572, 106 N.J.Law 51.

10 C.J. p. 911 note 16.

(2) Where a railroad track on which plaintiff was injured in stepping from the adjacent platform was built according to standard methods, with the cross-ties exposed for purposes of drainage and to show defects in the ties, and its location with reference to the curbing and platform was according to standards in general use, the railroad could not be charged with negligence.—Mills v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., supra.

Nonavailability of less dangerous equipment is no excuse for installing equipment dangerous to passengers and not essential to the operation of a subway.—Chakofsky v. Interborough Rapid Transit Co., 203 N.Y.S. 357, 208 App.Div. 407, reversing 195 N.Y.S. 79.

85. Md.—Jackson v. Hines, 113 A. 129, 137 Md. 621.

10 C.J. p. 911 note 14.

86. Ky.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Sanderson, 192 S.W. 869, 175 Ky. 11, L.R.A.1917D 890.

Minn.—McDonnell v. St. Paul Union Depot Co., 195 N.W. 538, 157 Minn. 66.

Utah.—Stonebreaker v. Bamberger, 54 P.2d 418, 88 Utah 310.

10 C.J. p. 911 note 18.

87. Or.—Finseth v. Suburban R. Co., 51 P. 84, 32 Or. 1, 39 L.R.A. 517.

To what premises duty extends. The carrier's duty of keeping its premises in a reasonably safe condition extends to all parts of the premises and approaches thereto to which the public or passengers naturally resort,[88] or which they occupy at the express or implied invitation of the carrier,[89] and, at least in the absence of warning, to all parts of the station grounds reasonably near to the platforms where passengers will necessarily or ordinarily go in approaching and boarding, or in alighting from and leaving, the trains.[90] On the other hand, the duty does not extend to a portion of the grounds where passengers properly have no occasion to go,[91] such as a portion of the carrier's right of way some distance from the station premises,[92] or to premises used for the servicing of trains[93] or, to the passenger's knowledge, exclusively for the handling of freight,[94] nor does it extend beyond the limits of the carrier's premises[95] or station grounds.[96]

§ 714. Safe Approaches; Ingress and Egress

a. In general

b. Approaches not designated or established by carrier; streets

88. Ky.—Bales v. Louisville & N R Co, 200 S.W. 471, 179 Ky. 207—Louisville & N R. Co. v Dixon, 195 S.W. 1099, 176 Ky. 569.
Md.—Jackson v. Hines, 113 A. 129, 137 Md 621.
Mo.—Thomas v. St Louis-San Francisco Ry Co, App., 293 S.W. 1051.
Wis.—Banderob v. Wisconsin Cent R. Co., 113 N.W. 738, 133 Wis. 249.
10 C.J. p 911 note 20.
The carrier owes "the duty of making and keeping the station, the approaches thereto, and the surroundings thereof, where persons lawfully in the station would be likely to go, in a safe condition."—Jackson v. Hines, supra.
Premises to be kept lighted see infra § 718.

89. U.S.—Maryland Dredging & Contracting Co. v. Hines, C.C.A. Md., 269 F. 781.
Ky.—Cincinnati, N. & C. Ry. Co. v Trenkamp, 295 S.W. 866, 220 Ky. 552—Bales v Louisville & N R. Co, 200 S.W 471, 179 Ky. 207—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Dixon, 195 S.W 1099, 176 Ky. 569.

Absence of fence

Where a prospective passenger, taking a short cut diagonally over the tracks, was injured on cattle guards, it was held that the absence of a fence between the street and the guards, if not an invitation, made the passenger no worse than an unintentional trespasser without criminal intent, to whom the carrier may be liable—Kovarik v. Long Island R Co, 178 N.Y.S. 705, 189 App Div. 534.

"An open gate [between a station platform and a porch adjacent thereto] is an implied invitation to enter"—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Dixon, 195 S.W. 1099, 1101, 176 Ky. 569

"Premises set apart for . . . passengers"

Tex.—Chicago, R. I. & G Ry. Co v. Taylor, Civ.App., 225 S.W. 822, 825

90. Ky.—Bales v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 200 S.W. 471, 473, 179 Ky. 207—Louisville & N R. Co. v Dixon, 195 S.W. 1099, 176 Ky. 569.
Md.—Jackson v. Hines, 113 A. 129, 137 Md 621
N.Y.—Kovarik v. Long Island R Co., 178 N.Y.S. 705, 189 App.Div. 534
Pa.—Calhoon v. Pittsburgh Coal Co, 194 A 768, 771, 128 Pa Super 582
Wis.—Banderab v. Wisconsin Cent. R Co, 113 N.W. 738, 133 Wis. 249.
10 C.J. p 911 note 21.
"Such portions of the depot premises as are necessarily or customarily used by the passengers, and the approaches to them."—Bales v. Louisville & N. R. Co., supra.
"From the time a passenger leaves the public highway and enters the premises, occupied by a carrier, until he leaves the carrier's premises, for the public highway, the carrier is bound to provide safe means of passage between the public highway and the carrier's means of transportation."—Calhoon v. Pittsburgh Coal Co., supra.

Cattle guards near station

(1) Where a carrier placed dangerous cattle guards very near a station, and between the station and the highway, it was held to endanger the safety of passengers, and in the absence of warning the carrier may be liable to one injured thereby—Kovarik v Long Island R Co, 178 N.Y.S. 705, 189 App Div. 534.

(2) Nor is the carrier justified in so exposing passengers to injury by the fact that a statute requires that cattle guards be provided if liability for injury to animals is to be avoided.—Kovarik v. Long Island R. Co., supra.

Pitfalls near platform

"The railroad company is not only under obligation to passengers and those whom it invites onto its depot premises to have and keep the depot, waiting rooms, and platforms reasonably safe, but it will not be permitted or allowed to maintain dangerous pitfalls so near to its platform as to endanger the safety of those having a right to be upon such platform, and escape responsibility for consequences."—Louisville & N. R. Co v. Dixon, 195 S.W. 1099, 1100, 176 Ky 569.

Way to carrier's park

A woman who had purchased a ticket and was waiting to take passage on an approaching train, and who left the station platform with her child and fell into an open trapdoor, was not a trespasser so as to bar recovery, where the carrier maintained a park to reach which it was necessary to go the way which she took.—Louisville & N R Co. v. Dixon, 195 S.W. 1099, 176 Ky 569

91. Ky.—Bales v. Louisville & N R Co, 200 S.W 471, 179 Ky. 207
N.C.—Brown v. Linville River Ry. Co, 94 S.E 431, 174 N.C 694
Tex.—Fort Worth & D C. Ry Co. v Armitage, Civ.App., 39 S.W.2d 108, error refused.
10 C.J. p 911 note 22

92. Ky.—Bales v. Louisville & N R Co., 200 S.W 471, 179 Ky 207.
N.C.—Brown v. Linville River Ry Co, 94 S.E 431, 174 N.C. 694.
10 C.J. p 912 note 23.

Acquiescence in use

"It is well settled that acquiescence on the part of a railroad company in the use of its right of way, set apart and exclusively used by it for the operation of its trains, does not confer any authority or right upon the persons so using it"—Bales v. Louisville & N. R Co, 200 S.W. 471, 475, 179 Ky 207.

93. Tex.—Fort Worth & D. C. Ry Co. v. Armitage, Civ.App., 39 S.W 2d 108, error refused.

94. Tex.—Houston, etc., R. Co v Grubbs 67 S.W. 519, 28 Tex.Civ App 367.

95. Pa.—Calhoon v. Pittsburgh Coal Co, 194 A 768, 128 Pa Super 582
Approaches not owned or controlled by carrier see infra § 714 b

96. Pa.—Seltzer v. Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co, 69 Pa Super. 309, 314
The carrier's "obligation to protect passengers does not extend beyond the limits of what may properly be considered station facilities or grounds."—Seltzer v. Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co., supra.

a. In General

The carrier must provide and maintain safe and adequate approaches to its station, platforms, or vehicles, or exercise reasonable or ordinary care as to such approaches; thus, it must keep approaches free of dangerous conditions, or warn or guard passengers against dangers in approaches.

The carrier is required to provide and maintain reasonably safe and adequate approaches to the station, platforms, and vehicles for passengers going aboard or leaving the vehicles, or to exercise reasonable or ordinary care with respect to such approaches,[97] in view of dangers reasonably to be apprehended;[98] in this respect the highest degree of care is generally not required.[99] Thus, it is the

97. Ark.—Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. Hill, 216 S.W. 1054, 141 Ark. 378.
Ill.—Davis v. South Side Elevated R. Co., 127 N.E. 66, 292 Ill. 378, 10 A.L.R. 254.
Ind.—Terre Haute, Indianapolis & Eastern Traction Co. v. Auler, 188 N.E. 572, 206 Ind. 423.
Ky.—Payne v. Simmons, 255 S.W. 863, 201 Ky. 33, 33 A.L.R. 814—Bales v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 200 S.W. 471, 179 Ky. 207—Cumberland R. Co. v. Hemphill, 184 S.W. 883, 169 Ky. 519.
Mass.—McCarthy v. Boston, R. B. & L. R. Co., 159 N.E. 507, 262 Mass. 56.
Mich.—Anda v. Chicago, D. & G. B. Transit Co., 204 N.W. 761, 231 Mich. 567.
Mo.—Payne v. Davis, 252 S.W. 57, 298 Mo. 645—Evans v. Chicago, B. & Q. Ry. Co., 109 S.W. 79, 130 Mo.App. 509.
N.J.—Seckler v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 174 A. 501, 113 N.J.Law 299—Bradley v. Erie R. Co., 147 A. 572, 106 N.J.Law 51, reversing 143 A. 743, 105 N.J.Law 1—Bradley v. Erie R. Co., 143 A. 743, 105 N.J. Law 1, reversed on other grounds 147 A. 572, 106 N.J.Law 51—Holtzman v. Hudson & M. R. Co., 128 A. 623, 101 N.J.Law 255.
N.Y.—Heffron v. New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co., 119 N.E. 1024, 223 N.Y. 473, reversing 161 N.Y.S. 1128, 175 App.Div. 962.
N.C.—Fulghum v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 74 S.E. 584, 158 N.C. 555, 39 L.R.A.,N.S., 558.
Pa.—Norris v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 177 A. 785, 317 Pa. 586—Greenfield v. Pittsburgh & Lake Erie R. Co., 157 A. 587, 305 Pa. 456—Coyle v. Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co., 100 A. 1005, 256 Pa. 496—Muhlhouse v. Monongahela St. Ry. Co., 50 A. 937, 201 Pa. 237—Calhoon v. Pittsburgh Coal Co., 194 A. 768, 128 Pa.Super. 582—Prettyman v. Trenton Transportation Co., 73 Pa. Super. 353—Seltzer v. Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co., 69 Pa.Super. 309.
Tenn.—Clinton v. Tennessee Electric Power Co., 10 Tenn.App. 311.
Tex.—Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Ewing, Civ.App., 46 S.W.2d 398, error dismissed—Stiles v. Union Terminal Co., Civ.App., 1 S.W.2d 947, error refused.
Utah.—Barlow v. Salt Lake & U. R. Co., 194 P. 665, 57 Utah 312.
Wash.—Hart v. King County, 177 P. 314, 104 Wash. 485.
W.Va.—Pierce's Ex'x v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 128 S.E. 832, 99 W.Va. 313.
Wis.—Pieva v. Milwaukee Electric Ry. & Light Co., 246 N.W. 691, 210 Wis. 568—Zilles v. Milwaukee Electric Ry. & Light Co., 246 N.W. 693, 210 Wis. 531.
10 C.J. p. 912 note 27—p. 916 note 54.

The rule as stated in Corpus Juris is cited and approved in Pierce's Ex'x v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 128 S.E. 832, 834, 99 W.Va. 313.

Analogy to care required of municipality as to sidewalks

A railroad company is bound to exercise the same degree of care in keeping sidewalks provided for passengers in safe condition as a municipal corporation with respect to public sidewalks.—Weldon v. New York, etc., R. Co., 144 N.Y.S. 868, 159 App.Div. 649—Bateman v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 47 Hun, N.Y., 429.

Carriers within rule

"The rule that a carrier must provide safe means of passage between public streets and carrier's means of transportation applies not only to ferries, but to railroads, street railways, taxicabs, motor busses, and airplanes as well.—Calhoon v. Pittsburgh Coal Co., 194 A. 768, 772, 128 Pa.Super. 582.

Degree of care exercised, not degree of success resulting therefrom, is what controls in determining whether carrier was negligent in construction or maintenance of its station and approaches thereto.—Seckler v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 174 A. 501, 113 N.J.Law 299.

Extent of use

"What may be considered a reasonably safe exit under conditions existing at . . . [a flag station] would not be so regarded in populous towns and cities."—Fulghum v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 74 S.E. 584, 585, 158 N.C. 555, 39 L.R.A., N.S., 558.

Locked turnstile

Carrier has right to maintain turnstiles, and to require all persons intending to board its cars to pass through them, and to keep them locked until operator is reasonably satisfied required fare has been paid.—South Covington & C. St. Ry. Co. v. Elder, 266 S.W. 1055, 206 Ky. 178, 40 A.L.R. 82.

Mode of construction

(1) Railroad has duty of constructing station platform and approaches as safe as exigencies of its business will permit.—Bradley v. Erie R. Co., 143 A. 743, 105 N.J.Law 1, reversed on other grounds 147 A. 572, 106 N.J.Law 51.

(2) Railroad's adoption of method of construction for station platform and approaches according with that in general use is due performance of duty to passengers.—Bradley v. Erie R. Co., supra.

Path on steep incline

Where carrier provided a passageway down a steep incline, from its train to its boat, by cutting steps into soft sand, it was held to be an unsafe path; the carrier should have had ropes or guard rails along the path, and steps should have been made of wood.—Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. Hill, 216 S.W. 1054, 141 Ark. 378.

Way on one side of track

"When a railroad has provided safe and convenient means of ingress and egress to and from its trains, upon one side of its track, it has in this particular discharged its whole duty to passengers, and it is not bound to anticipate that, in disregard of its reasonable and known regulations, they will alight upon the opposite side."—Seltzer v. Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co., 69 Pa.Super. 309, 315.

98. Mich.—Anda v. Chicago, D. & G. B. Transit Co., 204 N.W. 761, 231 Mich. 567.

99. Ill.—Davis v. South Side Elevated R. Co., 127 N.E. 66, 292 Ill. 378, 10 A.L.R. 254.
Ky.—Payne v. Simmons, 255 S.W. 863, 201 Ky. 33, 33 A.L.R. 814.
N.J.—Holtzman v. Hudson & M. R. Co., 128 A. 623, 101 N.J.Law 255.
Contra Dieckmann v. Chicago, etc., Ry. Co., 121 N.W. 676, 145 Iowa 250, 139 Am.S.R. 420, 31 L.R.A. N.S., 338.
"The high degree of care exacted of carriers in conveying passengers does not extend to stational facilities and approaches."
Mich.—Anda v. Chicago, D. & G. B. Transit Co., 204 N.W. 761, 762, 231 Mich. 567.
N.J.—Seckler v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 174 A. 501, 502, 113 N.J.Law 299.

carrier's duty to keep its approaches free of defects, obstructions or other dangerous conditions,[1] and it is, therefore, liable for injuries suffered by intending passengers going to the station or cars, or by alighting passengers departing therefrom, where it permits the approach to be blocked by a train,[2] or to be obscured or indiscernible.[3] In this connection should be noted the discussion, in § 717 b, of the safety of stations, platforms, walks, and landing places generally.

Where a carrier knows an approach to be unsafe, it is under the duty of warning passengers of the danger,[4] or of guarding passengers against injury from such danger, by erecting barricades or otherwise,[5] particularly where the source of danger has been caused by the carrier itself.[6]

Approaches crossing tracks. Where it is necessary to cross the tracks in order to reach or to depart from the station, platform, or vehicle, the carrier must provide and maintain a safe way for that purpose,[7] and there is authority to the effect that in such circumstances the highest degree of care must be exercised to protect passengers from injury in making the passage.[8]

Where several ways of ingress or egress are maintained, each must be kept in a reasonably safe condition.[9]

Weight of authority

In contrast with an instruction requiring the carrier "to observe the highest degree of care which prudent persons engaged in the same business are accustomed to observe," it was held that "the great weight of authority, and, indeed, every case, except perhaps a few sporadic ones, require of carriers only the exercise of reasonable or ordinary care" with respect to the duty as to approaches—Payne v. Simmons, 255 S. W. 863, 867, 201 Ky. 33, 33 A.L.R. 814.

1. Ill—Davis v South Side Elevated R. Co., 127 N.E. 66, 292 Ill. 378, 10 A.L.R. 254.
Mich.—Anda v. Chicago, D. & G. B Transit Co, 204 N.W. 761, 231 Mich 567.
N.Y.—Chakofsky v. Interborough Rapid Transit Co., 203 N.Y.S. 357, 208 App.Div. 407, reversing 195 N. Y.S. 79
N.C—Fulghum v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 74 S.E. 584, 158 N.C. 555, 39 L.R.A.,N.S., 553.
Pa—Norris v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 177 A. 785, 317 Pa. 586—Greenfield v. Pittsburgh & Lake Erie R. Co., 157 A. 587, 305 Pa. 456
Obstruction of approach as failure to keep station open see infra § 721 a.

2. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Keller, 47 S.W. 1072, 104 Ky. 768, 20 Ky.Law 957.
Okl—Mayne v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 69 P. 933, 12 Okl. 10.

Injury from exposure

Where the way to the waiting room is obstructed by a freight train, an alighting passenger can recover from the carrier for injuries suffered because of exposure—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Keller, 47 S. W. 1072, 104 Ky. 768, 20 Ky.L. 957

3. N.J—Bradley v Erie R. Co., 147 A. 572, 106 N.J.Law 51, reversing 143 A. 743, 105 N.J. Law 1.
Tex—Cato v. Texas & P. Ry. Co., Com.App., 39 S.W.2d 843, reversing Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Cato, Civ. App., 19 S.W.2d 858.

Dust and dirt on plankway

Where the carrier provided a wooden plankway, but permitted it to become covered with dust and dirt, it was held to be negligence not to keep the passage discernible to persons of ordinary observation—Bradley v. Erie R. Co., 147 A. 572, 106 N.J.Law 51, reversing 143 A. 743, 105 N.J. Law 1.

Opening in intervening train

Where carrier provided an opening in an intervening train so that passengers could go through it to the train on the next track, but the opening was hidden from view, and a passenger was injured by an obstacle while walking around the intervening train, the carrier was held liable.—Cato v. Texas & P. Ry. Co., Tex.Com.App., 39 S.W.2d 843, reversing Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Cato, Civ. App., 19 S.W.2d 858

4. Mass.—Cook v. Boston Elevated Ry. Co, 142 N.E. 824, 248 Mass. 142.
Tex—Cato v. Texas & P. Ry. Co., Com.App., 39 S.W.2d 843, reversing Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Cato, Civ. App., 19 S.W.2d 858
10 C.J. p 912 note 29 [b]
Duty to warn boarding or alighting passenger of danger see infra § 724.

5. N.Y—Schlessinger v. Manhattan R. Co., 98 N.Y.S. 840, 49 Misc 504.
10 C.J. p 913 note 37.

6. Ala—Montgomery St. R. Co. v. Mason, 32 So. 261, 133 Ala. 508.
N.Y.—Wolf v. Third Ave. R. Co., 74 N.Y.S. 336, 67 App.Div. 605—Wells v. Steinway R. Co., 45 N.Y.S. 864, 18 App.Div 180.

7. Cal—Aydlott v. Key System Transit Co, 286 P. 456, 104 Cal App. 621.
Iowa.—Dieckmann v. Chicago, etc, R. Co., 121 N.W. 676, 145 Iowa 250, 139 Am.S.R. 420, 31 L.R.A.,N.S., 338.
Kan.—Tipton v. Topeka R. Co., 132 P. 189, 89 Kan. 451.
N.J—Bradley v Erie R. Co, 147 A. 572, 106 N.J.Law 51, reversing 143 A. 743, 105 N.J.Law 1.
Pa—Seltzer v. Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co, 69 Pa.Super. 309.
Vt—Wiley v. Rutland R. Co, 86 A. 868, 86 Vt. 504.
W.Va.—Pierce's Ex'x v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 128 S.E. 832, 99 W.Va. 313.
10 C.J. p 913 note 30 [c].
Operation of cars or trains while boarding or alighting passenger is crossing tracks see infra § 726

Rule applied to interurban railway

Cal—Aydlott v. Key System Transit Co., 286 P. 456, 104 Cal.App. 621.

8. Iowa.—Dieckmann v. Chicago, etc, R. Co., 121 N.W. 676, 145 Iowa 250, 139 Am.S.R. 420, 31 L.R.A.,N.S. 338.

9. Mass.—Cook v. Boston Elevated Ry. Co, 142 N.E. 824, 248 Mass. 142.
Mo.—Gurtman v. Lusk, 208 S.W. 61.
Tex—Stiles v. Union Terminal Co, Civ.App., 1 S.W.2d 947, error refused.
10 C.J. p 912 note 29

The Corpus Juris text is quoted with approval in Gurtman v. Lusk, Mo., 208 S.W. 61, 65.

Escalators

Where there were two escalators, one of which was in motion, the other not, if the carrier knew, or ought to have known, that the use of the nonmoving escalator at station was likely to result in harm to passengers invited by the carrier to use the escalator, it owed the duty to the passengers to warn them in some efficient manner that use of the nonmoving escalator was forbidden as dangerous—Cook v. Boston Elevated Ry. Co., 142 N.E. 824, 248 Mass. 142.

b. Approaches Not Designated or Established by Carrier; Streets

The carrier's duty to keep approaches safe extends generally to ways on its premises commonly used as approaches with its knowledge or consent, although not designated as such by it, and to approaches on the property or in the control of others. However, this duty is generally held not to extend to public streets; thus, carriers operating street cars on public streets are not responsible for defects in streets used as approaches, except so far as required to keep in repair the portion between, or adjacent to, the rails.

If by custom a way on the carrier's premises is commonly used as an approach, with the carrier's knowledge or consent, or at its express or implied invitation, it is the carrier's duty, under most authorities, to keep such way reasonably safe, even though the way was not intended or designated for such use by the carrier, and even though the carrier provides a safe approach in compliance with the duty stated in § 714 a supra;[10] however, by other authority persons using an approach not established as such by the carrier have been regarded as licensees, to whom the carrier does not owe this duty.[11]

Approaches on property or in control of others; public streets. The carrier's duty to keep approaches safe is applicable to approaches on the property, or in the control, of others, but in general made use of by passengers, with the express or implied approval of the carrier,[12] since such duty is not delegable.[13] However, this rule has been held not to apply to public streets used as approaches, so that the carrier is not liable for injuries suffered by prospective or departing passengers by reason of the unsafe condition of the street,[14] although there

10. Mo.—Gurtman v. Lusk, 208 S.W. 61.
N.Y.—Heffron v. New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co., 119 N.E. 1024, 223 N. Y. 473, reversing 161 N.Y.S. 1128, 175 App. Div. 962.
Tex.—Cato v. Texas & P. Ry. Co., Com.App., 39 S.W.2d 843, reversing Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Cato, Civ. App., 19 S.W.2d 858.
10 C.J. p. 912 note 29—p. 913 note 39—p. 914 note 40.

But where there was a usually traveled way from the depot to the highway, it was held that another path was not "the only practical way," and that the carrier need not keep it safe, despite the fact that it was used by those going to and from trains, and that the carrier knew of such use.—Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Taylor, Tex.Civ.App., 225 S.W. 822, 825, dismissed for want of jurisdiction.

In New Jersey

(1) Where a carrier provided two wooden plankways, but permitted passengers to walk across a third way, the carrier was liable to one injured because of a defect in the latter way.—Bradley v. Erie R. Co., 147 A. 572, 106 N.J.Law 51, reversing 143 A. 743, 105 N.J.Law 1.

(2) But a passenger leaving by another way than that provided after alighting from train, was held not invitee, but trespasser or licensee, not entitled to recover for injury from striking foot against signal box even though the way was commonly used.—Lawrence v. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co., 134 A. 893, 4 N.J.Misc. 916.

Notice of safe way

"In the absence of knowledge that only one safe path has been provided by a railroad corporation for leaving a passenger station, and of any notice or direction to take a particular path, a passenger may use any path which appears to be designed and used as a way to the street, and as to him the corporation is bound to see that all such paths are reasonably safe."—Gurtman v. Lusk, Mo., 208 S.W. 61, 65—10 C.J. p. 912 note 29 [a].

11. Ky.—Bales v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 200 S.W. 471, 179 Ky. 207.

Path not on depot premises

Where an intending passenger was injured while walking on a commonly used path on the carrier's right of way about six hundred feet from the station, the court, conceding the carrier's duty to keep approaches safe, said: "A way, which has not been set apart or established for the use of persons having business with the company, and which is not upon nor a part of the depot premises, and which, in its inception, was created by mere trespassing without authority or invitation, is not such an approach as is contemplated" in the statement of the carrier's duty to keep approaches safe.—Bales v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 200 S.W. 471, 475, 179 Ky. 207.

12. Mich.—Boyle v. Waters, 166 N. W. 114, 199 Mich. 478.
Wash.—Hart v. Kings County, 177 P. 344, 104 Wash. 485.
10 C.J. p. 913 notes 30, 31.

Walk joining stations of carriers

(1) Even though one carrier owns the property on which a roadway is built, connecting its train with another carrier's ferry, and the latter agrees to keep the road in repair, both are answerable to a person injured, because of a defect therein, while walking from the train to the ferry.—Hart v. Kings County, 177 P. 344, 104 Wash. 485.

(2) Where each of two connecting carriers constructs half of a walk connecting their stations, both are liable to a passenger of either who is injured on the walk because of failure to keep it safe.—Boyle v. Waters, 166 N.W. 114, 199 Mich. 478.

13. Mich.—Boyle v. Waters, supra.
Wash.—Hart v. Kings County, 177 P. 344, 346, 104 Wash. 485.
10 C.J. p. 913 note 33.

"The duty of protection to passengers is, as between the carriers [jointly maintaining a roadway], neither individual nor delegable, nor can it be evaded by contract inter sese, or by a denial of an ownership of the fee."—Hart v. Kings County, supra.

14. U.S.—Jackson v. Pennsylvania R. Co., N.J., 245 F. 551, 158 C.C.A. 17.
Ind.—Terre Haute, Indianapolis & Eastern Traction Co. v. Auler, 188 N.E. 572, 206 Ind. 423.
Pa.—Calhoon v. Pittsburgh Coal Co., 194 A. 768, 128 Pa.Super. 582.

Reason for rule

"To hold the railroad in effect responsible for the condition of the abutting street is to breed confusion and invite carelessness. On the other hand, if the railroad is held rigidly to its duty in regard to territory it controls, and the city likewise to its duty in the territory it controls, the public will be better protected than where we have divided, dual duty. In the present case it would seem the . . . [passenger] could have sued the city for its alleged neglect, and to subject the railroad to an alternative and original liability for such alleged negligence is to encourage carelessness on the part of the municipality."—Jackson v. Pennsylvania R. Co., N.J., 245 F. 551, 552, 158 C.C.A. 17.

Street abutting ferry house

Carrier held not liable for injury to prospective passenger from defect in street within a few feet of the entrance to its ferry house since there were other entrances, and since the carrier was not obligated, nor did is also authority to the contrary.[15]

Thus carriers by street car, taking up and discharging passengers on a public street, are generally not responsible for defects or obstructions in streets used as approaches,[16] except in so far as they are required to keep the portion of street between, or adjacent to, their rails in repair.[17]

Transferring from one vehicle to another. Where, as a regular incident of travel, a carrier operating on the public streets permits transfers to be made from conveyances on one route to conveyances on other routes, it is only bound to provide safe places for alighting and reëmbarking, and is not liable for the condition of the streets used by passengers in making the transfer.[18]

The carrier's duty where a transfer must be made at an unusual place because of an emergency is considered in § 715 infra.

§ 715. Safety of Ingress and Egress at Unusual Place

Where, because of emergency, passengers must be transferred to complete their trip, the carrier has been required to provide a safe place for the transfer, and to exercise the highest care; some authorities do not, however, require such provision.

The carrier's duty to provide safe means of ingress and egress has been held to extend to a place at which, because of an emergency, a passenger is required to transfer from one car or train to another in order to complete what would otherwise be a continuous trip,[19] and the carrier has been held it have the right, to repair the street.—Jackson v. Pennsylvania R. Co., N. J., 245 F. 551, 158 C.C.A. 17

15. W.Va.—Pierce's Ex'x v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 128 S.E. 832, 834, 99 W.Va. 313
10 C.J. p. 913 notes 30, 32, 37 [a].
'The fact that the way across railroad tracks used by an alighting passenger in going to the station is a public highway does not affect the degree of care due him by the carrier"—Pierce's Ex'x v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., supra—10 C.J. p. 913 note 30 [c].

16. Ind.—Terre Haute, Indianapolis & Eastern Traction Co. v. Auler, 188 N.E. 572, 573, 206 Ind. 423
Mo.—Anton v. St. Louis Public Service Co., 71 S.W.2d 702, 335 Mo. 188.
Tenn.—Clinton v. Tennessee Electric Power Co., 10 Tenn.App. 311.
10 C.J. p. 913 note 34.
"It is obvious that the rule as stated has reference to what are ordinarily known as steam railroads maintaining station houses and like structures in cities, and it is readily seen that there would be great difficulty in applying it to street car companies operating on city streets which they do not control, and stopping at frequent intervals in the public way for the purpose of receiving and discharging passengers"—Terre Haute, Indianapolis & Eastern Traction Co. v. Auler, supra.

Corpus Juris is cited for a collection of the authorities in Maryland Dredging & Contracting Co. v. Hines, C.C.A.Md., 269 F. 781, 783.

Access to private right of way
Interurban electric railroad operating on private right of way outside of city and regularly stopping on signal to accept or discharge passengers at suburb without station, held not bound to provide safe means of access and egress to and from right of way.—Terre Haute, Indianapolis & Eastern Traction Co. v. Auler, 188 N.E. 572, 206 Ind. 423.

Bridge to car line
Where a street railway did not build or maintain a bridge which persons used in going to and from its car line, it is not liable to one injured because of a defect in the bridge.—Clinton v. Tennessee Electric Power Co., 10 Tenn.App. 311.

A public street is not to be regarded as a passenger station for the safety of which a street railroad company is responsible, when used by passengers as a place to alight
Mass.—Thompson v. Gardner, etc., R. Co., 78 N.E. 854, 193 Mass. 133, 118 Am.S.R. 459
Mich.—Spangler v. Saginaw Valley Tract Co., 116 N.W. 373, 152 Mich. 405

The failure of a street railway to repair a pavement in accordance with the requirements of a city ordinance has been held not to give a right of action to one who has alighted from one of the carrier's cars and is injured in consequence of a defect in the pavement.—Fielders v. North Jersey St. R. Co., 53 A. 404, 54 A. 822, 68 N.J.Law 343, 96 Am.S.R. 552, 59 L.R.A. 455, reversing 50 A. 533, 67 N.J.Law 76

17. Cal.—Aydlott v. Key System Transit Co., 286 P. 456, 104 Cal.App. 621
10 C.J. p. 913 note 35.

Requirement by franchise or ordinance
"Manifestly . . . it would be unreasonable to . . . require . . . [a street railway] to provide safe means of access to its cars at every stopping place. It is obliged usually, to stop its cars at all street crossings; and unless some provision of its franchise or an ordinance of the city requires it to pave the street between its tracks, or to maintain platforms and approaches to its cars, it is not to be held responsible for the condition of public streets, and ordinarily will not be liable for injuries to passengers caused by defects therein"—Tipton v. Topeka R. Co., 132 P. 189, 191, 89 Kan. 451.

As to the portion of its tracks ordinarily traversed by intending passengers, an interurban railway company operating on a public street owed duty, as required by its franchise, to keep it in safe condition, so that where an intending passenger while crossing the tracks caught her foot in a hole and was struck by a train, the carrier was liable for the injuries suffered.—Aydlott v. Key System Transit Co., 286 P. 456, 104 Cal.App. 621

18. Mo.—Anton v. St. Louis Public Service Co., 71 S.W.2d 702, 335 Mo. 188.
10 C.J. p. 916 note 53.

Reason for rule
"The transfer ticket is simply an undertaking on the part of the carrier to continue the carriage further without additional charge . . . In the interim between leaving the car and offering himself as a passenger on another, the passenger is not under the care or custody of the carrier, nor subject to his direction or control, and may be far from the carrier's powers of observation. It would seem unreasonable, therefore, to hold the carrier liable to one as a passenger during such interval"—Anton v. St. Louis Public Service Co., 71 S.W.2d 702, 706, 335 Mo. 188

19. Conn.—Pins v. Connecticut Co., 102 A. 595, 92 Conn. 310
Ohio.—Lake Shore Electric Ry. Co. v. Shepherd, 192 N.E. 740, 48 Ohio App. 167.
10 C.J. p. 916 note 53
Where transfer is regular incident of travel see supra § 714 b

Municipal sidewalk
Where carrier, but not passenger, bound at such times to exercise the highest degree of care.[20] Some authorities do not require the carrier to furnish a way to make such a transfer, but if the carrier voluntarily provides a way it then becomes its duty to keep it safe.[21]

§ 716. Safety of Place for Getting on Board or Alighting

In general, a carrier must provide and maintain a convenient and safe place for passengers boarding or alighting; but this duty does not ordinarily apply to a carrier operating street cars on the public streets.

In general, it is the duty of the carrier to provide and maintain a convenient and reasonably safe place at which its vehicles can stop for passengers to get on board or alight.[22] However, carriers operating street cars on the public streets are not subject to this duty, since they neither own nor control the streets;[23] but if the street car company has provided any portion of its roadbed as a place for passengers to alight, it must exercise reasonable care to keep that particular place safe for the purpose.[24]

The duty owed by carriers to boarding or alighting passengers to stop their conveyances at safe places is considered, with reference to carriers generally, in § 723 infra, with reference to carriers by street car in § 733 infra, and as an element in the performance of the carrier's contract or duty to transport the passenger, in § 657 supra; and the duty which the carrier owes to such passengers where the conveyance stops at a place other than a regular stopping place is considered in § 731 infra.

§ 717. Safety of Stations, Platforms, Walks, and Landing Places

a. Duty to provide safe and adequate stational facilities

b. Duty to keep stational facilities safe

a. Duty to Provide Safe and Adequate Stational Facilities

The carrier is generally required to provide safe and adequate stational facilities and to use reasonable or ordinary care in their construction. Where a platform is furnished it must be so constructed that passengers, using ordinary care, may occupy it, and step from the car to it, and vice versa, in safety; and the existence of space between the cars and the platform is not ordinarily, sufficient of itself to constitute negligence.

It is commonly held the duty of the carrier to knew at time passenger boarded car that, because of high water, passengers would have to transfer to another car, municipal sidewalk used by passengers in transferring temporarily became part of railway's equipment, and carrier was required to exercise toward passengers the same degree of care in respect thereto as if sidewalk were its property — Lake Shore Electric Ry Co. v. Shepherd, 192 N E 740, 48 Ohio App. 167

Transfer through woods

Where a suburban trolley, on account of a public improvement in the road, had to transfer the passengers through the woods, it owed at least ordinary care in leading them through the wood and in seeing that the path was reasonably safe.—Pins v. Connecticut Co., 102 A. 595, 92 Conn 310.

20. W.Va —Killmyer v. Wheeling Tract. Co, 77 S E 908, 72 W.Va. 148, 48 L R A.,N S., 683, Ann.Cas 1915C 1220

10 C J. p 916 note 53 [a].

21. Or —Finseth v Suburban R Co, 51 P. 84, 32 Or. 1, 39 L R A. 517.

10 C.J p 916 note 53 [c].

22. U S.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. Burton, C.C A W.Va., 50 F.2d 730 —Davis v. Olson, C C A.Minn., 298 F 921.

Ill —Feeney v. Chicago City Ry. Co., 220 Ill App 400

Iowa —Vanderbeck v. Chicago, M, St P. & P. Ry. Co., 230 N.W. 390, 210 Iowa 310.

Mo —Le Duc v. St. Louis, etc., R Co., 140 S W. 758, 159 Mo.App. 136

N.C.—Lane v. Southern Ry. Co, 134 S.E 855, 192 N.C. 287, 51 A L R 1114.

N.D.—Faubion v. Minneapolis, St. P. & S. S M. Ry. Co., 177 N.W. 371, 45 N D 269.

10 C J p 914 note 44.

The Corpus Juris text is cited with approval

U S —Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. Burton, C.C A W.Va., 50 F.2d 730, 731

Ala —Alabama Power Co. v. Hall, 103 So 867, 212 Ala. 638

Mo.—Jenkins v Missouri State Life Ins. Co, 69 S.W 2d 666, 334 Mo. 941.

"Unusual" place

The place where a passenger alights from a train need not be "unusual" as well as unsafe, to make the carrier liable for his injury.—Louisville, etc, R. Co v. Davis, 162 S W. 1124, 1125, 157 Ky. 239.

"High degree of care" required

N C —Lane v. Southern Ry. Co., 134 S.E. 855, 859, 192 N.C. 287, 51 A.L R 1114.

Duty to provide platforms see infra § 717 a.

23. Ill.—Feeney v. Chicago City Ry. Co, 220 Ill.App. 400.

Ky —Mayhew v. Ohio Valley Electric Ry. Co, 254 S.W. 202, 203, 200 Ky. 105.

Minn —Lentz v. Minneapolis & St. Paul Suburban R. Co., 160 N.W. 794, 135 Minn. 310.

Pa —Perret v. George, 133 A. 228, 229, 286 Pa 221—Scanlon v Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co, 57 A. 521, 208 Pa. 195.

10 C J p 913 note 35 [b].

"The law recognizes a distinction between the duties of a street railway company, operating its lines upon the streets of a city, toward an alighting passenger, as to the condition of the place, and the duties of a steam or interurban railway in the country, where the latter have regular and supposedly equipped places for the purpose and have under their control a right of way which they can and must prepare for that purpose."—Mayhew v Ohio Valley Electric Ry. Co., supra

"However broadly and strictly we may have held street railways to care in receiving and discharging passengers, where the company owns or controls the right of way, with the approaches thereto, the rule is different where such right of way and approaches are not so owned. . . . It is only in exceptional cases, arising under contract, that a street railway company is responsible for accidents occurring in the cartway of a street through lack of repair"—Perret v. George, supra.

Duty of carrier by street car as to streets used as approaches see supra § 714 b.

24. N.Y.—Flack v. Nassau Electric R. Co., 58 N Y.S. 839, 41 App.Div. 399.

provide safe and adequate stational facilities for the protection and accommodation of passengers waiting for, approaching, and leaving the trains or other means of conveyance,[25] although there is authority to the effect that depots and waiting rooms need not be established unless a statute so requires.[26] In the construction of such facilities, the carrier is required to exercise only reasonable or ordinary care, so that they may be used in safety.[27]

Platforms. It may be necessary for a railroad company to furnish a platform suitable and adequate for taking up and setting down passengers;[28] but it has been held not required to do so at a place other than a regular or usual stopping place.[29] Where the carrier does provide a platform, it must exercise ordinary care to construct it in such a way that passengers may, in the exercise of due care, occupy it in safety,[30] and where a platform is so constructed that part of the train projects over it passengers injured thereby have been permitted to recover from the carrier,[31] although some authorities consider the danger to be obvious, so that the carrier is relieved of liability.[32]

25. U.S.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. Burton, C.C.A.W.Va., 50 F.2d 730
Cal.—Wilkinson v. United Railroads of San Francisco, 232 P. 131, 195 Cal. 185.
Kan.—Higgins v. Southern Kansas Stage Lines Co., 42 P.2d 599, 141 Kan. 641.
Md.—Jackson v. Hines, 113 A. 129, 137 Md. 621.
N.C.—Lane v. Southern Ry. Co., 134 S.E. 855, 192 N.C. 287, 51 A.L.R. 1114.
Okl.—Missouri, Kansas & Oklahoma Coach Lines v. Burton, 72 P.2d 385, 181 Okl. 45.
Pa.—Spagnol v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 123 A. 781, 279 Pa. 205, 32 A.L.R. 1313.
Tex.—Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Brown, Civ.App., 205 S.W. 378.
W.Va.—Pierce's Ex'x v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 128 S.E. 832, 99 W.Va. 313
10 C.J. p. 916 note 54.

"It is generally recognized that a common carrier of passengers, because of the nature and character of its business, must provide such stational facilities and conveniences as are reasonably necessary for the accommodation of its passengers, actual and prospective."—Jackson v. Hines, 113 A. 129, 131, 137 Md. 621.

Corpus Juris is cited with approval.
U.S.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. Burton, C.C.A.W.Va., 50 F.2d 730, 731.
W.Va.—Pierce's Ex'x v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 128 S.E. 832, 833, 99 W.Va. 313.

Accommodations for colored people

Motorbus carrier held bound by statute to provide reasonable station facilities for accommodation and comfort of prospective passengers while waiting for arrival of bus so that a colored woman could recover damages for injury resulting from exclusion from the station on a cold night.—Higgins v. Southern Kansas Stage Lines Co., 42 P.2d 599, 141 Kan. 641

Hotel used as bus station

A bus company held to have duty under statute to provide safe conditions for its passengers at hotel used as bus station under arrangement with hotel.—Missouri, Kansas & Oklahoma Coach Lines v. Burton, 72 P.2d 385, 181 Okl. 45

26. Ala.—Waldrop v. Nashville, etc., R. Co., 62 So. 769, 183 Ala. 226—Page v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 29 So. 676, 129 Ala. 232.

Less than required population

Where a statute provides that depots be built in towns with a population of more than one thousand, it is not the carrier's duty to build them in towns having a smaller population.—Page v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 29 So. 676, 129 Ala. 232.

27. Ill.—Davis v. Southside Elevated R. Co., 127 N.E. 66, 292 Ill. 378, 10 A.L.R. 254.
Minn.—McDonnell v. St. Paul Union Depot Co., 195 N.W. 538, 157 Minn. 66.
N.J.—Seckler v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 174 A. 501, 113 N.J.Law 299—Holtzman v. Hudson & M. R. Co., 128 A. 623, 101 N.J.Law 255.
Ohio.—Majoros v. Cleveland Interurban R. Co., 187 N.E. 857, 127 Ohio St. 255

This rule as stated in Corpus Juris is cited or referred to.
Ill.—Davis v. Southside Elevated R. Co., 127 N.E. 66, 67, 292 Ill. 378, 10 A.L.R. 254.
Minn.—McDonnell v. St. Paul Union Depot Co., 195 N.W. 538, 539, 157 Minn. 66.

Authorities "well nigh unanimous"
Minn.—McDonnell v. St. Paul Union Depot Co., 195 N.W. 538, 539, 157 Minn. 66

Care, not success, controlling

The degree of care exercised, rather than the degree of success achieved, is the controlling factor in determining negligence in construction or maintenance.—Seckler v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 174 A. 501, 113 N.J.Law 299.

Floors at different levels

Construction of floor in bus station with difference in elevation of three inches between floor of dressing room and floor of station has been held not negligence, so as to render bus company liable for injuries sustained by passenger.—Van v. Teche Lines, La.App., 164 So. 267.

Turnstile

Installation at a subway station of a turnstile on which was a sharp piece of exposed metal on which a passenger injured himself has been held negligence on carrier's part, since the injury should have been anticipated in the exercise of reasonable forethought and prudence.—Chakofsky v. Interborough Rapid Transit Co., 203 N.Y.S. 357, 208 App.Div. 407, reversing 195 N.Y.S. 79.

28. Mass.—McCarthy v. Boston, R. B. & L. R. Co., 159 N.E. 507, 262 Mass. 56.
Tex.—Wells Fargo & Co. v. Lowery, Civ.App., 197 S.W. 605, error refused.
10 C.J. p. 917 note 61.

29. Ind.—Sellers v. Cleveland,' etc., R. Co., 81 N.E. 1087, 40 Ind.App. 319.

30. N.J.—Holtzman v. Hudson & M. R. Co., 128 A. 623, 101 N.J.Law 255—Dotson v. Erie R. Co., 54 A. 827, 68 N.J.Law 679.
N.Y.—Hoffman v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 177 N.Y.S. 140, 188 App.Div. 414.
Pa.—Twersky v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 104 A. 63, 261 Pa. 6.
10 C.J. p. 917 note 61

Platform of type generally used

"The adoption of a method of construction of its platforms and approaches which accords with that in general use by well-regulated railroad companies, and which is approved by experience, is a due performance of the duty which it owes to its passengers in that regard."—Bradley v. Erie R. Co., 143 A. 743, 744, 105 N.J.Law 1, reversed on other grounds 147 A. 572, 106 N.J.Law 51—Feil v. West Jersey, etc., R. Co., 72 A. 362, 363, 77 N.J.Law 502.

31. Ind.—Evansville Rys. Co. v. Miller, 111 N.E. 1031, 64 Ind.App. 206.
N.Y.—Hoffman v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 177 N.Y.S. 140, 188 App.Div. 414.
10 C.J. p. 917 note 61.

32. Ala.—Williford v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 113 So. 44, 216 Ala. 307.

Further, passengers exercising due care must be able to step from the steps of a car to the platform, or vice versa, in safety.[33] However, there must be some space between the cars and the platform to provide for the swaying of the cars, or for the curvature of the platform,[34] and the existence of such a space is not of itself sufficient to constitute negligence,[35] at least if the space is such that the carrier is not bound to anticipate injury to passengers therefrom,[36] or if its existence is obvious to passengers using ordinary care,[37] or if passengers are warned of the danger.[38]

N.J.—Dotson v. Erie R. Co., 54 A. 827, 68 N.J.Law 679.

"It is a matter of common knowledge that . . . the platforms along the best regulated railroads are built so near the rails that the projections from the engines and the cars will overlap, to some extent, the edge of the platform. While the extreme edge of the platform is perfectly safe for passengers when occupying it for the purpose to which it is manifestly adapted, it is a matter of common knowledge that it is a place of danger when occupied while trains are passing or are likely to pass. It is the plain duty of the passenger when not getting on or off a train, but while he may be waiting upon the platform, or engaged in walking upon it, to keep such a distance from the edge of it next to the rail that he would be beyond the reach of the projections of ordinary trains. And the company is not liable for injury to a passenger who suffers himself to go beyond such a limit, and is injured by a passing train"—Dotson v. Erie R. Co., 54 A. 827, 829, 68 N.J.Law 679.

Warning device

Railroad held not under duty to place guard rail or other warning device at track before station platform, where danger of being hit by trains was obvious.—Williford v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 113 So. 44, 216 Ala. 309.

33. N.J.—Dotson v. Erie R. Co., 54 A. 827, 829, 68 N.J.Law 679.
10 C.J. p 917 note 66

"A railroad company is only required to build platforms of sufficient dimensions to accommodate passengers getting on and off at their stations. . . . This duty requires the railroad company to construct its platform sufficiently near to the rails that it will afford to passengers, including the aged and infirm, a safe exit to and from the trains."—Dotson v. Erie R. Co., supra.

34. Mass.—Hilborn v. Boston & N. St. R. Co., 77 N.E. 646, 191 Mass. 14.
N.Y.—McKinney v. New York Consol. R. Co., 129 N.E. 652, 230 N.Y. 194, reversing 172 N.Y.S. 906, 186 App. Div. 959—Gibson v. New York Consol. R. Co., 159 N.Y.S. 514, 173 App.Div. 125.
10 C.J. p 917 note 66.

"The cars must not scrape the platform of the station, and must be far enough away to allow for the oscillation and swaying of the train. On a perfectly straight track three or four inches of separation would be all that necessity required, and as much as should be usually maintained. But a perfectly straight line cannot everywhere be constructed. . . . The body of a car forms an unbending straight line, and wherever there is a curve becomes the chord of an arc. If the outer line of the platform, following the curve of the track, as it should to bring all points as near as possible to the train, shows a convexity to the cars, any one of them in passing will have its center nearer to the station than one or both ends. If the car stops, and the center is within four inches of the platform, one or both ends will be further away, depending upon the character or degree of the curve. It follows, therefore, that where a station is located upon a curve, and is convex towards the train, which becomes a tangent, the closest approach reasonably possible of the center of the car will leave the ends further away; and in such case that distance and the consequent opening is inevitable,—a necessary result of the practical operation of the road,—and its presence, the bare fact of its existence, is not and cannot be deemed negligence."—Ryan v. Manhattan R. Co., 23 N.E. 1131, 121 N.Y. 126—Woolsey v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 108 N.Y.S. 16, 19, 123 App.Div. 631, opinion of Hooker, J.

35. N.Y.—McKinney v. New York Consol. R. Co., 129 N.E. 652, 230 N.Y. 194, reversing 172 N.Y.S. 906, 186 App.Div. 959—Trudnowski v. New York Cent. R. Co., 221 N.Y.S. 686, 220 App.Div. 503—Lang v. Interborough Rapid Transit Co., 183 N.Y.S. 270, 193 App.Div. 56—Gibson v. New York Consol. R. Co., 159 N.Y.S. 514, 173 App.Div. 125.
10 C.J. p 917 note 66.

Particular spaces held not to show negligence

(1) Three and one-half inches.—McKinney v. New York Consol. R. Co., 129 N.E. 652, 230 N.Y. 194, reversing 172 N.Y.S. 906, 186 App.Div. 959.

(2) Five inches, with "a drop from the step to the platform of not more than an inch greater than the height of the individual step."—Trudnowski v. New York Cent. R. Co., 221 N.Y.S. 686, 688, 220 App.Div. 503.

(3) Seven and one-half inches.—Gibson v. New York Consol. R. Co., 159 N.Y.S. 514, 173 App.Div. 125.

(4) Eight inches.—Lang v. Interborough Rapid Transit Co., 183 N.Y.S. 270, 193 App.Div. 56.

(5) Nine inches.—Anshen v. Boston Elevated Ry. Co., 91 N.E. 157, 205 Mass. 32.

(6) Ten inches.—Woolsey v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 108 N.Y.S. 16, 123 App.Div. 631.

36. Mass.—Anshen v. Boston Elevated Ry. Co., 91 N.E. 157, 205 Mass. 32.
N.Y.—McKinney v. New York Consol. R. Co., 129 N.E. 652, 230 N.Y. 194, reversing 172 N.Y.S. 906, 186 App.Div. 959.
10 C.J. p 917 note 66.

Less than ordinary adult's step

Space much less in distance than an ordinary adult's step is not so great as to charge a carrier with negligence for failure to guard against passengers' falling into the space.—Anshen v. Boston Elevated Ry. Co., 91 N.E. 157, 205 Mass. 32.

37. N.Y.—Lang v. Interborough Rapid Transit Co., 183 N.Y.S. 270, 193 App.Div. 56—Gabriel v. Long Island R. Co., 66 N.Y.S. 301, 54 App.Div. 41.
Pa.—Twersky v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 104 A. 63, 261 Pa. 6.
10 C.J. p 917 note 66.

Care by passenger assumed

(1) "It may be assumed generally that where passengers are alighting they will watch their steps"—Gibson v. New York Consol. R. Co., 159 N.Y.S. 514, 515, 173 App.Div. 125.

(2) "A carrier of passengers in the management of its business has the right to assume that passengers will take some care of themselves"—Gabriel v. Long Island R. Co., 66 N.Y.S. 301, 303, 54 App.Div. 41.

(3) A subsurface railroad was not negligent in failing to warn a passenger of an open space between station platform and car, which she in fact saw, as it could act on the assumption she would use ordinary care to avoid any obvious danger.—Lang v. Interborough Rapid Transit Co., 183 N.Y.S. 270, 193 App.Div. 56.

38. N.Y.—Woolsey v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 108 N.Y.S. 16, 123 App.Div. 631—Coogan v. Interborough Rapid Transit Co., 99 N.Y.S. 382, 50 Misc. 562.
10 C.J. p 917 note 66.
Carrier's duty to warn passengers of Subway leased from transit commission. A carrier leasing a subway from a transit commission, which designed and constructed the stations and platforms, is not responsible for the negligence of the commission in that work.[39]

b. Duty to Keep Stational Facilities Safe

(1) General rules
(2) Application of rules
(3) Conditions on liability; knowledge of defect and time to remedy

(1) General Rules

The carrier is generally required to exercise ordinary or reasonable care to keep its stations, stational facilities, and platforms in safe condition, although some authorities require a high, or the highest, degree of care. It is not relieved of this duty by the fact that another attempts to perform it, or that it does not own or did not construct the facilities used.

The authorities are well-nigh unanimous, it has been said,[40] that it is the carrier's duty to exercise ordinary or reasonable care to keep its stations, stational facilities, and platforms in safe condition,[41] dangers generally while boarding or alighting see supra § 724

Warning held necessary

Where the space is nine inches wide, the carrier should give passengers warning, and if it does so, it is not liable to one injured by reason of that opening.—Coogan v. Interborough Rapid Transit Co., 99 N.Y.S. 382, 50 Misc. 562.

39. Mass.—Bryant v. Boston Elevated Ry. Co. 122 N.E. 744, 232 Mass. 549—Collins v. Boston Elevated Ry. Co., 105 N.E. 353, 217 Mass. 420—Theall v. Boston El. R. Co., 100 N.E. 543, 213 Mass. 327—Hilborn v. Boston & N. St. R. Co., 77 N.E. 646, 191 Mass. 14

Open space between platform and car

Where a subway and platform were designed and constructed by a transit commission and were leased to the carrier, the carrier, having had no control over the plan or size of the platform, is not responsible for the existence of spaces between the cars and the platform.—Bryant v. Boston Elevated Ry. Co., 122 N.E. 744, 232 Mass. 549—Collins v. Boston Elevated Ry. Co., 105 N.E. 353, 217 Mass. 420—Hilborn v. Boston & N. St. R. Co., 77 N.E. 646, 191 Mass. 14

Escalator defectively constructed

(1) The carrier must accept and operate the subway or street car line as constructed, and if, due to the manner in which an escalator was constructed, there was a defect in it, the carrier would not be liable to one injured thereby.—Du Bois v. Boston Elevated Ry. Co., 176 N.E. 920, 276 Mass. 98—Theall v. Boston El. R. Co., 100 N.E. 543, 213 Mass. 327.

(2) A street railroad company is not negligent in not asking the commission to change escalators before the first accident resulting from their mechanism.—Theall v. Boston El. R. Co., 100 N.E. 543, 213 Mass. 327.

40. Minn.—McDonnell v. St. Paul Union Depot Co., 195 N.W. 538, 157 Minn. 66.

41. U.S.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. Burton, C.C.A.W.Va., 50 F.2d 730—Kansas City Southern Ry. Co. v. Pinson, C.C.A.Tex., 23 F.2d 247, applying Louisiana law.

Ark.—Kansas City Southern R. Co. v. Cobb, 178 S.W. 383, 118 Ark. 569—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Grimsley, 117 S.W. 1064, 90 Ark. 64—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Wilson, 66 S.W. 661, 70 Ark. 136, 91 Am.S.R. 74.

Cal.—Sanchez v. Pacific Auto Stages, 3 P.2d 845, 116 Cal.App. 392

Iowa.—McNaughton v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 113 N.W. 844, 136 Iowa 177.

Ky.—Cincinnati, N. & C. Ry. Co. v. Trenkamp, 295 S.W. 866, 220 Ky. 552—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Scarbrough, 270 S.W. 494, 208 Ky. 79—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Minix, 260 S.W. 15, 202 Ky. 472—Payne v. Simmons, 255 S.W. 863, 201 Ky. 33, 33 A.L.R. 814—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Sanderson, 192 S.W. 869, 175 Ky. 11, L.R.A.1917D 890—Cumberland R. Co. v. Hemphill, 184 S.W. 883, 169 Ky. 519—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Baker, 164 S.W. 799, 158 Ky. 224.

Mass.—Klein v. Boston Elevated Ry. Co., 200 N.E. 6—Pearson v. Payne, 139 N.E. 488, 245 Mass. 158.

Mich.—Anda v. Chicago, D. & G. B. Transit Co., 204 N.W. 761, 231 Mich. 567.

Minn.—McDonnell v. St. Paul Union Depot Co., 195 N.W. 538, 157 Minn. 66.

Mo.—Williams v. Kansas City Terminal Ry. Co., 231 S.W. 954, 288 Mo. 11, transferred, App., 223 S.W. 132—Thomas v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., App., 293 S.W. 1051—Lowther v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., 261 S.W. 702, 214 Mo.App. 293—Martin v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., App., 253 S.W. 1083—Munro v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 135 S.W. 1016, 155 Mo.App. 710

N.H.—Wessman v. Boston & M. R. R., 152 A. 476, 84 N.H. 475.

N.J.—Seckler v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 174 A. 501, 113 N.J.Law 299—Holtzman v. Hudson & M. R. Co., 128 A. 623, 101 N.J.Law 255—Feil v. West Jersey, etc., R. Co., 72 A. 362, 77 N.J.Law 502—Cooney v. Hudson & M. R. Co., 138 A. 512, 5 N.J.Misc. 842

N.Y.—Beltz v. Buffalo, R. & P. Ry. Co., 119 N.E. 81, 222 N.Y. 433, reversing 160 N.Y.S. 1124, 171 App.Div. 976—Kelly v. Manhattan Ry. Co., 20 N.E. 383, 112 N.Y. 443, 3 L.R.A. 74—Boettcher v. Dowling, 277 N.Y.S. 228, 243 App.Div. 397, affirmed 200 N.E. 316, 270 N.Y. 557—Hoffman v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 177 N.Y.S. 140, 188 App.Div. 414—Murphy v. Hudson & M. R. Co., 167 N.Y.S. 895, 180 App.Div. 585

Ohio.—Majoros v. Cleveland Interurban R. Co., 187 N.E. 857, 127 Ohio St. 255

Utah.—Stonebreaker v. Bamberger, 54 P.2d 418, 88 Utah 310—Barlow v. Salt Lake & U. R. Co., 194 P. 665, 57 Utah 312

W.Va.—Pierce's Ex'x v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 128 S.E. 832, 99 W.Va. 313.

Wis.—Pleva v. Milwaukee Electric Ry. & Light Co., 246 N.W. 694, 210 Wis. 568—Zilles v. Milwaukee Electric Ry. & Light Co., 246 N.W. 693, 210 Wis. 564

10 C.J. p. 916 note 54—p. 917 note 62

The Corpus Juris statement has been adopted or referred to.

U.S.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. Burton, C.C.A.W.Va., 50 F.2d 730, 731.

Ill.—Davis v. Southside Elevated R. Co., 127 N.E. 66, 67, 292 Ill. 378, 10 A.L.R. 254.

Ky.—Hendricks v. Covington & Cincinnati Bridge Co., 6 S.W.2d 1050, 1053, 224 Ky. 592.

Minn.—McDonnell v. St. Paul Union Depot Co., 195 N.W. 538, 539, 157 Minn. 66

W.Va.—Pierce's Ex'x v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 128 S.E. 832, 833, 99 W. Va. 313

In Illinois

(1) As between the highest degree of care and ordinary care, only ordinary care is required of the carrier to keep its stations, depots, and appurtenances safe, and "anything that has been said in any former decision of this court which might be thought to support the contrary conclusion is hereby overruled."—Davis v. South Side Elevated R. Co., 127 N.E. 66, 68, 292 Ill. 378, 10 A.L.R. 254

(2) The carrier "was not bound to use the highest degree of care in maintaining said depot and platform, but was bound to use only ordinary in view of the dangers to be apprehended,[42] although some authorities require a "high"[43] or "the highest"[44] degree of care, and still others state the duty without reference to the degree of care to be used in its performance.[45]

The duty above stated as to stational facilities is not limited, in its application, to carriers by steam or electric railroad, but applies also to carriers by street car with respect to stations and platforms which they may maintain.[46]

The carrier will not be relieved of this duty by the fact that another attempts to perform it,[47] nor is it material, it has been declared, that the carrier did not build and does not own the station or platform it uses.[48]

care"—Dean v Yelloway Pioneer System, 259 Ill App 180, 189

(3) But it has been held that the carrier must exercise the "highest degree of care, skill and diligence for the safety of the . . . [passenger] consistent with the mode of conveyance employed."—Lapin v. Northwestern El R. Co., 162 Ill App 296, 298

"Reasonably safe"

It is the company's duty to exercise "ordinary care" to keep its waiting room in a safe condition, so that it is inaccurate to instruct merely that a carrier must keep its waiting room in a "reasonably safe condition"—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v Grimsley, 117 S.W. 1064, 1066, 90 Ark. 64

"Very high precautions"

In action by passenger slipping on grease on station platform, railroad knowing that motor vehicles frequently traversed platform and left grease, held required, in the exercise of ordinary care, to take "very high precautions" to discover and remove grease.—Stonebreaker v. Bamberger, 54 P 2d 418, 422, 88 Utah 310.

Abandoned station

A railroad company cannot defeat a recovery for injuries sustained at a station by the claim that such station was abandoned, where, although it kept no agent and sold no tickets there, it sold tickets to, and permitted passengers to get off and on at, such place—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Williams, 51 S.W. 653, 21 Tex Civ. App. 469.

Escalator

A railway company, obliged to accept and operate a subway as constructed, was under the "duty to maintain the escalator in as safe a condition as it was in when it came under . . [its] control"—Du Bois v Boston Elevated Ry Co., 176 N.E. 920, 921, 276 Mass. 98.

Flag station

N C.—Pincus v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 53 S E. 297, 140 N.C. 450, 111 Am S.R 856.

Safety tread on steps

Where a defendant equipped steps in a station giving access to trains with safety tread, which was supposed to afford a firm footing even though wet, a passenger, who slipped on a step which had become wet presumably from the wet or muddy shoes and dripping umbrellas of the preceding passengers, cannot recover from defendant, it having exercised ordinary care—Williams v. Kansas City Terminal Ry Co., 231 S W. 954, 288 Mo. 11, transferred, App., 223 S. W. 132.

Statutes requiring station to be open

A statute requiring waiting rooms to be kept open for thirty minutes before the scheduled departure of trains does not affect the carrier's duty to keep its waiting room safe for all entering it at the carrier's invitation, and a carrier permitting unguarded hole to exist in floor of waiting room in course of repair was liable to an intending passenger who went to the waiting room two hours before her train was due, unless she was guilty of contributory negligence.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Minnix, 260 S.W. 15, 202 Ky. 472.

42. N Y.—Beltz v. Buffalo, R & P. Ry. Co., 119 N E. 81, 222 N.Y. 433, reversing 160 N.Y.S. 1124, 171 App. Div. 976—Kelly v. Manhattan Ry. Co., 20 N.E. 383, 112 N.Y. 443, 3 L.R A. 74.

43. N C.—Lane v. Southern Ry. Co., 134 S.E. 855, 859, 192 N.C. 287, 51 A.L.R. 1114.

In Texas

(1) "It seems to be settled by the decisions of this state that the rule of high degree of care is applicable" to "the condition of . . . [a carrier's] station and premises occupied by its passengers preliminary to or upon termination of the actual transportation," as well as to "the actual transportation of the passenger"—Fort Worth & D C. Ry. Co. v Kidwell, 245 S.W. 667, 670, 112 Tex. 89, answering certified questions, Civ.App., 249 S W. 303—Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Brown, Civ. App., 205 S.W. 378, 379.

(2) But it has been held that the carrier owes the duty of exercising only "ordinary care" to keep its station buildings safe.—Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry Co. v. Taylor, Tex.Civ.App., 225 S.W. 822, 825, dismissed for want of jurisdiction.

(3) And such care as "persons of ordinary prudence would employ under the same circumstances" has been required.—Trinity, etc., R. Co. v. O'Brien, 46 S.W. 389, 391, 18 Tex. Civ.A. 690.

44. S C.—Dilleshaw v. Charleston, etc., R Co., 67 S E 304, 305, 85 S. C. 334

Alighting passenger

A carrier owes an alighting passenger the "highest degree of care" to keep its platforms in reasonably safe condition, since such passenger is still in transit—Louisville & N R Co v. Scarbrough, 270 S.W. 494, 496, 208 Ky. 79—Louisville & N R Co. v. Baker, 164 S.W. 799, 801, 158 Ky 224.

45. Miss.—Meridian Terminal Co v Stewart, 108 So 496, 143 Miss 523 Pa.—Twersky v. Pennsylvania R Co., 104 A. 63, 261 Pa. 6.

Safe for persons exercising ordinary care

The duty of a carrier rises no higher than to construct and maintain its platforms so as to make them safe for persons exercising ordinary care—Twersky v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 104 A. 63, 261 Pa. 6.

Use in safety

Terminal company maintaining union passenger station and railroad using terminal have duty of maintaining landing place "in such condition that it could be used with safety" by persons going to and coming from trains—Meridian Terminal Co. v Stewart, 108 So 496, 143 Miss. 523.

46. Ky.—South Covington & C St. Ry. v. Vance, 278 S.W. 116, 211 Ky. 774—Mayhew v. Ohio Valley Electric Ry. Co., 254 S.W. 202, 203, 200 Ky. 105.

Mass.—Klein v. Boston Elevated Ry Co., 200 N E. 6.

10 C.J p 917 note 62

"If . . . a street railway has provided a regular depot at a stopping place, the same duties are imposed upon it with reference to its safety for the discharge of passengers as are imposed upon other carriers of passengers."—Mayhew v. Ohio Valley Electric Ry. Co., supra.

47. Colo.—Union Depot, etc., Co. v. Londoner, 114 P 316, 50 Colo. 22, 33 L.R.A.,N.S., 433.

10 C J. p 911 note 20 [a].

Liability generally where station used by more than one carrier or operated by union depot company see supra § 708.

48. N H.—Haselton v. Portsmouth,

The fact that a passenger is pushed into a dangerous place does not shift the responsibility for the injury, as the carrier is bound to know that crowds will congregate on its platform.[49]

(2) Application of Rules

In accordance with its general duty to keep its stational facilities safe, it is the carrier's duty, subject to qualifications as to notice and opportunity to eliminate the danger, to keep the station and platform in good repair and free of defects, obstructions, and other dangerous conditions, and to prevent, and guard passengers against, any customary use of the platform which renders it dangerous.

The particular duties involved in the carrier's general duty to keep its stations and platforms safe for the protection and accommodation of its passengers, and discussed in this subdivision, are in addition to those specifically considered in §§ 718–721 infra.

Subject to qualifications as to notice and opportunity to eliminate the danger, it is the carrier's duty to keep the station and platform in good repair[50] and free of dangerous depressions[51] or other defects;[52] to keep the platform free from, or to remove, trucks, baggage, and other obstacles on which passengers are liable to be injured,[53] even though the dangerous obstacles were placed there by another, such as an express company permitted to use the platform for its own purpose,[54] to pre-etc., St. R Co., 53 A. 1016, 71 N. H. 589.

10 C.J. p 917 note 62

A street railroad company adopting a platform and inviting the public to use it in getting on and off the cars, has the duty of keeping the platform in a reasonably safe condition for that purpose; and it is immaterial whether or not the platform was built by the company, or is in a public street—Haselton v. Portsmouth, etc., St. R. Co, 53 A. 1016, 71 N.H. 589.

Part of platform

(1) However, it has been held that a carrier authorized to use only a certain part of a platform which it did not construct or maintain is not responsible for the condition of any other part, even though it did in fact use the entire platform—Eastern Texas Electric Co. v. Tucker, Tex Civ.App, 287 S.W. 71.

(2) So, where street railway was authorized to use platform to extent of twenty-four inches outside of rails, mere use of entire platform was held not to render carrier liable for injuries to boarding passenger who fell through hole thirty-three inches from rail—Eastern Texas Electric Co. v. Tucker, supra.

49. Ind—Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Robinson, 61 N.E. 936, 157 Ind 414.
Carrier's duty to protect passengers against crowds see infra § 720.

50. Ohio.—Majoros v. Cleveland Interurban R. Co., 187 N.E. 857, 127 Ohio St. 255.
10 C.J. p 918 note 67.

Against storms

Ohio—Majoros v. Cleveland Interurban R Co, 187 N E. 857, 127 Ohio St. 255.

51. S C.—Dilleshaw v. Charleston, etc., R. Co, 67 S E. 304, 85 S.C. 334.
10 C.J. p 917 note 55–p 918 note 67.

Absence of negligence

Subway operating company has been held not liable for injuries sustained by plaintiff who stepped into a pool of water and fell as she was entering a turnstile on platform of subway station, where there was no showing of negligence for which company was liable.—Brand v. Interborough Rapid Transit Co, 291 N.Y. S. 260—10 C J. p 917 note 56.

Depression not dangerous

A carrier has been held not liable to a passenger who accidentally fell from platform of its depot at a point of depression caused by a descent of ground, but not causing a sufficient elevation to render it dangerous.—Hueston v. Quincy, O. & K. C. Ry. Co., Mo, 189 S.W 1170.

52. Mo.—Martin v. Missouri Pac R Co., App., 253 S.W. 1083—Munro v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co, 135 S.W. 1016, 155 Mo.App. 710.
10 C J. p 917 note 55–p 918 note 67.

Defective door spring

Mo—Martin v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., App, 253 S W. 1083.

53. U.S.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co v. Burton, C.C.A W.Va., 50 F.2d 730.
Tex.—Wells Fargo & Co. v. Lowery, Civ.App, 197 S W. 605, error refused.
10 C J. p 918 note 68.

"This duty not only requires the railroad company as a carrier of passengers to exercise ordinary care to see that the station platform itself is in safe condition and free from any defect from which a consequent injury might be reasonably expected to result, but also to keep such station platform free from obstructions and dangerous instrumentalities, especially at the time when passengers are expected to go to and from its cars."—Kansas City Southern R. Co. v. Watson, 144 S W. 922, 102 Ark. 499, 503.

News stand

Railway company has been held not guilty of negligence proximately causing injuries to women waiting to board train by fall from crowded station platform onto track as result of unknown person pushing man against her in passing between him and news stand six feet from edge of platform, such stand not constituting unlawful obstruction of platform—Williams v New York Rapid Transit Corporation, 6 N.E.2d 58, 272 N.Y. 366, affirming 288 N.Y.S. 778, 248 App Div 765.

Steel wire barrel hoop

U S—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. Burton, C C.A.W.Va, 50 F.2d 730.

Baggage on platform

A carrier is not negligent in placing baggage on a station platform, where a sufficient passageway is left. —White v. New York Cent. R Co, 239 N.Y.S. 90, 228 App.Div. 50—10 C J. p 918 note 68 [c] (1).

Passageway of six feet

Where a carrier's employee placed a few cross-ties near the tracks at a flag station, leaving six feet of space between the ties and the train, there was held to be sufficient passageway at the station—Fulghum v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co, 74 S. E. 584, 158 N.C. 555, 39 L R A.,N S, 558.

Passenger helping to remove obstruction

Where passenger, after leaving train and while on platform helped a brakeman to lift a heavy barrel, railroad was not liable for injuries received while so doing, on ground that passageway on platform was obstructed, where another brakeman and conductor were near by to render help if needed, and it would have been but a short time until obstructions were removed.—Shaffer v St Louis & S. F Ry. Co., 208 S W. 145, 201 Mo App 107.

54. Tex—Wells Fargo & Co v. Lowery, Civ.App., 197 S W. 605, error refused.
10 C J. p 906 note 75 [e]–p 918 notes 68, 69.

Contract with third person

Where a carrier, by contract with an express company, granted to it the right to use its platform, it was vent, and to guard passengers against, another's customary use of the platform which renders it dangerous,[55] such as the acts of postal clerks in throwing mail pouches on the platform from passing trains;[56] and to prevent the creation of, or to remedy, other dangerous conditions.[57]

(3) Conditions on Liability; Knowledge of Defect and Time to Remedy

A carrier, to be liable for failure to remedy a dangerous condition in stational facilities, must know of it, or be chargeable with knowledge of it because of its long existence, or the condition must be one that should have been anticipated: and the carrier must have had reasonable time to make the premises safe. However, the carrier need not anticipate injury from dangers obvious to persons using ordinary care.

Before the carrier's liability arises for its failure to remedy a dangerous condition in its stational facilities, it must know of the condition, or the condition must have been so long existent, that the carrier is chargeable with knowledge of it,[58] or it must held that "such contract did not absolve the railroad company from its duty of using care to prevent injury to persons lawfully on said premises," so that a passenger injured by tripping over a truck negligently placed on platform by an employee of the express company can recover from the carrier.—Wells Fargo & Co v Lowery, Tex.Civ App., 197 S W. 605, 609, error refused.

55. N C—Thomas v. Southern R. Co, 92 S E 321, 173 N.C. 494.
10 C J. p 918 note 69.

Duty to keep platform free of "dangerous instrumentalities"

N C—Thomas v Southern R. Co, 92 S.E. 321, 173 N.C. 494—Mangum v. North Carolina R. Co, 58 S.E. 913, 914, 145 N C. 152, 122 Am S R. 437, 13 L.R.A.,N.S., 589.

56. N.C.—Thomas v. Southern R Co., 92 S E. 321, 173 N.C. 494.
10 C J. p 919 note 71.

Precautions

(1) It is the carrier's duty to protect passengers and others lawfully on its platform against injuries from the mail sacks, by requiring them to be thrown at a particular place, by posting warning notices, or by other available means.—Huddleston v. St Louis, etc., R. Co., 119 S.W. 280, 90 Ark. 378.

(2) "It was negligence in the . . . [carrier] not to have reported [this practice] to the post office authorities, which would doubtless have required the mail clerk to use the crane."—Thomas v. Southern R. Co., 92 S.E. 321, 173 N.C. 494.

57. U.S—Kansas City Southern Ry Co v Pinson, C C A Tex., 61 F.2d 1001—Pinson v. Kansas City Southern Ry. Co, C.C.A.Tex., 37 F.2d 652.
Mass.—Pearson v Payne, 139 N.E. 488, 245 Mass 158.
Mo.—Lowther v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., 261 S.W. 702, 214 Mo.App. 293.
N.Y.—Kaplowitz v. Interborough Rapid Transit Co., 103 N.Y.S. 721, 53 Misc. 646.
Pa.—Norris v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 177 A. 785, 317 Pa. 586—Deegan v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 160 A. 858, 307 Pa 207.
Utah.—Stonebreaker v. Bamberger, 54 P 2d 418, 88 Utah 310.

Banana peel

Pa.—Deegan v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 160 A. 858, 307 Pa. 207.
10 C J. p 919 note 72 [a].

Piece of tobacco

N Y.—Kaplowitz v. Interborough Rapid Transit Co, 103 N.Y.S. 721, 53 Misc. 646.

Pile of dirt on step

Where one of the carrier's employees had swept dirt into a pile on one of the steps from the street to the station, and a passenger was injured, the carrier was liable.—Norris v. Pennsylvania R. Co, 177 A. 785, 317 Pa. 586.

Pool of grease at bus station

Utah.—Stonebreaker v. Bamberger, 54 P.2d 418, 88 Utah 310.

Rusty nails scattered on platform

Mo.—Lowther v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., 261 S.W. 702, 214 Mo.App. 293.

Vicious dog

U S—Kansas City Southern Ry. Co v. Pinson, C.C.A.Tex., 61 F.2d 1001—Pinson v. Kansas City Southern Ry. Co., C.C.A Tex, 37 F.2d 652—10 C J. p 916 note 54 [h].

Stick on stairway

N.Y—Kessler v. New York Rapid Transit Corporation, 286 N.Y.S 897, 247 App Div. 898.

Wet floor

Mass.—Pearson v. Payne, 139 N.E. 488, 245 Mass. 158.

58. U.S.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co v. Burton, C.C.A W.Va., 50 F.2d 730.
Ill.—Davis v. South Side Elevated R. Co, 127 N E. 66, 292 Ill. 378, 10 A.L.R. 254.
Mass—Pearson v. Payne, 139 N E. 488, 245 Mass 158—Theall v. Boston El. R. Co, 100 N.E. 543, 213 Mass. 327—Brooks v. Old Colony R. Co, 46 N.E. 566, 168 Mass. 164.
Miss—Meridian Terminal Co v. Stewart, 108 So. 496, 143 Miss. 523.
N J.—Broderick v. Hudson & M. R. Co., 197 A. 663, 119 N.J Law 532.
N.Y.—White v. New York Cent. R. Co, 239 N.Y.S. 90, 228 App.Div. 50.
Pa.—Deegan v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 160 A. 858, 307 Pa 207.
Tex—Wells Fargo & Co. v Lowery, Civ.App., 197 S W. 605, error refused.
Utah—Stonebreaker v. Bamberger, 54 P 2d 418, 88 Utah 310.
10 C J. p 916 note 54, p 917 notes 55 [a], 56 [a], p 919 notes 72, 73.

"Actual or constructive knowledge" or "notice"

(1) "The presence of the banana skin on the platform, without actual or constructive knowledge of that fact, would not impose liability" on railroad for injury to person slipping thereon.—Deegan v. Pennsylvania R Co, 160 A 858, 859 307 Pa. 207.

(2) In the absence of 'actual or constructive notice" that a stairway in a subway station is wet, muddy, and slippery, the carrier is not liable to one injured thereby—Boettcher v. Dowling, 277 N Y S. 228, 230, 243 App.Div. 397, affirmed 200 N E. 316, 270 N.Y 557.

Absence of inspection

Failure, if any, of railroad company to inspect stairway in station to discover defects did not impose liability on company for injuries caused by defects, in absence of showing that there was an existent dangerous condition which inspection would or should have disclosed.—Broderick v. Hudson & M. R. Co, 197 A. 663, 119 N.J Law 532

Negligent handling of express trucks

If a railroad company which permitted an express company to use its depot and platform when large numbers of persons were going to and from trains along the platform "knew or should have known of the negligent manner of the express company in doing business and made no effort to abate it, it cannot escape liability for such."—Wells Fargo & Co v. Lowery, Tex Civ.App., 197 S. W. 605, 609, error refused—10 C.J. p 906 note 75 [e].

Duration of condition

(1) That a banana skin had been on the station platform for at least one hour and a half is sufficient to charge the carrier with constructive notice of the condition.—Deegan v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 160 A. 858, 307 Pa. 207.

be such as the carrier should have anticipated;[59] and the carrier must have had a reasonable time within which to make the premises safe.[60]

The character of the dangerous condition is an element in determining how long a time must elapse before the carrier will be charged with knowledge of the danger[61] or with negligence for failure to remedy it.[62]

Obvious dangers. Since passengers are expected to exercise ordinary care on their own behalf,[63] the carrier need not anticipate injury from dangers that are obvious to persons using such care.[64]

§ 718. Duty to Keep Premises Lighted

A carrier is obligated properly to light its premises, if necessary, so as to enable passengers to use them safely; and reasonable or ordinary care is commonly required in so doing. Street railway companies are subject to this duty only if they maintain platforms for passengers.

A carrier owes passengers the duty of properly lighting stations, platforms, walks, and other approaches, if necessary,[65] during a reasonable or suf-

(2) Presence of baby bottle on heavily traveled stairway of railroad terminal for ninety minutes before injury to passenger has been held constructive notice of such presence —Greenfield v Pittsburgh & Lake Erie R Co, 157 A 587, 305 Pa. 456.

Vicious dog

(1) Railroad allowing dog in station waiting room for railroad's benefit was liable to passenger bitten by dog where railroad knew or should have known dog's disposition to bite —Pinson v. Kansas City Southern Ry. Co, C.C.A Tex, 37 F 2d 652—10 C J. p 916 note 54 [h]

(2) But railroad was held not liable for injury to passenger by being bitten by dog in its waiting room where the dog was not vicious, was not known to have previously been in the waiting room, and was not known to be there at the time of injury.—Kansas City Southern Ry. Co v. Pinson, C C A.Tex, 23 F.2d 247.

59. Mich —Anda v. Chicago, D. & G. B. Transit Co, 204 N W. 761, 231 Mich 567.
N Y.—White v. New York Cent. R Co., 239 N.Y S. 90, 228 App.Div 50
Ohio.—Majoros v Cleveland Interurban R. Co., 187 N E. 857, 127 Ohio St. 255
10 C.J. p 916 note 54 [i].

Customary incidents of travel

Railroad was held not liable for injuries to prospective passenger who stumbled over hand baggage of alighting passengers left on platform, since that is a customary incident of travel and the danger could not have been anticipated.—White v. New York Cent. R. Co., 239 N.Y.S. 90, 228 App.Div 50.

Storms

Interurban car company must exercise ordinary care in keeping shelter house, maintained for prospective passengers, in reasonably safe condition against reasonably anticipatable storms —Majoros v. Cleveland Interurban R. Co, 187 N.E. 857, 127 Ohio St. 255.

Where a motor truck, out of control, left the road and struck a passenger on a path to the street from the carrier's dock, the carrier was not held liable, since such an event could not be anticipated.—Anda v Chicago, D. & G B Transit Co., 204 N.W. 761, 231 Mich 567.

60. U.S —Chesapeake & O Ry. Co. v. Burton, C.C A W Va., 50 F.2d 730.
Miss —Meridian Terminal Co v. Stewart, 108 So. 496, 143 Miss. 523.
10 C J. p 918 note 67 [a] (3), p 919 notes 72, 73.
"The . . . [carrier's] duty was to use reasonable care not to permit the station to become dangerous through the presence of an obstruction, after a reasonable opportunity to discover and remove it, and the failure to remove something, which was not in fact seen, would necessarily take its character as a negligent act only from the duration of the opportunity to make the removal."—Scholtz v Interborough Rapid Transit Co., 95 N Y S. 557, 558, 48 Misc. 619.

61. Mo.—Munro v. St. Louis, etc, R Co., 135 S W. 1016, 1022, 155 Mo App 710
Utah —Stonebreaker v. Bamberger, 54 P 2d 418, 88 Utah 310.
"A failure for a very short time to discover and repair a yawning chasm in the floor of a crowded railroad depot would be gross negligence, while it may be seriously doubted whether a failure to discover and repair a very slight decayed spot in the comparatively new platform of a flag station, used mostly for freight, is negligence at all."—Munro v. St. Louis, etc., R Co., supra.

Infrequent danger distinguished from continual

"The so-called 'banana peel' case . . is an occasional and comparatively infrequent occurrence," and the carrier is liable only if it negligently fails to discover the peel, or knowing of it, fails to remove it; but where a carrier permits motor cars frequently to traverse "a rather small area" and "knows of the likelihood of the frequent dropping of grease . . . it does not have to be put on notice of each individual deposit," and it need not be shown that a particular deposit was on the platform "for such length of time as to make it incumbent on the company to take notice"—Stonebreaker v. Bamberger, 54 P 2d 418, 421, 422, 423, 88 Utah 310.

62. Mo —Munro v St Louis, etc, R. Co, 135 S W. 1016, 155 Mo App 710.

63. U.S.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v O'Neil, N Y., 204 F 584, 123 C.C A 52
Iowa —McNaughton v Illinois Cent. R Co, 113 N W 844, 136 Iowa 177
Ky —Illinois Cent R Co. v. Sanderson, 192 S W 869, 175 Ky. 11, L R A 1917D 890.
N J.—Cooney v. Hudson & M. R. Co., 138 A 512, 5 N J Misc. 842
Pa —Twersky v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 104 A 63, 261 Pa. 6

64. U.S —Pennsylvania R. Co. v O'Neil, N Y., 204 F 584, 585, 123 C C A 52.
Iowa —McNaughton v. Illinois Cent R Co, 113 N.W 844, 136 Iowa 177.
Ky —Illinois Cent. R Co v. Sanderson, 192 S W. 869, 175 Ky 11, L R. A 1917D 890.
"The law expects every one entering . . . [railroad stations, etc] to keep his eyes open and not to stumble over a perfectly obvious obstruction."—Pennsylvania R Co v. O'Neil, supra Recklessness need not be anticipated —Illinois Cent R Co v. Sanderson, 192 S.W 869, 175 Ky. 11, L.R A 1917D 890.

65. U S —Young v. Baldwin, C.C.A Ark., 84 F 2d 841
Iowa —Stout v. Chicago, R. I. & P Ry. Co., 200 N.W. 596, 198 Iowa 1017
Ky —Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Scarbrough, 270 S W 494, 208 Ky. 79—Payne v. Simmons, 255 S W. 863, 201 Ky. 33, 33 A L R 814
Md —Jackson v. Hines, 113 A. 129, 137 Md. 621.
Mass.—McCarthy v. Boston, R. B. &

ficient time before and after the arrival and departure of trains to enable passengers to alight from and board trains, and to enter and leave the premises, with safety;[66] and failure to perform this duty constitutes negligence.[67] It has been held that the carrier must have actual or constructive notice

L R Co, 159 N.E 507, 262 Mass. 56.
Miss —Illinois Cent. R. Co v Small, 74 So 681, 113 Miss. 857
Mo —Payne v. Davis, 252 S W. 57, 61 298 Mo. 645
N Y —O'Brien v. Rutland R Co., 278 N Y S 8, 243 App Div. 833.
N C —Lane v Southern Ry Co., 134 S E 855, 192 N C. 287, 51 A L R. 1114.
Tex —Fort Worth & D C Ry. Co v Kidwell, Civ App, 249 S.W. 303, 306, certified questions answered, Com.App, 245 S W. 667, 112 Tex. 89—Chicago, R. I & G. Ry. Co. v Taylor, Civ App, 225 S W 822, dismissed for want of jurisdiction.
Wis —Pleva v. Milwaukee Electric Ry. & Light Co., 246 N W. 694, 210 Wis 568—Zilles v. Milwaukee Electric Ry & Light Co, 246 N.W. 693, 210 Wis 564
10 C J p 919 note 74.

"It is the duty of a railway company to properly light its station platforms during the arrival and departure of trains, taking on or discharging passengers . . . and to so light the platforms of stations that passengers discharged from cars can proceed with safety, in the exercise of care, along the usual course taken by passengers to where they would leave the platform (Gerhart v. Wabash Railway, 84 S W. 100, 110 Mo App. 105; Sargent v St. Louis, S F. R. R Co., 21 S W 823, 114 Mo. 348, 19 L.R A. 460)."—Payne v. Davis, supra.

Corpus Juris statement quoted

N.C.—Lane v. Southern Ry Co., 134 S.E. 855, 859, 192 N.C 287, 51 A L R. 1114.

"The rule with reference to the lighting of depots is analogous to that with reference to the physical maintenance of both depots and platforms, and both of them rest upon the same reasoning"—Payne v Simmons, 255 S W. 863, 866, 201 Ky. 33, 33 A.L R. 814.

City failing to furnish light

(1) The performance of this duty is not excused by the fact that there is no system of public lighting in the city in which the carrier's station is located.—Toledo, etc, R. Co. v. Stevenson, 122 Ill.App. 654.

(2) That the city fails to furnish lights for the carrier's premises is likewise no excuse —Harris v. Seattle, etc, R. Co, 117 P 601, 65 Wash. 27—Owen v. Washington, etc., R. Co., 69 P. 757, 29 Wash. 207.

(3) Where a railroad company had made diligent effort to have the city furnish a light for its premises where passengers alighted from trains, and the city had undertaken so to do, the company in good faith, relying thereon, if the city was negligent in this respect, such negligence was imputed to the company. —Owen v Washington, etc., R. Co., supra

Depot used in common

Where intersecting railroads use a common depot, and an intending passenger of one is injured because the platform was insufficiently lighted, the other railroad is not liable for the injuries —Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Treadway, 40 N E 807, 41 N.E. 794, 143 Ind 689—Louisville, etc, R. Co v. Treadway, 40 N.E. 807, 41 N. E 794, 142 Ind 475.

Walk joining stations of carriers

Where each of two connecting carriers constructs half of a walk connecting their stations, both have the duty to see that it is properly lighted —Boyle v Waters, 166 N.W. 114, 199 Mich 478

66. U S —Young v. Baldwin, C C A. Ark, 84 F 2d 841.
Ind.—Cleveland, etc, R Co. v Harvey, 90 N.E. 318, 45 Ind.App 153
Ky —Payne v. Simmons, 255 S W. 863, 201 Ky. 33, 33 A L.R 814
Mo —Payne v. Davis, 252 S.W. 57, 298 Mo. 645
N.C —Lane v. Southern Ry. Co., 134 S E 855, 192 N C 287, 51 A L R. 1114
10 C.J p 919 note 74, p 920 note 83 [c].

Corpus Juris statment quoted

N.C —Lane v Southern Ry Co, 134 S E. 855, 859, 192 N.C. 287, 51 A. L.R 1114.

"What constitutes a reasonable time during which such premises must be kept lighted is determined by the circumstances of each particular case, and depends upon the size and importance of the station and the number of persons who lawfully visit it at night for the purpose of transacting business with the railroad company."
Ind.—Cleveland, etc, R. Co. v. Harvey, 90 N.E. 318, 320, 45 Ind.App. 153.
Or.—Abbot v Oregon R. Co., 80 P. 1012, 1014, 46 Or. 549, 114 Am.S R. 885, 1 L.R A.,N.S., 851, 7 Ann Cas 961.

A statute imposing a duty to keep the premises lighted during at least a specified period does not relieve the carrier of its common-law duty to provide light during a reasonable time; "while the statute might be taken into account in determining the reasonableness of the time, it was not controlling in that respect"—Drummy v. Minneapolis, etc, R Co, 133 N W 655, 657, 153 Iowa 479, construing Minnesota statute.

Reasonable time after arrival

The relation of carrier and passenger continues until the passenger has had a reasonable time to leave the station, and until then the carrier has the duty of providing reasonably safe and sufficiently lighted station grounds —Young v. Baldwin, C C.A Ark, 84 F 2d 841

Special trains are within rule
Mo —Gerhart v. Wabash R Co, 84 S.W 100, 110 Mo App. 105
Or —Abbot v Oregon R Co, 80 P 1012, 46 Or 549, 114 Am.S.R. 885, 1 L R A,N S, 851, 7 Ann Cas. 961.
10 C J p 919 note 74 [d]

Unreasonable times or hours

(1) The carrier's duty does not apply to a passenger who goes to the station or attempts to board a train an unreasonable length of time before its departure.
Mo —Sweany v Missouri, etc, R. Co. 151 S W 198, 167 Mo App 137.
N.C.—Hodges v. New Hanover Transit Co, 12 S E 597, 107 N C 576.

(2) Two hours before the train is due is not a reasonable time.—Sweany v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., supra.

(3) It is not the duty of a carrier "to keep its waiting room and platform lighted in the nighttime at unreasonable hours, depending upon the size and importance of this station" —Louisville, etc, R Co. v. Treadway, 40 N E. 807, 809, 41 N.E. 794, 143 Ind. 689.

67. U S.—Young v. Baldwin, C.C.A. Ark, 84 F.2d 841.
Cal.—Teale v. Southern Pac. Co., 129 P 949 20 Cal.App. 570.
Miss.—Illinois Cent. R. Co v. Small, 74 So 681, 113 Miss. 857.
N C.—Lane v. Southern Ry. Co, 134 S E. 855, 192 N.C. 287, 51 A L.R. 1114.
10 C.J p 919 note 74 [a]

Permitting obstruction of light

(1) Negligence is not excused by the fact that light is shut off from the alighting place by a row of box cars, and failure to have sufficient light is culpable negligence.—Teale v. Southern Pac. Co., 129 P. 949, 20 Cal.App. 570

(2) "If the . . . [carrier] depended on the street lights for the lighting of its platform, and permitted transfer rigs or 'busses' to intercept the lights . . . it could not excuse itself from the due care required of it to keep its platform lighted because of such interference." —Fort Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v.

that the lighting has become insufficient before it can be held liable [68]

A statute requiring a carrier, under penalty, to keep its depots or passenger houses lighted should be strictly construed.[69]

Degree of care required. The carrier, according to what has been declared the great weight of authority,[70] is under a duty to exercise only reasonable or ordinary care with respect to the lighting of the premises,[71] although other authorities appear to require a "high"[72] or "the highest"[73] degree of care.

To whom duty extends. The carrier's duty to keep its premises lighted extends not only to actual passengers, but also to prospective passengers[74] and to persons accompanying or meeting passengers,[75] and, as to passengers, it continues as long as the relation of carrier and passenger exists.[76]

Premises to which duty extends. The carrier's duty to keep its premises lighted extends to stations or those parts of the premises in and around stations which it should anticipate might reasonably be used by passengers;[77] under other authority, the duty extends only to those parts of the premises which the carrier expressly or impliedly invites passengers to use.[78] Without reference to the two preceding principles, the duty to light has been held[79] or held not[80] to extend to particular places, Kidwell, Tex.Civ.App., 249 S.W. 303, 306, certified questions answered 245 S.W. 667, 112 Tex. 89.

68. N.Y.—Emanuel v. Long Island R. Co, 299 N.Y.S. 393.

69. Tex.—Gulf, etc, R. Co. v. Barnett, 47 S.W. 1039, 19 Tex.Civ.App 626.

Platforms not included

Tex.—Gulf etc, R Co v. Barnett, 47 S.W. 1039, 19 Tex.Civ.App. 626

70. Ky.—Payne v Simmons, 255 S.W. 863, 201 Ky. 33, 33 A.L.R. 814.

71. Iowa.—Stout v. Chicago, R I. & P. Ry. Co., 200 N.W. 596, 198 Iowa 1017.

Ky.—Payne v. Simmons, 255 S.W. 863, 201 Ky. 33, 33 A.L.R. 814

Md.—Jackson v. Hines, 113 A. 129, 137 Md 621.

Tex.—Chicago, R I. & G Ry. Co. v. Taylor, 225 S.W. 822, dismissed for want of jurisdiction.

10 C.J. p 919 note 74.

72. N.C.—Lane v Southern Ry. Co., 134 S.E. 855, 859, 192 N.C. 287, 51 A.L.R. 1114.

73. Miss.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Small, 74 So 681, 682, 113 Miss. 857.

As to alighting passenger

A carrier owes an alighting passenger the highest degree of care to keep the premises reasonably well lighted, since such passenger is still in transit.—Louisville & N R. Co. v. Scarbrough, 270 S.W. 494, 208 Ky 79.

74. Md.—Jackson v. Hines, 113 A. 129, 137 Md. 621.

N.Y.—O'Brien v. Rutland R. Co, 278 N.Y.S. 8, 243 App.Div. 833.

To whom carrier liable for unsafe premises generally see infra § 722

75. Md.—Jackson v. Hines, 113 A. 129, 137 Md. 621.

76. U.S.—Young v. Baldwin, C.C.A. Ark, 84 F.2d 841.

10 C.J. p 920 note 78.

Commencement and continuance of relation generally see supra §§ 554–566.

Incidental acts as passengers

The duty exists while passengers "are performing acts reasonably and fairly attributable to that relation, such as leaving the train for refreshment, for the sending of telegrams, for the taking of exercise and the like."—Texas, etc, R Co v Stewart, Tex, 33 S.Ct 548, 228 U.S. 357, 362, 57 L.Ed 875, affirming 183 F. 575, 105 C.C.A. 646

77. Md.—Jackson v. Hines, 113 A. 129, 137 Md 621.

Miss.—Illinois Cent. R Co. v. Small, 74 So. 681, 113 Miss 857.

Va.—Mitchell v. Southern Ry. Co, 88 S.E. 56, 118 Va. 642.

10 C.J. p 920 note 82

What premises carrier is bound to keep safe generally see supra § 713.

Flag stations

(1) Where a carrier was charged with knowledge that there would be passengers for a train leaving a flag station at night, it was bound to have the station platform lighted for a reasonable time before the arrival of the train.—Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Harvey, 90 N.E. 318, 45 Ind. App 153.

(2) However, a railroad company is not obligated to furnish a light at a flag station at a time when no train is expected.—Mitchell v. Southern Ry. Co., 88 S.E. 56, 118 Va 642.

Platform for employees only

Where a platform was for the use of employees only, but there was nothing to indicate that fact, it must be regarded as a part of the station which the carrier should have anticipated might be used by passengers, and the carrier was bound to use ordinary care so to guard and light it that persons using reasonable care could pass over it in safety.—Jackson v. Hines, 113 A. 129, 137 Md 621.

Tracks used to reach train

Where plaintiff at night proceeded from defendant's station to wrong side of waiting passenger train without knowledge of customary method of boarding train at the station, and while running on the tracks to other side tripped over a sidewalk projection, defendant was negligent in not lighting the premises or indicating a safe way to the train.—Illinois Cent. R. Co v. Small, 74 So 681, 113 Miss. 857.

78. Tex.—Chicago, R I. & G. Ry. Co v. Taylor, Civ.App, 225 S.W. 822, dismissed for want of jurisdiction

Wis.—Hempton v. Green Bay, etc, R Co., 155 N.W. 927, 162 Wis 62.

Back way to station

Where the carrier had extended no express or implied invitation to passengers or others to use a back way to reach its station or trains, it was not required to maintain lights or to guard the way.—Hempton v Green Bay, etc., R Co, 155 N.W. 927, 162 Wis. 62.

Other practical ways of approach

Where there is a usually traveled and apparently safe way between the depot and the public road, it cannot be said that a pathway, also frequently used, was "the only practical way" for a passenger to reach the road; the carrier therefore did not owe a duty to keep it in suitable condition or to provide lights.—Chicago, R I. & G. Ry. Co v. Taylor, Tex.Civ. App., 225 S.W. 822, 825, dismissed for want of jurisdiction.

79. Cinder pathway from platform to train

N.Y.—O'Brien v. Rutland R. Co, 278 N.Y.S. 8, 243 App.Div. 833.

80. Point eight hundred feet from station

Ill.—Wood v. Illinois Cent R. Co., 201 Ill.App. 439.

Where a detour was necessary because of a wreck, a carrier detouring a passenger train over the tracks of another carrier was not liable for injuries to a passenger occasioned by improper lighting at a station on the including "quasi depots or stopping places."[81]

What constitutes proper lighting at any particular station depends upon the character and extent of business transacted there and the character, situation, and surroundings of the station with reference to physical conditions affecting the security of persons in the proper use of the premises,[82] so that lighting which would be insufficient at one station might be adequate at a station with different conditions.[83]

Street railways. The general rule as first above stated has been said to refer to what are ordinarily known as steam railroads maintaining station houses and like structures in cities, and not to apply to street car companies operating on city streets which they do not control and stopping at frequent intervals in the public way to receive and discharge passengers;[84] but a street railway company which provides platforms for its passengers is within the rule.[85]

§ 719. Accumulations of Snow and Ice

A carrier must use ordinary or reasonable care to keep its platforms and approaches free of dangerous accumulations of snow and ice, but is liable for failure in this duty only if it had notice of the condition and a reasonable time to remedy it.

It is the carrier's duty to keep, by the exercise of ordinary[86] or reasonable[87] care, its platforms and approaches free of dangerous accumulations of snow and ice,[88] even though the accumulations do not amount to obstructions to travel.[89]

Notice of condition; opportunity to remedy. However, before the carrier will be held liable for failure to perform this duty, it must have had notice of the dangerous condition,[90] which notice detour at which the passenger alighted.—Payne v. Simmons, 255 S.W. 863, 201 Ky. 33, 33 A.L.R. 814.

81. N.C.—Wagner v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 61 S.E. 171, 176, 147 N.C. 315, 19 L.R.A.,N.S., 1028.

82. Cal.—Teale v. Southern Pac. Co., 129 P. 949, 952, 20 Cal.App. 570.
10 C.J. p. 920 note 83.
"The proper character of the lights furnished at any particular station will depend upon the character and extent of business transacted at the station. If many passengers are to be taken on the trains, and many others are to be discharged, if much baggage, mail, and express is to be handled by many employes, if the station grounds must be used at the time of the arrival of the trains by many persons having business there with the company, or with incoming or outgoing passengers, confusion and accident at night can be prevented only by the aid of a lighting system much more extensive than would be required under other circumstances."
Cal.—Teale v. Southern Pac. Co., supra.
Kan.—St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Marshall, 81 P. 169, 71 Kan. 866.

83. Cal.—Teale v. Southern Pac. Co., 129 P. 949, 20 Cal.App. 570.

84. Ind.—Terre Haute, Indianapolis & Eastern Traction Co. v. Auler, 188 N.E. 572, 206 Ind. 423.
An interurban railroad company operating cars on city streets and a private right of way outside the city limits is not obligated to light the places where it stops on signal to accept or discharge passengers.—Terre Haute, Indianapolis & Eastern Traction Co. v. Auler, 188 N.E. 572, 206 Ind. 423.

85. Wash.—Harris v. Seattle, etc., R. Co., 117 P. 601, 603, 65 Wash. 27.
"There is no difference either in reason or in law between such a situation and that of a railroad company maintaining a depot or station."—Harris v. Seattle, etc., R. Co., supra.

86. N.Y.—Hannon v. New York Cent. R. Co., 169 N.Y.S. 436.—Murphy v. Hudson & M. R. Co., 167 N.Y.S. 895, 180 App.Div. 585.

87. Minn.—Hull v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 133 N.W. 852, 116 Minn. 349.
10 C.J. p. 921 note 84.

88. N.J.—Costello v. Director General of Railroads, 112 A. 861, 95 N.J.Law 538.
N.Y.—Rosenthal v. New York Rapid Transit Corporation, 208 N.Y.S. 427, 124 Misc. 513.—Hannon v. New York Cent. R. Co., 169 N.Y.S. 436.
Pa.—Wilson v. Reading Co., 95 Pa. Super. 570.
10 C.J. p. 921 note 84.
"A duty rested upon the . . . [carrier] towards . . . persons lawfully entering said station for the purpose of boarding its trains or transacting other business, to use ordinary care to keep the approach from the street thereto in a reasonably safe condition; and if it knowingly suffered snow and ice to accumulate upon the approach from the street to its station in such quantity as to make the approach slippery, and by reason thereof rendered its use dangerous, we think it clear that the . . . [carrier] would be liable to a person injured by slipping and falling upon such approach while upon his way to a train."—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Keegan, 71 N.E. 321, 210 Ill. 150, affirming 112 Ill.App. 28.
Accumulations of snow and ice on steps and platforms of cars see infra § 744 c.

The text statement in Corpus Juris is cited with approval in Taylor v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., Mo., 279 S.W. 115, 118.

Duty a relative one
While the duty exists for a street railroad company to keep each stopping place where there are no street intersections free of ice, and the snow leveled down, it "must be a relative one, taking into consideration the weather conditions on the one hand and the safety of the passengers on the other. Each case must be dependent upon its own peculiar facts."—Speck v. International R. Co., 118 N.Y.S. 71, 73, 133 App.Div. 802.

Sand or other precautions
(1) It is the carrier's duty "to protect the platform by the application of some substance to reduce its slipperiness."—Rosenthal v. New York Rapid Transit Corporation, 208 N.Y.S. 427, 428, 124 Misc. 513.

(2) Where a carrier allows ice to remain at places on and outside a walk, without sanding it, it is liable to a passenger for injuries resulting from a fall on the ice.—Rodick v. Maine Cent. R. Co., 85 A. 41, 109 Me. 530.

89. Ill.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Keegan, 71 N.E. 321, 210 Ill. 150, affirming 112 Ill.App. 28.

90. Ill.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Keegan, supra.
N.J.—Costello v. Director General of Railroads, 112 A. 861, 95 N.J.Law 538.
N.Y.—Rusk v. Manhattan R. Co., 61 N.Y.S. 384, 46 App.Div. 100.—Lieberman v. New York Rapid Transit Corporation, 238 N.Y.S. 400, 135 Misc. 834.—Hannon v. New York Cent. R. Co., 169 N.Y.S. 436.

may be presumed after a reasonable time.[91] Further, it must have had a reasonable time after the snow fell to remedy the condition,[92] accordingly, carriers have not been required to keep their premises clear of such accumulations during the continuance of a storm,[93] although the continuance of the snowfall has been held not to relieve the carrier as a matter of law.[94]

Employees' neglect of duty. A carrier's failure to have its approaches free of slush, snow, and ice is not excused by the fact that the men it had employed to remove the accumulations had failed to do so.[95]

§ 720. Protection from Crowds

It is the carrier's duty, in the performance of which reasonable or ordinary care is commonly required, to protect passengers from dangerous crowds at premises which it controls; however, it will be liable only for failure to guard against dangers which it should have anticipated. The carrier should avoid excessive crowding, and should control unruly crowds by providing proper facilities, or a sufficient number of guards, or both.

It is the carrier's duty to protect passengers on its premises from crowds imperiling their safety,[96]

Obvious danger required

A carrier was not liable for failure to sprinkle sand, ashes, or something of that character upon the ice and snow, where the condition "was not so obviously dangerous to travelers that it was bound to anticipate that injury might be sustained by reason of it"—Rusk v. Manhattan R Co., 61 N.Y.S. 384, 386, 46 App Div 100.

91. N J—Costello v. Director General of Railroads, 112 A. 861, 95 N J Law 538

N.Y.—Lieberman v. New York Rapid Transit Corporation, 238 N.Y.S 400, 135 Misc. 834—Hannon v. New York Cent. R Co., 169 N.Y.S. 436

If time is insufficient notice will not be presumed.—Hannon v. New York Cent. R Co., 169 N Y.S 436.

Thirty-four hours ample time

N.Y.—Lieberman v. New York Rapid Transit Corporation, 238 N.Y S. 400, 135 Misc. 834.

92. N.Y—Kelley v. Manhattan R. Co, 20 N.E 383, 112 N Y. 443, 3 L. R.A. 74—Meginn v. Ramsdell, 148 N.Y.S. 415, 163 App Div. 232—Rusk v. Manhattan R. Co., 61 N Y S. 384, 46 App Div. 100—Rosenthal v. New York Rapid Transit Corporation, 208 N Y S. 427, 124 Misc 513.

Pa.—Wilson v. Reading Co., 95 Pa. Super. 570.

One hour not reasonable time

N.Y.—Meginn v. Ramsdell, 148 N Y. S. 415, 163 App.Div. 232.

Snow on previous day

Where weather was cold and misty and it had snowed on previous day, it was held that elevated railroad had duty and ample opportunity of reducing slippery conditions of platform by applying ashes or other substance thereto—Rosenthal v. New York Rapid Transit Corporation, 208 N.Y S 427, 124 Misc 513.

Early morning hours

"Culpable negligence cannot be predicated upon the failure to clean off the steps between the time the storm ceased, which was between 3 and 4 o'clock in the morning, and the time [5 30 A. M.] when the accident happened. So brief a period as that, at such a time in the night, cannot, we think, be regarded as any evidence of a lack of that reasonable care which the . . . [carrier] was bound to exercise."—Kelley v. Manhattan R. Co., 20 N E. 383, 386, 112 N Y 443 3 L R A. 74

93. N.Y.—Kelley v. Manhattan R. Co, supra—Murphy v Hudson & M R Co., 167 N Y S 895, 180 App Div. 585—Rusk v Manhattan R Co, 61 N Y.S 384, 46 App Div. 100.

Pa.—Wilson v Reading Co, 95 Pa. Super. 570.

Reason for rule

"The failure to throw ashes or sawdust, or something of that character, upon the steps during the storm, cannot be regarded as negligence, because the continuance of the storm would render the steps as slippery as before."—Kelley v Manhattan R. Co., 20 N.E 383, 386, 112 N Y 443, 3 L.R A. 74—Rusk v. Manhattan R. Co., 61 N.Y S. 384, 386, 46 App Div 100.

94. Mass—Klein v. Boston Elevated Ry. Co., 200 N.E 6.

95. Ill.—Illinois Cent. R Co. v Keegan, 71 N E 321, 210 Ill. 150, affirming 112 Ill App. 28

96. U S.—Maryland Dredging & Contracting Co. v Hines, C C.A.Md, 269 F. 781.

Ky.—South Covington & C St. Ry v. Vanice, 278 S.W 116, 211 Ky. 774.

Md.—Pennsylvania R. Co v. Hoover, 120 A. 526, 142 Md. 251.

Mass—Bryant v. Boston Elevated Ry. Co., 122 N E. 744, 232 Mass 549—Jackson v Boston Elevated Ry. Co., 105 N E 379, 217 Mass. 515—Kuhlen v Boston & N. St. Ry. Co., 79 N.E 815, 193 Mass. 341, 7 L R A.,N.S., 729, 118 Am S.R. 516.

Mo—Oesch v St. Louis Public Service Co, 59 S.W.2d 758, 228 Mo App 1055—Grubb v. Kansas City Rys Co., 230 S W. 675, 207 Mo.App. 16.

N.Y.—McGearty v. Manhattan Ry. Co, 43 N.Y.S. 1086, 15 App.Div. 2—Allessi v. New York Rapid Transit Corporation, 297 N.Y S. 1011, 163 Misc. 815

Pa.—Coyle v. Philadelphia & R Ry Co, 100 A 1005, 256 Pa. 496—Muhlhause v Monongahela St. Ry Co, 50 A. 937, 201 Pa 237—Prettyman v. Trenton Transportation Co, 73 Pa Super. 353—Bright v. Penna. R R Co, 69 Pa Super 188.

10 C J. p 903 note 56—p 904 note 57—p 921 note 87.

Protection against injuries from fellow passengers generally see supra § 695

Overcrowding in vehicles see infra § 745.

The text as stated in Corpus Juris is quoted with approval in Oesch v St. Louis Public Service Co, 59 S. W 2d 758, 760, 228 Mo App. 1055.

"There is an admirable statement of the rule in Coyle v Philadelphia R R. Co., 100 A. 1005, [1006] 256 Pa. 496 . . : 'Although a carrier is not liable for mere rudeness and bad manners on the part of their passengers, or intending passengers, and therefore, not bound to anticipate and guard against such conduct, yet when it invites the public to use its facilities to visit parks, or places of amusement, it has notice that large crowds are likely to assemble, and that proper care must be used in protecting them from injuries arising from such conduct as may reasonably be expected to occur, such as a sudden rush on the part of the crowd to obtain entrance to cars immediately upon arrival of trains at the station. Such acts on the part of a large assemblage of people, congregated for the common purpose of securing passage on a public conveyance, are not within the reasoning of the line of cases which hold the carrier is relieved from liability for damages resulting from unexpected acts of rudeness or improper conduct on the part of other passengers, or intending passengers, but are such as occur so frequently that they may be properly considered as such a natural and probable result that the carrier must recognize and guard against them.'" at least where such premises are within its control,[97] direct or implied.[98] If the danger from crowds was such that the carrier should have anticipated it, it will be liable for its failure to guard against, or to adopt expedients to obviate, the danger;[99] but, if the circumstances are such that the carrier was not bound to anticipate the danger, it will not be liable for injuries resulting therefrom.[1]

This duty requires the carrier to avoid exces-

Ky.—South Covington & C. St. Ry. v. Vanice, 278 S.W. 116, 118, 211 Ky. 774.

Pa.—Muhlhause v. Monongahela St. Ry. Co., 50 A. 937, 938, 201 Pa. 237—Prettyman v. Trenton Transportation Co., 73 Pa.Super. 353, 357.

97. U.S.—Maryland Dredging & Contracting Co. v. Hines, C.C.A.Md., 269 F. 781.

Ky.—South Covington & C. St. Ry. v. Vanice, 278 S.W. 116, 211 Ky. 774.

N.Y.—Allessi v. New York Rapid Transit Corporation, 297 N.Y.S. 1011, 163 Misc. 815—Dashew v. Interborough Rapid Transit Co., 175 N.Y.S. 875.

Pa.—Prettyman v. Trenton Transportation Co., 73 Pa.Super. 353—Bright v. Penna. R.R. Co., 69 Pa. Super. 188.

"These duties and obligations depend . . . on the authority and power of the carrier to control and police the place where passengers take the train."—Maryland Dredging & Contracting Co. v. Hines, C.C.A. Md., 269 F. 781, 782.

Carrier not strictly in control

